HERE'S MOST OF THE BOYS ON SCOUT HIKE

We can't call 'em boy for boy and name for name, but here are the Scouts, all but a very few, who made the recent trek to Carlbad, New Mexico, via bus. They were "good-will" agents for the people of Coryell county and Gatesville, and as was written by

W. J. Knox, Jr., special correspondent for the News on this trip they were treated royally in nearly every place they stopped. It was a nice gesture on the part of the many towns in which they visited. Sorry all the boys are not in this picture, coppics of which may be had at Doughty's.

Black River, August 14, 1946: 9:30, by W. J. Knox Jr.

Today we drove almost all of the time, only stopping to eat.

We camped in Ft. Stockton tonight and were entertained by the scouts there.

Last night at our Council Fire a former scout gave us a talk and ended it with giving us $10.00 for refreshments.

Early this morning about 2:00 it started raining and we slept in the two busses.

Brady, Aug. 15, 1946, 9:30 by W. J. Knox, Jr.

We arose early this morning, ate breakfast and then hit the trail. We had a cool pleasant drive to Big Lake where we stopped for lunch.

Then, we had a rather hot and tiresome drive to Brady where we are camping tonight.

Today, many of the Scouts and Cubs advanced in rank and we had so many passing tests we couldn't keep the records straight Gatesville, Aug. 16, 1946, 6:30 a.m. by W. J. Knox, Jr.

This morning the bugle was not blown and we were allowed to sleep as long as we wished but we were all up by 7 and in the river for our morning dip.

We ate our breakfast, washed dishes, cleaned up camp, and then piled in the bus and headed for home. We had a very impatient drive to Lampasas where we ate for we all wanted to get home.

For many, this was our first time to be away from home this long. We stayed in Lampasas for 2 hours and then headed home. From the top of Leon Hill we saw the courthouse and what a shout of joy sprang from the boys in the two busses. We reached the city limits at 5:35 drove around the square twice tooting the horn blowing our whistles and shouting as loud as possible.

We went to the Scout House where we found many parents gathered to welcome us home. We sprang out of the bus and rushed for the water faucet from which we thought when we drank it was the best water in Texas.

We unloaded the bus and then went home.

Many articles such as knives hatchets, books, swim suits, canteens, mess kits first-aid kits and bits of clothing were left at the Scout House in our haste to get home so if you have lost anything, please go to the Scout House and pick them up. The key may be obtained from our Scoutmaster.

Last, but far from least in importance, we, the Scouts want to thank the parents and business men of Gatesville for helping us put over this hike. We want to thank the school for the use of one bus and the mothers for paying for the other bus. We also wish to thank Mr. Bradley for going with us, as general supervisor and also our bus driver who stuck with us so faithful.

And, now, as our hike is over, we pray that God will bless everyone who helped in any way to make this our annual hike a success.

GATESVILLE TO CARLSBAD AND RETURN

Black River, Aug. 14, 1946, (BSA) 9:30 This is the day! Yes, today we arose at 6:30, had a nice breakfast and then took off for Carlsbad Cavern.

We reached the Cavern at 9:30 and after a few minutes of introduction and registration we descended into the cavern.

Some of the boys were really disappointed. They had seen so many colored post cards they began to believe the cavern was different colors like the cards.

First, we came to the bat cave, which is only a little way down, and then came the auditorium where our Ranger gave us an interesting talk. Later, we began coming to the beautiful parts, first the Green Lake Room, the lake looking only about two feet deep was eight feet. Then, the King's Palace, which is a large room with a throne of stalagmites.

After that, came the Queen's Chamber and the Papoose Room. They were both beautiful.

At 12:30 we reached the Dining Room and ate the dinner. The room is a large one with tables and counters and stands and they sell a complete lunch for 50c.

After that, we continued our journey to the big room and after a long cool journey, we retraced our way back, and Oh, By, was the light bright. It almost blinded us when we reached the top at 4:30.

Tonight, we camped on Black River. We didn't blow the bugle for all fell asleep.

