WEEK END ACCIDENT SUMMARY; THEY HAPPEN EVERY WEEK

First, let us say Pvt. Ernest M. Flowers of Camp Hood is or was in a critical condition at Camp Bowie after receiving a fractured skull when his automobile turned over between McGregor and Gatesville. The accident happened week end before last.

Then, last Monday an army truck with five Camp Hood soldiers turned over near Copperas Cove, injuring three seriously and two escaped with slight injuries. Those seriously injured were Thos. A. Meloday, Henry Burrett and George Karakitsia of the 634th T. D. B'n.

Thirdly, a recent model Ford with a soldier and his wife turned over four or five flips on the highway west of Oglesby, completely wrecking the car, but with no injuries, practically, to the two occupants. Names were not given, but the car carried a Nebraska license.

SAM GOT A FEW MORE SATURDAY; HAD BEEN "UP" BEFORE

Uncle Sam got six more Saturday.

These boys were "reservists" who had been up before and came home to straighten out business, home and other tangles, before shelling civilian life for "the duration."

They are: John P. Reesing, Jr., Mitchell E. Holt, Geo. L. Sherrwood, J. C. Wilson, Wm. Larry Woods and Clarence D. Johnson.

Where they went, the young lady didn't tell, but it was probably to the Dallas receiving station and from there there's no tellin' where.

SCOTT'S AUCTION SALE TO BE THURSDAYS BEGINNING THIS ONE

For the past several months, auction sales have been held at Luther Scott's Auction Barns on Saturdays.

There has been a "change" made and now the sales will be held on Thursdays only.

Put that down in your little notebook and don't forget it.

Miss Fay Byrom left yesterday for Sabinal where she will resume her duties in the public schools there. Her little brother, Jimmie, returned with her for a visit.

DR. E. E. LOWREY WAS "LT. LOWREY" AT 12:01 LAST NIGHT

And he was on Uncle Sam's payroll, too, and that's the sweet part of it.

All of which means, Dr. E. E. Lowrey leaves today for Dalhart, Texas, where he will be medical officer at the Advanced Glider Training School.

Housing conditions are as bad as they are here and Mrs. Lowrey and daughter are going to stay here until suitable "quarters" are found.

Dr. Lowrey has been practicing here for a number of years and his father before him for a larger number of years and Coryell county citizens, Gatesville, the Lions Club, Chamber of Commerce and about all of us will be sorry to see him leave for Dalhart. Mrs. Lowrey says he's going to keep one foot on the ground; he says he's going to learn to fly a glider. We will see what we see.

"ALLEGED" KING OF LIQUOR RING TAKEN AT ANSON

Transportation problems also effect the "undercover" liquor rings, and the alleged "delivery boy" was taken at Anson, Texas. He is alleged to have brought the liquor to locals around Copperas Cove and are said to have disposed of it for half and payment of fines if they got caught.

He is said to have not "protected" one, and thereby hangs the tail.

The "tail" is, somebody told, and now, S. A. Moser, the "alleged" is in custody, after paying $148 each in two cases and making $500 bond in another.

We've been wondering why dry Coryell is so wet.

HOW MUCH SCRAP? HERE'S A PARTIAL REPORT; MORE YET

Did you ever stop to think how much scrap could be found in Coryell county?

Well, just a big lot of it. Just look at these figures.

So far, there have been 150 tons, more than 300,000 pounds of scrap iron already shipped. The concerted drive, too, won't start until August 25.

Also there have been 280,000 pounds of scrap rubber picked up in these parts.

Much of this scrap has already been moved out of Gatesville, but the transportation problems holds up faster movement of this material for war.

Too, this scrap has mostly been taken from outside the city limits of Gatesville, and on August 25, there will be a drive to "clean up Gatesville," and the drive both in and out of Gatesville will continue through August and may be further.

