Congressman W.R. Poage To Seek Re-election

CONGRESSMAN W.R. POAGE

No one has, I am sure, in the long history of the Congress of the United States ever been privileged to represent a finer constituency than I. It has been a wonderful experience. I have sought to represent you effectively and honestly. I hope I may have the opportunity to continue this relationship. I am, therefore, today announcing my candidacy for re-election, subject of course, to the action of the Democratic Primary, which will be held on May 4th, and I am filing the statutory applications required by law in each of the eleven counties of our Eleventh District. I sincerely hope that the Federal Courts will not force any further rearrangement of congressional districts in Texas.

The office belongs to the people of our district. If I am again entrusted with this responsibility, I shall, as I have in the past, try to judge each issue and each vote as seems to me to be in the interest of our country, our state, and of our district, on the basis of the information available to me at the time.

Naturally, like every candidate, I would hope to make this race unopposed. Our primary comes at a time when I would not normally expect to be at home, but should I be confronted with an opponent, I shall expect to spend as much time as possible in Central Texas to discuss fully and frankly any differences of viewpoint as to the best possible way to represent our district.

In any event, I shall need and I invite the active cooperation and work of all my friends throughout the district. No one ever won a political race alone and I am no exception. The people of this district have been fine and kind to me. I hope that I can continue to serve them.

Lt. GOV. PRESTON SMITH CAMPAINED HERE FRIDAY

Lt. Governor Preston Smith was in town Friday afternoon at 4:30.

A crowd of over 100 gathered at the Chateau Ville restaurant to hear Mr. Smith speak of the up coming elections in November and his view points on several issues.

Preston Smith was the first person to announce and file for the top office in the State.

Very few can decide if they really want to be governor.

Lt. Governor Smith, 55, comes from a family of 13 children. He put himself through Texas Tech, during the depression years and graduated in 1934. He made his home in Lubbock, Texas.

Lt. Governor Smith expressed his views on several subjects to the local gathering. Of major importance is his view of government's place in society. He pointed out that government is "having an increasing effect on business. . . Government has gone too far to regulate our daily lives."

Lt. Gov. Smith pointed out that in the future much emphasis should be placed on the field of vocational education in our schools. Such emphasis stems from the fact that only a 5% category of jobs are available for untrained people.

Some time was spent talking about Texas teachers salaries being below the national average.

