"FUSTEST WITH

THE MOSTEST"

Little 'g' gatesville, Texas

Quota 29 for Texas, Labor Day— traffic, that is.

As usual reams of writing was written on 'don't go out and kill yourself or somebody else, and naturally, it is hoped it'd do some good. Did it?

So there's no use going into that. What's happened has happened.

This boating business, if you've been following the statistics you'll notice the drownings are going up at the lakes all over Texas and more lakes, more drownings, but, of course, death plays on a percentage basis, and there's a growing percentage of people boating—most of them landlubbers— everyday. They are bound to happen.

...Dont know (Thursday morning) how many closed here Labor Day. It's usually an individual proposition, altho the C-C goes to the trouble to say what days 'long about the first of the year, and then everybody does what they want to. That's the history for at least the past 25 years and possibility of a change seems dim indeed. Any way you took it, we hope most of you are back this bright Sept. 6.

"Two Years For One" (Don't try this here) "Letter to a Boston paper: Dear Sir: When I subscribed a year ago you stated that if I was not satisfied at the end of the year I could have my money back. Well, I would like to have it back.

"On second thought, to save the trouble, you may apply it to my next year's subscription. (And we thought we'd heard 'em all.)

In Wallachs, the New York men's store, they practice 'trad-in' on suits, like in many other lines of equipment. Altho they do not count the price of their clothes they help patrons to part with old garments by putting a price on the old suit. The owner donates it to a recognized charity and Wallachs packs and delivers the garment. Thereupon, as stated in Wallachs ad in the Herald Tribune, the store supplies a printed receipt which can be included in the list of charitable deduction on your next income tax return.

The mos thoroughly wasted of all days is that one on which one has not laughed.

An assistant is a fellow who can't get off."

NEW PTA OFFICIALS NAMED AT COPPERAS COVE

Mrs. Lee Ledger was named president of Copperas Cove PTA at a meeting in the school auditorium recently, which was attended by 100 parents.

Other officials are C. J. Powell, vice-president; Ralph Wright, secretary and Mrs. Elna Crumley, treasurer.

Principal Eddy Glass said "an all time enrollment of 1118 were in the school system and a single PTA can no longer handle the requirements of all grade levels, and they have separate chapters for junior and high school.

NOT 100 IN TEXAS IN AUG. WEATHERMAN REPORT

Temperatures, Dallas U. S. Weather Bureau says, have stayed in 2 figures during August 1960.

It's the first time in 20 years, and their highest reading for the month was 98 on August 4 and 6.

The highest reading was on July 13 with 103.

Rain and numerous cloudy days are responsible.

A mail order firm which sold phonograph records received a letter from an occasional buyer with whom there had been credit problems in the past 'Send record' the letter read. BLIND CHILDREN PROVE THEMSELVES IN DIVING CLASSES IN DALLAS

(AP Texas Supplemental Service) By Phillip Grubbs

DALLAS, Tex. Sept. 1 (AP) — The cry "Watch out below" is not one of arrogant warning in a little group Charlie Amacher has been instructing to swim this summer. It is a precautionary statement before Ann Phillips and Kaherny Ann Wilson dive into a pool. For both are blind.

Amacher, a YMCA instructor training the children on his own time, reports that the children are not afraid of water.

At first, they were cautious, but Amacher, with patience and understanding, gave them the needed confidence.

Amacher says the girls are more eager to learn than children without their handicap. And like all children, once they are in the pool they don't like to leave.

They have no difficulty finding the shore once they are in the middle of the pool. They simply follow sounds, usually Amacher's voice.

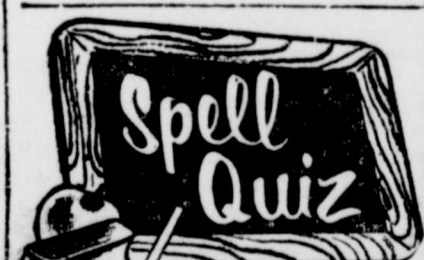

Amacher also gives the girls trampoline lessons once a week. Little Ann is able to do a back flip with the assistance of a safety belt.

The mothers of the little girls, say the activities Amacher has taught hem are a blessing because they are unable to take part in many other recreations.

Ann is a twin, and her sister is Lynn, who takes lessons along with Ann and Kathryn. Ann lost her sight shortly after birth.

Kathryn and Ann attend public school and heir schedule is the same as other children's except for Braille classes.

Ann's parents are M. and Mrs. Norman G. Phillips. Kathryn's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wilson.

WORKING WITH WOOD INSULATOR

The ability of wood to conduct heat is low. Unlike metals, heat passes through wood very slowly. Therefore, wood is a good insulator against heat and cold. It also explains why well constructed homes are relatively easy to heat.

