Congregational Program Attracts Crowd Despite Bad Weather

Due to the rain, the Panhandle Association of Congregational Churches was held in the Union Congregational Church of Friona last Sunday instead of at Spring Lake. Despite the inclement weather and the fact that many local people did not know about the morning program here, more than 50 persons heard Dr. Mary F. Cushman of Angela, Portuguese West Africa, at the Sunday School hour, and Superintendent H. H. Lindeman of Oklahoma City and Dr. E. M. Halliday, secretary of the division of church extension, of New York City, at the morning worship hour.

In the evening, at the Pilgrim Fellowship Hour, Superintendent Lindeman exhibited the motion pictures of the young people's camp at Lake Murray held during the past two summers. Professor J. S. Prentice of Middlebury College, Vt., gave an address on "The basis of a just and durable peace", following a devotional led by Doctor Halliday and a special number by the young people's choir. Then Dr. Cushman brought the closing message in her inimitable, dramatic fashion. Many crowded around her to examine the many relics and curios she used in illustrating her lectures. Rev. Paxton Smith, the local pastor, acted as moderator of the two services.

The evening congregation numbered about one hundred, and was augmented by the presence of the evening congregations of the Baptist and Methodist churches. This fine fellowship was a feature of this outstanding Sunday night meeting.

The Parmer County Home Demonstration Council and Clubs will hold their annual meeting at the Congregational Church in Friona Saturday, Oct. 24, from 2:30 p. m. to 5:00 p. m. Mrs. W. H. Kennedy, President of the Texas Home Demonstration association, has been invited as a guest speaker.

Mrs. Will Nittler, Council Chairman, will be in charge of the program.

All club presidents, council officers and committee chairmen will give their annual reports. Special music is being prepared by Mrs. Vernon Estes, Mrs. W. O. Cherry, Neida Jane Nittler and Mrs. Alice Bewley.

The principal business on the program for the day besides reports is the election of officers for 1943, after which the group will be adjourned for a reception. Mrs. David Moseley, Mrs. Eugene Boggess and Mrs. Giles Cobb, the committee in charge of the hour, declare that all the reception plans are a deep dark secret, but it is reported that goblins and spooks will be very much in evidence.

The annual meeting is planned for the purpose of checking on progress. This year the arrangements are different from those in the past for at least 100 rural club women are taking part in the program arrangements. The whole event promises to be a gala affair.

In view of the tire situation, home demonstration club members are urged by officials to pool their cars and bring a load for their respective communities, also is explained that this annual meeting will possibly take the place of the county-wide reception usually held in December.

As professor of Semitic languages at Concordia Seminary, Dr. Walter A. Maier spends six days of the week helping to train young men to preach the gospel. With classes beginning as early as 7:30 a. m., and each day arranging a substantial schedule of lectures, examinations and student counsel, most men would welcome the traditional day of rest.

On Sundays, however, this militant, two-fisted educator turns preacher himself, with amazing results. A pioneer in radio preaching, he started out as the speaker on the Lutheran Hour on a modest network of eight stations. Now in his tenth season on the air, his voice is heard over nearly 400 stations each Sunday afternoon—in many lands and several languages.

But the preparation and delivery of his radio address is only a small part of the gigantic project which has grown from his Sunday afternoon sideline activity. Lutheran Hour listeners are invited to comment on the program and to seek Dr. Maier's advice on their spiritual problems. More than one million letters have resulted—280,000 in six months, 15,261 in a single week, approximately 10,000 for every hour the noted educator has been on the air.

Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Taylor were business visitors at Amarillo, Thursday.

Ginn Orders Survey Of Bus Routes

In compliance with a recent order of the Office of Defense Transportation, Supt. O. B. Ginn this week ordered a survey of bus routes in the Friona Independent School District with a view to shortening routes wherever possible in an effort to conserve vital transportation facilities.

Recent ODT rulings have emphasized that bus routes should be shortened wherever possible and that buses should be used only for the actual transportation of children between their homes and school.

According to the ODT plan it will probably become necessary for some pupils to walk perhaps as far as a mile to reach the bus route, but Supt. Ginn believes that school patrons will realize the war necessity for any inconvenience that contemplated changes may bring.

Creation of County Farm Transportation Committees in Texas' 254 counties was announced this week by B. F. Vance, chairman, Texas USDA War Board.

The first job of the new committee will be to assist farmers and truckers hauling farm products and supplies filling out applications for Certificates of War Necessity during national farm truck registration days, October 22-24, the chairman explained.

Under a recent program announced by the Office of Defense Transportation, all farm trucks, trailers, buses, taxicabs and similar commercial vehicles will require the certificates, effective Nov. 15. Purpose of the program is to conserve equipment for war purposes.

