RED GUARDS TAKE BERLIN

SING "MARSELLAISE" IN STREETS OF CITY AND SHOUT "LONG LIVE THE REPUBLIC"

Crown Prince's Palace Seized By Revolutionists

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 10 (10:12 a. m.)—Severe fighting took place in Berlin between 6 and 8 o'clock last night and a violent cannonade was heard from the heart of the city. The revolution is in full swing in Berlin and the red forces occupy the greater part of the German capital, according to a Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company quoting Berlin advices sent from there at three o'clock this morning.

Many persons were killed and wounded before the officers surrendered. The red forces are in control and have restored order. Strong guards are marching through the streets.

The crown prince's palace has been seized by the revolutionists. The people are shouting "Long live the republic" and are singing the "Marseillaise."

When revolutionary soldiers attempted to enter a building in which they supposed a number of officers were concealed, shots were fired from the windows. The reds then began shelling the building.

When the cannonade began, the people thought the Reichsbank was being bombarded and thousands rushed to the square in front of the Crown Prince's palace. It was later determined that other buildings were under fire.

PEOPLE'S GOVERNMENT INSTITUTED IN BERLIN

By Associated Press.
BERLIN, Nov. 10.—The German people's government has been instituted in the greater part of Berlin. The garrison has gone over to the government. The workmen's and soldiers' council has declared a general strike. Troops and machine guns have been placed at the disposal of the council.

The social democratic party is interfering (?) with the people's government. The guards which had been stationed at the public offices and other buildings have been withdrawn.

Friedrich Ebert (vice president of the social democratic party) is carrying on the chancellorship.

The text of the statement issued by the people's government reads:

"In the course of the forenoon of Saturday the formation of a new German people's government was initiated. The greater part of the Berlin garrison and other troops stationed there temporarily, went over to the new government.

"The leaders of the deputations of the social democratic party declared that they would not shoot against the people. They said they would, in accord with the people's government, intercede in favor of the maintenance of order. Thereupon, in the offices and public buildings the guards which had been stationed there were withdrawn.

"The business of the imperial chancellor is being carried on by the social democratic deputy Herr Ebert.

"It is presumed that apart from the representatives of the recent majority group three independent social democrats will enter the future government."

In an extra edition of the Vorwaerts the central organ of the social democratic party in Germany, the following call for a general strike was published:

"The workmen's and soldiers' council of Berlin has decided upon a general strike. All the factories are at a standstill.

"The necessary administration of the people will be maintained. A large part of the garrison has been disarmed and bodies of troops and machine guns have been placed at the disposal of the workmen's and soldiers' council.

"The movement will be guided in common by the democratic party of Germany and the independent Social democratic party of Germany. The workmen's and soldiers' council will take charge of the maintenance of crowd to keep calm and to avoid incidents.

Deputy Von Tharr and some soldiers spoke from a motor lorry. A delegate from the corps of officers of the guard battalion announced that the officers were on the side of the people. Stormy applause and jubilation accompanied the speeches.

ZURICH, SWITZERLAND, Nov. 10.—Because of the troubles in the German Empire Prince Maximilian of Saxony and all the Bourgeoisie ministers have resigned, says a dispatch from Berlin. Friedrich Ebert, the socialist leader, has been designated as chancellor.

By Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 10.—Field Marshal Haig's forces are closely following up the retreating Germans along the entire front in Flanders. The official statement issued today by the war office announces that the British troops have occupied Faubourg de Bertaimont, on the southern outskirts of Mons, Belgium. The text reads:

"Our advanced forces are keeping in touch with the retreating enemy on the whole front.

"We have occupied the Faubourg de Bertaimont, on the southern outskirts of Mons.

"Further north we are approaching Leuze and have taken Renais. (Renais is about thirty miles west of Brussels.)"

By Associated Press.
PARIS, Nov. 10.—French troops this morning renewed their pursuit of the Germans. The French official statement today says the retreat of the enemy is becoming more and more precipitate. Everywhere along the line the Germans are abandoning great quantities of war materials.

"Our pursuit of the enemy was renewed this morning under favorable conditions.

"West of Mezieres the French passed the Sormonne River and took the village of Bormonne. They reached the Hirson route at Mezieres-Sur-Senoz.

"On the right the French continued to cross the Meuse River between Lumes and Donchery.

"In his retreat which is becoming more and more precipitate the enemy is abandoning everywhere considerable quantities of war material. The French have captured, notably between Anor and Monignies (southwestern Belgium), cannon, numerous vehicles of all kinds and whole railroad trains."

COURIER WILHELM EXPECTED REACHES HOLLAND

(BULLETIN.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—William Hohenzollern has arrived in Holland and is proceeding to the town of Desteeg, near Utrecht, according to a dispatch received by the American army general staff today from The Hague.

(BULLETIN.)
AMSTERDAM, Saturday, Nov. 9.—A message from Cracow announces the formation of a Polish republic under the presidency of Deputy Daszynski.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Unless a revolutionary government in Germany definitely restores authority of the German government, the belief here is that the revolt spreading through the eastern part of the country will not prevent Germany from accepting the armistice conditions.

According to official information the armistice delegation came with full powers and is authorized to sign terms, although it elected to send a courier to the grand headquarters before acting. Moreover, the object of the revolution is assumed to be peace, and it is thought the revolutionaries will not seek to interfere.

If there should be a repudiation of the armistice, or if what is happening in Berlin should delay an answer beyond the time allowed by Marshal Foch, it is thought tomorrow morning the American and Allied armies would advance their advance and hostilities probably would end only through the surrender of individual military units on the field.

HINDENBURG WITNESSES KAISER TAKE MEDICINE

By Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 10.—Emperor William signed a letter of abdication Saturday morning at the German grand headquarters in the presence of Crown Prince Frederick William and Field Marshal Hindenburg, according to a dispatch from Amsterdam to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

The German crown prince signed his renunciation to the throne shortly afterwards.

It is believed that King Ludwig of Bavaria and King Frederick August of Saxony, also abdicated.

The ex-kaiser and the former crown prince were expected to take leave of their troops on Saturday but nothing has been settled regarding their future movements.

Before placing his signature to the document an urgent message from Philipp Scheidemann, who was a socialist member without portfolio in the imperial cabinet was handed to the emperor. He read it with a shiver. Then he signed the paper saying:

"It may be for the good of Germany."

The emperor was deeply moved. He consented to sign the document only when he received the news of the latest events in the empire.

Serious food difficulties are expected in Germany, owing to the stoppage of trains. The council of the regency will take the most drastic steps to re-establish order.

which was tempered by the fear that it had come too late.

Friedrich Ebert, the socialist leader, has been appointed imperial chancellor. He has issued a proclamation saying that he plans to form a people's government which will endeavor to bring about speedy peace.

By Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 10.—Liepzig, the largest city in Saxony, Stuttgart, the capital of Wurttemberg, and Cologne and Frankfurt, have joined the revolution, according to reports from the Danish frontier, telegraphed here by the Copenhagen correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company.

The soldiers' councils at Stuttgart, Cologne and Frankfurt have decided to proclaim a republic.

Schleswig-Holstein, the Prussian province which formerly belonged to Denmark, is to be proclaimed an independent republic, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen.

By Associated Press.
COPENHAGEN, Nov. 10.—According to a frontier message, Princess Heinrich, wife of the grandson of Ludwig III of Bavaria, was wounded in the arm when fired on as she was fleeing from Munich. She and her husband now are in hiding in southern Bavaria with Princess Adalbert, wife of Emperor William's third son.

By Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 10.—A train filled with soldiers has been sent out from Bremen for the purpose of persuading other towns to join the revolution, says a dispatch from the Danish frontier forwarded by the correspondent at Copenhagen of the Exchange Telegraph Company.

KRUPP PLANT TAKEN OVER

By Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 10.—Essen, where the great Krupp steel works are situated, is reported to be in the hands of the revolutionaries, says a dispatch from Amsterdam to the Exchange Telegraph company.

Senator McCollum Of Waco Dies At Austin Saturday

By Associated Press. WACO, TEX., Nov. 9.—The Texas flag over the capitol is at half mast today, honoring the memory of Senator A. R. McCollum of Waco, who died in a sanitarium here, following an operation on his eyes. He was elected state senator in 1915 to fill H. B. Terrell's unexpired term and was re-elected in 1916. The body will be sent to Waco this afternoon.