W. LEE O'DANIEL TO SPEAK HERE FRIDAY AT 5 O'CLOCK

W. LEE O'DANIEL

According to a story carried in The Temple Daily Telegram Sunday, U. S. Senator W. Lee O'Daniel will speak in Gatesville Friday at 5 o'clock.

Senator O'Daniel is one half of the Texas second primary and is opposed by former governor-judge James V. Allred.

In Gatesville, too, was a representative of Beauford Jester who is in the run-off for railroad commissioner.

BEAUFORD JESTER

Mr. Jester is one candidate that lays his success in the first primary to the fact that he patronized newspapers, and, naturally, the smaller newspapers can readily appreciate that. In a letter to newspapers of the state, Mr. Jester has acknowledged the good work of Texas press in his behalf.

Grady H. Hill Dies of Injuries From Train-Car Crash

G. H. (Grady) Hill, died in a Waco hospital about 6:50 Saturday evening from injuries received in a car-train crash about 4 miles east of Gatesville on Old Highway 7, about 2:30.

The car was demolished and Hill had both legs broken above the knees and one below, a deep gash over his right eye extending down to near his ear, another deep gash from right shoulder down to about the belt line, several ribs broken, both hands cut badly, an injured right elbow, and possible internal injuries.

Scotts took him to Waco immediately after the accident and his remains were brought back to Gatesville by Scotts for burial. He is survived by a wife and two children and a number of brothers and sisters and other near relatives.

The train stopped immediately after the crash and what assistance that could be given was attended to and the train proceeded on to Waco.

Funeral services for Mr. Hill were held Sunday afternoon at 5:30 at Scotts Funeral Home. Rev. Wolfe officiated and interment was made in Restland Cemetery, Gatesville, with Scotts in charge.

Survivors include his wife, the former Miss Annie Thomas; two children, Norma Ruth and Lois Murrell; parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hill; six brothers, C. E. and L. A. of Gatesville, B. H. and R. Portrait of a Newspaper Reader Mumbling to Himself:

Get the editorial writers sore and they perform at their sockiest. They hit glory on their pieces on the Nazi inhumanities at Lidice. Now they show their teeth again, hooraying Pres. Roosevelt for naming a military board to try the eight Nazi saboteurs. Hitler will let out his customary howl about our uncivilized methods, but how can he expect us to hear him? He lost his right to squawk at Lidice. Anyway, what did his chumps hope for in case they got caught with trunks full of explosives and bribe money? A scolding?

Another thing—how did the Reich act when a bomb went off under a Munich rostrum a few minutes after Hitler minced off it? The Gestapo lured two Britishers over the border to pin it on them. No crime was ever proved against the prisoners. They were just executed to give Hitler a cue for another tantrum. Most of our senators and congressmen in Washington are honest men, Good Americans, reliable citizens. The few legislators who are busy calling their critics smear artists have good cause to worry. Election isn't far off, and their critics are giving them insomnia. These worried congressmen call their expositors—Communists. Hmf! Their most persistent critics are Raymond Clapper, Time magazine, the conservative N. Y. Times and the arch Republican N. Y. Herald Tribune. And 95 per cent of the newspapers in America. What some congressmen call Communistic propaganda is actually their voting records and speeches from the Cong. Record.

Once a ball player gets into the big sugar he gets unpopular in the press boxes. Ruth used to take rides when he bickered for a heavier wage. DiMaggio was assailed also for trying to do better. The latest patsy is the Red Sox star, Ted Williams. He got fed up with the hoots of the bleacherites and let them know it. For just losing his temper he was practically outlawed. Why shouldn't he blow up? Others do, and nobody considers them criminals. Actors in night clubs carry on steady warfare with the crude ad libbers, but they get cheers when they fight back. Maybe baseball wouldn't be such a dull business if they let a few more tempers loose. There are too many coppers running the game. Football coaches get all heated up, telling their players to go out and fight. In baseball, apparently, the athletes are instructed to go out there and remember the customer is always right. Not over at this desk!

