TWO ELECTIONS SET FOR CORYELL COUNTY 24TH: SCHOOL AND BOND

Closest, and probably most interesting to this immediate vicinity is the Levita School merger voting, and the other is the Copperas Cove City Council's bond election calling for $250,000 bond issue for water and sewer system improvements. This will authorize refunding $132,000 in revenue bonds outstanding, and authorization of $150 water works improvement and $100,000 in sewer bonds, making larger mains and assure adequate pressure over the city, and construct additional storage facilities.

Levita School Issues
Two statements were issued after 30 Levitians had signed a petition for a vote on consolidation of the school after Coryell County Board had ordered Gatesville School district to stop running a school bus into the Levita school district. Some Levita students attended Gatesville Schools on a transfer basis, and this means they will have to furnish their own transportation to the district line, at least.

Both Levita and Jonesboro had nothing to do with stopping the Gatesville school bus. The County Board said the stoppage was taken to conform with state regulations. Levita's statement follows:

STATEMENT FROM LEVITA SCHOOL BOARD

In order to clear up some misunderstanding regarding the Levita School. The Levita School Board would like to make the following statement.

First, as you know, there is to be a consolidation election on June 24, the purpose of which is to vote for or against consolidation with Gatesville Independent School District. This election was not ordered by this board. We feel that we have maintained a good local school at Levita and will continue to do so. The differences behind the election concern transportation problems with which the Levita board had nothing whatever to do. We feel that the people of Levita desire to keep their school and it is our purpose to carry out that desire.

Second, rumors have been circulated that there will be no school at Levita regardless of how the election goes. Let us state, therefore, that it is our intention to have school at Levita during the 1961-62 school term, teaching through the 8th grade. Two teachers have been employed and contracts signed by the local trustees and teachers. These contracts have been filed at the County Superintendent's office.

We have tried to serve the Levita School to the best of our ability, and we would urge the patrons of this community to think seriously before they destroy their local school.

Levita School Board

P. T. Lemmons of Jonesboro School brought a statement to THE NEWS, but decided not to run it. In another newspaper, the statement is reported in part as follows:

"This is not an election to determine whether the Levita school goes to Gatesville or to Jonesboro. We have no part in the consolidation move whatever . . . For more than 15 years we have served the Levita School district with our busses, bringing the Levita children to the Levita school and taking the high school students to Jonesboro. It was our aim to help Levita keep her school and thereby help us both . . . The whole problem seems to be one of transportation. We never asked that the Gatesville bus be stopped in the Arnett district. It has never been our purpose to try to force people to attend our school. It is my belief that we do not advance the cause of education in the county by destroying our small schools."

Weekly Stock Market Round-Up

Prepared by the Investment Research Department of Hemphill, Noyes & Co., 15 Broad Street, New York 5, N. Y. Members of the New York Stock Exchange

The Science Companies In 1961

The stock market seems to be saying: "The worse the outlook, the greater the chance that the Government will do something about it." Money supply is, in our opinion, favorable; if long term interest rates are to decline more funds should flow into short term securities or the stock market. We doubt that the recession will be much deeper and while recovery may not be as rapid as anticipated, selected common stocks should do well over the intermediate and longer term.

In our opinion, 1961 will be the best year ever for the science companies. An accepted standard index, and due to the relative youth of the industry one of the few available, is total electronics sales. In 1961 the total of electronics sales moved ahead about 6%. This is acceptable, especially in an unfavorable economic climate. This current year, the figure could well double to about 12%. In his recent State of the Union speech, our President left little doubt but that defense spending will provide a good deal of impetus. On top of this, we believe that the general economy will take a turn for the better and not too long from now at that. To offset higher costs and their effect upon profit margins, industry must improve its controls and automate; industrial demand should increase, too. We are limiting specific recommendations and discussion to seven companies we consider to be attractive. There are many other scientific companies that will undoubtedly fare well this year and in coming years, but space prohibits the inclusion of every such company.

