COGITATIONS and APHORISMS of JULIUS

Well, I have... away, and a pretty long... returned again... as does my... (G. H. Howe), that I... never going away again... any good opportunity affords... but judging the future... will be many more years in the future, and when that time shall come I shall... hauled away and in a... unfit for me to make any resistance or remonstrance.

I surely had a most enjoyable time in company with Mildred and our daughter, who did all the driving, nearly 3,000 miles; and we had... but the very finest of weather with all good paved roads, and the leaves on the trees taking on their autumn glory of many brilliant colors.

But that was not the chief delight of the trip; for the meeting of relatives and friends of many years standing, and a few short minutes of friendly intercourse with them, gave the greatest tang of pleasure of the entire trip. We had the pleasure of meeting nearly all of our relatives, and of enjoying their hospitality, with only one instance of sadness—laying away of one of these dear relatives, whose funeral we arrived in time to attend.

In addition to meeting these dear relatives, there was the added pleasure of meeting and a short visit with many of our good friends and former neighbors and a few minutes chat with each of them; among whom were: Grant and Joe Lawder, Leon Tudor and Willie McKenney, and their good wives and families, cut at Ebenezer; and Sam Mann and his sister and Kinsey Johnson and Willard Barber and Ed Frazer, and a host of others down at Rockwood, which was our "old home town".

Then, there was good old Charley Brown, now almost universally known as "Uncle Charley", now in his 98th year, but with mind and memory as fresh and keen as that of youth, and truly happy was the scant few minutes that I was able to spend with him, and his splendid wife and daughter, at their little town of Cora City, which was named for the daughter, now Mrs. Cora Brown Rollo, and who, by the way, was a pupil of mine while I was a country pedagogue many years ago. And at Cora City I also met another old neighbor, Henry Vickers, who is also now in his "eighties", also Henry Spinner and Clint Isom. Clint used to shave me a quarter century ago, and who again rendered me that service while there Sunday morning.

Then, there was my old Chester friends and cronies, Jesse and John Meredith, Eck Allison—bless his old soul—and Attorney Fred Gilster, and Ed Earmosky and John McNelly and Will Adams, and John Janny, and Ed Wagner, who has also become a lawyer since I lived there; and Fred and Herman Wehrich and their venerable uncle, Mr. Herman Reber, and last, but not least by any means, was our good friend, Mrs. George Frensch, better known to me as just simply "Helen". For Helen used to work for me as printer while I operated a job printing shop there at Chester, many years ago; and she was really a printer, who could equal any and excel many in the printing craft, and a mighty good girl to boot.

Well, time and space forbids that I should mention the many others whom I met, but I must take time to mention Al Williams, who was one of my boyhood teachers, in the little gray school house at Ebenezer. I feel that I can justly give Al the credit for creating the best of boys that had hitherto encompassed my brain, and thus allowed my intellect to take on a limited amount of expansion.

Well, I cannot help but conclude these very pleasant experiences that I have just related, as best I can, to the blessed Heaven, which we are sure, that we shall all see when we have crossed the "Great Divide".

P. T. A. CARNIVAL WELL ATTENDED

The Halloween Carnival, which is sponsored each fall by the local Parent-Teachers Association, is held for the purpose of raising funds with which to run the school cafeteria. This year the carnival was a "howling" success, judging from the amount of noise made, in fun.

A well-behaved group enjoyed the many concessions, such as Bingo, horse-racing, throwing at the cats, spinning the wheel, cake-walks, bean guessing and many others. Light lunches and sandwiches were served. At 8:00 o'clock, the Carnival Queen, Maxine Hyde, was crowned by King George Landrum. The coronation ceremonies were in a beautiful and appropriate setting. A huge pumpkin was opened to reveal the King and Queen after the royalty and court attendants had assembled on the stage.

The singing by Georgia Nell Coleman, and the tap dancing by Jacquelyn Wilkinson added much to the coronation.

The coronation was followed by another period of fun—visiting the various booths, getting fortunes told, and playing bingo. A cinema comedy was presented with Willie Boedecker as chief engineer and Coach Holmes as assistant with the picture machine, "Noah Knew His Ark," was the picture shown.

Then came the climax of the evening's entertainment—a style show presenting exquisite (?) gowns and sports clothes, modeled by Messrs. Roden, Boedecker, Treider, Williams, Reeve and Bates. These clothes were exquisitely and gracefully (?) modeled. Messrs. Roden and Treider presented a couple of piano and dance numbers. Roden had talent for the movies. Carl Dollar, as a French stylist, acted as master of ceremonies.

This was followed by a "bachelor-old maid" race by a group from Dock Patch. Woodson Toone was the Mayor of the famous town of the comic strip, "L'il Abner." (Prof. Ginn) was caught by Daisy Mae (Prof. Bates) and they were married on the stage by Parson Dollar.

Lots of fun was had and a nice sum was realized for a worthy cause.

WILL HAVE UNION ARMISTICE DAY SERVICES

The Star has been authorized by Rev. L. L. Hill, pastor of the local Methodist church, and chairman of a committee on arrangements, to announce that the churches of the city will join in holding a Union Armistice Day Service at the school auditorium on Sunday afternoon, November 12th.

A good speaker from out of town has been secured for the occasion, and the entire community is invited to attend this service. The complete program for this service will be presented in next week's issue of the Star. Watch for it and be prepared to attend the service.

CONGREGATIONAL LADIES FAZAR POSTPONED

The Star is authorized to announce that the ladies of the Congregational church have postponed their bazaar and chicken dinner indefinitely. The date, which will be decided upon later, will be announced in the Star when definitely known.

One Whitefield and Mr. and Mrs. George Treider and children, Dale and Phyllis Ann, were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Dollar.

PLANNING HOME-COMING BANQUET

Plans are being made for the homecoming of all the old gang at Christmas time. Each year, one of the former students of the Friona school enjoys a get-together and a big banquet. Forrest Osborn is president of the group.

METHODIST YOUNG PEOPLE'S ACTIVITIES

All members of the Methodist Young People's department agree that we have been through a very busy week, with two socials and play practice, beside our regular worship service.

Last Sunday a large group met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ford for our regular monthly covered dish luncheon. After a large dinner and a very enjoyable social hour, the meeting was closed with a brief business meeting and singing at the parsonage home of Rev. and Mrs. L. L. Hill. All present agreed that it was a very enjoyable day, climaxed with the regular Sunday evening Epworth League meeting with Mrs. W. H. Ataway, Gladys Jones and Neoma Rector, presenting the program.

On Monday night a large group enjoyed a social or Halloween party, given at the old church house which was really decorated in traditional manner befitting the occasion. A number of enjoyable games were played, which were under the direction of Miss Ernestine McCoy and Merrill Furlong. At a late hour delicious refreshments of hot chocolate and pumpkin pie were served, and all present expressed themselves as having enjoyed the party.

Ten of our members have been working on the thrilling three-act mystery play to be given at the grade-school auditorium on Thursday evening, November 9, at eight o'clock. The play promises to be one of the best ever presented before a Friona audience, and is under the capable direction of Forrest Osborn, who has considerable experience in the dramatic line. Every one is urged to include this play on his "must see" list. Remember to mark November 9 on your calendar, and be present for an enjoyable evening of entertainment.

TO PRESENT PLAY

The Methodist Young People's Division will present a three-act play "The Red Spider," by special arrangement with Walter H. Baker Co. at the school auditorium on Thursday, November 9, at 8:00.

It is a thrilling mystery drama, of which the entire scene is laid in Dr. McHarris's Health Resort in the Blue Ridge Mountains. The cast includes: Dr. Arthur McHarris, Lee Spring, Valerie McHarris, Thelma Ford, Josephine Glover, Gladys Jones, Miss Piney, Neoma Rector, Zeb O'Kell, Ernest Osborn, Tom, Merrill Furlong, Jack Mayo, Charles Allen, Ralph Graves, C. L. Vestal, Mrs. Marie Stecker, Wynona Hill, Mammy Hanna, colored, Sarah Ataway, Director, Forrest Osborn, Assistant, Juanita Crow.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. L. L. Hill, pastor of the local Methodist church, announces that there will be a special service at that church on Sunday, November 12th, the Sunday immediately following Armistice Day.

The Assistant Superintendent of this district will preach the sermon which will probably be along the line of an Armistice Day theme. The members of the local American Legion post have been invited to attend in a body, and all persons not identified with any other church as well as members of other churches who choose to attend, are invited and will be royally welcome.

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION

Recognizing the special effect of the rest of the American Legion in promoting peace and patriotism in our country, and in honor of our veterans, I, E. W. Reese, Mayor of Friona, do hereby commend themselves that honor and respect to be peculiarly shown to the American Legion's efforts on Armistice Day (Saturday, November 11th). I also ask the complete suspension of business in Friona during the Armistice Day Parade.

Passes Away at St. Anthony Hospital, Wednesday Evening

The people of Friona were horrified when they learned that R. H. (Reube) Kinsley had been terribly burned. Wednesday morning, at his home in the west part of town, and many of the neighbors hurried to the home to render whatever assistance was in their power.

The burning occurred about ten minutes before ten o'clock, when a can of blasting powder exploded in the little work shop where Mr. Kinsley was working, grinding a rod on an emory wheel, very near to where the can of powder was sitting, and while no one was with him in the shop, it is the most reasonable thing to suppose that a spark from the emory wheel had fallen into the opening of the can and caused the explosion.

Mr. Kinsley had workmen engaged at building a new garage at his home, and the can of powder had been in use the day before in blowing a stump from the ground where the foundation was being built, and the can had been set under the bench where the motor-driven wheel was located and thoughtlessly left unattended.

J. L. Landrum, who has charge of the building of the garage, stated that Mr. Kinsley's feet could not have been more than a foot from where the can of powder was sitting, and as soon as he heard the report of the explosion, was certain he knew what had happened, and before he could get to the door of the building, Mr. Kinsley came out, covered with flames. Mr. Landrum and other workmen there succeeded in quenching the fire, but not before Mr. Kinsley's clothing had been practically all burned from his body, and after the fire was extinguished he walked into his residence.

Dr. Stover was instantly summoned and rendered all the medical aid in his power, and an ambulance was called from Hereford, and a little over an hour after the explosion the sufferer was on the way to St. Anthony's hospital at Amarillo.

Messrs. O. F. Lange and J. D. Buchanan departed for Amarillo before the ambulance arrived so as to have everything in readiness to receive him at the hospital and have a physician there summoned and present at the hospital ready to give all possible aid at the earliest possible moment. Dr. Stover accompanied the burned man in the ambulance so as to be in constant attendance upon him during the trip to the city.

Thomas Whaley, who drove the Whaley car taking Mrs. Kinsley, who was accompanied by Mrs. Lange, to Amarillo, returned late in the afternoon and reported that the physicians had grave doubts as to Mr. Kinsley's recovery, as it was found that the burn had almost completely encircled his body.

Editor's Note: News of Mr. Kinsley's death came after all our type was set up. We will carry further news and a eulogy of our highly esteemed fellow-townsmen next week.

Funeral services will be held at the Congregational Church at 2:30, Sunday afternoon.

E. B. Black Funeral Home will be in charge.

SCHOOL BAND TO AMARILLO

All the members of the Friona High School Band journeyed to Amarillo, Wednesday, for the purpose of hearing the U. S. Navy Band, which was scheduled to give a concert there for the students of the various schools of the Panhandle, on that date.

The members of the Friona band were chaperoned by Prof. Harley Lull, leader of the band and teacher of music in the local schools. The concert was given in the Amarillo Municipal Auditorium in the afternoon for the school pupils, and another was given at night for the benefit of the general public.

WEDDINGS

TREIDER-CHENEY

Miss Gladys Treider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Treider, Lazbuddy community, became the bride of Mr. Raye Cheney, Seagraves, Texas, Sunday, October 22, at ten o'clock in the home of the bride's parents.