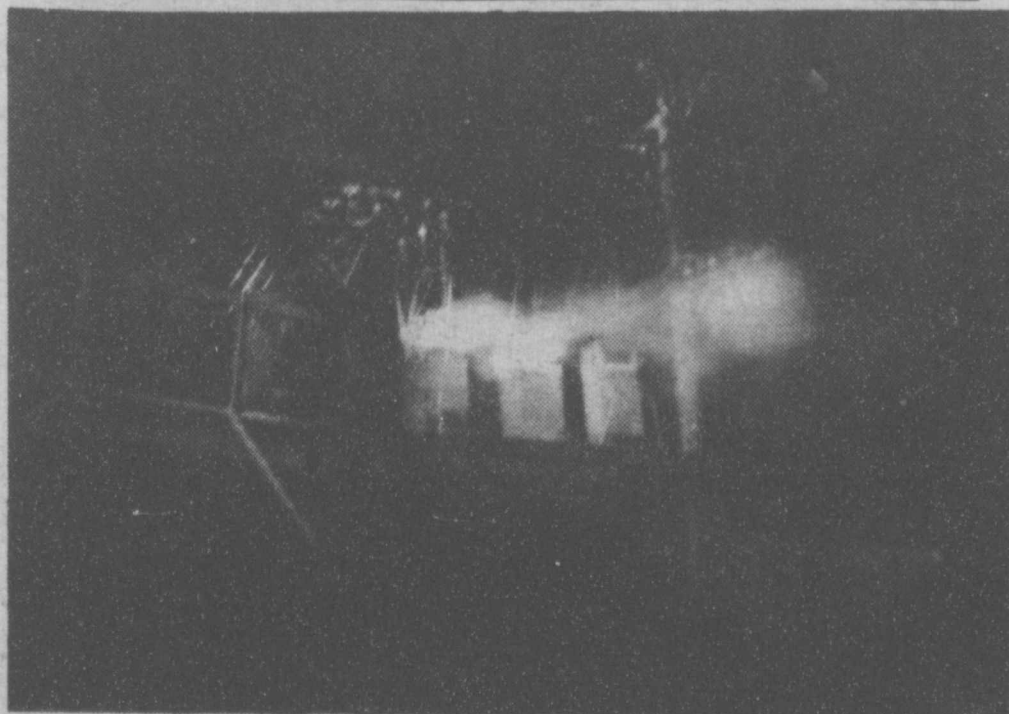

Of major importance to Mr. Smith is the area of lawlessness. Crime is a fast growing problem.

Mr. Smith encouraged all persons to take an active interest in government for two reasons: one effected officers determine the economic level while they are in office. Secondly, elected officers determine the laws we live under. These two facts should prompt each citizen to decide what he or she wants, find a candidate believing the same and work to elect the candidate.

Lt. Governor Preston Smith along with Mr. Joe Schelton State Rep. Bob Salters and Mr. H.K. Jackson Sr. greeted all who attended the meeting at the Chateau Ville restaurant last Friday.

FIRE STRIKES UTILITY POLE

Sunday night, January 14, a fire was reported in the electric transformer unit located at the Powell Gin on Bridge Street.

Two units from the Gatesville Fire Department answered the alarm. With the help of the Community Public Service boom truck, the live wires were cut thus preventing the possibility of electric shock. Water was then directed into the top of the transformer box from the boom truck.

Spokesman for the Community Public Service Company, Buddy Biffel estimated damages to the transformer units at $1,200. Biffel said the fire was apparently started by a short in the transformer core.

SUNSHINE RETURNS TO AREA

After two weeks of dismal dreary weather, the long-awaited rays of the sun popped through the haze, Friday morning to the pleasure of all Coryellites. With predictions of returning cold conditions, the people of the county will have to soak up whatever sunshine they can during the brief interlude of spring like weather. Wednesday, say the weathermen, the conditions will worsen as cloud cover begins to form and a brisk cold front arms to strike the area with 20 degree blows.

INTEREST AND TAXES UP OR DOWN?

Indicative of the growing state of confusion in the thinking of top authorities on fiscal and economic matters has been the protracted controversy over whether or not to increase taxes. It is becoming clearly evident that official indecisiveness is the result of growing doubt in many quarters as to the validity of the basic theories of the new economics. These are some of the questions that are now being raised: Does easy money mean lower interest rates or higher interest rates? Does tight money mean higher interest rates or lower interest rates? Will a tax increase stem inflation or will it intensify inflation?

Until recently, the pragmatism of the new economics claimed to have the answers to all these questions. But now, as Alfred Malabre, Jr., writes in the Wall Street Journal, "The 'new economics' of the early boom years has been supplanted, to a considerable extent by a new uncertainty. This uncertainty is most apparent in academic circles. But it isn't going unnoticed within the perplexed ranks of public and private policy-makers." No longer does the new economics represent a solid phalanx of thought in government. Until recently, the belief was widely supported that an increase in the nation's money supply tended to bring down interest rates on the theory that as more money becomes available, the cost of borrowing should decline. But, what has actually happened is a far different story.

In some recent months, the nation's money supply has been increasing at annual rates of 12 and even 13 percent--far higher than the average yearly rise of 2.1 percent during the decade of 1950 to 1960. The money supply now exceeds $180 billion, more than $20 billion higher than only three years ago. But, interest rates have soared to the highest levels since the post-Civil War era. Despite the rise in interest rates that has accompanied "easy money" governmental policies, Mr. Malabre says, "Most Washinton economic planners still adhere to the view that easy money tends to reduce interest levels," although an increasing number of authorities hold a different view. Mr. Andrew F. Brimmer, a governor of the Federal Reserve Board, comments, "Where the heck would interest rates be now if we hadn't been easy? Through the roof, that's where." On the other hand, a vice president of one of the biggest banks in the country says, "An increase in money-supply growth does tend to reduce interest rates at first, but then it tends to raise them later on." The latter view is based on the premise that a rising money supply ultimately increases the amount that people earn and spend. This in turn tends to drive up prices in general--including interest rates.

