SOCIETY

TO LUCASTA, GOING TO WAR

Tell me not, Sweet, I am unkind,
That from the nursery,
Of thy chaste breast and quiet mind
To war and arms I fly.

True, a new mistress now I chase,
As thou too shalt adore;
The first foe in the field;
And with a stronger faith embrace
A sword, a horse, a shield.

Yet this inconstancy is such
As thou too shalt adore;
I could not love thee, Dear, so much,
Loved I not Honor more.

SIGMA DELTA CHI MEETS TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Miss Frances Urban was hostess to the informal meeting of the Sigma Delta Chi Tuesday afternoon. Miss Jule Duncaan of Bonham, house guest of Mrs. C. H. Clark, was the club guest, and entertained with readings, while Miss Helen Hines presided. Other members present were Misses Audrey Adickes, Helen Stone, Helen Hines, Thelma Kahn and Frances Urban. Miss Thelma Kahn will be the next hostess.

BIRTHDAY OF MRS. J. C. WARD OBSERVED TUESDAY

The birthday of Mrs. J. C. Ward was celebrated Tuesday, August 14, informally by the family, and the presence of the older son, Joseph E. Ward, here from Austin, just for his mother's birthday, made the occasion one of unusual pleasure. This was the first time since the Christmas holidays that the whole family had been together. Joe having gone to Cleburne at the close of the University year to accept the position of assistant city engineer. He gave up this promising position however, to enter the aviation training school at Austin, feeling that though his draft number was far down the line he desired to offer his services without being called. The other son, William, his number too being among those who will be called later.

has given up for the time being his studying, and is holding himself ready to respond when called, having enlisted in the navy as electrician, his studies in Georgia Technical Institute having especially prepared him for this service. The family circle for the reunion was completed by Mr. Ward, Mrs. J. M. Blankenship, the daughter, and her husband, and the little grand daughter, Amy Ruth, named for the grandmother.

MEETING OF ROWENA CIRCLE WITH MRS. McALLISTER

The Rowena Circle was entertained in regular session Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. W. J. McAllister, 1808 Lucile. While the club was in the midst of rejoicing that Mrs. Joseph South, for some time past absent from club meetings on account of illness, was again able to be present their merriment was hindered and sadness displaced the joy when Mrs. South announced that she with the family will leave within the week for Portland, Ore. Mr. South who for the past several years has been state manager for the Brotherhood of American Yeomen has been ordered by national headquarters to the State of Oregon. Mrs. South has been district deputy and an officer in the local lodge and Rowena Circle and she and daughter, Miss Pearl, have been among the most valued members of the circle. There were many expressions of regret at their departure but the Circle feels that their loss is another gain and that the South family will go to their new home with commendation and good wishes of their entire circle of friends.

Mrs. McAllister was elected treasurer to fill the place made vacant by Mrs. South's departure and Mrs. Taylor elected press reporter in place of Miss Pearl Owens. The committee in charge of the ice cream social held last Thursday reported a nice sum realized and turned over to the Red Cross officers. The committee on Yeomen entertainment reported a splendid program for the last meeting and the appointment of Mesdames Richardson, Bland and Taylor to attend to the program for the next meeting. The visiting committee had a pleasing report of all sick members visited and cheered with flowers, and all at the present time much improved. A musical program of Victrola and piano numbers and readings filled the social hour and before adjournment kodak pictures

W. F. F. AND D. CO. WILL DRILL ON THE WEETH FARM

The Wichita Falls Fuel Development Company yesterday made a location on the Weeth tract near Burk Burnett, and the site for a power plant and construction. The location was made by J. F. O'Donohoe, the manager, in person. The contract depth is 2,000 feet. This location is just a short distance south of the Serrian tract on which a large well was brought in last week. The company's well on the Fassett ranch near Iowa Park is down 1,500 feet. Work has been handicapped considerably on account of losing two underground slips, which gave lots of trouble and cost about $10,000. The well will be reamed without further incident. A flow of gas was encountered in this well at 1,390 feet.

According to Mr. O'Donohoe, the company expects to make a location within the next few days north of Electra, the drilling of which will be started as soon as arrangements for water can be made. This company is also interested in a well on the Rock well farm south of Iowa Park. Bass & Billard have the contract for this well, and are now rigging up.

JACK BUTTS DROPS DEAD IN THE STAG SALOON

Jack Butts, aged 46, dropped dead in the Stag saloon yesterday afternoon about 5:30 o'clock. Heart failure is thought to be the cause of his death.

Butts came here from New York about 40 years ago, and has been employed most of the time by the Morris and White Transfer companies.

It is rumored that Butts told one of his friends a few minutes before he died yesterday afternoon that he was expecting a large sum of money from his sister in one of the northern or eastern states, and an effort is to be made to find some of his relatives as soon as this money comes in, it being supposed that it will be sent by money order. Transfer men who have known Butts for several years stated that wealthy relatives had sent Butts money on several occasions.

The body is being held by the Hill Undertaking Company.

SESSUE HAYAKAWA—VIVIAN MARTIN

"FORBIDDEN PATHS"

The eminent Japanese screen star and dainty Vivian Martin are seen this time in a play which deals with racial barriers. As Sato, in whose guardianship the young American girl, Mildred Thornton, has been left, Mr. Hayakawa gives one of the most remarkable character portrayals in his highly successful picture career. How the Japanese manages to obtain happiness for the girl he loves, though he himself is out of the reckoning, forms a splendid photoplay. The supporting cast numbers among them Tom Forman, as the American girl lover; Carmen Phillips, as the adventuress; and James Neill, as the girl's father.

HOW TO ADDRESS MEN ON BOARD SHIPS U. S. NAVY

Washington, August 15.—Hundreds of letters addressed to men on board ships of the United States Navy go astray, for lack of proper information on the part of senders on the right way to address them.

All mail to bluejackets at sea should be addressed, first of all in a legible hand writing; next of importance is to know positively on which ship the man is or was stationed, says an official announcement. A letter to John Avery Smith, on board the U. S. S. Carolina, should be addressed as follows:

John Avery Smith,
U. S. S. SOUTH CAROLINA,
Care of Postmaster,
New York City, N. Y.

If a correspondent does not know to which ship a man has been assigned, write to the Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, Washington, giving his name in full, home address, place of enlistment and the branch of service in which he enlisted. There are five separate branches in the Navy, first, the Regular Navy; second, the Marine Corps; third, the National Naval Reserve Force; fourth, the National Naval Reserve Force; and fifth the Naval Reserve Flying Corps.