The insulating capacity of solid wood is affected by many factors such as grain, knots, splits or cracks and moisture content of wood. Heat will travel about twice as fast along the grain as it will across it. Also the heavier species of wood have less insulating quality than lighter wood and wet wood is not as efficient an insulator as dry wood.

To overcome variable insulating conditions and to increase the natural insulating capacity of solid wood, structural insulating board or other types of insulation is frequently impregnated with asphalt or other water resistant materials.

Insulation serves to control sound and also the outflow of heat during hot weather.

Editor E. L. Holmund, Argyle, Minn., Marshall County Bank. We have heard comment recently about the "softness" of American youth. If such a condition exists, what is the cause? Could it be the result of the state assuming greater and greater control over the individual - his schooling, his work, his income, his savings, his death and his estate - in other words, cradle to grave supervision?

By RUDY EVINS

Jim Torrence, a 15-year-old enthusiast from Georgia, sent me an interesting letter recently asking about the type of fly reel he should buy for bass fishing.

There are two types of fly reels on the market: single action and automatic. Actually a fly reel has no bearing on the type of fishing you intend to use it for. All it does is house your line, says the Evinrude Boating Foundation.

Except for the problem of tangling up your line, a reel, tin can or your pants pocket would serve the same purpose as your reel and the same results would be accomplished. Except when playing lunkers your reel is useless... you don't cast from it and you very seldom use it to play fish. To lay out line it is striped from the reel with one hand and cast with the other. To retrieve a fish the same thing is done in reverse, pulling in a few feet at a time.

The automatic reel has it over the single action type in that the line is wound up on the spool at the touch of a lever. In a single action reel the line falls at your feet until it is wound up on the spool manually.

Basically that is the only difference between the two reels, however the construction differs according to the quality and price. You can buy a reel at a "bargain" for $1.98 and it might last a "whole year." But if you are an ardent fisherman and would like to use your reel for three, four or more years, you might pay in the neighborhood of $15 or more for it.

Happy boating... and fishing, too. Rudy

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

THERE IS A SCIENCE IN FAITH

There is a science in faith. There is a definite way to approach it. Faith is not something you ask for, not something you try to get; it is something you already have.

In Romans 12:3 the Bible says, "... God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith." God deals to every individual a measure—a measure of faith. Everyone comes into this world with it. You have it; I have it. Some may not use their measure of faith; some may lose it; some may misuse it; some may learn how to use it well, but each of us starts life with a measure of faith.

However, the faith that is given us is deposited in seed form. It is planted within us. We have the innate capacity for faith—the potential power to believe. But, there is a difference in faith as such and faith as an act of positive believing.

When someone approaches me and says, "Brother Roberts, I have all the faith in the world," immediately a question comes into my mind: If you have, why has it taken so long for you to put it into practice? You can have all the faith in the world but until it becomes action, until it becomes a strong, positive, motivating attitude, your faith is powerless.

Jesus said to Thomas, who had doubted his Saviour's resurrection from the dead: "Thomas, see the evidence.

Look upon me and see my nail-pierced hands." And when Thomas saw that it was the real Christ, Jesus said, "Be not faithless, but believing."

Jesus made a difference between the word faith and the act of believing. He meant this: "You may have the capacity for faith, the power to believe, but I want you to start believing."

You may be seeking divine healing from God; you already have the faith (God gave each of us a measure of faith), but are you using the faith you have? Has your faith become a living, dynamic thing? Do you feel your faith? Are you aroused to action by it? Does it push outward, striking a blow for deliverance? Does your faith bring you to a point of decision? Do you act upon your faith?

When faith is alive in you, you feel it. It is something which causes you to believe in a stronger, more positive manner.

There is a science in faith. You must learn how to use it to get what you want from God.

Faith is the very heart of the Bible's teaching. Your faith can become a living force. When it does it becomes a weapon, an instrument of deliverance, a mighty power that brings you to God and what He has promised you.

Do your children know the answers?

Good study light at home helps them earn good grades at school

The right answers to teacher's questions come only after proper study and preparation. You can help your children earn better grades by providing the right light for home study. In most cases, a good table lamp equipped with a 150-watt bulb will provide ample light for easy seeing. The lamp should be tall enough to spread light evenly over the work area and properly shaded to prevent glare. See your dealer or visit our office soon for study lighting needs.

Will There Be Enough Money To Pay Those College Bills?