As to the affect of a tax increase, many now feel that an increase would simply push up prices and cause further inflation rather than, as the popular expression puts it, soak up excess purchasing power. Moreover, some analysts fear that a tax increase would result in less consumer saving rather than a cut in consumer spending as advocates of a tax increase claim. Some analysts also believe that a tax boost would prompt corporations to borrow more heavily instead of paying for needed expansion out of after-tax earnings. House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mills has blocked a tax increase until there is clear evidence of retrenchment in government spending. He appears to be among the growing ranks of those who question the validity of the new economics and believe that in the long run, the old-fashioned medicines of frugality and balanced budgets are the only answers to the current spectre of inflation and what one economist has called the "banana republic" psychology--which means spending and borrowing all you can today because the money will be worth less tomorrow.

GOVERNMENT CAN'T BUILD CHARACTER

Pessimists, who are inclined to think that all the answers to present day problems lie in more and more government direction of our lives, are failing to take into their reckoning what might be called almost a national movement to restore to its rightful position the leadership and initiative of private citizens. There are many things government cannot do and one of them is to build character. We are reminded of this with the coming observance of Boy Scout Week, February 7-13.

In speaking to the annual meeting of the Boy Scouts of America, Mr. James M. Patterson, an oil company executive, declared, "Youth movements in many other lands have lacked voluntary action. They have discounted the importance of individual initiative and self-reliance, and have substituted blind obedience to a central authority. We have in Scouting and in other voluntary youth movements the American answer to Communism and dictatorships. Scouting is working to tip the scales in the direction of liberty--it is the American way." Mr. Patterson said Scout leaders are helping develop character and effective citizenship at the time it is needed the most. "With more than three million boys and girls coming to voting age every year," he said, "our hope for a better future is in their hands. . . More than 40 million men and boys have taken part in Boy Scout work since it was started 67 years ago".

Boy Scout Week is worthy of observation by youth and adult alike. Scouting typifies the kind of voluntary, character-building action that accompanies responsible citizenship.

HE HAS WHAT IT TAKES!

The older worker, a valuable asset in the nation's work force, is sometimes overlooked. Management would do well to utilize the reservoir of talent that these mature people represent, particularly in this labor-short period.

Secretary of Labor Wirtz recognized a fundamental truth when he said: "A strong and viable economy is the most important single factor improving employment prospects for middle-aged and older workers who lose their jobs. The more vigorous the economy—the higher the level of activity and the more rapid the rate of growth, the better the employment opportunities for workers of all ages."

Today excellent progress is being made by the voluntary route, as many firms have dropped bans on hiring older people. These firms have learned to place high value on older men and women.

Twenty-three states and Puerto Rico have already adopted laws prohibiting age discrimination. All but three of these laws have been passed since 1955, most of them since 1960; such legislation exists in the major industrial states and covers more than half the nation's industrial workers. The states are taking affirmative action to resolve this problem at their level.

More significant progress can be made through voluntary efforts as more employers recognize the values older workers offer—seasoned experience, judgment, stability and good attendance records. They truly constitute a valuable asset in the nation's work force.

Texas Soybean Association Held 1st. Annual Jan. 25

The Texas Soybean Association will hold its first annual meeting January 25 in Texas at a 7 m University's Memorial Student Center.

R. J. Hodges, Extension agronomist, said Association President W.B. Tilson of Plainview reports a membership of approximately 400 and much interest in this rapidly expanding crop in Texas.