Our seven choices are: Brush Beryllium, space age metals; Beckman Instruments, medical electronics; General Instrument, an all around commitment; I.B.M., data processing; Lockheed Aircraft, missile and space vehicles; Transitron, solid state physics; and Varian Associates, microwave.

MUSEUM ADMINISTRATOR

Carter Museum of Western Art in Fort Worth, checks over the catalogue with Miss Maria Naylor, curator of the Carter collection (AP Photo)

AP Texas Supplemental Service
By Mike Cochran

FORT WORTH, Tex., Map 25 (AP)— A significant segment of Western culture lives in a handsome new home.

Select works by Charles Marion Russell and Frederic Remington, two of the world's most foremost authorities on the old west, form the priceless collection for the Amon Carter Museum of Western Art.

Russell, a Missourian, went west at 16 to become a cowboy in Montana. He sketched and painted constantly but did not abandon his cowboy life until 1893, when he settled down to a full-time career as an artist.

Remington, a native New Yorker, headed west the same year as Russell— 1880. He roamed the west and southwest working as a cowboy, scout, prospector and sheep and mule rancher. In 1885 he returned East to sell his sketches.

Their works, said one foreign visitor, could not have found a more appropriate showplace than the multi-million dollar structure here.

The two-story building of Texas fossil limestone was built by the Amon G. Carter Foundation solely as a showplace for the collection amassed by the late publisher of the Star-Telegram.

It is operated by the foundation as an admission-free, non-profit public institution.

There are more than 200 Russell and Remington paintings— oils, water colors, blacks and whites, pen and ink drawings and illustrated letters.

The Russell canvases alone number more than 40 major works, including most of those ranked as the top artistic achievements of his career.

There are more than 60 Russell bronzes, comprising the only complete collection in existence of original Russell castings. The sculpture also contains wax models from which casting were never made, being part of the artist's unfinished work.

Considerable memorabilia, such as Russell's spurs, bit, rifle and paint box fill out the collection.

More than 30 oils by Remington, most of them titles well known to the Old West's millions of fans, and 14 of his bronzes provide a broader view of the era both men portrayed.

Carter paid $5,000 for his initial Remington, "His First Lesson," which was to figure as a footnote to history. Carter bought the painting home to Fort Worth and hung it on an office wall.

Will Rogers, a close friend of Carter, saw the painting on a visit here and offered to buy it for $10,000.

Carter turned him down.

A month later, August 15, 1935, Rogers and aviator Wiley Post perished in the crash of their plane near Point Barrow, Alaska.

Carter purchased his first Russell painting in 1925 and continu-

LEE HINSON

Lee Hinson, 80, died June 17 at 6:30 a. m., at Coryell Memorial Hospital. He lived at 2004 Vaco Street.

He was born Feb. 14, 1875 in Walker County and was a retired employee of the American Can Co. His father was Abner M. Hinson and his mother was the former Miss Elizabeth Spiller. He was married to Jennie Fisher in 1904 and she died Jan. 14. He was then married to Olevia Burrows, Feb. 1916, and she died in 1932. He was a member of the Baptist Church and had lived in Coryell County until 1937 and in Houston from '37 to '59, and in Gatesville the last two years.

Services were held June 18 at 2:30 p. m. at Scotts Funeral Home, Revs. Ollie Williams and G. L. Derrick officiating and interment was in the Masonic Cemetery.

Surviving are a son, Buck Hinson, Gatesville; a daughter, Mrs. Gladys Gotthardt, Gatesville; a brother Glen Hinson, Hillsboro and a sister, Mrs. E. W. Hanks, Wichita Falls.

and to buy them as they became available.

The most fabulous accumulation of the cowboy artist's works found a resting place— in the course of time— in a shabby saloon in Great Falls, Mont., known as the Mint Bar.

The saloon had been one of Russell's favorite oases.

When the Mint Bar's owner, Sid Willis, sold out and retired in 1952, Carter bought the entire collection.

This purchase was credited with stirring the state of Montana into a public-fund-raising campaign to keep Russell's works within the state.

