

WHAT'S COOKIN'

Jones

"The names of all characters in today's dramatization are not fictitious, and any resemblance to names of living persons or actual places is purely incidental."

Seems like everything's cooking in this county, for instance.

Here's some of them, that you may have seen in other parts of this "Believe it or Not" edition.

Wm. Gamblin's Jersey cow had twin bull calves; Mrs. Tom Mears has a century plant in bloom; Gene Parks rides around with Dorothy Lamour, and Eddie Winfield has hatched (in his incubator) a four-legged chicken. Why go elsewhere for scenery, Who else can beat this week's work?

It's a military secret, but there are just a lot of things, battalions, etc., in the woods in Camp Hood that we didn't know about until yesterday. We rode the range in the V-8-60 Sunday p. m. and saw plenty, which we'd guess is all censored, or we'd been told about it by "S-2." That, as we didn't know, is the Military Intelligence department of the army.

While we're cookin', let's talk about The Temple Daily Telegram's big super-colossal edition. It's quite nice, especially from the money side. If we could go 1-10th that in our Sixth Annual Rodeo & Frontier Celebration which will be born June 23, we'd already be happy as a jay-bird, and more than likely some of our creditors would, too. We can't get relief thru the FSA, or any other alphabet we know of except the Mat.

We thank Walter Humphrey and his cohorts for their free space, and are sorry we couldn't do better, just as was H. K. Jackson, president of the Gatesville Chamber of Commers, who, with us, knew the commotion that would be caused by a C. of C. page in the Temple newspaper when the bill came in.

McGregor, Lampasas, Killeen and Moody did have advertisements of various sizes. That (that we didn't have one) was the disappointment in this grand paper.

Again, thanks, Temple Daily!

"Believe It or Not" Edition? Cow Has Two Bull Calves

For eighteen years I've been in the dairy business," says Wm. Gamblin, "and this is the first time I've ever been the owner of 'twin bull calves'."

"I ordered heifers." These said bull calves were born to a Jersey cow Sunday morning, and are both good and healthy, as is their "old lady."

Seems like just nearly everything happens right here in Coryell.

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Splitts and daughter, Belva Jean, spent the weekend in Gatesville visiting friends and relatives.

It's Blooming! Century Plant At Tom Mears

You have to be there when it happens!

Maybe for a hundred years you have been wanting to see one of these bloom. These Century Plants have that reputation, but the dictionary says "formerly supposed to bloom once every 100 years."

Now, anyway, whether the dictionary is right or not, you can see one bloom at Mrs. Tom Mears' home, which is just west of the Leon River on that high bluff overlooking Gatesville.

Just thought some of us "natives" as well as some of the new folks might like to see this, so Mrs. Tom Mears, Secretary of the Gatesville Chamber of Commerce, told us about it yesterday.

Co. B, 703 Meet Your Ramblers Friday Nite Under Lites

Friday night Company B, 703 Tank Battalion's softball team, managed by Sgt. Manuel Finger, takes on Gatesville Ramblers, under the personal supervision of the one and only "Red" White.

This is bound to be a battle, as softball battles go, and the game is "on the house" sponsored by the Gatesville USO.

County History To Be in N. Y. City Public Library

Yesterday, a request was received by the News for a copy of "The History of Coryell County," written by Frank E. Simmons Centennial Year.

The letter reads, in part: "Will it be possible for you to present the New York Public Library a copy of your work entitled 'History of Coryell County, Texas.'"

We should like to have this publication for use in our reference collection, we trust you may be able to grant our request."

Very truly yours,
FRANKLIN F. HOPPER,
Director,
by E. G. Freehafer.
You darn bet you, they'll get it.

Miss Ruth Bradford spent the weekend with friends in Oglesby.

It Was "Dotty" and "Gene" They Met in Tyler 'n Traveled

"Dotty and Gene," but Corporal Brooks was along, too.

Corporals Eugene Parks and Brooks of the Tyler recruiting and induction center were recently Dorothy Lamour's guides and escorts from Tyler to Longview while the "one and only Dotty" was on a tour of the country selling bonds and war stamps, and throwing in glamour "a la Lamour."

No stops enroute were mentioned by our informer, but well, we'll just leave that for imagination, and we can guess you can do better than, at that.

Now this said "Gene" is Corp. Eugene H. Parks, who visited his father here this week, and accompanied home (to Tyler) by both his father and sister, Mrs. Wayne Moffet. His father is Rufus L. Parks.