Acreage planted in 1967 in Texas reached 270,000, double the figure for 1966, Hodges said. The average per acre yield was 26 bushels. Some soybean industry leaders, he added, believe a million acres will be planted to the crop within the next five years with the Gulf Coast and irrigated High Plains sectors furnishing most of the increase.

All speakers during the morning session will be Agricultural Extension Service specialists and their subjects will cover "Economic Opportunities for Soybean Production in Texas; Texas Soybean Diseases; Soybean Insects and Their Control; Fertilizer Needs and Irrigation; Weed Control;

Economic Outlook for the Crop and the Exacting Role of Varieties."

During the afternoon, Vice President Chet Randolph, American Soybean Association, Hudson, Iowa, will discuss "Keeping Soybeans Free and Profitable." Tim Moore of the Texas Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, College Station, will outline the "On - Farm Storage Loan Program" and W.S. Allen Extension agricultural engineer, will discuss "Proper Storage for Soybeans." The annual business meeting of the Association will conclude the meeting, Hodges said.

The agronomist explained that the crop has been profitable in sections of Texas with sufficient rainfall or irrigation water and is adapted to the same general soil and climatic conditions as are corn and cotton. Soybeans require about the same cultural practices as corn and cotton and production can utilize expensive machinery now available on many farms, Hodges said.

Tilson and Hodges extend a special invitation to growers and those interested in gaining more information on the crop and its potentials. It's the kind of a meeting interested persons can't afford to miss, they said.

Sponsors for the one-day meeting are the Texas Association and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Belton Edges Hornets In Last 10 Seconds 53 To 52

The Belton Tigers beat the Gatesville Hornets by one point.

Before the game, as the Tigers emerged from the dressing rooms Larry Taylor, regular starter for Belton, summed it up talking to a teammate, "I am so nervous I am shaking."

It was basketball at its finest Friday night at the Gatesville gym. Two teams played as hard as they could for 32 minutes (no quarter), tension mounting from the first "jump ball."

The Hornets moved into the lead early with fast moving play featuring sharpshooting Raymond Cole, good control of the boards by Bobby Cole Kenny Gaston, and Reggie Scheonewolf.

In the first quarter the Hornets hung on to their lead but the Tigers managed to pull to within one point by the bell.

In the second quarter Raymond Cole caught on fire with 8 points and the Hornet defense only allowed the Tigers a scant 9 points. The quarter was marked with many fast breaks and hard playing. The "non-contact sport" was put to the test with elbows flying. However, the first half ended with only 19 fouls called on both teams.

Action was slowed in the second half by a couple of sharp eyed officials calling 40 fouls in the last two quarters.

Neither team could generate an offense with Belton getting 16 points and Gatesville getting 13 points, Buddy Wiggins was the only Hornet to hit two points from the field. (There just were not that many opportunities to shoot at the basket.) The Hornets did capitalize on 11 of 17 fouls shots in the quarter.

The early fourth quarter belonged to the Hornets, leading by 3 points at the start of the fourth quarter the Hornets quickly posted 8 points while the Tigers could only pick up 3 points.

Reggie Scheonewolf who set out the biggest part of the game come on when Kenny Gaston fell under the sharp eyes of the officials and his 5 fouls. He picked up 5 points, and Jerry Morgan hit on a field goal and two free throws.

If they awarded "game balls" in basketball it would have belonged to Buddy Wiggins Friday night. Buddy hit 4 points in the first quarter 5 points in the third quarter and 4 points in the final stanza when he left the game. Buddy put 13 points through for the locals and was second high scorer for the evening. Holding on to an 8 point lead for 5:18 on the clock is very hard to do in a game like Belton vs. Gatesville.

Players began to run out of fouls with Belton's Danny Ramm missing the last 4:17 minutes however, his 12 points for the night did not hurt the Belton effort.

With two minutes to play the Tigers caught the Hornets, Belton lost Tommy Lee with one minute to play and a 50 to 49 lead.