By Associated Press. WACO, TEX., Nov. 9.—News of the death of Senator A. R. McCollum in Austin this morning spread a pall over the city. The announcement was a surprise to everyone. Mr. McCollum went to Austin last week to have an operation performed on his eyes. He rallied after the operation and was thought to be doing well until the announcement of his death.

PLANS COMPLETE TO CAMPAIGN FOR WAR WORK FUND

DRIVE WILL BEGIN MONDAY MORNING THROUGHOUT COUNTY.

QUOTA HERE IS $45,000

There Will Be No Special Meetings Chair Martin Announced Last Evening.

Wichita Falls is asked for $45,000 for the United War Work Campaign contribution, and it should be an easy matter to raise this money in two or three days if the people at home will think of what they owe the soldiers, and will pay their debt of gratitude by a generous offering to the fund that will help keep up the morale of the soldier when he is thousands of miles away from home and all that it means," said N. H. Martin, chairman of the Wichita county United War Work Campaign, Saturday, in announcing the opening of the campaign in Wichita Falls on next Monday, when the canvass of the downtown section begins. Forty-five thousand dollars is the minimum expected of Wichita Falls, he added, and the city should go far over this amount as a thank offering that the war will soon be over, as now seems probable, or to prepare for any emergency if peace should not come immediately. Mr. Martin stressed the fact that the duty of the people at home to the soldier was not ended when the war was ended, for the men abroad, many of them, will have to remain there for some time, and with the object attained, and no fighting to be done, the absence from home grows more tiresome, and the ministrations of the Y. M. C. A., Salvation Army, Knights of Columbus and the allied war work organizations will be needed quite as much as at present, to keep up the morale of the troops.

No Speakers Required.
There will be no special meetings held in Wichita Falls this coming week to assist in raising the fund, it being the belief of the committee that the city will raise the allotted amount easily, and that no speaker would be needed, so the Dallas bureau will be spared the expense of sending a speaker.
A meeting of the general city committee has been called by Mr. Martin for Monday night in the directors room at the City National Bank and at this time the solicitors for the canvass of the business district will be appointed. The canvass will begin on Tuesday, for the business men, but on Monday the girls and women employed in downtown offices and stores will be called on by members of a special committee from the women's committee to call for the contributions. The business men's canvass will be taken on Tuesday and Wednesday and on Thursday and Friday day the house to house canvass which the women's committee has undertaken as their part of the drive will be held. The school children have their part in the campaign, being organized into Boys and Girls Victory Clubs, and Monday the collection of subscriptions among the children will start in the schools. In this way every part of the city will be covered and individual, regardless of age or condition, will be given an opportunity to contribute to the seven great causes which the United War Work Campaign represents, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the Salvation Army, the Jewish Welfare Board, the National Catholic War Council, the War Camp Community Service and the American Library Association.

Small Subscriptions Encouraged.
The general committee wishes to stress the fact that any contribution, regardless of size, is desired, and the man, woman or child who can give only $1.00 should do this and feel that they have a part in the great work for the soldiers, as well as the man who can write his check for $10.00 and never miss it. This war is a war of the people, every class is in it, very few homes in the entire United States but have their representative, and similarly, every home should be represented in this fund, and the work to the men in the trenches.
The committee has made some appointments, among those whom it feels should be the larger contributors, and the apportionment lists are at the four banks, where contributions can be accepted. Already a number of voluntary subscriptions have been made and the committee hopes that a number of other similar subscriptions will be made on Monday and Tuesday, lessening the work of the canvassers and enabling Wichita Falls to report its work finished, and its quota oversubscribed quickly.
Arrangements have been made for the subscriptions to be paid in three payments. Fifty per cent payments of the subscription may be paid on December 2, twenty-five per cent on January 15, 1919, and twenty-five per cent on March 1, 1919. Wherever possible the committee urges that the subscription be paid in cash, as the money is badly needed by the war work associations represented in the drive, expense being always on the increase.

ODD FELLOWS TO CONFER DEGREE MONDAY NIGHT

The following announcement is requested:
"The Odd Fellows will confer the first degree upon two candidates at their hall, and members and visitors are all urged to be in attendance."
"This lodge is still growing—and has gained in membership for the past several years each year, and the attendance has been fairly good considering conditions, and the absence of many of the members who are now in the service, men who seldom missed a meeting."
"Many members have transferred their membership to this lodge since coming here, and many more are here that have not as yet seen the wisdom of such a move."

THE UNITED WAR WORK CAMPAIGN.

Beginning Monday the 11th and continuing to the following Monday, the 18th, the greatest moral campaign in the history of civilization raising the largest sum of money ever raised for such a purpose will be carried out by the people of this United States.

It is confidently believed by many that some two hundred millions of dollars will be given gladly for the physical, social and spiritual welfare for the men over seas. This mighty campaign is fittingly the closing campaign of this mighty year of our Lord 1918. Victory for our righteous arms against German autocracy is now fully in sight. This glorious triumph of our common cause must be seconded by the United War Work Campaign reaching such a mark in dollars and cents as to startle the whole world. Anything less than this would be unworthy of victory and the peace of Democracy.

A few sharp facts are to be noted. Seven societies have united upon an agreed basis for this campaign. To wit: the Young Men's Christian Association, Young Women's Christian Association, National Catholic War Council (Knights of Columbus), Jewish Welfare Board, War Camp Community Service, American Library Association, and the Salvation Army. These seven organizations, each with its distinctive work have been recognized by the War Department as acceptable for service in maintaining the morale of our fighting forces over seas. President Wilson wisely suggested that such a united campaign be carried out and General Pershing believes that the work of these various agencies is vital for victory. Even stronger than this is the solid unanimous voice of the boys over there who "sweat by" the work and service made possible by our giving over here. If there is any one fact that is of more far reaching importance than any other in this essential work it is this: With the war ended and peace declared the period of demobilization will by long odds present more chances for evil and morale break down to all soldiers than actual warfare.

Authorities are on record affirming that with peace signed it will take fifteen months for Canada to return her men home. We can well imagine how long it will take our army of several times the size of the Canadian to "get back at home". All the excellent work that has been done here in the homeland and yonder across the seas for the men of our armed forces can be more than wiped out by a few months idleness when the war is ended. And we must realize that the work of these organizations must continue on long after war is stopped. Our money given now will safeguard for the good of our homes the honor and health of sons and brothers who with victory won await transports for the old home port. Thus the hum drum period of demobilization will not become the tragic period of demoralization. Wichita County and Wichita Falls will go over the top just as enthusiastically for keeps as our very own Wichita boys did when the call came to "get the Hun" and put him on the run!

American Vessel With Depth Bombs Dangerous Craft

ON BOARD AN AMERICAN DESTROYER in French waters, Oct.—An American destroyer with her depth bombs ready to be discharged is indeed a dangerous craft to monkey with. She is a menace not only to the enemy but to any other craft with which she might collide in the darkness, running without lights and to herself as well. If one of her depth bombs loaded with its heavy charge of TNT should be accidentally exploded there would be little left of the destroyer.

The deadly depth charge which is proving to be the conclusive answer to the submarine menace now is being released from every quarter of the destroyer. Two of these big cylinders of high explosives can be dropped from the bridge by the pressure of a button. Midships Thornycroft throwers drop a charge from either side of the destroyer forming a barrage.

With all these depth bomb charges ready to be let loose forward, aft and amidships a complete enveloping barrage can be put in operation at any time. With the destroyers completely enveloping the transports the water barrage extends its protecting sweep entirely around the fleet. Great care is taken against any collisions in the darkness which would release the depth charges. While the shock of a collision would not cause an explosion the depth charges might destroy its own ship exploding when it reached the depth fixed by the fuse. Such an explosion has actually occurred in one case doing considerable damage but causing no fatalities. This incident has given warning of the extreme care needed to guard against night collisions when the fleet is going through the darkness with all lights out.

OUR TABLOID SERMON

REV. P. G. CROSS

"WHY WAS I BORN?"

Text: "So teach us to number our days that we may get us a heart of wisdom." Psal. 90:12.