The March issue of "Architectural Forum" described the Carter Museum as "an exceedingly handsome building— beautifully detailed, beautifully sited and beautifully illuminated."

"With all the apparent incongruity, the museum is a great success. The west is no longer quite as wild and woolly as some non-Texans believe, and a sophisticated, yolished, vaguely European building looks no more out of place in Fort Worth than it might in Washington, D. C."

Time magazine said the Manhattan architect, Phillip Johnson, to a large degree abandoned the austere international style that has dominated modern architecture, instead dipped far into the past for inspiration.

"The five archways and the tapered columns on the front portico go back to the Greek stoas and the Renaissance loggias that looked down upon the Mediterranean plazas. The great hall is severe but rich, and Johnson's elegance manages to shelter whooping cowpunchers and bucking broncos without dampening their spirts."

Among the more famous works on display in the museum are Remington's "The Smoke Signal" and "Pony Tracks on the Buffalo Trail." Included are Russell's vivid "The Buffalo Hunt" and "Utica Picture."

"It seems scarcely possible," the Star-Telegram said editorially "that there could be a more appropriate setting for such a showplace and exhibition of Western Art than the city which proclaims its location as being 'where the West begins.'"

AMERICA'S OPEN DOOR FOR COMMUNIST PROPAGANDA

On March 17, 1961 the Tulsa Tribune informed its readers that, "President Kennedy today ordered an immediate halt to the government's practice of intercepting Communist propaganda mailed to this country from abroad . . . The White House said . . . 'Not only has the intelligence value of the program been found to be of no usefulness, but the program also has been of concern to the secretary of state in connection with efforts to improve cultural exchanges with Communist countries' . . ." Here is another of the many efforts to appease the international communist conspiracy which have been made by American leaders during the past 28 years. If continued, such appeasement will hand America to the communists on a silver platter.

This communist propaganda from behind the Iron Curtain comes in ton lots to U.S. ports of entry, addressed to individuals. Our government then distributes the deadly communist propaganda through the Post Office, free of charge. American taxpayers pay for the handling and delivery of this enemy propaganda, much of which goes to high school and college students in the United States.

Objections to this selfish selfishness in Congress. Congressman Frank T. Bow of Oklahoma said: "No other country in the free world permits Moscow's propaganda to be delivered at the expense of its own taxpayers . . . Many countries refuse to let such subversive material in under any circumstances. Instead of increasing postage rates at home, why not start on budget-balancing in the Post Office by refusing to distribute this Communist propaganda free of charge?" Chief Postal Inspector David H. Stephens told the Appropriations Committee that "I think the flow of propaganda material into this country is a very serious matter . . ."

Informed Americans know that a key goal of the communist conspiracy is to poison the minds of American youth and use them to promote the communist revolution in our nation. In addition to the enormous problem patriotic Americans face in combating the activities and subversive propaganda of communist conspirators and their sympathizers in this nation, we also have to pay for the distribution of communist propaganda from behind the Iron Curtain in our nation. Furthermore this is just one of a number of ways in which our tax money is used to aid Communism.

Let's Go Fishin'
BY BOB BREWSTER
Outdoor Editor, Mercury Outboards

There are a great number of fishermen in the United States who couldn't care less about what is the newest and hottest lure at a particular lake. While others go wild over new lures, buying at a great rate, they sit back with a detached air and chuckle in their sleeves.

The reason? They've never bought a lure in their lives and never intend to — they're bait fishermen, pure and simple, and intend to remain so.

True, they buy rods and reels, line and hooks and sinkers, boats and outboard motors (which makes the Mercury outboard people quite happy), but lures? — never. And throughout a season they catch a lot of fish, proof of the mastery of the art of presenting bait in a natural manner to a fish.

And this is not a simple thing. Take the supposedly easy thing of attaching a worm to a hook. How many ways can it be done?

LOOKS NATURAL

1. Threaded on — used primarily by kids and bullhead fishermen who want a bait to stay on the hook in the face of strong nibbling by a fish that is slow to swallow the hook.

