THE STORY THUS FAR

Charming, wealthy Gabriella (Gay for short) Graham, engaged to Todd Janeway, returns to a cabin in the Maine woods accompanied by a friend, Kate Oliver. The idea of a stay at the cabin occurred to her when she received a key to it following the death of her godfather, Uncie John Lawrence. The two girls notice that someone is living in the cabin. Kate suspects that Gay knows the identity of the mysterious occupant. The mystery man returns. He is John Houghton, a young doctor whom Gay had known in previous years. Immediately aggressive, Gay asks him by what right he is in the cabin. His right, she finds, is greater than her own. He, too, possesses a key, but more than that, is heir to it from his Uncle John, Gay's godfather. Gay is high handed with him, and he states courteously that he will leave. Looking at him in the doorway, her old feelings return. She knows that he is more necessary to her than is Todd Janeway, the man she is to marry. Gay asks John to reconsider his decision to leave. The next morning brings a different feeling, and John decides to remain for his vacation—one more week. The night before Gay and Kate are to return home to New York John gets an urgent request to call at a nearby farm. Gay accompanies him while he cares for the patient.

"The worst, probably." Gay moved closer to him in the narrow seat. "What is it, a boy or a girl?"

"A boy." She was unconscious of having moved toward him, he thought. Wonderful to have her here very close to him, wearing his sweater, waiting for him to ride back to the cabin. Not real, of course, a piece of a dream, a part of the strange intimacy of this night they had spent together.

Her eyes, wide awake now, flew to Gay's bed at the opposite end of the room. The counterpane was drawn smoothly over the pillows and Gay's white wool robe lay flung across it as it had lain since yesterday afternoon. Kate glanced at her watch. Nearly half-past seven. She threw back the blankets, sprang from the bed, stood listening. She glanced in the mirror above the low chest of drawers. Her face, colorless from anxiety and fatigue, glared back at her in the morning light. What a fright she looked! Not that it mattered. She was glad she'd done what she had. She'd

How treacherous sympathies were! Kate, brushing her long sandy hair, felt hers stir beneath anxiety and exasperation as she thought of Gay and John. They were so obviously in love with each other, romantically in love which was more dangerous than a mere physical attraction. Not that he wasn't physically attractive. He had charm and good breeding. His characteristic gravity, lit by flashes of humor, was appealing. He was sensitive, but Gay couldn't dominate him, which, for you would. They were laughing, were they, having breakfast, while she worried. Kate's back stiffened. As she walked through the living-room, she glanced at the telephone against the wall. She was glad she had done it, she told herself, steeling her sympathies, resentfully forcing from her mind an unjustified feeling of guilt.

But she wasn't so sure she was glad when she came to the doorway of the kitchen. Sympathy, for a sentimental moment, took precedence over indignation and anxiety. It leaks readily through solid materials through which gas can be forced in small quantities only at very high pressures.

SHEEP RAISING YIELDS PROFITS

Breeding, Management and Feeding Vital Factors.

By L. I. CASE

Growers who make the most money from their sheep and who receive top prices for their lambs and wool aren't turning this trick by accident.

They have learned something about the many factors which contribute to growing a product in ready demand by the market. Chief among these factors are good breeding, feeding, and management prac-

In breeding, the successful sheepman is careful to select short-legged, compact, blocky rams rather than the long-legged, coarse, upstanding type. Then he ships to market each year his wether lambs and part of his ewe lambs but holds back the best ewe lambs for replacing old and poor-producing members of the Good feeding, placed by many sheepmen ahead of good breeding, is likewise highly important in the production of high-grade market animals. Plenty of milk is probably the most important feed item in producing top-notch lambs. This means that the ewes must be fed for milk production.

Many growers feed their lambs some grain in addition to the milk. This is often placed in a creep where the lambs may help themselves without being disturbed by the older sheep.

In addition to good feeding and good breeding, there are a large number of approved management practices that the most successful sheepmen follow. One of the most important is a regular monthly

UNREST FACES WINDSOR WASHINGTON .- Whether he realizes it or not, the duke of Windsor is going to have a tougher time on his hands as governor of the Bahamas than merely sitting round the roulette tables of Nassau or entertaining ritzy tourists from the U. S. A.

