O'Daniel, Smith, Jester; James in the State; Apparently Berry, Evetts, Payne in County

O'DANIEL'S LEAD IS ONLY 50.67 PER CENT IN LATEST REPORT

At noon yesterday Senator W. Lee O'Daniel was out in front with 438,874 votes and James V. Alfred was 12,258 behind with 426,616, with mostly rural votes yet to come in, about 25,000 and W. Lee O'Daniel has been conceded elected to the six year term as U. S. Senator.

In the other state races, John Lee Smith of Throckmorton defeated Harold Beck of Texarkana in the lieutenant governor race, 468,834 to 338,562; Beauford Jester in the unexpired term of railroad commissioner, defeated Pierce Brooks 475,570 to 349,283 and in the state treasurer race, Jesse James was reelected over W. Gregory Hatcher 534,320 to 254,563.

COUNTY RACES STILL HAVE ONE CLOSE; EVETTS LEADING

In the county races all commissioners, it seems things are finally and definitely settled in Commissioner Beat 1 and Commissioner Beat 4 races, in which A. M. (Bub) Berry defeated Leo M. Brown 485 to 343, and Dick Payne got 1,114 to Oad Painter's 537.

So far Roy Evetts is out in front 7 votes in the unofficial tabulation with his vote being 317 and W. E. Holcomb's being 310.

Saturday Chairman C. H. McGilvray and the Thirty Precinct Chairmen will canvass the ballots and the final official will be announced.

This seems to be about all in the election business for 1942, and the only thing left is the general election which in Texas is a mere formality.

Rumor Stopped! It's So! Camp Hood is To Be Widened, Says Story in Dailies

From a datelined story in The Dallas Morning News Sunday, the following information carried under a "Washington" date line was carried. And, that's all we can find out definite about the entire situation, even though there are millions (no, that's pre-war stuff) billions of rumors.

We quote: "Washington, Aug. 22 —The War Department will construct a large addition to Camp Hood between Gatesville and Killeen, Texas, now operating for the training of troops in warfare against tanks. The addition to this cantonment which originally was designed to house and train approximately 30,000 men will be constructed on land adjoining the present camp on the Gatesville side. No indication has been given as to the cost of the camp addition." There you are folks, the first and all, we know.

Lt. A. V. Freeman of Phoenix, Arizona, visited his parents here briefly over the week end.

Pvt. Foster Cherry was a visitor here from Camp Wolters, Mineral Wells, along with Pvt. Cecil Dixon who's home is here. Pvt. Cherry is a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. McGilvray of Gatesville.

Pvt. Edwin Hunt, with the U. S. Air Corps at Meridian, Miss., was a week end visitor in Gatesville.

This Is the Army!

(A contribution by the all-soldier cast of Irving Berlin's great hit show at the Broadway theater—for the army emergency fund.)

When one of the boys gave his regimental pin to a girl she demanded to know what the motto "Volens et Potens" meant. He explained: "Willing and able". She returned it pronto. The 33rd Armored Regiment at Camp Polk call their tanks "Hitler Hearses". The Yank of 1942 isn't called a doughboy. He's "Red Legs". There's a 50-Year-Old Club at Camp Roberts. The men in it are over 50—all volunteers since Pearl Harbor—going in as buck privates, although many were former officers and non-coms.

Soldiers purchase lots of finger-nail polish—but not for their nails.

It keeps their buttons shiny and is the perfect remedy for chigger bites. At the Indio Desert training center the lads are often rationed only one gallon of water daily for all purposes, including drinking, washing, bathing. To condition them for the real thing.

Contrary to popular legend, it is against Army regulations to give a soldier K. P. duty as punishment.

At Camp Barkeley the chap who instructs in the art of jiu-jitsu is Harry Morimoto, an American-Japanese. In the Army nurses are known as Snow-whites. Soldiers insist that uniforms come in only two sizes—too large and too small.

Personal checks cannot be cashed in the Army without the company commander's okay.

When Paul, the son of the late financier, Andrew Mellon, went to the c. o. at Fort Riley to get approval for a $100 check, the c. o. said: "This is a pretty big check for a private to write. How do I know it is good?" "It oughta be," said Paul. "I own the controlling interest in the bank."