Values concern all of us mightily. Man is too prone to value "the passing show"—the things that are of today. The value that you put on life is the sure sign of your wisdom in life. Society has valued property rights at the expense of personal rights. Save the machinery has been the cry rather than save the man. Materialism is at war with manhood. Property far too much has been placed above personality. When the Keokuk dam was being built the removing of the concrete forms revealed the hand of a man cold and hard held in the cement. The cost of wrecking the dam at that place to remove the body was deemed too much, thus the work was valued more than the workman. This has long been one of the curses of civilization. We do well to lend all our abilities to righting this crucial wrong in society.

The cry of man when pain, sorrow and defeat come upon him is often, "O, why was I born?" Youth at times asks this query in a bitter, rebellious spirit. In some sense all of us have a philosophy of life, a working rule by which we move and labor. You may not dignify your thumb-rule of life by the term philosophy, nevertheless no man can live without living by one of five philosophies of life, or a combination of them. Call your philosophy of life, a working theory, a more or less thought-out system of putting bread into your mouth, and clothes onto your back and a roof over your head.

One working theory of life says I was born to get all the pleasure out of life possible. I was born to have a good time, to enjoy myself at any cost. This philosophy has for its rule, "Eat, drink, be merry for tomorrow we die." And its votaries are numbered by the millions. Self is here served at the sacrifice of virtue and honor. Selfish pleasure unguided by the enlightened conscience has dotted this land of ours with the wreckage of lust. This working rule of life has given to us the booze joint and the gambling hell, the brothel and the asylum. It has compelled the night court and created the penitentiary. Harry K. Thaw is a sample of what this philosophy of life can produce in society. Think! If this working theory is right for one it is right for all. If it is good for you men, then it is good for all women.

Another philosophy of life is the antithesis of this for it views this world as an evil world, and argues that man is born into this vale of tears to make ready for life in another world. Here we find the belief that man is bad, and man's world is bad, and the best thing for man to do is to have as little as possible to do with this man's world. This working theory produces your hermit and your monk, your recluse and your pessimist. A fair sample of its products is Simon Stylites, Simop of the Tower, who lived his life high up on a narrow platform aloof and above the ways and walks of all mankind. Let us mark two facts just here: The world of man is just what man makes it. Where man is not evil is not. Your shop, your factory, your store, your community is just what you are. Think again: If it is good for one man, or woman to become a recluse then it is good for all. As a working theory it does not work for the welfare of mankind.

Another philosophy of life declares that man was born to work for others and not for himself; that his days are to be consumed in a round of eat, breakfast, go to work, eat again, work some more, go home, eat again, go to bed, get up and eat and go to work and so on in rat-in-a-cage like manner until death comes to his relief, and man ends his years with a sigh. Such a working theory gives to the world wage slaves. It ordains that poverty is the lot of the great mass of man making man an ambitious being, hopeless and visionless. Thus man is the machine of machines amid the machinery of a heartless world. Think again and where does this find you?

The opposite theory is that man was born to live off the toil of others; to enjoy himself at the expense of others. This is the silk-stocking, the spoon-in-the-mouth theory that has foisted upon the masses the divine right of kings, and the blight of special privilege. The social aristocrats and the snobs of fashion are vain upholders of this philosophy—if indeed I dare use that great word in this connection—of life. As the working theory that makes of man a wage slave produces poverty, so this theory produces plutocracy. Here is seen the two extremes, poverty and plutocracy, that has worked untold harm in American society.

Why was I born can be answered but one way for the welfare of all men. The key to this answer is Jesus Christ and the working theory is His gospel. Thus we can answer this time long query in this manner: I was born to serve society by the development of the best that is within me. I was born to be virtuous, strong, sympathetic, noble, pure and righteous. I am to subdue all that is ugly, unkind, unjust, fractious, lewd and hateful. Washington in his far-well address urged the citizens of the United States of America to make religion, education and public good faith the foundations of their government. So as citizens of this great republic of the golden west we are born to stand for liberty not license, virtue not vice, righteousness not unrighteousness, truth not error, light not darkness. Your life is your answer to this question—Why was I born?

Finland Became a Monarchy Through Fear of Germany

Associated Press Mail Correspondent. COPENHAGEN, Oct. 5.—Finland became a monarchy instead of a republic solely because the Finns yielded to German domination according to a communication from Finnish sources published in the Berlin Vorwaerts. The correspondent asserts that up to April last the Finnish leaders were determined to organize a republic but in May the government withdrew its measure for its organization and advocated a monarchy, giving as its reason the fact that Germany desired it. The Vorwaerts asserts that although the German government pretended to be neutral on this question, the political section of the German general staff supported a monarchy in Finland.

"In reality we were not free," writes the Finnish correspondent, "German troops were quartered throughout Finland and warships lay in Helsingfors harbor. The Finnish foreign minister announced in the Finnish Diet in July that the German government wanted a monarchist government in Finland. The Finnish communication asserts that some of the Finns refuse to recognize a German prince as a king of Finland. The Vorwaerts predicts that a time will come when the German rulers of the new Baltic countries will be packed off home bag and baggage. It asserts that the German people have been kept in ignorance of the developments in Finland and that this has created a dangerous position for Germany in the east.

WAR DEVELOPMENTS

By Associated Press.

Germany has not yet made reply concerning the armistice terms presented by Marshal Foch. It is reported the German courier bound to German headquarters had difficulties in crossing the battle zone and probably was not able to reach Spa until Saturday afternoon.

The first 24 of the 72 hours given Germany have expired and the second 24-hour period is passing rapidly. The red flag of revolution is waving over a continually increasing area of Germany. The revolt has spread from the northwest along the North Sea and Schleswig-Holstein southward into Westphalia, and Cologne, on the Rhine, is reported affected. In Berlin the situation evidently is serious as the banks have stopped payments.

Libertarian French Territory. Field Marshal Haig, General Petain and General Pershing continue the liberation of French territory and further the line from Mons to east of the Meuse. The enemy is retiring all along the front and on the French sectors offers resistance only to protect his rear guards from the advancing French.

On the north the British are pressing on Mons and are advancing east from Maubeuge, the great French fortress. South of Maubeuge, they are within a few miles of the Belgian frontier on a line east of Avesnes. French Pressure Continues. There has been no let-up in the French pressure. The enemy is being instead pushed from the last remnants of French territory between Metz and Hirson and the redemptive of all France north and west of Metziers appears a possibility of the next few hours.

Along the Meuse the Americans are pressing forward from Sedan to the region south of Damvillers. They made progress Saturday at nearly all points on the front of forty miles, driving the Germans rearward toward Montmedy, Longuyon and the border of Luxembourg and Lorraine. West of the Meuse the American first army has advanced thirty miles in the last eight days.

AMERICA IS TO SUPPLY FOOD TO SOUTH EUROPE

PROGRAM IS TO BE UNDER THE DIRECTION OF HERBERT HOOVER.

HURLEY GOING ALSO

Mr. Hoover Will Not Relinquish His Position As Food Administrator Of The U. S.

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Immediate arrangements are to be made by the American and Allied governments for supplying the food necessary for the rehabilitation of the people of northern France and Belgium and the demoralized civilian population in southern Europe.

America's part in the program is to be under direction of Food Administrator Hoover, who organized the commission for relief in Belgium and of which he still is chairman. The state department announced today that President Wilson had requested Mr. Hoover to take charge for the American government in co-operation with the various governments concerned of the organization of measures for the projected food relief and to proceed at once to Europe to begin his task.

Chairman Hurley Going. Mr. Hoover, it was learned, is to be accompanied by Chairman Hurley of the shipping board, who will be able to furnish instant information as to the shipping facilities in Belgium and States can supply. His presence there, it is expected to facilitate the framing of the program as the measure of relief will depend to some extent on the movement of food stores in Australia and other countries where they have accumulated through the lack of tonnage to move them during the war.

The state department's announcement, said the war industries board, the war trade board, the treasury department, the shipping board and the food administration are to aid in the prompt advancement of necessary measures for assisting the feeding of the people in invaded Belgium and northern France. It also said that arrangements are being made by the food administration, the shipping board and the treasury department for the earliest possible dispatch of foodstuffs to the liberated populations in southern Europe.

Announcement is Made. The state department's announcement follows: "President Wilson has requested Mr. Hoover to take charge for the government of the organization of measures for the food relief of the liberated people of Europe and to proceed at once to Europe as the government's special representative and the determination of measures of relief in co-operation with the various governments concerned.

