PRESIDENT OF FEDERATION SAYS CATHOLICS SUPPORT COUNTRY WITH UNDEVIATING LOYALTY

By Associated Press. Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 27.—Catholics of America will support the cause of their country "with undeviating loyalty" throughout the war, that pledge was given here today by John Whalen of New York, in his annual address as president before the opening session of the convention of the American Federation of Catholics.

It is the American boast today that we have progressed in a direction to a place of first and highest development in the world. In the name of the claim, right no longer rules; justice is fast declining; order is upset; the family is endangered; the home is disintegrated; materialism is the ascendant; vicious propaganda runs riot; and religious indifference dominates in some directions it may be a starting point for the drift of this country at present is toward paganism.

KNEE TAPPING IS A SCIENTIFIC TEST FOR OFFICERS IN UNITED STATES ARMY

SCIENTIFIC TEST FOR SOLDIER

In the accompanying illustration a United States soldier is showing undergoing a severe medical test. With his legs crossed, he submits to a blow on a nerve near the knee with a rubber mallet. If there is no perceptible involuntary movement of the lower part of the limb it indicates a nerve affliction. While this test is not given to the draft army, most of the candidates for a higher command get it. Incidentally, nearly all the men in the Sixty-ninth regiment of New York underwent this test and more than 95 per cent passed it perfectly.

MORE NAMES OF WICHITA COUNTY REGISTRANTS IN ORDER DRAWN

Wichita Falls quota for the draft, has been filled from the first 450 men summoned for examination. The Times herewith prints another installment of names in the order of the drawing with their serial numbers. It should be plainly understood these names have not been summoned for examination. Indeed it is unlikely that they will be summoned unless there is a call for another large army. The names are printed only to show those registered in the order in which their names were drawn. In the following the number to the left is the order of the drawing. The number next to the right is the serial number of their cards.

"A SPLENDID TONIC"

Says Hixson Lady Who, On Doctor's Advice, Took Cardui And Is Now Well.

Hixson, Tenn.—"About 10 years ago I was..." says Mrs. J. B. Gadd, of this place. "I suffered with a pain in my left side, could not sleep at night with this pain, always in the left side..."

My doctor told me to use Cardui. I took one bottle, which helped me and after my baby came, I was stronger and better, but the pain was still there.

I at first let it go, but began to get weak and in a run-down condition, so I decided to try some more Cardui, which I did.

This last Cardui which I took made me much better, in fact cured me. It has been a number of years, still I have no return of this trouble.

I feel it was Cardui that cured me, and I recommend it as a splendid female tonic.

Don't allow yourself to become weak and run-down from womanly troubles. Take Cardui. It should surely help you, as it has so many thousands of other women in the past 40 years. Headache, backache, sideache, nervousness, sleeplessness, tired-out feeling, are all signs of womanly trouble. Other women get relief by taking Cardui. Why not you? All druggists.

"POOR RELATIONS" HAVE WORK AS WELL AS FRONT TROOPS

By Associated Press. The French Front, Aug. 27.—While the soldiers of the active army are engaged all along the front at attacking the Germans or defending the French positions against the frequent assaults of selected German shock troops, their "poor relations," composing the troops of the second line are kept busy removing traces of the destruction which marked the retreat of the Germans in March before the advancing French and British.

Dozens of bridges over rivers and canals as well as many locks which held back the waters of the canals were blown up by the Germans as they hurriedly retreated.

In many cases the reaches of the canals have run dry while the courses have been blocked by large masses of steel, reinforced concrete and stone.

In order to avert floods in rainy weather, special companies of engineers were formed immediately after the battle of the Marne from among the old soldiers of the second, or territorial reserve whose duty it was to follow in the rear of the advancing allies and to clear all obstructions from river and canal beds. They were called companies of "waterway sappers" and the men composing them were secured because of their training in various trades—smith, riveters, electricians, boatmen, divers, miners and others accustomed to the handling of explosives. On some occasions these men have to do their work under fire of the enemies guns.

