BIG SPRING FLOWS AGAIN

Water bowed again in the spring which gave Big Spring its name but was an artificial trickle worked as part of the city's centennial celebration. The bow of water was caused by a plumber's craft. The spring, as shown has been dry many years. It was a favorite Comanche watering place and later was a big factor in development of a Texas and Pacific Railway division point at Big Spring and subsequent growth of the city. (AP) Photo.

The Texas Poll The Statewide Survey of Public Opinion

By JOE BELDEN, Director, The Texas Poll
 AUSTIN, October 15.—The odds that you will catch a cold this winter are eight to two. Some Texans will have two, three, four or more colds before spring rolls around again.

This is indicated by the normal experience of a statewide cross section of adults recently interviewed by The Texas Poll. Seventy-eight per cent report they usually have at least one cold in winter. Twenty-six per cent have three or more. A lucky 22 per cent usually go through winter without catching cold.

The survey also discloses that even in summertime more than four out of every ten adults suffer with one or more colds.

Each adult in the survey was asked: "In the summertime, do you ever have any colds?" (If so) "Usually about how many colds during an average summer?" Then: "Do you have any colds during the winter?" (If so) "Usually about how many?"

Here is the box score for winter and summer:

	Winter	Summer
Have no colds.....	22%	57%
Have one or two.....	52	37
Have three or four....	18	4
Have five or more....	8	2
	100%	100%

Less than one per cent were unable to answer the question.

About the same proportions of men and women catch colds in winter, but fewer women are affected in summer. In both seasons, the upper income levels are only slightly better off than people of lower incomes. Older persons seem to fare better than any other group in winter, but about the same as others in summer.

Below is a comparison of how many in the various groups have one or more colds in winter and summer:

By Sex:

	Winter	Summer
Men	78%	47%
Women	79	40

By Economic Level:

	Winter	Summer
Average or above....	76%	42%
Below average.....	81	45

By Age:

	Winter	Summer
20 through 29.....	81%	42%
30 through 49.....	82	44
50 Up.....	71	44

Persons afflicted either in summer or winter were asked: "How do you treat a cold during the summer (during winter)?"

Here is what they said:

	Winter	Summer
No treatment, just let it wear out....	18%	45%
Follow doctor's prescription	17	8
Rest, go to bed.....	17	13
Drink fruit juices and lots water....	13	10
Drink whiskey.....	3	1
Keep even temperature	3	2
Take aspirin.....	14	12
Take laxative.....	5	4

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, says there is very little doubt that people with colds can help themselves by going to bed, drinking a lot of water and fruit juices, eating lightly and keeping warm.

"On the other hand," he adds, "there is even less doubt that a person who goes to work with a cold-inspired fever of 102 degrees is heading for trouble. There are people who boast of having done this. Their boasts are more indicative of a weak mind than a strong constitution."

Dr. Cox points out there are several types of colds.

"One come from sudden chilling, going without a hat, or sitting on the cold ground. It causes congestion of the nasal passage, larynx and lungs. A good hot bath will usually clear up this type", he says.

"Another is caused by sinus trouble. People so afflicted have their nasal passage obstructed on the slightest provocation. In many cases, surgical attention is indicated.

JAYCEES PITCH PARTY THIRTY-EIGHT ENJOY: PATROL SUPPLIES HERE

Tuesday evening of last week, the Gatesville Junior Chamber of Commerce pitched a party, stag, at Faunt Le Roy's crossing, and thirty-eight enjoyed the festivities. The main dishes were barbecued chicken and spare-ribs, Coke and other items. It was their first party. Helmet, belts and shoulder-straps for the proposed Traffic Safety patrol have arrived, and when the training is finished by the school authorities, the patrol will be set in action at the school. As for the clothing drive, it's really stacking up, according to President Charlie Price, and he has a lot, and barrels at the different cleaning plants are overflowing. Keep'em coming!

 GATESVILLE, TEXAS

TEEN TALK:

So, you've just taken a job. Congratulations!

If this is your first business experience, perhaps you are puzzled about a few things—your obligation to your job, and how much of your time the boss actually buys.

Young people are likely to get unusual ideas, these days, about holding a job. In the first place they expect much more of the boss, as far as the working day goes, than they give in exchange. They might be late 15 or 20 minutes three times a week, but let the boss ask them to work ten minutes overtime some night, and they resent the intrusion on their private time.

