"FUSTEST WITH

THE MOSTEST"

little 'g' gatesville, Texas

Everybody's congratulating Ft. Hood on its 18th birthday, including Mayor Dan McNeil of Gatesville. Ft. Hood has it coming.

The Mayor says: "The citizens of Gatesville are indeed happy to extend their heartiest congratulations to Ft. Hood upon achieving its 18th birthday."

"Many of our citizens have watched Ft. Hood grow from infancy to its present position as one of the largest and strongest military installations in the United States. Ft. Hood is a splendid example of our nation's determination to safeguard our democratic way of life. At the same time, Ft. Hood has always contributed and continues to contribute to the economic and cultural growth of the many communities surrounding it."

"We of Gatesville extend to all of Ft. Hood our best wishes and pledge our continuing cooperation in all its endeavors." We say: "Amen" to that, Mayor.

Congratulations have been received from Gen. A. D. Bruce, mayors of Ft. Worth, Waco, Taylor, Austin, Dallas, Governor Price Daniel, San Saba, Temple, Copperas Cove, Lampasas, et cetera, et cetera.

You'll notice in the C-C bulletin, an item of $1,000 for the Negro Cemetery (which should have a name). This is to put a fence around the cemetery - a good idea. You'll also notice the 10c tax goes to keep up the cemeteries of the city, but if you'll look at the Negro Cemetery, you'll decide none of this clean-up money is spent - rather, used here. Should be!

We see a wagon-covered next to the Sheriff's parking place on the square and are told it is to publicize the to be sometime teen age rodeo. We wish we knew more. Maybe that's all that's necessary, but we're curious, and would like to know - and we could use some of that folding stuff, too.

"A tale heard this week is about a recent groom in a local wedding. The story is that he found himself unavoidably late in getting to the church. The bride-to-be received a telegram from him which read:

SECOND ANNUAL COUNTY FAIR SET FOR FEBRUARY 10-11: COMMITTEES NAMED

At a meeting of Gatesville C-C Agriculture Committee and the County Vocational Agriculture and H-E teachers and the H-D Agent, Thursday night, plans were initiated for a 2nd Coryell County Fair, tentatively set for Feb. 10-11.

Teachers and Agents are getting boys and girls started on show projects, and grownups who wish to exhibit any class livestock are asked to contact County Agent LeRoy Hoerman, and sufficient interest will justify adult classes, both registered and grade animals.

Present were Chairman Eddie Winfield, Bob Melbern and Clois Stone and LeRoy Hoerman. Also H-D Agent Mrs. Margaret Owens, Mrs. Moody Courtney, Mrs. Theresa Campbell, H-E teachers at Jonesboro and Copperas Cove; Voc. Ag. teachers, Rabv Smalley, Jonesboro; Robert Hopson, Flat; Lesle Sheldon, Evant; R. D. Mitchell, Copperas Cove; Jobe Summers and W. Crumbley of Copperas Cove.

City Matches County's 3 Gs For Improving Community Center: Buy Chevy Pickup

At Tuesday evening's meeting of the City Council, in addition to paying current bills, voted 4-0 by the aldermen to match the $3,000 for improving the Coryell County Community Center with tax money. Total city evaluation was set at $6,393,830.

A surprising note was the appearance of Dr. O. W. Lowery who suggested the city raise taxes from the current rate of $0.75 so they could 'do something', and that the city tax dollar was the most beneficial tax dollar spent in this vicinity.

The $0.75 tax rate is divided as follows: 25c general fund, 25c street, 15c permanent improvements and 10c parks and cemeteries.

They also voted to pay the tax equalization board, who deserve it.

They bought a Chevrolet pickup from Powell Chevrolet Company.

THERE." Note: At that time in a man's life he is utterly irresponsible - he is excused.

A small-town newspaper carried a quarter-page of white space, in the center of which was set in 6 point type: "This space belongs to John Smith, who went off fishing with the copy in his pocket." Note: We don't have that many pages.

BILLY GRAHAM FILM SHOWN IN GATESVILLE

Billy Graham historic 1700 mile "Safari for Souls" across was the theme of a new feature length motion picture, "Africa on the Bridge" which was shown at the First Baptist Church in Gatesville at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 10 under the sponsorship of the Corvell Baptist Associational Youth Rally.

Photographed in authentic sound and natural color in 17 principal cities in Africa the document captures the spirit of Africa during these current crucial years. Frequently called "The Awakening Giant" Africa is depicted to be in a transition period - on a bridge - between ancient tribalism and the shining goal of independence from colonial rule. During this significant period, American Evangelist Billy Graham was accorded an unprecedented welcome by Africans ranging from chiefs of state down to the general population of bush, desert, and jungle. A total of 500,000 persons attended outdoor mass meetings with nearly 35,000 inquirers remaining for further help and instruction.

Editor Myron P. Lown, Olean, N. Y., News - One upstate editor said recently, "Now that the political season is underway, one should vote for the man who promises the least... then you won't be so disappointed."

California's state motto is "Eureka," a Greek word meaning "I have found it."

Look At The Label, Mable!