Hollywoodites are going into the army and navy just like other Americans. Remember all the blah-blah in congress when it was said the actors would rate deferment? Movietown was recently criticized for making films about the war. Now Variety complains because they don't make enough war films. Ho, humph! The dimout doesn't mean much to New Yorkers, but it robs the visitors of the thrill of seeing the Incandescent Belt at its gaudiest. The White Way was Broadway's trademark, and the first peep at it always left the looker gasping. Best comment of all on the sight was offered by G. K. Chesterton, as A. Woolcott once reported. Chesterton stared and marveled, then said: "What a thrill this must be for anybody who can't read!"

Man About Town:

This is the way Harry Hopkins proposed to lovely Louise Macy. The night before Mr. Churchill returned to London Louise went to the home of Mrs. Averell Harriman to dress for dinner, where Mr. Hopkins called for her. As they were having a cocktail (prior to leaving for the White House) Mr. H. (a shy sortuvachap) asked Miss Macy to marry him in this manner: "I was just talking to the President and I asked him whether he thought you would say 'yes'—if I asked you to marry me—and the President said he thought you would." Her answer belongs in the history books. "As usual," she said, "the President is right."

New Yorkers Are Talking About: Fred Allen's high blood pressure, which sent him hurrying to Mayo Brothers at Rochester, Minn. Lindbergh's definite threat to announce his candidacy for office soon via the page ones.

The Magic Lanterns: "United We Stand" is a stiff reminder to all of us that Hitler thrives on our disunity. It chronicles events from the Treaty of Versailles until Pearl Harbor, highlighting the Axis "divide and conquer" technique. "Eagle Squadron" shows Yanks in the RAF, with the blitz and the British reprisals contributing a powerful Sunday punch. Diana Barrymore, Eddie Albert, Robert Stack and others show up handsomely, but the fattest role is played by the high explosives.

SUMMERTIME is vacation time, but not for your electric refrigerator. During the winter months it loafed along, using a minimum of current, but now it must work longer and harder to keep foods fresh and wholesome and to supply extra quantities of ice cubes and frozen desserts. Naturally, your refrigerator is using a little more electricity these sizzling hot days, but the added cost is small compared to the food savings it makes possible. Electric pennies save food dollars.

Electric Refrigerator Economy Hints

1. Defrost regularly — at least once a week
2. Do not crowd shelves—circulation is vital to efficient operation.
3. Do not open door oftener or hold it open longer than necessary.
4. Do not store hot foods in refrigerator—let them cool first.
5. Cover all liquids before storing them in refrigerator.
6. Avoid quick freezing as much as possible

The above map of Texas shows the War Bond quotas, by counties, for the month of July, 1942. Total War Bond quota for the state is $33,677,000. With the National quota total placed at a billion dollars, the nation goes into high gear in its support of the War financing and to give our fighting forces adequate implements of war which will bring ultimate Victory. SIDE GLANCES ON TEXAS HISTORY
By Charles O. Hucker
University of Texas Library

TENDERFOOT
"Greenhorns," or "tenderfeet" have never had a very easy time of it in frontier territory. Not all of these newcomers have had the persistence and foretitude of Francis Richard Lubbock, who not only accepted with good grace the stiff "skinnings," some of the old-timers took of him, but preserved in his determination to adjust himself to his new environment—so successfully that he later became governor of Texas.

In his memories, published posthumously in 1900, Lubbock described several of his "tenderfoot" experiences. This volume is a valuable lore and history in the University of Texas Library's vast Texas Collection.

Fig In a Poke

Lubbock, who came to Texas in 1837, set up his mercantile business in Houston. On the return leg of a business trip to Brazoria, he recounts, the first experience, which left him a wiser man, occurred.