Local Farm Transportation Committees, composed of five members, are headed by county USDA war board chairmen. Other members include two farmers, one truck driver, and one farm supply dealer.

Operators subject to the new registration order will not be able to obtain gasoline, tires or parts without Certificates of War Necessity, Vance said in explaining the importance of filling out applications.

Application blanks for the certificates are being mailed by the ODT direct to each truck and commercial vehicle owner, making it unnecessary to write in for blanks. As mailings are completed in each ODT district, full announcements will be given, after which anyone who failed to receive a blank will be advised how to obtain one.

The Parmer County Farm Transportation Committee consists of the following members and alternates: John G. McFarland, Friona, chairman; John Gammon, Muleshoe, member; F. N. Welch, Friona, member; G. B. Buske, Friona, member; Howard Morris, Friona, member; Jack Dunn, Texico, alternate; Glenn R. Dunn, Friona, alternate; C. M. Henderson, Farwell, alternate; and Carl C. Maurer, Friona, alternate.

Places of registration in the county will be at Lubbock; the Howard Morris Farmal House, in Friona; and the first door east of the AAA office in Farwell. Registration places will be open from 8 a. m. until 7 p. m., October 22 through 24. In view of the importance of receiving these certificates, each truck and pickup owner is urged to go to one of the registration places named above during this three-day period.

Dick Habbinga To Mayo Clinic

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Habbinga, who left Friona about three weeks ago for Corpus Christi where it was hoped the climate would benefit Mr. Habbinga's health, have been advised to go to the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., for further medical treatment, according to a card received last week from Mrs. Habbinga.

Sat. Morning, Oct. 17 Dear Mr. White:

"I guess you think we can't make up our mind of what we are going to do, but I tell you we don't hardly know ourselves. But I do know we are not going to Corpus Christi now for Dick is lots worse now and the doctor here told him he is lots worse than he thinks he is, and that he had better go right to the Mayo Brothers and see what he has, and if he can be cured, and if he can, he thinks they can cure him, so he is going there and try them. Please send the Star to Henry Habbinga, Rt. 3, Lubbock, Texas, until further notice.

Mrs. D. E. Habbinga, Lubbock, Texas."

The Habbingas made many friends during their few years residence in this locality who will be interested in hearing from them and wish him a speedy recovery.

COGITATIONS and APHORISMS of Jodok

I am a being of few letters. That is, I do not write many letters, and as a natural consequence, receive but few letters. My regular correspondents perhaps, will not number more than twelve; but to these few I try earnestly to write at least one letter each year. Sometimes I may not write more than one in two years to some of them. As a result of such dilatory correspondence, one of these few correspondents to whom I had not written for four months, in a letter received recently, stated that I am a "flop" as a correspondent.

I am well aware of what the literal meaning of the word "flop" is, but I am laboring under the impression that such a meaning was not intended in the statement and that I am, in reality, being accused of being a sad, miserable, doleful and perhaps, mournful failure as a correspondent. Considering the statement from that point of view or interpretation, I plead guilty to the charge, waive all preliminary hearings or trial and am ready to do my penance.

And not waiting for further charges, I am also pleading guilty to the following charges, should they be made, such as: I was a "flop" as a husband, a flop as a parent, a flop as a teacher, a flop as a farmer, as a writer of insurance, as a thinker and as a Christian, according to the standards of most people. In fact I can think of but two things that I have undertaken during my life, at which I have not been a "flop".

One of those was when I served four years as a deputy sheriff. I had the pleasure of hearing my chief say that I had never been sent out on an official errand in which I failed to get the job done and to deliver the goods. In going over the events of those four years I cannot recall a single instance wherein I failed in performing the errand or in getting my man if he was to be found within my bailiwick, and on one or two occasions I took the law in my own hands and went outside my bailiwick and came home with my quarry. I am not boasting in making the above statements, but I am fond of the fact that I never abused or mistreated any man who came under my authority or was placed in my care.

The other manner in which I am no "flop" is the fact that I have always succeeded in making a failure of everything else that I have ever undertaken.

Not long ago someone (I can't recall who it was) told me that I have an "inferiority complex" whatever that may be. I was not quite sure what that might be, whether some sort of a garment, a disease, a circumstance or some sort of a moral or mental attribute or deficiency; so I consulted my little reference book for information and this is what I found—an "inferiority complex", in psychology, is a feeling of inferiority, manifested by lack of confidence, dissatisfaction with one's accomplishments, diffidence etc. It often leads to a reaction or swing in the opposite direction, the subject assuming a bold, confident, self-satisfied or even pompous demeanor. The expression—"In Psychology", given at the beginning of this explanation, seems to infer that an "inferiority complex" is an offspring of the individual's mental philosophy and is developed thereby and can only be explained, defined and understood by means of the science of psychology. Pretty deep thinking for a single-track mind like mine, and I am still a little in doubt as to whether the statement made by my friend is a compliment or a disparagement; a virtue or a fault; an asset or a liability.

