By proper maneuvering — seems proper — when you got the 'goitis' and can't go yet, we were about ready to shove off about Saturday, there, however, were other complications. A 4 1/4" cup and some little old balls about the size of a guinie egg, or a pullet's first go-round.

- We just hadda wait!
- Be that as it may, there's still a job to do, and we'll be back to do it, all too soon.
- Somebody said: It takes real application to get thru the mammoth Sunday New York Times, attend church, eat, nite holes, catch the second game of a TV double-header, pick up Ed Sullivan, play a number of bridge, and get a good nite's sleep in preparation for a fruitful Monday. It'd be better to 'take the 'County News'! We brief it, instead of trying to 'put it all in'. There! "All The News That's Fit to Print" We nearly had that Friday. Leastwise, no body was bothered with a lot of old advs.

"The Nation", a weekly magazine takes a holiday in summer, publishing biweekly, thus letting the nation stumble along in its own uncertain way. Even those publications that keep their regular schedule in summer are usually short of staff, most of whom are seeking recreation and refreshment.

"The time seems to be coming when the whole country will shut down for a couple of weeks, as so many business companies are already doing, and as the schools and colleges have been doing for a century.

"It might be that the whole planet, thru the United Nations, will declare and enforce peace during the summer so that all may loaf with the reservation that those in the area below the equator, whose winter comes in our summer, may tangle if they wish, but must stay in their own sphere." We'd be for it.

"A five-foot woman thinks high heels will make her as tall as her six-foot escort."

"Dullness is a sin, in my opinion, so I try to please."

"One feels sorry for the wife when one finds that she has deliberately tampered with the scale in the bathroom, thereby reducing her weight by ten pounds."

"As people get into their fifties and drift toward the sixties they suffer from what a friend of mine calls the five-minute interval. A name escapes them and they ask for five minutes to recall it." Noticed that.

"When you're alone with a blank sheet of paper in your typewriter, you get a clear idea of your mental poverty." 'Tis so, 'Tis so!

"We may be lonely, but if you call, please don't reverse the charges."

Books helped!

TWO WOLF HUNTERS MEET AT LEAIRDS: HAVE A TIME REMISSING!

Two 'young' wolf hunters of years gone by had a time at Leaird the other day!

L. C. Perryman, something over 80, and Bunyan Polk Powell close to 90, met there, while Mrs. Perryman was shopping.

The entire story couldn't be told, but they were chasing wolves over around Plum Creek, and other hills, dales, valleys, draws, flats, mountains, around in Coryell County, and if ever two were having fun, these two were.

Since our short hand don't work, our next best bet would have been a tape recorder, and that would have made it even better.

Never saw two feller have so much fun.

"THE GOVERNOR" AND THE "BELL BOYS"

During the parade last Saturday, City Carrier Morris Bell of Gatesville, took his sons Walter and Wendell Bell out to see the review of the 45th Infantry Division, Oklahoma National Guard, commanded by Maj. Gen. Hal L. Muldrow, honorig Governor J. Howard Edmondson of Oklahoma.

The governor being only 'natural' school hands with civilians around and, being red-headed ad about 32 himself, was intesely interested in children, especially children of voters, was perfectly willing to be photographed with City Carrier Morris Bell ad his sons—and the Carrier and his sons didn't mind. The 45th PIO was on the job, and the photographer grabbed this human interest photo. Governor, you

STATE YOUTH COUNCIL HAPPY OVER BUDGET

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Youth Council cast an approving eye Thursday on its $10,112,450 budget for 1906-61. It agreed the Legislature recognized the need for long-range planning.

Executive director Jack Turman told the council:

"We did not have a single critic in this session of the Legislature. Generally, the Legislature gave us what we asked."

He said the council's 1954-55 budget was $2,040,557. It grew to $2,810,331 the following two years and $7,767,441 is being spent for the biennium ending Aug. 31.

"We have grown," Turman said. The council operates the juvenile correctional homes at Gatesville, Gainesville and Crockett. It also directs the homes for orphans and dependent children at Waco, Corsicana and Austin.

The council approved:

1. Operating budgets for the various institutions for the year beginning Sept. 1.

2. Recommended architects to construct new schools and buildings. The Board of Control has the final say on who will be the architects.