2. Looped on — used by more advanced fishermen who want the worm to look more natural and therefore hook him once or twice through the body to hang in loops from the hook. Good method for trout or big bass.

3. Tipped — used by those who search for panfish, the "brim" of the South. Put a small bit of worm on the tip of the hook. Murder for bluegills.

4. Draped on — method of hooking about ten worms on the lure to attract walleyes and big trout. Hook them on the last treble hook on the lure (Warning — not "pure bait fishing because of the lure.)

MORE VARIATIONS

And if possible the minnow-dunkers use more variations than those who try to drown worms. They hook minnows everywhere but in the ear. Favorite spots are through the lips (for trolling, so the minnow will move through the water head first), through the tail or back (for fishing with a bobber, so the minnow will be able to swim freely and look natural to the fish), or through the head (for ice fishing in the northern tier of states, where the light nibbles of perch will strip a minnow from the hook before the fisherman knows he has a visitor).

And although it is true that oftentimes the "lure" fishermen look down their noses at the "bait" men, there is little reason for this, the Mercury outboard people claim.

For one thing, the "bait" men were here first. Long for another, a five-pound bass trestles just as good when caught on a minnow as he does when caught on an artificial bait.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS. IS YOUR ELIGIBILITY SHOWING? BETTER WATCH.

This is the time of the year when high school athletes can run afoul of the Texas Interscholastic League amateur rule if they don't know the ramifications of this strict regulation or if they think they can get away with a violation.

There have been many boys forfeit their high school eligibility for doing what the rule says they can't.

The first big case, one that brought the rule into focus, occurred in the early forties. It involved Jitter McKinney, a great football player at Lufkin High School. It was all very innocent and neither McKinney nor those who made the gift knew they were violating a rule.

A group of fans got up a fund to buy McKinney a suit of clothes. It occurred during the off season and Lufkin itself asked for a ruling. The district committee found McKinney ineligible.

Undoubtedly most of the violations are through ignorance of the regulation. Thus, it is well that the schoolboys be warned each year in the press and that the coaches and school officials instruct the athletes thoroughly on the rule.

One of the sports that has given major trouble is rodeo, especially junior rodeo for boys not over 21 years of age. The promoters of the rodeos persist in wanting to give valuable prizes for attainment. There is the celebrated calf scramble whereby a boy who catches a calf may keep the animal. The League worked out a plan where he can own a calf if he keeps it for a year, feeds it, and shows it. The League will consider that the boy has earned the calf.

The amateur rule means that any student who receives cash or valuable consideration for teaching, officiating or participating in athletics will be considered a

FORD MOTOR COMPANY HAS NEW PLAN FOR DRIVER-TRAINING PROGRAMS

James O. Wright, vice president, car and truck group says Ford Motor Co. is doubling the amount of rebate to dealers for new units loaned to schools for use in driver-training program. The increase is $125 to $250 a unit.

2,689 Ford and Lincoln-Mercury dealers are participating in drive training, 3,912 units now supplied and 2,663 are loaned, the others bought or leased by schools and program sponsors.

professional and will have to forfeit any high school eligibility he has remaining.

The boy can not compete on an athletic team with a paid player nor can he allow his name to be used for the promotion of any product, plan or service.

The League considers these sports to be under the scope of the amateur rule: baseball, basketball, bowling, boxing, football, golf, rodeo events, softball, swimming and diving, tennis, track weight lifting and wrestling.

A boy can not accept anything considered valuable consideration from the promoters of these sports. In a golf tournament a boy can take only something of symbolic nature, like a cup or medal; he can not take a golf bag, a set of clubs or a batch of golf balls. Moreover, the boy can not play with a professional although he can play against him. He can receive instructions from a professional.

Many high school boys play summer baseball. This is all right but he must not play on a team with a paid player, he cannot receive expense money either in cash or transportation tickets, he cannot participate in the gate receipts and he cannot accept a collection that might be taken up among fans to reward him for hitting a home run or winning the game.

High school boys can participate in athletic contests but it has to be as amateurs. There must not be any reward of value awaiting him.