But be that as it may, I am not ready to plead guilty as I was in the first named charge of being a "flop". I cannot plead guilty to any feeling of inferiority except in cases where it is just but to myself to feel that way. I am not ready to plead guilty to a lack of self-confidence, for I know pretty well whether or not I can master any task that may be assigned to me when the mastery depends wholly upon my own efforts and ability. But when the mastery depends wholly or in part upon the whim of another party I cannot know, and neither can any other being know unless that being has the power to subjugate any and all whims his subject may be possessed of. And as to the latter part of the description of an inferiority complex. Imagine one so meek as I be, assuming a bold, confident self-satisfied or even pompous demeanor.

But enough of this. But in relating these personal experiences of my own, I always feel that I am not unique in any of these respects and that many other people and, perhaps, some of my readers share, to some extent, these same experiences and feelings with me. And, also like me, they are rather pleased than otherwise to have "others with me in the hopper."

But returning again to the matter of psychology and psychological influence, when one gives the matter serious consideration it is astonishing to discover how vast a power or influence a psychological condition can have and does have upon many of the greatest ideas ever evolved or the greatest human efforts ever put forth for the good or ill of the world.

Through psychological attitudes some of the most noble and God-like ideas and plans may be turned aside into unexplored and un-beaten trails that lead too close to the brink of a dangerous precipice and may be totally robbed of whatever good they are capable of. On the other hand, a psychological effect or attitude may make of a less worthy idea or plan an ideal almost holy in its effect.

It occurs to me that these conditions are being manifested right here among us as regards some of our nationally proposed and promoted war efforts. For instance, people are not bringing in their scrap metal with anything like the ardor, willingness or promptitude, and this condition is apparently the result of a psychological condition that has been created by varying causes.

Judging by expressions heard on the streets and elsewhere, our people feel that, although they may have quite an amount of this scrap metal on their premises which is of no real value to them, yet they feel under no obligations to make a break in their regular work to bring it in simply because the labor organizations that have control over making of war materials do not put themselves out to get their part of the job done pronto. Simply psychological. Another idea that seems to pervade the mind of the common man is the fact that he cannot see any immediate need of this scrap metal, and he seems to have a concept that it is not needed, because we are continually sinking enemy ships and shooting down his planes, but we are losing very few, if any, or if we are losing them, our leaders tell us nothing about it. Therefore why hurry?

Hence we are losing valuable time and our soldiers are unable to put up the solid front necessary to win this war, owing to the fact that they do not have the necessary equipment with which to attack the enemy. It is, therefore, apparently our duty as the common people to rid ourselves of these psychological influences and get busy with our part of the job.

Reversing the idea, we find the same trouble with the big shots, who are at the helm of our government. They call on our farmers for greater production of food and fiber while, at the same time, they are taking the farm labor away and placing it in the various departments of our war machine and in defense projects where they cease to be producers and become consumers solely. Our leaders are further aggravating the condition by not allowing the farmer to purchase new equipment in the form of labor-saving machinery, nor parts for repairing the old machinery, thus preventing the older men who are left on the farm to cultivate the larger acreage which they otherwise could cultivate, thus lessening the amount of food that can be produced; for these old men cannot till a very large acreage with a hoe and shovel or spade.

One government bureau calls on the farmer to produce more meat and dairy products, while another bureau forbids him to increase his herds, and to produce more breadstuffs, but to decrease his grain acreage, and they condemn the farmer for not obeying the dictates of both these opposing bureaus. Their mental philosophy is in reverse and the psychological influence is detrimental rather than beneficial.

I have long had an admiration for Senator Smith of South Carolina. He is one of the members of our legislative body who would become a statesman of real worth if he was allowed to do so. But apparently statesmanship is a qualification not desired in the halls of congress. At any rate, Senator Smith has intelligence and oyalty enough to sense that something is radically wrong with our cherished democracy and is not fearful to call it to the attention of his colleagues, for in a recent speech before the Senate he is reported to have stated that "Congress is not worth a damn". And, he being a member of it, should be able to know whereof he spoke. He stated a fact—and by making such a statement he has shown that his love for his country is far above his party loyalty.

It occurs to me that it is time that we are getting rid of our psychological influences and getting strictly down to the job of getting our scrap in the hands of the dealers as early and as rapidly as possible. That we lay aside our scruples in regard to buying war bonds and stamps and buy all we can in justice to ourselves and our families. Let us put up an offensive game and carry the ball through the enemy's goal instead of letting him carry it through our goal.