The wedding party descended a gold and blue decorated stairway to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, played by the groom's twin sister, Mrs. F. Gallman.

Before an improvised altar of autumn leaves and fall flowers, the solemn and impressive ring ceremony was read by the Lutheran pastor Rev. Segar.

The bride wore a teal blue frock with gold trimmings, and carried a corsage of gold and white roses. Miss Lillian Treider, sister of the bride, attended as matron of honor. She wore a blue sheer dress with a corsage of gold and white chrysanthemums. The groom was attended by Mr. Frank Wagon.

Following the ceremony, a bountiful dinner was served to all present, including: Out-of-town guests, Mr. and Mrs. Ploddie Gallan of Pampa, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius, of Amarillo, the eldest sister of the groom from Canyon, and Miss Lucille Meecham of Muleshoe. Others were: Mr. and Mrs. George Treider and family, of Friona, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Treider and family, and Mrs. C. C. Merriott and son, Clyde, all of Lazbuddy.

After a wedding trip to Albuquerque, New Mexico, the couple will be at home in Seagraves, Texas, where Mr. Cheney is employed as a pharmacist.

COX-KRIZEK WEDDING

Miss Ferrol Cox, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Cox of Henrietta, and Mr. Joe Frank Krizek, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Krizek of Port Lavaca, Texas, were united in marriage, Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, October 29, at the Sacred Heart parish in Littlefield. Reverend Father Devorak officiated in an impressive double ring ceremony.

Mr. Joe Frank Krizek is a graduate of Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College of the class of 1936. He is now employed as agricultural engineer for the department of agriculture in Littlefield.

The bride graduated from the Henrietta High School in 1930 and later attended school in Lubbock. In the business world, Mrs. Krizek was assistant cashier of the Friona State Bank of this city until her marriage.

The bride wore a lovely black costume suit of crepe, with a black caquel cloth cape and black accessories. Her corsage was of lovely gardenias. The traditional "something borrowed, something old and something new," was carried out by the bride wearing an old gold ring which belonged to her mother, and a borrowed hand-made Spanish lace handkerchief from Old Mexico, being handed to the bride's sister, Mrs. C. E. McLean.

The only attendants at the quiet ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McLean of Friona.

Mrs. McLean wore a burnt rust light weight wool dress with matching accessories, and a lovely corsage of fall flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Krizek left immediately following the ceremony for a ten-day trip to points in New Mexico and Colorado.

Upon their return, the bride and groom will be at home to their friends in Littlefield.

Contributed by Mrs. H. L. Settle.

POEM FROM ILLINOIS

The editor and Mrs. White and their daughter, Miss Orma, returned on Tuesday night of last week from a ten-day visit with relatives and friends in Illinois.

They report a most pleasant trip and visit, with perfect fall weather during the entire time, and excellent roads, and say that it is quite dry there for that country, and the wheat was needing rain, but a splendid corn crop was being harvested.

We wish to express our unbounded appreciation and thanks to our good friend, Rev. C. Carl Dollar, who so willingly and efficiently took charge of the Friona Star during our absence.

Rev. Dollar is not a printer nor a newspaper man, but he did the work like a veteran at the job, and we most sincerely thank him for his kindness in taking charge of the work for us. Thanks a lot, Carl.

A SERMON

BY H. B. NAYLOR

I Cor. 3:9: For we are laborers together with God.

God, Son & Co.

Business men are always anxious about their business. This is right, just and fair. We are mindful about the relationships with those men with whom we are to do business. This also is right.

Christianity is a business—God's great business, in which he has put all he has. Not making money, but winning souls and making men. The world is the field. His marching orders were: beginning in Jerusalem, in Judea, Samaria and to the uttermost parts of the earth. Earth the location, time the duration. Christian means followers of Christ. Christianity is a partnership business. The prodigal son was given his share of all the father had. Mother Eve received from Adam equal share of all that God had given them. We are God's sons. He is our life sustenance. The vine bears fruit through the branches. The Christian, the sower of moral seed, Faith is the victory.

God, Son & Co.

What will partnership with God do? Notice Abraham. God promised him that he would bless the entire world through him and would make his seed as numerous as the stars of heaven. Look at Moses. The Lord made this meek man the great leader of men and through him God was able to lead the Israelite family out of Egyptian bondage. Look at Noah. Because he entered into a partnership with God and obeyed his commandments concerning the Ark, Noah and his house were saved the terrible ravage of the flood. Look at David. Though committing the great transgression, he was a man of God's own heart. Look at Jacob, whose name was afterward changed to Israel. From him came the lion of the tribe of Judah, who is the Christ.

It is a glorious business. Its mission is to transform lives. Look at the former drunkard whose life has been transformed by the saving grace of God. Then the business of the Christian is to win and build souls and character, for the firm of God, Son & Co., who will be presented to him not having spot nor wrinkle. The link between the lost world and God is Jesus, the Son of God.

How shall they hear without a preacher? How shall a preacher preach except he be sent? As it is written, "How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel, and bring glad tidings to men."

God, Son & Co.

The Holy Spirit is general manager. We are workers under him. Before Pentecost there was a small group of fear-filled Christians. They were in an upper room. The doors were barred. They were afraid. On the day of Pentecost they came forth boldly and went everywhere, preaching the good news that Jesus saves from sin. These continued daily, going from house to house, breaking bread. And they overcame the devil with their testimonies and the blood of the Lamb.

All profits of the company go back to the sons of God. When the man with the talents came to give an account of his stewardship, wherein he had added to the original, God said, "Thou has been faithful over a few things; I will make you ruler over many things." The rich man gave his son money to build himself a palace. The boy thought, "I will fool my father. I will put into the building a cheaper material. I will cover it with paint. He will never know." By and by the building was finished. The son called the father. He had kept back part of the money for he had used faulty material. When the father saw the building complete, he gave the son the key, with these words, "It is yours. You were building it for yourself all the time."

That is what I have been trying to say in these brief remarks. WE ARE BUILDING FOR OURSELVES ALL THE TIME. What sort of member of the firm are you? What is your attitude on Sunday morning? "I am busy but must attend the church service?" What of the attitude on Sunday night? What is your attitude on Wednesday night—prayer meetings? "I have a headache but must go to the service." "I am very busy but I must go to church." "I will cost me money but I must pay." For, as a member of the firm of God, Son & Co., we are laborers together with God.

THE GIFT WIFE...

By RUPERT HUGHES

SYNOPSIS

On board the Nord-Express, with Ostend as his immediate destination, Dr. David Jebb is bound for America. With him is five-year-old Cynthia Thatcher, his temporary ward. On the train they meet Big Bill Gaines, former classmate of David's. He tells Gaines of his mission—which is the return of the child to her mother in America. Cynthia's father is dead.

"You're a pretty good little carver, I suppose?"
 "I'm great, Billy."
 "You ought to know."
 "I do. I am. That is, I'm great with extenuating circumstances. I'm a genius, but a damfool. I have a curse that ruins everything."
 "Not cocaine?"
 "No. I've somehow escaped drugs."
 "Our mutual friend, Barleycorn?"
 "Old John Barleycorn."
 "I see, it makes your hand unsteady, eh?"
 "No. I never play with the fire, except at regular intervals. Then I commit arson. I'm what is popularly known as a periodical—with a capital P. It's a terrible thing to confess, even to old Goliath Gaines, but it's all in the Catacombs, and I'm not the only person on earth with a flaw in his make-up. Nobody knows how badly assembled human machines are, Billy, except doctors. If it weren't for our Hippocratic ideals, what closet doors we could open in the best simulated families!"

"I've got a skeleton too—some-where, I suppose," said Gaines, "but I can't find it. My skeleton is a tendency to turn into a balloon—more or less dirigible. I've tried everything. I've banted in seven languages. Diet? I haven't eaten a thing for ten years, but I—you don't know any sure cure for fat, do you?"

"Nobody does, Billy," said Jebb with the cynical frankness doctors employ to their friends; then with a look at his own lank legs, "I've got the anti-fat serum in my system, I suppose, but I don't know what it is."

Gaines shook his fat head and all his chins in elephantine despair. "Thanks for your little ray of discouragement. Go on with your story. I'll tell you mine later. So you've developed one of those clock-work thirsts, eh? Too bad, old boy. I had a pal who was like you—he's dead now—but he found a cure. Have you tried—"

"Your friend found the one sure cure. Don't start anything beginning 'Have you tried?' I've tried all the Have-you-trieds and then some. I've tested all there are in the books and a thousand of my own invention. I had a landlady who used to buy those 'put-some-in-your-husband's-coffee-and-he-won't-notice-it-til-he's-cured' things. Her coffee was so bad anyway I never noticed it. But no more did she notice any cure. You see, Billy, most of the habit-cures depend on the will eventually; but when the will itself is diseased, what can you do? It's like making rabbit-pie when you can't catch the rabbit. The one important fact is that everybody has his personal devil, and that's mine."

"Otherwise I'm all to the good. I've got two arms, a pair of legs, a couple of eyes, both ears, both lungs, one whole stomach, no floating kidneys, a liver you couldn't derange with an ax, and ability to work forty hours at a stretch, and a gift for operative surgery that is a marvel, if I do say it. But I've got an intermittent thirst that amounts to mania, and it does its little best to nullify all my other gifts. If it weren't for that I'd be famous and rich."

"Don't you call ten thousand real iron dollars rich?"

"Oh, I'm rich enough for the moment. I feel like old King Midas, but the trouble is I've got his long ears, too. When I'm in my—cups, is the polite expression. But it's a case of bathtub with me. When I'm that way, I think I'm Mr. Croesus, and I spend what I have as if I owned the Standard Oil and had struck a gusher of gold."

"I don't tinkle between spears. I hate the sniff of liquor in my dry seasons. But when my time rolls round, I've the thirst of a man lost in the Mojave desert. I see mirages, but not of waterfalls, Billy—fire-waterfalls!"

"My life runs on schedule. So many months of humanity, then three weeks of humidity. I'm like the tropics—all rain or all sun. And I can pretty nearly tell you to the hour and the minute, just when my freshest begins. I'm a sort of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hydrophobia. When the rabies bites me, the sight of water makes me froth at the mouth. For two or three weeks I go about like an idiot trying to put out a raging fire by pouring on kerosene."

"Poor old boy," said Gaines, "it must be hell. What do you do? Lock yourself in a room and order drinks through the keyhole?"

"If I only did! If I only did! But I'm no stationary dipsomaniac. I'm the only original Wandering Jew—no connection with a cheap imitator of similar name. I hardly show what I'm carrying—they tell me. I look a bit feverish, and I'm slightly thick of tongue, but I have a subintelligence that keeps me from being run over by the cars. My trouble is like certain forms of aphasia with double personality. I lose my sense of orientation, but I am determined to hike. And hike I hike, till I drop or come round sober. Then I'm like the man Bill Nye tells about who was found after the train-wreck, plucking violets in the dell and gently murmuring 'Where am I?'"

Gaines looked at him more in amazement than in sorrow: "You must have had some rare old experiences." Gaines loved to travel.

"No doubt, Billy, no doubt. But I don't know what my experiences are. Once in a while I meet some man who hails me by some strange name and says I borrowed money from him in Pueblo, or lent him money in Skaneateles. I never ask any questions. I take his word for it and say, 'Oh, yes, of course.'"

"I tell you it's an uncanny sort of thing to wake up in a mysterious room in some unheard-of place and wonder how under the sun you got there and where under the sun you are."

He paused to lean on me and beg my pardon profusely.