"Gene" is evidently the hometown boy who really "made good." Anyway, why not ask "Dotty."

If you don't believe all this, see the picture in our window, and it's not a faked photo.

Pigs Seeing Texas Account of Sales By Local Pig Boys

These are getting to be the sight-seeingest pigs in America, these pigs raised by Pig Club boys of Coryell County.

And it's money in their pockets. Approximately $1,000.00 has been received within the last two weeks for these pigs, which the boys have sold. Some 75 pigs were in the "crew."

Pigs from Coryell County are looking over such spots in Texas as these: Corpus Christi, Longview, Plainview, Tyler, Round Rock, Lubbock, all of which received more than one, and there are a number of other places where single pigs were sent.

Boys who reaped this "harvest" are Charles Foust, Paul Guggolz, Joe Bob Williams, Elmo King, Dan Vandiver, Cecil Davis, Buddy Merritt, and Earl Clary. Earl shipped 11 out of his herd of 45.

These were all choice pigs from the boys' bunches, and were sold co-operatively, so the orders could be filled.

"Volga Boatman" Theme Song 2nd OCC Course Here

Maybe that's where they're going! They don't know, and neither does anybody else, but from the sound of their voices, it's "somewhere on the Volga."

Saturday morning, the officers of the 2nd OCC of the Tank Destroyer's School had their "pitchers took" and during and in-between the wise cracks or comments of Mr. Patterson, the photographer, strains of "The Volga Boatman" came so softly thru the morning breeze.

This supposition is all unofficial and off the record and was not received from a usually well informed source, or an administration spokesman no, no, we just heard 'em whistling.

Here's How the New $50 Per Law Will Help Soldiers

Excerpts from the new "soldier law," condensed are as follows:

Commissioned officers who will receive base pay increases are navy ensigns and army second lieutenants, who will be raised from $1500 to $1800 a year. Retirement pay and living allowances for all officers are liberalized, however.

Here is how the bill affect the pay of enlisted men:

Master sergeants and chief petty officers will be raised from present monthly base of $126 to $138.

Acting CPO's from $99 to $126. First, or technical sergeants and CPO's first class from $84 to $114. Staff Sergeants and PO 2nd class, $72 to $96.

Corporals and seamen 1st class from $54 to $66.

Pfc and seamen 2nd class, $36 to $44.

Pvts with more than 4 months and apprentice seamen, from $30 to $50.

Buck privates, with less than 4 months, from $21 to $50.

Similar raises would be provided for men of corresponding rank in other services.

All pay increases retroactive as of June 1, 1942.

Excerpts From Talk By Chile Vice Consul At Lions Club Wed.

You can talk faster than you write—well, on a typewriter or a Linotype, so we're giving excerpt from the address by George H. Adams, Vice Consul of the United States of America who is visiting here from Antofagasta, Chile.

Chile, on the west coast of South America, has a coast line of 3,200 miles stretching from Arica, a port to Cape Horn at the end of the continent, bordered on east by Bolivia, Argentina and on the west by the Pacific Ocean.

"Iquique, next below Arica is a nitrate port, or was, and below it is Taltal, where the only known deposit of natural nitrate of soda in the world is located. This territory produces the most of the world's iodine.

"One hundred miles south is Tocopilla which thrives from the products of the Guggenheim system of nitrate plants at Pedro de Valdivia and Maria Elena. Then Antofagasta, which serves as a tidewater terminus of railroads tapping the rich nitrate and

Dear Chum:

Uncle Tobias is a goin' to be the death of me yet. The birds was a stealin' the feed so Uncle Tobe aited as a human scare crow. The birds got so scared they brought the feed back.

Uncle Tobe is a three-letter man—I. O. U.

Uncle Mose told Uncle Tobe yesterday he had a noise in the back of his car. Uncle Tobe said, "So have I, I can't make her stay at home."

Uncle Tobe says Lady Godiva was the greatest gambler of all time. She put every thing she had on a hoss.

Unk got rid of his hay fever all right. He quit a runnin' around woth that grass widow.

Uncle Tobe was a tellin' me about how he was a gettin' stiff in the joints lately. I told him if he would stay out of them joints he wouldn't get stiff all the time.

I was down on the highway fer a ride with Aunt Melissa and little Imogene the other night. We runned on to a jeep what had runned into a tree and was wrecked. A Lootenant was a questionin' them about it. "Who was a drivin' the car?" says the Looie. "Nobody," says the Private. "We was all a ridin' in the back seat."