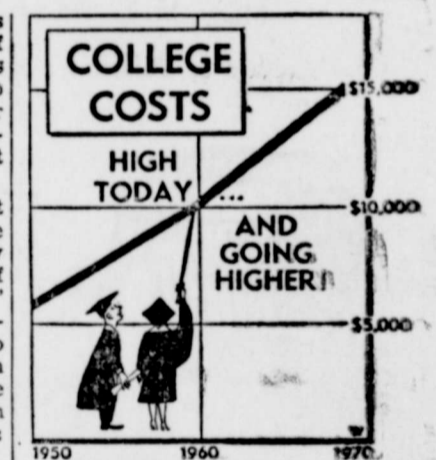

Getting into college these days is only half the battle. The other half—and by all odds the toughest—is how to pay for it. Ten years ago the four-year outlay at the larger universities was about $6,000. Today it costs $10,000 and in 1970 it may reach $15,000 or more.

How do parents generally expect to meet this whopping bill? On the basis of a recent Elmo Roper study for the Ford Foundation, 70% of the nation's families are "planning" ("hoping" would be a more accurate term) to send their children to college. But only two of five such families are putting money aside for college expenses. And even then, the median amount saved is a pitiful $150 per year.

Many parents (the majority of those interviewed by Mr. Roper) count on their children to win a scholarship or work their way through college. But the average scholarship is $145, and all scholarships together account for only about 5% of the students' total annual expenses. What's more, "working-your-way-through-college" can be a serious handicap to students in today's high cost, highly competitive college environment.

What's left then for families who haven't made adequate provision for their children's education? About the only alternatives are to draw on current income or borrowed funds. Availability of college loans has been increasing, but strangely enough, relatively few parents seem inclined to borrow—perhaps because monthly payments are so high.

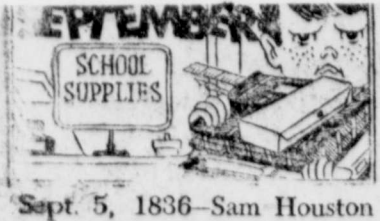

For most parents the only sound answer is to accumulate at least two-thirds of the total college outlay in advance. Basically, there are three ways to build a college fund: by systematic savings accounts; by investing in equities such as mutual fund shares, securities or real estate; by buying a college endowment or other life insurance policies with sufficient cash values for education. Each method has its advantages and disadvantages, but human nature being what it is—the safest procedure perhaps is to adopt a plan with built-in assurances of completion on time and in the amount needed. For most people, life insurance probably best serves this purpose.

Recently a few insurance companies have been seeking better solutions to the college financing problem. A major breakthrough in this area, which will probably start an industry trend, is the Home Life Insurance Company's new "College Paid-For" endowment rider. It gives parents seven additional years for cash accumulation, thus reducing the annual or monthly outlay by as much as 30% compared with conventional endowments. This permits financing college before and after graduation.

However you decide to prepare for your children's college costs, it will pay to start on a systematic plan as soon as possible, preferably while the children are still in the early grades. Each year that passes brings closer the day of reckoning and will inevitably mean greater financial sacrifices.

"I would urge both of you to be there and in the event a quorum is present, the policies of the council toward making additions of a permanent or semi-permanent nature to the schools under its jurisdiction will be established," Windsor said.
At a recent council meeting, Windsor rebuked Turman for starting work on two new buildings at the state reformatories at Gatesville and Gainesville. Turman purchased for $230 two surplus Air Force buildings to serve Windsor told Turman he felt the director had no authority to buy the buildings and start the projects without the council's prior approval. Kneebone, while saying he feared "we's building a slum" did not explicitly join Windsor in the reproof of the director.

ALTOONA, PA., MIRROR: Former president Herbert Hoover, at the age of 85 still can thrill his listeners and his clear voice and cheery smile can hold attention. The elder statesman of the Republican party proved himself to be the hit of the opening session of the Republican convention in Chicago.

He attacked, the Communists, the eggheads and the beatniks who would place America second and fail to stand up to their heritage. He sought a rebirth of a great spiritual force which has been impaired by cynicism and weakened by foreign infections.

They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary, and they shall walk and not faint.—(Isaiah 40:13)

To wait upon God is to seek, through prayer and righteous living, to be one with Him in all things at all times all our days, in the sure knowledge that without His love within us, we can achieve little that is truly good and lasting.

COTTON OUTLOOK CLOUDY

Texas cotton production for 1960 has been figured at 4,375,000 bales in the first estimate released by the USDA, but this was before heavy August rains covered nearly all areas of South Texas.

The 4,375,000 bale estimate would be some 125,000 bales below the 4,500,000 bale yield of 1959 in Texas and it may be lower than that after the results of continued rainfall in the harvest season are counted up. About 10 per cent of the 1960 crop has now been gathered, mainly in the Rio

ONE OF THESE IS

"TEXAS DAIRY PRINCESS"

They had it, Aug. 26 at the Driskill Hotel's Crystal Ballroom in Austin, and in addition, 6 groups and 13 individuals who have contributed to Texas food and agriculture were honored at the 1960 "Spotlight On Youth"

Grande Valley and in the lower reaches of South Texas. The average yield in all of Texas this year is estimated at 321 pounds per acre.