Gaines was reminded: "I used to walk in my sleep as a boy. Once I found myself in my nightie in the middle of a ballroom floor. I had just meandered in. The floor committee meandered me out in double time. The other night I got turned round in bed in a hotel in Leipzig, and when I woke up with my head to the footboard I was so bewildered I came near hollering for the night clerk. I thought somebody had put a voodoo on me."

"That's the feeling exactly," said Jebb, "only when I wake up I'm as weak as a sick cat, and my head—oh, my head! And my tongue—oh, oh, my tongue! I haven't the faintest idea of what I have done, or where I have been, or where I am. I reach for my trousers and the pockets are empty—my watch is gone, stolen, given away to a polite street-car conductor or thrown at a cat. Then I have to recuperate, send a telegram, collect, or draw on my bank—that's no fun among strangers—and get home the best way I can."

"I'm a periodical prodigal, Billy; only I have no father to fall on my neck and offer me veal. I sneak back to my own shack and try to regain my disgusted and mystified patients by scattering lies by the bushel."

It was Gaines' amiable nature to try to wring a drop of honey from every gall-bag.

"You must be a great little surgeon, Davey, to keep any practice at all."

"I am, but I had to give up New York and go out West to a smallish city where they have to have me, handicapped and all. When I feel the madness coming on, I arrange my affairs, transfer my patients to other hands, say that I've been called East about my property—and then I hit the trail on the long hike. If I weren't one of the cleverest surgeons that ever ligated an artery, I'd be in the poorhouse today. If I weren't cursed with the bitterest blight that ever ruined a soul, I'd be at the top of my profession."

"Poor old Jebb," sighed Gaines, "but don't you care, we've all got our troubles. Now to look at me, you wouldn't think—but that can wait. You were going to tell me what I could do for you."

"Well, now that you know all, I'll tell you the rest. The last time I fell, I woke up in New Orleans. When I got home I found a letter saying that a distant relative had died leaving me a leasehold in London. That's one of the things that happens in storybooks. But truth sometimes tries to imitate fiction. I vowed I'd jump across the Atlantic, clean up what cash I could, and invest it where I couldn't touch the principal."

"Well, just when I was getting my affairs straightened up so that I could start, a beautiful operation came my way. No money in it, but some reputation and a rare opportunity I couldn't let slide—an exquisite fibroid tumor intricately and vitally involved. The woman, Mrs. Milburn, was a widow, and her only child was a married daughter who had gone to Berlin with her husband, John Thatcher."

"When Mrs. Milburn heard that she must undergo a capital operation, she cabled her daughter to come and hold her hand while she went under the ether. John Thatcher couldn't afford to come and his wife took the first steamer, leaving her little four-year-old girl with her father. I brought Mrs. Milburn through—and good work, too—there'll be an article about it in the Medical Record. Her daughter, Mrs. Thatcher, cried all over me and said she would pay my bill when her husband made his fortune by a great invention he was working on. We doctors get a lot of that money! But I said, 'Don't let that worry you.' We always say that."

"Just as Mrs. Thatcher was about to sail back to Europe, she got a cablegram saying that her husband had committed suicide—scandalously, with a woman of bad name. The Dutchman who sent it had to pay a mark a word, and he didn't waste any breaking it gently."

"Thatcher left only funds enough to bury him. Strangers took the child in charge. The death and the circumstances and the shock prostrated Mrs. Thatcher completely. She was in no condition to go over and bring back the little girl. The money was a big consideration, too, and I—well, since I was going over anyway, I offered to get the child and bring her back with me—fool that I was."

"Fool nothing," Gaines blurted; "it was mighty white of you, old boy."

Jebb shook his head. "I meant well, but you know where we well-intentioned people lay the asphalt."

"I don't follow you, Davey."

"I hoped you would, Billy. It's so nauseating to explain. But here goes: I was so delayed in starting from America and met so much postponement in settling my affairs in poky old London, and had so many details to close up for poor Thatcher before I left Berlin with the child, that I have exhausted my vacation from Hades."

"You don't mean—"

"That's just exactly what I mean. I've been so busy in new scenes that I lost count of the days. This morning as I boarded the train at Berlin, a drunken man—needless to say, he was an American—lurched into me. He paused to lean on me and beg my pardon profusely. I couldn't dodge his breath. I shook him off, but I had felt that first clutch of the thirst. It comes with a rush, Billy, when it comes. And I might as well fight it as try to wrestle with a London fog. It's got me. And I'm afraid, Billy, horribly afraid. I feel like a man who has sold his soul to the devil when the clock strikes and he smells brimstone. It doesn't matter about my rotten soul or the body it torments. And I have no children—I've never dared to marry and drag any woman along my path. My parents, heaven be praised, died when I was in college. I got my curse by entail from poor old dad. His father acquired it in the grand old days when the high society was found under the table after dinner.

"I'm alone now. There'd be nobody to mourn for me. But here I am with a poor widow's only child in my care, and I'm racing with fate."

"And there's another thing, Billy. In Berlin I found proofs that this poor Thatcher didn't commit suicide. He tried to save the woman's life—she was drowning; she dragged him to his death—they both died. Besides, he did leave something for his family. In my handbag, I have his finished drawings for a great invention that looks to me good for a fortune if it can be got to America and patented and placed."

"So you see, Billy, what a load I've got on my chest. The little child, her father's honor, her mother's salvation from poverty—all these, with an ocean and a half a continent between me and safety. It's no question of will-power. I have none. Your offer of a nip-of-you know, went through me like a knife. If you want to spare me agony don't use even the name of—of any of those things in my bearing. If I get a sniff of liquor—ugh! I'll fight for it. And after the first drop is on my tongue, it's all over but the hike."

Goliath looked at David with eyes of complete compassion. He said:

"Don't you care, Dave. I'll stick to you to the finish. If you should be—er, incapacitated, I'll get the child to her mother, and the documents, too. So just qualify for the Don't Worry Club, and leave the rest to me. And I rather think you'd better hand over those plans. They'd be a little less likely to be lost in any excitement. And all that money of yours, Dave—it doesn't sound exactly Samaritan to say to a man you haven't seen for years, 'Give me your ten thou. and I'll carry it for you,' but if you want to gamble on my honesty I'll play banker for you."

He was about to break down, but he gathered himself together with a brusque effort. He slapped his hand hard on the leather and rose to his feet:

"I'll get those documents for you, Billy, this instant, and I'll hand you my money-belt as soon as I can unbuckle it."

He looked at Gaines' girth, and Gaines looked at his. The same thought struck both of them, and a whiff of laughter shook away the gloom.

"Your money bag will have to be pieced out about a yard to get round my equator," said Gaines. "It will be great sport for me, though. I'll know how it feels to be entirely surrounded by money."

Seeing that Jebb's dour face had softened a trifle—the fat ear eminent consolers—Gaines made an effort to keep him diverted, and he began to laugh reminiscently:

"Say, Dave, do you remember, when we were cubs together at Yale, and one evening we were at—"

"He was about to say 'Moriarty's' but that had liquid connotations. He stopped short and gulped. 'No, that wasn't the time.' His memory switched to another incident—but that was Heublein's or Traeger's."

It seemed to him, as he tumbled out the pigeonholes of memory in his roll-top forehead, that he could find nothing recorded but carousals. He knew that they had played only a minute part in the total of college life, but because he wanted to avoid them, he found them everywhere.

He tried to think of some athletic excitement, some classroom joke, some incident in the Catacombs, but the memory is not a voluntary muscle.

A Few Little Smiles

PRETTY HIGH-TONED

Mr. A., who discovered two mice in a trap, addressed the lady of the house in the following brief language: "Estimable madam, immediately disengage these obnoxious rodents from the shackles which have environed them and promptly convey their pestiferous carcasses across the street where the neighbor's happy feline may indulge in their luscious substance and partake of their most delightful and stimulating qualities which appeal to his marvelous appetite and enrich his inner propensities for the devouring of these detestable and troublesome creatures which inhabit our domicile."

ATTRACTIVE GIRL

She—Her father is a steel magnate, of course you know?
 He—That's why she's so attractive to me, I suppose.

Trouble Ahead

The lady of the house suspected that one of her two sons was paying attention to the maid. Anxious to find out which one, she said to the girl: "Norah, supposing you had the opportunity of going to the movies with one of my sons, which one would you prefer?"

"Well," replied Norah, "it's hard to say, for I've had grand times with the both of them, but for a real, rollicking spree, give me the master!"

Call Out the Guards

An angry woman rushed into the clerk's office. In her hand she bore a license. Turning to the clerk: "Did you, or did you not, issue this license for marrying me to Albert Briggs?" she demanded.

"Yes, I believe I did. Why?"

"Well, what are you going to do about it?" she stormed. "He's escaped."

It All Adds Up

Visitor—Well, your baby is certainly a cute little rascal. Does he take after his father?
 Mother—Well, yes, in a way. His father is not quite so cute, but much more of a rascal.

WATCH YOUR STEP

Mr. Kallow—Yes, ma'am, I've just taken my degree. I'm a Bachelor of Arts.
 Mrs. Wise—That's nice. But let me warn you it takes many arts for a young man to remain a bachelor.

Correct Audience

Professor—I am going to speak on liars today. How many of you have read the twenty-fifth chapter of the text?
 Nearly every student raised his hand.

Professor—Good. You are the group to whom I wish to speak. There is no twenty-fifth chapter.

Clinging Gowns

Dolly—Does your husband like clinging gowns?
 Molly—He sure does. He likes one to cling to me for about five years.

Head of the Class

Professor—Now class, how many make a dozen?
 Class—Twelve.
 Professor—How many make a million?
 Class—Very few these days.

You Would Too

Physical Culture Instructor (to new pupil)—Your chest expansion is extraordinary.
 Pupil—I've just had a salary increase, and the girl I love has accepted me at last.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Improving Veal Roast.—Veal roasts are improved by rubbing them with powdered ginger, black pepper and onion salt before cooking.

Fitting Candles.—A candle may be made to fit any candlestick if dipped for a moment into very hot water. This will soften the wax and it can then be easily pushed in.

Care of Lamp Shades.—Silk and parchment lamp shades should be dusted frequently with a soft brush or the vacuum cleaner.

Cleaning the Coffee Pot.—To keep a coffee pot sweet and clean, put a tablespoon of bicarbonate of soda into it, fill it nearly full of water and let it boil for a little while. Then rinse very thoroughly with warm water several times. This should be done once a week.

Lengthening Short Blankets.—If blankets have become too short by shrinkage or mending they can be lengthened by sewing at one end a strip of muslin 12 to 18 inches wide. This extra length will tuck in under the mattress at the foot and leave the woolen part on top of the bed.

Blending Fruit Juices.—Grapefruit juice blends well with pineapple and raspberries. This combination is good served as a cocktail or partially frozen for dessert.

When Baking Apples.—Cut the skin around apples and they will not shrivel up when baking.

When Baking Apple Pies.—To prevent the juice in apple pies from boiling over during baking, mix the apples and sugar and let them stand covered for five minutes, then drain off the juice from the apple slices.

Shoes That Pinch.—If a patent shoe pinches any part of the foot, a rag well soaked in boiling water should be placed over the part. If this is done while the foot is in the shoe, the leather will soften to the shape of the foot.

LET US TELL YOU MORE ABOUT IT

'Mystery Man' Recognized by British Writer

Capt. Fritz von Rintelen, Former Saboteur, Discovered in London.

LONDON.—Charles Graves, special writer of the Daily Mail, in "covering" the admiralty in Whitehall the other day recognized a clean-shaven imposing German of athletic build who 25 years ago held an important position in the Wilhelmstrasse naval intelligence.

Since December, 1933, he had been a British subject with a town house in the fashionable West End and a villa near Ostend, whence he had dashed over when war had become inevitable. He had come at the urgent request of some personage in Whitehall with whom he was holding almost daily interviews.