The Indians have supplied more volunteers to the Army than any other racial group. When they first learned of selective service they came to register with their own weapons. The average soldier drinks four cups of coffee a day. G. W., who fathers the "Our Fighting Men" dept in Collier's, calls the U. S. Armored Division the Anzers. Because they are the answers to Hitler's Panzers. A jeep is also a nickname for a rookie.

Field Marshal Herman Goering's kin is Werner George Goering of the U. S. Army. Can't wait, he says, to drop a bomb on his relative. In our Army a private can prefer charges against a colonel, and if a corporal sees a captain conducting himself in a manner "unbecoming an officer and gentleman" he can have him put in the guard-house. The name for woolen underwear is "superman drawers."

When a private at Randolph Field comes to a non-com with a complaint he is handed a mourning-bordered card which says: "Your trials and tribulations have broken my heart. They are unique. I have never heard of anything like them before. As proof of my deepest sympathy, I give you this card which entitles you to one hour of condolence."

Fort Riley's newspaper, The Guidon, has an advice-to-the-lovelorn column. "Betty Lou" signs it. Betty Lou is the nom de plume for a pair of privates. For every fighting man in the Army there must be five other soldiers to feed, clothe and supply him. Unless a rookie is smart, he can be trapped into volunteering for unpopular chores. The big gag in the Army concerns the sgt. who approached a bunch of men at play and asked them if any were good at shorthand. A dozen newcomers, angling for soft snaps, eagerly stepped forward. "Fine," said the sarge, "report to the kitchen, we're short of K.P.s!" The phone number of the Negro Enlisted Men's Service Club at Camp Bowie is, oddly enough—711.

Army men always titter derisively when in the movies a sentry says: "Halt! Who Goes There?" The correct challenge is: "Halt! Who's There?" A letter from a girl is called "a sugar report". There's no favoritism in the Army. Even chaplains must undergo five weeks of training at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana.

Soldiers do not rate preferred treatment over civilians. They cannot buy shaving cream or toothpaste at their post exchanges without turning in a used tube. At Camp Davis the mimeographed directive given to men in the 96th Coast Artillery (for handling of the wire cable winch on army trucks) warns that the apparatus is "as temperamental as Greta Garbo, and treating it carelessly is like asking Lana Turner to scrub the kitchen floor". The men treat it with great affection and care.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Busby and baby of Bay City spent the week end in the home of Mrs. Busby's mother, Mrs. Rance Turner.

Dear Editor:

I will try to write again and let you know where I am. I am way out west in California now. I have moved since I last wrote you and like it better than I did back in Missouri. I would like for you to print this so my friends will know where I am. I'd like to say "hello" to them.

I like it out here fine for it is cool all the time. Some times it is too cool in fact.

I am still cooking and like it. They sure did scatter us Coryell county boys far and wide. Guess I am the only one here.

How is Camp Hood coming along? Have they got many boys out here? I hope they like it all right. Some of the boys here don't like Texas, but you can give me Texas any day and time. We got a job to do now and after it is over, I'm going to stay there a while. We got to whip the Yaps out of the Japs. Well, I guess that is about all.

CAMP HOOD'S

Men with the Colors!

638th T. D. Bn.
Camp Hood.
By P. F. C. E. R. Leonard

Last Saturday the battalion packed up and moved into Camp Hood. Every one seems to be very happy in their new homes now, although they found it a little hard to get used to at first. What, with such unfamiliar conveniences, electric lights, to read and write by, floors to live on instead of the ground, purified running water to shave and shower with regular and toilet, well lets don't get to far engrossed in the subject.

REALY SWANK: The battalion mechanics are going around with their noses high in the air now. Reason their garage is located on Park Avenue.

LIKE OLD TIMES: A few months ago several of our men were sent out on a cadre and were never expected to be seen again. But to our surprise the ever popular Teck Sgt. Bier's dropped in over the week end. He is attending the T. D. Officers School here. Glad to see you Sarg. It was "Like old times" again.