It is necessary to perfect and enlarge the arrangements for foodstuffs to the populations in Belgium and France now being released. These populations have been supported for the last four years by the commission for relief in Belgium under Mr. Hoover's chairmanship, but owing to the difficulties of transportation and distribution of finance and fear of German seizure, the amount of foodstuffs furnished has been the very minimum on which human life could be maintained.

First Measure of Assistance. As the first measure of assistance to Belgium it is necessary to increase immediately the volume of foodstuffs formerly supplied so as to physically rehabilitate this under-nourished population. The relief commission has during the last four years sent to the 16,000,000 people in the occupied area over 600 cargoes of food, comprising 120,000,000 bushels of breadstuffs, and over 3,000,000,000 pounds of other foodstuffs, besides 20,000,000 garments, the whole representing an expenditure of nearly $600,000,000. The support of the commission has come from the Belgian, British, French and American governments, together with public charity. In addition to this, $35,000,000 worth of native produce has been financed internally in Belgium by the relief organization.

"That the maintenance of this relief commission has been necessary is evidenced by the fact that in the same time and under the same conditions the population of Serbia is estimated to have diminished fifty per cent in number, and that of Poland 25 per cent; whereas the population of Belgium, although suffering great privations, is still intact.

Departments Co-Operating. "All the departments of the government are co-operating to support the enlarged program of the relief commission. The war industries board, the shipping board, and food administration are putting their backs to the prompt advancement of necessary measures, for the immediate care of the populations in every direction.

The second portion of Mr. Hoover's mission is to organize and determine the needs of foodstuffs to the liberated populations in southern Europe—the Czechs-Slovaks, the Jugoslavs, the Serbians, Rumanians and others. An adequate food supply will assist the governments set up to maintain order and cohesion in government and to prevent the complete debacle which has taken place in Russia. Arrangements are being made by the food administration, the National Bank of Commerce, and the shipping board for the earliest possible dispatch of foodstuffs to these liberated people and Mr. Hoover will make the necessary arrangements abroad for distribution.

CHIHUAHUA REVOLTS AT MILITARY GOVERNMENT

By Associated Press. EL PASO, Nov. 9.—A movement has been started throughout Chihuahua to organize the civilian and home guard elements against the military, according to information received at the border tonight. The civilian and home guard leaders are aligning themselves with General Ignacio Enriquez, against General Francisco Murguia, military governor. American consuls from the interior of Chihuahua today stated the people are becoming weary of military rule and were threatening to arm and take control of the local military affairs through out the state. A telegram from Chihuahua City today stated General Enriquez had been ordered to accept the city to accept another appointment as civil governor, and General Murguia has been given complete control of the state.

ARE TO IMPROVE 861 GOVERNMENT PLANTS

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—As the result of an investigation showing danger from fire in privately owned buildings where war munitions are manufactured, handled or stored, the war industries board has ordered improvements in 861 plants.

FRANKIE BRNS WINS OVER JOHNNY ERTL

By Associated Press. WEEHAWKEN, N. J., Nov. 9.—Frankie Burns of Jersey City knocked out Johnny Ertle, of St. Paul, in the seventh round of an eight-round match here tonight. The boys weighed in at 121 pounds. The contest was a lively one but Burns, who had the advantage of both height and reach, wore down his man steadily.

FOR CHRONIC RHEUMATISM

Many people who have considered themselves incurable after spending hundreds of dollars on specialists, baths, baking processes, etc., and who have experimented with other remedies, have at length found relief from the tortures of rheumatism by taking Prescription A-2851—a time tested remedy free from opiates or narcotic drugs, in use for 5 years. Prescription A-2851 is for sale at all druggists.

REVOLUTION IN BULGARIA LEAD BY CURT EISNER

By Associated Press. MUNICH, Nov. 9.—Curt Eisner, a Munich newspaper man and prominent in socialist circles is the leader of the revolution which has broken out in the Bavarian capital. It appears from information received here. Some reports designate him as president of the Bavarian republic which has been proclaimed.

Eisner, the advices add, has organized a committee consisting of workmen, soldiers and peasants in many respects similar to a Russian soviet. Eisner is a newspaper man on the Munich Post. He first came to public attention in 1905 as a gifted speaker at socialist meetings. He is about 45 years old. He has not held public office.

Eisner was arrested some time ago for having published the Jagd on Germany on July 28, 1914, was mobilizing her army. He was released after serving sentence lasting until 15 years ago.

MEMPHIS GAS AND LIGHT PLANT AGAIN DAMAGED

By Associated Press. MEMPHIS, TENN., Nov. 9.—The bursting of a steam feed pipe at the plant of the Memphis Gas and Electric Company early today, the second accident of its kind within two weeks, put the plant virtually out of commission for a few hours here today and led to a report that a serious explosion had occurred. It was stated later, however, that aside from wrecking some machinery essential to the running of the plant the damage was small.

Senator McCollum Of Waco Dies At Austin Saturday

By Associated Press. AUSTIN, TEX., Nov. 9.—The Texas flag over the capitol is at half mast today, honoring the memory of Senator McCollum of Waco, who died today. Senator McCollum died in a sanitarium here, following an operation on his eyes.

It was elected state senator in 1915 to fill H. B. Terrell's unexpired term and was re-elected in 1916. The body will be sent to Waco this afternoon.

BURIAL AT WACO

By Associated Press. WACO, TEX., Nov. 9.—News of the death of Senator A. R. McCollum in Austin this morning spread a pall over the city. The announcement was a surprise to everyone. Mr. McCollum went to Austin last week to have an operation performed on his eyes. He rallied after the operation and was thought to be doing well until the announcement of his death.

Senator McCollum was born in Camden, Arkansas, 99 years ago. He came to Waco in 1875 and has since resided here, having been connected in an editorial capacity with a number of newspapers. The body will arrive here this evening.

PROTEST AGAINST GERMAN TROOPS CROSSING BORDER

By Associated Press. AMSTERDAM, Nov. 9.—German troops have crossed the Austrian frontier into Tyrol and Salzburg. The Vienna Neue Freie Presse, reporting the presence of the Germans in Tyrol, says that the Austro-Hungarian supreme command has protested to Berlin against the passage of Germans through Austrian territory and that the Austro-Hungarian government will also protest on the ground that the armistice concluded with the entente powers and the United States might be endangered thereby.

Under existing circumstances, it is added, Austria-Hungary is powerless to hinder the movement, by which Austrian territory might become a war theatre.

The Bavarian war minister recently informed the Tyrol authorities that a considerable number of Bavarian troops would march to the northern Tyrol frontier as a guard, doubtless fearing an attack by the entente from this direction which would threaten Munich and other important Bavarian cities.

PLANS COMPLETE TO CAMPAIGN FOR WAR WORK FUND

DRIVE WILL BEGIN MONDAY MORNING THROUGHOUT COUNTY.

QUOTA HERE IS $45,000

There Will Be No Special Meetings Chair Martin Announced Last Evening.

Wichita Falls is asked for $45,000 for the United War Work Campaign contribution, and it should be an easy matter to raise this money in two or three days if the people at home will think of what they owe the soldiers, and will pay their debt of gratitude by a generous offering to the fund that will help keep up the morale of the soldier when he is thousands of miles away from home and all that it means. Mr. H. H. Martin, chairman of the Wichita county United War Work Campaign, Saturday, in announcing the opening of the campaign in Wichita Falls on next Monday, when the canvass of the downtown section begins. Forty-five thousand dollars is the minimum expected of Wichita Falls, he added, and the city should go far over this amount as a thank offering that the war will soon be over, as now seems probable, or to prepare for any emergency if peace should not come immediately. Mr. Martin stressed the fact that the duty of the people at home to the soldier was not ended when the war was ended for the men abroad, many of them, will have to remain there for some time, and with the object attained, and no fighting to be done, the absence from home will grow more irksome, and the ministrations of the Y. M. C. A., Salvation Army, Knights of Columbus and the allied war work organizations will be needed quite as much as at present, to keep up the morale of the troops.