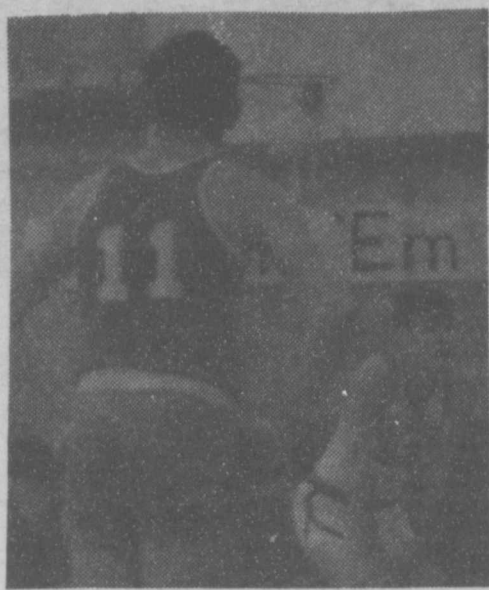

Reggie Scheonewolf hit on a free throw with 47 seconds to play to tie the score 50 to 50. Then Taggart of Belton hit a free one with 37 seconds to play.

The Hornets moved on the offense with 37 seconds to go. Jerry Morgan moved into the circle where he was fouled. Both shots were on the mark and the Hornets had a one point lead with 30 seconds to play.

Full court press made Belton's trip down the court for the winning points difficult. Bobby Blair hit on a jump shot from the right side of the circle with 10 seconds to play.

The Belton defense came up with a steal when the Hornets rushed down the court. Ten seconds go by fast when you don't have the ball.

Exciting basketball is played

Hornet B's Lose to Tigers

The Hornet B squad had it tough Friday night against Belton. The Tigers jumped out a five point lead in the first quarter when the Hornets were cool.

The second quarter was much the same with only two field goals by the locals. The half time score read Belton 27, Gatesville 12.

The Hornets fought back in the second half. The third quarter, though it still belonged to Belton saw the Hornet B's double their score.

Behind 43 to 24 at the beginning of the last quarter the Hornets put on the pressure picking up 13 points while holding the Tigers to 4 points.

Time ran out with the Tigers holding a comfortable 10 point lead over the Hornets.

Economist Looks A Year Ahead In Agriculture

The agricultural situation in 1967 turned out to be one of record farm output and declining prices.

John G. McHaney, Texas A&M Extension economist, said that realized net farm income probably was reduced by about 10 percent from the near-record 1966 level. The net effect of larger marketings and lower prices was to reduce cash receipts from marketings only slightly. However, he said, the uptrend in production expenses continued in 1967 and realized net income of farm operators dropped to a $14.8 billion annual rate in January-September, down from $16.6 billion a year earlier.

McHaney noted that production gains for livestock products were large in 1967, especially for hogs, poultry and eggs. Livestock product prices received by farmers in the first half of 1967 averaged five percent below a year earlier. By the third quarter of 1967, livestock prices still averaged four percent lower. In recent months large supplies have held prices for hogs, poultry and eggs well below year-earlier levels.

A record 1967 crop output, some four to five percent above 1966, was produced. Prices of grain and soybeans adjusted downward in response to big gain in production of wheat, feed grains, rice and soybeans. He said the all-crop index of prices received by farmers in July-September averaged eight percent below a year earlier. This narrowed in October with the advance in cotton prices. However, McHaney said, grower prices for wheat were down 10 percent, corn 19 percent and soybeans 12 percent from October 1966.

He said larger exports are in prospect for corn, soybeans, oils and rice during 1967-68. Cotton and wheat exports probably will hold around 1966-67 shipments. Lower farm product prices will help to improve the competitive position of U.S. grains and soybeans.

The uptrend in farm production expenditures will continue in 1968 and accelerate somewhat. Prices paid by farmers for most items used in production will continue to rise in 1968, though feed prices will average lower. McHaney said wage rates will also increase.

All in all, farmers' incomes will not keep pace with expected gains in the rest of the economy, he concludes.

When an American flag is displayed on an automobile, it should be flown from a staff attached to the right side of the bumper.