Gatesville's State School for Boys received the largest increase. The $1,784,154 operating budget will allow the addition of 132 personnel. Another $606,867 is authorized for construction of dormitories with Easterwood and Easterwood of Waco as architects.

The council agreed to complete the new security treatment center at Gatesville within 18 months. It recommended George Dahl of Dallas as the architect for the $1,988,000 structure.

The Gainesville School for Girls will increase its force by 16 with a $407,172 operating budget and $33,000 for construction. Pardue and Reed of Wichita Falls were recommended as architects for new dormitories.

Other budgets approved:

Crockett $181,143 for operations which increases the staff personnel by four; Waco State Home $542,116 for operations and $50,550 for construction; Corsicana State Home $436,478 for operations and $33,050 for construction; and the Texas Blind, Deaf and Orphans Home, Austin, $334,184 for operations.

GI SCHOOL CONVERTED INTO GUARD ARMORY

Gatesville's National Guard outfit — the 949th Ordnance Company — has moved its headquarters to a new armory home: the giant frame building on North Lutterloh that housed the GI vocational school in the years following World War II.

The Guard unit moved from the Veterans Memorial Park building. Reports are that around $5,000 was spent re-painting and renovating the old GI building for use as an armory.

THERE'LL BE A RUN ON ELLIS' OFFICE: HUNTING FISHIN' LICENSES OUT

August 31 and your hunting and fishing license is dead. Better go see A. W. Ellis about that, because the boys say there's plenty to be hunted and fished in and around central Texas. Just an idea you might need.

is safety.

While the child is home, the mother has a direct control over the safety of her child.

When a child leaves home, for school or other activities, the responsibility becomes more complex.

It becomes necessary for parents to do their part to see that the community is doing its best to safeguard children from preventable accidents.

What parents can do about this is well worth looking into. The school, police, fire, recreation and health departments all have a part in planning for child safety.

A child is fortunate if he has attended a well-conducted nursery or kindergarten before school. Here the youngster learns very early to play safely and happily with other with his mother, or even if he goes to school in a bus or the family car, the rules of safety can still be taught.

The wise parent finds out what safety rules the school is teaching and then sees to it that the same rules apply at home.

He makes doubly sure that nothing he says or does runs counter to what is being taught in school, because such conflict only confuse and undermines the child's confidence in both his teachers and parents.

It is well to know this same practice throughout the early years of the child's schooling. Safety is an important part of the elementary curriculum, as in secondary schools where older children get instruction in safe driving and the rules practices for children in cooperation with parents.

The health department is often thought of chiefly as responsible for controlling sanitary nuisances and contagious diseases.

However, it is vitally concerned about accidents, because they are the commonest cause of childhood death.

The National's 70th Year Is Celebrated This Week Money Display, Some Given

The National Bank of Gatesville, Gatesville's oldest financial institution is this week celebrating its 70th Birthday.

The bank was established in 1889.

According to a list of the original stockholders, one of our relatives held 120 shares—the mostest in the fustest—in the bank, but passed this 'old relative' up. He was Dr. J. R. Raby, and he was the first vice-president, and a director, with S. J. Minsg, president, and A. R. Williams cashier.

So, you might say, the famblee was among the local tycoons in the financial world—be that as it may, or may not.

Anyway, it's nice to help any institution celebrate 70 years of 'fighting off starvation, death and taxes' and any that does, certainly deserves to celebrate.

The bank has 'taken over' consolidated and otherwise built up its resources and reputation, and in 1905 the Farmers Bank was taken over by the old Gatesville National, and then the Farmers National chartered in 1907 was taken over 2 years later. The State Bank & Trust Company, organized in 1907 was merged with the First National in 1908. The First State Bank of Turnersville voluntarily closed and was liquidated by The First National in 1927, and the First National of Ireland decided to quit and the Gatesville National helped them in 1929.

Then, in 1938 the Gatesville National and First National consolidated.

The bank has been at its present location for 69 years, having paid $5,000 for the lot in 1890, an unheard of value in that day and time. It was previously located at Leon Street and S. 6th, across from the present county jail.

Visitors have been thronging the bank the entire week and suitable souvenirs have been given, and tours of the bank conducted by hostesses.

It was time for a celebration—and the celebration was there, and, ness to the group. Those present were these couples and their children: X James, Kenneth, Harold, Morris, Bobby, Billy Mack and Roy Brown.