I heard a young man say the other day that it would be better of we change the name of "DEFENSE" bonds to "OFFENSE" bonds and the name of our so called DEFENSE plants be changed to OFFENSE plants and DEFENSE work be changed to OFFENSE work. Most people seem of the opinion that some radical change is necessary in our war program, and it occurs to me that this suggestion could make a good beginning for such a change.

Farmer John SEES THINGS

He who best sees and interprets nature's laws, is the most dependable and valuable leader. He must understand and appreciate those rules which most directly affect the behavior, responsibility and reward of the individual and of society.

In Christian lands the simplest and clearest way to describe this real leader is to say of him—He has patterned his life by the Ten Commandments and is striving to lead society that people can unanimously see the justice and workableness of the law. Also heed the exhortation—"Do as you would be done by". To such people, the Sermon on the Mount and the martyrdom of Jesus is motivating inspiration. To such statesmen the interests and duties of government are intensely personal.

To citizens of the United States a knowledge and appreciation—akin to worship—of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution—is a prerequisite to leadership. Also an acquaintance with the history of the inspired growth of republican government and the nation's phenomenal growth in things physical. Abiding deep and firm in the consciousness of all Americans—sometimes this seems in the subconscious state—is the demand that their leaders must respect and hold sacred the rights and privileges of each individual. It is unthinkable that a leader, for the sake of popularity, may play false to any citizen or any group or trample on the fundamental law of the land—the Constitution. Regardless of creed, color or philosophy, or how rich or poor, how ignorant or learned, whether drunk or sober, each person's rights, property and ambitions ought to be, with equal diligence, protected by law.

Truly, Americans believe in freedom and liberty. And other Ism, scheme or dream, is bound to react as a boomerang to the promoters. They are considered anti-American, anti-Christ. America's greatness is because of her freedom, her absolute faith in the individual as a foundation of civilization.

The leader's technique of letting their light shine from under the bushel, is as varied and revolutionary as the leaders and the light. "Actions speak louder than words" still makes sense. Oratory, the pen, demonstration and the friendly deed, all have their virtues. But the "fireside chat" beats them all. It puts out the light. Yet the leader must have the light of the centuries, plus common sense.

CHDA NOTES

USE PEANUTS AS A FOOD
by Elsie Cunningham
Home Demo. Agent
Extension Service
Texas A. & M. College

With food prices on the rise and certain foods on the hard-to-get list, Farmer County homemakers can help keep their families healthy and at the same time serve their pocketbooks well by using some of the home grown whole grain foods—especially wheat, corn and peanuts.

This week I want to talk with you about ways of using peanuts as a food. The peanut—as you may already know—is an excellent source of protein, phosphorus, calcium, iron and also furnishes the important vitamins B and G. They contain carbohydrates and fat, too. Many food products are made from peanuts—for instance a breakfast food, high protein flour, vegetable milk, ice cream powders to say little of the more common things like peanut butter, candy, etc.

Now that peanut butter is on the hard-to-get list of foods and our grocer is telling us there will be no more after this supply is used up—it might be wise for us to brush up a bit and see what we can do about it. Many of you saw the homemade peanut butter on exhibit at the Victory Harvest Show at Bovina on Oct. 10. Mrs. M. W. Moody assisted me in making up that exhibit so those of you who live near Mrs. Moody and need help may call on her. Here is the recipe we followed:

Peanut Butter
Grind 4 cups roasted peanuts with skins removed. (Use meat knife of the food chopper for the fine grind and vegetable knife for the coarse). Mix 1 1/4 teaspoons salt and 8 tablespoons fresh vegetable oil with the ground peanuts and grind twice again, so as to have the salt well distributed throughout. Pack in small jars, pressing the butter in on the bottom first and filling so as to remove all air bubbles as packing is done. Store in a cool place.

If you do not have vegetable oil use butter or cream. Oil mixture stays fresh longer, though.

Mrs. Beatrice McCurdy, Lamb County Home Demonstration Agent, showed us some interesting ways she had found for using peanuts at the Victory Harvest Show. Here are a few recipes:

Peanut Custard Milk Shake
Beat 2 eggs, add 1-8 teaspoon salt, 8 tablespoons sugar, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg to 1 cup scalded milk to which 1/4 cup peanut butter has been added. Beat. Pour over crushed ice. Top with dash of nutmeg and cinnamon.

Peanut Stuffed Apples
Wash and core 8 apples. Scoop pulp out of apples and add 1/4 cup butter, 1 egg, 1/2 cup milk, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup coarsely ground peanuts. Cook this mixture until tender and stiff. Add 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Fill the apple shells with this mixture. Place marshmallow on top of each apple. Bake with a small amount of water until tender.

Peanut Butter Sandwich
Mix peanut butter, mayonnaise, ground ham and carrots. Spread on whole wheat bread.