One more thing about Uncle Tobe. He is a "Cave Man" now. He caves in every Saturday night about 11 o'clock. We've had to pour him into bed so often lately we are thinkin' of puttin' a handle on 'im.

I'll be seein' you, Pal. Keep 'sm Flyin'.

On every side we hear discussions of who has the best colt in the County. From the looks of the ones we have seen, it will be hard to tell at this stage. Much care and attention is being given to the best crop of colts yet foaled in Coryell County. Thursday night, June 25, we will have our first opportunity of a preview of this year's colts. In connection with the Annual Rodeo, the horsemen are going to exhibit mares and colts of the light type. This array of outstanding colts bids to be the attraction of the day. W. M. Lipsey took up his father's hobby in 1916, and now has sixty-three almanacs replete with useful information.

Now, when so many new faces are moving into Gatesville, everybody wants to know where so and so lives.

The usual procedure has been: "I live on that street back of— next to — and across from—." That gets no stranger anywhere.

Now an attempt is being made to get every home in Gatesville numbered, so you can say: "I live at — S. Broadway," and stop there. Strangers don't know where John Jones lives, or Bill Smith, either. Many home folks don't know either. It's simpler, faster, and more convenient the other way.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Frank Burdon, newspaperman, arouses great public indignation against William Gow, provost of the Scottish town of Baikie, when Gow persecutes the widow Hegarty and orders her dog Patsy impounded because she is too poor to pay his license fee. Burdon, braving the disfavor of Gow's daughter Victoria whom he loves, kidnaps Patsy and unlooses a swarm of yapping dogs on Gow's lawn to impress a visiting political leader with Gow's unpopularity over the Patsy incident. Gow's political career is smashed, but Victoria turns against Burdon while Gow plans revenge.

Chapter Six

William Gow wasn't the man to wait long for the revenge that was so easily within his reach. Within forty-eight hours Burdon was in jail on charges trumped up by Gow and the county prosecutor. There he sat, glumly resigned to his fate, while the press roared throughout the United Kingdom the amazing story of Mrs. Hegarty's dog and how he shook a nation.

Burdon's first visitor in his jail was a certain Mr. Watkins, a representative of the F.F.F.F. — "Federation for Friends of the Feathered, Four Footed and Furry." He brought the glad tidings that his society had amassed a large public subscription fund to defend him in court.

Mrs. Hegarty was called as a witness.

"Oh, go to blazes," was Burdon's reply. "I'm fed up over the whole business. If I want to become a publicity stunt for raising funds for your futile fatheads, I'll let you know. I've lost everything over this. I've lost my job — I've lost — Oh, go away!"

The little town hall in the village of Baikie was crammed to its bulging doors with spectators when the case of the Crown vs. Frank Burdon opened. To everyone present it was one of the most solemn days in the history of the town — except to the defendant, who insisted upon treating the entire proceedings with a cynical indifference amounting almost to contempt, certain that the cards were irrevocably stacked against him.

Burdon stood before the court while the clerk read the charge. "Inasmuch as you did utter or did publish a statement designed or calculated to exercise improper influence on the voters in a parliamentary election under the corrupt and illegal practices act of 1896—"

"Eighteen ninety five?" interrupted Burdon. "But I wasn't born then!"

The spectators nodded in sympathy, impressed with the reasonableness of his retort. The judge pounded for silence, and the trial proceeded.

Throughout the trial Burdon refused to cooperate with the imposing attorney — one Mr. Menzies — who had been retained for him by the Federation for Friends of the Feathered, Four Footed and Furry. He refused to enter a plea of not guilty, but his counsel stepped into the breach and did it for him.

When Menzies tried to break down the prosecution's story that Burdon was the author of the scathing article about Gow, the prisoner jocularly volunteered the information that he was indeed its author.

One of the witnesses called by the Crown was Mrs. Hegarty, who arrived in state, resplendent in her Sunday best, to the cheers of the crowd and the rapidly heightening annoyance of His Honor the Judge, an elderly and rather glibly gentleman. The prosecutor brought up the subject of the "canine demonstration" at Gow's home. "Tell me," he asked the witness, "on that day did the accused express animus against the provost?"

"Sure," replied Honoria Hegarty, "all the animals in the length and breadth of the land was against the provost."