No Speakers Required.
There will be no special meetings held in Wichita Falls this coming week to assist in raising the fund, it being the belief of the committee that the city will raise the allotted amount easily, and that no speaker would be needed, so the Dallas bureau will be spared the expense of sending a speaker.
A meeting of the general city committee has been called by Mr. Martin for Monday night in the directors room at the City National Bank and at this time the solicitors for the canvass of the business district will be appointed. The canvass will begin on Tuesday for the business men, but on Monday the girls and women employed in downtown offices and stores will be called on by members of a special committee from the women's committee to call for the contributions. The business men's canvass will be taken on Tuesday and Wednesday and on Thursday and Friday the house to house canvass which the women's committee has undertaken as their part of the drive will be held. The school children have their part in the campaign, being organized into Boys and Girls Victory Clubs, and Monday the collection of subscriptions among the children will start in the schools. In this way every part of the city will be covered and every individual, regardless of age or condition, will be given an opportunity to contribute to the seven great causes which the United War Work Campaign represents, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the Salvation Army, the Jewish Welfare Board, the National Catholic War Council, the War Camp Community Service and the American Library Association.

Small Subscriptions Encouraged.
The general committee wishes to stress the fact that any contribution, regardless of size, is desired, and the man, woman or child who can give only $1.00 should do this and feel that they have part in the great work for the soldiers, as well as the man who can write his check for $10.00 and never miss it. This war is a war of the people, every class is in very few homes in the entire United States but have their representative, and similarly, every home should be represented in this fund, to take home to the men in the trenches.

The committee has made some apportionments, among those whom it feels should be the larger contributors, and the apportionment lists are at the four banks, where contributions can be accepted. Already a number of voluntary subscriptions have been made and the committee hopes that a number of other similar subscriptions will be made on Monday and Tuesday, the 11th and 12th, and the city's quota should be quickly reached. Arrangements have been made for the subscriptions to be paid in three payments. Fifty per cent payments of the subscription may be paid on January 15, 1919, and twenty-five per cent on March 1, 1919. Wherever possible the committee urges that the subscription be paid in cash, as the money is badly needed by the war work associations represented in the drive, expense being always on the increase.

ODD FELLOWS TO CONFER DEGREE MONDAY NIGHT

The following announcement is requested:
The Odd Fellows will confer the first degree upon two candidates at their hall, and members and visitors are all urged to be in attendance.
This lodge is still growing, and has gained in membership for the past several years each year, and the attendance has been fairly good considering conditions, and the absence of many of the members who are now in the service, men who seldom missed a meeting.
Many members have transferred their membership to this lodge since coming here, and many more are here that have not as yet seen the wisdom of such a move.

U. S.

No two letters carry more meaning to the eye of man than U. S. Certainly the war has brought out the hidden meaning as well as added meaning to these letters. In more than one world quarter U. S. meant just Uncle Sam, and this benign, easy personage of the imagination was twisted and flouted to the merry delight of the Old World and at times the disgust of the New World. In all of this there was displayed an ignorance of Uncle Sam, and his ideals and institutions that boded no good for the welfare of all those dwelling under this pall of ignorance. Perhaps in a mind or two this ignorance was only a subterfuge covering a biting realization that the rights, lights and benefits enjoyed by Uncle Sam meant death to the divine right of kings and the might of special privilege. Today we are thrilled with the glorious spectacle of long crushed peoples turning to Uncle Sam for leadership and light in the divine right of self-government.

Just as U. S. means Uncle Sam so it also means Unselfish Service, China and Cuba know to their joy and lasting good the Unselfish Service of Uncle Sam. To these by the logic of events now are added England and France, Italy and Belgium, Serbia and Rumania. And the hurrying days of victory will further add to this sacred circle of national fellowship the various Slav nationalities. By the very force of its meaning in the ultimate outcome this U. S. business shall bring even to the long deluded people of Germany a blessing. Certainly Germany need fear no unjust treatment at the hands of Uncle Sam. Just here it may be noted fully, clearly and in no uncertain manner that U. S. for all the forces of evil and unrighteousness means Unconditional Surrender. Believing as we U. S. people believe that right makes might, that good shall overcome evil everywhere, and that truth crushed to earth shall rise again, there can be no other outcome for Germany or any other nation than Unconditional Surrender. Evil does may well tremble before this U. S. All others can well rejoice and be glad because of this U. S.

U. S. also means United Strength such a strength as no nation in all the history of man has ever dreamed of having. With the dove of peace presenting its wings for the final flight that shall silence the dogs of war the United Strength of the Unselfish Service of Uncle Sam has hardly been touched. But a tithe of the moral power, the money power, the moral power of the U. S. has been utilized in this present war of the nations. Gigantic as may seem the work and fighting we have done yet in all candor and before God without any boast, we are just getting started. The memorable words of one of our citizens of sacred memory apply here, "We are just beginning to fight." The nations of earth do well to thank Almighty God that the U. S. means what it does, and stands for what it does.

Finally U. S. means United States, free states of their own free will and accord united and welded by blood and fire into one mighty nation whose symbol is Old Glory, the Stars and Stripes forever! This nation made up of many in one affirms its trust in God, and declares to all mankind the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness with no taxation without representation, and equal rights for all and special privileges for none. U. S. Uncle Sam. Unconditional Surrender. Unselfish Service. United Strength. U. S. equal the United States of America to the Glory of God and the salvation of man.

THE UNITED WAR WORK CAMPAIGN

Beginning Monday the 11th and continuing to the following Monday, the 18th, the greatest moral campaign in the history of civilization raising the largest sum of money ever raised for such a purpose will be carried out by the people of this United States. It is confidently believed by many that some two hundred millions of dollars will be given gladly for the physical, social and spiritual welfare for the men over seas. This mighty campaign is fittingly the closing campaign of this mighty year of our 1918. Victory for our righteous arms against German autocracy is now fully in sight. This glorious triumph of our common cause must be seconded by the United War Work Campaign reaching such a mark in dollars and cents as to stifle the whole world. Anything less than this would be unworthy of victory and the peace of Democracy.

A few sharp facts are to be noted. Seven societies have united upon an agreed basis for this campaign, to wit: the Young Men's Christian Association, Young Women's Christian Association, National Catholic War Council (Knights of Columbus), Jewish Welfare Board, War Camp Community Service, American Library Association, and the Salvation Army. These seven organizations, each with its distinctive work have been recognized by the War Department as acceptable for service in maintaining the morale of our fighting forces over seas. President Wilson wisely suggested that such a united campaign be carried out and General Pershing believes that the work of these various agencies is vital for victory. Even stronger than this is the solid unanimous voice of the boys over there who "sweat by" the work and service made possible by our giving over here. If there is any one fact that is of more far reaching importance than any other in this essential work it is this: With the war ended and peace declared the period of demobilization will by long odds present more chances for evil and morale break down to all soldiers than actual warfare.

Authorities are on record affirming that with peace signed it will take fifteen months for Canada to return her men home. We can well imagine how long it will take our army of several times the size of the Canadian to "get back at home!" All the excellent work that has been done here in the homeland and yonder across the seas for the men of our armed forces can be more than wiped out by a few months idleness when the war is ended. And we must realize that the work of these organizations must continue on long after war is stopped. Our money given now will safeguard for the good of our homes the honor and health of sons and brothers who with victory won await transports for the old home port. Thus the hum drum period of demobilization will not become the tragic period of demoralization. Wichita County and Wichita Falls will go over the top just as enthusiastically for keeps as our very own Wichita boys did when the call came to "get the Hun" and put him on the run!

American Vessel With Depth Bombs Dangerous Craft

ON BOARD AN AMERICAN DESTROYER in French waters, Oct. 29, an American destroyer with her depth bombs ready to be discharged is indeed a dangerous craft to monkey with. She is a menace not only to the enemy but to any other craft with which she might collide in the darkness, running without lights and to herself as well. If one of her depth bombs exploded with its heavy charge of TNT should be accidentally exploded there would be little left of the destroyer. The daily depth charge which is proving to be the conclusive answer to the submarine menace now is being released from every quarter of the destroyer. Two of these big cylinders of high explosive can be dropped from the bridge by the pressure of a button. Midships Thornycroft throwers drop a charge from either side of the destroyer forming a barrage. "Y-guns" are stationed amidship with two barrels, each of which throws a depth charge into port and to the other to starboard. Finally astern, there are two long lines of depth charges running on miniature railway tracks, ready to be dropped over the stern. With all these depth bomb charges ready to be let loose forward, aft and amidships a complete enveloping barrage can be put in operation at any time. With the destroyers completely enveloping the transports the water barrage extends its protecting sweep entirely around the fleet. Great care is taken against any collisions in the darkness which would release the depth charges. While the shock of a collision would not cause an explosion the depth charges might destroy the vessel exploding when it reached the depth fixed by the fuse. Such an explosion has actually occurred in one case doing considerable damage but causing no fatalities. This incident has given warning of the extreme care needed to guard against night collisions when the fleet is going through the darkness with all lights out.