"While traveling along the Brazos on the edge of the prairie I was joined by a party of men," he wrote. "After journeying together a few miles we reached a beautiful point of woods—majestic trees, lovely shade, and fine peach soil. I had but recently arrived in Texas, and everything looked charming to me," he confessed.

"I expressed myself as carried away with this piece of wild land, whereupon the party told me it was his; that he owned the point—a labor, 177 acres—known as Parker's Point; that he would sell it very cheap, and named as his price $1,000. He then told me his name, Davis Moore; that he was on his way to his father's place on Chocolate Bayou, Dr. Moore; that his papers were there; that I had better go with him, spend the night, and ride to Houston next day. I accompanied him home, and found the family owning quite a comfortable place. He exhibited his papers showing that he had purchased the land, and assuring me it was all right. I agreed to take the land, he to come to Houston in a few days for the money.

"But I was soon to be better informed. My land friend appeared in a few days and received pay for the land. I rested in security though I only purchased a lovely elephant, having no use whatever for it. When however, I did think of using it, I found to my chagrin and loss that the praty had no title whatever. It is true he had a paper, and may have supposed he had a title. He proved also to be a worthless fellow, and I never did get a cent of my money back.

"I was brought up in Old South Carolina, where I had never heard of a man selling anything that he did not own," he added ruefully.

100 Years Ago in Texas

"News from the West.—A report was brought to town on Sunday evening that a proclamation had been promulgated in Bexar, notifying the citizens of that place, that a body of 1,600 Mexican troops would take possession of the city in the 4th inst., and in consequence, fifty or sixty families had removed to Gonzales from Bexar. A company from Gonzales set out for Bexar immediately after receiving the news, but were driven back. Col. Moore had made a call upon the citizens of Fayette and the adjoining counties, and was preparing to march with a large body of volunteers to repel the enemy. We have heard alarming reports from Bexar, so frequently that we place little reliance upon this."

Dear Wardie:

Blamed if it ain't August. First thing the World Serious will be here, then footmalls, then Texas-A and M game. Another year gone and nothin' done yet.

I hear sofe of the folks is a little worried about this World War 2 Handicap. I ain't. I think our Jockey and trainer, Uncle Sam, knows what he is a doin'. This ain't no sprint 4½ furlongs for babies. It's a handicap, and Jockey Sam knows how to rate his hoss down the back side, and when to let him out on the run for the roses. They don't win them handicaps no place but in the stretch, and Jockey Sam knows what to do down the stretch, in the last quarter drive you got to have somethin' left the other ain't got. We had already reached the three-quarter pole at St. Mihiel, when Jockey Sam opened up with the finish drive in the World War 1 Handicap. Then when they passed the mile post at Meuse-Argonne, Jockey Sam was in front the rest of the way and was pullin' away at the finish.

Aunt Mamie is a callin' Uncle Tobias "Opium" the past few days cause he is such a wild poppy.

The other night Unk ran into a gal at the honky tonk and wanted to see her home. She said, OK, I'll send you a picture of it." Unk sat down besider. She said, "Have you got any life buoy?" and Unk said, "jest start something Sister, jest start something, and you will see." She wanted to know if Unk didn't have no character, and he said yes, he had, but said it was all weak.

I'll be a seein' you Pal. Keep 'em Firin'.

Yours,
LOONEY LUCY.

A Story of Turbulent Love!

The HOUSE ACROSS the BAY

Directed by Archie Mayo • Released thru United Artists

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
When Steve Larwitt's underworld operations cause his life to be endangered, his lovely young wife, Brenda Bentley, for whom he is trying to amass a fortune, begs him to go abroad. Upon his refusal she conspires with his lawyer, "Slant" Kolma, to have him tried on income tax charges in order to put him safely away in jail for a year. But Kolma, eager for a clear field with Brenda, sees to it that Steve is sentenced to ten years. Brenda remains devoted to Steve, even after she meets Tim Nolan, boyishly attractive aviation engineer, who shows her a new world of beauty in flying. Meanwhile Brenda resists Kolma's advances despite his threat to expose to Steve her part in his conviction. Steve, oblivious of this conflict, still believes Slant to be his best friend. Brenda finds a job singing in a cheap cafe in Alameda.