When one is not certain that the man sought has enlisted in the Navy, but whose name is on the list, the following letter addressed to the Bureau of Navigation would serve as a guide:

Bureau of Navigation,
Navy Department,
Washington, D. C.

"Is there a man in the Navy by the name of John Avery Smith, age about thirty-one years, height five feet eight inches, weight about one hundred and seventy pounds; brown hair and blue eyes; home address is Cumberland, Maryland? If so please notify me, and I will reach his destination."

"Mrs. John Avery Smith,
152 Franklin St.,
Boston, Mass."

If men enlisted in the Navy will furnish relatives and friends with the following information, much time, worry and patience will be saved. They should give their name in full, rating, in which branch of service they have enlisted, place of enlistment and if possible, to which ship they are assigned. If these suggestions are followed, all mail will reach its destination with little loss of time.

The address to all men on board ship is care Postmaster, N. Y.

HUGE FORTUNES MADE IN SPECULATION IN VIENNA

Associated Press Mail Correspondence, Amsterdam.—The Vienna correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt asserts that huge fortunes are being made in the Vienna bourse by speculation in shipping shares. These are being forced up by a group of Trieste financiers and, an instance of the remarkable rise which has occurred, the correspondent says, Austro-American shares which stood at 540 in April, were quoted at 1,850 July, while those of other shipping companies are being quoted proportionately high.

CONSTIPATION

And Sour Stomach Caused This Lady Much Suffer. Black-Draught R. ved.

Meadowville, Ky.—Mrs. Pearl Patrick, of this place, writes: "I was very constipated. I had sour stomach and was so uncomfortable. I went to the doctor. He gave me some pills. They weakened me and seemed to tear up my digestion. They would gripe me and afterwards it seemed I was more constipated than before. I heard of Black-Draught and decided to try it. I found it just what I needed. It was an easy laxative, and had no bad effects. My digestion soon improved. I got well of the sour stomach, my bowels soon seemed normal, no more griping, and I would take a dose now and then, and was in good shape.

I cannot say too much for Black-Draught for it is the finest laxative one can use."

Theford's Black-Draught has for many years been found of great value in the treatment of stomach, liver and bowel troubles. Easy to take, gentle and reliable in its action, leaving no bad after-effects, it has won the praise of thousands of people who have used it.

WILLIAM HART AT THE MAJESTIC THURSDAY

William S. Hart is to be seen not as a gambler, a bad man, a gun fighter or a killer, but, in strong contrast to his previous work, in a part that is almost idyllic in its big hearted, rugged honesty and devotion, his famous six shooters are drawn only once, and then with chivalrous intent. Hart plays the part of a ranchman—a grim, silent man who is a sort of king of his vast domains. The story circles around the one love adventure of a solitary man's life, a love which ends in self sacrifice and relinquishment. A part of this kind is so different from Hart's previous portrayals that the picture will reveal to his admirers subtle traits of characterization that will come as a surprise to those who think they are familiar with every phase of his art.

"The real western ranchman," said Hart, "did not think it necessary to carry a six shooter. In fact, a man was looked down on more or less if he was too conspicuous with his shooting irons. Their theory was that if a man could not protect himself with his bare hands the west was no place for him."

"The character of Wolf Lowry is, I think, a sort of general characterization of the type of men that went to make up the early west. They were big hearted, rugged, honest men, every one of them."

"Wolf Lowry" is the latest western drama in which Hart is starred by Thomas H. Ince on the Triangle program. It was written by Charles Turner Dazey, and will show at the Majestic Thursday.

The Gem.

A Butterfly special, "Man and Beast" will be the attraction at the Gem today. A synopsis follows: The regular jealousy between the native Boer farmer and the English settler in the Transvaal separated the families of Carl van Haags and Samuel Townsend so effectively that the courtship of Samuel's son and Carl's daughter was conducted under the most secret and trying circumstances. Their regular messenger of love was an elephant, and as this unusual postman could reach up to Gretel's window on the second floor to deliver and receive messages, it was about as handy and secret a means of communication as could be devised. The Englishman's fortunes prospered, and Carl's sank with his growing partiality to tin. Gretel could stand it no longer and decided to elope. The only trunk she had was the elephant's trunk, and this she used as a ladder, and on the elephant's back she went to her lover and was

It has been awaited with extreme interest owing to Mr. Thomas' position as socialist leader and minister in connection with the vote in the chamber August 2 when the socialists either voted against the governor or abstained from voting.

By Associated Press. Dallas, Texas, August 15.—Plans are being discussed by some of the leading labor leaders of Texas to organize a general protest strike on September 4, the day of the Labor Day, and to demand that the legislature adjourn. The movement is said to be started by friends of Governor James E. Ferguson among the laboring men of Texas...

By Associated Press. Dallas, Texas, August 15.—Today Abilene is voting on a bond issue of $250,000 to build a dam on Elm creek twenty-five miles southwest of Abilene, which will impound a body of water sufficient for the largest city in Texas. The water will stand seventy-five feet high and will be brought here and distributed by gravity pressure. There is no doubt about the measure carrying, as Abilene is not lining up a bond of $50,000 that this stipulation will be complied with as one of the conditions for locating the new agricultural and mechanical college at Abilene.

NEW POLICY IN INDIA FORECAST BY APPOINTMENT Associated Press Mail Correspondence. London.—The appointment of E. S. Montagu as Secretary of State for India in Premier Lloyd George's cabinet suggests that drastic changes are contemplated in the government of India, and that a plan will be evolved to give the people of India an administration boarding on that enjoyed by the Dominions. In a speech during the debate in the House of Commons on the report of the Commission which investigated the Mesopotamia expedition, less than a week before his appointment was announced, Mr. Montagu arraigned the system by which India is at present governed and declared that the Executive government should be made more responsible to the people of India. He suggested that the provinces of India be made self-governing and federated by a central government, somewhat on lines of the government of the Dominion of Canada. While this scheme was maturing, Mr. Montagu said, it was imperative to give India "some installment now to show that you are in real earnest some beginning of the new plan which you intend to pursue." His appointment so soon after this speech has led many to believe that the policy he outlined has been adopted by the government. Mr. Montagu, who is only thirty-eight years of age, and therefore, a young man to attain cabinet rank has had wide experience in Indian affairs. He is a member of a family which for years has had large financial interests in India and was for four years Under Secretary of State for India. LANFTHING MAY RESUME SESSION THIS WEEK By Associated Press. BURKBURNETT TO PROVIDE CARS TO CARRY SOLDIERS

Burkburnett has thrown in its lot with Wichita Falls and is to provide its quota of cars for the National Guard trip to Fort Worth. A. J. Betts of Burkburnett was in town today, and stated to J. B. Marlow that Burkburnett would provide ten cars for the trip.