The duke was appointed to the Bahamas partly to give him something to do someplace near the native land of his wife, but also to keep him as far away as possible from his pro-German friends in England and his Nazi pals in Germany-who were reputed to entertain ideas about restoring him to the throne of England. Wally However, when the ex-king gets to the Azure islands just off the coast of Florida he will find a major social problem awaiting him. For the Bahamas are not self-supporting; even with their rich tourist trade they are an economic liability. The United Kingdom gives them all sorts of concessions to keep the populace contented. Among other things, the British government pays a high preference on Bahaman sugar to sweeten the English cup of tea. It pays through the nose in comparison with the much cheaper Cuban sugar. And should Germany conquer the United Kingdom and cast off the Bahamas, those islands would face economic every increase in the population. One solution might be birth control, and the Bahamas would offer an interesting laboratory for this experiment. A similar experiment has been discussed in the heavily overpopulated island of Puerto Rico, but there the Negroes are Catholic while in the Bahamas they are Protestant. At any rate, the duke of Windsor is likely to have his hands full.

LEWIS FOR FDR

Even though John L. Lewis has three times declared that if the President ran for a third term he would be "ignominiously defeated," behind the scenes the "fix is in" for a reconciliation between them. Intimates have been working on both for several weeks-ever since the G. O. P. platform opened the way for a face-saver for Lewis.

When he threw his brickbats at the President before the platform committee in Philadelphia, Lewis expected in return that the Republicans would avoid advocating amendment of the national labor relations act in their labor plank. Under Alf Landon's urging the plank as originally drafted said nothing about revision

But big industrial contributors demanded no pussyfooting on the issue. In the end Landon was overruled and the plank as adopted declared for amendment of the law.

. . . KING MAKERS

Two unknown newcomers staged the quiet behind-the-scenes drive which put over Henry Wallace.

One was "Farmer" Eugene Casey, big Maryland dairyman; the other was bespectacled Dr. Luther Haar, business manager of the Philadelphia Record and manager of Sen. Joe Guffey's recent successful While other vice presidential hopefuls had elaborate headquarters and electioneering paraphernalia, Casey and Haar avoided these trappings and brought pressure to bear where it would count at the right moment. Each worked different spheres. Haar exerted his persuasive talents on key leaders and labor chiefs. with whom he is intimate. Not revealed were the personal telegrams to Roosevelt from C. I. O.'s Phil Murray, Tom Kennedy and John Owen, which helped clinch the decision on Wallace.

Casey did his stuff among the inner circle and farm leaders. The pincers drive worked and the nod went to Wallace.

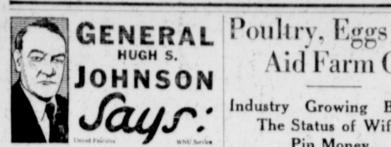

He got the news at breakfast early Thursday morning. Grinning boyishly, he remarked to friends who came to congratulate him: "I found I didn't have a soft shirt this morning so I had to wear this stiff one. And the only cuff links I had were these the President gave me. I didn't realize it at the time, but it was a lucky omen.'

Note-Only shadow on Wallace's happiness was his inability to reach Jim Farley. The two have been good friends, and as soon as he get word from Washington, Wallace telephoned Farley. But repeated efforts brought no response and all messages went unanswered.

As was painfully evident at the convention, a lot of people actively dislike Henry Wallace and a lot more dislike the way he was rammed down the throat of the a department of agriculture survey. Democratic party by the President.

On the first point-not liking Mr. Wallace-you've got to know a man to make that choice and Henry isn't easy to know. He is shy, not very articulate, and has as little political oomph as anybody in the Fourth New Deal. But if, as has been my privilege, you get really close to Mr. Wallace, you will discover a very fine specimen of what John L. Lewis oratorically calls the "genus homo."

He is simple, honest, studious and kindly. There is no side or pretense in his make-up. He has a good mind, if not a brilliant one. He is incapable of the clever little schemes that from the sale of live chickens, the have so characterized and discredit-ed many acts of the Fourth New $150,000,000 worth of chickens and

The spectacle of a President so openly forcing his own choice for vice president on his party, especially in such dangerous times as these, is highly distasteful, but the effect if not the particular methods here used, seems to have become a custom. Mr. Garner was Mr. Roosevelt's choice in 1932 and 1936. by reason of a trade, without which sibly have been nominated, but it is also true that Mr. Roosevelt's delegates, at his bidding, made good that bargain.