We are happy to welcome the Alvin Kauitzsche family back to their Liberty home. They moved from Hamilton this week.

it's still going on, if you've missed it so far.

THE BREWING INDUSTRY

The shares of the brewing companies during the nineteen fifties have shown a poor market performance. In the early post-war period the earnings record was respectable but deteriorated because of overcapacity and declining per-capita consumption, with a resultant depressing effect on profit margins. However, the sharp wartime and immediate postwar increase in the birthrate is producing a growing young adult population and there are therefore grounds for the belief that consumption will turn upwards. This segment of the population is usually the largest beer consumer.

The industry is still far from the growth category; but the larger, well-financed concerns can now expect continuing revenue gains and a slow betterment in profit margins.

Production is steadily moving into stronger hands as the small units retire from the field, and this tendency toward concentration should have a favorable effect on pricing policies over the next few years.

The well-established brewing companies thus offer the investor an attractive yield with above-average security and the prospects of modest growth in earnings and dividends.

The size of the individual brewery has grown as the number decreased. Large capacity not only brings lower production costs, but the advertising dollar is spread over more barrels with a resulting lower cost per barrel. This is where the large national brewers have a decided advantage over the local operator.

In order to serve the national market the large companies have established branch plants in various sections since the war so that transportation expenses can be held down and the former freight advantage of the local company reduced. The erection of these larger regional plants since World War II has accentuated the unfavorable supply and demand picture since over-all capacity has been greatly increased while consumption remained almost static.

By 1960 and beyond, the 18-59 age group should be expanding at a healthy pace as the postwar baby population reaches manhood. Hence per capita consumption should turn upwards again and total consumption may well tend to go more in hand with the growth in population. Those brewers with the financial resources and management vigor can look for a larger share of a better market, with a healthier price structure. This will only come slowly but the next three to five years should witness a marked improvement in the state of the business.

At current levels, the yield of Anheuser-Busch is attractive (5.2%). With a good network of plants, very comfortable finances, and a substantial cash flow, the company is one of the prime candidates for continued progress. Falstaff's position in the industry has been improved over the past decade and marketing territory has spread out continually. Earnings should improve over last year. Dreyfus Limited serves the Great Lakes area and the stock returns over 6%. Pabst Brewing has achieved considerable speculative following since the Blatz merger last summer. The Blatz popular price brand will be a definite asset.

Senator YARBOROUGH'S REPORT

Interest in Texas' efforts to establish a National Seashore Area on Padre Island continues to mount.

Recently a Coastal Development Committee, composed of officials from five Gulf Coast counties, was appointed to study the proposed Padre Island Park project and other improvements of state coastal areas.

The need to preserve the biggest part of Padre Island for public use was driven home last week in a Houston Chronicle report on the situation in Florida. The story told how unhappy Florida residents have awakened too late to the fact that only an inadequate part of Miami Beach oceanfront, all but two miles is taken up by hotels and their private cabana clubs, swimming pools and overhanging additions.

One of the big questions about our Padre Island Seashore project is not whether we should protect this area — the longest stretch of natural beach left in the nation today — but whether certain private developers are going to be able to keep the park limited to a small slice out of the middle of the 118-mile long island.

Statistics show that people will use the beaches if they have enough elbow room to be comfortable. An all-time high of 348,335 visitors last year enjoyed the only National Seashore Area we have in the nation at this time, Cape Hatteras, the 80 mile long Seashore on the outer banks of North Carolina.

It is my hope that public hearings can be held on the Padre Island Seashore Area proposal in Texas later this year. The findings and decisions of this Coastal Development Committee and similar civic-minded and public spirited groups and individuals would be invaluable in such hearings.

I want to work with this Committee and anyone or anyone else who is interested in improving Texas. One of the ways to make the Gulf Coast a better place in which to live, I believe, would be the establishment of a Padre Island National Seashore Area — in the size and scope and tradition of Texas.

AUSTIN, Tex. — None of the money-raising bills that failed to pass the Legislature during the past seven months were put away to gather dust.

They'll be on parade again if a fourth special session is held to raise money to increase public school teachers' salaries.

Gov. Price Daniel has said he will call the session if the public demands it. Texas State Teachers Association has its campaign rolling to create this demand.

TSTA's goal is a program that would cost $63,000,000 over a two-year period. Of this, $56,000,000 would go for a $405 increase in annual base pay for teachers.