The committee is anxious to hear from Electric and Iowa Park as to whether those towns would care to furnish any cars for the trip. It is desired to make the procession as far as possible a county affair.

The following signatures have been received today from persons who will furnish cars:

Harvey Harris, W. N. Bonner, T. R. Dan Boone, Levi Gambill, J. S. Pittman, Tony Lampos, J. H. Patton, R. E. Marlow, F. M. Keil, J. T. Coleman.

E. P. WALSH NAMED COUNTY AUDITOR THIS AFTERNOON

E. P. Walsh, former county clerk, was today appointed county auditor of Wichita county. His appointment was made by Judges Seury, and Bonner of the 7th and 8th district courts respectively and Judge Milam of the 9th district court.

The office of auditor for counties of this class was created by the legislature in its regular session. The appointment was put in the hands of the district judge or district judges. Judges Seury and Bonner were unable to agree upon a man and Governor Ferguson was asked to name a third judge to act with them. Judge Milam was named and at a conference this afternoon Mr. Walsh was named.

The law provides that the compensation shall be at the rate of $100 for each hundred dollars assessed valuations in the county. This would make the compensation here over $2400 per annum as the assessed valuations in the county total nearly $25,000,000.

TEUTONIC FORCES OCCUPY ROUMANIAN TOWN

Petrograd, Aug. 15.—A height west of the Rumanian town of Onco in southwestern Moldavia has been occupied by the Teutonic forces, the war office announces today.

The End of the Beginning of War

In reality, the war has only started—for us.

To America, the war is something in its infancy. As yet we have not grasped the enormity of the situation. We won't until we have made the first drive. The casualties of this drive will bring home to us the vivid horror of war in all the phases of modern warfare.

America has the advantage of those nations already engaged in the war. We are supported by young men of great physical endurance and keen intellect. Practically all of our soldiers are hale and hearty, full of vim and punch, possessing a light heart and cheery disposition.

These young men whom we have a right to term "our defenders" have kept themselves always in physical trim; they have passed the physical test as required by the government and are going through the situations on the lines with daring, with the bright hope that they shall return safely.

While away from home environments, Uncle Sam is going to see to it that these men shall not lose the vitality they possessed at the beginning. They shall be looked after as tenderly and carefully as they would be at home. With plenty of time for recreation, sleep and work, it is safe to say that many at the conclusion of the conflict shall come back adorned with the insignia only placed on those who were loyal and A.B.L.E.

A good thing to have around the camp is several bottles of the new and celebrated Iron Tonic—Pep Systemic Pills. For the relief of Constipation, Stomach Trouble, Malaria, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Bolls and that "fired, fagged-out body," they have no equal.

When you get ready to leave for the long vigil, take along a few bottles of Pep Systemic Pills. They act on the Liver, Blood and Nerves. For sale by Miller Drug Co., and other good drug stores.

DO NOT ACCEPT A SUBSTITUTE FOR THESE PILLS. (Adv.)

BURKBURNETT CHAUTAUQUA WAS PLEASING SUCCESS

The chautauqua which closed at Burkburnett last night was so successful that it has already been decided that a chautauqua will be held there again next year. The programs were excellent, the attendance large and the financial returns highly satisfactory.

A big Monday trades day held in connection with the chautauqua was a big success.

F. E. Rigby, president of the Commercial Club at Burkburnett announced that plans are being made for an agricultural exhibit to be held later in the fall at which prizes will be awarded.

ORTH WILL SPEAK AT ROTARY CLUB

The Rotary Club will meet for luncheon at the St. James Hotel tomorrow at noon. T. R. Orth will speak on the subject matter of the third bulletin issued by the State Council of Defense. The balance of the time will be spent in discussion as to how Rotarians may best serve in the matter of making a success of the coming issue on the constitutional amendment. A full attendance is especially requested, and it is desired that every member come prepared to take some active part in the work of carrying the vote on the amendment to a successful issue.

Each of these men will have a place on the program. Reports from points on the Highway from Denver to Galveston in detail record breaking convention attendance. Chicago Grain Futures
Chicago, August 15.—Peace talk and government activity regarding food control had a bearish influence today on the corn market. Signs of some revival of distillery demand led to only a temporary reaction. Opening quotations ranged from 1-8 to 5-8 cents lower with December at 1.15 1-8 to 1.15 5-8 and May at 1.12 3-4 to 1.12.

The close was heavy at losses of 5-8 to 7-8 cents-net. During the morning dealings in wheat were insignificant mostly at $2.05, an advance of 1 cent mostly at $2.05, an advance of 1 cent. Later the price dropped to $2 influenced by a decline in the value of offerings for immediate delivery. The close was steady at $2 for September.

New York Cotton Futures.
New York, August 15.—The cotton market lost part of yesterday's advance early today. Overnight consideration of the peace proposal did not seem to increase optimism regarding successful negotiations at this time and there seemed to be selling by some yesterday's buyers. After opening steady to a decline of 6 to 14 points active months sold about 24 to 27 points net lower during the early trading. October declined to 24.08 and January to 24.91 compared with 25.01 and 25.29 yesterday's high points.

Cotton closed barely steady, October, 25.15; December, 24.94; January, 24.99; March, 25.15; May, 25.20.

Local Brevities

A very deplorable incident happened in police court this morning in the form of a white woman who gave her age as 54. She was placed in jail last night on a charge of disturbing the peace, and when brought before the court this morning she testified that the lady for whom she worked had given her some beer last night just before she started home, and that she had taken too much of it, consequently when her husband came in home late last night quite a scene was staged. The husband was also arrested, but he was found not guilty. The woman, although she pleaded guilty, was turned loose, but only after a severe reprimand from the judge, and a promise that she would not appear there again. Besides the above case there were seven cases tried before Judge Whitlaw. Three drunks, two vagrants and one for disturbing the peace were fined $5 each, and one speed demon was fined $10.