OUR TABLOID SERMON

REV. F. G. CROSS

"WHY WAS I BORN?"

Text: "So teach us to number our days that we may get us a heart of wisdom." Psa. 90:12. Values concern all of us mightily. Man is too prone to value "the passing show"—the things that are of today. The value that you put on life is the sure sign of your wisdom in life. Society has valued property rights off at the expense of personal rights. Save the machinery has been the cry rather than save the man. Materialism is at war with manhood. Property far too much has been placed above personality. When the Keokuk dam was being built the removing of the concrete forms revealed the hand of a man cold and hard held in the cement. The cost of wrecking the dam at that place to remove the body was deemed too much, thus the work was valued more than the workman. This has long been one of the curses of civilization. We do well to lend all our abilities to righting this crucial wrong in society.

The cry of man when pain, sorrow and defeat come upon him is often, "O, why was I born?" Youth at times asks this query in a bitter, rebellious spirit. In some sense all of us have a philosophy of life, a working rule by which we move and labor. You may not dignify your thumb-rule of life by the term philosophy, nevertheless no man can live without living by one of five philosophies of life, or a combination of them. Call your philosophy of life, a working theory, a more or less thought out system of putting bread into your mouth, and clothes onto your back and a roof over your head.

One working theory of life says I was born to get all the pleasure out of life possible. I was born to have a good time, to enjoy myself at any cost. This philosophy has for its rule, "Eat, drink, be merry for tomorrow we die." And its votaries are numbered by the millions. Self is here served by the sacrifice of virtue and honor. Selfish pleasure unguided by the enlightened conscience has dotted this land of ours with the fruitage of lust. This working rule of life has given to us the booze joint and the gambling hell, the brothel and the asylum. It has compelled the night court and created the penitentiary. Harry K. Thaw is a sample of what this philosophy of life can produce in society. Think! If this working theory is right for one it is right for all. If it is good for you men, then it is good for all women.

Another philosophy of life is the antithesis of this for it views this world as an evil world, and argues that man is born into this vale of tears to make ready for life in another world. Here we find the belief that man is bad, and man's world is bad, and the best thing for man to do is to have as little as possible to do with

Associated Press Mail Correspondent. COPENHAGEN, Oct. 5.—Finland became a monarchy because the Finns yielded to German domination according to a communication from Finnish sources published in the Berlin Vorwaerts. The correspondent asserts that up to April last the Finnish leaders were determined to organize a republic but in May the government withdrew the measure for its organization and advocated a monarchy, giving as its reason the fact that Germany desired it. The Vorwaerts asserts that although the German government pretended to be neutral on this question, the political section of the German general staff supported a monarchy in Finland. "In reality we were not free," writes the Finnish correspondent, "German troops were quartered throughout Finland and ships lay in Helsingfors harbor. The Finnish foreign minister announced in the Finland Diet in July that the German government wanted a monarchist government in Finland. The Finnish communication asserts that some of the Finns refuse to recognize a German prince as a king of Finland. The Vorwaerts predicts that a time will come when the German rulers of the new Baltic countries will pack off home bag and baggage. It asserts that the German people have been kept in ignorance of the developments in Finland and that this has created a dangerous position for Germany in the east.

WAR DEVELOPMENTS

By Associated Press. Germany has not yet made reply concerning the armistice terms presented by Marshal Foch. It is reported the German courier bound to German headquarters had difficulties in crossing the battle zone and probably was not able to reach Spa until Saturday afternoon.

The first 24 of the 72 hours given Germany have expired and the second 24-hour period is passing rapidly. The red flag of revolution is waving over a continually increasing area of Germany. The revolt has spread from the northwest along the North Sea and Schleswig-Holstein southward into Westphalia, and Cologne, on the Rhine, is reported affected. In Berlin the situation evidently is serious as the bghks have stopped payments.

Liberating French Territory. Field Marshal Haig, General Petain and General Pershing continue the liberation of French territory and further advances have been made all along the line from Mons to east of the Meuse. The enemy is retiring all along the front and on the French sectors offers resistance only to protect his rear guards from the advancing French.

On the north the British are pressing on Mons and are advancing east from Maubeuge, the great French fortress. South of Maubeuge, they are within a few miles of the Belgian frontier on a line east of Avesnes. French Pressure Continues. There has been no let-up in the French pressure. The enemy is being incessantly pushed from the last remnants of French territory between Metz and Hirson and the redemption of all France north and west of Metz appears a possibility of the next few hours.

Along the Meuse the Americans are pressing forward from Sedan to the region south of Damvillers. They made progress Saturday at nearly all points on the front of forty miles, driving the Germans rearward toward Montmedy, Lougny and the border of Luxembourg and Lorraine. West of the Meuse the American first army has advanced thirty miles in the last eight days.

BRING IN GOOD PRODUCER NEAR SUNSHINE HILL

Drilling in territory which was considered practically condemned by reason of several dry holes drilled some time ago, Leach Brothers brought in a well which is reported good for from 200 to 300 barrels for the Charlie Oil and Gas Company on the Mollie Eeds farm, about a quarter of a mile from Sunshine Hill, to the south. The sand was drilled in at 1645 feet, a new depth for this section. This well is not far from the Sunshine Slope well, on the Goetze farm. This latter well which is being drilled by Wichita Falls capitalists is now down 345 feet, and it is expected the 100 foot sand will be tested out. A sand at 420 feet was tested last week and found good for about 40 barrels, but the company decided to go on in search of a deeper sand, the indications being considered so promising. The Sunshine Slope Oil Company has a lease of 50 acres on the Goetze farm. A number of Wichita Falls men, several of them residents of the Sunshine Slope Company, Saturday purchased a lease on 75 acres of the K. T. Goetze farm, on the strength of the new well. The price paid was $5,250. Mr. Goetze retaining an eleven percent interest in the lease, and the customary eighth royalty. Immediate development of this new lease is forecast.

Bar Association Pays Tribute To Lieut. Carrigan

The following resolution on the death of Lieutenant Alfred Carrigan, in action in France on October 7, was passed Saturday by the Wichita County Bar Association: "Be it remembered that at a called meeting of the Wichita Falls Bar Association, held on this day at the courthouse, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted and ordered spread upon the minutes of the district court: "Whereas, the members of this Bar have learned that Lieutenant Alfred Carrigan, son of Judge A. H. Carrigan, long an honored member of this Bar, has fallen in battle in France, while heroically leading his company in a charge not less famous than that of Bellechive; "Therefore, be it resolved that this association does hereby tender to Judge A. H. Carrigan and his family its tenderest sympathy and its assurance that we grieve with them. "We would remind Lieutenant Carrigan's loved ones that the Lieutenant, though but at the beginning of life's morning, was permitted to act his heroic part in the mightiest effort humanity has ever made for liberty and justice, and that he died triumphant in the knowledge that his efforts were not in vain. Ever glorious must be the page of the world's history that shall bear witness to the work of such a man, and of the work of such a man, will be known and honored for all ages, and by the people of all times and tribes. He has done what he could, and all that he could to bring peace on earth, good will to men. Could he have lived more gloriously? No. Could he have died in a more holy cause? No. "Then we instruct our sorrows to be loaned to us for a season, but was loaned to us for a season, but belongs to God."

