Are you interested? We attended the "Indy 500" Memorial Day!

Left here Friday, 6:10 p. m., May 26, tire change, Waco, Texarkana 12:30 a. m., Nashville next night and saw Grand Ole Opry, then to Indianapolis, arriving about 2:30 p. m., Sunday 28th.

Needed 2 nights in Indianapolis, so started looking for motel for 2 nights. Nationally advertised ones sold out, and they wanted $10 each for each night and there were 4 of us, Mr. and Mrs., Sally and Mat, Jr. That'd a been $80 for the two nights. Found nice place for $40 for 2 nights— not bad.

First day went out to track. Incidentally, our motel was the city on our 'home road' to Terre Haute Ind. The Motel was 11 miles out and the track 9, so we gained there. At the track, we took a then went into the museum which had cars of all the races since the first one, and a lot of other curiosities.

We had written or wired for tickets, so that was out of the way. Inside is $5, and we got reserved seats inside the first turn for $4 more. It'd have been as well if we'd just gotten $5 admission and layed around on the grass inside like thousands did.

The race started after a parade of many bands, celebrities, pace cars etc.— there was always something going on the 30th, and around 300,000 were looking at it.

Then: "Start your Engines, Gentlemen," and the Chevy Pace Car, a Camaro led them around for about 2 laps, and then went off on the pit side, and the race was on. The cars looked like alligators

We're throwing away more than ever, and the city's putting on another garbage crew, but the schedule will be the same, but the 'pickup' may be as much as an hour earlier. That's garbage,

CONTRACT LET FOR NEW COVE POST OFFICE

COPPERAS COVE— Mr. and Mrs. Adolph S. Frank Poehls of Elm Mott have been awarded the contract to build the new post office in Copperas Cove, Postmaster O'Brien announced.