This would bring teachers' base pay up to $3,610 a year. Hale-Aikin Committee recommended a minimum of $3,800 a year plus a number of other school improvements that would have totaled some $200,000,000 for a two-year period. But TSTA decided that getting that big a tax bill would be too tough. For the time being, the 70,000-member teacher lobby will settle for a package one-third this size with emphasis on the item it wants most — pay raises.

Time most discussed for the new special session is the politically crucial month of January. This will give the teachers, scattered in summer, time to get organized. It also is the month for poll tax payin-

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

BY C. WILSON HARDER

The furor raised over the bill pending in Congress to raise the minimum wage to $1.25 per hour is an interesting one.

It is quite questionable whether Congress is on sound ground when it attempts to establish a wage rate by fiat. The majority of the nation's independent businessmen, voting through the National Federation of Independent Business, have long opposed wage rates set in this manner.

But a very cogent argument comes from a reader of this column, who also happens to be one of the independent businessmen voting against this proposal.

This gentleman points out that for some time, the nation has been worried over the escapades and more serious scrapes of the teen agers. This has often been referred to as the juvenile delinquency problem.

Now he goes on to point out that in his business, there are times when he could give odd jobs to inexperienced boys that would enable them to earn some spending money, learn something, and maintain their self-respect.

But if he hires a green inexperienced boy, at present he has to pay him a minimum of a dollar an hour.

Thus, for odd jobs, he prefers to give a few dollars to a few boys who are available as they usually are, rather than to pay a dollar an hour to a boy who is not available.

Thus, due to Congressional action, youngsters idle on street corners although they would prefer to do something worthwhile.

Yet, there is a great drive put on Congress to set a new minimum wage law.

And by one of the strangest paradoxes of the times, many of the most vociferous proponents of establishing a minimum wage by law, are opposed to any laws which permit a manufacturer to establish the minimum price for his brand of merchandise.

Bearing in mind that Fair Trade laws do not apply to an entire commodity but only to those brands which are usually advertised and represent the highest quality. Yet those who oppose letting such manufacturers set a fair price on their brands often believe that every person, regardless of aptitude, energy, ability, or integrity, should be guaranteed a minimum wage by law.

And unlike the need for Fair Trade laws, if there is to be any honest American merchandise on the market, the minimum wage debate is largely an academic one. It is quite unlikely during this period that any large number of people are working for the present minimum wage of $1 per hour.

But there is an inherent danger in establishing control of these matters by law.

With few exceptions, neither socialism nor communism come into power in a nation overnight. Long before this happens, there is a long, slow build up during which people are mentally conditioned to accept government control in certain areas as a natural thing. From this point, it is but a short step to the end of democracy.

HOW TO FIND THE SECRET PLACE OF SAFETY

A bombing raid was on. An ignorant Chinese woman stood at a railroad station as the raid began. Suddenly she raised her oiled-paper umbrella and began to scream, "I am God's child, so I can't be hurt! Whoever gets under my umbrella with me will be safe!"

This Chinese woman had recently been converted to Christianity. A missionary had taught her that she was God's child and that He would take care of her.

Four helpless ones crowded under the umbrella with God's child. When the raid was over, only these five stood alive amid the shambles. Under the shadow of the Almighty they had found their refuge.

There is a circle of protection for those who trust Him. This was known even to the men of the Old Testament, for David the Psalmist wrote, "A thousand shall fall at thy side. I ten thousand at thy right hand, but it shall not come nigh thee." Daniel in the lions' den, and others, were conscious of protection. They felt it. They knew it, for they had learned to abide under the shadow of the Almighty.

How can one set in motion this marvelous protective force? First, be still and know that He is God. He has all power, and if He wished, this little world would roll up like a scroll. And He could easily make another one at the same moment.

Also, know that He is love and that He has made us of Himself and for Himself. The Bible tells us that He breathed a part of Himself into a lump of dirt and man became a living soul. You are a son of God. The wonderful privileges that such a relationship guarantees is yours.

And then we must pray for others. We cannot desire the love of Christ for ourselves while Chinese, Japanese, Greeks and Germans cry alone in the night from pain or hunger. They are all children of God. And as a mother goes first to the bedside of a child who needs her most, so we should send our prayers out in love to our own brethren.

