This is worth the space—think!

"Socialist's Psalm. The government is my shepherd, I need not work. It alloweth me to lie down on good jobs. It leadeth me beside still factories. It destroyeth my initiative. It leadeth me in the path of parasites, for politic's sake. Yet, tho I walk thru the valley of laxness and deficit spending. I will fear no evil, for the government is with me. It prepareth an economic Utopia for me by appropriating the earnings of my grandchildren. It filleth me with baloney, my inefficiency runneth over. Sure the government will take care of me all the days of my life and I will dwell in a fools paradise forever."

Is that 1960? Just About!

This is copied, too! "All who run after the gilded chariot of joy get covered with dust, and are left limping along the road quite bereft of that degree of comfort with which they started on the mad race."

"Yet sometimes when the quest for one's own happiness is quite out of mind, when one is absorbed in making someone else happy, down like a bird from the highest heavens comes joy, and settles as if at home, in the heart that has forgotten itself."

"Happiness is never touched by the hand that reaches out for it too eagerly. It flies into some hand open to give, not stretched out to receive."

"How often does the long-anticipated feast turn out to be a famine, gaiety having fled from the house overborne by much ponderous preparation."

"He who seeks happiness for its own sake shall lose it, and he who loses happiness for another's sake shall find it, even in the hour when he thinks it is gone from him forever, and is content to have it so—Woman's Home Companion."

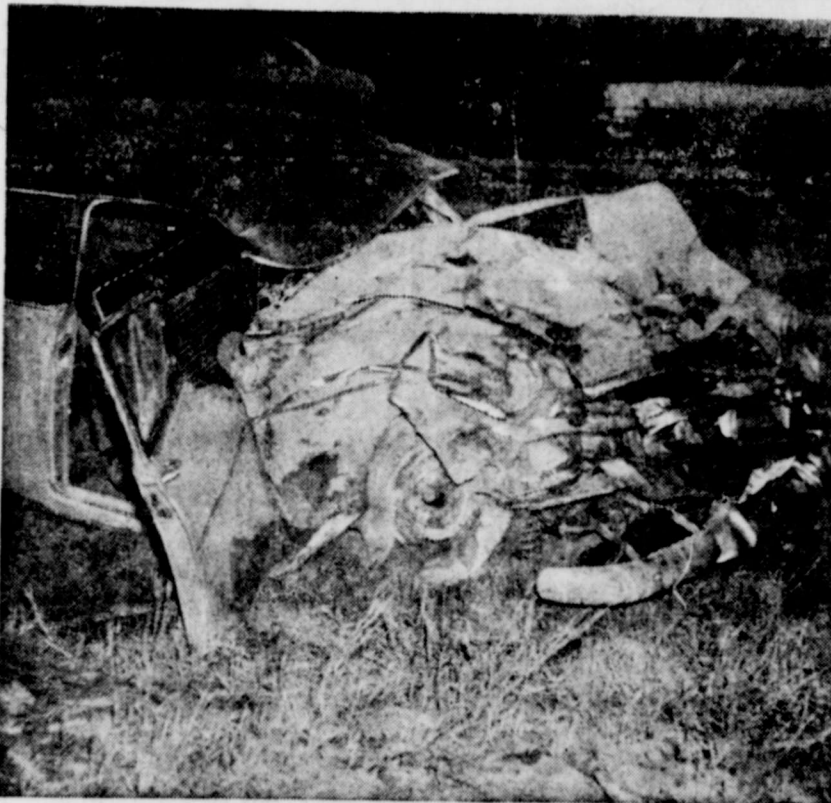

"Instructions, Please. A road map tells you everything except how to fold it up again.—Time Table, Lenox, La."

Copying is easier than thinking! We shouldn't copy.

DEADLINE SET FOR CONG. NOMINATIONS TO U. S. MERCHANT MARINE ACADEMY

Washington, D. C.—Congressman W. R. (Bob) Poage announced today that the deadline of February 10, 1960 has been set for accepting nominations of candidates for the next school year of the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy, Kings Point, New York. Congressman Poage is entitled to nominate 10 qualified applicants from the Eleventh Congressional District and he will receive applications for such nominations up to the deadline.

The U. S. Merchant Marine Academy, one of five Federal Academies, has its mission the education and training of qualified young men for careers as officers in our Merchant Marine. Its four year college level program leads to a B. S. degree, a U. S. Coast Guard license as a third Officer or a Third Assistant Engineer in the Merchant Marine, and a Commission in the Naval Reserve.

Congressman Poage further advised that constituents seeking more detailed information about the education and career opportunities afforded by the program of the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy, should contact him at 1526 House Office Building, Washington, D. C., or write to the Academy's Training Representative, P. O. Box 674, New Orleans, Louisiana.

Young men who wish to be considered for appointment to the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy should furnish Congressman Poage with their full name, birth date, educational background, their home address, and at least three letters of recommendation from persons who know the applicant.

Rev. Floyd Huggins and family, accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Billie Don Stewart and baby, all of Belton, were Sunday visitors with Mrs. M. L. Cooper of Gatesville.