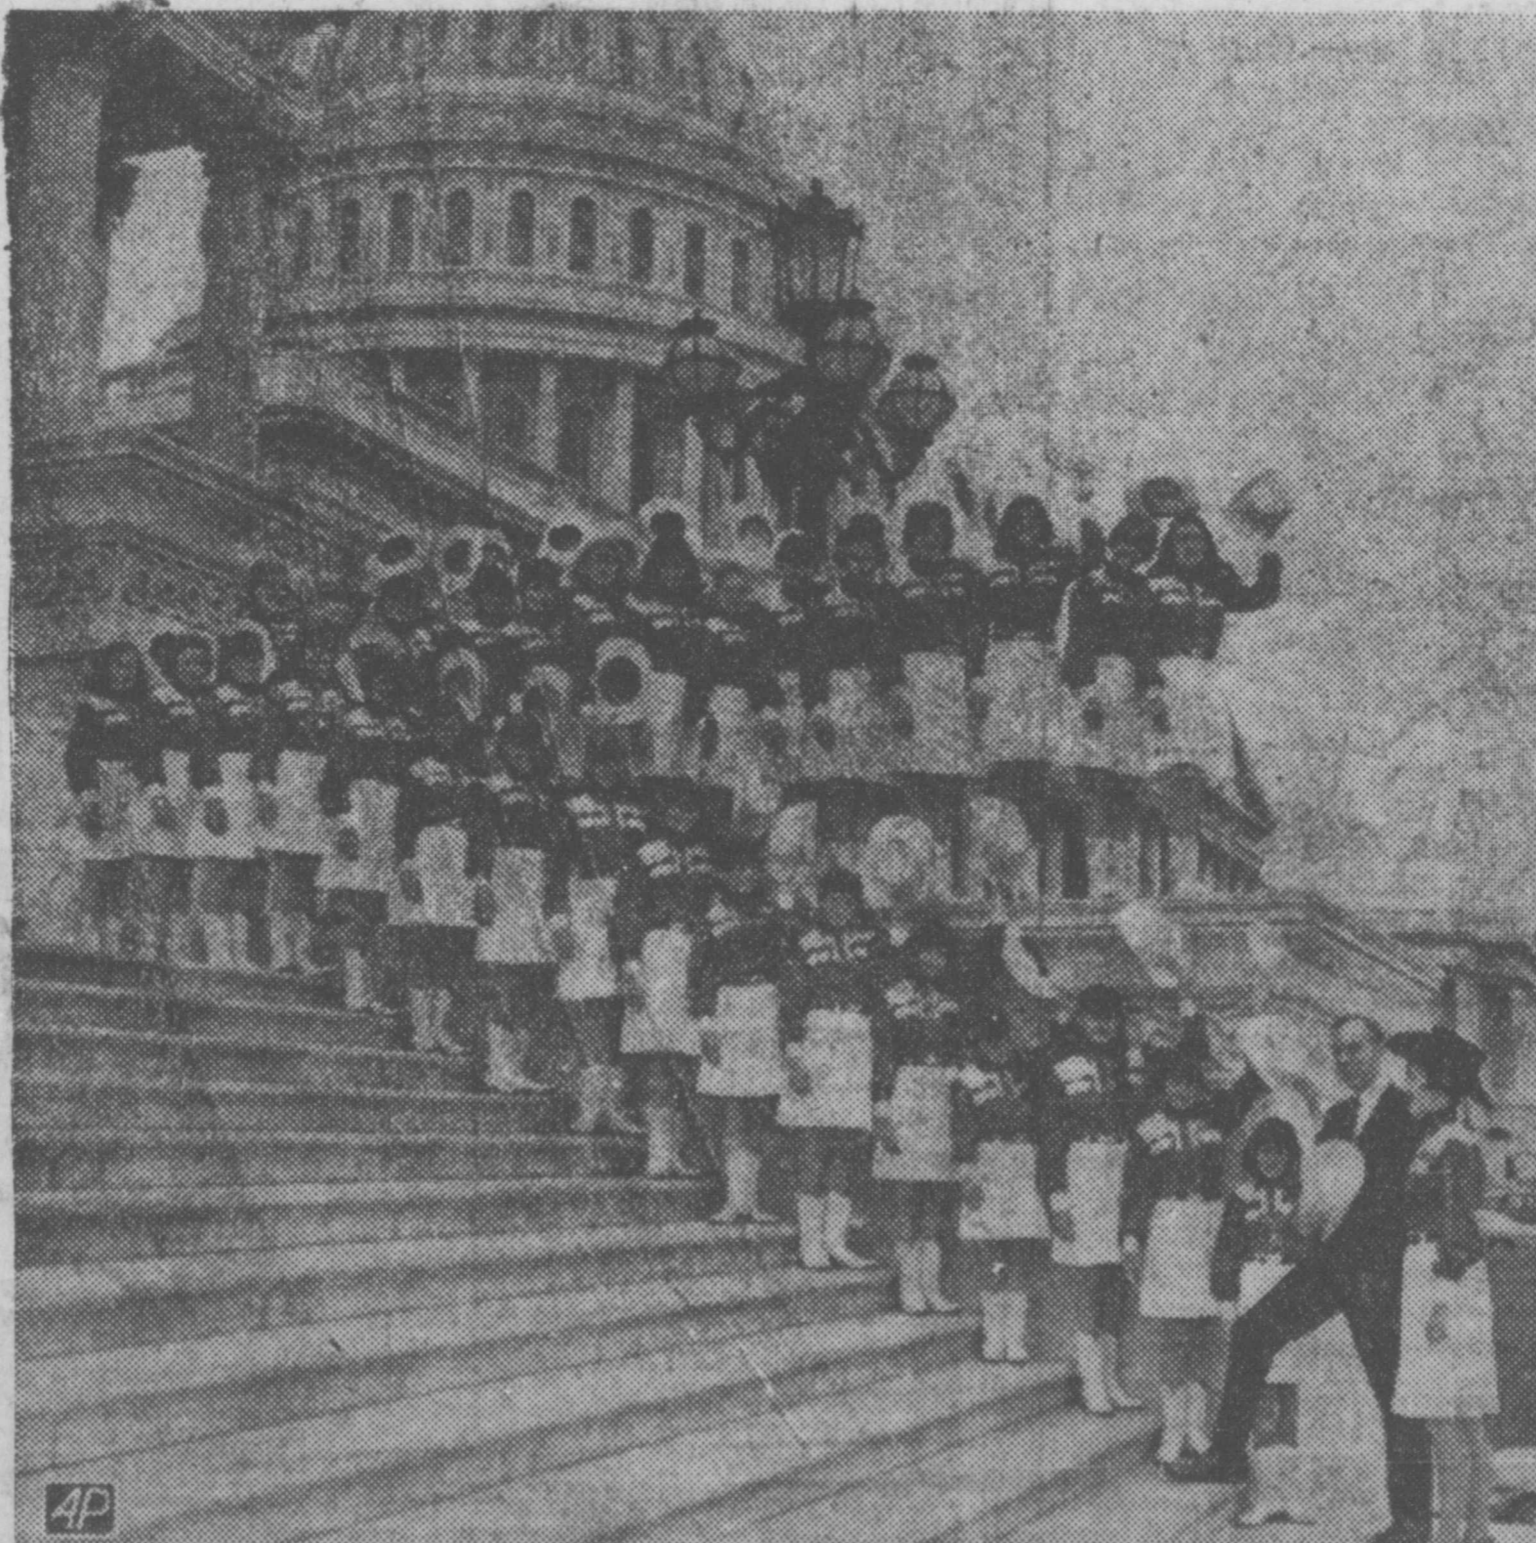

Mr. and Mrs. Poehls submitted the lowest of four bids.

The new post office is expected to be completed in the early part of 1968. The building will have been leased by the post office for 10 years with an option to renew were a pair, and all you could see mostly was a big number painted on the side of the car. After 18 laps the rains came, and we headed for Gatesville about 12:30 p. m., or earlier, staying at Rollo, Mo., that night and home next evening about 10:30.

Is the trip worth it? Of course, you'd never know if you didn't make it, but, we think it was wonderful, and from the 26th to the 31st, it cost us about $50 each, or a little more.

Hope you go!

49TH ARMORED CLEARS OUT AFTER TWO WEEKS TRAINING AT NORTH FORT HOOD

The 5,400 men of the 49th Armored Division left North Fort Hood beginning Saturday, and their departure was completed by Sunday noon.

Sixty percent of the citizen-soldiers in the division are fathers and still others were welcomed by their families after their annual two weeks stint in their two-week summer home North Ft. Hood.

During the training, sleep gave way in many instances to new emphasis on night firing. Artillery shells and tank tracks kept North Ft. Hood growling thru the early morning hours. Flares lit up the sky and the hills as men and machinery moved together to destroy make-believe enemies.

A newer M-48 A1 tank was used and the airmobile found its way into the 49th vocabulary as entire platoons were flown into mock-enemy territory by the CH37 helicopters and displayed on simulated tactical situations, the "Jolly Green Giants" found many uses in the first year it was added to the division's inventory. Medical battalions evacuated the wounded, supply units ferried jeeps and spectators stared as it flew by.

Summing up the two weeks, "All of our units were superb," said Brig. Gen. James D. Scott, who had taken command of the division less than a week before the 49th came to camp.

See you again in 1968, 49th Armored Division? Hope so.