Lutheran Hour To Be On Air Oct. 25 Over 391 Stations

ST. LOUIS (Special).—Opening its tenth season Sunday, October 25, on the largest group of stations ever to carry the program, the Lutheran Hour will again present the Bible messages of militant, two-titled Dr. Walter A. Maier.

Dr. Maier

The 208 stations of the Mutual Broadcasting System and 22 independent stations will be joined in a coast-to-coast network, with Eastern stations broadcasting the program at 1:30 o'clock, the others at 4:00 o'clock Eastern War Time every Sunday afternoon. In addition, approximately 160 other stations—in the United States and many foreign lands—will broadcast the program by electrical transmissions, some of them in the Spanish language. The program will also go out by short-wave.

Helps Troubled Listeners

While Dr. Maier is a full-time professor of Semitic languages at Concordia Seminary, and carries on his radio mission as a sideline to his everyday work, he has become the spiritual confidant of thousands of radio listeners. A single broadcast has brought him as many as 15,261 letters and in nine seasons on the air he has received more than a million letters. Widely noted for his books on Christian marriage and the home, and for his work among young people, his advice is eagerly sought in thousands of letters which Dr. Maier has aptly called his "problem mail."

E. J. Gilmeyer, of Fort Wayne, president of the Lutheran Laymen's League, under whose auspices the Lutheran Hour is broadcast, announced that the tenth anniversary season will be commemorated by special efforts to bring spiritual help to those whose lives have been disrupted by war. "These years have been a time," Gilmeyer added, "when the world so sorely needed the word of the Scriptures."

NOTES FROM THE BAPTIST CHURCH

We are indeed grateful for the beautiful weather after the wonderful rain. Last Sunday was surely an OFF day with us in Bible school and Church attendance. So many of you were not there. Will you not help us to make up for it? Sunday by making your plans now for the largest attendance possible next Sunday? Suppose we let nothing short of a providential hindrance keep us away from church next Sunday.

Of course you know that October is State Mission Month and next Sunday is the day we have set to make our offering for that cause. COME and bring your offering after you have talked to your Heavenly Father about the amount you should give to State Missions. Several have already brought in an offering. If you have, come and worship with us and pray for others who will be making their offering. We will be looking for you and praying for you and expecting you NEXT SUNDAY MORNING AT ELEVEN O'CLOCK.

Joe Wilson, Pastor.

CHANTS from the Chanticleer

It was our great pleasure to meet our good friend and neighbor, Art Drake, on the street one day last week and to have a few minutes visit with him. Although Art lives on the same street with us, it had not been our pleasure to see and visit with him for several weeks past and although he was quite busy, he took time to favor us with a few minutes chat.

Art (sometimes known as A. O. Drake) was quite busy as he almost always is, which is the chief reason we get to see him only at long intervals, he being a handy man as a carpenter, house painter, farmer and concrete and stucco worker. He also does some brick laying, paper hanging and interior decorating, and withal he is always a busy man as his services are in demand. His farm, which is partly within the city limits, he tills himself; he milks a number of dairy cows and fits for the market a large number of hogs each year, and during off seasons on the farm he is busy with his craft work for his neighbors in town, and withal he is a jovial, sociable, likeable man and a good friend and neighbor.

On Monday morning it was our great pleasure to meet our good friend, Judge Harvey Meade, and although we are on the street every day and live only three blocks from Judge, or Squire Meade's home, we had not had the pleasure of meeting him for a fortnight or more. He stated as his reason for not being in town much during the past two or three weeks that he had been busy at painting his own home, building a modern poultry house for his neighbor, Walter Loveless, and other carpenter work for his neighbors in the McMillian-Fergus addition to Friona.

Judge Meade is one of Friona's pioneer citizens and is never too busy to go to the assistance of a farmer in need, as the writer well knows from experience. He has served on the Board of County Commissioners a number of terms, and he has also served on the local Board of School Trustees and has been a leader and dependable helper in his church and his religious views are broad and liberal. He is a good neighbor and a friend in need and gives much of his time for the benefit of his town and community. He is, also, one of the directors of the Friona Cemetery.

Another of our good friends, whom we have the pleasure of meeting but seldom is I. W. Barnhouse, who lives several miles southeast of Friona and a mile and a half east of the Syndicate Hotel. We cannot recall that we have ever met Friend Barnhouse when he was in any other than a jovial and good-natured mood, and this meeting was no exception to that rule. Mr. Barnhouse came here sometime during the late teens or early twenties of the present century. He is a progressive and good farmer, but has been almost continuously hindered by the vicissitudes of the weather in the form of droughts, hail storms and late freezes, yet one never hears him complain.

We also had a short visit with our friend Marvin Whaley who lives in the west part of town. Marvin has one of the nicest homes in Friona, and has it well surrounded by many kinds and varieties of beautiful flowers, some of them pedigreed stock. Mr. Whaley looks and acts as though he is enjoying superb health, and it is hoped he is.

