POLICE CHIEF GOINS REPORTS TWO ACCIDENTS ON MONDAY, JULY 31

Monday, July 31, at 10:45 p. m., a 1961 Ford pickup belonging to Clyde Moore of 1610 E. Main was struck by a 1941 Chevy driven by Michael Troiano. Troiano was traveling east on Main St. when the wheel brake locked pulling his auto into the legally parked pickup. There was $350 damage to the pickup and $100 damage to the Chevy.

Also Monday, July 31 at 5:15 p. m., a 1950 Chevrolet pickup driven by Johnny L. Moore of Gatesville, a 1949 Ford sedan belonging to Roy Holden of 2416 Bridge Street and a 1962 Pontiac driven by Mrs. Norma Whaley of 501 Bridge St., were involved in a 3 car smashup on Bridge St. Police Chief Gene Goins reported that the Whaley auto's brakes failed while traveling south on Magaldi Street causing her car to strike the Moore pickup. The force of impact knocked the pickup into the legally parked sedan belonging to Mr. Holden. The Whaley auto continued on, striking the front of a house at 2416 Bridge St. There was $200 damage to the house, $350 to the Pontiac and both the Chevy pickup and Ford sedan were totaled. WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Results of a statistical survey of 40 thousand firms by the National Federation of Independent Business reveals that since enactment of the new wage-hour law, increase in the nation's "hard-core" unemployables has risen to 400,000, and is still climbing. If the present trend continues, it is estimated that by the end of 1967, a total of 2 million workers will be forced to seek relief, welfare, or some other assistance.

C. W. Harder

Unskilled laborers, teenagers, part-time help, and handicapped represent majority of lay-offs. Installation of labor-saving machinery and increased customer resistance to astronomical prices are predicted to further unemployment.

A New Jersey housewife reader says she and her price-conscious counterparts are confusing the statisticians. With food, clothing and home product prices soaring, the usually docile and predictable housewife is waging her personal war, cutting back spending all along the line and demanding more quality in those products she does purchase.

"The grumbings and boycotts will persist until prices are stabilized," she concludes, "and the best buy in town continues."

to be the government subsidized school lunch!"

The public has not been buying, despite Government inflationary policies, and merchant inventories have been backlogged.

The farmer is aching from sky-rocketing operating costs and a record drop in prices and profits. Imports have further reduced production and income.

Further depressing the farmer is the fact that though income rose last year he continues to net only a per capita of $1731 annually, 60 per cent below non-farm income. Today, the farmer receives only 5 1/2 per cent of the U.S. consumer's total after-tax income—a full one-half less than 20 years ago!

Government New Economics policy of keeping the economy propped-up by plentiful money and mounting deficits leads to even higher inflation, with more wage-like demands, increased production costs, and balance of payment problems.

Food market proprietors are experiencing rising costs also, with increased pricetags on produce, transportation, labor, supplies, equipment, rent, taxes.

The Administration should inspect anew the country's economic foundation and consider whether the present construction of sand will really be as durable and safe as concrete.

Medical Breakthrough

3-D X-Rays Let Doctors See More

Physicians can now see a lot more of their patients thanks to a new X-ray fluoroscope developed by General Electric Company. Fluoroscopes are X-ray machines that permit doctors to directly view a patient's insides, rather than by first making an X-ray film.

The new GE machine, called a stereo Fluoricon image intensifier, enables doctors for the first time to see the patient's heart and other organs in their natural three-dimensional relationships without using special glasses or binoculars.

The development of such a three-dimensional direct viewing system has been the goal of physicians and scientists almost since the discovery of X-rays in 1895.

Heretofore, doctors have had only a flat surface, two-dimensional view of the rounded, three-dimensional human body. Thus, when they viewed a patient with a conventional fluoroscope, they often could not be sure of the depth of an organ, the direction in which a blood vessel or artery branched, or the exact location of imbedded objects.

The significance of this medical engineering achievement is that doctors can now perform the complex procedures required to check for clogged arteries and defective heart valves in up to one-half the time and with reduced risk to the patient.

The three-dimensional X-ray machine also is expected to substantially speed up such medical procedures as pinning of bones and pin-pointing the exact location of objects, such as safety pins swallowed by children.

The low-cost system is now in commercial production and has already been installed in several major hospitals and medical centers across the country.

Careful planning is the key to stretching your clothing dollar. Take a good look at your present wardrobe. Repair and clean all items that need it and discard garments that are never worn. Keeping them in the closet just wrinkles and crowds good garments.