What happens we send the love of Christ through our prayers to others who are also His children? I cannot tell you all the results. But there is a certain result that becomes immediately perceptible, for as we pray for all the world in His name, we know of a certainty that He is God. And there is an assurance within us that His love breathes over jungle and desert, the seas and the whole earth!

Then we come to know that we rest under the shadow of His wing. Yes, through praying for and ministering to His suffering children all over the world, we invite Him into ourselves and thus direct His power through us. This is our protection.

A certain missionary traveled alone among cannibal tribes. Years later he converted the chief of those tribes. The chief asked him this question, "Who were those two shining ones who walked on either side of you?" Then the missionary was sure that God had protected him with guardian angels.

BELTON — Miss Carolyn Urbantke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Urbantke of The Grove became the bride of Robert G. Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marschel E. Patterson of Houston, recently at St. Paul's Lutheran Church at The Grove.

The Rev. R. E. Kuehnert performed the ceremony. Sam Winkler, brother in law of the bride, was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Ardeen R. Urbantke, wore a blush pink dress trimmed with lace. Her finger-tip veil of illusion which was worn by her sister in her wedding, was trimmed with lace. She carried a bouquet of yellow rosebuds and an heirloom Bible belonging to the bridegroom's family. The bride carried out the traditional something old, new, borrowed and blue.

Mrs. Samuel Winkler of Abilene, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a dress of aqua taffeta trimmed with net, and carried a bouquet of white carnations with streamers.

Mrs. Charles Baird, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore an American beauty dress and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Rowland Dacy served as best man. Following the wedding, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is a graduate of Belton High School and has been employed with the Houston Police Department for eight years.

The bridegroom graduated from the University of Houston where he received his BBS degree, and attended the University of Texas for two years. He was a member of the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity. He is now employed as an accountant for the Independent Oil Company.

After a wedding trip to the Ozark Mountains in Arkansas and St. Louis, Mo., the couple will make

DO-IT-YOURSELF SHELTER PROJECT

For Family Protection From Radioactive Fallout

BASEMENT SHELTERS generally are the least expensive type that will give substantial protection. The basement shelter shown here can be built with solid concrete blocks as a do-it-yourself project for $150 to $200. Standard 8-inch solid concrete blocks are recommended because hollow blocks would have to be filled with concrete to give effective protection. Bricks are an alternative. If they are used, the walls and roof should be 10 inches thick to give the same protection as 8-inch solid concrete blocks. Plans for this do-it-yourself project appear in "The Family Fallout Shelter," OCDM booklet. Copies may be obtained from Box Home Shelter, OCDM, Battle Creek, Michigan.

With EDWARD W. GREENFIELD
Dr. Zhivago's Folly
I have just finished the much-touted best-seller, DR. ZHIVAGO. At the risk of being misunderstood, I presume to say that, except for some brilliant and perceptive passages, I found it dull. It is more interesting for having come out of Russia than for its own sake. Yet, whether the author intended it or not, the book is immensely worth reading for one reason above every other. You see, the story is about all the horrors of the Communist revolution in Russia and how it destroyed everything good in its pretense at destroying the evil.

But long before the hero and heroine were destroyed, they and many others lent hostage to their own destruction by entertaining the pretty, pink-tinged ideas that passed for socialistic "idealism". They discovered the monster in the pretty package of ideas too late.

Which recalls something that appeared in a London newspaper about the time that Karl Mark was writing:

"The greatest tyranny has the smallest beginnings. From precedents overlooked, from remonstrances despised, from grievances treated with ridicule, from powerless men oppressed with impunity and overbearing men tolerated with complacency, springs the tyrannical usage which generations of wise and good men may hereafter perceive and lament and resist in vain."

What Next, Doctor Peck?

Your "Viewer" has just been privileged to read a review copy of "WHAT NEXT, DOCTOR PECK," authored by Joseph H. Peck, M.D. The book is to be published on August 31.

It is a hilarious and heartwarming tale of a struggling young doctor's early practice on the desolate Utah salt flats in the years 1916-17. Dr. Peck learned a lot during those two years that isn't in Osler's "Principles and Practices of Medicine", about human beings with all their caprices, yearnings, duplicity and nobility; about the ironies of bureaucacy; about the strangely beneficent supervision Nature gives its children.

Once we picked this book up, we couldn't put it down. Every chapter is full of humor expressed in Dr. Peck's inimitable salty fashion. There's a laugh on every page.