It is no secret that Mr. Willkie was consulted about his choice for a running mate, that he selected Charlie McNary, and that the senator didn't want the job and could not have been nominated without Mr. Willkie's backing. Thus, however hateful the method used to put Mr. Wallace across, it can hardly be used to attack this nomination, unless pots are to be permitted to call kettles black.

After all, there was an element of courage and an avoidance of the usual skullduggery in nominating Mr. Wallace. He is Doctor Newi Newee New of all the New Dealers.

Not all Democrats are New Dealers by a long shot. That rift was not never more apparent than at Chicago. Great rips and wounds in party solidarity were made.

An obvious strategy for the healing of these fissures would have been to nominate at least one Democrat on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Roosevelt certainly is not one, Mr. Wallace is even farther away. His nomination puts the whole New Deal theory of spending ourselves rich right in the spotlight as the unfuzzed issue in this fight.

Adding it all up, while I can't applaud either the candidacy or the method that made it, I can respect or at least understand both. Even if the fatefully unexpected should happen, and Mr. Wallace should one day become President of the United States, we can be assured of a Chief Executive who would be honest, straightforward and wholly unaddicted to political cleverness and devious two-way thought and action. That would be something new and refreshing. Considering everything, I am not sure that it is not the number one requirement in the choice of a President. There simply are no supermen.

POWER

Maybe it is possible to ride a lie to victory. Hitler says it is and seems to have proved it for the moment.

If political position, patronage and favor could pervert all the delegates to a great convention, perhaps it could pervert a majority of the voters of a great people

If gluttons for power bludgeon the democratic part of a democratic people into a Hitler plebiscite, what would they do with the so-called war powers of the President. .

Industry Growing Beyond The Status of Wife's Pin Money.

WASHINGTON. - Farm income from the production of chickens and eggs-once pin money for the farm wife-has developed into a $1,000, 000,000-a-year industry, according to

The farm wife still has a heavy interest in the industry, but the principal increase has come from its expansion on a commercial scale, the survey states.

Farmers and poultry raisers last year sold $636,000,000 worth of chickens and eggs, and consumed others with an estimated market value of more than $350,000,000. This was a greater value than either the cotton or wheat crops.

Cash Exceeds 600 Million.

Poultry raisers last year received a cash income of $417,000,000 from the sale of eggs and $219,000,000 $200,000,000 worth of eggs were con-

Cash income from chickens and eggs has increased steadily since the low point of the depression, but last year. It was, however, 40 per cent above the 1910-1914 average.

Chickens and eggs brought farmers a cash income averaging $454,-000,000 in the 1910-1914 period. Production increased only slightly between 1910 and 1920, but prices more than doubled and cash income exceeded $1,000,000,000.

Production increased but prices declined between 1920 and 1929. As a result cash income from eggs in 1929 was 5 per cent below 1920, but cash income from chickens was 18 per cent above the 1920 peak.

Egg Sales Steadily Rise The number of eggs sold last year was 45 per cent higher than the 1910-1914 average, but the price received by farmers was 12 per cent lower. The result was an increase of 28 per cent in net income from the sale of eggs.

Farmers sold 43 per cent more chickens last year than the 1910-1914 average and prices averaged 20 percent higher, the department said. Income from the sale of chickens, therefore, was 71 per cent higher in 1939 than for the 1910-1914 period.

Farmers still are consuming about the same amount of eggs and chickens as they did 25 to 30 years ago, but they are selling a larger proportion of their production, the department found

In 1910-1914 home consumption of chickens represented about 45 per cent of the gross income from chick-It is true that the first time it was ens, as compared with 36 per cent in the 1934-1938 period. The Fortunate Accident

By JANE OSBORN (McClure Syndicate-WNU Service.)

M ARTHA was preoccupied as she drove home from the office that Saturday afternoon. For Martha, who had been driving her little ear only six months, it was quite necessary to concentrate all attention on the road ahead and the gears before her. But Martha was thinking of Samuel Stevens. Samuel Stevens was the youngest of the young lawyers who frequented the old law offices at which Martha was employed as stenographer.