for an additional 20 years.

The rent will be $6,279 a year. The building will remain under private ownership with the owner paying local real estate taxes.

The new post office will be at the corner of Avenue E and First Street in Copperas Cove.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Business Week recently detailed how 16 of the nation's leading businessmen-scientists, academicians, and lawyers informed the federal government that small business inventors create more important new products than do the research staffs of big corporations, and recommended assistance to struggling independents through tax and antitrust improvements.

The blue-ribbon panel criticized the "use" big business is making of its research and development money, concluding, "It cannot cope with certain internal barriers to new ideas for the following reasons: Corporate concern over the time value of money which leads many giants to choose short-run profits over long-range plans."

Institutionalism: New markets frequently "represent a threat to the large company's established marketing staff." Opposition from "know-it-alls," who tend to discourage the aspiring inventor by comparison of new ideas with past failures, or through fear of change or novelty.

Negative barriers to invention are common in large corporations the panel observes, "because there is always the preferable choice of extending present business rather than risking unknown territory."

Since small companies have more difficulty in bank financing, the panel advises "understanding" of independent enterprisers by banks and government, especially when contract termination could bankrupt the independent.

Big corporations are urged to "explore new ways to work with small technologically based companies," with each maintaining identity and creative individuality... develop intramural "sub-environments that foster the enthusiasm and entrepreneurial spirit of the small firm," while utilizing resources of "the total corporate environment."