TO THE PEOPLE OF GATESVILLE: Now that the battalion has moved into Camp Hood properly we will probably be seeing less of Gatesville due to the added distance between us. It is here that we wish to express our deepest and most kindness appreciation shown us there. May we always be fortunate enough to be lo-

MISS McKELVY WILL BECOME BRIDE IN WEDNESDAY CEREMONY

Miss Evelyn McKelvy, daughter of J. C. McKelvy, will become the bride of Allyn Webster of Port Arthur, son of Mrs. Lottie Webster of Riverside, Conn., on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The ceremony will take place in the First Methodist Church with the Rev. E. L. Craig officiating.

Mrs. E. L. Craig will play several selections of nuptial music before and during the ceremony, and will accompany Miss Vivian McKelvy, sister of the bride, who will sing "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life" and "I Love You Truly." Miss McKelvy will be dressed in pink organdy.

The church will be decorated with a background of palms, arrangements of pink gladioli and Cathedral tapers in candelabra.

Paul McKelvy, brother of the bride, will be usher and Clyde Thompson will be best man.

The bride's only attendant will be her sister, Miss Lucile McKelvy. She will wear a yellow marquisette dress and will carry a bouquet of blue astors.

The bride, who will be given in marriage by her brother, Carl McKelvy, will wear a gown of Ivory lace which falls into a train. The gown has been in the groom's family for a number of years. The finger-tip length veil of illusion falls from a coronet of lilies-of-the-valley. Her bouquet will be of white asters showered with Stephanotis.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception will be held at home of the bride's father, for members of the family. The rooms will be decorated with asters.

The bride's traveling suit will be black alpaca with touches of white with which she will wear black accessories and her corsage will be of white asters.

The couple will make their home at 3912 Lakeshore Drive, Port Arthur.

The bride is a graduate of Texas University. Mr. Webster attended the University of Texas and was graduated from Lamar College at Beaumont. He is connected with the Gulf Oil Company in Port Arthur.

Among the out-of-town guests for the wedding will be Mrs. Lottie Webster and Dickie Jenner, both of Riverside, Connecticut.

Mrs. McCarley is Honor
Guest at Shower Thursday

Mrs. Merle Carroll, assisted by Mrs. Thedra Mounce Jones and Miss Gladys Marriott, entertained at her home on South 7th Street Thursday afternoon with a "honey moon shower" for Miss Wilfred McCarley, who before her recent marriage was Miss Kathryn Ward.

Miss Minnie Dell Crier of Pasadena, a cousin of the bride, presided at the bride's book. Mrs. Ola Mae Parks played selections as a prelude and Mrs. A. W. Ellis sang numbers, including "I Love You Truly."

Mrs. Ellis also read poems pertaining to suggestions for the bride; each person gave their favorite recipe and suggestions, which were made into a book and recipe box and presented to the bride by Mrs. Carroll. The honoree was then presented with a mirror on to which was tied a large red heart. The inscription she read through the mirror told her of the arrival of Billy Carroll, dressed as a sergeant, carrying a bag of gifts.

Misses Minnie Dell Crier, Grace Weigand and Mildred Kirkpatrick assisted the hostess in serving ice cream and cake to a large group of friends.

Fall Garden Planning and Planting

According to J. F. Rosborough, extension horticulturist, who has made some recent recommendations for fall gardens in this part of Texas now is the time to do some planting of Irish potatoes, Louisiana collards, straight 8 and Stay's green cucumbers, Los Angeles and New York lettuce, Copenhagen market cabbage plants, and Wongbok Chinese cabbage plants. The second week in September is not too late to wait and plant spinach, beets, carrots and refugee green beans because they need cooler weather to grow better.

For each person sharing in the garden allow the following space: 18-20 feet of row for bush beans; 12 feet of rows each of onions, raddishes, squash, beets; 25 feet of row each of turnips, lettuce; 18 feet of row of carrots; 8 feet of row of cucumbers; 25 cabbage plants per person.

In planting mustard, radishes and green seed open up the row with the hoe, plant the seed, and pack the soil particles hard, even to walking down the row to tramp the earth solidly around them so they will have as much moisture packed around them as possible.