The imposing German was the famous Captain Franz von Rintelen. His career has been periodically laid bare in the newspapers and several books, including his own, "The Dark Invader"; and in lawsuits. Still, he remains the most tantalizing man of mystery of his age, for, as his intimate friend and former captor, Admiral Sir Reginald Hall, head of the admiralty intelligence in the World War, remarked the other day:

"There must be in the Reich hundreds of von Rintelens who are only waiting for the opportunity that I unfortunately thrust on our Franz."

Would Form Foreign Legion.

So Mr. Graves expected a frank answer from the former German naval officer, and got it—possibly—when he asked him why he was at Whitehall, where the war office is also located.

"I have the ambition to form a division of Czechs, Austrians, Germans and other emigres here to fight that Hitler," he said.

According to von Rintelen's autobiography, "The Dark Invader," which has been quietly circulated in a German edition in the Fatherland ever since its publication in the year that Adolf Hitler was made chancellor, the author was sent here in 1915 to superintend the sabotage against the plants which were turning out munitions for the Allies.

He was on his way back to Germany when he was plucked from a steamer and taken to London. There he was interrogated for long periods by the late Sir Basil Thomson, then the head of the combined S. B. and C. I. D., at New Scotland Yard.

At the end he was requisitioned by Sir Reginald, turned over to him and was being entertained by him at his home, Donington Hall, in Hants, whence he made his escape.

Gave Himself Up.

He was at large in London for more than a month when, according to his own account, he first "saw the light" riding on top of an omnibus and gave himself up at the nearest police station.

It is a curious coincidence that soon after his surrender several persons suspected of being connected with German espionage were picked up by the C. I. D.

During the remainder of the war there were various rumors about the captain. Then silence. This silence was broken in 1933, when a sensational book, "40 O. B.—How the War Was Won," written by a former clerk in the admiralty, Hugh Cleland Hoy, appeared. Aside from re-

Nuptial Party May Include Maid and Matron of Honor

By PHYLLIS BELMONT

I AM to be married in a few months and have a couple of questions which are bothering me. In the first place, I have two sisters, one married, the other single, and I don't know which to have stand for me. They are both older than I am. If I choose one, I am sure the other will be very disappointed. Could it be possible to have both a maid and matron of honor? There are to be two other bridesmaids. If you think it would be all right to have both, which one would come down the aisle first? Another thing that puzzles me. Is my fiancé obligated to attend any shower given for me?

Thank you. MISS R. N. Y.

Answer—There is no reason why you should disappoint either one of your sisters. Certainly, include both of them in your wedding party. The procession would be ushers first, then the two bridesmaids, followed by your single sister as maid of honor, walking alone, then your married sister as matron of honor walking in front of you and your father. I quite agree with your fiancé, it would be very embarrassing for him to be included in a shower party without other men.

vealing certain secrets of "Room 40" of the admiralty, the book purported to give the first authentic account of von Rintelen as a German spy. Author and publisher were promptly sued by him. That was the only prosecution. The case was settled out of court.

Boastful Reddy Fox Regrets Offer to Visit Hill Creature

By THORNTON BURGESS

It almost always happens when a boaster blows his horn. He wishes that he hadn't e'er the coming of the morn.

REDDY FOX wished so with all his might. He wished that he had kept his tongue still about not being afraid to meet the strange creature that had given Peter Rabbit such a fright. When he had boasted that he wouldn't be afraid of it, but that if he should meet it he would stop to find all about it, he didn't have the least intention of doing anything of the kind. He was just idly boasting and nothing more. You see, Reddy is very fond of boasting. He is one of the greatest boasters in the Green Forest or on the Green Meadows. He likes to strut around and talk big. But like most boasters he is a coward at heart.

Unc' Billy Possum knew this, and so he dared Reddy to go the next morning to the foot of the hill where carelessly been left open, and even if he had it would have made no difference. He hadn't a bit of appetite. No, sir, Reddy Fox wouldn't have eaten the fattest chicken there if it had been right there before him. All he could think of was that queer story told by Peter Rabbit and Unc' Billy Possum and the scrape he had got himself into by his foolish boasting. He just wandered about restlessly waiting for daybreak and hoping that something would turn up to prevent him from going to Prickly Porky's hill. He didn't dare to tell old Granny Fox about it. He knew just what she would say. It seemed as though he could hear her sharp voice and the very words:

"Serves you right for boasting about something you don't know anything about. How many times have I told you that no good comes of boasting? A wise fox never goes near strange things until he has found out all about them. That is the only way to keep out of trouble and live to a ripe old age. Wisdom is nothing but knowledge, and a wise fox always knows what he is doing."

So Reddy wandered about all the long night. It seemed as if it never would pass, and yet he wished it would last forever. The more he thought about it the more afraid he grew. At last he saw the first beams from jolly, round, red Mr. Sun creeping through the Green Forest. The time had come and he must choose between making his boast good or being called a coward by everybody. Very, very slowly Reddy Fox began to walk toward the hill where Prickly Porky spends his life.

The time had come, and he must choose between making his boast good or being called a coward by everybody.

Prickly Porky the Porcupine lives, and where Peter Rabbit had had his strange adventure, and where Unc' Billy himself claimed to have seen the same strange creature without head, tail or legs which had so frightened Peter. Unc' Billy had said that he would be there himself up in a tree, where he could see whether Reddy really did come or not, and so there was nothing for Reddy to do but to go and make good his foolish boast if the strange creature should appear. You see a number of little people had heard him boast, and had heard Unc' Billy dare him, and he knew that if he didn't make good he would never hear the end of it, and would be called a coward by everybody.

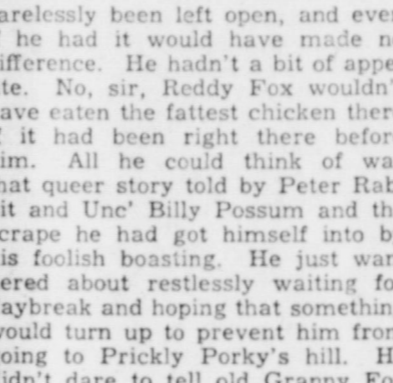

Reddy didn't sleep at all well that afternoon, and when at dusk he started to hunt for his supper he found that he had lost his appetite. Instead of hunting he spent most of the night in trying to think of some good excuse for not appearing at Prickly Porky's hill at daybreak. But think as he would he couldn't think of a single excuse that would sound reasonable.

"If only Bowser the Hound wasn't chained up at night I would get him to chase me, and then I would have the very best kind of an excuse," thought he. But he knew that Bowser was chained. Nevertheless, he did go up to Farmer Brown's doorway to make sure. It was just as he expected—Bowser was chained.

Reddy sneaked away without even a look at Farmer Brown's henhouse. He didn't see that the door had

Chicken Is Owner Of Two Extra Legs

WOODINVILLE, WASH.—Here's one chicken that can scratch for corn in a big way. A hen, hatched on the ranch of A. J. Wing, Woodinville poultry farmer, has two sturdy legs on which it walks and two more crossed directly under its tail feathers, which it doesn't use. The "extras" are in every respect similar to the normal legs.

Mental Cases Now Receive Physical Test

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

AN INMATE of a New Jersey state mental hospital, who had been in the institution for two years, had some infected teeth removed.

Within two months she was considered normal and was able to return home. The superintendent was so much impressed that he had dentists, nose and throat and other specialists make a thorough examination of all the patients and by removal of infection and correction of physical defects, about 40 per cent of the inmates were allowed to go home.

Today, practically every large mental hospital has a staff of resident or visiting specialists who are able to remove or correct conditions that have or might have an effect upon the mind.

Notwithstanding these brilliant results, it will be seen that in the majority of mental patients, infection or physical defect is not the cause of their mental symptoms. There is some other cause and it must be sought and, if possible, removed.

Fortunately, the general practitioner today has not the feeling of helplessness in handling mental cases as physicians of a few years ago, who, if a patient said foolish things or acted strangely, referred him at once to the mental specialist.

Now the physician makes a thorough examination and calls in the dentist or other specialist if necessary. Having found no infection or defect that could possibly account for the foolish sayings or strange actions, he may, by patient questioning, be able to find how, when and where the "odd" behavior got its start.

Specialist Is Important.

However, just as he recognizes the ability of the dentist, the throat specialist, the heart specialist and other specialists in each of their respective fields, he recognizes also the ability of the mental specialist to search in a deeper or surer way for the hidden or long forgotten circumstances that are causing the patient to try to avoid responsibilities, necessary duties or even dangers.

The mental specialist being now reasonably sure that there is no infection or other physical cause for the behavior symptoms, begins his long, patient and thorough search that may enable him gradually to unwind the tangled skein. The search may go back to childhood, to teen age, and often to more recent circumstances which have taken the fight out of the patient and caused the development of a behavior that is unsuitable to our everyday life.

Massage Helps Rheumatic Headache

When physicians have already found over 100 causes for headache, it can readily be seen that unless the patient can describe the nature of the pain—stabbing, throbbing, dull, sharp, exact place on or in his head—it may require considerable time to discover the cause. Even when the pain is only in the forehead, it may be due to eye strain, sinus infection, gas pressure or other conditions.

There is one type of headache that appears to be more common than formerly and that is pain in the muscles covering the head, extending down into muscle at back of neck. This is frequently a symptom of influenza and when the individual has been exposed to a draft at home, office, theater or motorcar. However, this pain in muscles of the scalp and back of neck may be due to rheumatism as described by Dr. James Cyriax in the British Medical Journal.

The patient has often had previous attacks of rheumatism and an attack of influenza or a cold occurs before the onset of the headache. As a rule, the headache is present on waking and moving the head, keeping neck rigid, does not aggravate or increase the pain in the head as in other kinds of headache.

Two Main Groups.

These rheumatic headaches may be separated into two groups: Pain in the head from the neck muscles, and pain in the head due to the thin layer of muscle called the scalp. Rheumatic headache does not appear to start in the forehead.

The treatment for rheumatic headache as suggested by Dr. Cyriax is massage. Massage must be given daily until the symptoms have gone. Sometimes little nodules or lumps are present and massage in most cases breaks these down.

Correct Constipation Before—Not After!

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of emergency relief. Why let yourself suffer those dull lifeless days because of constipation, why bring on the need for emergency medicines, when there may be a far better way? That way is to KEEP regular by getting at the cause of the trouble.

If it's common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, a pleasant, nutritious, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—goes straight to the cause by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this crunchy toasted cereal every day—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feet constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

SIGHTLESS YOU MAY ENJOY LATEST BROADWAY PLAYS

NEW YORK.—Blind men and women throughout the country have now the opportunity to enjoy the best that the Broadway theater has to offer, and enjoy it in their own homes. This announcement has just been made by the American Foundation for the Blind, New York city, the national organization of which Helen Keller is an officer. Plays acted with full Broadway casts are now recorded by the American

Foundation for the Blind as "talking books." These "books" consist of albums of recorded discs resembling phonograph records. They are played on a portable reading machine devised so that blind people can easily operate them by touch.

Thanks to the co-operative arrangement between the American Foundation for the Blind and the Library of Congress, the 130,000 blind individuals in the United States may enjoy the "talking books," which now include full-length acted plays, without the slightest cost. The "books" are placed in 27 regional libraries across the country which operate departments for the blind. Packed in stout cartons they travel to and from library and reader postage free.

Among the distinguished players who have acted for the enjoyment of blind listeners are Eva LeGalienne, Mady Christians, Bert Lytell, Whitford Kane, Wesley Addy and Dame Sybil Thorndike.

The foundation supplies the reading machines at cost, but blind people who cannot afford to buy one may borrow one for an indefinite period from the Library of Congress, which lends them through the various state commissions for the blind. Blind persons may easily contact the various commissions.

ows" and ladies that I have mentioned, are good, and I am trying to be: so why should we not all safely arrive there? And I learned that there are a host of others of my old friends, who have already "crossed the Bar", who will be there ready to greet us.

