CORYELL PURCHASES LAND FOR HOSPITAL EXPANSION

Purchase of a large tract of land adjoining the Coryell Memorial Hospital site has just been completed by the county, and on Monday the commissioners court is expected to pass a formal order approving issuance of $150,000 in time warrants to finance expansion of the hospital.

The property will provide space for such expansion.

The newly-acquired tract, described as Lots 5 and 6 in Block 3 of Lutterloh Addition to Gatesville was bought from Billy Ray Davis for $20,000. The site was paid for with hospital funds and no tax money was involved, County Judge Norman Storm said.

There are three frame houses on the tract. Judge Storm said they

GATESVILLE STATE SCHOOLS TO HOST ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Some of the top names in the nation's field of juvenile correction will be in Gatesville Oct. 10-11-12 for the annual meeting of the Western Conference of Training Schools. Host for the event will be the Gatesville State School for Boys.

The institution's general superintendent M. B. Kendrick, president of the Western Association of Training Schools and will preside at the conference. It will begin Tuesday afternoon. A full program is scheduled Wednesday and the concluding session will be held Thursday morning.

The conference is expected to attract 300 training school officials and workers with juveniles. They'll come from Montana, Colorado, Nebraska, Oregon, Oklahoma, Kansas, Minnesota, Iowa, New Mexico, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Arkansas, in addition to Texas.

Featured speakers for the conference and their topics are: J. Robert Weber, director of research and information for the National Council on Crime and Delinquency — "Alternatives to Training School Placements"; Dr. George G. Killinger, director of the Institute of Contemporary Corrections and the Behav-will be sold to the highest bidder for removal from the site.

Planned for the hospital are some additional patient rooms and enlargement of the kitchen, along with a possible enlargement of the surgery department.

The commissioners court is also expected to pass orders Monday for the issuance of another $150,000 worth of time warrants to meet the county's share of the cost of acquiring additional right of way and relocating and adjusting utility lines for the modernization of Highway 190 from the Bell County line to Copperas Cove. Judge Storm said it has not been determined exactly what the county's share of the cost will be, although estimates have ranged from $50,000 to $142,000.

oral Sciences at Sam Houston State College — "Training Personnel to Work with Delinquents." Dr. Lucius Waites of the department of pediatric neurology at Scottish Rite Hospital in Dallas — "Language Problems in Children Effect on Delinquents and What Can Be Done About Them."

Thomas E. Turner, assistant to the president of Baylor University, will address the conference at a dinner meeting Wednesday evening in the Chateau Ville Restaurant.

Registration for the conference will begin at 1 p. m. Tuesday in the State Schools' reception center. That afternoon the delegates will tour the State Schools and the Mountain View School, and at 7 p. m. a Texas-style barbecue will be held. Among the celebrities to be present is Molly Grubb, Miss Texas.

There'll also be entertainment by the Sycamore Singers, by O. K. Davis and the Texas Village Boys, and by the Gatesville Stingettes, high school drill team. Speakers at the barbecue will be Clint Peoples, Texas Ranger Captain, and Bob Salter, state representative.

The conference's business sessions are to be held at the Terrace School of the GSSE campus. Training school officials from out of state appearing on the program will be Anthony P. Trivisono of Iowa, Amos Reed of Oregon, Jack C. Pulliam of Kansas, Carmel AM Bland of Oklahoma, Malcolm Geddiss of Colorado, and Delbert G. Leaf of Minnesota.

CONTRACT LET FOR NOLAN CREEK DAMS

FORT HOOD—Construction of two or more flood detention dams on Ft. Hood is scheduled to begin the week of Oct. 9.

The dams will be built on Sites No. 3 (on North Nolan Creek adjacent to North Rd.) and No. 5A (east and adjacent to Ft. Hood Army Airfield).

These two dams, which are the last ones to be built on Ft. Hood, will cost a total of $117,000 and is part of the $1.6 million Nolan Creek Watershed Project. This project was started Dec. 13, 1966.

The contract for the construction of these two flood detention dams was let to Vilvi Construction Co. of Dallas.

Some 22,000 acres of Ft. Hood land will be served by the project which covers 115 square miles in Bell and Coryell Counties.