Nationally, total cotton production for 1960 is estimated at about 14,471,000 bales, a little below the 14,558,000 bale crop gathered last year.

Cotton harvesting will be late this year in nearly all areas of Texas because of the lateness in getting the growing season started. Growers in some sections were unable to get stands with even on, or more replantings, and some acreage was diverted to other crops.

But whatever the outlook in the rest of the state, the 23 counties in the High Plains covered by the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. were full of optimism as August neared its end. First official estimates put out by the Lubbock Cotton Exchange and the Plains Cotton Growers indicate a production of 1,899,000 bales for 1960, which would be 29,647 bales more than the 1959 production in the same 23 county area. It is figured that the 1960 crop will be worth from $267 million to $286 million. The all-time record for cotton production on the High Plains stands at 2,025,433 bales ginned in 1958.

In common with many other sections of the state, High Plains cotton early in the season was plagued by adverse weather plant diseases and insects. But the conditions of the crop bolstered by exceptionally heavy rains when most needed in July was described in August as being excellent. No large volume of high plans cotton is expected to be harvested before October.

Under the Federal farm program, cotton is grown on a plan which seeks broader markets and lowered price supports. Growers are allowed to overplant allotted acreages provided they are willing to accept lower price guarantees. Cotton acreage allotments this year amounted to 15,531,000 acre compared with an average of 19,969,000 acres for the past 10 years.

THE CASE OF THE LEAKY RADIATOR

By DONALD J. SOBOL

Mary Slater waited until they had reached the lonely seven-mile stretch of road north of Carsonville.

"Ed," she cried. "The motor's overheating!"

Her husband shot a glance at the instrument panel. With a grunt of astonishment, he pulled the brand new car off the road. He had the hood up and was unscrewing the radiator cap when Mrs. Slater reached his side.

She swung the piece of heavy pipe with every ounce of strength.

Ed Slater sagged over the radiator. Then he slowly slid down the front of the car. The radiator cap dropped from his hand and rolled under the rear axle.

An hour later the tear-streaked woman supplied the police with a very complete account of the killing. If her tale neglected to include the detail that she had drained the radiator the previous night, it did not otherwise want for facts.

"Ed had just unscrewed the radiator cap when this tramp stepped out of the bushes behind him," she sobbed. "He shoved the end of a piece of pipe against Ed's back, like a hold-up man. Ed used to be a boxer. I suppose he thought he could overpower any thief."

"I started to open the door to get out and help when the thief struck Ed. He took his wallet and raced off."

"Was the thief wearing gloves?" asked Sheriff Monahan.

"Why, I think so. I'm not really sure. Everything happened so fast," answered Mrs. Slater.

"Of course you are holding her for murder," said Dr. Haledjian after the sheriff had recounted the story.

WHY?

Sitting in the car, she could not see the hood was up, remember?

HAGERSTOWN, MD. HERALD: As news came that the federal budget for the year just ended showed a welcome billion dollar surplus, it was ruefully admitted that the Social Security fund had shrunk by the same amount. It wasn't forecast by the experts who had thought the fund would be in the black after two straight years in the red. Even the new higher social security taxes weren't enough. It's a simple matter of more people taking more money out. And, if it goes on it is certain that taxes will have to be raised quickly just to cover present benefits.

The plan to cover medical expenses would raise taxes too, and steeply. Congress must not railroad through another ill-considered medical aid bill that will be a mortgage on our whole futures.

It might be blue. Lou!

CANTON, GA., TRIBUNE:
 "American tourists who go abroad and sneer at local custom or deride conditions that do not compare favorably with those in the try much of the goodwill that the United States may lose this country is winning through its programs of assistance . . .

"While the average American is a well-behaved individual, there are some self-deluded big shots who think themselves superior to everybody else and therefore entitled to preferential treatment everywhere. These objectionable individuals make difficulties for well-mannered and courteous travelers and reflect upon the community of their origin."

The Answer

"Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity!" — Psalm 133:1

The answer to the problem of unity in the Christian faith can be found if individual Christians practice what they preach: charity

The time may ever come when all Christians will kneel in the same church, but if we as individuals practice Christian charity we can clear the air of past hatreds, understand each other's positions and co-operate to defeat materialism.

If we practice this charity, the tensions between neighbors in this community who have different faiths will fade away; we will find ourselves united in heart and mind if not in the same building.

Jesus said "With God all things are possible." In these words there is a lesson for modern Christians and the answer to unity. Believe Christian charity, and there will be unity among Christians.