They state that the cotton crop in Hardeman county is in many sections, a failure. The recent rains, while heavy, were very spotted, and some three and four sections. Owing to the droughty condition, Quanah is practically without water supply, except for fire purposes in the business section. The recently completed sanitary sewer system is therefore useless in the residence portion of that town.

THACKER NOTIFIED TO REPORT TO TRAINING CAMP

Charles E. Thacker, chief clerk of the Division Engineer, M. K. and T. Railway, has been notified to report at Leon Springs for the second training camp, to be opened, August 27th. Mr. Thacker has been in Wichita Falls for a number of years, and his many friends will be glad of this opportunity to congratulate him.

SUNDAY OIL CO. NEAR IOWA PARK WILL DRILL SOON

The Sunday Oil Company, with a capital stock of $7,500, has been organized to put down a well and develop oil on the lands of J. P. Sunday and others, about four miles northwest of Iowa Park. The full amount of the stock has been subscribed, and the following officers have been elected to manage the affairs of the company: W. B. Chauncey, president; J. H. Martin, secretary and treasurer; directors, E. W. Carter, Bernard Martin, G. A. DeVine, W. J. Bullock, J. H. Martin and W. B. Chauncey.

Some years ago Houston parties put down a well on Mr. Sunday's land, and at about 730 feet struck oil. This well furnished fuel to drill two other wells to a greater depth, in an effort to find deep oil, one on the lands of Mr. Sunday and the other on that of George Mills. In both of these wells the same strata of oil was encountered, and at about the same depth as in the first well. At that time oil was worth only forty cents a barrel, and these parties were trying to get deep oil. It is believed that each of these wells would have made anywhere from fifteen to forty barrels of oil per day. The Sunday Oil company considers that it has a valuable lease and will at once let the contract for their first well.

Oil is now standing at the top of all three of the old wells and it can be dipped out with a bucket. This oil is mixed with water, but it will burn when poured upon the ground. At the present prices of oil, the Sunday Oil company feel that it has a fine opportunity to develop a paying oil field.

FORGER SUSPECT ARRESTED AT LARAMIE, WYOMING

A telegram received by Harry Jaffe of the Peoples Store from a detective at Laramie, Wyo., indicates that the party or parties responsible for passing several forged checks purporting to be issued by the Magnolia Petroleum Co. on Wichita Falls merchants several weeks ago may be discovered. The message received by Mr. Jaffe states that a man arrested in Laramie, Wyo., admitted to having passed forged checks at four places in Wichita Falls, the Peoples Store, Riggs Clothing store, the Electric and Stag bars. There were several other establishments victimized at the same time and it is possible that there might have been two men responsible for the forgeries, working together.

The information was turned over to the grand jury.

CHARGE AGAINST NINES DISMISSED BY COMMISSIONER

The case of United States vs. Frank Hines, charged with failure to register June 2th, was dismissed by United States Commissioner Lane this afternoon, after hearing the additional testimony which had been collected since the opening of the examining trial last week.

OPPORTUNITY FOR APPOINTMENT AS NON-COMMISSIONED

Those who for one reason or another did not receive commissions at the various officers' training camps will be given every opportunity to obtain positions as non-commissioned officers in the new draft army. In fact, the government is anxious to have men who have had some military training in these positions, in order to facilitate the work of putting the new army in shape. The work will be colonial and men with even a little experience will be of great value.

The following communication was received at the recruiting station today: "Accept applicants showing letter from Commanding Officer of Training Camps for foot service, white Regular Army. If medical officer is available, enlistments may be made at the recruiting station; if not, at the Depot, or Depot Post. Upon enlistment, furlough will be given until September 1st, directing the soldier to report on that date at National Area of which he is a resident. The Commanding Officer of the proper training camp will be informed of enlistment in each case, and if contingencies at which ordered to report."

"With reference to above, all stations in this district, until otherwise ordered will accept such applicants the same as for the Regular Army. They will be accepted as privates, and the same disposition made of them as that with which governs Regular Army shipments."

It is understood that although these men will be accepted as privates, the earliest opportunity will be taken to grant them positions as non-commissioned officers. In most cases, the transfers being made immediately upon reporting after furlough.

COLONEL BLOOR AND STAFF WILL BE HERE FRIDAY

It is reported that a large party of army officers will be here this week in connection with preparations for transporting the members of companies of the Seventh regiment to Camp Bowie at Fort Worth. Major Decker is already here, as is also Major Culbertson. Major Decker, who is battalion commander of E, F, G and H companies, is here on inspection, and Major Culbertson has reported here under orders from Colonel Bloor, to issue instructions to various officers of the line. Colonel Bloor and other officers—possibly a large number—will be here on Friday.

HULEN AND HUTCHINGS NOMINATED BRIGADIERS

Washington, Aug. 15.—Four Texans in the regular army will become Brigadier Generals as a result of two hundred appointments of general officers made by the President today to command the National Guard and the National Army.

Colonel W. S. Scott of McKinney, better known in the army as "Tex" Scott and recent commander of the Leon Springs training camp, is one of those advanced. He is now commander of the Sixteenth Cavalry. During the Philippine insurrection he was Lieutenant Colonel of the Forty-Fourth Infantry.

Another Colonel becoming Brigadier General is W. P. Richardson of Paris, Texas, who for several years had been the War Department representative in Alaska and supervised the construction of government roads there. He did work in connection with locating the route for the government railroad in the territory.

Beaumont H. Buck of Hillsboro, recently promoted to Colonel and now in France, is also to be a Brigadier General and probably will lead one of the first large units of the American army against the German line. During the Spanish War Colonel Buck, then a Captain was appointed Major of the Second Infantry, Texas Volunteer Infantry, by Senator Culbertson, then Governor. He at one time was military instructor at Baylor University.

The President's list of those to be advanced to the rank of Brigadier General includes Colonel Gny Carleton of Austin, one of the well known cavalry officers of the army. He at one time was commandant at the Texas agricultural and mechanical college.

Colonel Roy Hoffman of Oklahoma, nominated for Brigadier General, has been a member of the Oklahoma National Guard since organization and is the ranking National Guard Colonel in the United States.

Home Reading Course For Citizen-Soldiers

Your Post of Honor.