The project will provide protection for agricultural land, both private and public. The watersheds will all aid in prevention of floods.

According to figures released by the Soil Conservation Service, flood water damage in this area,

Also on the conference program are Dr. James A. Turman, executive director of the Texas Youth Council; C. L. Kersey, director of parole for the Texas Youth Council; and George B. Adams, superintendent of the Mountain View School.

TWO DRUNKS FILED ON BY POLICE

Saturday, Oct. 7, Coryell County Sheriff Windy Cummings and St. Hwy. Patrolman Wallace Plentl apprehended a drunk at a Gatesville residence.

Sheriff Cummings filed charges against the man for disorderly conduct, disturbing the peace and delivering threats.

The offender was jailed and was brought before Justice of the Peace Stony Hammock in County Court where he was fined $105 for his actions.

Monday, Oct. 9, another drunk was apprehended by Sheriff Cummings. He was fined on for being intoxicated in a public place. In court he was fined $20.

In other news from the police, Polic Chief Gene Goins advises citizens of Gatesville and the county the 2-hour parking signs on 6th and 8th Sts. on the square will be enforced.

1 ACCIDENT REPORTED BY OFFICERS: WOMAN INJURED

Sunday, Sept. 8 at 12:20 p. m. a 1965 Chevrolet driven by Eugene Paul Whitt of Gatesville collided with a 1963 Pontiac belonging to Curt Regers.

Gatesville police reported the Whitt auto struck the legally parked Regers vehicle for no apparent reason.

Mrs. Lola Whitt was taken to Coryell Memorial Hospital for emergency treatment. Mrs. Whitt was transferred to a Waco hospital with a broken hip and a possible broken arm and shoulder.

Investigating officer Fabian Klecka cited damages of $300 to the Chevy and $700 to the Pontiac.

Possessor of a fine defense already, perhaps the Cameron Yoemen have finally awakened their long slumbering offensive attack.

A good indication of this was exhibited at Copperas Cove Friday night as the Yoemen downed the fighting Copperas Cove Bulldogs 17-0.

The victory was the first of the season for the Yoemen while the loss was Copperas Cove's fifth in a row.

With a new face in the quarterback slot in the person of Paul Chandler, the Yoemen unveiled a well-balanced attack that rolled up 265 yards rushing.

Leading this attack was stellar fullback Wayne Kirk who picked up 96 yards in 16 carries. Aiding the cause was converted quarterback Glenn Fogle who toted the pigskin 14 times for 72 yards from his new halfback post, and 219-pound halfback Mike Miller, who amassed 60 yards in 11 carries.

Miller was the big scoring cog in the attack as he scored one touchdown, booted a 23-yard field goal and kicked true on two point after attempts.

Even with a patchwork backfield due to injuries, Copperas Cove still displayed the leading ball carrier of the game in fullback Johnny Price, playing with an injured leg, amassed 97 yards in 14 carries to give Cameron some anxious moments.

After a scoreless first period, Cameron lit up the scoreboard for the first time with 8:15 remaining in the second stanza.

Facing fourth and inches for a first down from the Cameron 30,

Copperas Cove fumbled with guard Ronnie Richardson falling on the loose pigskin for the Yoe.

From the 30 the Yoemen cranked up and moved 70 yards in 13 plays to score.

Mike Miller charged into the end zone from one yard out for the marker and then booted the point-after for a 7-0 lead.

After holding Cove for down on its own 33, Cameron took over again and marched down to the Bulldog 7, at which point the Bulldogs rose up and made the Yoemen stare at a fourth and one situation with only 29 seconds left in the half.

Coach Ken Fuqua decided on a field goal, and Miller was the man elected to try. With the line of scrimmage the 7, the ball was placed down on the 13 and Miller promptly booted a 23-yard field goal into the wind, giving the Yoemen a 10-0 halftime lead.

Cameron threatened again in the third period after Mike Miller returned a Cove punt 26 yards to the Bulldog 30.

However, the Bulldogs rose to the occasion and held for downs on their own 7.

Cameron's final score came with 9:08 left in the game as halfback Dennis Crouch went in to score from the one-yard line to end a 9-play, 43-yard march.

Miller booted the point after and it was 17-0.