Chapter Six

Kolma established himself at a table in the Sorrento, sipping brandy and waiting for Brenda to appear in her song. He sat bolt upright when he saw Tim Nolan enter the cafe through the far door and go straight to the dressing room.

Brenda had just changed to her costume when she heard his knock and bade him enter. He stood in the doorway, looking at her.

"Slant Kolma told you who I am," she said quietly.

"Yes."

"Then why have you come here?"

"I love you."

"No! No!"

Slowly he came forward and took her in his arms. "Brenda!" she cried to him desperately, helplessly. "Oh, Tim! It's no use! We love each other," he said with quiet intensity.

"Yes, but Steve Larwitt loves me too — more than anything else in his life. He wanted me to leave everything. Even now, here there, the one thing that keeps him from going to pieces is his faith in me. I just can't let him down."

"No... you can't."

She went with him down the corridor, to the door of the cafe. They looked at each other for a long moment... then a quick, fierce kiss... then he climbed into his station wagon and drove off. Kolma, whose jealous impatience had driven him to follow Nolan to the dressing room, witnessed the parting from the corridor. And now his mind was made up.

It was easy for a lawyer of Slant Kolma's prominence to obtain permission for a special visit to his client in the prison. He spent an earnest ten minutes talking to Steve; and when he left, Steve's eyes smoldered and his features were contorted with a murderous fury.

The hysterical shriek of the prison siren tore through the midnight quiet of San Francisco's residential district and the gay hum of its amusement center. The word spread almost as fast as the sound of the siren: Steve Larwitt had escaped!

Tim Nolan, after verifying the rumor by calling up the newspapers, leapt into his car and drove madly for Alameda. Meanwhile Brenda, at the Cafe Sorrento, received a telephone call from Mary Bogale.

"There's been a break, honey. And it's your man."

Brenda, cold with terror, went back to her dressing room.

On the shore that skirts the city of San Francisco a dripping figure emerged from the water and climbed stealthily up the bank to the road. Despite his long swim, much of it under water, Steve was taut and alert, ready to carry through his desperate plan.

He hailed the first car that came along. The driver slowed down to a crawl and opened the door. Steve dealt him a hard blow to the jaw, dragged the unconscious body out of the car, and climbed in.

Brenda was pacing her dressing room, near the breaking point, when Tim burst in.

"Come on. You're getting out of here."

"No! He'll come here — I've got to stay and face him. But you must go — he'll kill you!"

"I'm going to stay with you." While she was pleading with him to go, Steve, wearing the clothes of the man he had knocked out, drove up to the cafe in the stolen car. He made for the dressing room, flung the door open, and closed it behind him. The three looked at one another for a silent moment.

"Come here, squealer," said Larwitt in a deadly quiet voice.

"Don't move, Brenda," muttered Nolan through his teeth.

"So — you're the guy." Steve turned toward him.

"Steve! He's done nothing!"

"No," rasped Steve. "And neither did you. My little doll-faced cheat! Sitting up in an apartment all by yourself — waiting for me — sticking by me!" His voice rose to a raging snarl. "Lies! Doping me with Hes!"

One hand grabbed her wrist. The other went toward her throat. Nolan pulled out an automatic and covered him. "Take your hands off her!"

Steve lunged for the gun and seized the muzzle. Nolan doubled him up with a driving punch in the abdomen. They wrestled over the weapon, until Nolan, twisting Steve's hand, forced him to relax his grip on it. Brenda sprang forward and snatched the gun.

"Now, Steve," she said quietly, "you've got to hear this. I did frame you. I did it to save you from Tarasca. Slant lied to me — he said you'd only get a year. He didn't tell you that part of it, did he? He didn't tell you how he crossed you up on your defense — how he took all my jewelry and every dollar we had, and then offered me help — his kind of help. And because I said no, he went over to you. That's the truth."

