

THE EXECUTIVE
By Christopher Billopp

Executives are a fortunate lot. For, as everybody in an office knows, an executive has nothing to do. That is, except:

To decide what is to be done; to tell somebody to do it; listen to reasons why it should not be done; why it should be done by somebody else; or why it should be done in a different way; and to prepare arguments in rebuttal that shall convince and conclusively--

To follow up to see if the thing has been done; to discover that it has not been done; to inquire why it has not been done; to listen to excuses from the person who should have done it and did not do it; and to think up arguments to overcome the excuses--

To follow up a second time to see if the thing has been done; to discover that it has been done, but done incorrectly; to point out how it should have been done; to conclude that as long as it has been done, it may as well be left as it is; to wonder if it is not time to get rid of a person who cannot do a thing correctly; to reflect that the person in fault has a wife and seven children, and that certainly no executive in the world would put up with him or a moment; and that, in all probability, any successor would be just as bad or worse--

To consider how much simpler and better the thing would have been done had he done it himself in the first place; to reflect sadly that if he had done it himself he would have been able to do it right in twenty minutes, but that as things turned out, he himself spent two days trying to find out why it was that it had taken somebody else three weeks to do it wrong; but to realize that such an idea would have had a highly demoralizing effect on the organization, because it would strike at the very foundation of the belief of all employees that an executive really has nothing to do.

From this "quote" you can see that the 'executive' as Amos and Andy have said, don't have much to do, to worry about, to undo, redo, or what have you. Not that we're one, but, somebody in any business has to 'call the shots' and he, she or it might be classified as the 'executive'.

If you're not in this category, don't blame the 'executive' for

No Greater Strength

"God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in troubles." Psalms 46:1

Religion... ITS LESSONS FOR MODERN LIVING

IN this troubled modern world each of us has need for renewed strength and faith and hope with which to meet daily problems.

Where can you find greater strength and courage to face today than in God's house?

In your church is the peace and strength of thousands of years; throughout the centuries people have gone to church individually and in groups to draw upon this great reservoir of hope and faith.

In your church, right here in your home town, you can find help to overcome your troubles; here is your sanctuary; here you will find the courage which will sustain you today and tomorrow.

(Editor's Note: This is the fifth in a series of articles outlining the numerous boundary conflicts dating back to 1716, pointing up little known facts which shaped the Texas of today.)

Greer County lies at the base of the East side of the Texas Panhandle between the forks of Red River.

For many years people in that county did not know whether they were part of Texas or Oklahoma.

The trouble goes back to the treaty between the United States and Spain fixing Red River as boundary at a time when Texas Panhandle area was unexplored wild Indian territory.

They did not even know Red River had two forks.

In 1852, Captain R. B. Marcy discovered two forks of the river and attempted to locate on the ground the 100 meridian fixed in the old treaty as the northern boundary of Spanish territory. trouble.

"Captain R. B. Marcy discovered the Red River had two forks and the land in between became a center of dispute," Will Wilson points out.

Attorney General Will Wilson, currently fighting another boundary battle, that of the tidelands suit before the U.S. Supreme Court pin points the controversy.

"If the 100th meridian crossed below or downstream from the river's forking then the land belonged to Texas unquestionably.

In 1855 a treaty with the United States and the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians called for the ground location of the 100th meridian.

A. H. Jones and H. M. C. Bdown contract government surveyors, located their first boundary monument on the north bank of the south fork of Red River. They were convinced that the meridian domoed from the word go. Representing the United States were four army officers whose luggage consisted primarily of foreign conclusions, misconceptions of their function and a bag full of court martial tricks.

"They came to Texas with nothing to offer in the way of an agreement and they left the same way," Wilson observed.

In the next article will be related how the federal government took another bite out of Texas and Texas lost Greer County.

The land in between seemed revocably headed for dispute.

The Texas legislature jumped into the middle of the issue and created a county out of the entire disputed area, Indians and a That was in 1860.

The same year saw the beginning of the war between the states. The boundary dispute took a bad seat until 1885 when Congress

Oglesby Tigers vs Pottsville Badgers, 2-Dist. Here Fri. Eve

Oglesby With a 9-0 Record Meets Pottsville Friday Night in Holmes Stadium

Gatesville's chance to be the perfect host comes Friday evening, at 8:00 p.m. when Coryell county's only District Champions, Oglesby Tigers of District 10-B meet Pottsville High School's 9-0 district game in Holmes Stadium. Oglesby's record is hard to beat, at a mere 9-0, and we understand Pottsville's record in their district is almost as good. If you've never seen six-man football, you've a lot to learn about hard-hitting football. It's terrific.

VE SLAPS TROY OJANS WITH 16-0 WIN

COPPERAS COVE—Playing before a small and shivering crowd Friday night, Copperas Cove's Bulldogs wrapped up second place in District 25-B with a 6-0 football victory over Troy. All the scoring came in the second period—with the second being made just 45 seconds before halftime.

First Paul broke scoring ice with a plunge seven yards over the tackle to the goal line. Wayne number bulled his way around the two extra points.

In the score just before halftime, Douglas Goff hit Hummer with a 15 yard aerial into the end zone for the six-pointer. Paul scored two extra points on an end zone.

Troy never mounted a serious attack during the game and the half was a defensive, and featureless, battle.