AUTO THEFT SUSPECTS TAKEN TO FORT WORTH

A. J. Chambers, desk sergeant at the police station, accompanied E. P. Langdon to Fort Worth Saturday night in the car recovered from the two men who were arrested here Friday. The two men were also carried back and lodged in the Tarrant county jail. One of the men who gave his name as Carter, was found to be in reality one Cicero Smith, living in North Fort Worth. Smith had been before the Tarrant county officers several times before, and the description and Bertillon measurements established his real identity. Little could be learned of Baker. Smith took all the responsibility for the car theft, and stated Baker was a disinterested party, he having picked him up on the road to this city.

While in Fort Worth Mr. Chambers took advantage of the opportunity to visit the training camp and Lake Worth—both of which he says are worth going far to see. He stated that one could not imagine the magnitude of the army camps being built there until it was seen. Barrack after barrack, just as far as one could see. The lake is fast becoming a pleasure resort for North Texas, cars being there yesterday from any number of cities in that section of the state. As a rough estimate Chambers said there must have been at least a thousand automobiles parked along the road near the lake yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Chambers returned this morning.

STRIKES GREATLY DECREASE GERMAN COAL OUTPUT

By Associated Press. Copenhagen, Aug. 27.—Strikes of miners in Silesia last month reduced the German production of coal by more than 1,000,000 tons according to statement made in the Reichstag main committee on the fuel problem. Vice Chancellor Helfferich gave an urgent and emphatic warning against further strikes.

The government report states that production had been affected by inadequate food supplies. This was corroborated by speakers of various parties who said under-nourished workmen could not do a normal days work. The gravity of the situation is shown by the seriously considered proposal to restrict the production of iron, although this is needed for munitions.

Home Reading Course For Citizen-Soldiers

LESSON NO. 12. Teamwork in the Army.

(Preceding lessons: 1. Your Post of Honor. 2. Making Good as a Soldier. 3. Nine Qualities of a Soldier. 4. Getting Ready for Camp. 5. First Days in Camp. 6. Cleanliness in Camp. 7. Your Health. 8. Marching and Care of Feet. 9. Your Equipment and Arms. 10. Recreation in Camp. 11. Playing the Game.)

So far in this course we have been taking up some of the problems which each soldier has to face and solve for himself; how to adjust himself as quickly as possible to the routine of camp life; how to look after his own health and comfort; how to take care of arms and equipment; and how to get real enjoyment, as well as benefit, out of Army life.

If the course were to stop just at this point, it might leave in your mind a false impression. For after all, the soldier is not an individual player in the great game of war; he is valuable chiefly as a member of a team. It is a team of enormous size. It is organized in rather a complicated way. This team we call the army.

Your army life will be more interesting if you know in a general way how the team is organized. This will enable you to see more clearly where you fit in and what is expected of you.

If you have been working for a business concern, you are already familiar with many of the elements of army organization. You have been in touch with the same things under different names.

Need For Teamwork. In a factory or store or office—wherever large numbers of people are working together—there is almost always some one in direct charge of each group of workers. This person may be called a foreman in the shop, a chief clerk in an office, a door walker in a department store, or by any one of a number of other titles; in the army we call him a corporal or a sergeant. Going up a step, you know that in every large concern there are numerous officers who take charge of various departments of the business, such as the superintendent, the traffic manager, the advertising manager, the sales manager, the secretary, the vice president, and so on; in the army we call the men in corresponding positions captains, majors, colonels and generals. Finally, you have at the top of the business concern a president or a general manager who directs everything; in the army he is a commanding general.

This general likeness between business organization and army organization is helpful, but must not be carried too far. There is one vital difference: The average business concern is somewhat easy-going; the responsibility for each piece of work is not always definitely fixed. In the Army, everybody, on the other hand, is held to the strictest account. There is very seldom any doubt as to the man to be held responsible for each task.

Responsibility Always Fixed. Within each rank, from major general to private, every man has had his individual making, depending upon his length of service in the office which he holds. This ranking insures that in every situation somebody always has authority and is responsible for whatever is done. Even if two private soldiers are working together without supervision, the one who has been longer in the service takes charge and the other must obey his orders. This rule applies everywhere.