What About Treating Seed?

To prevent "die-back" which affects peas and beans dissolve a bichloride of mercury tablet in a quart of warm water, immerse the seed in it for 15 minutes, then plant them.

For complete fall garden information consult Bulletin Fall Gardens.

NEW COTTON RULING BY TRIPLE A OF INTEREST HERE

Cotton farmers who have overplanted their allotments by not more than three acres or three per cent, whichever is the larger, will not be considered as "knowingly overplanted" and may be eligible to receive a part of their conservation payments but they will be subject to conservation penalties, B. F. Vance, state AAA administrative officer, has announced.

Conservation penalty rates, Vance explained, are ten times the payment rate and if the three acre overplanting is ten per cent or more of the allotment, the penalty will wipe out the payment.

As an example, if the allotment is 30 acres and the farmer plants 35 acres, the penalty on the three acres will wipe out the payment on the 30 acres.

This provision, Vance explained further, in no way affects marketing quota regulations and the farmer will receive a red card if he overplants his allotment and will be subject to a marketing quota penalty if he sells cotton in excess of his farm marketing quota.

However, he concluded, farmers whose overplantings do not exceed three acres or three per cent, whichever is the larger, will be eligible for government loans.

Time is just a fugitin' right along, but I see where our statesmen (?) think a first class war is somethin' to be got around to after the 'lection is over. I don't know if they think Hitler and Tojo will wait till November or whether they don't give adampsite about it, but they ain't no thing like a war a gain' to interfere with polyticks. What we ought to do is run 'em through a dippin' vat villed with Red, White and Blue disinfectant, I'm a tellin' you. If we lose this war they can't run fer office any more, all they can do then is jest run.

I had a date last Sunday with a soldier boy from Brooks Field. I had to decorate him fer too much gallantry in action.

Uncle Mort came in a Tuesday fer a short visjt. I don't have any idea when he'll leave. He's been out to Alcatraz to visit with the folks.

Uncle Mort told Uncle Toke he was a goin' to take his wife to the doctor 'cause she didn't look so good. Uncle Toke said, "That's a dampfine iree, I'll take mine along too, sh can't so hat herself."

Uncle Mort has four kids, but she says he ain't a goin' to have no more 'cause he read somewhere that every fifth kid borned is a Chinaman.

Uncle Mort has been out of work so long he expects compensation to set in soon.

ALEXANDER KORDA presents
MERLE OBERON in Over the Moon

SYNOPSIS
Jane Benson, a charming English girl who wants very much to exchange the dismal country life for gayety and a glittering existence, is about to marry Freddie Jarvis, a young country doctor, when she receives word that she is the heir to eighteen million pounds. Freddie checks her exuberance by telling her the money has made a difference — that it would ruin his ambition, and their life together. She pleads with him for a trial, and they go to London for a trousseau. She buys him a clinic as well. Freddie, realizing that he could not fit in the life she wants, breaks the engagement. Jane, now 'chaperoned' by several oncedistant cousins, prepares for a whirl through Europe.

Chapter Three
Jane's party, for purposes of whatever social regularity remained, was held under the ever-smart aegis of Lord Pettcliffe, who had a small mustache and whose evening obligations, as he put it, simply wore him to a positive shadow.
By this time, too, Julie and Lady Parsmill had rushed into the arena with prospective grooms for Jane and her money. For Julie's sake, there was Marquis Pietro de Altamira, quite Latin and very smooth of tongue. For Millie, the entrant was a dim-witted personage, none other than Lord Guy Carstairs, whose mental possibilities, such as they were,

