Foes Of Bill To Ban Strap Stave Off Final Vote

AUSTIN, May 28. (AP)—House
opponents of a senate bill to abolish corporal punishment at state correctional institutions for juveniles succeeded today in staving off a final vote until Wednesday of next week. The vote to postpone consideration was 62 to 55.

This was the second time in two weeks that a final house decision on the measure was avoided. By Sen. Floyd Harris of Dallas, the measure has already passed the enate.

Two hours debate brought angry statements from both opponents and opponents, Rep. Ph.
Willis of Kaufman describing the people of Gatesville as a "bunch of durn fools" for opposing the measure, and Rep. Sid Gregory of Gatesville shouting a denial that inmates of the boys institution in his city had been struck with fists or whipped until they bled.

Rep. Dallas Blankenship, house sponsor of the bill, said that people had come down from Gatesville and admitted at the committee hearing that 12, 13, and 14-year-old boys were being whipped.
"And what I mean, they (the guards) were whipping them with anything they could reach, and they were hitting them with their fists," Blankenship declared.

Answering Rep. John Crosthwait's statement that evidence had been presented to the house committee which heard the bill indicating that the boys in the Gatesville school had been struck and whipped, Gregory emphatically told the house:

"Nobody hit anybody with their fists. Nobody whipped anyone until they bled."

Willis said he had heard more untruths about the Harris bill than about any other bill introduced this session.

"I would say that there are worse conditions in institutions
other than the one at Gatesville," said Willis, who was a member of the eleemosynary investigating committee which inspected state institutions earlier in the year.

"But the people of Gatesville brought this on themselves by coming down here like a bunch of durn fools and acting as a cheering section for speaker they never heard before."

He said he had received letters from several Gatesville citizens who favored the abolition of corporal punishment after listening to the evidence presented at the public hearing several weeks ago.

"I've also had letters from two employees of the institution at Gatesville saying 'won't you, for God's sake, please come back up here and do something about the situation? Conditions are worse than ever. They gave a boy 25 licks and kicked his teeth in.'"

Gregory noted that Willis had said anyone who accused him (Willis) of exaggerating about conditions at Gatesville was a "damn liar."

"If that's the case, I'm a damn liar," Gregory continued. He said that charges of brutality had been eraggerated throughout debate of the bill.

A direct attempt to kill the bill failed, 52 to 59, but the motion to postpone was successful, indicating the possibility that opponents may be able to tall the bill until the end of the session.

Proponents of the bill said the chief purpose of some house
members in stalling on the Harris

Soil Conservation Payments Stopped For Farmers

The County ACA Office was notified this week by Mr. B. F.
Vance, State Director of the Production and Marketing Administration, to discontinue issuing priapprovals to farmers desiring to carry out conservation practices
for payment under the Agriculcording to Clois D. Stone, Admin-

a result of the proposed Congres-

Stone further stated.

Bill 121 Again Postponed 'til Next Wednesday

Representative Sid Gregory,
Jr., phoned late Wednesday that Bill 121, the "corporal punishment bill" had been postponed in the House until next Wednesday by a vote of approximately 62-58.

During the 3-hour debate
on the bill, Representative Gregory made a motion to have the bill tabled, and lost by 4 votes 56-52 with many members of the House not voting.

After consideration in the House, it again goes to the Senate, and might be considered on it's death-bed now.

It's possible the Legislature will adjourn by Tuesday, as there is said to be only one more piece of "must" legislation on the calendar.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 4

Proposing an amendment to Article VII of the Constitution of the State of Texas by the addition of two new sections to be known as Sections 17 and 18, providing a special fund for the payment of Confederate pensions and providing a method of payment for the construction and equipment of buildings and other improvements at state institutions of higher learning; providing for a five-cent reduction in the maximum allowable state tax on property; providing for an election and the issuance of a proclamation therefor.

bring into this country hundreds of thousands of refugees from the DP camps of Europe. It is supported by many well meaning and humanitarian organizations that do not know what they are doing. We maintain 299 DP camps in our occupied zone of Europe. Of the 800,000 persons we are feeding in these camps, only 200,000 were displaced persons when the war ended. While there are many good people in these camps, there are also vast hords of bums, criminals, and political conspirators of all hues who simply move into these camps to get us to feed them. We should put them to work. I have deep sympathy for the real displaced persons, but they would surely not object to work, and the deadbeats should be forced to work. Instead of lowering the immigration barriers, we must, to protect ourselves from a flood of communists, raise them.