That morning Samuel had some-what falteringly asked Martha to go to an important football game that afternoon, and with her dainty head held rather high Martha had declined the invitation. Samuel, looking decidedly hurt and embarrassed, had mumbled out something to the effect that he had only asked her because he happened to have the tickets and it seemed a shame to waste them. Martha felt a species of annoy-ce at this rather ungallant speech of his. Also she felt annoyance with herself for having declined the invitation so heartlessly. Driving home, as she saw the cars bearing toward her carrying overcoated men and fur clad women, obviously going to the great game, she felt a quick eagerness to be one of them. She saw again the confused, hurt expression on Samuel's plain face. But she did not see approaching behind her on the car track to the left the "fast trolley line." Her mirror reflected the trolley well enough but Molly was too preoccupied with thoughts of Samuel to look at that important little reflector. Then suddenly she did see ahead of her a break in the pavement. There was not time to stop-for she was all but upon the break in the pavement before she saw it. A sharp turn to the left occurred to her as the best way out of her difficulty and as she turned she chanced to look the mirror and there bearing eavily and rapidly upon her at the back was the enormous dark form of the fast-line trolley

Martha put on her brake quickly, felt a sickening jolt, heard breaking glass and grating metal and then shut her eyes and waited. When she Reporting that his company had opened them in a second the peril undertaken research designed to seemed to have passed but she

He seated her again at the wheel, took the number of the trolley car and in parting shook hands with the motorman. He had been going home on the trolley when the accident occurred-not caring to go to the game without her.

Passengers piled back into the trolley which was soon rolling rapidly on. Then Martha pressed forward her light car and breathed a sigh of deep relief to know that Samuel was at her side 'I saw it all," said he, "and have suddenly Martha felt weak and exhausted. She draw her car to the right out of traffic and stopped. Samuel told Martha she was an angel and that he was the happiest man in the world and no doubt he was. Then taking the wheel seat he said he would hurry her home. "But I don't want to go home," said Martha. "I want to go to the game. And now that we're en-gaged we really ought to celebrate."

I Thank You

The voters of Parmer County will never fully know the depth of appreciation I feel for the splendid vote they gave me in the first primary election last Saturday. To them I owe a debt of gratitude and thanks.

Your expression of confidence in my candidacy for the office of County and District Clerk is a challenge to me to give my best efforts to serving you faithfully and efficiently should I be chosen as your pub-

I have already set myself to the task of conducting a vigorous campaign between now and the second primary election. It is my aim to see each of you personally between now and August 24. In the meantime, any further consideration given my candidacy will be received with the same degree of appreciation I hold for each one of you for the support given me last Saturday.

To The People of Parmer Co.

The will of the Democratic party in my Judicial District has been expressed, the verdict rendered, and I have been retired from the race for District Attorney leaving the field to my two opponents, both of whom reside at Dalhart. But I am very happy to know that the people of my county gave me a substantial majority over both of my opponents and for this, I am indeed thankful, and take this method of expressing my sincere appreciation to my friends who gave me their loyal support.

I ran a clean race and did not undertake to use divisive methods commonly used by professional politicians to win the race.

I entertain no bitterness whatsoever against those who voted against me, and I submit meekly to the will of the people who have spoken in the election. I am still practicing law and making abstracts, and will appreciate your business

W. C. T. U. Leaders See Tippling Decrease As State Liquor Regulation Gains Ground

By MILTON FORREST

THERE is less tippling I in America today than there was a year ago. The pendulum of public opinion is swinging steadily toward temperance.

That is what leaders of the Women's Christian Temperance Union will tell you. While they do not claim that prohibition is just around the corner, they point out that support for regulatory legislation on liquor is continually gaining ground.

The White Ribboners are preparing for the most enthusiastic convention this year since the days of prohibition. Three thousand of them, representing hundreds of thousands more of their fellow workers throughout the United States, will rally for their sixty-sixth annual convention in Chicago, August

Methods for intensifying the war against alcohol in the coming year will be studied by the delegates.

In a rallying cry to women every-where, Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, national president of the W. C. T. U.

"We again call upon America's women to enroll for true home defense-to roll up their sleeves and scrub the dirty spots out of the nation's social and moral fabric."

Sociologists will tell you that the liquor problem is as old as history itself. In America there always was a strong trend toward strong licensing and regulatory systems. Men who believed prohibition of the traffic to be the best answer sponsored such a movement in the early days. By 1856 there were 13 states with prohibition laws.

The ebb came and by 1874 there was no state prohibition

The same post-Civil war period saw stirrings of the feminist movement. Women were throwing off their bonds. In 1873 praying bands of women began sporadic efforts to pray saloons out of their townsand were amazingly successful. In 1874 a number of these women were at Chautauqua for a religious gathering and conceived the idea of a united temperance party for women. In Cleveland in November of that year, the W. C. T. U. was or-

But, the next cessors still believe, that the liquor traffic and liquor itself are the most insidious and powerful enemies of the American home. So, underlying all their social welfare activiies was the struggle against liquor.