Roy Price came in Wednesday morning with a good sized bunch of photographs taken by him while in France and Germany during World War No. I. These pictures were about 6x8 inches in size, and thus large enough to give one a fair idea of the terrain where some of the large battles of that war were fought. They also showed views of cities that had been torn to pieces by the heavy bombing, some of the trenches and dug-outs that were used by our men in that war; also one of the German "pill boxes". In one of the trench pictures, a German shield was shown lying on top of the trench which Roy had picked up while out doing some scouting. He put it on himself and when he got back in the trench he found that it had been hit by 17 bullets while he was wearing it. The pictures were most interesting and they give one a fair idea of the appearance of the country where those battles were fought. "Babe" Hallmark, who is with the Kerr Paper Company and was here on his business rounds, helped us to view those pictures and listen to Roy's description of them. "Babe" is a mighty fine fellow.

While out on the street for a little while Wednesday morning we met up with Walter Loveless and Will McCoy, and Will informed us that we had been misinformed in regard to the garage, which he was reported to have had built, and that the new garage belongs to Walter instead of himself, and that Walter was so hurt about last week's statement that he will hardly speak to or notice Will since.

Walter stated, however, that if we will clear up that mistaken impression that was given out last week, that he will take Will into his good graces again and all will be forgiven. This we promised to do, and it is very important that it should be done, for Will and Walter are next-door neighbors, and it is necessary that peace reign between them. Therefore, the new garage and poultry house belongs to Walter instead of Will. They are the same buildings mentioned in one of the above paragraphs regarding Judge Meade, and are the ones that were built by him.

Supt. O. B. Ginn of the Friona schools, was just by and stated to us, among other things, that the school is mighty well pleased with the space we are

FARM NEWS from FOOD
YOUR COUNTY AGENT FOR FREEDOM
TEXAS EXTENSION SERVICE

By GARLON A. HARPER County Agent Texas A. & M. Extension Service

Many of the farmers of the county heard E. R. Eudaly, Texas A. & M. College Extension Service Dairy Specialist, last week at the Victory Harvest Show discuss the proper feeding of dairy cattle. For the benefit of those who did not hear that talk and for those who might want to review his discussion we are giving some of the points of his work on feeding dairy cattle. Mr. Eudaly has worked out a system of balancing dairy rations which is so simple that even the busiest farmer can take time to properly balance the ration of his cows. Mr. Eudaly has found that dairy cows in production need 27% protein in the ration so he has taken the figure 27 as a basis on which to work. According to his feeding method the cow is given all the roughage she will eat. The amount of protein in the roughage is subtracted from the figure 27. Then the remainder is the amount of protein the cow must receive in the grain mixture. Then he takes the amount of protein which is contained in the grain he will feed and balances it with the amount of protein in his protein-rich feeds to obtain the correct proportion of cottonseed meal to be fed with the grain.

Let's take an example and see how it works. We will say that we plan to feed hegarl bundles, kaffir grain, and cottonseed meal. First we take the protein content of the hegarl bundles from the figure 27. Since the protein content of hegarl bundles is 7 percent that will leave 20 percent of protein to come from the concentrate mixture. Now kaffir grain is 10 percent protein and cottonseed meal is 43 percent protein. Let's try 200 pounds of grain and 100 pounds of cottonseed meal. From the 200 lbs. of grain we will get 20 lbs. of protein and from the 100 lbs. of cottonseed meal we will get 43 lbs. of protein. Now we have a 300 lb. mixture which contains 63 lbs. of protein, or is 21 percent protein. This is just about close enough to the 20 percent protein which we wanted.

A bulletin which Mr. Eudaly has written explains all this material and gives a lot of other good information on feeding dairy cattle. Come by the office and call for "Feeding and Care of the Dairy Herd", bulletin No. B-69. It will help you in your dairy work.

Summerfield MRS. JIM CLARK Mrs. J. L. Lookingbill and son, Harry went to Carter, Okla. last week where they visited R. N. Lookingbill, a brother of J. L. Lookingbill. There were only 24 in Sunday morning due to the extremely muddy roads. Recent visitors in the M. D. Welty home were a son, Troy Welty, who lives at Shamrock, a daughter, Mrs. Hoot Carmichael, Mr. Carmichael and children and another daughter and family from Melrose.