With best wishes, I am,
Your Friend,

pay to ship them. For relief purposes, it is actually cheaper to buy wheat at $3.00 per bushel than to ship these potatoes without charge for the potatoes. That is because of the spoilage and the cost of refrigeration. Therefore, next time you hear someone say that these potatoes should be made into starch or alcohol etc., suggest to him that if he believes it can be done profitably, that he better take a few car loads and try it himself.

Under the law passes by Congress last year, all persons lobbying in Washington are required to register with the Congress and file quarterly reports. Reports filed in Congress last week show that organized labor maintains the largest lobby, with 75 paid workers on the rolls. Incidentally the next largest lobby is the so-called DB (displaced persons) lobby. Millions of dollars are now being spent by numerous organizations and individuals on propoganda to break down our immigration walls. This Displac-showed pictures of potatoes being dumped in Alabama. These pictures have given many people the idea that we are destroying potatoes rather than allow them to be used for relief. I have taken the trouble to get the facts on these potatoes. I find that these are all off-grade potatoes; that the Department of Agriculture has tried to sell or give away these potatoes to anyone who would use them for relief or for industrial purposes. Just today the Department of Agriculture told me that any citizen of the United States could buy potatoes similar to the ones destroyed in Alabama for a token price of $5 per carload FOB if he will but give assurance that they will be used for the production of alcohol or starch. If he wants to export them, he can have them for 4c per hundred pounds. And if he is going to use them for relief, or for charity he can have them absolutely free. In spite of this, no one would take the potatoes in Alabama. It simply would not

TEEN TALK:

DEAR JUDY:

SHADES of John Silver!!! What will teen-agers think of next? Their newest and dizziest fad is copied from the ancient pirate custom of piercing one ear.

Dorothy Cahill, of Arcadia, Calif., writes that it all started when her brother came home from the Navy with a pierced ear from which dangled a gold anchor.

It seems Dorothy and her 18-year-old boy friend decided that they would pierce their left ears and wear a gold heart in them "sort of as a symbol of going steady."

Now the fad is catching on like wild fire, says Dottoe, and teenage boys are piercing their ears and wearing tiny birth-stones, gold hoops or charms—or anything "appropriate to themselves"

To show off their new better, the girls keep their hair pinned back from the earring ear. The boys who wear earrings claim that nobody "gives them a second glance."

The kids here have given the brooch (brushoff) to the pierced ear idea. As one of the kids says, "it's awful tough trying to be pretty as it is—why sopol anything you don't have to?"

Lots of the heps are getting set for their summer vacations. The American Youth Hotels report that more than 15,000 young people will plan inexpensive cyclinb and hikiny vacations through the United States, Canada and Mexico and Europe this year.

This summer, the AYH reports, it hopes to sponsor its first trip to the Soviet Union, and will take its first group of hostlers to Germany since 1939. Though the trips are open to anyone over 17, of the 200 hostlers expected to go, preference is being given to persons with hosteling and work experience and to those who can speak the language of the country they wish to visit.

There also will be a Rolling Youth Hostel, a railroad car, equipped with bunks, separate washrooms and cooking facilities. Trips to Alaska, Mexico, the Gaspe Peninsula, Montreal and uebec are also being planned and all the trips will be under the supervision of adults who have completed a special training course for youth hostel leaders.

Cycling can be tons of fun. It isn't necessary to take one of the larger trips. There are groups organized fo a few days or a month depending on how much time you'd like to devote to it.

Speaking of bicycles, another trick of the solid senders is to paste pihures of their boy-friends on the fenders of their bicycles.