Midway through the final period Copperas Cove staged its biggest scoring threat after a fumble by guard Stacy Schultz on the Cove 45.

Eight plays moved the ball to the Cameron 9 before the Yoemen refused to yield any further, held for downs, and took over the ball.

Defensive leaders for Copperas Cove were linebacker Tommy Lamb, defensive end Charles Cantrell, guard Tommy Cowan, and defensive back Gary Baty.

For the Yoemen, tackle Ronnie Richardson, defensive end Wayne Kirk, guard David Barrett, tackle Charles Maddox, and linebacker Dennis Chapman all had fine games as did defensive back John Hosh.

This ended non-district action for both teams.

Cove will take an off date next week before launching its district campaign the next week against Burnet, while the Yoemen start defense of their 17-AA crown against co-favorite Hearne next Friday in Hearne.

Celeste Holm, starring as Mame Dennis in the musical hit, "Mame," appears briefly as the Moon Lady in the show-within-the-show — until she falls off the moon and throws the whole company into chaos. This is but one of the hilarious moments in the State Fair of Texas attraction playing at the Music Hall Oct. 6 through 22.

WASHINGTON AND
"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

There is much talk these days about something called police brutality. It seems any measures police take to protect life and property can somehow be interpreted as brutality.

But nothing is heard about firemen's brutality. In fact, there is a strange silence in this entire area.

Firemen, as everyone knows, constantly risk life and limb to protect life and property. And now added to the ordinary hazards of their duty is that of getting shot at while trying to put out riot started fires.

Thus, if it is brutality for a policeman to seek to stop destruction, looting, and arson, it is perhaps brutal of firemen to seek to put out the fires.

Thus perhaps, from the standpoint of some twisted mentalities, there is justification for making clay pigeons out of firemen up on the ladders.

But perhaps it is high time that a special day be set aside in these United States to honor firemen. Recognition of these valiant, dedicated men has been too long neglected, and it is high time there is a better understanding of the great value of firemen to society and the entire social order.

In fact, continued failure to accord this recognition to firemen, in view of the recent shootings of them, is perhaps as indicative as any other factor of the sick morality of the times.

It is a matter of record that when the First World War started, application of a draft law in England was creating civil disturbance and rioting.

Then with one of those stupid mistakes of which the Prussian general staff is prone to commit, in Belgium, the German executed before a firing squad as a spy Edith Cavell, a British nurse.

Not only did this execution of a person whose life was dedicated to healing and saving life inflame public opinion throughout the world, but it ended resistance of the British draft laws and increased the rush to enlist to avenge such a blow to all decent feelings of humanity.

But today, firemen, who in their field are as dedicated to serving humanity as are nurses in their field, are sitting ducks for snipers. It is perhaps time that the enormity of such acts be fully brought to light.

MORE PARKS SUGGESTED IN DOWN TOWN GATESVILLE

Addition of more parks to revitalize Gatesville's downtown area has been recommended by Garland Anderson Jr., graduate architectural student who spent the summer making a beautification survey of this city. His work was financed by grants from the city and from the America the Beautiful fund.

Recommendations he and experts in the University of Texas School of Architecture have arrived at were reported by Anderson in a report to the city council and in a speech at a Lions Club luncheon. He exhibited a scale model of a proposed new downtown area and showed color slides of present buildings as compared with color drawings of what could be done with them.

Anderson said Gatesville is a "courthouse square town" and most of his recommendations had to do with that area. They involved the planting of trees and greenery so the square "can live and breath again".

He would like to see a park-like atmosphere on the square, and also proposes the construction of a park area along Stillhouse Branch immediately north of the downtown business area.

"Here, just a few steps from the business district, you have a flowing artesian well and an area of natural beauty that could be developed into a splendid park," Anderson cited.

He proposes to link the Stillhouse Park and the courthouse square park with Raby Park just southeast of the business district. He described Raby Park as one of the finest small town parks anywhere.

Store fronts can be beautiful at minimum expense. "Some cleaning, some fresh paint, removal of surplus signs and installation of attractive colored awnings can work wonders," Anderson declared. Some of his drawings offered proof of that statement.