In civilian life there is time for argument. You may have better ideas than your boss about how a certain thing should be done and possibly may convince him and get his original orders changed. In army life nothing of this kind can be permitted. The officer in charge always has the full responsibility. Whatever orders he gives must be instantly obeyed. It is far better to take action, even though the thing may not be done in the best possible way, than it is to stand still and debate. Lack of immediate action in the crisis of a battle might mean that the army would be defeated, thousands of lives lost, and possibly the honor of the country stained.

Think over this difference between army organization and civilian organization. The longer you think about it, the more clearly you will see why your own interests demand that you should fit into your place in the army and follow instructions—much more strictly than is necessary in civil life.

The army is governed by military law. This means that soldiers are not brought to trial in civil courts, except for certain serious crimes, but are subject to military courts of inquiry, summary courts, and courts-martial. However, this will never be a question of much importance to the great majority of men in the National Army.

Success in Winning Victories. Success in winning victories is the object for which the army exists. In comparison nothing else counts. Every officer and every soldier must be ready to make any sacrifice, big or little, to accomplish this object. An officer may spend years in working out solutions to military problems, only to find in the end that all the credit for what he has done is swallowed up in the general reputation of the army. If this proves to be the case, he has no cause for complaint.

It is the rule of the army that everything must be done "for the good of the service."

In the same way you may be called upon to carry through some dangerous mission or to perform unpleasant duties every such call is an opportunity to show your loyalty to the service and to the Nation. Remember in all these cases that hundreds of thousands of other men in the army, from top to bottom, live—yourself are working first and all the time for the success of the team.

It is usually the army with the strongest team spirit that fights its way through to victory. Try to cultivate this spirit in the National Army, both in yourself and among your comrades.

SOCIETY

A RHYME OF LIFE.

If life be as a flame that death doth burn, Little candle, lit for me, With a pure flame, that I might right by see To warder song, and utterly God's plan fulfil.

If life be as a flower that blooms and dies, Forbid the cunning frost that slays With Judas kiss and trusting love be. Forever may my song of praise Untainted rise.

If life be as a voyage, foul or fair, Oh, bid me not by banners turl For adverse gate, or wave in angry bill.

Till I have found the gates of pearl And anchored there.

BALL WILL RETAIN FIELDER JONES AS MANAGER

By Associated Press. St. Louis, August 27.—Announcement is made by Phil Ball, president of the St. Louis American League club, that despite severe criticism, Fielder Jones will remain manager for the 1918 season. Ball also said that Jones could trade the entire team, if necessary to acquire men suited to his style of play.

"The post-humous of the team this year is not Jones' fault," Ball said. "Accidents and sickness among the players handicapped the club from the first. The slump has subjected Jones to severe criticism."

"The owners of the club think highly of Jones' ability and will give him all the support necessary to bring out a winning club next year. Jones will stick. We want him on the job."

The team never has been intact. First, Davenport was sent and then Shotton became ill. Next, Wellman went under the surgeon's knife. Then Pratt broke a wrist. Laven also has been out of the game off and on. Sinker, who batted fourth, was out on a bad foot. Austin broke a finger and finally Plank retired from baseball. It is absurd to blame Jones for all this. He is entitled to another trial, and he will get it."

When informed of Ball's statement, Jones said:

"I will rebuild my team around Sinker, Pratt and Austin. I am going to tear this club apart just to experiment. I know it is a good ball club as it stands and it isn't going to take much additional strength to whip it into a winner."

The Famous Columbia Highway

Scenes on the Columbia Highway - Picture Made Before the Road was Paved Remarkable Engineering Feat Shown In the Building of This Picturesque Highway, Which Runs Through Some of America's Grandest Mountain Regions.

Copyright, 1917, by The International Syndicate.