Whether it's split bamboo, solid or hollow fiber glass—a fishing rod that works well is an angler's pride and joy.

A good rod can make casting easy and prevent snapped lines and lost fish by cushioning the impact of a strike or sudden lunge.

Today, modern fiber glass rods have pretty much replaced bamboo. A few old-timers still wield split bamboo, and some anglers argue that it provides more "feel", but the fact is that 98 percent of today's anglers use lighter, more durable, and less expensive fiber glass.

The pro's and con's of hollow vs. solid fiber glass are best understood if one premise is kept firmly in mind—the rod should do the work. The stiffness and taper determine HOW the rod works; the construction of the rod determines HOW WELL it works.

Among the most respected hollow fiber glass rods are those made by Garcia-Coplon in Costa Mesa, Calif. These "Companion" rods are made of spun glass, woven into a gauze-like fabric. The fabric is shaped around a steel mandril similar to a jeweler's ring sizer. The shape of the mandril determines the shape or taper of each rod.

When the mandril is removed following a heat bonding process, the hollow shaft is ready for finishing and polishing. Grips and hardware are then added.

The fabric-like weave of the hollow rod insures strength and resilience.

While solid glass rods are made similarly of fine spun glass threads, these are not woven but stretched lengthwise, bound, and cut to size.

When the heat bonding is completed, the rod resembles electric cable. The taper of a solid glass rod is ground into the cylinder of bonded fiber glass.

Although slightly more expensive than solid, the hollow fiber glass rod with its interwoven construction provides greater resilience. It works better because it is hollow.

Picture a rod bending to a strike. The outside arc stretches while the inside or underneath is compressed. This stretching and compressing takes place throughout the cross section of the rod. The core of the solid rod both stretches and compresses—it works against itself. It is not working for the angler, by providing more resilience for the extra weight.

When buying a rod, heft it in your hand, feel the balance and action. Find an action such as a fast taper tip that suits your style of casting, and remember to balance the rod to the type of fishing you plan. With too much rod you can't feel the fish—with too little, you can't land him.

a roping contest, aboard his registered quarterhorse Yellow (AP Photos)

GRAPEVINE INSTRUCTOR HAS UNUSUAL VOCATION DURING SUMMER: RODEOING

By Dave Taylor

Associated Press Staff writer

GRAPEVINE, Tex. Sept 12 (AP) - When talk of how summer vacations were spent gets around Grapevine Junior High School one faculty member usually has an attentive audience.

He is John Hosea, 43 year old mathematics teacher, who spends his summer vacation as a calf roping with rodeo shows.

A calf roping math teacher may sound like a filter tip cigarette commercial, but John has been roping calves long before such advertising flashed across television screens.

For the past 10 years John has appeared as a contestant in many of the top rodeos in the country and does pretty well when the prize money is awarded.

The tall, lanky, former football player at Texas Wesleyan College started calf roping after he returned from service in WW II in 1945 to help develop shoulder muscles weakened by orthopedic surgery. After several years of practice, John felt he was doing well enough to join the Rodeo Cowboys Association and compete with full-time cowboys for prizes.

Hitting the rodeo trail provides a vacation for the whole Hosea family. Mrs. Hosea, John, Jr. 18; June 17; Mike, 10; and Marcia, 9, make the annual trek with John. Even Snickel, the family pooch, hops in the station wagon when it is loaded and ready to roll.

The tour each summer means between six and seven thousand miles of travel, visiting six to eight states and camping out along the way. The Hosea family shuns motels and restaurants preferring to sleep in tents and blanket rolls and cook their meals in the open.

Traveling the rodeo circuit not only is summer employment for John and provides a vacation for the family, but also serves as a means for acquiring the six hours formal education or travel required by the school system for its teachers. Mrs. Hosea, a teacher in Grapevine elementary school, and John keep alog of their travels in which they record customs typical of certain areas, land formations, crops and industries in the many state they visit. This material when complete is accepted under the travel requirements the same as journeys to foreign lands.

This summer's trip was mixed with joy and sadness. John, Jr. after finishing his high school athletics eligibility and deciding to forego college athletics, received his RCA permit and competed in several rodeos. On the darker side the vacation was cut short by several weeks by the death of Rusty. Hosea's 16-year-old roping horse at Dodge City. The three-quarter thoroughbred horse injured a leg and in spit of round-the-clock care by John and the family, developed lockjaw and had to be destroyed. The last few week of the vacation were spent training Chebon Larney (Yellow for short) a 6 year old quarter horse John bought last year.

Each summer will be the last for making the tours avows John as the fall school term starts. Dozens of reasons are given. The children are growing up, dad is getting a little old to keep up the pace, mother wants to stay home and entertain during the summer. But the following spring, after the book have been put away the kids sense the faraway look in their dad's eyes suggest: "Can't we go again just this year?"

Pretty soon Mrs. Hosea, June, Mike and Marcia are loading the camping gear into the station wagon; John and John, Jr. are readying the horse and trailer and Snickel takes his place in the back of the wagon barking with excitement.

