Most of you have been watching the Elephants this week. It was the Democratic Donkeys last week. Looks like both of them have made Monkeys out of Texans in particular, and Southerners in general. It's got us to where we don't know what, and frankly, it looks like there really isn't much difference.

The Bryan Daily Eagle came out with a suggestion of believe, Senator Marry Goldwater for president, and Allen Shivers for vice-preesident on a Third Party ticket. There might be something in that, but it hasn't developed, Scanning the various newspapers and reports it doesn't seem many are satisfied with the platforms or sections of either party. To the moment, it's Richard M. Nixon for president for the Republicans, and the main thing about their convention is their selection of a vice president, who seems teriffically important in both parties in this election year of 1960, if you forget the practically-the-sameplatforms of each party.

BY DONALD J. SOBOL

On the night of July 15, the engineer of a westbound local missed rignal and crashed head-on into a high speed express out of Chicago.

The result — one of the bloodiest disasters in railroad history.

"It strikes me odd that all the serious casualties were in the first seven cars of both trains," said Dr. Haledjian. "A" except one."

"Jess Fromm, you mean?" asked Inspector Winters. "What makes you question his death?"

"Partly because Fromm's niece asked me to investigate," replied Haledjian.

The inspector went to his files. "Fromm was on his way to a hardware convention with his business partner, Wendel Smith," said the inspector. "Here's Smith's statement."

According to Smith, he and Fromm shared compartment C in the last car of the local. Seconds before the crash, Fromm got up and walked forward to the compartment's toilette.

At the impact, Fromm was standing. He was thrown back and struck his head against the ridge of the card table set between the facing seats.

"Smith now owns the whole business," said the inspector, "There's your motive. Method? He could have struck Fromm in the back of the neck with the table AFTER the crash. Rut how are you going to proveit?"
"I should start," replied Haledjian, with the obvious lie in Smith's statement."

FARM PROFIT

Cut Your Farm Gasoline Bills This Year

Gasoline thieves aren't always human. On many farms the worst culprits are the hot summer sun and poorly-tuned engines. Massey-Ferguson researchers found that six 50-gallon drume standing in the sun lost 30 gallons by evaporation in a month. A vented 290-gallon tank lost 11 gallons.

But, when they put a pressure cap on the 290-gallon tank it lost only three gallons in a month. An underground tank, same size, lost seven gallons, four gallons less than above ground.

The researchers learned that the best place of all for a gas tank is under a tree away from buildings.

Poorly-tuned tractor end has use 10% to 20% more gas than necessary, they found. University of Nebraska tests showed that a simple tune-up delivered to 3 more horsepower at the belt gallon of gas. and 1 to 2 more horse

Football's rearing its head. Boys, prospects for GHS 1960 edition are stretching their legs and getting the feel at Holmes Sadium - on their own - of course, and not officially, since the TIL frowns on any official actcion until a certain date.

The coachin staff will be in Big D for the 1960 Coaching school this week, and then, the fireworks will begin-soon. They're still playing a little baseball, guess, as the lights are on almost every night, but the lights that tell you about it are out - there are no reports. Sponsors ouht to raise old bill about that. They pick up a tab for $50 simoleons and that OUGHT to get some publicity. Onliest we got, is when we happened to pass the field and got the scores off the schedule at the concession stand. That's really givin' with the info. We wouldn't want to put up our 50 for that sort of publicity, and, that's one reasor hey put it up, or, have they jus got 50 they don't need.