You are called to serve as a soldier in the National Army, because that is one of your obligations as a citizen of the United States. The citizens of a republic must always be ready in the hour of need to leave their own homes and take up arms in defense of their rights and principles. Otherwise the Republic could not long continue to exist. The men who now enter military service deserve the gratitude and respect of their fellow citizens.

You are doubtless making a heavy sacrifice in order to perform this duty to your country. Hundreds of thousands of other young men and their families are face to face with similar sacrifices. All our citizens will sooner or later be called upon, each to bear his or her share of the burden. Men and women, rich and poor, all alike must do whatever is necessary and must give up whatever is necessary. For no personal interest or feeling can be permitted to stand in the way at a time when the safety and honor of the country are at stake.

As a citizen soldier you are chosen for a post of special distinction. America is justly proud of the soldiers of the past who have won for us the rights today denied and put in serious danger by the high-handed attacks of the German government. America will be no less proud of you, as you fight to uphold those rights.

Your personal responsibility is great. A warfare is today conducted, the individual soldier counts for more than ever before. Your own skill and bravery, no matter how humble your rank, may easily be important factors in deciding whether an engagement is to be won or lost. Your own courage depends upon anyone else to carry this personal responsibility for you; you must depend upon yourself.

Some American Soldiers

Americans are well-fitted to meet this test. During the Civil War, in the battle of Antietam, the 7th Maine Infantry lay, hugging the ground, under a furious storm of shot and shell. Private Knox, who was a wonderful shot, asked leave to move nearer the enemy. For an hour afterwards his companions heard his rifle crack every few minutes. His commanding officer, finally, from curiosity, "crept forward to see what he was doing, and found that he had driven every man away from one section of a Confederate battery, tumbling over punner after punner as they came forward to fire. At the end of an hour or so, a piece of shell took off the breech of his rifle, and he returned disconsolate; but after a few minutes he gathered three rifles that were left by wounded men and went back again."

In the Confederate armies individual soldiers were no less skillful, cool and brave. On both sides they were Americans.

Here are a few cases quoted from official records. You must read between the lines to get the full meaning of the stories they tell of resourcefulness and courage.

On June 9, 1862, Private John Gray, 5th Ohio Infantry, "mounted on an artillery horse of the enemy and captured a brass 6-pound piece, in the face of the enemy's fire, and brought it to the rear."

On October 12, 1863, Private Michael Dougherty, 12th Pennsylvania Cavalry, "at the head of a detachment of his company, dashed across an open field, exposed to a deadly fire from the enemy, and succeeded in dislodging them from an unoccupied house, which he and his comrades defended for several hours against repeated attacks, thus preventing the enemy from flanking the position of the Union forces."

From May 8 to 11, 1864, Private John B. Lynch, 3d Indiana Cavalry, "carried important dispatches from the President to General Grant, passing through the enemy's country, escaping capture, delivered his messages and returned to Washington with replies thereto."

On April 27, 1899, Private Edward White, 20th Kansas Infantry during a fight with insurgents in the Philippine Islands, "swam the Rio Grande de Pampanga in face of the enemy's fire and fastened a rope to the unoccupied trenches, thereby enabling the crossing of the river and the driving of the enemy from his fortified position."

On May 6, 1900, Private William P. Macley, 3d U. S. Volunteer Infantry, "charged an occupied bastion, saving the life of an officer in a hand to hand combat and destroying the enemy."

In all these cases medals of honor were granted. The incidents, however, are typical of the army. Thousands of similar stories might be told. They represent the spirit that will inspire the National Army when the time comes to show the stuff of which it is made.

Tales of heroic courage can be found in the annals of all armies and of all nations. But the American Army has its own special tradition, which these incidents illustrate. It is the tradition of intelligence, self-reliance, and individual daring on the part of men serving in the ranks.

The Individual Soldier Counts.

Other things being equal, an army made up of self-reliant, thinking men has a great advantage over a merely machine-like army, and this is especially true in present-day warfare. Major Gen. Hugh L. Scott, Chief of Staff, U. S. A., remarks on this point:

"The conditions under which modern wars are fought are ever making increasing demands on the individual soldier. The individual soldier accurately orders and signals, for the enemy's fire often so isolates him from his leader and comrades, perhaps only a step away, that he may be thrown on his own initiative in making his actions conform to those of the whole line; he may have to use his own judgment in opening fire, in advancing, in trenching."

Fair Play.

A second tradition of the American Army, which need only be mentioned is that of fighting fairly and treating even the enemy with as much humanity as his own conduct will permit. As for slaughtering or enslaving the civilian population of captured territory, attacking prisoners or assaulting women, American soldiers would as little commit such crimes in time of war as in time of peace. In this respect most of the civilized nations of the world think alike.

Fighting For Rights and Principles.

There is a third splendid tradition of the American Army which you will help to carry forward. It has fought always and everywhere in defense of principles and rights—never merely for territory and for power. Even the Civil War resulted from the clash of opposing principles—the principle of an indivisible Union upheld by the North and that of freedom to withdraw from the Union upheld by the South.

To protect the rights of citizens, the American people have several times opposed tyrannical governments—the English government in 1776 and 1812; the French government for a short period in 1798; the Mexican government in 1846; the Spanish government in 1898. The final effect in each case has been to advance the cause of liberty and democracy throughout the world, even in the countries against which we fought. Our weapons have not willingly been turned against any people, but only against the rulers who misgoverned and misled them. In fighting for our own rights, the American Army has fought also, in President Wilson's phrase, for the "rights of mankind."

For a like high purpose, the American people have entered into the present war against the German government—a government which in our belief misrepresents and betrays the German people. Only by so doing can we make America and the world safe for democracy. But one ending can be thought of—an ending that will guarantee the continuance of all those principles and rights which the American Army has in the past so nobly fought to establish.

Never lose sight, even for an instant, of the fact that all your training, your efforts, and your sacrifices have this one great object in view, the attainment of which is worth anything it may cost.

Developing Soldierly Qualities.

The question as to whether it is better to join the colors now or with a later contingent is not worth arguing, since the decision has been made for each man by lot. An ambitious man, however, will be glad to join now. It gives him a better chance for promotion. The commissioned officers of the first contingent are picked men who have voluntarily gone through the hardest kind of training. The officers of later contingents will be drawn largely from the men enlisted in the first contingents. There is plenty of opportunity here for every man to use his brains and his energy to earn promotion according to his worth. This does not mean easy or quick advancement. It means only that you will have your fair chance—and you would ask for nothing more—to develop yourself and to climb upward step by step.