But what intrigued us most about "WHAT NEXT, DR PECK." is the many pot shots the author takes at bureaucracy. For instance, he debunks the prevalent, false impression that Franklin D. Roosevelt invented the Welfare State — he points out that Franklin "swiped" the idea from the Indian Bureau in Washington, which has done such a magnificent job of paternalizing our Indiana citizens.

Don't fail to read this book. Watch for it in your book-store. If they fail to stock it, a copy can be obtained from the publisher: Prentice Hall, Inc., Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey—price: $3.50.

THE CASE OF THE SUICIDE NOTE

Sixteenth of a series

by Donald J. Sobol

"I heard the shot about 9:30," said Mathews, the secretary. "I found Mr. Southworth in his den exactly as you see him." The famous playwright and Broadway producer was dead of a right to expect in one lifetime. Now, before I become a burden to my daughter, Alice, I wish to depart this worldly theatre."

"Is this in Mr. Southworth's handwriting?" asked Haledjian. "I'm not an expert, sir, but it does resemble his," replied Mathews.

"How many persons have keys to the house?"

"I do, sir, and cook. Then there's Miss Alice, and Mr. Arnold."

"Who is he?" "Mr. Arnold Southworth, a younger brother. He arrived from England for a visit and occupies the guest bedroom."

"Did the brothers ever quarrel?"

"On the contrary, they hit it off first rate. Mr. Arnold wanted Mr. Vernon to accompany him back to England this summer. When their parents were divorced, Mr. Arnold was reared in London by the father. Mr. Vernon remained with his mother in America."

"Did Vernon say he would go to England?"

"I don't believe he'd quite made up his mind. They discussed it again tonight, just before Mr. Arnold left for a dinner engagement."

"I shall be interested to hear Arnold's alibi for this evening," said Haledjian. "Vernon never wrote the suicide note."

HOW DID HALEDJIAN REACH HIS CONCLUSION?

Three words in the note, "labor," "honors," and "theater." American would have written spelling preference. Vernon, the reveal an invariable English "hour," "honors," and "theater."

Dear Friends:

The House has just passed a so-called "strong" labor bill by a vote of almost 3 to 1. I voted for the bill. This was not done, however, until after we had voted by a very close margin to substitute the Landrum, Griffin bill for the Committee Bill. This motion carried on a "teller" vote by only a 15 vote margin. Later this was confirmed by a roll call vote on which the substitution carried by 28 votes. I voted for the substitute (Landrum-Griffin bill) on each test. I did so, as I've explained, because I feel that we must put a stop to the unethical and indefensible practices which the McClellan Committee has exposed and because we owe it to all the people to protect the public as well as the members of the unions from these practices.

Several of the proposed bills would have afforded pretty good protection to the union members, but, as I see it, only the Landrum-Griffin Bill went far enough to protect the public from these racketeers. I know that most unions and most union men disapprove of these practices, just as most bankers disapprove of embezzlement, but just as we need banking laws to cover all bankers, so we must make our labor laws cover all unions. The bill we passed was not

Our Agriculture Committee has favorably reported a bill to extend Public Law 480. This is the law authorizing the sale of surplus agricultural commodities for foreign currencies. It has enabled us to sell lots of cotton, wheat, etc. to people who could not buy for dollars. It has helped both the U. S. and many foreign countries. We are, however, reaching a point where we cannot effectively use much more currency from several of the countries involved. Other countries are reaching a point where they can pay in dollars. We, therefore, added a section, which I offered, providing for the sale of surplus commodities for dollars on long-time credit. Surely it is better to have even "slow" notes on which we are drawing interest than to have wheat or cotton on which we are simply paying storage. The bill proposes that we should sell for cash dollars where we can. Next we should sell on credit for dollars. Next we should trade (barter) for strategic materials. Next we should sell for foreign currencies. Finally, we should give food to needy people when they can't buy. And in this connection, I want to again point out, the United States will give surplus food to any properly accredited local agency for distribution to needy people anywhere in the United States, but the local agencies must request it and accept the responsibility of distribution.