Further panel recommendations include liberalizing stock option rules to aid innovative companies in finding qualified personnel, improving tax laws affecting invention expense, and tax-write-offs for some form of technological assets in excess of the value of tangible assets when purchased.

The panel emphasizes the need to combat the danger of anti-competitive monopolies through anti-trust policies and more careful scrutiny of R&D and similar tax write-offs. Small business is a more productive innovator than the giants, and has far less tax and loan incentive.

Bare Foot-Notes

From Maine to Malibu, summer is sandal season. Getting ready to wear sandals takes preparation, as feet have been under cover up to now and most likely need some pampering.

Now until fall, beauty care should include a foot-flattering routine. The start of Foot Comfort Week, June 17, is a good time to begin, but make sure the routine is continued for the results you want.

Dr. William M. Scholl, a world-famous foot authority, recommends scrubbing the feet daily in hot, soapy water with a pedicure brush. Dry them carefully, and smooth out any rough areas with a hard skin reducer, or pumice stone. At bedtime, apply a rich moisturizing cream to keep feet soft.

Once a month, trim toenails straight across with a nail nipper. Apply cuticle remover to nails and gently push back the cuticle with an orangewood stick wrapped in cotton. Then apply a light, shining polish.

Arch-lift sandals, with built-in support, will give your newly pampered feet the comfort they deserve, and add a finishing fashion touch to summer attire.

California Ripe Olives For Style

Conveniently canned ripe olives highlight an easy dinner that "cooks itself." Lamb shanks, onion and carrots are gently simmered with canned tomatoes and California ripe olives. You'll want to choose one of the smaller sizes of ripe olives such as "small" or "medium" so you can add them just as they come from the can. Lamb shanks fixed this way are a hearty dish that go well with shell macaroni.

RIPE OLIVE LAMB SHANKS

- |                              |  |
|------------------------------|--|
| 4 lamb shanks                | 1 tablespoon chopped parsley               |
| 1/4 cup flour                | 1/2 teaspoon rosemary                      |
| 1 teaspoon seasoned salt     | 1/2 teaspoon salt                          |
| 1/2 teaspoon seasoned pepper | 1 (1-pound) can whole tomatoes             |
| 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder   | 1 cup canned pitted California ripe olives |
| 2 tablespoons cooking oil    |  |
| 1/2 cup chopped onion        |  |
| 1/2 cup chopped carrots      |  |

Coat shanks with flour combined with seasoned salt and pepper and garlic powder. Reserve remaining flour. Brown shanks in hot oil in heavy skillet. Add onion, carrots, parsley, rosemary and salt and saute lightly. Add tomatoes and ripe olives. Cover and simmer 2 to 2 1/2 hours until shanks are tender. Remove to warm serving platter. Add reserved seasoned flour mixed with a little cold water to pan sauce. Cook, stirring until thickened. Pour over shanks. Serve with macaroni or rice as desired. Makes 4 servings.

Science's Innovations Aid Women—but Confuse Them!

WHICH TYPE OF HOSIERY IS FOR ME?

SHEER NYLON?

ELASTIC STOCKINGS?

Answer
FOR SERIOUS LEG PROBLEMS (VARICOSE VEINS, ETC.) NOW ALSO IN SHEER STYLES FOR DRESS.

Source: Kendall Co.

Women who are confused about varied types of special-purpose hosiery were given enlightening and helpful advice this week by a nationally-known research director.

"Basically, there are only two kinds of hosiery other than regular apparel hosiery, but it is highly important that women understand the difference," said Raymond M. Hoey, director of research for the Kendall Company, Chicago Division.

Warned Hoey: "Making a mistake about special purpose hosiery can be damaging to your health. Each kind serves a distinct and very helpful purpose — but they are not interchangeable."

"First, there is the 'support' stocking," the scientist said. "This is designed to provide strong, even support for the legs, thus preventing leg fatigue and overall weariness."

"The danger lies in expecting too much of support stockings," Hoey explained. "They should never be worn in the therapy of varicose veins or serious leg problems. Such conditions demand the firmer compression of elastic hosiery."