Arthur Middleton Has a Remarkable Musical Career

Arthur Middleton, of the Metropolitan Opera Co., who is to appear in concert here at the high school auditorium on Dec. 10, has a remarkable record which has been briefly reviewed in the following sketch of his career: Arthur Middleton, the eminent bass-baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Co., was born at Logan, Ia., and is an alumnus of Simpson College at Indianola. He began his career as a church singer at 14 while attending college, and made his first appearance as an oratorio singer at 15. So pronounced was Mr. Middleton's success as a singer of oratorio that he was called to the Third Presbyterian church of Chicago as a soloist. After a number of years at this church he was retained by the Oak Park Presbyterian church—the highest paid church position in Chicago—which York to join the Metropolitan Opera Co. He was soloist on two tours with the New York Symphony Orchestra, Walter Damrosch, conductor; three tours with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, Emil Oberholfer conductor, and appeared with unqualified success as soloist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, the St. Paul Symphony, the Pittsburgh Symphony and the new Philharmonic Orchestra, Josef Stransky conductor. The popularity of this excellent singer is indicated by the fact that he has appeared over 200 times in the Messiah and 150 times in the Elijah. His concert list, which has carried him over 100,000 miles, into every state of the Union, Mr. Middleton is purely an American product having never been abroad, the late Alexander Cassile, master builder and coach, being his only teacher. Before joining the Metropolitan Opera Co., Arthur Middleton was one of the big drawing cards at the spring and fall festivals of the states of Canada. The Apollo Club of Chicago engaged Mr. Middleton for twelve consecutive times, a distinction recorded no other singer and there are many other important organizations in the Middleton list.

LOCAL FOOTBALL TEAM TO PLAY CHILLICOTHE

The local high school football team will meet the Chillicothe team on the local field on Friday afternoon of this week, it was announced Saturday. After last week's success and another week of hard training, culminating in a contest between the first and second teams on Friday afternoon, the local eleven is anxious for the game and confident of success. The game Friday afternoon, in which the second team was assisted by outside players, resulted in a defeat for the first team, the score standing 12-6.

DIVORCES ARE GRANTED BY DISTRICT COURTS

Mrs. Della Goetze was granted a divorce in the 7th district court Friday from K. T. Goetze. Mrs. Goetze received $5,000 cash in settlement of her interests in all property. She is to have the custody of their two children ten months in the year. Mrs. Winn Clark was granted a divorce in the 15th district court Friday from H. Paul Clark. She was given the custody of the minor children.

NO SUSPENSION OF DRAFT CALLS SAYS THE BOARD

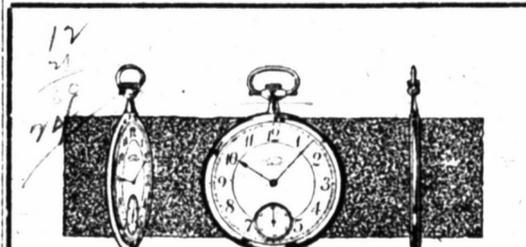

In order that registrants who have already been called to report for service this month, may not have any misunderstanding regarding their situation, even if the November drafts are called off, George Thorburn of the local board stated Saturday night that the fact that these calls are October calls should be borne in mind. No November calls have been issued yet, the present calls being those which should have come in October, but were delayed by the influenza epidemic. About three hundred men have been called to report today, part of them to be sent to Camp Bowie Monday and the remainder to Camp Travis or Fort Crockett on Thursday. There has been no intimation to the local board that the calls have been suspended, but this announcement is made, Mr. Thorburn states, to keep any who might have been excited by the press reports that the provost marshal general was to consider calling off the drafts, from getting the idea that the need for drafted men is past.

BREVITIES

PREMIER HUGHES OF AUSTRIA IS PROTESTING PEACE

SAYS HIS COUNTRY WAS NOT CONSULTED IN PREPARATION OF TERMS.

REASONS ARE ASSIGNED

Wants Privilege to Discriminate Between Friends and Foes, He Says.

By Associated Press. LONDON, Thursday, Nov. 7.—Premier Hughes, of Australia, made a bitter protest against the peace terms tonight in addressing the Australian Club.

"We were launched into this war without being consulted," the premier declared, "and now the terms of peace have been drawn up and we have not been asked to express our views before."

He particularly objected that Australia should be prevented from making her own laws which would enable her to discriminate between friends and foes in tariffs.

"I cannot say what the other dominions will do, but nothing is further from the thoughts of the Australian people than to extend the same treatment to Germany in regard to tariffs and economic arrangements after the war as to France, Belgium, Italy and nothing but force majeure will compel us to do it," he continued.

"This clause takes from us one of the most vital of our sovereign powers, and in the name of the people of Australia, I emphatically protest against it."

Premier Hughes protested also that there was no provision in the treaty for indemnities with which to relieve Australia from a crushing war debt nor a provision for the retention of the territorial integrity of Austria is forever menaced.

SHIP STRIKES A MINE AND SINKS NEAR MARYLAND

OCEAN CITY, MD., Nov. 9.—Twenty minutes after striking what is believed to have been a mine, the American steamer Saetta, a 6,000-ton tramp, sank 25 miles off shore here at 9:05 a. m. today.

Thirty-seven members of the crew are missing and 47 men were landed here shortly after 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The sinking of the ship was preceded by an explosion a few minutes after 5 o'clock. A few minutes later two more violent explosions followed. Although the ship was light, having just left an American convoy off the Delaware Capes, she went down within twenty minutes, according to her master, Captain Lynch.

DISCOUNT OPERATIONS CONTINUE TO INCREASE

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Information received tonight by the navy department indicated that all of the crew of the American steamer Saetta escaped before the vessel sank this morning off the Delaware coast, presumably after striking a mine.

An announcement by the department said seven officers and 40 men had been landed at coast guard station No. 146 on the Delaware coast and that 27 or 28 men, all the remainder of the crew, had gotten away in boats.

By Associated Press. LONDON, Nov. 9.—In their advance north of the Danube and the Save, the Serbian troops entered Moldava, Barlas, Kubin, Panchova, Semlin, Kienak and Mitrovitz, according to a Serbian official statement received here.

The provisional government of Sarajevo, Bosnia, has invited the Serbian troops to come to its assistance, the statement adds.

CONDITIONS OF ARMISTICE ARE BEING CARRIED OUT

By Associated Press. ROME, Nov. 9.—"No war event is reported on the Italian front," says the war office statement issued under Friday's date. "The conditions of the armistice are being carried out."

LAST OF GERMAN ARTERIES TO WEST FRONT IS SEVERED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Capture of Mauthausen by the British General March said today, marks the definite severance of the last German artery to that sector of the west front and will make it impossible for the enemy to shift his forces to meet a new attack.

Summarizing the Allied successes since the inauguration of the offensive movement, General March pointed out that the Germans have been driven sixty four miles further from Paris and the territory they occupy in France has been reduced from 10,000 square miles to less than 2,500.

The American first army under General Pershing has advanced thirty miles in the last eight days.

American divisions operating with the British in Flanders were identified as the 37th (Ohio) under Major General C. S. Farnsworth and the 91st (Pacific Coast, Alaska, Wyoming, Montana, Nevada and Utah) under Major General W. H. Johnson.

The publication of the erroneous announcement of the armistice as "very bad" for the military program of the United States. For instance, he said, in New York, the stevedores who were engaged in loading very essential supplies for the expeditionary forces, stopped work and did not return at all on that day or the next day, and army food shipments were thus delayed.

Army to Remain in France. In commenting on this incident, the chief of staff made the statement that the American army will be in France for some time even when peace is declared.

The re-organization of the American expeditionary force into two field armies has resulted in several changes in corps commanders. These include the following: First corps, Major General Joseph Hickman, Second corps, Major General George W. Reed, Third corps, Major General L. J. Hines, Fourth corps, Major General Charles H. Muir, Fifth corps, Major General C. P. Summerall, Sixth corps, Major General William M. Wright, Seventh corps, Major General Charles H. Mencher.

Individual Units. In reply to questions concerning individual units, the chief of staff announced that the 351st aero squadron was an artillery observation school in France; the 346th machine gun battalion was in Utah; the 91st division artillery brigade was at Clermont-sur-Aisne at last reports; the 164th field artillery brigade, originally with the 88th division in action in Flanders; the 41st division (Pacific Coast, Montana, Idaho and Wyoming) still is acting as a replacement unit.

Lack of buying support remained evident throughout the session. The close was heavy, 2 to 4 cents net lower with December 11.17 1/2, to 11.17 1/4, and January 11.19 1/4, to 11.19 1/4.

Subsequently a partial rally took place owing to liberal shipments oflard.