Make a list of the activities you take part in. See if you have proper clothing to meet these needs, and, if not, make a list describing the necessary garments.

You will probably not be able to buy all of them at the same time, but the list will develop a clothing plan. Allow a certain amount for each purchase. Decide which garments you need immediately and which you can buy later. Divide your money so you have enough to meet your needs.

Take advantage of sales. If trying to match a purchase with a garment you already have, wear that garment or take it with you to the store. Don't allow yourself to get into the predicament where you will need to buy something

Let's Go Boating!

CHANGE OF PACE INCREASES FUN

Water skiing and fishing. Water skiing and fishing. Too many outboard owners fall into this rut. Granted, it's not a bad rut to be in, but your boat opens the door to dozens of other family activities.

A change of pace is usually just what the doctor ordered, says the Evinrude News Service. When you return to your old favorites, they'll be even more enjoyable.

Give an evening cruise a try. You'll be surprised how different a familiar lake is after dark. This is especially popular on hot summer nights.

Combine a cookout with boating. Take along the charcoal grill from home or invest in a small hibachi. Pick out a pleasant beach and go ashore.

Most people have a natural interest in what type of birds nest in the area or what types of flowers are most common. With the aid of a pocket guidebook, priced at around $1.00 in most bookstores, you can go on a nature-cruise. Keep a log of the various species you see.

Take a photography cruise. Select a particularly scenic area and bring along cameras and plenty of film. Keep a logbook of each picture taken. After the pictures are developed and put in a scrapbook, you have a complete guide to the area.

Boat-camping is another popular activity. Most camping equipment (air mattresses, sleeping bags, etc.) can be rented from sporting goods or marine dealers. What you can't rent, improvise. For your first overnight, stay close to home.

If you want to join in on the newest summer sport, give skin diving a try. A snorkel breathing device, swim fin and a face mask can be purchased for around $10.00.

else to go with the new article you just bought.

Other things to check in the store are quality, fit and care need. More money may be invested in such long term items as shoes, handbags, basic dresses, suits and coats, while fed clothing and infrequently worn garments can be less expensive and of lower quality

Speedy Summer Supper

by Betty Crocker

Too hot to cook? Here's a cooling plot. A menu of crunchy Tuna on a Shoestring, fresh tomato slices and thick chunks of French bread with lots of butter. For dessert, serve Frosty Apricot Short Pie. It's very good for your mother image after an easy supper. Bake the pie shell in the cool of the morning, of course. Fill the shell; chill all day. Luscious! And to keep clear refreshing iced tea on tap, try this. Place two tea bags per glass into a covered glass container. Add cold water, not hot, and let it sit in the refrigerator overnight. Serve with lemon slices or sprigs of mint. Now on to the recipes.

FROSTY APRICOT SHORT PIE

9-inch Short Pie Shell (below)

- 1 1/4 cups apricot nectar
- 1 package (3 ounces) lemon-flavored gelatin
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 cup chilled evaporated milk
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

Heat nectar to boiling. Stir in gelatin until dissolved. Stir in sugar. Cool until almost stiff. Whip evaporated milk with lemon juice; pour over gelatin mixture. Beat in slowly with electric mixer on low speed. Pour into cooled baked shell. Chill at least 1 hour.

Short Pie Shell: Heat oven to 450°. Place 1 cup Bisquick and 1/4 cup soft butter or margarine in 9-inch pie pan. Add 3 tablespoons boiling water and stir vigorously with fork until dough forms a ball and cleans the pan. Dough will be puffy and soft.

With fingers and heel of hand, pat dough into pan, bringing up dough to edge of pan. Flute edges if desired. Bake 8 to 10 minutes.

TUNA ON A SHOESTRING

- 1 can (6 1/2 ounces) tuna, drained
- 1 cup shredded carrots
- 1 cup diced celery
- 3/4 to 1 cup mayonnaise
- 1/4 cup diced onion
- 1 can (4 ounces) shoestring potatoes
- Lettuce

Break tuna into chunks in large bowl. Mix in carrots, celery, mayonnaise and onion. Cover and chill. Just before serving, fold in potatoes. Arrange salad in bowl lined with lettuce; if desired, garnish with parsley and carrot curls. 4 to 6 servings.

Now, relax, and think up more cool thoughts. Iced coffee, cold sandwiches, chilled shrimp salad, frozen fruits, snowy parfaits...

Posh Pineapple Puff For Parties

This cool puff of a pineapple soufflé is a beauty to serve for summer parties. It stands high, light and handsome with beaten egg whites, gelatin and whipped cream. Distribute canned crushed pineapple generously throughout the soufflé for tangy, tropical flavor. This handsome pineapple dessert can be made several hours or a day ahead of time so there's no last minute preparation.

