STREET PARADE AT 6:00 P. M. TO OPEN SIXTH ANNUAL RODEO AND FRONTIER CELEBRATION

Everything's set!

Gatesville and Coryell county's biggest event is "on the verge", and it's going to be a whizdinger, according to all pre-show reports. It's Earl Sellers, this year, and he hails from down Del Rio way, where the "Law West of Pecos' was, and probably still is. We're not too well acquainted with the territory, but the terrain indicates it hasn't been ruined much by civilization.

Jack Sellers, is Earl's "first-assistant',, and these boys, born and reared in the West, know their way around the rodeo corral.

Their show will consist of saddle bronc riding, calf roping, steer bulldogging, brahma steer riding, and an added feature known as "headin' and heelin." Cowboys in this event work in pairs, and while one ropes the steer's head, the other catches him by the heels.

be a feature, and Joker, a 1600-lb. steer will be featured, a flag race by cowgirls that's different, and the rodeo clown Wiley McCrey, better known as "The Canadian Kid," will keep'em rolling' in the aisles.

"Round up Time in Texas," æ tableaux showing the old Texas Rodeo will be a feature of especial interest to service men of Camp Hood and vicinity.

Entrance fees, plus the amount added by the show will total for prizes from $2,500 to $3,000 which the cowhands will work far, and that's not hay.

Out of Waco, will come the 'Waco Longhorns" all macked-out in their royal blue and gold shirts and cowboy regalia, and they'll be here on the opening day, and will participate in the horse show.

Included are J. A. "Bud" Collins, Barney Torrence, Mrs. L. D. Bur-Baldy, a fancy riding horse will ton and Mrs. Gwenn Pitts.

ize at the time, as he stated later. In the course of a foreword to a book by General Graves dealing with the activities of the expedition, Mr. Baker wrote that the delicacy and danger. To some extent, though I must confess not fully, these possibilities were foreseen, and the selection of General Graves to command the American contingent, suggested by General March, chief of staff, met with my instant and complete approval..

"Now that this strange adventure is over, I am more than ever satisfied with the choice of the American Commander.'

General Graves, who was at the time in command of the Eighth Division, a Regular Army unit, relinquished that command at once and set out for Siberia, taking with him a contingent of officers and enlisted men from his own division. Two regiments of infantry, the Twenty-seventh and the Thirty-first, as well as auxiliary troops, had already been ordered to porceed to Vladivostok from the Philippines.

General Graves was born in Mt. Calm, Texas, March 27, 1865, the son of Andrew C. and Evelyn (Bennett) Graves. He attended the U. S. Military Academy, and was graduated on June 12, 1889. He was commissioned a second lieutenant of Infantry and assigned to the Seventh Regiment, then statinued on duty at that post until June 30, 1896, with the exception of a little less than a year at Camp Pilo Butte, Wyoming, 1890-From September 1, 1892, until his relief from duty at Fort Logan, he served as commisary officer.

Until November, 1899, Lieutenant Graves served as aide to Brigadier General Harry C. Merriam, first at Headquarters, Department of the Columbia, and later at Headquarters, Department of Colorado. During this interval, while serving as aide,, he also performed other staff duties from time to time, including that of in- ment at various places in the Isspector of small arms; acting adjutant general, Department of nila and Fort William McKinley. Colorado, from April 1 to Novem- From December 1, 1904, to Janu-vocate, Department of the Columbia, August 1, 1897, to January 31, 1899. This period also saw him twice promoted-to first lieutenant, with assignment to the Sixth Infantr,y on November 19, 1896, and to captain, Fifth Infantry, on September 8, 1899.

He did not serve with the Fifth Regiment, however, as on the 24th of the following month he was transferred to the Twentieth Infantry, which he joined in Manila on December 26, 1899. He remained in the Islands until February 28, 1902, during which time he took part in numerous engagements with Insurrectos. He also served as chief inspector and boarding officer ot the Manila Custom House from May 21, 1900, to February 4, 1901. For gallantry in action against Insurrectors at

With electric table appliances out of production due to war, you'll want to take good care of the ones you have in order that you can continue to enjoy their stepsaving convenience. Here are some suggestions that will prove helpful:

ELECTRIC TOASTER

Be careful in cleaning your toaster. Never put it in water. Wipe outside with damp cloth, using mild abrasive if necessary. Heating element cleans itself when you turn on the current.

Most toasters have removable crumb trays. Use a small brush to wipe out crumbs if your toaster has no tray.

Be careful not to drop your toaster; it may break connections or damage thermostat.

COFFEE MAKER OR PERCOLATOR

Never immerse a metal percolator in water. Stand on dry drainboard, wash inside with warm soapy water, rinse and dry. Wash outside with damp cloth, being careful not to let water get into electrical connections.

If you have a glass coffee maker with cloth filter. rinse filter cloth thoroughly with cold water after each using. Between usings, keep cloth in glass of cold water.

If you have a metal coffee maker or percolator, substi-

Do we get eggs! We get nearly every kind, and the last one (this one) is one of the worst. It, (rather they) have no shell, but were laid, and very carefully with no shell. A delightful pair of pieces of hen production. Looks like some feed merchant ought to sell Jim Webb of Pearl for this one, and all of this just goes to prove you never can tell what a hen'll do. At least not in Coryell County.

Oh, you want to see them! Well, they're "cookin'" in our window and we guess from the heat in the window they'll be well done ere long. These two soft shell eggs, identical in size, were connected by a connector. Another oddity of Coryell County.

General Graves remained in Siberia until the entire force was withdrawn in April, 1920 There was another continuous military action consisting of operation by small units. Casualties, however, comparatively speaking, were not heavy. Disease accounted for 41 deaths among members of the expedition, while 28 were killed in action and eight died from causes" brought the total to 109.

From Siberia General Graves went to the Philippines, where he ous outfits who've taken Coryell arrived on April 7, 1920.