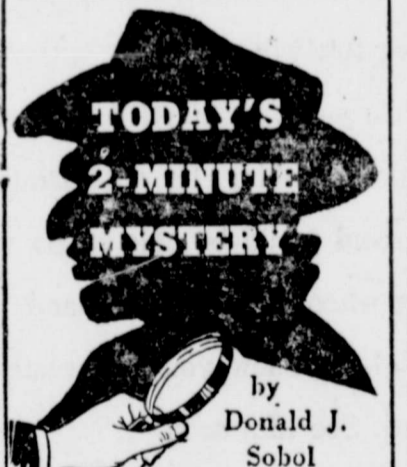

Mrs. Carl Pruitt and sons of Lampasas were visitors in Gatesville this week.

IN NEW RULES

NEW YORK (AP) — Next year, golfers will get a better break on the new rules. The U. S. Golf Association which governs the sport, announced Wednesday a one-year trial basis, starting Jan. 1.

The new rules:

Out of bounds. At present the penalty is stroke and distance. Next year, loss of distance only.

Lost ball. At present, stroke and distance. Next year, loss of distance only.

Unplayable lie. At present an out of stroke and distance or a drop behind the unplayable position for a 2-stroke penalty. Next year the option will be stroke and distance or a drop behind the unplayable position for a one-stroke penalty. However, if the ball is unplayable in a bunker, it must be played in the bunker.

Penalty for a ball hit into a water hazard — one stroke penalty and loss of distance — remains unchanged.

The USGA and the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, which rules British golf, agreed to a trial for the reduced penalties next year — but in the United States alone. British golfers will continue to play the present rules.

The All-Star Pro-Champ game is over, the Stars 0, the Pros 29. That score don't tell the story. Scoring was all in the first half, and the stars did right well, otherwise.

The SWC was well represented: Stars: Floyd Dellinger, T. Tech; Buddy Dial, Rice; Buddy Humphrey and Larry Hickman, Baylor; Don Brown, Houston; Ken Beck, A&M; and Dave Sherer, SMU. That's pretty good for one conference.

Also from the SWC on the pro side were L. G. Dupre, Baylor, and Reuben Saage, Baylor. If there were more from the SWC we didn't recognize the names.

Army sporting blood must be up.

At Salado Project For All Central Texans

Mrs. Jim McClellan, trustee of the Central Texas Museum at Salado, reports the museum is the future home of many historical exhibits and other historical items of intense interest to people in this area.

It carries exhibits and history of central Texas from 1830 to 1900, and the organization is a non-profit organization sponsored by paid memberships of a very nominal amount and by admissions to the museum.

Mrs. Sterling C. Robertson of Salado, granddaughter-in-law of former Governor Robinson heads up the organization, and is scheduled to be here in the near future to present the facts to those interested.

They've released 200 Coturnix (Asian) quail in Ft. Hood. They hold well to dogs, but are not usually found in coverts. They're numbered and if you find one, send the band to the Texas Game and Fish Commission, Austin, giving time and place the bird was killed. They wanta determine time of migration and extent.

FARM PROFIT

Deposit Corn In The "Grain Bank"

Why are Farmers depositing their corn in a grain "bank?" For time savings, safety and convenience. It works similar to savings banks. The grain is deposited and held until they need feed. Then it is "withdrawn", mixed into a ration and delivered to the farm. The country elevator operator is the banker under this plan. He provides the "vault" to store the grain and makes his money from service fees which include storage, mixing and grinding.

The new miracle drugs that are added to feeds nowadays are largely responsible for this new banking idea. You only need a pinch or at most a couple of handfuls of antibiotics, hormones or vitamins in a ton of feed. Farmers can't blend these thoroughly themselves so they turn to the elevator with its big mixing equipment for help.

The usual deal is for a farmer to deposit enough corn in the bank to last a month or two. He gives the elevator a formula for each kind of feed he needs, telling how much corn, protein, vitamins, etc. he wants per ton.

When the feeders need filling he merely calls up the elevator and says, "Bring out a truck load of my hog mix." The elevator grinds and mixes a week's supply of feed to his formula, hauls it out to the farm in a big self-unloading truck, and puts it in the feeders. How's that for an easy way to get the chores done?

The usual charge for this service runs about 15¢ per bushel, Massey-Ferguson researchers find. This is about 8¢ per bushel more than it would cost to grind and mix on the farm. But it saves a lot of time and most farmers use this extra time to feed larger numbers of hogs or cattle.

Although storage is not the primary purpose of the grain bank, it is an added advantage for many farmers. It saves the cost of construction as well as maintenance of farm bins. There's no risk of spoilage or destruction of the grain, either.