It might be red, Ned!

VIEWES and NEWS

from our Congressman BOB POAGE

January 15, 1960

Dear Friends:

All of the old problems like defense, agriculture, taxes, "civil-rights" and the District of Columbia are back with the Congress as well as some new ones like high interest rates, run-away inflation, "payola," etc. The announced Presidential candidates are all trying to make issues—generally about the matters of least significance. As I see it, the really serious danger of this "political" year is that we will devote our attention to matters which are of little or no real importance and let the really vital questions go unanswered.

For instance, it just may be of overwhelming importance whether the Democratic Advisory Committee in the Senate has 9 or 15 members and whether they are selected by the elected leader or by those who elected the leader, but I can't believe that makes much difference to the masses of our people. Nevertheless, a group of 11 Senators have been willing to jeopardize the Senate's ability to work together on the really pressing matters of National defense and inflation in order to challenge a procedural matter.

I don't know of anybody who is being denied the right to vote in the United States, but a very vocal group is demanding that we put what they call "civil rights" ahead of a settlement of the farm problem. They want a "civil rights" bill every election year and seem to resent the fact that we gave them a far-reaching bill last year (when they could not use it as a part of the campaign).

Here in Washington there is a terrible uproar over what they call "Home Rule" for the District of Columbia. Lots of good people at home have been terribly concerned over the fact that the people of this District can't vote themselves into debt (Washington is the only large city with no if they wanted the same rights bonded indebtedness). Even so, and obligations as other Americans, I would sympathize with them but they refuse to consider being returned to the State of Maryland where they would be subject to State taxes. They want all of the privileges of the citizens of the States with none of their burdens.

I think we would do much better to consider our National defense first, our economic problems like inflation, the National debt, and the use of our surplus farm commodities, next. I would even feel that we had better dispose of our problems of foreign aid, our position in regard to foreign competition, etc., before we let the rules of the Senate or special privileges for the people of the District of Columbia become the issue of a Presidential campaign.

THE CASE OF
THE TWO MRS. BRAUNS

By Donald J. Sobol

"Konrad Braum, the West German jeweler, was strangled last week in his hotel room," said Inspector Winters. "His estate, reputedly over a half a million will go to his bride."

"Bride?" Haledjian raised an eyebrow. "Braum was past 70, wasn't he?"

"Apparently he married secretly just before sailing for America. He wired his American partner that his bride would join him in New York a week later. Other than that Mrs. Braum was a piano teacher, we don't know anything about her. Today she showed up — or two of them did. Both have all the necessary papers and know everything about Braum. But one is an imposter, and probably a murderer as well."

Haledjian consented to accompany the inspector to the home of the murdered man's American partner. In the living room, the two Mrs. Brauns, a blond and a brunette, sat glowering at one another. Both were robust, thirty-and pretty.

Haledjian shook hands first with the blonde and winced. Her grip left a red welt where her ring had bitten into his fingers. The brunette who looked equally formidable, wore rings on almost every finger. In self protection, Haledjian merely bowed. "Would you play the piano for me?" he requested.

The brunette went smoothly into a Chopin Nocturne, her muscular fingers aglitter. Haledjian counted three sapphire rings and a wedding band on her left hand, and three diamonds of assorted sizes on her right.

When she finished, the blonde attacked the keyboard, playing the same nocturne as though to outshine her rival. Musically she did as well, though her single plain wedding band left her far behind in the jewelry contest.

When the last note died, Haledjian said, "Suppose you tell us why you are posing as Mrs. Braum!"

GRASSROOTS OPINION
NORWALK, CONN., HOUR: "Public apathy has replaced consciousness of the dangers inherent in a continually upward spiral of prices. Inflation has been present so long it is accepted by many persons as an unalterable condition as witnessed by wage increases geared to cost of living indexes and a general expectation that wage increases automatically call for higher prices."

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

GOD TAKES CARE OF HIS OWN

God takes care of His own. Of this we can be sure, for the Bible is full of examples of how God has brought deliverance to His people in all kinds of need.

Just as it is true of Biblical times, so is it true today. God has His eye on us, and if we will only call upon Him and trust Him completely, He will see us through any trial.

A modern-day example of how God looks after His own is the recent experience of a family living in the West.

The father and mother, with their four small children, became lost while on a vacation trip. They found themselves suddenly in the burning desert country, and their automobile became disabled in a deep canyon. It was one of those places where the sun beats down relentlessly, the temperature often going to 120 degrees.

Realizing at once their serious predicament, with no food or water in the car, the parents knelt beside the automobile and prayed for divine guidance. Being devout Christians, both knew how to pray.

"Dear God," prayed the father, "for reasons known only to you, we have been brought to this desolate, isolated canyon. Unless you provide the means for our deliverance, we will soon perish from heat and lack of water.

"Give me guidance, O God, on how to survive, and send help before it's too late."

Later relating their experience, the father said: "Almost immediately after prayer we seemed to be seized with a new urgency. Our minds became alert and clear to the dangers we all faced. We seemed to have an uncanny knowledge... without a moment's hesitation... on what to do to survive. God surely looked after us.