Mrs. Woodrow Welty and sons returned with the New Mexico visitors to see her brother, Clyde Ramsey, who was home on furlough and her parents. Harry Lookingbill will leave Saturday for Fort Sill to report for Army duty.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Lowery are staying with her daughter, Mrs. J. H. Lindsey, while Mr. Lowry is working at the prison camp. The Study Club met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. B. Lookingbill with Mrs. L. H. Lookingbill and Mrs. Ray Johnson as hostesses. Due to the muddy roads the place of meeting was changed from Mrs. L. H. Lookingbill's to Mrs. L. B. Lookingbill's. Mr. and Mrs. Ky Lawrence left Wednesday to spend a few days in Hot Springs N. M. At a meeting last week of the Cafeteria Board of which Mrs. B. E. Roberson is chairman, it was decided that the board would sponsor a free program and pie supper at the school on Halloween.

Parents and all interested persons turn out for this as the cafeteria must raise some money if it continues to serve lunches at ten cents a plate with the present high food prices. All proceeds of the supper will go to the cafeteria. There will also be a white elephant sale—so if you have some article about your place which you do not use but which some one else might use, bring it wrapped for the sale or send it earlier to the school and the children will wrap it for you. A free program will be given by the school children.

Lieutenant E. B. Thomas arrived Sunday evening to spend three or four days here with his father, C. B. Thomas and his sister Mrs. Ross Royce. Lieutenant Thomas is enroute from Maryland to Los Angeles where he will again join his company. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Kendall moved last week to the A. Lowther place between Summerfield and Hereford. Their son, Joe, dall, recently purchased the farm. We are glad the Kendalls have moved so near our community. We still count them as one of us.

Private Thurman Atchley of Dalhart spent the weekend here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Atchley. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clark received that long looked for letter Sunday from their son Jack Clark, who is in the Pacific war zone with the Marines. Miss Shirley Ruth Thomas was named honoree Monday evening when a group of friends entertained at the home of Mrs. L. H. Lookingbill with a linen and lingerie shower.

Miss Thomas left Tuesday for San Diego, Calif. where she is to be married to Vern Foreman formerly of Stratford. Mr. Foreman is in the U. S. Service. Guests included Mrs. Tandy Legg, Mrs. Laura Shaw, Mrs. M. D. Rexrode, Mrs. J. A. Noland, Mrs. O. B. Sumner, Miss Billie Ray Johnson, Miss Letha Fay Raye, the honor guest, and the hostesses, Mrs. Ray Johnson Mrs. C. B. Thomas, Mrs. Ross Raye, Mrs. L. B. Lookingbill, Mrs. B. E. Roberson, Miss Gertrude Atchley and Mrs. L. H. Lookingbill.

Many sent gifts who did not go because of threatening clouds. Mrs. Charles Noland underwent a major operation last Thursday in the Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo. Her condition Sunday was good. Mr. Noland and his mother, Mrs. J. A. Noland and Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Walser were in Amarillo with Mrs. Noland until Saturday when all but Mr. Noland had returned home.

Bobby Noland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Noland is staying with his aunt Mrs. L. B. Lookingbill. Their daughter, Betty Jean, is with her grandmother Mrs. R. A. Fullwood in Hereford. Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lance who are the proud parents of Carolyn Ann who arrived on October 15th. Mrs. Lance and baby who are in the Deaf Smith County hospital in Hereford are both doing nicely. They will be moved this week to the home of Mrs. Rosa Carl, mother of Mrs. Lance.

Joan and Carol Walser stayed with their grandmother, Mrs. C. R. Walser while their mother Mrs. D. C. Walser was in Amarillo last week. Another daughter, Gloria stayed with her aunt, Mrs. Jim Clark.

Mrs. M. G. Upton of Fort Worth spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Ross Royce and her father, C. B. Thomas. Rev. Upton filled his regular appointment at Wildorado. The Uptons are students this year in the Seminary at Fort Worth. Mike Huckert is stationed at Fort Warren, Wyo. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Huckert were in Amarillo Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Story and daughters of Plainview visited

Last week was marked by its "Oh, let me see. How do you work that theorem proving alternate interior angles are equal?" "What is the meaning of the fourth apparition in 'Macbeth'?"

As usual, when time for exams came, it rained, which only gave time to forget more. Anyway, since it rained so hard last Tuesday and Wednesday part of the school didn't or couldn't get to school and some were late several mornings.

Hollywood Bound

Last Tuesday at noon the Junior class held a voting booth in the hall of the high school to elect Friona High School's most bow-legged, knock-kneed, and pigeon-toed teacher.

Although the competition was great, Mrs. Truitt seemed to have the most ugly legs. She won by a majority. If you have any suggestions as to how she might make her legs more beautiful, please make them to her.

Fern Cunningham Senior Candidate

Do any of you believe in jinx? You know this time of year is the time for black cats and widdies to prowl around—but the seniors of '43 feel that Oct. 19, 1942 is their lucky day because 1942 is the day when they chose Fern Cunningham as their candidate for the Hallowe'en queen.

Girls Start On Cage Practice

If you see several girls who walk like "babies taking their first steps", think nothing of it; basketball season has just started and most of the girls still have that "summer stiffness".