And, judging from the physical appearance of many of the good old boys, the lapse of time is not now very great for any of us before we shall be called upon for that crossing. There was just a few little discordant notes in my otherwise harmonious visit with these good people, and these were the fact that I was unable to see my good friends, Tom Howorth, Jim Douglas and Harvey Clendenin, and, of course, there were many others whom I would like to have seen, but I cannot recall them all just now.

And now, there is just one more incident of this visit which I will mention, and that is our short visit (All too short) with my aged aunt, whom we drove about 500 extra miles to see. She is the one who took charge of me in my early infancy and through the many years that followed, showered a mother's care upon my undeserving existence, and who is now in her 88th year.

Well, dear readers—and I feel sure there are a few—lest you should not grasp my point in relating these personal experiences of those few days, I will tell you. No, it is not personal egotism. But we are all human, and our experiences and sentiments are not so greatly different, after all, and I am sure that many of you have just such ties of friendship that were formed away back in the "long ago," and which the reading of this stuff, will bring to your memory, and as you read and think of those ties, there will be an unbidden moisture gather in your eyes, an unbidden lump form in your throat, which you will find hard to swallow, and an unbidden catch in your voice when you attempt to speak. Ain't I right? Eh?

Well, if there is, do not be ashamed of it, for it does not manifest anything unmanly or unwomanly, but is, rather, an expression of one of the most worthy sentiments or attributes in our human nature. In fact, I consider it the "God" part of our nature, and worthy of cultivation rather than of being subdued.

But, now a few words in regard to my return to Friona. I have enough personal egotism in my make-up, to make me think there would be a lot of people here who would be pleased with my return; but that egotism suffered a severe set-back when, almost the first person to meet me on my return to the street corners, was W. C. (Bill) Nichols, whom I had thought one of my mighty good friends. Bill very frankly told me that he "was greatly delighted when he heard that I had gone away, and fervently hoped that I would never return, or words to that effect."

Now, anyone who does not know Bill, would have considered that a mighty cold welcome; but knowing him as I do, his greeting did not have too great a demoralizing effect upon me. And I had really expected Mayor Reeve to rush up to me as soon as I arrived, and tell me how glad he was that I had returned. But not so, for I had been home two days before he so much as deigned to stop and speak to me.

But all this coldness was largely compensated for when my good friend, John Silvertooth, came up to me and put his arm around me and actually gave me a good old loving hug, and told me how much he had missed me while I was away, and how glad he was that I was back again. Thus, you see—"Such is life."

And another phase of the situation is manifested in the spirit of my good friend and pastor, C. Carl Dallas, who told me he would miss me while away, but hoped we would all have a good time while gone, but that I should not worry, for he would do all in his power to keep me out of Friona life again until I should return, and this he truly did.

But there was one thing I noticed which was in the method of administering what we are pleased to call "government relief". Judging from what I saw and heard there, it occurs to me, that there is a wide difference in administering this relief there, and here at Friona and the Panhandle generally.

It appeared that there are those there who, when the relief first came into existence, abandoned their farms to weeds and other wild growth, or resigned their jobs, threw down their tools and quit their trade, and closed their offices, as the case might have been, and seemed to be proud of the fact that they could say "I'm on relief," when asked to do a bit of labor for a private individual, and for many months, these individuals seemed to prosper and have more food and clothing without any work, than did those who stuck to their farms, their jobs, trades or professions, and were inclined to be a little boastful of it.

But, as the couplet in the old song puts it—
"Fortune's wheel keeps turning round,
Soon 'twill lift you from the ground—
And these people who have refrained from "getting on relief", now seem to have things coming more their way, somewhat to the apparent chagrin of the "relievers" as they are sometimes designated, and who are demanding more relief, in order to place them upon an equal or better footing than are the "non-relievers."

Time and space do not permit me to go into detail of any of the phases of this relief situation there and here, but there does seem to be an apparent paradox in the situation there, since those who have never asked nor received government relief in any way have gotten "too much" of it, while those who have been receiving it all along, have not received enough for their satisfaction. But, such is life.

I heard a funny story about this relief business, and since it did no harm to anyone, I intended to remember it and tell it here with this other stuff; but as old Pharaoh, of Bible rose, said—"The thing has gone from me," so I will not tell it now.

It is always interesting and sometimes amusing to hear the strange questions one person will ask of another. For instance—while two of my best friends were talking the other day, one of them asked the other—if he had ever seen my legs. The other replied that he did not know that he ever had, but that he had often seen where they are supposed to be—inferring, of course, that they are too small to be seen. He also added that there is a space between my body and the ground, usually covered with some flimsy trousers, where legs are supposed to be.

I just butted into the conversation to inform them that there are really two legs there, for, while some people may be able to stand upon their dignity, I cannot do so, so must have legs, and, although they may more resemble a pair of crooked shovel handles than human legs, they are there all the same, and though not a great deal of earthly matter is contained therein, they are all solid stuff, and not a vestige of "blat" to be found in them.

Then, some others remark about the scarcity of vesture with which my limbs are covered during the coldest weather. I also have, what I consider, a very "commonsense" reply to that remark, when I tell them that there is so little there to be kept warm that it requires very little clothing to keep them warm. After all, there is nothing so important as just pure unadulterated "commonsense", although it has been said that "Common sense is the most uncommon kind of sense."

In men whom men condemn as ill, I find so much of goodness still; In men whom men pronounce divine, I find so much of sin and blot. I hesitate to draw the line Between the two, where God has not.

FRIONA WOMAN'S CLUB

The Friona Woman's Club met in regular session, October 25th, at the home of Mrs. Minnie Goodwine, with Mrs. F. Z. Truax as co-hostess.

"Our National Capitol," was the topic for the afternoon. Quote: "Oh, It's home again, and home again, America for me," by Henry Van Dyke, a very pretty quotation for the opening of our program.

"Our National Capitol," by Mrs. L. G. Symptom.
"The Capitol: The White House," by Mrs. B. Hughes.

"Libraries and Museums," by Mrs. Fred White.
"Etiquette in Our National Capitol," by Mrs. O. F. Lange.

These were all very interesting papers and were interestingly given by the ladies named.

Roll call was answered to by each member present.

Lovely refreshments of gingerbread, topped with whipped cream, and coffee, were served to the following: Mmes. L. R. Baxter, Guy Bennett, A. H. Boatman, J. D. Buchanan, H. H. Elmore, J. A. A. A. NEWS

This office has had several inquiries from those farmers who have not received 1938 Conservation payments. There are very few of these payments that have not been received, however, for the benefit of those that have not received payment under the 1938 program, the following information is being offered. There are mainly two classes of these payments that have not been made. One is those on which some correction was necessary in either the application or the allotments under the 1938 program. These corrections have all been made and all applications are now in the State AAA office for approval. We have recent information from that office to the effect that these applications are being held for a short time pending transfer of funds to the Dallas Disbursing Office where checks are being drawn. This should be done within the next few days if it has not already been completed at this time. The other class of payments which are being held at this time are those on which a request for a set-off of payment was made to Farm Security Administration. This occurred on those farms where the operator was indebted to the Farm Security Administration and signed a voluntary agreement to have payment set-off against this indebtedness. The excess amount over this indebtedness should also be paid within the next few weeks.

We believe that this covers most cases in which no payment was made, however, any person who has not received payment and WHO HAS NOT RECENTLY inquired about such delay, should come by the office and ask about the payment. We should like for you not to make a special trip solely for this because we feel that this office has given the proper attention to each such application and that no corrections are needed now. Yet in some cases it might be to your advantage to check over the application with us again.

Again we should like to request that all farmers who have completed soil-building practices since the farm was last measured to report these in order that your application may be completed and forwarded to the State Office for approval and payment. Farms will be rechecked for these practices that were not complete at the last performance check.

All range operators are requested to complete range building practices as soon as possible in order that application may be made for payment.

Any wheat farmer who intends making a change in the land covered by worksheets in 1940 from that covered in 1939 should contact this office immediately. This is important in making final allotments to farms that are changed. Farms that are not combined or divided have final wheat allotments now.

FARM SECURITY NEWS

At this season of the year, many mothers are already seeking suggestions as to the methods for varying the school lunch. You and I get tired of the same thing every day, and certainly children feel the same way about their food.

Yet while seeking variety, the homemaker preparing a school lunch should bear in mind that the three meals which the child eats during the day should constitute a perfect whole. They should balance, nutritionally speaking, and furnish the child with the protective foods (milk, fresh fruits, and vegetables) which also furnish a wealth of vitamins and minerals; with the growth and repair foods such as meat, fish, eggs, and cheese; and with the foods which supply energy (bread, starchy vegetables, and cereals).

Such a diet is not just a "happen-so", but must be carefully planned. The homemaker must view each meal as a unit which helps to make the diet for the entire day.

Certainly the school lunch has a part in this planning, and should not be the result of what is left over from the supper or the breakfast table.

Children should carry lunch boxes to school. When the lunch kit is equipped with a vacuum bottle, it is possible to have a hot soup or a nourishing hot beverage. It is probable, however, to vary the lunch in many other ways. Some sandwich combinations which do not mean the same thing every day are:

Fruit sandwiches which may be made of thoroughly washed raisins ground and mixed with salad dressing, Prune pulp and peanut butter, Raisins and nuts ground and moistened with grape juice.

Cheese may be used in numerous ways. Grated cream cheese, minced green peppers, and cream make an excellent combination. Or use equal parts of cream cheese and nuts, moistened with salad dressing, and add a little salt and lemon juice.

Both vegetables and meats may be combined in various ways; the resulting combination depending a great deal upon the imagination of the cook.

When the child is in the school lunch room, which everyone seems to be so anxious to see, the mother should be sure to tell the child that the school lunch is a very important part of the day's diet. The child should be taught to eat slowly and to enjoy the food. The child should be taught to eat only when hungry and to stop eating when full. The child should be taught to eat only the food that is served and to leave no food on the table. The child should be taught to eat only the food that is served and to leave no food on the table.

FORMER FRIONA MAN IN PLANE CRASH

The Star is in receipt of a copy of the Fairmont (Minnesota) Daily Sentinel, together with a few additional explanatory words regarding an airplane crash near Dunnell, Minn., in which a former Friona man, Fred Mann, was one of the occupants of the plane when the crash came. Following is an account of the affair as given by the "Sentinel":

"Walter Ritz, Truman aviator, is nursing a broken nose and bruises, and Fred Mann, Northern National Gas Company employe, is bruised as a result of a plane crash on the Alvin Anderson farm near Dunnell, at 2:00 p. m., Saturday.

"Ritz was piloting the home-made plane, powered by a Model A Ford motor, when the spill occurred as a wing caught on telephone wires. The plane did a flip-flop, dumping the men out and the motor fell out.

"Mr. Anderson arrived in a few moments and took the men to Sherrborn to the office of Dr. Farrish, where they were treated by Dr. W. J. Lindahl. Dr. Lindahl said there were two men in the plane, according to information given by Ritz.

"Ritz had been flying about 100 feet off the ground while pictures were being taken of the gas pipe line when he ran out of gas and landed in a meadow across the road from the Henry Koenecke place in Lak-Premont on the Alvin Anderson farm. He obtained five gallons of gas from Mr. Anderson and took off, barely clearing the pasture fence, hit a telephone wire and crashed.

"It is understood Anderson was paid for the corn mowed down in the accident and for corn removed so the wreckage could be hauled away.

"When we came down," said Mr. Mann, whose home is in Clovis, New Mexico, "we were all soaked with gasoline. I was fully conscious despite several painful bumps, including one across the bridge of my nose, and I wondered if it would catch fire. When the plane lit, the fuselage buckled, imprisoning both of us. We had to have help to get out. Luckily the motor fell from the plane as we struck the ground, or there might have been a fire. If there had been I am certain I would not be here now."