THE AUTOMOBILE is probably responsible for the many fine roads which have recently been constructed in the United States. These roads open up scenery to the traveler which heretofore was known only to the mountain climber and the camper. One of the most picturesque of these new auto paths is the one known as the Columbia highway which runs from Portland, Oregon, on the Oregon side of the great Columbia River, to the paved boulevard about sixty miles in length and leads through some of the grandest mountain scenery in the United States. Before this road was built the wild picturesque beauty of this region could only be viewed from the decks of a steamer or from the car windows of the train which runs close to the river's edge. The glory of the waterfalls was entirely lost because from the train the tops could be seen at all, and some were missed altogether on account of the tunnels.

The character of the country at this point is not unlike some parts of Switzerland and is quite as picturesque for the Columbia's path is barred by the immense Cascade and Coast ranges set like two huge garden walls running North and South squarely across the river's path. By some mighty convulsion of nature, perhaps the bursting over its banks of a prehistoric inland sea, a chasm was opened for the passage of the river so that today it flows through a gate like gorge not thirty miles from the base of the perpetual snow capped Mt. Hood, which rears her glacier covered head 11,225 feet above the level of the sea. Mountains, from 2,000 to 4,000 feet in height, rise steeply from the edge of the river and in some places sheer cliffs of 500 feet rise from its banks. Waterfalls any where from 200 to 600 feet in height formed by tributary streams dash over the rocks glistening in the sunlight like streams of silver. Pines and fir trees pierce the landscape at many points, white maples, larches and wild flowers cover the mountain slopes. Such is the setting of this new pleasure road along the chasm through which the great Columbia makes its dramatic entrance to the sea.

Some of the engineering feats in the building of the road were little short of marvelous. Today that splendid roadway built in the most difficult of places is no place less than twenty feet wide, no grade steeper than five per cent, and no curve sharper than a segment of a circle having a radius of 100 feet. This means easy climbing, plenty of room for machines to pass and for the driver to see around the curves and for the traveler to see around the gorge for 30 miles

And then something occurs to make the girl really want a divorce. But she cannot make her mother believe that she is in earnest. Eventually matters are straightened out, the young people are reconciled and everything is lovely. This is an exceptional production. Be sure to see it.

At the Theatres

The Empress Animal lovers will revel in Lou Tellegen's latest Famous Players picture on the "Paradise" program. This is "The Long Trail," a Canadian story written by Eve Unsell. In it are seen many dogs, of the ordinary variety, with some Eskimo dogs, especially imported for work in this picture, and a handsome high-bred Scotch collie who is Lou Tellegen's special favorite and makes his screen debut in this picture. In addition is the beautiful horse of the Mounted Police officer which has won several blue ribbons for his proud owner. "The Long Trail" will be the attraction at the Empress Theatre today.

SPECIAL FEATURE AT THE MAJESTIC TUESDAY

PEACE ONLY WHEN MEN ARE MOVED BY CHRIST'S SPIRIT

ARCHBISHOP HANNA ADDRESS FEDERATION OF CATHOLIC SOCIETIES AT KANSAS CITY

By Associated Press.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 27.—That there can be no permanent peace on earth until rulers recognize the teachings of Christ and hearken to the appeal of the Pope, was the keynote of an address here tonight by Archbishop Edward J. Hanna of San Francisco, before the American Federation of Catholic Societies.

"There can be no tranquility in the ordering of the world until men, moved by Christ's spirit, put their trust not in power, not in gold, not in the possession of many things, but in God. The Father," declared Archbishop Hanna. "There will be no permanent abiding concord of princes and of rulers until the men who sway the destinies of nations recognize the moral sanctions of life, recognize that the human being is more 'valuable' than all earth's possessions, recognize that mercy must be the basis of justice, and recognize the higher code taught by Christ in accordance with which men are ruled by moral force, recognize and listen to the age of faith, and in His teaching can there be victory for human rights, only in Christ can victory bring enduring peace.

The archbishop urged personal sacrifice for the common weal and declared the real test of the church would come at the end of the present war.

Archbishop Hanna's address follows in part:

"We had hoped that the wave of blood might not reach our peaceful shores, but those who, under the great of our present generation, have placed themselves clearly on record, and with no feeling of fear or of hate, we should, to shoulder with our fellow-men, the mightiest factor in the world's great struggle.