We all got the nice letters the mothers set, and we were happy, but it's still a mystery how they knew our addresses.

Texans 'n Washington

By L. T. (TEX) EASLEY
AP Special Washington Service

AP Special Washington Service
WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 (AP)—The retirement pay plan, included in the new legislative reorganization act, is hailed by its sponsors as a means of making congressmen more independent of outside pressure and influences because of a realization that they will have a steady income late in life if and when they may be replaced by the voters.

The reorganization act also boosts the pay of congressmen $2,500 a year, and adds a $2,500 annual expense account for each congressman.

Congressmen participate in the cost of the pension program by contributing 6 percent of their salaries. They must serve in the Congress at least six years — three terms in the House or one term in the Senate — and be at least 62 years of age.

While the contribution is expected eventually to put the program on a self-sustaining basis financially, for probably 20 years the congressmen who become eligible for pensions or life annuities — which vary in size with the length of service — will receive a relatively larger share of benefits.

Computing the contributions and benefits on the basis of the $10,000 salary they have been receiving, a congressman who has served more for 10 years could pay in $2,674 the minimum contribution under alternative participating plans) and immediately receive $2,313 for life, assuming he were 62 years old. The alternative program is offered incentives to initiate the retirement plan on an equitable basis.

Seven Texas congressmen have served an average of almost 10 years each, and thus could assure themselves of a $2,313 a year income upon reaching 62 by paying in $2,674. Or under the alternative program, they could pay in $5,026 and would receive $2,500 yearly after 62. Of course, the longer they stay in Congress and the more they pay in on the program — paying 6 percent of the new $12,500 salary, the more life annuity they would receive. The seven are Reps. Berkworth of Galveston, Ed Gosett of Wichita Falls, Paul Kilday of San Antonio, Albert Thomas of Houston, W. R. Poage of Waco, Lyndon Johnson of Austin, and George Mahon of Colorado City.

Retiring Rep. Sam Russell of Stephenville, who has been here the required minimum of 6 years, can pay in $2,674 and upon reaching 62 receive $1,892 yearly for life. Or he can pay in $4,030 and receive $2,000 yearly after 62. Rep. Hatton W. Sumners of Dallas, retiring after 34 years in the House, can pay in $2,674 and immediately upon conclusion of this, his last term, begin receiving $6,300 for life. Or he can pay in $14,747 under the alternative program and receive $7,500 for life.

The reorganization bill provides for an increase from $15,000 to $20,000 in the salary of the Speaker. Thus Bonham's congressman Sam Rayburn could, by contributing a relatively greater share, draw a higher annuity than any living member.

Public Good

Freedom of the press has been talked about more in the last few months than in the previous few years. Comment began when the Supreme Court ruled in favor of an editor who had been hailed into court by a notable who felt (perhaps justifiably) injured by something the editor had published. Not everybody thought the case would turn out as it did. Many were surprised.

I would not wish to review the case here, even if there were room for it, but I am glad the Supreme Court surprised a lot of good people and set them studying and talking about this purely American liberty, freedom of the press. Let me say this: You don't publish stories in the old country that hurt the feelings of potentates and get away with it!

America Is Different

In this country, it is assumed that a man is not fit for public office unless he can take all the razzing and criticism that goes with it and still hold his temper and do a good job. Think how long a crooked official might stay in office if he could protect himself from criticism all the time, and yet encourage newspapers to magnify the faults of other men who ran for his office.

Editors better not get careless and publish uncomplimentary statements about their neighbors, or about things their neighbors have to sell; courts make them pay for the damage, if any. Editors dare not get mean and print malicious lies about people because courts send writers to jail for that. Publishers can't do whatever they please. That's apart from freedom of the press.

For the Public Good

It is recognized by law in the United States that the people are entitled to know what goes on. Public information is for the public good. In line with this very principle, the Post Office Department will move 60 times more news tonnage for the money than letters which are private, not public. Our government considers spreading news an important public service.