In order to make good in the National Army you must first of all fit yourself to carry with credit the simple title of "American Citizen-Soldier"—one of the proudest titles in the world. This means that you must develop in yourself the qualities of a soldier. The more quickly and thoroughly you cultivate them, the greater will be your satisfaction and success.

There is very little real difference of opinion as to soldierly qualities. They have been determined by ages of experience. Weapons change, but the soldiers who handle the weapons remain much the same.

Three Basic Qualities

There are three basic qualities, without which no man can be a soldier even though he may temporarily wear a uniform. They are:

Loyalty.

Physical Fitness.

Intelligence.

A man without these qualities is in the way and is a source of weakness to an army, both in the camp and on the field of battle.

The Articles of War of the United States set forth for the military crimes which are punishable by heavy penalties. Among these crimes are desertion, cowardice, insubordination, drunkenness while on duty, sleeping while on duty as a sentinel, disclosing the watchword and giving aid or comfort to the enemy, flun over the list and you will see that every one of these military crimes can result only from the absence of one or more of the three basic qualities of a soldier.

Loyalty.

A soldier's loyalty governs, first of all, his feelings and actions toward his country, his government and his flag. There can be no such thing as halfway loyalty. The slightest compromise opens the door to treason.

But a soldier's loyalty does not stop here. It governs also his feelings and actions toward the army and toward all the officers under whom he serves. It absolutely forbids disobedience among both officers and enlisted men, or disrespect toward those in authority.

Going a step farther, loyalty governs also the soldier's feelings and actions toward his own regiment, his own company and his own squad. Without this form of loyalty there can be no real comradeship; without it you will never feel that personal pride and satisfaction in the service which should mean so much in your army life.

Obedience.

The second of the soldier's basic qualities is obedience, based on discipline. Without discipline an army can not long continue to exist; it will quickly degenerate into an armed mob. As the Infantry Drill Regulations put it, discipline is "the distinguishing mark of trained troops."

Frequently the recruit, with his in-born delicacy, is so sensitive to the mistakes during his first few weeks in the army of resenting the fact that immediate and unquestioning obedience is required of him. He quickly learns, however, that obedience enforced throughout the army is in all situations the chief safeguard of the rights, the comfort and the safety of every man from the raw recruit to the commanding general. It is a guarantee that the small number of unruly or cowardly men to be found in every group shall be kept in check and forced to comply with rules made for the benefit of all.

Military discipline is always impersonal. Obedience is required not merely of you, but of every man in the army. It is required of officers by their superiors with fully as much strictness as it is required of you. It will be your duty, whenever you are given authority over other men, to demand from the same full measure of obedience that others will require of you.

Discipline is not only essential in developing the army, but also in developing your own character as a soldier. The soldier who is by nature brave, will by discipline become braver.

Physical Fitness.

The third basic quality, physical fitness, is so essential that a large part of the time devoted to your training will be spent in building it up. Physical fitness includes not only muscular development but good health and endurance as well. It is a quality which every man who would do the present examinations can develop in himself by reasonable care and by obedience to instructions. This is a subject more fully discussed in a later lesson.

Nine Soldierly Qualities.

The three basic qualities, Loyalty, Obedience and Physical Fitness, were treated in the preceding lesson. There is another group of three soldierly qualities that are especially needed during the periods of training, marching and waiting between combats. They are:

Intelligence.

Cleanliness.

Cheerfulness.

Although these qualities are associated chiefly with camp life, they are, of course, scarcely less helpful in all other phases of military service.

Intelligence.

Intelligence does not necessarily mean education, but rather quick observation and willingness to learn. There is plenty of need for intelligence in modern warfare. The Na-tionary military history to justify this course.

Finally, there are the three battle qualities of the good soldier—

Tenacity.

Self-reliance.

Unless a man has these three qualities—even though he possesses all the other six in good measure—he is after all only a camp-fire soldier.

Spirit.

Spirit—fighting spirit—is far from being mere hatred of the enemy or blind fury, on the one hand; nor is it mere passive obedience to orders, on the other. It means cool, self-reliant courage—the kind of courage which enables a man to shoot straight on the battlefield as he does in target practice. However, it even goes a step beyond that point. Decisive victories cannot be won by merely repulsing the enemy. "Only the offensive wins," Infantry Drill Regulations, paragraph 511.

Like all the other qualities of a soldier, spirit can be cultivated. An untrained army seldom possesses it. But it can be developed. You can and will develop it until it becomes as much a part of yourself as any of your easy-going civilian habits are now.

Tenacity.

Spirit carries a body of soldiers forward. Tenacity is the quality that makes them "stick." The thorough soldier is never ready to stop fighting until his part of the battle is won. Tenacity was never better expressed than in the words of John Paul Jones. Standing among his dead and wounded crew on his sinking ship which was "leaking like a basket," he replied to his adversary's invitation to surrender: "Sir, I have not yet begun to fight." Two hours later the battle came to a sudden end when the colors of the enemy's vessel were hauled down.

Self-reliance.

Self-reliance is characteristic of the American, whether he is serving as a soldier or in some civil occupation. Much the same quality is sometimes referred to as "initiative." It is a quality needed more than ever before in present-day warfare. Major General Leonard Wood, in his introduction to the Field Service Regulations of the United States Army, says: "Officers and men of all ranks and grades are given a certain independence in the execution of the tasks to which they are assigned and are expected to show initiative in meeting the different situations as they arrive. Every individual, from the highest commander to the lowest private, must always remember that initiative and neglect of opportunities will warrant more severe censure than an error in the choice of the means."

Home Reading Course For Citizen-Soldiers

Your Part of Honor.

You are called to serve as a soldier in the National Army, because that is one of your obligations as a citizen of the United States. The citizens of a republic must always be ready in the hour of need to leave their own homes and take up arms in defense of their rights and principles. Otherwise the Republic could not long continue to exist. The men who now enter military service deserve the gratitude and respect of their fellow citizens.

You are doubtless making a heavy sacrifice in order to perform this duty for your country. Hundreds of thousands of other young men and their families are facing the same sacrifice. All our citizens will sooner or later be called upon, each to bear his or her share of the burden. Men and women, rich and poor, all alike must do whatever is necessary and must give up whatever is necessary. For no personal interests or feelings can be permitted to stand in the way at a time when the safety and honor of the country are at stake.