At home, instead of getting good sound advice about work experiences, perhaps you hear snatches of conversation from which you might make unwise deductions. Mom might good naturedly tease Pop about his pretty secretary. Or you might hear stories about the girl next door who was lucky enough to marry her boss. Or perhaps you've been inspired by reading love stories about secretaries, who always are (in fiction) much more sympathetic to the boss than his wife.

Is it any wonder that the neophyte gets the impression that the success of her job depends entirely on whether she can win the boss' attention, whether he happens to be a handsome young man or a doddering old man?

A competent girl need have no fears about losing her job, if she does not take him up on that dinner date or sly innuendo. If she does accept his attentions, she might lose her job anyway, because perhaps he'll tire of her after those first few dinners—his philandering usually being of cautious interest. Few bosses ever marry love-sick stenographers; fewer of them divorce their wives to do it.

The salary your boss pays you each week does not entitle him to your company after business hours. Shart girls have found ways to discourage the idea this way:

1. Have a boy friend or a brother or your father pick you up at the office once in a while. If the boss gets friendly with them, fine.
2. If he makes suggestive remarks about dates, play dumb.
3. Get chummy with his wife as soon as possible. You can do this by having friendly chats with her on the phone, when she calls the office.
4. If he has a daughter your age, talk about her occasionally to him.

Of course, you can't blame it all on the boss. Some girls set out to get him interested by any means. Then there are the girls who do it unwittingly by dressing in poor taste—heavy rouged lips and faces, mascara, short skirts, low cut dresses—easy ways to give any man the wrong impression.

If you want to be treated like a lady, act like one. This is a steel armor if itself.

Sit with your two feet flat on the floor when you take dictation. Don't slump into the chair, coyly eyeing your employer, when at the filing cabinet, stand like a lady. Your charms won't help him overlook filing or typing errors. .not for long, anyway. Other ways to be faithful to your job are:

1. Be poised, neat and pleasant. Skip the heavy make-up but use a deodorant and don't forget tooth paste.
2. Wear tailored clothes, not sequin drapes or sloppy sweaters.
3. Give your boss all the time he is entitled to. Save your office discussions about that new book or new shade of lipstick until after hours.

4. Don't curl up at your desk or sit with knees crossed in a sloppy posture. Do your office tasks with enthusiasm.

ventures will pay him no greater returns than they can get from government bonds or tax-free municipals."

An enterprising friend of mine recently approached a man of means with a new product which he wished to manufacture and put on the market. If the man with capital would back him to the extent of $100,000, my friend told him, he felt he could assure him of a 10 per cent annual return on his investment. The wealthy man was interested in the proposition but soon turned it down.

"It's not that I don't think you have a good idea", he explained; "In fact, I think you've got a very promising one, but I happen to be in the 80 per cent income-tax bracket. That means that if I put $100,000 into your business and it did yield me $10,000 a year, I could keep only $2,000 of it. Since I can get the same income from 2 per cent government bonds, I would be foolish to risk losing my capital on your proposition."

As a result, my friend never went into production. The jobs which his little plant might have created never materialized, and not only his community, but the nation is that much poorer. The same kind of thing is happening all over the country.

In one Middle Western city 3 manufacturing companies employing a total of 600 persons are in danger of closing right now, I am told, because of a shortage of investment money."

I can point out a dozen reasons why industries should locate in Gatesville, but I cannot get away from this situation...the shortage of investment money for industrial purposes. It is something to think about.

ABOUT TOWN...City hopes to adopt Building and Wiring Code which will suit Gatesville's needs...The movie of Gatesville was shown to good crowds...Jaycee's throw stag party...

HERE ARE SOME FACTS AND FIGURES...which should interest every business man in town. They were taken from the San Antonio C-C publication:

"...of the 142 million consumers in the United States, 77.7% or 110 million had no adult experience in World War I.

"63.3% or 90 million had no adult experience with the 1929 crisis

"58.4% or 83 million had no adult experience with other than a Democratic administration

"48.2% have not had any adult experience with a peacetime economy, if this be it

"44.4% or 63 million are experiencing for the first time a 'free' market for many consumer goods, the opportunity to select from normal assortments of merchandise.

"The advertising and selling moral to be drawn from this seems obvious."

These figures are encouraging. Here is an opportunity in a free enterprise system. But let me cite you a discouraging illustration. I quote from Herman W. Steinkras, President U. S. Chamber of Commerce: "Already, government interference has made our industry less productive than it might be. There can be no standstill business. It must constantly move forward to new fields if it is not to stagnate, but double taxation on corporation earnings and stockholders' dividends has made investors much more timid about backing new products and new ideas than in former years. Individuals and organizations with money will not risk losing it in untried enterprises when they know that, if successful, these