Frances E. Willard, their founder, and her fellow workers laid down the broad strategies of this still-continuing war in 1874.

Their lines of attack then, and now, were education and legislation. Mothers made up the Union and their attitude was motherly: First, try to educate your child away from wrong thoughts and practices; secremoving the temptation from his

Some Bright Spots.

One of the few bright spots in the 1933 picture was the fact that 47 states still had laws requiring education in temperance to be taught in public schools. A five-year program was begun in 1934 to strengthen the Union's resources and push its educational work in the effects of alcohol and other narcotics. A sum close to $1,000,000 was raised and today $750,000 has been spent strictly for temperance education. This program culminated in international observance during 1939 of the centenary of Frances E. Willard.

Seemingly routed in 1933, the forces of temperance have made such a comeback, that the Chicago convention in 1940 will be told that:

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

WHAT HE WANTED

It later developed that he wanted all the $1,500 job-holders to work in or near Pennsylvania, so that they would keep on playing their part in the "organization."

Since that time a congressman's pay has jumped from $5,000 to $10,-000, and most other government salaries in proportion, so you have to double the figures to apply his ideas to present-day politics. CORRECTS THE MORASS

President Roosevelt has gone part of the way to correct the morass into which the national defense program had bogged down. This was in his endorsement of the five-year amortization plan for computing war profits, which is embodied in the new legislation to be pushed through to 'take the profit out of war.'

Another condition causing shortness of breath is eating too many acid-forming foods-meat, eggs, fish, cereals-for the amount of exercise taken. A. A. A. NEWS

We believe that all wheat farmers of the county would do well to consider the advisability of taking Federal Wheat Crop Insurance for 1940. We should like to have a clear understanding of the fact that we do not wish to "high pressure" any farmer into taking this insurance when the rates for that farm are not practical. However, we do intend to see that every farmer of the county has an opportunity to know just what Federal Crop Insurance will do on each individual farm.

These yield rates and premium rates are set up on the average for the individual farm where records are available for that farm. In cases where such records are not available the rates for a farm which is comparable to that farm are taken. Each farm may be insured for 75% of the average yield for that farm. The premium is paid in terms of wheat and the cash premium is based on the price of wheat on the date that the application for insurance is made.

Just at this time the farmer who wishes to insure wheat for the 1941 crop has a very good advantage. The price of wheat on which he pays his premium is 56c per bushel. The loan value of wheat is 62c. On this basis the farmer who insures now has the advantage of 6c per bushel. This serves to reduce the cost of the insurance to the individual farmer approximately 10%

The payment of the premium may be made by giving the Secretary o Agriculture an assignment on the 1941 ACP check. In that way no present cash outlay is required and no interest is paid on the advance. This should make it easier for many farmers to be sure of a wheat crop in

It is well to point out that the average yield for many farms has been raised because of the good production in 1939. Therefore, many farmers who have feit in the pas that they could afford to take the insurance will be able to take insur ance now.

We are anxious to talk crop insurance with you. Come in and let us give you the rates for your farm.

IAM DEEPLY GRATEFUL

Serving the people of Parmer County as County Treasurer has been one of the most delightful experiences of my entire life.

I am grateful, very deeply grateful for the support the voters of the county have always given me and I want to use this means of expressing this appreciation.

By your expression of confidence in me you have eliminated the necessity of a run-off in my race . . . and I do not find words to express my appreciation for your support and influence.

As in years past, you will find me at my post of duty doing my dead level best to serve you faithfully, honestly and efficiently.

The honor you have conferred on me came on my 63rd birthday, and I want you to know I consider it the most wonderful birthday present I have ever received.

TO THE PEOPLE:

I am extremely happy and most grateful that the citizenry of the 69th Judicial District, who have been my only campaign managers, have expressed confidence in me by placing me in a virtual tie for first place in the run-off for the office of District Attorney.

It is gratifying to know that my home county gave me a plurality of the votes cast for District Attorney and, from unofficial returns, I received a plurality of the votes cast for District Attorney North of the Canadian River, where my opponent in the run-off and I are both well-known.

For this expression of confidence, I am grateful and I earnestly solicit the support and influence of all the voters and citizens throughout the district.

Thank you,