"After months of painful thought, we have come to our conclusion. We take our place in the world's struggle with warmth of spirit because we feel that if we are true to our great spiritual inheritance, one to the inheritance which the past century rejected, we may bring the world again to a realization that only in Christ and in His teaching can there be victory for human rights, only in Christ can victory bring enduring peace.

SAILORMEN AS WELL AS SOLDIERS TRAINED IN USE OF GAS MASKS

Embryo sailors at the great lakes naval training station are being trained in the use of gas masks. If they are ever called upon for land service such training will prove exceedingly useful, in experiencing the discomforts of the gas masks these future sailors may be expected to acquire sympathy for their comrades in the brother service. The picture was made at a recent sham battle at the station.

TRAINING FUTURE SAILORS IN USE OF GAS MASKS

The Well Paved Road Through the Forests of the Gorge

inaccessible part of the mountains. A fine concrete bridge was set up for the road bed which leads close to the waterfall of several hundred feet. Another bridge is a fine concrete structure for the trail from the highway to the top of Larch Mountain from the summit of which the visitor may get the full beauty of the Multnomah and Wakkeena Falls, besides a magnificent view of the river.

Government's Bit

The United States Government has contributed its bit to make the highway attractive by setting aside a great park of forest land with trails which the forest service will keep in repair. One of these trails leads to the summit of a mountain where a cabin has been set up as a mountain rest. A telescope has been placed there to assist the tourist in his view. All along the route are numerous waterfalls of more or less importance, among them Lantourell Falls, Bridal Veil Falls, Copey Falls, Horse Tail Falls, and many others of rare dainty beauty. A journey over this road is a never ending delight to the lover of nature's beauty and one the memory of which will linger long in the mind.

Picturesque Tunnel

At Oneonta Creek there is a great rock rising over 200 feet above the river in a sheer cliff. The railroad runs on a narrow shelf of the rock close to the river, which left no space for the road. The only solution of the problem was to tunnel through the rock. When this was planned there was another obstacle, as there was danger of sending the whole mass of rock down on the railroad track during the boring of the tunnel so the weak spots of the cliff had to be found and plugged with concrete and then a bore made through both the concrete and natural rock. Oneonta Creek comes through a mountain gorge on the side of the tunnel and forms a shady nook where autoists love to picnic.

A number of bridges had to be built, the one of Shepperd's Dell being the most difficult of construction. This is one of the wildest parts of the gorge, and in an... practically leads through meadows, the way being brightened by row after row of Portland's big pink roses. At Troutdale the road turns back from the Columbia to climb the mountain wall and crosses a stream at Chanticleer or Rooster Rock, as the queer formation in the shape of a huge chicken is called.

Fish Hatchery

At Bonneville the United States Government's Fish Hatchery is passed and the majority of travelers run in to see how Uncle Sam keeps up his fish population. Here the trout eggs are hatched and twice a week thousands of fry are sent out in a special car to be distributed through the mountain streams of the northwest. In the various pools of the hatchery, trout of different ages can be seen swimming about in the clear water. The officials here are most obliging and one learns much about the value of the work.

All along the route the road is smooth and broad, the bridges strong and the outer edges protected by concrete railing. Everything is as perfect in the way of road building as one can make it. Last year thousands of tourists from all parts of America rode over its surface and with one accord declared it to be one of the scenic features of the world, and one which could be traveled in comfort by the most delicate tourist.

Where the highway ends connection is made with existing roads that form a route east to the Missouri River midway between the proposed National Parks Continental Highway Association. Connection with other roads is also made for a route to Salt Lake City. The time consumed in building the highway was three years, two years to cut it through and one year to pave it with concrete.

"THE LONG TRAIL"

The timber country of the Canadian northwest is the setting of this big drama of the primitive, with the stalwart young French actor who has the distinction of having been Sarah Bernhardt's most youthful leading man, in the principal role, that of Andre Dubois, a trapper. Opposite him, as Louise Graham, an American girl cast by circumstance in to the crude life of the lumber camp, is Mary Fuller, whose popularity is as evergreen as the pine woods in which is found the locale of "The Long Trail." It is a most distinctive and stirring drama.