"We had found a large overhanging rock, which shielded the family from the intense sun. I realized that the water in the radiator would provide our needs for awhile if it was carefully rationed.

"During the heat of mid-afternoon, when the sun was not shaded by the overhanging rock, I dug holes in the sand and buried the children up to their necks, so they could escape the deadly heat."

This is the condition in which rescuers found the family three days later—each buried up to his neck in sand.

"Of course, we became discouraged," the father related after the ordeal. "But my wife and I both felt the Lord was telling us what to do. We knew we would be saved."

Those familiar with the desolate region marveled at the family's being found alive. Not one of them required hospital treatment.

Yes, God looks after His own. He loves us and has the power to rescue us from any harmful situation.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

By Tex Easley

Associated Press Special Service
WASHINGTON, Jan. 21, (AP)—Senators investigating juvenile delinquency are concerned with the increasing narcotics traffic across the Mexican border, especially into Texas and California.

El Paso County Judge Woodrow Bean gave, in a letter, this description of the situation in his area.

"It is just as easy for a juvenile to purchase heroin, marijuana, liquor or pornography in Juarez (Mexico) as it is for a 10-year old child to buy a soft drink in any city in the United States.

"For your information, these and who constitute the vast majority are just as anxious for the present free flow of narcotics to be stopped as we are here in the United States."

To the extent that narcotics are involved in juvenile delinquency a Senate Judiciary subcommittee is taking up studies carried on by Texas Gov. Price Daniel when he, while a senator headed a special Judiciary narcotics control subcommittee a few years ago. The current juvenile delinquency subcommittee has called as the opening witness in its latest series of hearings (Jan. 22-26) another Texan-Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson.

While the invitation to testify was addressed to Anderson, the details of the problem are to be thrashed out with two men under him — Narcotics Bureau Director Harry Anslinger and Customs Bureau Director Ralph Kelly.

The senators want to know what can be done to more effectively curtail the flow of dope into the United States from Mexico, and how more cooperation to that end may be promoted between local, state and federal officials.

Later after hearing State Department witnesses, the subcommittee expects to conclude the current hearings. But it may reopen them later and invite witnesses from Mexican border areas to testify. Judge Bean likely would be among those called.

In his letter to the Senate committee, Bean said the State Department is taking a kid gloves attitude toward the problem for fear of offending the Mexican government.

"I am sure that you will agree that the youth of El Paso County and of the United States should NOT be sacrificed for our so-called good neighbor policy," he added.

Bean suggested passage of a law which would require that juveniles be prohibited from crossing the border into Mexico unless accompanied by their parents or a guardian.

AROUND THE CAPITAL:

Plugging for a new cash crop grown in Texas, Rep. Wright Patman of Arkansas presented colleagues packages of a snack food processed from sesame seed

With him at a Texas congressional luncheon when he passed out samples were two men from Texas cities where sesame seed processing plants are located—Walter W. Bassano, publisher of the Paris News, and Robert West, Honey Grove business man.

Mexican food is always a favorite among Texans here, and Alger's office drew envious eyes from all when she got a box of alapenos and other hot delicacies from across the Rio Grande.

Although now on the secretarial staff of the Dallas Congressman, Miss Wharton is originally from McAllen. While spending Christmas there with her mother, Mrs. J. O. Wharton, she arranged to have the Mexican food shipped up.

Seated directly behind Mamie Eisenhower in the House gallery section reserved for presidential guests when the president delivered his State of the Union message was Mrs. Tmar Bursleson.

The wife of the Abilene-Anson district congressman, a Democrat, laughingly explained how she happened to be there. She said she had given up her own ticket to another gallery section to someone without a ticket who wanted for standing room elsewhere, she found a doorman escorting guests into the executive section of the gallery.

The only other Texan seated in the section, incidentally, was Mrs. Tom Clark, wife of the Supreme Court justice.

INCENTIVE PAY PAYS OFF

On December 4, 1959, the Lincoln Electric Company of Cleveland, Ohio, paid its 1371 employees there and in its 38 district offices throughout the country $6,488,167 in annual incentive pay. Each employee received a check representing payment for his or her extra contribution to the success of the company for the year. The amount of each check was determined by the individual merit rating of performance on the job for the year.

"Jim" Lincoln, chairman of the company's Board of Directors, inaugurated this incentive bonus policy in 1934. Since that time the company has paid incentive bonuses to the tune of $93,985,308, in addition to regular wages and other benefits which are standard for the industry. In 1959, the company also purchased $1 million in retirement annuities covering each employee. The company also guarantees continuous employment to all employees with over two years of service, thus securing them against lay-offs.

In doing all the foregoing the Lincoln organization has consistently maintained a productivity level correspondingly higher than that of the average manufacturing company. The welding machines and electrodes which the company manufactures are sold today at substantially the same and in some cases even lower prices than they were in 1934 when the incentive program was started.

Our hat is doffed to James F. Lincoln who has proved conclusively that a proper incentive system makes for better labor management relations; increased earnings for both employee and employer; and a better deal for the consumer.