"Under the heading of 'elastic' we find the balance of the special-purpose hosiery. For generations, the elastic stocking most people were familiar with was the traditional Bauer and Black stocking. Now, this company also manufactures a brand-new product known as 'Ultreer' with the same compression as the regular elastic hosiery but with several shades of modern colors and extreme sheerness. They are not to be confused with support stockings.

"When your doctor prescribes elastic stockings," Hoey continued, "he means exactly that, and not support hosiery. "It is well worth your while to become familiar with the distinct purposes of support and elastic hosiery," Hoey said, "because more than one-half of all women can benefit from either one or the other."

"Modern science has given women who must wear elastic hosiery a strong psychological uplift by adding color and sheerness; her stockings are now almost indistinguishable from regular hosiery. And — in support hosiery, it has given other busy women a magical weapon against fatigue," the scientist concluded

3-D X-Rays Let Doctors See More

Physicians can now see a lot more of their patients thanks to a new X-ray fluoroscope developed by General Electric Company. Fluoroscopes are X-ray machines that permit doctors to directly view a patient's insides, rather than by first making an X-ray film.

The new GE machine, called a stereo Fluoricon image intensifier, enables doctors for the first time to see the patient's heart and other organs in their natural three-dimensional relationships without using special glasses or binoculars.

The development of such a three-dimensional direct viewing system has been the goal of physicians and scientists almost since the discovery of X-rays in 1895.

Heretofore, doctors have had only a flat surface, two-dimensional view of the rounded, three-dimensional human body. Thus, when they viewed a patient with a conventional fluoroscope, they often could not be sure of the depth of an organ, the direction in which a blood vessel or artery branched, or the exact location of imbedded objects.

The significance of this medical engineering achievement is that doctors can now perform the complex procedures required to check for clogged arteries and defective heart valves in up to one-half the time and with reduced risk to the patient.

The three-dimensional X-ray machine also is expected to substantially speed up such medical procedures as pinning of bones and pin-pointing the exact location of objects, such as safety pins swallowed by children.

The low-cost system is now in commercial production and has already been installed in several major hospitals and medical centers across the country.

PROMISING OINTMENT FOR SKIN CANCER

A promising development in fighting skin cancer has been reported by Dr. Edmund Klein and associates at Roswell Park Memorial Institute, Buffalo New York.

Heretofore, to treat multiple basal-cell carcinomas and solar keratosis (a premalignant condition), X-ray, surgery or radium usually have been used. These methods, however, sometimes leave extensive scars.

The new treatment is an ointment containing from 5 to 20 percent 5-Fluorouracil.

Over a four-year period, in more than 100 patients receiving this medication, nearly 95 percent of basal-cell cancers and an even higher percentage of solar keratoses have disappeared with little or no scarring.

Furthermore, when applied to a large area other than the obvious trouble site, the ointment leaves normal skin virtually unaffected, while early hidden tumors swell up so they can be seen and treated.

About 18 percent of all cancers involve the skin. These skin cancers are not contagious, and cannot be "caught" from another person.

Because skin cancer can be seen and diagnosed readily it is simpler to cure than other types of cancer. Cancer of the inner organs, on the other hand, may remain undetected until it has progressed to a considerable extent.

How can you recognize skin cancer? Any skin blemish, sore, or lump which fails to heal, may bleed or look irritated, increases in size, or changes color would be suspect. If you have a skin lesion with any of these characteristics, consult a physician without delay.

WHAT IS LEUKOPLAKIA?

When white patches develop on the tongue cheek and gums, separated by little fissures or paths, the condition is called leukoplakia. It is generally thought to be related to smoking. Your physician will probably advise you to give up smoking. If there is minor discomfort or pain of the cheek or gums associated with leukoplakia, he may recommend an anesthetic oral solution called Chloraseptic that has been found to provide temporary relief of pain involving the gums, cheeks or tongue within seconds.

Leukoplakia should be followed by your physician, since constant irritation may result in cancer.

WHY IS GOUT CALLED THE 'RICH MAN'S DISEASE'?

Probably because an attack of gouty arthritis may be brought on by eating beef, pheasant or other foods high in purines — and in years past, these could be bought only by the rich.

Gout, however, knows no economic barriers... nor is it the 'playboy's disease.' Gout tends to be inherited (rarely by women) and an attack, characterized by swelling and intense pain in a joint like the big toe, may be brought on by emotional stress, excessive chilling or alcohol intake — as well as by eating the wrong things.