Soon Burdon was quarreling with his counsel again, and the venerable Judge took occasion to admonish him.

"Now now, Mr. Burdon, you mustn't speak like that, you know. I sometimes fail to fathom the younger generation—they seem to have no balance or stability, what with swing music, automatic gambling machines, and the encouragement given to idleness and loose living by the British Broadcasting Corporation."

At this little sermon Mr. Menzies was unable to repress a smile, and the Judge promptly criticized him with such fervor that he indignantly withdrew from the case.

Burdon then took up his own defense, with the permission of the court. While Victoria looked on, Burdon examined her father. Throwing discretion aside, and ignoring the repeated warnings from the bench, he took the opportunity to exhort the provost as a "canting humbug" who vented his annoyance on a poor woman by taking her dog and her ice cream stand. "Why can't he be a man?" he cried passionately to the Judge. "Why does he go sneaking around, persecuting widows and little mongrel dogs?"

In his defense Gow dragged in his daughter, accusing Burdon of trying to worm into his family circle through her. When Burdon objected to this, the prosecutor promptly called Victoria to the stand as his next witness.

"I'm not going to be a witness in this case," Victoria announced calmly from the stand, "because I can't give evidence. I can't give evidence against the accused because he and I are husband and wife!"

This casual statement hit the poor provost like a bombshell, and he begged for adjournment. Outside in the corridor he begged his daughter to tell him what it all meant.

"Well, I told you not to go on with the case."

"But why didn't you tell me you were married? I can't have a son-in-law serving in jail." Then, turning to Burdon who had joined them: "What do you mean, sir, by marrying my daughter?"

"I didn't."

"You see, father," Victoria informed him calmly, "I just said that to keep you from continuing the case. And now you can't disprove it without getting me jailed for perjury."

Provost Gow, defeated on all fronts and realizing that his daughter really loved the young man he was prosecuting, let his better nature prevail and resolved to call off the case. And when the prosecutor insisted on going through with the action, Gow took the stand and manfully told the court that he was wrong after all — that he had made an unjust complaint against Burdon and no longer wished him anything but happiness. The judge, glad to be rid of the irksome case, pronounced it closed.

And while Mrs. Hegarty retired in triumph with her redeemed Patsy, and Gow sent the amorous Lisbet back to the forgiving arms of her husband, Burdon and Victoria stole away to turn into happy reality the courageous fib she had told about them.

THE END.

SIDE GLANCES ON TEXAS HISTORY

By Charles O. Hucker
University of Texas Library

LOVE CONQUERER ALL IN OLD TEXAS, TOO

Especially since Shakespeare called the situation to public attention, the course of true love seems never to have run smooth. And when to the universal and troublesome-enough psychological and social obstacles found even in societies devoted primarily to its cultivation are added a more obvious multitude produced by life in a semi-wilderness, love really has a tough, hard pull.

Generally such seems to have been the case in old Texas, as a variety of sources in the University of Texas Library's Texas Collection imply. One example, a whimsical diversion in what is otherwise a highly serious work, appears in J. W. Wilbarger's well-known "Indian Depredations in Texas." It concerns "a young man by the name of Saunders" who at some unstated early time was schoolmaster in Erath County.

When young Saunders met a girl from a nearby settlement shortly after coming to the country, Wilbarger reported, "It was another case of love at first sight; or, in backwoods parlance, he fell dead at the first fire." Thereafter every Saturday he traveled ten miles to see her. But, being "as green as a cut seed water melon in everything pertaining to frontier life," he traveled alone, on foot, and unarmed.

He Learn a Lesson

He was destined to learn his mistake, naturally; and one Saturday morning when he was half-way along on his pilgrimage" he heard the most diabolical yells behind him, and turning to look he discovered about 20 mounted Indians coming after him at full speed." So he dashed off at what pace" toward a wood in the near distance.

"As he was young and active, and badly scared besides," Wilbarger wrote, "he made such good speed that for a while the Indians gained but little on him; but unfortunately (or perhaps I should say fortunately) when within a few hundred yards of the timber, he struck his foot against a store and pitched head foremost upon the ground. As he tell his hand came in contact with a stick, and for the same reason, I suppose, that a drowning man will catch at a straw, he instinctively grasped it."

His Bluff Works

When he got to his feet and found the Indians almost upon him, young Saunders shook this stick at them, not knowing what else to do, and as it happened that the stick was a black sumach root closely resembling a six-shooter, the Indians drew back in alarm. Immediately Saunders was off again, and after several further demonstrations of his root managed to reach the wood without a scratch.