He also mentioned the utilization of alleyways and said that shops and offices could front on them.

All Anderson's recommendations are themed on beautifying the town but at the same time retaining its unique character.

He said the first step should be the lighting of the exterior of the courthouse, termed by Anderson as architecturally one of the finest in the state. A demonstration of how the building would look under lights was held several weeks ago but so far no estimate of the cost of carrying out the project has been made available.

Anderson proposed naming the downtown square Grant Square, in honor of R. G. Grant who donated the land for the downtown Gatesville area.

Does it pay to make a town attractive? "With the increasing urbanization of Texas and the coming of rapid transit systems, people are seeking a place to live as much as a place to work" Anderson pointed out. "Many of Gatesville's residents are now employed outside of the city."

City leaders plan to have him meet with other business groups and civic clubs to explain his findings and proposals.

Surveys Give Clues

Mirror Tells All

Surveys show that attractive reflections like this one are now in the minority. According to one leading authority, over one-half the women in the nation would be embarrassed by a confrontation with a full-length mirror. But if they made that confrontation a daily practice, he feels, both mirror watchers and girl watchers would be more pleased with what they're watching.

The weight-conscious woman is probably extremely mirror-conscious, and a full-length mirror is one of the best tools for motivating a woman to lose a few pounds.

That's the opinion from K. D. Miller, a man who makes his living learning the dieting habits of the American public. Miller, who is Director of Marketing Intelligence at Mead Johnson Nutritional — the makers of Metrecal — surveys thousands of weight-watchers each year.

Miller doesn't mean to knock the bathroom scale as the weight watcher's helper, but his surveys show that the average woman is more concerned about appearance than pounds.

Though her ideal weight doesn't change, fashions do. Now the slim figure catches a man's eye, and the Twiggy look is big business in fashion circles. Once, however, it was fashionable to be rotund. In either case a girl needs a mirror, not a scale, to see how she's doing.

Miller's studies show that the woman who takes steps to keep her weight down is also a better-than-average user of cosmetic items. She's concerned about how she looks. She corrects her weight gain early—when it's only a matter of losing a few pounds.

The overweight woman who takes no weight control action buys considerably fewer personal care items.

Miller thinks she may not be aware, or perhaps simply doesn't care, how she looks. She tries a crash diet. She gets discouraged when it doesn't produce miracles, rationalizes why she doesn't really want to be trim again, and then becomes a hopeless case.

Miller thinks a critical appraisal before a mirror each day would prevent these gals from becoming charter members of the overweight society. His latest survey, by the way, shows that 53 percent of all U. S. women fall into the overweight category.

The aim is to gain an accurate count of men and women living within a 2½-mile radius of Gatesville who would accept a job or who would like a better job than they now have.

"There are several different industrial prospects with whom we have been in contact," Chamber of Commerce president Dawson Cooper said. "They range in size from a possible 100 to 400 employees, some using 90 per cent men and some 90 per cent women. The first question asked is about the supply of labor available. Specific facts and figures have to be available."

A house to house survey in Gatesville and surrounding communities is planned. Other civic organizations, schools and home demonstration clubs are being asked to help with the project which will find 3,000 "applications for employment" distributed.

Revealing Survey

Millions Supplementing Medicare

Eight million people aged 65 and older have private health and accident insurance to supplement Medicare benefits.

Men in the over-65 age group show more interest than women in purchasing insurance plans designed to supplement Medicare.

Almost half of all older people are influenced by the attitude of their families toward purchasing or not purchasing private health insurance.

Finally, Medicare eligibles are more in favor of health plans which fill the gaps in Medicare coverage and provide cash benefits while sick than they are in benefits for specific out-of-hospital medical expenses not covered by Medicare.

These are some of the findings of a national survey conducted recently by one of the country's leading insurers of over-65 people, Continental Casualty Co.

Projected on a national scale, Continental Casualty reports that the survey indicates that as many as eight million older Americans carry some form of private health and accident insurance to supplement Medicare. This is a drop of about 19 per cent from the pre-Medicare level, according to Henry A. Jones, Director of Retirement Planning for Continental Casualty.