The first few days of practice Coach Williams started the girls off with a brush-up on passing, shooting goals, etc. There are several new girls this year who show promise of being good players.

(Continued from Page 1) way I can show my appreciation is to say "Thanks, Uncle John." I suppose you have heard where I am stationed at the present, I have no idea how long we will be here, and even though I know exactly, it would be impossible to write it in a letter because our letters are censored very closely.

Editor John White, Friona Star, Friona, Texas. Dear Uncle John: I am writing to give you my new address, which is found at the close of this letter. I have been moved twice this past month; first from the 11th Bn. Recreation Hall to the 4th Regimental Chapel. Last week I was moved to the Parish House to act as Adjutant in the office of the Chief, Chaplain's Branch.

In a letter to his father, who has kindly allowed us to use it, Frank tells something about the city of Kodiak and conditions there: "I had a 'Liberty' the other night (Sept. 29) and went into Kodiak to see what the town looked like and to say, later on, that I had been there. The town sure is not much to look at and if one wanted to do it, he could hold his breath and run through the whole town. Friona is a very large city compared to Kodiak. I bought a few things there in town that I couldn't find here on the Base. Believe me things are sure high there. It had been a long time since I had eaten a big steak like I wanted, so I ordered one in a cafe there.

School Shows Patriotism In Its War Projects

Highlights from Grade School

On this beginning of a new six weeks, we are looking forward to every child's coming every day. Best success is achieved when this is done. Monday, Oct. 19, the first grade enjoyed the games of the Reading Readiness Test.

In a flash card game, when Jerry Zachary was asked to say the word on the card, which was "ME", he replied, "It's the last part of 'come'". Richard and Dwayne Baxter had many interesting things to tell about their travel to Colorado last week.

If you would ask a second grader how he spends much of his time, he would say, "Studying Words". pants do drag my tracks out when they finally let us off from work at night? We have put in a pretty hard day and have made a good showing.

Another part of Frank's letter states that he is doing carpenter work and likes it. It also give an idea of how the boys in the service receive their mail. It reads like this: "A ship surely must have come in here recently, from all the mail that has been distributed."

CHAPLAIN HILL WRITES The following letter is from Rev. Lester L. Hill, former pastor of the local Methodist Church, who is now in the Chaplain's branch of the armed service. His many Friona friends will be pleased to hear from him. Fort Bragg, N. C. October 9, 1942

Lost! use the CLASSIFIED

All available strap metal is being collected by the students of the Friona Schools. Each student has been asked to collect an amount equivalent to his or her weight, or more if possible. This scrap will be collected and piled on the school grounds south of the high school building and then sold. The money that is received will be used to buy books for the school libraries.

A brilliant idea of how to make the students of the Friona Public Schools buy more bonds and stamps was revealed as a result of a senior class meeting held recently. They suggested a plan whereby the queen's race will be decided by the class who buys the most defense stamps or bonds. The class who has purchased the most stamps or bonds will have their candidate crowned at the annual Hallowe'en Carnival, which is to be held Oct. 31.

Just another symbol of the patriotism of the students is the fact that the flags which were formerly carried by the band have been placed in the hall and in the study hall. Loyalty to our country is shown by the United States flag which is in the hall beside the door of the study hall, facing the main entrance. The Texas and school flags have been placed in the study hall on each side of the library.

The flags are very beautiful and are made of satin with a shining finish. The flags are all hand made and their brilliant colors add much to the atmosphere of the school. The school flag is composed of a red background on which are the words "Friona High School" in large white letters.

Youth Takes Over

"Students manage the high school for a week! Impossible," you say. But is it impossible? Just stop and think. In practically every large city each year the Boy or Girl Scouts or some similar youth organization is allowed to take over the city government, and the project is always successful. Governing a large city would be much more difficult than managing a school, and the students of Friona are capable of doing either.

The student body would elect their school board by secret ballot and the school board would in turn select the teachers for each class for the coming week after careful consideration of applications made by students wishing to teach. The teachers chosen by the board would make lesson plans, prepare tests, and conduct the class each day for the week. The adult teacher would attend the class in the capacity of a student but would still retain his authority to maintain discipline if necessary.

The entire management, problems, etc., would be in the hands of the students. The experience obtained by the students in this cooperative and very democratic experiment would be invaluable.

This is just a suggestion to the students and teachers of Friona. Nothing definite has been planned and very detailed plans which would probably take almost six weeks would have to be made, and the approval of the school board and faculty would have to be obtained before anything of this sort could be undertaken. And most important of all, the cooperation of each and every student would be necessary. But it is hoped that regardless of what your opinion of this idea may be, you, both students and faculty and outsiders, will offer any advice or comments you may have.