"The Indians did not follow him any further," Wilbarger observed, "no doubt concluding it would not be safe to follow a man into the thick timber who was armed with a sumach root and reserved his fire until he could make sure of his enemy."

Though Wilbarger admitted he did not know the ultimate outcome of the romance, he assumed that love did find a way and that the couple won out to live long and prosperously together. "At least," he concluded, "no other conception is compatible with the known chivalry of the young America of Texas. 'Vive l'amour! Cigars and cognac!'"

100 Years Ago in Texas

"Horse Thief Taken—a man was arrested in Columbia, a few days since, who had stolen a horse at a camp meeting, near Rutersville. Immediately after the horse was stolen, several young men started in pursuit, and finding the thief had taken the route to Brazoria, drove there post haste; but finding he had not arrived returned to Columbia, and met him on his way. He was immediately secured and has been taken back to Fayette County, to await his trial, his name is Smith—John Smith we suppose.

"Shower and Flesh and Blood—Mr. Benjamin Hallowell, Principal of the Alexandria Boarding School, has addressed a letter to the Editors of the National Intelligencer, in which (he) ascribes the shower of flesh and blood, that was reported to have fallen near Nashville, to the reddish fluid discharged by an immense number of butter-flies, emerging from the chrysalis state."

"Consul General—A gentleman of this city, received by the last mail, a letter from Glasgow containing the intelligence that Chas. Elliot, of the Royal Navy, has been appointed Consul General of Texas by the British Government."—The Telegraph and Texas Register (Houston), October 13, 1841.

CONSERVE FOR VICTORY

TIPS ON THE CARE OF

YOUR ELECTRIC RANGE

Properly used, your electric range can save you time, money, food and work. It helps conserve vitamins, too. Here are hints that will help you keep it in A-1 operating condition:

Clean outside of your range as you would a china plate. Wash, when cool, with warm soapy water; rinse and wipe dry. Do not put cold water or cold objects on outside finish when hot. It may crack or craze the finish.

Avoid letting spilled foods dry or harden on range. Food spilled on surface units should be burned off. Avoid using stiff brush or sharp instrument.

Most surface units can be raised and the pan beneath removed for scouring. This should be done every day.

To clean oven, first be sure it is cool and switch is off; then remove heating units by pulling them straight out. Wash oven linings with warm soap and water, scouring charred spots with steel wool. Rinse and dry. Scour oven shelves lightly with steel wool.

Never wash oven or surface heating units. Keep dripping rags away from switches. Use a rag that is merely damp.

Aluminum deep well cookers should be kept bright and shining by scouring with steel wool and soap and water. Porcelain enamel cookers should not be heated before adding fat, water or foods, should not be permitted to boil dry, and should not be subjected to sudden changes of temperatures.

Have a competent serviceman check your range occasionally, to make sure it is "sitting level" on the floor, that the vent is clean, that the units are operating satisfactorily, and that wiring is in tiptop shape.

Remember—an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, so give that range of yours the best of care and it will last you longer and give you better service.

FOX FLASHES

By — Tech. 5 Grade Joseph I Fox, Reporter for 893, Tk. D. Bn.

In the opening game of the play-off for the battalion championship in 893rd softball league, "B" Co. defeated "C" Co. in a spirited affair. In the sixth inning "C" had five-run lead when the defense fell apart and "B" scored seven runs off four hits, four walks and a couple of errors. "B" scored earlier in the third on a homer by Racutt, the winning pitcher, who replaced the faltering Martin. Homers were also chalked up by Vitchock and Petock, both of "C" Co. The losing team scored in the odd innings only. It was the first defeat for Walos, who completely lost control of the situation, and then it was too late to shove in another hurler. The winning run was scored in the seventh, when Riscavage hit a long fly to center to bring in Allegrucci who was perched on third.

The second game will be played this afternoon, Monday) and if necessary the third, will be engaged in tomorrow.

Announcement by the Morale Officer, Lt. Hunter, was made pertaining to the scheduling of the company teams for Baseball games. Each team roster will be submitted to Lt. Hunter. The best players will be formed into a Post Team, to engage in contests with other units teams. The schedule will be run the safe way as it was in softball, namely two halves and a playoff if necessary.