"Sunday was Mann's first day on the job flying to take pictures for the gas company. 'And,' he added, 'it's going to be my last one flying. I have a little Ford which, from now on, is going to be plenty fast for me.'"

"Ritz crashed several years ago near Washington, sustaining painful, though not serious injuries. 'I didn't know that,' said Mann, 'or I might have been afraid to go up. I looked down over the side,' he said, 'and saw the wires, but it was too late to do anything about it.'"

Mr. Mann formerly lived in Friona community on a farm south of town, and for a while he lived in Friona, and is well known by many of our people, who will be interested in reading of his narrow escape.

1940 Chevrolets Make Their Bow

Three series of passenger cars, re-designed in the new "Royal Captop" styling, and embodying numerous mechanical improvements to assure greater safety and comfort as well as finer performance, comprise Chevrolet's new line for 1940, introduced today. All series are much larger, overall length being increased 4 1/2 inches. The new exclusive vacuum power shift (lower left) is now regular equipment on all models of all series at no extra cost. Special De Luxe series, the Sport Sedan of which is shown at center, has a new T-spoke steering wheel with horn-blowing ring (upper right). Lower right, the 1940 Chevrolet six-cylinder valve-in-head engine, which has been improved for smoother, quieter operation, and extremely long life.

HEALTH NOTES

AUSTIN—Children brought up according to the three "R's" of mouth health have a very good chance to escape the discomforts and accompany ill-health that comes from dental disorders, according to the Texas State Department of Health.

This season of the year, when the children are getting adjusted to school routine, is a particularly appropriate time to give special thought to the physical as well as the mental aspects of a child's development. A child who is physically fit makes much better progress in school than does the boy or girl who is below par. Parents can help to keep their children fit by carefully following the rules of mouth health in bringing up their children.

The three "R's", of course, are not "Regular, Rinsing and Ratumetic", but are "Right" foods, "Real" cleansing, and "Regular" office visits, which are as important to mouth health as the old three "R's" are to mental development.

The teeth and other mouth tissues depend for their original structural strength and their continued resistance to ill-health on the quantity and quality of building materials made available in the food one eats. The first set (baby or foundation) of teeth obtain their materials from the mother before a child's birth. The permanent set may depend on the diet of both the mother and the child itself. Consequently, the diets of both should be rich in calcium, phosphorus, and in those vitamins that seem to affect mouth tissues with special emphasis on vitamin "D" which is found principally in sunshine, codliver oil and fish. That is, there must be the "right" food in the diet for strong, decay-resisting teeth.

"Real" cleansing means twice-a-day thorough brushing of the teeth with effort to reach every tooth surface, and finally, the equally thorough flushing of the mouth with some mild antiseptic liquid or saline solution. The germs that play the part of tooth and gum destroyers in the diseases known as dental decay and pyorrhea are more active in unclean mouths. Real cleansing will help to prevent their activity.

But it is unwise to place complete dependence for dental health on the first two "R's". So "Regular" dental visits should be made if only to assure one's self that the mouth is healthy. These visits permit your family dentist to discover defects when they are small and to correct them before much damage is done. Naturally these corrections are much more easily made than those which have come unattended.

Children of two and a half years of age are not too young to start dental office visits. From then on "Regular" visits, combined with the other two "R's" will be good insurance of continued dental health.

"HERALDS OF DESTINY" OVER STATION KICA

"Heralds of Destiny" adventure stories of civilization building and humanitarianism taken from the annals, past and present, of the Baptist and Methodist churches, will be presented weekly over radio station KICA, in Clovis, New Mexico. The programs will be heard at 2:30 p. m. on Sunday afternoons.

An eyewitness account of the recent bombing of Chungking, the sacrifice an old slave made to teach his people, the heroic courage of America's first foreign missionary, and the inspired determination that carried a Revolutionary era preacher on a quarter of a million mile journey on horseback provide the material for a few of the stories.

They are all true stories. Some of them happened almost two centuries ago. Others are still unfinished today. Jointly presented by the Methodist Million Unit Fellowship Movement and the Northern Baptist Convention, the "Heralds of Destiny" series is a dramatization of the most stirring episodes from the history of both churches.

In it is depicted the adventure and romance of building civilization on the world's frontiers and of taking comfort and aid to America's own benighted and underprivileged. While the episodes deal particularly with the heroes of the Baptist and Methodist churches, "Heralds of Destiny" stories are typical of the experiences of missionaries of any denomination.

The series, presented by the radio station on a sustaining basis, was inaugurated in 1937 by the Methodist church agency. This year, the Northern Baptist Convention presented an invitation to join in the project, thus adding a wealth of material to the store from which material is drawn and increasing twofold the in-

A. A. A. NEWS

Several weeks ago we requested that all wheat farmers who intend either to combine two wheat farms for 1940 or who intend to divide a wheat farm for 1940 come into the office and have the allotments calculated for each separate part of the new unit as operated in 1940. THIS IS VERY IMPORTANT AND MUST BE DONE IMMEDIATELY. New allotments must be calculated for a farm that does not cover the exact land covered by the worksheet in 1939.

Many farmers have already reported any such changes that they intend to make for 1940. This man will be sent a notice of the approval of such change and a request for additional information in order to make the division or combination. Any person who has reported such change in amount of land covered for 1940 should not make a special trip to the office regarding this matter unless requested to do so by individual letter. However, all others who intend to make any change in land to be covered by a worksheet for 1940 on which wheat will be grown should REPORT THIS CHANGE IMMEDIATELY IN ORDER THAT PROPER ALLOTMENTS MAY BE MADE AND NO DELAY BE HAD IN MEASURING WHEAT FARMS AND MAKING APPLICATION FOR 1940 WHEAT PARITY.

We should like to request that all range building practices be completed as soon as possible by all men who have range worksheets. These range practices will be inspected by Range Inspector E. P. Abbott of Duvina. If you have performed any range building practice since inspection was made of your ranch, you should immediately report this to Mr. Abbott in order that your range papers may be completed and application for payment made at an early date.

'To Sit Above the Salt'

Many centuries ago, it was the custom to place on a table on which food was served an ornamental container filled with salt. The master and mistress of the home and their important guests sat above the salt. The less important members of the household were seated below the salt. To have a position of honor at table is spoken of as being "seated above the salt."

"BUMPERS MORE DEADLY THAN BAYONETS"

In Texas during these October days, school bells instead of air raid sirens are sounding. Thousands of Texas boys and girls are being educated in the democratic way.

Over here we need no blackouts, no evacuation of classrooms, and no air raid shelters to protect the lives of our children. It is ironic that in the midst of this peaceful school year we are failing to protect our youth from the death and destruction of modern traffic.

More than a thousand victims of school and college age found the bumper more deadly than the bayonet last year in Texas. Almost half the number were killed outright while the rest were seriously or permanently injured.

Cold steel is deadly whether in the shape of a bayonet or a bumper. The grim difference is that traffic can kill off our children long before they are old enough to march away to war.

To combat the danger is the purpose of School Safety Week, Oct. 30-Nov. 4th. At the request of the Texas Safety Association, Governor O'Daniel has proclaimed this week in order that educators, parents and civic groups might intensify traffic safety education in the schools and colleges. It is a cause which demands our full support and cooperation!

Natural Gas Not as Toxic As Manufactured Gases

Natural gas in general is not considered as toxic as the manufactured gas, which has a higher percentage of carbon monoxide. The American Cyclopedia tabulates the constituents of various natural gases and compares them with coal gas. It shows from 80 to 98 per cent marsh gas (methane) up to 14 per cent other hydrocarbons, 0.4 to 4.6 per cent nitrogen, up to 0.2 per cent carbon dioxide, 0.4 to 0.95 per cent carbon monoxide, up to 1.5 per cent hydrogen. Coal gas is given an average of 40 per cent marsh gas, 4 per cent hydrocarbons, 2 per cent nitrogen, 0.4 per cent carbon dioxide, 6 per cent carbon monoxide, 46 per cent hydrogen.

The first gas company in this country was the Gas Light company of Baltimore, incorporated February 5, 1817; it made and distributed coal gas and the first street in Baltimore was lighted with the gas on February 17. The first natural gas company was the Fredonia Gas Light & Water Works company, organized in Fredonia, N. Y., in 1865. Natural gas had, however, been used as an illuminant in Fredonia as early as 1824, a pipeline being led from a well to the hall where the great Lafayette was given a reception. A few years later natural gas was being used for fuel and light in Findlay, Ohio.

A VEILED LADY...

Brings comfort and returning courage to Dr. David Jebb, famed surgeon, when he wakes to find himself alone in a strange land, his memory of preceding events a complete blank.

Cursed with an overpowering desire for drink, David Jebb knows he has shirked a grave responsibility in succumbing to temptation. A little girl, placed temporarily in his charge, has disappeared. All because he could not resist the lure he knew would sooner or later wreck his life.

Help comes to him at an opportune time. The veiled lady, gentle and kind, looks after him, restoring his health and aiding him in his search for his missing charge.

David grows to love his mysterious benefactor, but knows he will again fall victim to his desires. There is only one way out—he must leave the veiled lady, knowing that to remain would cause only unhappiness.

He finds, however, that he is powerless to shape the course of his destiny. A stronger force prevails, and David Jebb finds happiness and contentment.

Finland to Safeguard Hold on Aaland Islands

Thousands of tiny islands, some of them no more than reefs, make up the Baltic archipelago that shows on the map as the Finnish-controlled Aaland Islands. Though Russia has not formally voiced demands that it be allowed to establish a naval base on the islands, it is expected the request, when it comes, will be rejected flatly by Finland. Rulers of the other three Nordic powers, Sweden, Denmark and Norway, met in Sweden recently to study mutual war problems.

Belligerents Fight for Favor Of European Neutral States; 'Flint' Incident Still Simmers

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

THE WAR IN BRIEF

Unorthodox warfare continued on the western front, original positions being assumed after Nazis forced the French to relinquish early gains. Though 1,500,000 German troops were massed at the Siegfried line, any offensive must come immediately or not until next spring. Three solid days of rainfall left trenches half-filled with water and stranded the highly touted mechanized artillery. Then came snow and sleet.

Diplomatic activity continued at top speed, far overshadowing the actual war. Turkey's new pact with Britain to guarantee the eastern Mediterranean was the source of all efforts, which resolved into a frantic scurrying among belligerents to line up neutrals. At Danzig, German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop furnished diversion by lashing at British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain for "breaking promises." He also tried to drive a wedge between the allies by wooing France. Two days later Chamberlain replied just as scornfully. In the Balkans, Britain encouraged Turkish formation of a neutral bloc, using what some observers called poor strategy by apparently neglecting to consult Italy.

While the Reich wooed Rumania, Turkey and Hungary by threats, Britain was more subtle. Under consideration at London were trade pacts to assure the neutrality of Sweden, Netherlands, Finland, Latvia, Turkey and Russia. To soothe the latter nation, Chamberlain agreed that Dictator Josef Stalin's invasion of Poland had been necessary for protection against German aggression.

Russia continued negotiations with Finland, but their nature remained mysterious. Finnish Foreign Minister Eljas Erko called "just as unfounded as all others" the latest report that Russia had demanded concessions in the Gulf of Finland, a friendship policy between the Kremlin and Finland, and destruction of all fortifications in the strategic Aaland islands. Some observers believed Russian demands on Finland were increased to offset the Soviet's diplomatic defeat in Turkey. But it remained unlikely that Russia would invade Finland.