As a citizen soldier you are chosen for a post of special distinction. America is justly proud of the soldiers of the past who have won for us the rights today denied and put in serious danger by the high-handed attacks of the German government. America will be no less proud of you, as you fight to uphold those rights.

Your personal responsibility is great. As warfare is today conducted the individual soldier counts for more than ever before. Your own skill and bravery, no matter how humble your rank, may easily be important factors in deciding whether an engagement will be won or lost. You can not depend upon anyone else to carry this personal responsibility for you; you must depend upon yourself.

Some American Soldiers

Americans are well-fitted to meet this test. During the Civil War, at the battle of Antietam, the 7th Maine Infantry lay hugging the ground, under a furious storm of shot and shell. Private Hoxie, who was a wonderful shot, asked leave to move nearer the enemy. For an hour afterwards his companions heard his rifle crack every few minutes. His commanding officer finally, from curiosity, "crept forward to see what he was doing, and found that he had driven every man away from one section of a Confederate battery, tumbling over gunner after gunner as they came forward to fire.

At the end of an hour or so, a piece of shell took off the breech of his rifle, and he returned disconsolate; but after a few minutes he gathered three rifles that were left by wounded men and went back again.

In the Confederate armies individual soldiers were no less skillful, cool and brave. On both sides they were Americans.

Here are a few cases quoted from official records, you may read between the lines to get the full benefit of the stories they tell of resourcefulness and courage.

On June 9, 1862, Private John Gray, 5th Ohio Infantry, "mounted" on an artillery horse of the enemy and captured a brass 6-pound piece, in the face of the enemy's fire, and brought it to the rear.

On October 12, 1863, Private Michael Dougherty, 13th "Pennsylvania" Cavalry, "at the head of a detachment of his company, dashed across an open field, exposed to a deadly fire from the enemy, and in the midst of the carnage, them from an unoccupied house, which he and his comrades defended for several hours against repeated attacks, thus preventing the enemy from flanking the position of the Union forces."

"From May 8 to 11, 1864, Private John B. Lynch, 3d Indiana Cavalry, "carried important dispatches from the President to General Grant, passing through the enemy's country, escaping capture, delivered his messages and returned to Washington with replies thereto."

On April 27, 1899, Private Edward White, 20th Kansas Infantry during a fight with insurgents in the Philippines islands, "swam the Rio Grande de Pampanga in face of the enemy's fire and fastened a rope to the unoccupied trenches, thereby enabling the crossing of the river and the driving of the enemy from his fortified position."

On May 6, 1900, Private William P. Macley, 43d U. S. Volunteer Infantry, "charged an occupied bastion, saving the life of an officer in a hand to hand combat and destroying the enemy."

In all these cases medals of honor were granted. The incidents, however, are typical of the army. Thousands of similar stories might be told. They represent the spirit that will inspire the National Army when the time comes to show the stuff of which it is made.

Tales of heroic courage can be found in the annals of all armies and of all nations. But the American Army has its own special tradition, which these incidents illustrate. It is the tradition of intelligence, self-reliance, and individual daring on the part of men serving in the ranks.

The Individual Soldier Counts.

Other things being equal, an army made up of self-reliant, thinking men, has a great advantage over a merely machine-like army, and this is especially true in present day warfare. Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott, Chief of Staff, U. S. A., remarks on this point:

"The conditions under which modern wars are fought are ever making increasing demands on the individual soldier. * * * The individual soldier must know how to interpret accurately orders and signals for the enemy's fire may often so isolate him from his leader and comrades, perhaps only a step away, that he may be thrown on his own initiative in making his actions conform to those of the whole line; he may have to use his own judgment in opening fire, in advancing, in intrenching."

Each Man Counts.

A second tradition of the American Army, which need only be mentioned is that of fighting fairly and treating even the enemy with as much humanity as his own conduct will permit. As for slaughtering or enslaving the civilian population of captured territory, attacking prisoners or assaulting women, American soldiers would as little commit such crimes in time of war as in time of peace. In this respect most of the civilized nations of the world think alike.

Fighting For Rights and Principles.

There is a third splendid tradition of the American Army which you will help to carry forward. It has fought always and everywhere in defense of principles and rights—never merely for territory and for power. Even the Civil War resulted from the clash of opposing principles—the principle of an indivisible Union upheld by the North, and that of freedom to withdraw from the Union upheld by the South.

To protect the rights of citizens, the American people have several times opposed tyrannical governments—the English government in 1776 and 1812, the French government for a short period in 1798, the Mexican government in 1846, the Spanish government in 1898. The final effect in each case has been to advance the cause of liberty and democracy throughout the world, even in the countries against which we fought. Our weapons have not willingly been turned against our people, but only against the rulers who misgoverned and misled them. If fighting for our own rights, the American Army has fought also, in President Wilson's phrase, for the "rights of mankind."

For a like high purpose, the American people have entered into the present war against the German government—a government which in our belief misrepresents and misleads the German people. Only by so doing can we make America and the world "safe for democracy." But one ending can be thought of—an ending that will guarantee the continuance of all those principles and rights which the American Army has in the past so nobly fought to establish.

Never lose sight, even for an instant, of the fact that all your training, your efforts, and your sacrifices have this one great object in view, the attainment of which is worth anything it may cost.

Developing Soldierly Qualities.

The question as to whether it is better to join the colors now or with a later contingent is not worth arguing, since the decision has been made for each man by lot. An ambitious man, however, will be glad to join now. It gives him a better chance for promotion. The commissioned officers of the first contingent are picked men who have voluntarily gone through the hardest kind of training. The officers of later contingents will be drawn largely from the men enlisted in the first contingents. There is plenty of opportunity here for every man to use his brains and his energy to earn promotion according to his worth. This does not mean easy or quick advancement. It means only that you will have your fair chance—and you would ask for nothing more—to develop yourself and to climb upward step by step. In order to make good in the National Army you must, first of all, fit yourself to carry with credit the simple title of "American Citizen-Soldier"—one of the proudest titles in the world. This means that you must develop in yourself the qualities of a soldier. The more quickly and thoroughly you cultivate them, the greater will be your satisfaction and success.

There is very little real difference of opinion as to soldierly qualities. They have been determined by ages of experience. Weapons change, but the soldierly qualities which the weapons remain much the same.