Recent studies indicate that, rather than being the rich man's disease, gout may be more accurately termed the 'wise man's disease.' Statistical studies of gout sufferers show they usually have high IQs and more creative flair than the average.

TREMENDOUS TRIFLES

THE CHILD'S "MARBLE" THAT LED TO THE GREAT DIAMOND DISCOVERY

A little child playing with several bright pebbles in a south African settlement in 1867 started the journey of the first diamond to the outside world. The result proved to be the greatest diamond fields in the world.

John O'Reilly, a trader and big game hunter was returning from the interior and stopped for the night at the home of a Boer named Van Niekirk. While the two men sat talking, one of Van Niekirk's children started playing on the floor with several pebbles picked up along the banks of the Vaal river. O'Reilly was drawn to one of the stones by its scintillating brilliance under the light.

When the hunter asked to buy the pebble, Van Niekirk gave it to him. O'Reilly, not knowing the nature of the stone, offered Van Niekirk half of the value if it proved of any monetary value in Grahamstown.

In a hotel bar in Colesberg, O'Reilly passed the pebble around to the people gathered there. He believed it to be a diamond, and tried to prove his point by cutting his initials on a windowpane. For his efforts he got a lot of laughs. One man, wrought up over the foolishness, grabbed the pebble and threw it into the street. Only after many frantic minutes did O'Reilly retrieve the stone, and he immediately sent it to Dr. W. G. Atherstone, a geologist, in Grahamstown. It proved to be a 21 carat diamond worth $2,500.

When Van Niekirk realized the value of the pebbles, he recalled to mind a much larger stone he had seen a native carrying around some months previous. Fortunately the owner was found, and Van Niekirk traded a barnful of sheep, cattle, and horses for it.

At Hopetown, Van Niekirk disposed of the diamond of 47.7 carats for $55,000 and it became known as the "Star of South Africa."

Today more than half the world's diamonds are mined in South Africa. But for a child playing with pebbles before a game hunter the wealth might still be hidden.

LIBRARY REMODELING

An Architectural engineering firm has been employed to draw detailed plans and specifications for converting the old Chamlee Building on Main Street into a modern library site, City Council says.

The project, if not this year, will be done no later than 1968 and is said to be one of the first steps in a city butification program the council is championing.

Top floor of the Chamlee building will be removed and a new roof and front, remodeling exterior of the west wall along with the interior of the building. Planned is a front with porticos, and the front section will be air-conditioned and will hold the library. The rear will be used as a storage center and warehouse by the water department.

CITY VS CITY SUIT HEATS UP

Validity of Gatesville's ordinance saying the city had 5,000 population is said by Ft. Gates attorney Everett O'Dowd to be "arbitrarily, capriciously, unreasonably, and illegally and wholly void".

Gatesville claims to have 5,000 persons and has extraterritorial jurisdiction within a mile of its city limits, including the area annexed by Ft. Gates. Ft. Gates says Gatesville does not have a 5,000 population and that its jurisdiction extends for only half a mile. So what?

Helen Keller Celebrates 87th Birthday

Helen Keller, one of the most admired and honored women of all time, will celebrate her 87th birthday on June 27. Miss Keller, world-famous for her triumph over blindness and deafness, will mark the day quietly with close friends and family at her home in Connecticut.

The graduation of a deaf-blind person from a university was considered a miracle in 1904 when Helen Keller received her degree from Radcliffe. Since that time she has devoted the major part of her life to helping other blind and deaf-blind persons in this country and throughout the world.

Although she is unable to participate so actively today, she maintains her interest in the work of the American Foundation for the Blind and the Helen Keller World Crusade for the Blind. These two organizations, headquartered in New York City, continue the programs which Miss Keller pioneered in providing blind and deaf-blind people with the opportunities for education and a full, independent life.

Through her travels for these organizations over six continents she met most of the leaders of our time, all of whom have felt the wonder and warmth that she inspires. Countless others have learned of her attainments through her books, which have been translated into more than 50 languages, and school children in all corners of the globe study her life story.

Mayors, governors, presidents and prime ministers are expected to send congratulations to Miss Keller on June 27. Others will honor her by supporting the programs for blind people which she led for many years.