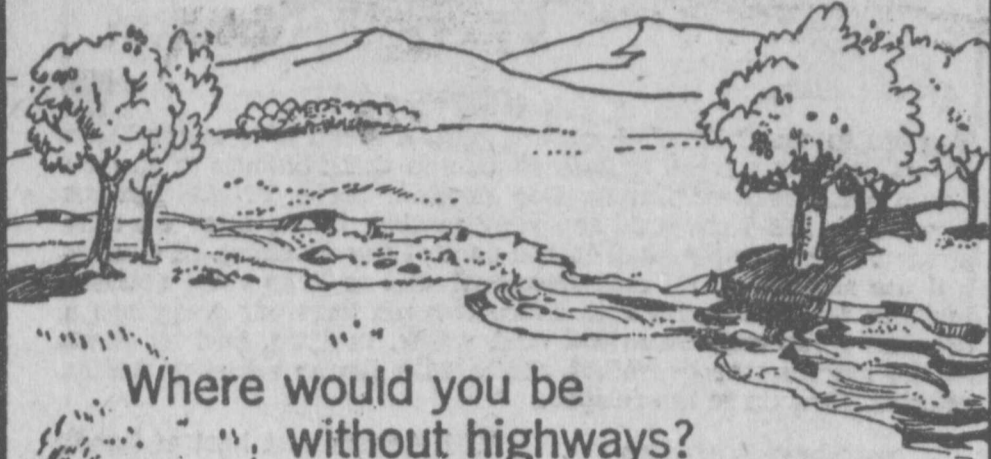

CHILLED PINEAPPLE SOUFFLE

- 4 eggs
- 1 (1-pound 4 1/2-ounce) can crushed pineapple
- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 teaspoon almond extract
- 1 cup whipping cream

Separate eggs. Beat yolks with undrained crushed pineapple. Add gelatin mixed with 2 tablespoons sugar and salt. Cook, stirring constantly, over medium heat about 5 minutes until gelatin dissolves. Remove from heat; blend in lemon juice and flavorings. Chill, stirring occasionally until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from spoon. Beat egg whites until stiff; beat in remaining sugar. Fold in pineapple gelatin and stiffly beaten cream. Turn into 4-cup soufflé dish with 3-inch collar.* Chill. Garnish with additional crushed pineapple and fresh mint, if desired. Makes about 10 servings.

*Make collar by tying double thick strip of foil or waxed paper around soufflé dish. Top edge should extend 3 inches above edge of dish.

Dear Friends:

Early this week the House passed the Public Works Appropriations Bill. This bill is oftentimes referred to as the "Pork Barrel Bill," but I think that such a description is unfair. Certainly it is true that most of us feel that the other fellow's projects are not of tremendous importance but when we get to the point of considering our own projects we generally think of them as being entirely worthy. Certainly, the Waco and Whitney Reservoirs have gone a long way toward relieving the prospects of flooding which in my boyhood was a constant threat to Waco. Certainly the Belton and Stillhouse Hollow Reservoirs are giving a degree of protection known to those who live in the Little River, yet to people in Ohio and in Oregon these projects may well seem to be "pork." I voted for the bill, although I have heretofore never thoroughly discussed the merits of riots, arson, murder and robbery, the experience of the past week has been so tragic that it has very naturally and properly occupied much of the thought and consideration of the press. There are all kinds of proposals to create Commissions and Committees "to study the problem." Of course, it is proper to study any problem but this is a problem that challenges the existence of government and calls for at least some immediate action. There can be no government without obedience to law and that means all laws. I think some public officials, as well as a number of leading group leaders, may have recognized that their suggestions that citizens were obligated only to obey "good" laws were calculated to break down all laws.

There has always been economic inequity. There have always been people, of all races who have suffered hardship and poverty. There has always been room for much progress and we have been making a lot of progress and I hope that we make a great deal more, but we are certain to sink back to the level of the jungle if we condone or excuse these riots and those who instigate them. We must, as I see it, go back to serious and certain punishment for those who violate the law.