Three Basic Qualities.

There are three basic qualities, without which no man can be a real soldier even though he may temporarily wear a uniform. They are:

Loyalty.

Intelligence.

Physical Fitness.

A man without these qualities is in the way and is a source of weakness to an army, both in the camp and on the field of battle.

The Articles of War of the United States set forth for the military crimes which are punishable by heavy penalties. Among these crimes are desertion, cowardice, insubordination, drunkenness while on duty, sleeping while on duty as a sentinel, disclosing the watchword, and giving aid or comfort to the enemy. Run over the list and you will see that every one of those military crimes can result only from the absence of one or more of the three basic qualities of a soldier.

Without this form of loyalty there can be no real comradeship; without it you will never feel that personal pride and satisfaction in the service which should mean so much in your army life.

Obedience.

The second of the soldier's basic qualities is obedience, based on discipline. Without obedience and discipline an army can not long continue to exist; it will quickly degenerate into an armed mob. As the Infantry Drill Regulations put it, discipline is "the distinguishing mark of trained troops."

Frequently the recruit, with his immature mind and his inexperience, makes mistakes during his first few weeks in the army of resenting the fact that immediate and unquestioning obedience is required of him. As he quickly learns, however, that obedience enforced throughout the army is in all situations the chief safeguard of the rights, the comfort and the safety of every man, from the raw recruit to the commanding general. It is a guarantee that the small number of unruly or cowardly men to be found in every group shall be kept in line and forced to comply with rules made for the benefit of all.

Military discipline is always impersonal. Obedience is required not merely of you, but of every man in the army. It is required of officers by their superiors with fully as much strictness as it is required of you. It will be given you, whenever you are given authority over other men, to demand from the same full measure of obedience that others will require of you.

Discipline is not only essential in developing the army, but also in developing your own character as a soldier. The soldier who is by nature brave, will by discipline become braver.

Physical Fitness.

The third basic quality, physical fitness, is so essential that a large part of the time devoted to your training will be spent in building it up. Physical fitness includes not only muscular development but good health and endurance as well. It is a quality which every man who makes the physical examination is required to possess. The soldier who is by nature brave, will by discipline become braver.

national Army will be forced to absorb within a few months a training work which ordinarily extend over a period of two or three years. Those who intend to fit themselves for promotion should study thoroughly the manuals and the drill regulations which affect their duties. In time they should learn something about map-making and map-reading, the construction of field entrenchments, training and care of horses, signaling, the handling of complex pieces—of machinery, and many other subjects.

Any practical knowledge that you may now possess will surely be useful and helpful to you in the army. Captain Ian Hay Both, of the English Army, points out that in the first British forces of the present war the previous trade or training of every soldier was sooner or later utilized.

Cleanliness.

Cleanliness is important everywhere but most of all in the army where large bodies of men are brought together. In its true sense, it includes not only keeping your body clean, but also your mind and your actions. Fortunately, it is a virtue in which Americans generally rank high. There should be little difficulty in setting a satisfactory standard in the new army. This is a subject more fully treated later in this course.

Cheerfulness.

Cheerfulness is always a prominent trait of good soldiers. Here again Americans can be counted upon to make a splendid showing, even in the face of any unexpected hardships or difficulties that may be ahead of us. There are numerous episodes in American military history to justify this confidence.

In January, 1863, the Union Army lay in camp at Falmouth, Va. About a month before had occurred the disastrous and bloody defeat of Fredericksburg. In the North it was the darkest hour of the war. Everywhere outside the army there was depression and fear. On January 21, the commanding general ordered the troops to break camp and move forward. At the same time a "cold, drizzling rain, set in; the ground speedily became like a sea of slush; everything upon wheels sank into the bottomless mud; it took twenty horses to start a single caisson; hundreds of men died in harness, but the rain persisted also, and it soon became a simple impossibility to go forward." After two days of effort it was necessary to have the men struggle and flounder "through the wilderness of mud back to their camp."

Picture the situation: Recent defeat with heavy losses; retreat; a cheerless mid-winter camp; rain, cold, mud; discouragement at home; a long march under the most trying conditions ending in a return to the same camping ground from which the troops had started. A little grumbling might reasonably have been expected. But the men of 1863 were too good soldiers to draw long faces. The historian goes on: "The march was made in high good humor, the soldiers laughing and joking at their ill-luck, with that comic brightness characteristic of Americans in difficult circumstances."

Three Qualities of Battle.

Finally, there are the three battle qualities of the good soldier:

Spirit.

Tenacity.

Self-reliance.

Unless a man has these three qualities—even though he possesses all the other six in good measure—he is after all only a camp-fire soldier.

Spirit.

Spirit-fighting spirit—is far from being mere hatred of the enemy or blind fury, on the one hand, nor is it mere passive obedience to orders, on the other. It means cool, self-controlled courage—the kind of courage which enables a man to shoot as straight on the battlefield as he does in target practice. However, it even goes a step beyond that point. Decisive victories cannot be won by merely repulsing the enemy. "Only the offensive wins." (Infantry Drill Regulations, paragraph 511.)

Like all the other qualities of a soldier, spirit can be cultivated. An untrained army seldom possesses it, but it can be developed. You can and will develop it until it becomes as much a part of yourself as any of your easy-going civilian habits are now.

Tenacity.

Spirit carries a body of soldiers forward. Tenacity is the quality that makes them "stick." The thorough soldier is never ready to stop fighting until his part of the battle is won. Tenacity was never better expressed than in the words of John Paul Jones, standing among his dead and wounded on his sinking ship which was "leaking like a basket," he replied to his adversary's invitation to surrender. "Sir, I have not yet begun to fight."

Two hours later the battle came to a sudden end when the colors of the enemy's vessel were hauled down.

Self-reliance.

Self-reliance is characteristic of the American, whether he is serving as a soldier or in some civil occupation. Much the same quality is sometimes referred to as "initiative." It is a quality needed more than ever before in present-day warfare. Major General Leonard Wood, in his introduction to the Field Service Regulations of the United States Army, says:

"Officers and men of all ranks and grades are given a certain independence in the execution of the tasks to which they are assigned and are expected to show initiative in meeting the different situations as they arise. Every individual, from the highest commander to the lowest private, must always remember that initiative and neglect of opportunities will warrant more severe censure than an error in the choice of the means."