Just how long John will keep hitting the rodeo trail each summer is problematical, but it's a pretty safe bet that as long as he is able to rope and tie a calf in 11-14 seconds the rodeo announcers will be saying, "Next roper, John Hosea of Grapevine, Texas."

CARAMEL FROSTING

In heavy skillet over medium gas flame (325-350 F. dial setting on controlled-burner) caramelize (cook until melted and of rich brown color), string frequently.

Combine in saucepan 3 tablespoons sugar, 2 cups sugar, 2 tablespoons light corn syrup, 1 teaspoon baking powder. Add 2-3 cup milk, 1-2 cup butter or margarine, caramelized sugar.

Cook over medium gas flame (250-275 F. dial setting on controlled burner) until small amount forms a soft ball in cold water (234 F.). Remove from flame. Cool without stirring. Beat until creamy and thick enough to spread. If frosting becomes too thick to spread, add a few drops of warm water and mix well. Makes enough for top and sides of three 8 or 9-inch layers.

Weekly Stock Market Round-Up

Prepared by the Investment Research Department of Hemphill, Noyes & Co., 15 Broad Street, New York 5, N. Y. Members of the New York Stock Exchange

August 31, 1960

WHAT PRICE GOLD STOCKS?

In the past two and one-half years monetary gold stocks have flowed out of this country at a faster rate than at any time in the last 50 years. The general feeling seems to be that higher interest rates abroad are attracting gold from this country, but this may not be necessarily so in that we were having a significant inflow of gold from 1945 to 1949 when interest rates were at their post-war lows. More logically it would appear that the outflow of gold has been caused because a balance of trade less favorable to the United States exists and that currently there is somewhat less confidence in the United States investments as compared to those abroad.

Today some drastic steps must eventually be taken to arrest the outflow of gold. Reduction of foreign aid might effectively slow down the loss of gold, but at the same time such a step could have dangerous effects on our relationships with the countries abroad that are on the fringe of going Communist. Tariffs and quotas could be created, but undoubtedly these would be opposed by foreign countries through prompt and similar retaliation.

Although there is no real reason for concern about the present level of monetary gold supplies, if gold continues to flow out of this country at the rate of more than $1-billion per year as it is doing now, there would eventually be some real concern.

Statistical studies reveal that the outflow of gold has correlated fairly closely with the increase of the price of shares of gold mining companies since World War II. Therefore, as present evidence points towards further movement of gold out of this country and as investors come to believe more and more that it will be necessary for the United States to raise the price of gold (a step which is not inevitable but is a possibility in the distant future), there should be a continuing investment interest in gold stocks.

In the past couple of years Dome Mines and Campbell Red Lake have performed the best market-wise of the listed gold mining stocks and therefore perhaps may be regarded most representative of the gold mining group. However, Homestake, perhaps the most conservative of the group, also has substantial uranium interests; McIntyre-Porcupine has a large investment portfolio and Hollinger Consolidated offers investors a participation in Canadian iron ore. We feel that these stocks are also worthy of consideration.

EVINRUDE BOATING FOUNDATION

By RUDY EVINS

A reel performs only according to the care it receives.

This adage, says the Evinrude Boating Foundation, should mean plenty to every good fisherman, especially the salt water enthusiast. There are dozens of reels on the market for all types of fishing, however it is up to each individual fisherman to keep his reel performing properly.

Fresh water anglers have it a lot easier than salt water zealots. An angler in fresh water country need only dab his reel with grease and oil a few times a season . . . according to the amount of fishing he does. I usually give my reel a thorough cleaning after four or five outings. Some say it's too often, some say not often enough. One thing I can say and that's I've never had any trouble with it!

Most reels—fresh and salt water of all kinds, are anodized, sealed and plated with special enamels to give maximum protection against salt water and hard use. All salt water reels, however, should be cleaned with fresh water after every outing to assure maximum protection.

When overhauling your reel, use a light machine oil and a good, light grease manufactured by a well-known tackle company. Don't use vaseline. It has a tendency to gum the gears and make your reel stick. Clean the gears and other internal parts with kerosene and a small paint or tooth brush before putting it back together.

Take good care of all of your equipment and it will last a long time—especially your reel.

BD's At Hamilton: Hornets Have BIG Job To Do There: Two Star Members Benched, Sick

Going into their hird game of he season, with the first two neatly packed away with decent scores, GHS Hornets visit Kookon Field for a round with Hamilton's Bulldogs, who also have quite an enviable eearly season record, with 60-6 over Goldthwaite and a good, clean win over Glen Rose 10-6.

This isn't to say the Hornets are not favored - they are- but not too highly, especially with two of their No. 1 linemen not in the starting spots. Jim Gooch is out with a strep throat, upset stomach, headaches, and Jackie Roach has been ailing all week. Replacements, it is thought and hoped, are ample, but the score could surprise if not shock.

Anyway, it's a Big Deal in Hamilton tonight, and the famous old Cowbell, which is now in Hornet possession is at stake, and certainly no Hornet supporter wants to see it 'left in the nearby settlement' called Hamilton.

The game has been designated by central Texas dailies and even some press services as "The Game of the Week" which makes it even more imperative that we bring the long end of the count home with us sometime late Friday evening.