MARINE:

'Flint' Saga

German seizure of the 5,000-ton U. S. S. City of Flint bid fair to affect world commerce far more than all the 100-odd vessels which bombs and torpedoes have sent to the bottom since November 1. Carrying contraband to Britain, the Flint was seized by Germany in mid-Atlantic, taken first to Norway and then to Murmansk, Russia, where her American crew was reported safe. But the Soviet indicated Germany would get the ship, thereby relieving Joseph Stalin of bickering with the U. S. Most observers agreed the Reich was justified in seizing sult: A "gentleman's agreement" to speed inspection.

Obviously the Flint incident put Russia on a spot. By releasing her to the American crew, Russia would snub an erstwhile ally, Germany. As it was, the Soviet incurred U. S. skepticism. If Russia again offers her to a neutral vessel seized by Germany, the Kremlin might well be asked to tell how she stands in 1939's war.

There was a strong hint of her position in another Flint aftermath. At Moscow, British Ambassador Sir William Seeds was given a note rejecting Soviet recognition of Britain's war contraband list because it violates international law and impairs neutral rights. Incredible at such effrontery, a London spokesman blurted: "Fantastic!"

CONGRESS: Victory, Then What?

If an isolationist filibuster was really delaying action on the neutrality bill, the City of Flint incident (See MARINE) was enough to end it. Next day the senate agreed to allow each speaker 45 minutes for the bill and an extra 45 minutes for each amendment. Lashed by acid-tongued John Nance Garner, who rebuked the senate for being a "horse-and-buggy outfit," battling solons called a truce to approve amendments (1) banning 90-day credits to either belligerent nations or their residents and (2) lifting shipping restrictions against American boats in the Pacific (except armament), Bermuda, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Tasmanian sea and Capetown. Rejected was an amendment to make President Roosevelt sole judge of the necessity for invoking neutrality. There was good chance another amendment would pass: To forbid any belligerent ship from flying the U. S. flag as defense against a foe.

As early as two days before the senate's final vote, Isolationists Borah and Nye conceded administration forces a two-thirds victory. But they were more hopeful about the house, where neutrality would run against pretty strong opposition. An attempt to invoke parliamentary rules (preventing amendments to the senate bill) was conceded little chance by argumentative representatives.

Constipation Relief
That Also
Pepsin-izes Stomach

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach-relief, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

NEW YORK—In more than four decades, Louis M. Eilshemius made 5,000 paintings and drawings and never made a cent out of them. 'Ali Vanity' Cries, Painter as Gold, Garlands Arrive

But Mr. Eilshemius, an irascible little man with a ragged beard and a testy way of speaking, is bedridden in his gloomy, gaslit old house in East Fifty-seventh street, and he asks, "What's the good of the whole damn thing?" He's 75 years old. He warned the world many times that it was going hell-for-leather down the skids, and now he thinks it's on the last stretch of the greased chute, and nothing else matters—not even money and fame.

The late Ralph Blakelock lost his mind after years of failure to stir critical or popular interest in his work. He was hailed as a great painter, and his pictures were bought by great galleries when he no longer knew or cared about money or recognition. There is an interesting parallel between his career and that of Mr. Eilshemius, although the latter is still bright and smart as a chipmunk.

But he won't even look out of his narrow bedroom window. He wants no outlook on a world turning itself into a madhouse. Pictures on the floor, covered with dust and cobwebs, may be worth a fortune, pictures of moods, dreams and memories, but that doesn't interest him. He had renounced the "pumps and vanities of this wicked world" long before it beat a path to his door.

The parallel between Blakelock and Eilshemius is also marked by the amazing diversity of their talents. Blakelock, the son of a physician, was trained in medicine, gifted

Bests Blakelock in music and almost made a career of the piano and musical composition. Eilshemius has composed a small library of songs, operas and etudes and used to give piano concerts in his youth. He painted feverishly for 46 years, quitting in 1922 when none would buy his pictures and no galleries hang them. But, in his varied abilities, he far outshone Blakelock. Here are a few of his achievements:

When he was a student at Cornell university, he discovered a new species of ichneumon fly. Later he announced a new law governing the "ramification of trees."

He wrote somewhat more than 50 volumes of plays, novels, novelettes, essays and verse. The verse, Byronic in tone, was written in English, French, German, Italian and Spanish. He published them himself and, like his pictures, they gathered only cobwebs and dust.

He invented a new kind of "magic" indelible ink and several studio devices for artists.

He explored various diseases and offered methods of therapy. He was born in Laurel Hill, N. J., near Newark, the son of a wealthy glove manufacturer. He attended Cornell two years and was a roommate of Robert W. Chambers in Paris when they were studying art under Bougureau.

His is a blue-book family of Dutch antecedents, and his name is there inscribed, but that interests him no more than the hanging of his pictures in the Metropolitan, the Luxembourg and the Whitney galleries.

IN HIS book, "Dynamite," Louis Adamie says the Los Angeles Times explosion of 1910 forever ended militancy in the American labor movement. In that year Samuel Gompers and Frank Morrison were sentenced to prison terms on charges growing out of the Buck stove case. This was lost in the shuffle, with the dynamiting excitement. The terms were never served. Thereafter neither Gompers nor Morrison was militant. Currently, Mr. Morrison, the highly esteemed secretary-treasurer and conservative elder statesman of the A. F. of L. retires from office, after 43 years in that post. He will be 80 years old next month.

A native of Frankton, Ont., he is a doctor of laws of Lake Forest university. He entered law practice, but turned to the printing trade and became a member of the Typographical union in 1873. He is a member of the executive council of the Churches of Christ in America. (Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

Hurry-Up Meals

What a feeling of satisfaction it creates to be able to confront the family with an attractive and substantial meal, even after a long afternoon of shopping or of bridge. It takes a bit of planning to accomplish that!

A selection of "Hurry-Up-Menus," planned to economize on time, without sacrificing quality, is the answer to that problem. Choose foods which can be prepared for cooking several hours in advance. A casserole dish requiring little cooking is a wise selection for the main dish of your meal; or, if you like, plan a broiler dinner or "grill" which can be cooked in little more time than it takes to set the table.

Appetite teasing meals, and meals that can be put together in only a few minutes' time, can be built around these popular and satisfying main dishes. In most instances all that's required to complete them is bread, a beverage, and a simple fresh fruit dessert.

Hasty Oven Baked Beans.
 (Serves 6)

- 1 large can baked beans
 - ¼ pound bacon
 - ¼ cup light brown sugar
 - 2 tablespoons tomato catsup
- Pour ½ can of baked beans in greased baking casserole. Dice ¼ slices bacon and sprinkle over the beans. Add catsup, and then cover with remainder of baked beans. Sprinkle with brown sugar, and top with bacon strips. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) for 30 minutes. Serve at once.

Hasty Noodles.
 (Serves 6)

- 1 package noodles
- 8 slices bacon
- 2 eggs (well beaten)
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper

Cook the noodles in boiling, salted water until tender. Drain, and place in a slow oven to keep warm. Pan fry the bacon until crisp, and remove from drippings, and cut into small pieces. Drain off all but two tablespoons of the bacon fat, then place the bacon and noodles in the frying pan. Add well-beaten eggs and seasoning, and cook, folding gently, over a low fire for about five minutes, or until the eggs are set. Serve very hot. A crisp salad makes an excellent accompaniment for this meal.

Corn and Mushroom Omelet.
 (Serves 6)

- 1 No. 2 can corn
- 3 eggs
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- 2 tablespoons diced green pepper
- 1 can button mushrooms
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 2 tablespoons butter

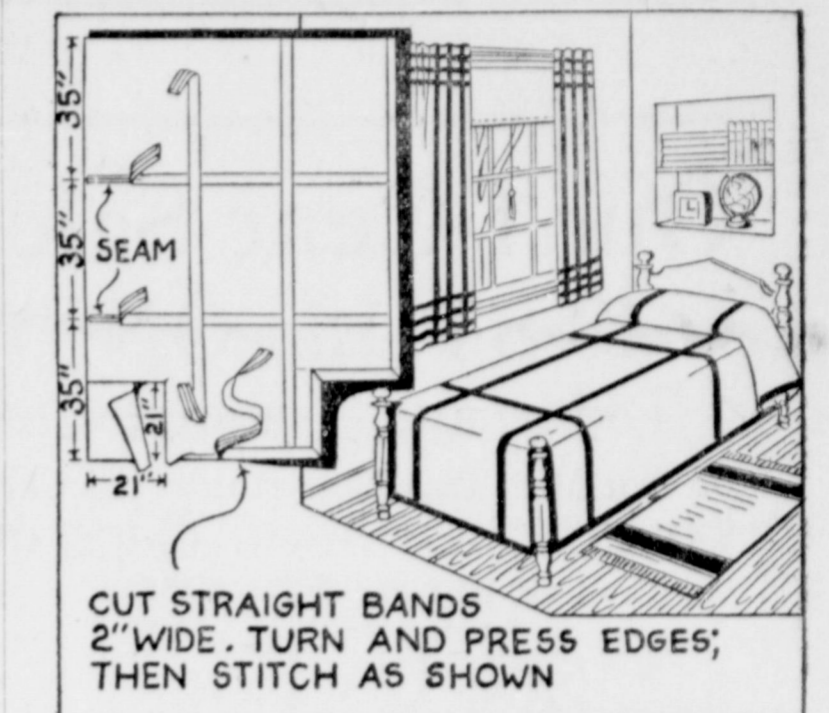

Drain the corn. Separate eggs. Add salt to egg yolks and beat until very thick. Add baking powder to egg whites and beat until stiff. Fold egg whites into the egg yolk mixture. Add corn and green pepper and mix lightly. Pour into a hot buttered frying pan and cook slowly until omelet is browned and thoroughly cooked through. Dry lightly in warm oven (300 degrees). Drain mushrooms and dredge with flour. Sauté in melted butter. Pour mushrooms over the omelet, fold, and place on hot platter. Serve immediately.

Mixed Grill.
 (Serves 5)

- ¼ pound sliced bacon
- 1 pound pork sausages
- 5 fresh tomatoes
- 1 No. 2 can French lima beans
- 1 No. 2 can pineapple rings

Broil bacon and sausages. Hollow out tomatoes and fill with buttered lima beans. Top with buttered bread crumbs and bake until tomato shells are tender but will still hold their shape. Fry pineapple rings in butter. Serve as mixed grill and garnish with sprigs of parsley.

Constipation Relief
That Also
Pepsin-izes Stomach

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach-relief, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how Pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—In more than four decades, Louis M. Eisshenius made 5,000 paintings and drawings and never made a cent out of them. Now, three big galleries give exhibitions of his work. One gallery is reported to have sold $150,000 worth of his paintings. All his canvases are in demand at high prices.

'Ali Vanity' Cries Painter as Gold, Garlands Arrive
 But Mr. Eisshenius, an irascible little man with a ragged beard and a testy way of speaking, is bedridden in his gloomy, gaslit old house in East Fifty-seventh street, and he asks, "What's the good of the whole damn thing?" He's 75 years old. He warned the world many times that it was going hell-for-leather down the skids, and now he thinks it's on the last stretch of the greased chute, and nothing else matters—not even money and fame.

The late Ralph Blakelock lost his mind after years of failure to stir critical or popular interest in his work. He was hailed as a great painter, and his pictures were bought by great galleries when he no longer knew or cared about money or recognition. There is an interesting parallel between his career and that of Mr. Eisshenius, although the latter is still bright and smart as a chipmunk.

But he won't even look out of his narrow bedroom window. He wants no outlook on a world turning itself into a madhouse. Pictures on the floor, covered with dust and cobwebs, may be worth a fortune, pictures of moods, dreams and memories, but that doesn't interest him. He had renounced the "pomps and vanities of this wicked world" long before it beat a path to his door.

The parallel between Blakelock and Eisshenius is also marked by the amazing diversity of their talents. Blakelock, the son of a physician, was trained in medicine, gifted in music and almost made a career of the piano and musical composition.