A vast athletic program is underway and shall include swimming, volley ball and some track events if the proper places have been located to hold the latter affairs. In reference to the swimming, men have been out trying to locate suitable spots to swim in. When located they will be fixed up to form natural swimming pools and all safety precautions will be taken.

This athletic program will require the whole-hearted support of the men in this battalion and they will be amply repaid with benefits, both mentally and physically.

"Moose" O'Shell, who hails from Ebensburg, Pa., (have you ever heard of it?) is a former all star athlete from that township. Sgt. O'Shell was one of the stars of the "C" Co. basketball team, who were the runner-ups in the Fort Meade league last year.

From all indications, Gatesville is now a real military town, after viewing it last Saturday night. The gaudy rodeo trinkets sold in various stores are wending their way back to the east via mail and other means of transportation. The telegraph office was mobbed by "Need Money at Once" calls.

Some radio station is missing a good bet by not auditioning those "Rolling, Walking Tank Killers", who warble their strains in the "B" Co. area. Especially, when one is trying to sleep. They sing the "Yellow Rose of Texas" with variations, like it was never sung before in their circus song—oh my!

When are these "Taps" rains going to stop.

Some of the lads are anxiously "sweating" out furloughs. Them girls back east must not be listening to that leading song-hit on the "Hit Parade," about a certain Apple tree. There'll be some changes made, some of the boys vow, which brings into mind the story about a boy who returned glumly from his furlough and stayed that way. He had always been happy, prior to his leaving, some of the boys finally asked what was the matter. At last he broke down and confessed he and his heart had split up. "It wasn't so bad when I saw her in church with another, but why did he have to fan her with his exemption papers?" he glumly asked.

Pfc. J. I. Fox is no longer a Pfc. He has just been made a Technician, and we believe it is now called Corporal. Corp. Fox has been correspondent for the News for some time for the 893rd and his own company "C", which incidentally lost a baseball battle to the "B's" for which "Kangaroo" almost lost a set of lungs.

PROVISIONAL CHATTER

Last night the convoy boys went forth in quest of their initial victory of the present softball season. The boys were sporting the newest baseball equipment and had fire in their eyes as they took the field. At the end of the sixth inning the fire had been reduced to a faint glimmer. Evidence was shown of every kind of ability other than baseball. The arms owned by the pitchers can be turned in at the nearest filling station for a penny a pound. The crowd sat with open mouths as the left fielder went through the motions of a gin soaked bum with an epileptic fit. This fielder, or reasonable facsimile ran into the fence so many times that people started to think he was in love with the chicken wire. Zeke Welihan and "Bambino Blankenship" hit the ball out of the park mainly because they were too lazy to run around the bases. But the game ended with out any injuries so pretty soon the convoy boys will try to win something besides chigger bites, for a change.

Things out here are nice and peaceful this week because "Da Mooch", "The Birdog," and the old bean "Vulture Graffman" are on furlough. All of the fellows hope that they bring a section of Lake Michigan back with them.

The 1st sarg. heard a song last week and since then our life has been pretty tough. The song was "Kiss Me Goodnight, Sgt. Murphy." Every night the sarg. runs around from tent to tent trying to keep up with his fellow Irishman Murphy. The general consensus is that the poor guy is tent happy, so all we can do is try to keep the guy happy. When it gets so our sarg. tries to sneeze in the grease with a bunch of soldiers then its time to give him a little bunk fatigue.

"Poor Patty" is blowing his lungs out on his sax and pretty soon all the dogs in Texas will be in camp trying to keep up with him. They say that Harry James plays from the heart so this yard-bird will spend the rest of the night trying to figure out just where "Poor Patty" plays from.

I guess that this is enough shilly shally for awhile, so I'm going out teh tower.

EXCERPTS FROM TALK—

"These nitrate plants produce 1,400,000 ton and the Anaconda Copper Company's huge open pit mine at Chuquicamata, the world's greatest, lie in an extension of the Titacama desert 100 and 150 miles respectively from the port.

"Chuquicamata produces 5,000,000,000 pounds of fine copper per year, and it all goes thru the port of Antofagasta. And 99 per cent of this is being acquired by the Metals Reserve Company of the USA which keeps it from the hands of the enemies.

"South, takes you to Taltal, where the Atacama desert—the world's dryest region—is really in evidence. Then, Chanaral, a port for the copper mine at Potrerillos, 100 miles inland and 10,000 feet above sea level. Then Huasco, an open roadstead, and Caldera, both ports serving as outlets for mineral ore which formerly went to Japan. Coquimbo is next, and vegetation begins, and Bethlehem steel work a huge iron deposit in addition to their being agriculture. "Valparaiso, the Pearl of the Pacific, is next, a thriving city and port, with a rich farming section stretching toward Santiago, the capitol.