Campus Chatter: At last a gal got a crown for having a few brainworks. Bergen College presented Eva Schmitt of Ridgewood, N. J., with a "Miss I. Q." crown. But the new queen, we are told, rated tops in figure and face also. Whoo sez beauties are dumb?

Fall Crop of Women's Clothes Blossom In Dallas In May

By Martha Cole Associated Press Staff

What a lot of Texas women will wear to football games this fall was being decided in Dallas in

May. Over a thousand buyers from shops in some 150 towns and cities of Texas sat down at tables in air-conditioned room and looked over the fall crop of 650 manufacturing lines.

How do you decide in May what a woman will buy in October? How do you decide what a woman will buy, period, was a better question.

Henry Leeman of Giddings, who's been buying women's clothes since 1903, knew his answer—"I just pick from the styles they're showing."

The joker who's responsible for the style of women's clothes was as elusive as a loosed coyote. Designers in New York, Chicago, California or even Dallas decide what the style will be from what the women want. It all goes back to the woman, who can't find a thing fit to wear."

NO startling innovations appeared in the fall showin' of the American Fashion Association in Dallas May 18-23.

Skirts were longer and fuller but the "just above the ankle" swish of Paris wasn't for Texas just yet.

"They're getting very long in Paris," said Mrs. Achilles Ooranges, whose husband owns a dress shop in Mineral Wells and who had just returned from fall showings in New York, "and that means it'll hit us sooner or later."

Right now, for October, they were hitting midway of the calf, about two inches longer than last year's.

Gray was the favored color for fall. Coats had a new swiny in the back and jackets to suits were longer.

The "looks" were important. Dresses for young women had that "overblouse looks." Skirts were pleated, but not necessarily all around to avoid that "hippy look." Hats had the "dramatic and romantic look."

And on chapeaux, T. T. Sturges had his own formula for selecting hats for a store in Pittsburg, Texas. "Just about the funniest one is what a woman will buy."

"But, seriously," he added "I buy only the popular ones, what I think the women in Pittsburg want."

(To the men who moan over the monstrosities women put on their heads—Sturges was only one of many men selecting hats for your wife to buy.)

Women buyers held only a slight majority over the men. They were all a friendly but dead serious lot. They wrote intently on an order blank when something appealed to them and tapped their pencils on the table impatiently when they thought what was being shown would be a "lemon"

The latest "lemons", or garments that wouldn't sell, Sturges said, were the extreme fashions like frocktail suits and hobble skirts.

"This is not the highest fashion," said one salesman with a tandard gabasidine chesterfield coat, "but it's one you'll sell most of."

The sample rooms took the major portion of 11 floors of the Baker and Adolphus hotels. Exhibitions were given 20 classifications, including baby clothes, piec goods, purses and costume jewelry.

Early Construction Start Due On REA's Leon Power Plant

Title to the necessary land has been cleared, and turbo-generators have been purchased for the $1,500,000 REA generating plant on the Leon river, Cong. W. R. Poage told the Telegram Saturday.

It is expected that with these two major items cleared, start of construction on the plant will come in the near future.

Located at the point where Highway 81 crosses the Leon—just south of the highway and east of the river—the new plant will both generate electric power and 'boost' the flow of power through the Brazos River Transmission cooperative lines to REA systems in the Central Texas area. Net result will be to increase the amount of power available in the area, and distribute it more effectively.

Farm Land Boom
May Be At Peak

By George Tucker
Associated Press Staff Writer
NEW YORK, N. Y.—(AP)—Farm and sales have slackened almost everywhere, bringing predictions of an end of a boom in progress since 1939.

President Truman has asked Secretary of Agriculture Anderson to call a conference of Government agencies and farm organizations on June 9 to develop a program for "discouraging further inflation in farm real estate prices."

Farm land prices are now 92% higher than in 1939. The first World War brought a rise of only 70% from the 1912-14 average to 1920.

Actual prices, however, are now still 6.5% lower than in 1920, because the 1939 level was below the 1912-14 average.

Recent surveys disclose that buyers have become increasingly reluctant to pay asking prices.

The tobacco states have shown the greatest inflationary trend. Kentucky farm lands are offered at 147% above normal, highest in the nation. Massachusetts, up 28 points is the lowest.

Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina and South Carolina prices all range between 123 and 137% above 1939 levels. Pacific coast states average increases of 98%, and Midwest prices are up 63%.

"While current farm land prices are higher, continuing the trend since 1940, there are indications that the peak is being reached," the American Bankers Association reported.

However, a major difference between the situation now and after the first World War is the continued high demand and price for farm products. Farmers in March of this year received the highest prices in history. Simultaneously prices they paid for labor and equipment reached an all-time peak.

What makes the picture appear wholesome to investment and lending organizations, despite inflationary prices, is the continued downward trend in farm mortgages. In January, 1947, the farm mortgage debt in America stood at roughly half of what it was after World War I.

Tropical Fruit Grows in Texas

By Jack Rutledge
Associated Press Staff

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., May 28. Tropical fruit can be grown in South Texas, an 800-acre experiment is proving.

Its backers hope to bring delicate, hard-to-ship fruit so popular in Mexico and Central America to U. S. tables.

Avocados grown in California and Florida have met almost universal acceptance. The Texas project hopes to add papayas to the menu, as well as other fruit, and an improved and larger avocado.

The experimental farm is located near Mercedes, about 45 miles from here. It is financed by Karl Hoblitzelle, Texas theatre magnate. Already it has marketed both papayas and avocados, and expects to produce more this year.

The papaya has a spicy flavor, orange meat, black seeds, an orange, pinkish or green exterior and looks like an elongated squash as it hangs from the trees in clusters.

The papaya tree grows with extreme rapidity, developing from a seedling to maturity within a year. It bears fruit in nine months or more. Morris Allen, manager of the project, said 1,000 trees can be planted per acre. He said a 15-acre tract would produce a solid carload of papayas in a week.

They produce seedlings which are Seeds are planted in October, then set out in March. Grown trees will be producing fruit that fall. They grow up to 10 and 14 feet high in 18 months.

Allen said they were experimenting with 12 varieties. A large fruit is used for frozen pulp and the manufacture of papaya extract. It makes a delicious jam, Allen said. The medium or smaller fruit are sold whole. They may be sliced, eaten as melons, used in salads.

Papaya juice is also used as a meat tenderizer, and already is popular with meat packers.

The papaya contain several vitamins and enzymes. papain is one.

The fruit has not been offered commercially in large quantities. One major reason is its perishable quality, quick-freezing, and shipping in refrigerator cars, and development of a hardier papaya may solve that.

Allen said much interest is being shown in papayas. He said he has received queries from New York, Chicago and other points. Some of the crop already is being sold. More will be marketed this year, despite a damaging January frost. Papaya trees are not hardy.

The growing avocados is more of a long-range deal, Allen said. The trees grow slowly. They bear after four or five years. Some live half a century. In Mexico, avocado trees sometimes grow 150 feet tall.

The farm already has produced, on a small scale, an avocado grown on California root stock that is larger than the California fruit. Most of the project's avocados are budded on Mexican rootstocks, which are hardier.

Allen said experiment has proven that several varieties will produce larger fruit than is grown on the same types in California.

Avocados have to be picked when they are mature, and still at a time early enough to prevent their spoilage before they reach the consumer.

The market for avocados already is established.

A new experiment to be attempted this year is growth of the Garcia nutan, a high grade nut with a high oil content. The oil is used in paints.

Other crops grown so far include various types of citrus, norsk flax, sunn hemp and others.

The project is an extensive one. It includes a 65-acre reservoir for irrigation. A processing plant for papaya pulp is planned. The acreage is terraced. Approximately 100 workers and their families are employed. It co-operates with a nearby experimental farm.

Here's how we help you become a quick-change artist... make one shirt add up to two... when you quick-switch from dress-up to casual and back again. It's Van Heusen's California Lo-No with double-personality collar... it looks right worn open... it's perfect when worn with a tie. The fade-away Lo-No collarband developed by Van Heusen does the trick! Two collar styles: long-point, and the new wide-spread Eton. A variety of uncommonly smart colors and fabrics.