Bests Blakelock in Diversity of Achievements
 Eisshenius has composed a small library of songs, operas and etudes and used to give piano concerts in his youth. He painted feverishly for 46 years, quitting in 1922 when none would buy his pictures and no galleries hang them. But, in his varied abilities, he far outshone Blakelock. Here are a few of his achievements:

When he was a student at Cornell university, he discovered a new species of ichneumon fly. Later he announced a new law governing the "ramification of trees."

He wrote somewhat more than 50 volumes of plays, novels, novelettes, essays and verse. The verse, byronic in tone, was written in English, French, German, Italian and Spanish. He published them himself and, like his pictures, they gathered only cobwebs and dust.

He invented a new kind of "magic" indelible ink and several studio devices for artists.

He explored various diseases and offered methods of therapy.
 He was born in Laurel Hill, N. J., near Newark, the son of a wealthy glove manufacturer. He attended Cornell two years and was a roommate of Robert W. Chambers in Paris when they were studying art under Bougereau.

His is a blue-book family of Dutch antecedents, and his name is there inscribed, but that interests him no more than the hanging of his pictures in the Metropolitan, the Luxembourg and the Whitney galleries.

IN HIS book, "Dynamite," Louis Adamic says the Los Angeles Times explosion of 1910 forever ended militancy in the American labor movement. In that year Samuel Gompers and Frank Morrison were sentenced to prison terms on charges growing out of the Buck stove case. This was lost in the shuffle, with the dynamiting excitement. The terms were never served. Thereafter neither Gompers nor Morrison was militant. Currently, Mr. Morrison, the highly esteemed secretary-treasurer and conservative elder statesman of the A. F. of L. retires from office, after 43 years in that post. He will be 80 years old next month.

A native of Frankton, Ont., he is a doctor of laws of Lake Forest university. He entered law practice, but turned to the printing trade and became a member of the Typographical union in 1873. He is a member of the executive council of the Churches of Christ in America. (Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

SATURDAY NIGHT MEAT PIE

Hurry-Up Meals

What a feeling of satisfaction it creates to be able to confront the family with an attractive and substantial meal, even after a long afternoon of shopping or of bridge. It takes a bit of planning to accomplish that!

A selection of "Hurry-Up-Menus," planned to economize on time, without sacrificing quality, is the answer to that problem. Choose foods which can be prepared for cooking several hours in advance. A casserole dish requiring little cooking is a wise selection for the main dish of your meal; or, if you like, plan a broiler dinner or "grill" which can be cooked in little more time than it takes to set the table.

Appetite teasing meals, and meals that can be put together in only a few minutes' time, can be built around these popular and satisfying main dishes. In most instances all that's required to complete them is bread, a beverage, and a simple fresh fruit dessert.

Hasty Oven Baked Beans.
 (Serves 6)

1 large can baked beans
 ¼ pound bacon
 ¼ cup light brown sugar
 2 tablespoons tomato catsup
 Pour ½ can of baked beans in greased baking casserole. Dice ¼ slices bacon and sprinkle over the beans. Add catsup, and then cover with remainder of baked beans. Sprinkle with brown sugar, and top with bacon strips. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) for 30 minutes. Serve at once.

Hasty Noodles.
 (Serves 6)

1 package noodles
 8 slices bacon
 2 eggs (well beaten)
 ½ teaspoon salt
 ¼ teaspoon pepper

Cook the noodles in boiling, salted water until tender. Drain, and place in a slow oven to keep warm. Pan fry the bacon until crisp, and remove from drippings, and cut into small pieces. Drain off all but two tablespoons of the bacon fat, then place the bacon and noodles in the frying pan. Add well-beaten eggs and seasoning, and cook, folding gently, over a low fire for about five minutes, or until the eggs are set. Serve very hot. A crisp salad makes an excellent accompaniment for this meal.

Corn and Mushroom Omelet.
 (Serves 6)

1 No. 2 can corn
 3 eggs
 ½ teaspoon salt
 ½ teaspoon baking powder
 2 tablespoons diced green pepper
 1 can button mushrooms
 1 tablespoon flour
 2 tablespoons butter

Drain the corn. Separate eggs. Add salt to egg yolks and beat until very thick. Add baking powder to egg whites and beat until stiff. Fold egg whites into the egg yolk mixture. Add corn and green pepper and mix lightly. Pour into a hot buttered frying pan and cook slowly until omelet is browned and thoroughly cooked through. Dry lightly in warm oven (300 degrees). Drain mushrooms and dredge with flour. Sauté in melted butter. Pour mushrooms over the omelet, fold, and place on hot platter. Serve immediately.

Mixed Grill.
 (Serves 5)

¼ pound sliced bacon
 1 pound pork sausages
 5 fresh tomatoes
 1 No. 2 can French lima beans
 1 No. 2 can pineapple rings
 Broil bacon and sausages. Hollow out tomatoes and fill with French lima beans. Top with buttered bread crumbs and bake until tomato shells are tender but will still hold their shape. Fry pineapple rings in butter. Serve as mixed grill and garnish with sprigs of parsley.

All-in-One Dinner.
 (Serves 6)

6 link sausages
 1 large onion (chopped fine)
 2 tablespoons green pepper (minced)
 ½ pound ground beef
 ½ pound ground pork
 1 No. 2 can tomatoes
 1 No. 2 can kidney beans
 ½ cup uncooked rice
 ½ cup hot water
 1½ teaspoons salt
 ¼ teaspoon pepper

Brown the sausages in a heavy frying pan. Remove, and drain off all but ¼ cup of the fat. Sauté the onion and the green pepper in the fat. Then add the ground meat and cook until brown. Add remaining ingredients, cover, and cook until the rice is tender (about 35 minutes). During the last 15 minutes, reheat the sausages on top of the mixture. Serve with a green salad.

Grilled Ham Sandwiches.

Toast slices of bread and place thin slices of ham on untoasted side of bread. Cover with cheese slices and spread with prepared mustard. Top with slices of fresh tomato and grill under broiler until cheese melts. Serve with watercress and stuffed olives.

Saturday Night Meat Pie.

4 tablespoons onion (minced)
 1 pound ground beef
 1 can condensed tomato soup
 ½ teaspoon salt
 ¼ teaspoon pepper
 Pastry for 2-crust pie
 Butter (melted)
 Cook the onions in a little butter until soft. Add the ground beef and cook until barely brown. Blend in the soup. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, and mix. Line pie pan with rich pastry, rolled to ¼-inch thickness. Moisten the edges of the crust with cold water. Fill the pie shell with the meat mixture. Cover with the top crust, prick top, brush with melted butter, and bake in a 375 degree oven for one hour, or bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) for 15 minutes, then decrease heat to 350 degrees and bake 15 minutes longer.

What is the first thought that comes to your mind when you think of "entertaining"? Hard work? Expense? Formality? It should mean none of these! Rather, that word "entertaining" stands for friendliness, and warmth, and sociability. Eleanor Howe will tell you next week how to make entertaining easy. Corner Shields Are Big Help in Cleaning Rooms

Hard-to-clean corners can be conquered for the housewife through installation of supple metal shields which, when pushed into the angle will eliminate the business of keeping corners free of dirt and dust. Especially suitable for the corners of shelves, the shields can be painted over to escape notice. No nails or screws are necessary for installation, as the shields contain metal teeth which clamp to the surface and secure it firmly.

Lady Elizabeth Nightingale
The Lady Elizabeth Nightingale referred to in Washington Irving's writings, was the eldest daughter and co-heir of Washington, Earl Ferrers by Mary, eldest surviving daughter of Sir Richard Ferris, lord chief justice of common law in Ireland. She was born in 1704 and married in 1725 Joseph Gascoigne Nightingale, Esq. She died in 1781. Her well-known monument in Westminster abbey is by the sculptor Ronbillac. The Ferrers family intermarried with the Washingtons of Sulgrave—hence her father's Christian name—and Florence Nightingale was of the same family as Lady Elizabeth's husband.

Honors Woman Explorer
In recognition of her work in making photographic surveys of the Far North, Denmark named a large section of Greenland Miss Boyd Land in honor of Miss Louise A. Boyd of San Rafael, Calif., polar explorer. France made her a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, and Norway a Knight of St. Olaf. She was the first woman to be elected a member of the American Society of Photogrammetry.

Greatest Private Landowner
Robert Morris (1734-1806), American financier and statesman and a signer of the Declaration of Independence, was the greatest private landowner in the history of this country, states a correspondent in Collier's Weekly, having once held more than 20,000,000 acres in New York State, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Georgia and South Carolina.

Zenobia Has Two Meanings
The name Zenobia has two meanings: Arabic, "her father's ornament," and Greek, "born of Zeus." Zenobia, queen of Palmyra, was overthrown by Rome in the third century and led as a captive in a triumphal procession. But the grandeur of her position and the glamour of her beauty still cling to her name.

THE NEW CHEVROLET
DETROIT—Three completely re-styled series of Chevrolet passenger cars, combining greater length and width with much more massive appearance, and embodying many mechanical refinements, made their formal public bow today at the National Automobile Show and in Chevrolet dealers' salesrooms from coast to coast. Over-all length has been increased 4 3-8 inches, a change which makes the new line outstanding for its sleekness and grace.

Improvements, aside from styling in which sweeping changes are made, include provision of Chevrolet's exclusive vacuum power shift as regular equipment on all models of all three series, helical synchronous transmission with silent low and reverse as well as silent intermediate and high, and numerous revisions affecting safety, comfort, convenience, performance, and long life. Knee-action and shockless steering are featured on the Special De Luxe and Master De Luxe series, conventional I-beam front axle with semi-elliptic springs and airplane-type shock absorbers being retained on the Master 85.

Except for the difference in front suspension and the use of a slightly higher gear ratio on the Master 85, the chassis of the three series are practically identical. All are of the same wheelbase, and the power plant is the same throughout. It is the time-tried Chevrolet six-cylinder valve-in-head engine, revised in several particulars in the interests of silent operation, smoothness, and long life. These changes affect the oil system, the valve mechanism, and the camshaft, and in the two latter cases involve change in manufacturing practice as well as in design.

In appearance, the 1940 Chevrolet is new from bumper to bumper. Bodies, fenders, hood, and frame are completely re-designed, to embody low-slung grace. These changes result also in increased stability, since they lower the center of gravity of the car as a whole. Changes, except for trim and extra equipment, are the same on all three series.

Safety, as well as style, is served by the new all-rubber surfaced running boards with triple-peaked longitudinal ribs which parallel the body contours. The running boards terminate just short of the rear fenders for better drainage.

Bodies are larger, inside and out, and are also more rigid. Seats are wider, and leg-room and head-room are increased. Wider doors make for easier ingress and egress. Numerous interior refinements, which vary among the three series, result in luxury, comfort and convenience unmatched in previous year's models. In the Special De Luxe series, these items include an illuminated clock recessed in the glove department door, and a light within the compartment which turns on automatically when the door is opened, regardless of whether the other car lights are on or off.

Springing has been improved for better balance between front and rear suspensions, and steering geometry on the Master 85 is revised for better steering. Gasoline tank capacity in all models except Business Coupe and Sedan Delivery is increased from 14 to 16 gallons. Trunk capacity is enlarged by the lowering of the car floor, the engine being inclined somewhat more toward the rear, to minimize the rear compartment floor tunnel. Trunks are larger, and are now illuminated through apertures in the rear of the recessed tail and stop lamp shells.

All series for 1940 include sport sedan, town sedan, and business coupe. Station wagons are provided on the Special De Luxe and Master 85, and four-passenger coupes in the Special De Luxe and Master De Luxe. A coupe pickup and a sedan delivery are available both on the Master 85 and the Master De Luxe and a brand-new cabriolet, featuring extreme beauty along with high performance, is offered on the Special De Luxe.