"Santiago has nearly 1,000,000 population and is one of the culture cities of the continent—the most cultured.

"Then down the coast is San Antonio, another copper port, and Talcahuano, the home of the Chilean Navy, and the west coast's greatest naval base. Behind is Concepcion and Chillan, cities living off agriculture, and devastated by the February 1939 calamity which killed 60,000 and laid waste territory 100 miles in each direction. It is here, also, where at Coronel on the coast, that Admiral Graf Svec in World War I whipped the British squadron. These are picturesque ports with snow-capped mountains and volcanoes in the background.

"Next is Punta Arenas, world's southernmost city with 30,000, and is the centre of the sheep-raising industry. On down, and around the Horn is where Admiral Graf Spee finally was licked by the British in the battle of the Falkland Islands.

"By rail down the interior from Santiago, the country which varies from 40 to 250 miles in width are all the beauties of nature, including lakes, mountains, volcanoes, gorges, and many other beauties.

"Little Bavaria, known to Chileans as the 'Duchy of Valdivia,' is a typical German community, where they speak, teach, and practice Nazisms and that language, and where Nazi uniforms are in abundance. It is difficult to get along in this province without a knowledge of German. Back of this land is the winter playground, the mecca of people from every continent to play, and also to hunt and fish.

"As to government, the country is a republic, presided over by a President, six years term, and who cannot succeed himself. He has cabinet ministers, a senate and chamber of deputies. These are similar to ours, except the president is elected by popular vote, and no electoral college.

"There are no states with legislatures, but the country is divided into political divisions presided over by a federal 'Indente,' and one over the provinces known as the 'Gobernador.' Both are appointees of the Minister of Interior. No province makes its set of laws, so the country deals only with the federal government.

"Ministers include Foreign Affairs, Defense, Education, Justice and Interior, which are the most important. Carabineers of Chile are militarized police force, federal in character, which is subordinate to the army. They are efficient, and cannot be bribed, as neither can the Justice.

"First commander of the Navy was Bernardo Higgins, a wild Irishman who divested Chile of the Spanish yoke. Chile has a conscripted army, and compulsory military training under supervision of the German military mission, and the officers are 90 per cent pro-Nazi. This is not so with the Navy, but even the army in the final alaysis is Chilean.

"Recently the U. S. army has provided small well-equipped detachments to aid in Chilean coastal defense.

"Elections are honest and controlled by law. Foreigners and women vote in municipal elections, but neither vote in national elections. There are no election disorders.

"Chile resembles the USA in the assimilation of foreigners, except Germans who consider Chileans inferior people and will not assimilate. American, British and French children born there claim to be Chileans, and there is no racial problem.

"Chile has the highest infant mortality rate in the world, but is being improved yearly, thru democratic government, and education.

"There are three classes of people, viz.: day laborer, middle or white collar class, and the landed gentry. It is probably more strongly unionized than any country in the world, and has some of the legislation, including socialized medicine, compulsory social insurance, and many other similar measures.

"Economically, Chile is sick, but otherwise it is truly one of the great republics of our friendly continent to the south."

These huge 60-ton heavy tank cost $120,000, and America's automotive and locomotive plants are turning them out on a never-ending assembly line. Our army uses light tanks, weighing 14 tons, and medium tanks of 28 tons also, but we favor the medium tank over the other two.

These heavy tanks are needed for certain phases of modern warfare and with their thick armor and heavy-gauge guns they are almost unstoppable. They are considered superior in gun power, in maneuverability and in the power of the huge tractor motors to Axis tanks. Americans everywhere are helping to pay for these monsters of war through their purchase of War Bonds. Invest at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day.

The giant four-motored Navy Patrol Bombers are the world's most powerful planes. They cost approximately $700,000 each. The Navy also has a lighter Bomber called the Scout Bomber which costs about $143,000 apiece.

The battle for Britain was almost lost because England had none of these giant four-motored planes with which to fight back. We need thousands of them and they are coming off the assembly lines in our production plants at a high rate of speed today. You can help buy these for your Navy by purchasing War Bonds and Stamps every pay day. Put at least ten percent into Bonds or Stamps and help your county go over its Quota.