If a publisher makes known things that are true and in the people's interest, it is for the public good and he has the protection of law. When the keen lash of publicity strikes the corrupt deeds of public payrollers, let the hit dog yelp. The press is a vocation of "checks and balances." Publishers have power they don't have to use, but if they use it they must use it for the public good.

A Parallel Case

Some day, I believe, these same checks and balances will control the enormous powers of labor unions which have done more to improve the living standards of the American people than any other organized movement. They have enhanced American freedom. The right of collective bargaining is as sacred as the right to vote, but some labor leaders have been known to abuse their power.

In a republic, power is abused when it is used destructively, in a manner that injures, rather than benefits, the public. The famous Case Bill is dead with all its miscellaneous regulations for labor unions. Many conservative thinkers will concede that it will be better if the unions regulate themselves for the public good, rather than having it done by law. Industrial peace must be achieved. Reform is inevitable. The workers can do it better than some bureau.

GI SCHOOLS MAKE PROGRESS IN EUROPE

The Army's Education Program for troops in the European and Mediterranean Theaters of Operation supervised and coordinated by the Information and Education Division, headed by Brigadier General Paul M. Thompson, former Commandant of the Assault Training Center in England, is now well under way.

The first University Center, Florence, Italy, opened July 8 with 4,000 students. The second, at Shrivenham, England, opened August 1 with an equal number. The third opens at Biarritz, France, August 20.

The overall program includes study and practical training in hundreds of unit schools operated by and within battalions and similar military units; study in civilian educational institutions; study in special university centers; training in centralized technical schools; and correspondence study through the United States Armed Forces Institute.

Some of the courses now being offered in the unit schools include: auto mechanics, small business subjects, basic mathematics, English grammar, bookkeeping and accounting, livestock production and electricity for beginners.

Enrollment in the posthostilities education program will not delay by one minute the return of any personnel to the United States.

WALTER WANGER presents Eternally Yours starring LORETTA YOUNG • DAVID NIVEN

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: Anita Peabody, flitting colorless Don Barnes for a vaudeville life with Tony Halstead, a society magician, years for a quiet country life. When Tony shrugs her off, she leaves him. He follows, only to learn that she has divorced him, and marries Don. Despondent at first, Tony goes back to his work. Anita accidentally arrives on her wedding night, and they meet. Tony bats her. When she and Don go home, she insists on remaining an "unkissed bride".

Chapter Five

Tony's arrival at Bingham's Adirondack lodge was a complete surprise to Anita, and brought Don to the point of fury, but Anita decided not to leave. "We can't give him the satisfaction of driving us out of here!" she exclaimed. Since the sun was shining brightly on the snow-piled hills, Mr. Bingham remarked upon Tony's poor weather forecast. Mrs. Bingham was ecstatic, as only a "sensitive" could be.

Anita was watching Tony, and he knew it, but that didn't prevent Tony from promptly getting Lola very drunk at dinner, and in fact causing her to retire to the library. Tony worked fast, and according to plan. Very shortly after he had propped Lola in a library ed on the frozen lake. Don Barnes recuperated. And Anita talked to Tony first, asked to speak with him alone. He took her to a small ice-boat, and they lay down, close to each other, and were off. She could not wait to speak, and didn't. "Tony, it's a pretty cheap way to get revenge! Bringing Lola up here!"

"Why, Moms?"

"Moms? Never mind that! I know all about Lola and the Connecticut house."

Tony was delighted at her admission of jealousy. "Did she tell you?" he asked. "You know, she was only there once."

"It doesn't make any difference." "Now wait a minute!" Tony interjected.

"You've had your say!" she suddenly exclaimed. "Now let me have mine! I divorced you to give you your freedom — and for no other reason. And you've found happiness with Lola. Please, Tony, stop persecuting me — let me have my chance."

"I haven't been persecuting you. I know it must have seemed that way — but I was clumsily fighting for happiness. Lola doesn't mean a thing to me — the only reason I brought her up here was to try and find out if you still cared..."

She laughed harshly. "You think I'm lying," he said, with bitterness.

"I know it!"