"By George," exclaimed Freddie. "What a ward! All this light and air — it must work miracles." The women were smiling at him, recognizing the Jilter of the Glitter Girl. "I suppose these are your less serious cases," Freddie said. "Average, my dear fellow, average," Beranger replied airily. "You know our motto here is gayety — up with the spirits — and down with the temperature, what?" "Well, it seems to be successful. One would hardly imagine there was anything the matter with them at all."
"No, one wouldn't, would one?" A pretty blond thing floated up to them. "Ah, Miss Fortescue," Beranger smiled, "may I present Dr. Jarvis — Miss Fortescue."
"Oh, Doctor, I'm so glad you're here!" she began. "Can you do something about my weight? I've gained five pounds in three days!"
"Why, that's splendid!"
"Splendid? Dr. Beranger, what does he mean?"
"That's all right, my dear," Beranger smiled. "Come along, my dear fellow, and I'll show you the rest. Here. This is another room. You must meet our Dispenser, Dr. Jarvis," Beranger said, indicating a red-faced man behind what seemed to be a bar, "this is Carruthers."
"Glad to know you, Doc," offered Carruthers.
"Max, I think you might mix a couple of Z-ray specials," Beranger said, "in honor of Dr. Jarvis' arrival." He turned to Freddie, and went on. "You know, he's quite a genius in his own line. You can search London, Paris, New York, Palm Beach or Monte Carlo, and you won't find his were very much in the shadow of his title. He did have that, and one could ever take it away. It would have broken him.

Each in his own way, Pietro and Guy made love to Jane, danced with her, made love while doing that. She was riotously gay, drinking of their affection, their attentions. And Julie and Millie, whose scrutiny did not once lift, seemed to be getting on each other's nerves. Always most politely, of course.

When the party was over, they both accompanied her to her apartment, and left in the confusion. Jane had had a slight surfeit of champagne. It was four in the morning, and she told her maid to wake her at eight, in time to catch the Blue Train to Monte Carlo...

There was a moment of confusion when Jane came to her compartment on the train. A young man, rather good looking, had taken it by mistake. Julie and Millie promptly set the stage for heroics, rushed in their entrants and heard Jane say to the assembled group of worriers: "But we was a perfectly harmless young man. He was much more frightened than I." Her protests were unavailing. They were so worried...

And in his own compartment, the unknown young man who had caused the confusion lay awake, his eyes open, thinking to the clicking rhythm of the train wheels:
"Who can she be? Who can she be? Who can she be?"

Dr. Beranger's agent had done well — well enough to make Freddie proud. He arrived at the "clinic" late, and met Dr. Beranger the next morning. "I'm awfully lucky to get this appointment," Freddie said to him. "It's just the job I've always wanted."
"And you're just the man to do it, I know."
"I'll do my best."
"Come along, my dear chap, and I'll show you around." He led Freddie out of the office, into a beautifully decorated lounge, replete with lovely, ski-suited ladies.

equal. The Ritz just simply offered me oodles of money to sell, but I couldn't part with him." Carruthers arrived with the drinks. "Well," Beranger smiled, "here it is — over she goes! * * * Not a bad prescription, eh?"
"No, it's a wonderful thing — medical science!" said Freddie.

Millie, in her own way, was impressing Guy with the fact that he would owe her twenty per cent of Jane's eighteen million pounds. He balked. She threatened, to leave him on his own. He agreed.

"You seem to forget who I am," he whimpered.
And in her room, Jane was talking to Freddie — Freddie in a picture frame.

"Idiot!" she said to him. "So you don't like me, eh? Well, that goes to show what bad taste you've got. On the other hand, you're not bad looking — considering you haven't one decent feature in your face. Come here!" She took up the photograph, speaking sternly.

"Take a look at yourself...dull, smug, pampered. You talk to me as if I were a dog. Of course, you adore dogs, but still you never once notice if I do my hair in a different way. But if I have the tiniest little spot you say, 'Hello, how did you get that dreadful boil?' In fact, I'm not your kind of a girl. But unfortunately — you are my kind of a man. All the same, don't run away with the idea that you're the only pebble on the beach. I've met scores of men since you walked off in sulks. All much better-looking and much nicer than you, you pig-headed idiot! Two of them are waiting for me now. I've only got to raise my little finger and I could marry tomorrow. And it would serve you jolly well right if I did, you bad-tempered, obstinate, ill-mannered brute! Why, I could punch you right in the —"

It was Julie and Millie, breaking in with a flurry of small talk, and they were off to the Dixie Club.
"Hurry up, dear," said Julie.
"And don't forget your bag."