Of those surveyed who did not have private coverage, but who expressed interest in purchasing a private plan, 8 per cent more men indicated interest than women. Of everyone indicating an interest in purchasing supplementary coverage, younger people aged 65 to 70, are more interested in purchasing than those over 70.

Almost one-third of the over-65 group surveyed who were interested in purchasing private insurance indicated family approval as a factor, while only about 15 per cent indicated disapproval of purchasing. The remainder either had no family to discuss the matter with, or the family was neutral in its feelings.

The survey clearly showed that people like the supplementary private plans mainly for the reason that they "complete Medicare." Rating of the major types of plans being offered in preference depends on how effectively each "completes Medicare."

There were indications that many people recognized that Medicare, with its various benefits, does not cover many of the medical expenses incurred. (The Social Security Administration estimates that Medicare covers about half of the average older person's total medical expenses.)

Jones predicted that the volume of Medicare-eligible people who look to supplementary protection will mount.

"As more people become aware of the limitations of Medicare," he said, "they will seek a supplementary plan to pick up where Medicare stops and to fill in the gaps in coverage."

He cited the variety of types of plans available from companies who have stayed in the over-65 field, including Continental. The company, which now offers three such supplementary plans, will introduce a new one this year.

Instant Appetizers

Canned foods and your own imagination can work wonders if unexpected guests appear, or "drop-in-for-a-drink" is extended on the spur of the moment. Here are a few recipe ideas to inspire you.

Tuna Tartlet

You'll need a can of tuna fish, juice of 1/2 lemon, 1/4 cup of mayonnaise, a tablespoon of ketchup, a tablespoon of sherry and salt and pepper to taste. Blend these ingredients and fill patty shells or spread mixture on toast rounds. Sprinkle paprika on top, and broil for about 3 minutes. Serve immediately.

Zippy Spread

To one can of deviled ham spread, add ketchup, mayonnaise and dry mustard to taste. Place mixture on toast, dab butter or cheese on top and broil 'til the cheese or butter melts.

Add your own touches to canned meats. For example, slice canned chicken for small sandwiches, add a slice of jellied cranberry on top. For a change of flavor, use dark bread. Here's a mushroom idea that's tasty and easy. Drain a can of whole mushrooms. Heat the liquid from a jar of pickles. Cover the mushrooms with the liquid, cool and refrigerate overnight. Serve with toothpicks for spearing.

These are just a few ideas to spark your own imagination. Check the canned food shelves next time you're shopping and you'll soon have your own plans for instant appetizers.

Cans can do lots to improve your cooking quotient. They're easy to store, keep indefinitely, won't break and new canned foods are being developed regularly.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation makes much of the tinplate that goes into thousands of cans on the shelves of your stores and supermarkets for convenience cooking and taste cooking.

HOOD SOLDIER AT HOME

When 2nd Lieutenant Robert Collins joined the Army, he didn't have to leave home. As a civilian he lived in Gatesville; as a soldier, he still lives in Gatesville and drives only four miles to work, at North Ft. Hood every morning.

The lieutenant is the assistant S-3 officer with the 2nd Armored Division's 1st Battalion, 78th Artillery currently assigned to North Ft. Hood as the site-support battalion for Army Reserve Corps units which trained there this summer.

Second Lt. Collins completed Officer Candidate School in August and then came home to Gatesville and his first Army assignment at North Ft. Hood with the "Go-Getters."

The lieutenant and his wife Frances currently reside in the same Gatesville house that they honeymooned in four years ago, before Collins joined the Army.

More of Colorado River's Shoreline Beauty To Be Revealed

New Lake Behind Proposed Dam To Open Scenic Way

PAGE, ARIZONA — If Congress approves pending Colorado River Basin Project legislation to improve water supplies for seven Southwestern States, an extra dividend of increased pleasure for vacationers from all 50 states will be a popular by-product.

A new dam on the Colorado River is proposed by a bill which will create a new lake on which boaters can smoothly and safely reach spectacular scenery now denied to all but a reckless few. Wild and muddy rapids now make the Colorado River perilous for nearly 200 miles between Lake Powell and Lake Mead. One year 3,594,100 people enjoyed Lake Mead, formed by Hoover Dam, but only 1,300 travelled the untamed river.