Tony suddenly skidded the boat into a cove, frantic with the sense

She tried to smile. "Too bad, wasn't it, Tony?"

chair, he commented to Mrs. Bingham that it was too bad he could not entertain, since he had no assistant. Mrs. Bingham agreed.

A bit later, and with the delight that joins a brilliant idea, Tony suggested that Mrs. Barnes would be a fine substitute, since she had worked for him before. And Anita was caught.

Tony's special stunt for the evening involved hypnosis and the idea of post-suggestion, whereby the one hypnotized obeys commands given in the trance only after the trance is broken — and then only if the subject is willing. When Anita was hypnotized, Mr. Vanderpool asked for a few bars of "Yankee Doodle". Mr. Bingham asked for a lit cigarette; Mrs. Bingham, for a rose from a nearby vase. Tony asked for a kiss.

The stunt worked perfectly. Don and Anita made a bit of fuss, to be sure, but Tony beamed. He knew just a bit more. And when Mrs. Bingham brought up the problem created by the one unmarried couple — Tony and Lola — because there were twelve people and but six bedrooms, Tony knew even more. He was about to speak, when Anita interrupted.

"I have an idea, why don't the gentleman double up and we girls do the same?"

"The very suggestion I was going to make!" Tony smilingly exclaimed. "But Mrs. Barnes and Lola can sleep together and I can share Mr. Barnes' room. Then you married folks won't be inconvenienced at all!"

Anita agreed very heartily, which Tony noticed, and Don almost drew blood when he bit his lip.

When they had arrived at their room, Tony and Don entered into a slight altercation. Jiu-jitsu seemed to have several points over brute strength, and Don suffered considerably. He did, in fact, rather badly wrench his arm. While Don could only groan at the thought of his consistently delayed honeymoon, Tony came to his rescue by promising to blame it on a slippery rug...

The next morning was cold and clear, a brilliant day. Bingham's weekend guests skated on ice-boat-of failure, of being unable to reach her. "I spoke to Don last night," he said quietly. "I told him I thought you still loved me."

Anita's voice caught, as if in a sob. "What did he say?"

"He was sure you didn't."

There was a pause. "It's right, Tony," she blurted.

"I'm sorry, Moms. But — why did you run away?"

"I couldn't stand it any longer! I knew you wouldn't change!"

"But I did change. After you left — I found I couldn't go on — without you..." He pulled himself up. "Get in. I'll take you back."

Anita struggled with herself, struggled with an impulse to take him in her arms. Then they got in, and drifted off. The tears welled in her eyes, and Tony saw them. He handed her a handkerchief.

"Pops!" Her voice was small, almost broken.

"Pops?" he said incredulously. She tried to smile. "Too bad, wasn't it?"

"For me."

"For me, too."

This was more than he could bear, and he crushed her in his arms, kissing her hungrily, laughing hysterically.

"Where have you been... Moms? Moms... Moms!" He kissed her again, and was full of elation. "It's wonderful — isn't it?"

"Wonderful, but it can never be! We're — married..."

"You left me!"

"That was different. And he needs me. You don't."

"I don't?"

"No, Tony, you don't. You don't need anyone," she said. "You live in a world by yourself. No one's really a part of it. Even I wasn't."

"I couldn't change your mind — no matter what?"

"No matter what."

"I could tell Don."

"But you won't." She put her hand over his. Then they landed, and as they walked behind the deserted boathouse, she drew him quickly to her and kissed him passionately.

"Goodbye, Pops."

"Goodbye, Moms." He watched her run off in the snow.

CLIFF-DWELLING JAPS BLASTED BY NEW CWS FLAME-THROWER—When the Japs took to the cliffs on Okinawa and evaded assault by American heavy artillery and naval shells, the Chemical Warfare Service found the way to rout them out of the caves in the cliffs. Coupling 500 feet of hose, chemical officers designed the "hose-line" flamethrower. The hose-line is connected to the flame-thrower mounted on a tank and fed in the usual manner—by compressed air. This is a demonstration test at Hawaii. It was highly successful against the Japs on Okinawa.