Just last week I pointed out to our State Department that we should in our foreign relations give the nations of the world to understand that it doesn't pay to

What To Do In a Tornado

- People in open country can view the approach of a tornado and move at right angles to its path. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest depression, such as a ditch or ravine.
- In towns or cities, seek shelter inside, preferably in a substantial building. Stay away from windows.
- The southwest corner of the basement of a frame house is safer than in a brick or stone house. If there is no basement, lie down on the first floor under a table or bed (preferably in the southwest corner).
- Urban schools: Stay inside, away from windows; remain near an inside wall on a lower floor. Avoid auditoriums and gymnasiums.
- Rural schools of frame construction: Teachers should remove children to a ravine or ditch if storm shelter is not available.

mistreat the United States. I think the same rules should apply at home. We must make those who burned Detroit, those who murdered in Plainfield, and those who looted in Newark understand that they are to be tried and on identification to be convicted and punished just like all other criminals. Then if we will move in on the young hoodlums who are daily (or nightly) guilty of so much vandalism over the United States, we may be able to slowly move back toward a responsible society.

Let's Go Boating!

KIDS LOVE WATER, OUTBOARD BOATS

Youngsters have a natural love of the water and water sports, and this includes outboard motors and boats. It may surprise many adults, but younger members of the family, even pre-teens, are often the best boat handlers. With the proper instruction and guidance, they're an asset to the entire boating world, reports the Evinrude News Service.

There are several plus factors in favor of teaching your youngsters the do's and don'ts of outboard boating. You can't beat this sport for wholesome recreation. It's hard to find time to get into trouble when you're a fishing buff or water ski enthusiast.

Early boat instruction also lays the foundation for years of safe boating fun. Once learned, the basics of boating will stay with your youngsters for years to come.

Boating is also a healthy outlet for youth's abounding energy. A day in the warm sun, filled with fun on the water, is enough to tire even the heartiest youngster.

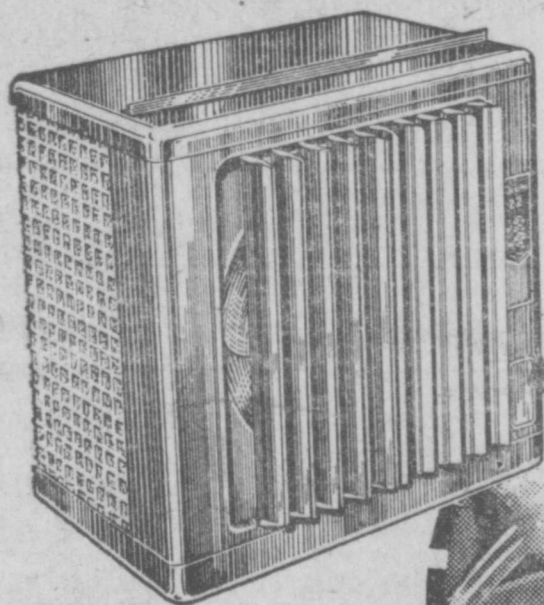

Proper boat handling also teaches a youngster to respect rules and regulations. When instructing him, explain the reason behind local rules. When he's on the water himself, this training will help develop his sense of responsibility and self-reliance.

When a youngster enjoys boating fun, he should share in routine maintenance of the equipment. This will instill respect for property that will carry through to many other situations.

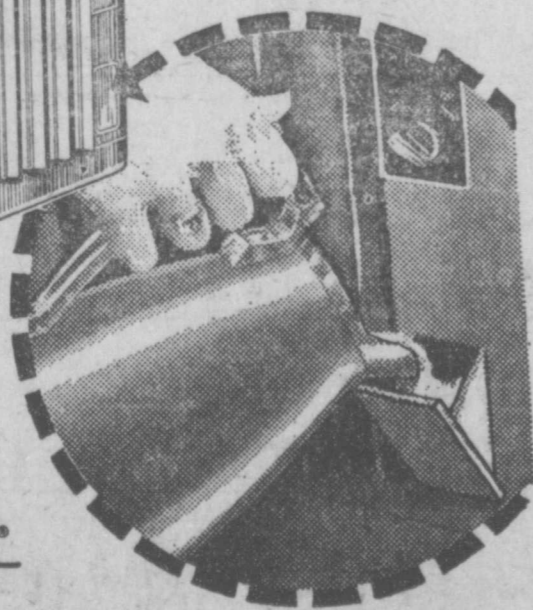

Many adults hesitate to teach their youngsters about boating because they think it might be against the law. The opposite is true. In all but two states, even pre-teens can operate outboards with the proper adult supervision. Teenagers have a green light in almost all areas. It's always best to check with local authorities before embarking on an instruction program.

In case you're still a little hesitant, listen to these words from a safety report made in 1966, "Teenage hot rodders and youngsters lacking mature judgement are not the serious boaters they frequently are accused