At Lake Powell the recently-opened Wahweap Lodge and Wahweap Marina near Glen Canyon Dam now help thousands of families to enjoy in comfort a trip to Rainbow Natural Bridge. For every single mountaineer who once struggled to reach the site, hundreds now can see it easily.

Visitors are welcomed at Wahweap by Art Greene. For 50 years before the dam was built he piloted small parties of daredevils down the turbulent stream for dangerous thrills. He knows from experience whereof he speaks.

"For every point of interest which was covered by waters of Lake Powell, 10 more were brought into view by the reservoir," says Greene. "Our boats now can explore new canyons where there are revealed formerly-hidden glories. This past year we have located new cliff dwellings, pictographs, rock paintings, arches, new waterfalls—canyon scenes never viewed before.

"In the clear, cool waters of this newest Colorado River reservoir the bass have grown to 10 pounds. Trout, Kokanee salmon and bluegill also are plentiful in water no longer too muddy for game fish.

"From the new lake shore

RAINBOW NATURAL BRIDGE is being admired in comfort and safety by hundreds of thousands — by the oldest and youngest members of American families — who now can reach this previously remote spectacle by boat on lovely Lake Powell at Glen Canyon Dam.

Bridge is filled with breathtaking vistas at each turn of the path."

Now Congress is being asked to authorize a new dam at Bridge Canyon on the Colorado River which will create Hualapai reservoir. This new lake will expand the popular recreational attractions of the Colorado River in the same manner as did Lake Powell.

It will enable all Americans to enjoy their scenic heritage in Grand Canyon National Monument, a treasure now isolated in forbidding wilderness.

Hualapai Indians whose tribal reservation borders the proposed new reservoir have asked Congress to authorize the development. The Hualapai Tribal Council at Peach Springs, Arizona, says the reservation now offers little economic opportunity to impoverished Indian families.

Sens. Carl Hayden of Arizona and Thomas Kuchel of California have heard Indian arguments that service to tourists attracted to the proposed reservoir would give Indians a chance to earn a decent living.

Testimony of the Hualapai Indians also is on the record of hearings by the House Subcommittee on Irrigation and CAMPING COMFORT is now possible along hundreds of miles of new shoreline since the reservoir behind Glen Canyon Dam quelled the risky rapids of the Colorado River and opened to all Americans a huge trove of once-hidden scenic treasure.

Wayne Aspinall of Colorado, plus Harold Johnson and Craig Hosmer of California, introduced bills authorizing the dam as part of the Colorado River Basin Project.

Basic need for developing the Colorado River is economic. Households, factories, irrigators and hydropower users need the development. But

Opening Colorado River wilderness areas to hundreds of thousands of owners of trailers or camper vehicles, to boaters and swimmers and fishing parties, is opposed by a relatively small but influential group of outdoor aristocrats who do not want their isolated

GATESVILLE FALLS BEFORE NEW BRAUNFELS UNICORNS

NEW BRAUNFELS—The New Braunfels Unicorns broke 7-7 first quarter deadlock on the trusty toe of Armando Aguirre and went on to take an 18-7 victory over the Gatesville Hornets Friday night to stay alive in the tight 13-AAA race. Aguirre booted a 25-yard field goal in the 2nd period to give the Unicorns their second district win and booted an extra point as well. The Hornets opened with a sparkling explosion as Bobby Cole

PRICE LEADS GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP BY 3

Gatesville Country Club is now holding its annual Club Championship tournament. This year's tournament is a 36 hole medal play affair. At the halfway mark Butch Price, a very promising athlete held a comfortable three stroke lead.

The field of nine all reported good and bad moments. Saturday rain and a brisk north wind helped the course to defend itself from Gatesville's nine most talented golfers.

The complete standings after 18 holes are as follows:

Butch Price	36-37	73
Johnny Jones	38-38	76
Richard Hill	41-38	79
C. C. Shepard	39-41	80
Mike Scholeman	43-39	82
Byron McClellan	42-40	82
Joe Jones	44-39	83
B. C. McClellan	42-42	84
Ronnie Nichols	43-41	84

scored on a 67 yard gallop the first time they had the ball, but the New Braunfels defense settled down and wouldn't let Gatesville inside their 20 after that.