She handed him the gun. "You can kill me now, if you like."

Steve stood still, deeply shocked and moved, trying to grasp the picture she had painted.

"I'm going with you, Steve," said Brenda after a moment. "I said I'd stick and I will."

"If you go through that door with me, I'll believe you."

"If you love her you'll believe her," Nolan put in angrily.

Brenda quickly put on her coat. She held out her hand to Nolan. "Goodbye, Tim," she said softly. "You've helped me so much — now I'll be able to help him."

The looks on their faces spoke worlds to Steve. When she joined him outside, he looked at her strangely, tenderly.

"Listen, Baby, I haven't any money. But I know where I can get some. Meet me at the corner of Powell and Geary in two hours. And remember, honey — you're still tops with me. I'm going to make up for all this." Deaf to her protests, he drove off.

Steve found Kolma at the bar in the Ritz-Curzon, and prodded him up to his room with the muzzle of the automatic. The bark of the gun cut short Slant's frantic explanations and treaties. And Steve was out of the hotel and back in the car, driving madly toward the Bay, before the excited hotel-dwellers knew what had happened.

He drove almost to the exact spot where he had emerged from the water, threw off his stolen hat and overcoat, waded in, and began swimming back toward the prison. The searchlights were still sweeping the water. Steve deliberately swam into the beam of the nearest one.

A motorboat with two prison guards chugged close by. A rifle spoke three times. A trickle of red began to run down the side of the swimmer's head. He turned for a last look toward the shore, a strange smile on his face.

Tim caught Brenda at the airport as she was making for her eastbound plane.

"Brenda! You mustn't go."

"It's best this way, Tim." She continued toward the plane; he walked along with her.

"Tim, I wouldn't be good for you. No, I've thought this all out. I must go."

"Then I'm going with you. No matter what you say, I'm never going to let you go..."

The set lines of her face softened. She put down her luggage.

"Tim! Oh, darling!"

The propellor of the transport roared as the ship taxied down the runway and took off. But neither Tim nor Brenda heard it.

THE END.

A free land has one advantage. It doesn't need 200,000 picked guards to keep people patriotic.

He isn't yet a man if he pretends to be tough to escape the contempt of some guy he secretly despises.

Two hushes, as in hush-hush, means a military secret; one hush, followed by "it up," means a military blunder.

If so many German-Americans are pro-Nazi now, how many more will decide for Hitler when they think he is close to victory.

Every army needs two leaders. One smart schemer to plan victory; one ruthless killer to keep after the enemy till the last man is finished.

Bringing here a highly touted soft ball club, China Springs soft ball club went back to China Springs a tired, but wiser club. They met "Suzy" of the 634th T. D. B'n. who was pitching woo under the colors of the Coryell County All-Stars, composed of "town boys" and men of the 634th. The county was, 5-3, but that's not the story. The "Chinks" had to get two of their runs by lucky 4-base clouts, and that just about made the story. It was "all quiet on the soft ball front" for the Chinks, except for these two. The locals were never worried, and Suzy didn't even have to bear down, and could do that, when necessary.

The line-ups were as follows:

Ramblers	China Springs
Stovall, c	Gibson, p
Post, 2b	Martin, 2b
Anderson, 1f	Moore, 1f
Neveroski, ss	Wallace, 3b
Cousins, cf	Albright, cf
White, sf	Zenner, rf
Sullivan, lb	Gray, lb
McAllister, 3b	Parrot, c
Wilson, rf	Eason, sf
Suwalkowski, p

Substitutes: Norton for Post, Carson for Anderson, Barton and Leer for Cousins, Padgett for McCallister, for the Ramblers. For China Springs, Moore for Gibson, Roscoe for Albright, Frankie for Zenner.