Market Report

Cotton Market

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—After showing net advances following the opening of about 2 1/2 to 4 points there was some irregularity as a result of realizing but the undertone was steady and the best prices of the morning were touched in the late trading with December selling at 29.50 and January 28.55 or 43 to 48 points net higher. The close was slightly off from the best with the market steady at a net advance.

New Orleans Cotton. NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—Liquidation of long contracts caused a fall of 22 to 25 points in the price of cotton around the opening today, but the market met support on the way down and a quick recovery came about. At the end of the first half hour of auction the active months were 21 to 30 points over yesterday's close.

Buying increased on the belief that important political events were bound to occur over Sunday and that they would be favorable to cotton. Late in the session prices were 34 to 40 points up net.

Cotton closed steady at an advance of 27 to 37 points.

Grain Market

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Commission houses today appeared to lean to selling side of the corn market and there was a consequent weakening of prices. Reports that an armistice with Germany would be quickly brought about formed the chief bearish influence.

Opening quotations which ranged from 1 1/2 cent lower with December 1.19 1/4, to 1.19 1/4, and January 1.20 1/4, to 1.20 1/4, were followed by a slight rally and then by a fresh setback.

Oats duplicated the changes in corn. Trade was light. After opening unchanged to 1/2 cent lower with December 70 to 70 1/2, the market receded moderately all around.

Provisions were dull and easier. Weakness of grain and hogs operated as a weight on values.

Lack of buying support remained evident throughout the session. The close was heavy, 2 to 4 cents net lower with December 11.17 1/2, to 11.17 1/4, and January 11.19 1/4, to 11.19 1/4.

Subsequently a partial rally took place owing to liberal shipments oflard.

New York Stocks

By Associated Press. NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Foreign news furnished the basis for much of the activity and intermittent strength shown by today's stock market. Trading concentrated to an unusual degree in motors and copper although rails were active as a group with some of the leading equipments and specialties which were firm to strong.

Noteworthy exceptions to the higher trend embraced Southern Pacific, Marine preferred, Sumatra Tobacco and oils, Mexican Petroleum showing marked heaviness. The closing was steady. Sales approximated 40,000 shares.

The bond market was strong. French municipals again featuring the international group.

Specialties and kindred stocks dominated by professional interests were the conspicuous features at the strong opening of today's brief session, gaining 1 to 2 1/2 points. Leaders in the movement included Mexican Petroleum, Baldwin Locomotive, Studebaker, Chandler Motors, American Can and Wilson Packing, United States Steel made a large fractional advance, part of which was immediately forfeited.

Coalers were most dominant among rails, notably Reading and Baltimore and Ohio General Motors, Texas Company and Peoples gas were moderately heavy.

ABDICATION OF EMPEROR WILLIAM MARKS PASSING OF MODERN WAR LORD

A dream of world dominion obsessed the mind of Emperor William plunged the world into war. Upon him and the tremendous military engine of destruction of which he was the embodiment, the responsibility of the leader rests the responsibility of deliberately planning and bringing about the greatest conflict the world has ever known.

It did not matter to the world that the Emperor's personal share in the swift events immediately preceding the war had been obscured. The world convicted him of organizing, directing and maintaining at the top notch of efficiency the great German military machine. It remembered that he signed the order for the German mobilization. It remembered that he was the sponsor for the terrorism and brigandage which, under the guise of warfare, ravished Belgium, laid waste the cities of France, deported and outraged Serbia and sent the Lusitania with her freight of women and children to a grave in the Atlantic.

Civilization will never forget that it was the whimsy of the Emperor who officially shot to death Edith Cavell the English girl who befriended the Belgians in Brussels.

Against those his cry "I did not will the war" availed as nothing. Before the bar of humanity William was adjudged guilty of the greatest crime since the crucifixion. In his judgment he saw the last of the autocrats, the final Caesar. Assertions that he was at heart peaceful, so persistently circulated for years as to give them the stamp of German propaganda, became branded as certainly false. He who had long proclaimed himself the prince of peace stood revealed as humanity's scourge and aggressor.

His Sanity Doubted.

Many doubt whether William is entirely sane. He said repeatedly that he possessed a divine mandate to rule, that the Almighty was his "unconditional and avowed ally." It is not entirely clear whether such outpourings were the product of a disordered brain or were due to unbounded egotism and an effort to impress his subjects with the idea of irresistible and unquestioning submission. His speeches to his armies in which he asserted he and they were "instruments of divine judgment upon Germany's enemies" are regarded by many outside of Germany as pieces of rhetoric, intended only to deceive his own people.

William's claim to close affinity with God was the burden of dozens of his speeches long before as well as after the beginning of the war. Of these, perhaps, none more clearly defined his claim than his notorious "divine right" speech delivered at Brandenburg in 1890, in which he said he regarded the German people as "a responsibility conferred upon him by God and that it was his duty to increase this heritage for which one day I shall be called upon to give account. Those who try to interfere with my task I shall crush."

In all this the world saw before the war not a menace but a comedy. It laughed with the then Captain Joseph St. Louis when he returned from the war with Spain and telling of the clash with the commander of the German squadron at Manila Bay, the captain recited the famous poem "Hoch Der Kaiser." In this the concluding refrain was, in the suppositious words of the Emperor: "Gott pullt mit me—und I mit him—MEINSEL—Und Gott."

Few Realized His Purpose.

Few statesmen realized then that the deluded Emperor in his "shining armour," maneuvering his armies and his fleets, building up the German military system, cementing the Central Empires and Turkey, and fostering the preaching of the supremacy of autocracy was erecting a machine that one day would make war upon all civilization.

Yet the world was warned by some far-sighted men that the Emperor would one day bring catastrophe upon the nations. These men saw in him then and see him now as a mad inventor given in his youth the most dangerous of all toys, his army and navy. They were his playthings. He developed them throughout the years to the point where he had to put them to a test. Like a crazed inventor, he feared the end of his reign would find his inventions untried; so grasped the first opportunity to wage "world war."

Meantime the German war party grew with William at its head, and the scheme of world dominion awaited the hour to begin its attainment. It came with the assassination of the Austrian Archduke, Francis Ferdinand, and his wife at Sarajevo.

Recalled from a yachting trip, William presided at a conference at Potsdam of representatives of the German and Austrian armies, navies and commercial interests. There, according to the best information obtainable, the decision was reached to make the assassination of the Archduke a pretext for the world war for which Germany had long prepared.

Pretense Desire for Peace.

In the diplomatic exchange between Germany and Austria on one side and Great Britain, France and Russia on the other, William posed as one wishing for peace but driven to war. He signed the order for mobilization of the German army and from that moment war was inevitable.

Thereafter he drove on his armies relentlessly, in the mad campaign for victory, encouraging them with every device and sometimes appearing on the front to be proclaimed as personal commander in a great offensive.

Correspondence in 1917, placed the German Emperor in the light of an unscrupulous plotter. The telegrams disclosed that Emperor William had induced Emperor Nicholas of Russia to sign a secret agreement to which he was to force the adherence of France in the perfection of an offensive and defensive alliance against England. The treaty was discovered and repudiated by a Russian minister.

Falling in his attempt, the German Emperor set upon himself the task of drawing England to his side against France and Russia. How well he thought he had succeeded in this may be gathered from a letter he wrote to President Wilson in 1914 in which he said King George had promised Prince Henry of Prussia, on July 29, 1914, that England would remain neutral in a war involving the Central Powers with France and Russia.

Perhaps the most direct and authoritative of the accusations against the German Emperor and the painted Germans are compiled in the published secret memorandum of Prince Charles Maslowsky, who was German Ambassador at London at the outbreak of hostilities. The Prince unequivocally placed the blame for the war on Germany, and for his frankness was imprisoned in a Silesian chateau, permanently expelled from the Prussian House of Lords, which action was sanctioned by the Emperor, and finally, was exiled to Switzerland.

Dominance Was Complete.

Emperor William's domination over German statesmen, diplomats and the high command of the German army was emphasized by Dr. Wilhelm Muehlon, a former director of the Krupp works, the great German munition factory, in his book on "The Devastation of Europe." In this he not only laid blame upon Germany but had faith and criticized the German army for its brutality but asserted that in the German foreign office "only he who did the Emperor's bidding was allowed to remain. They could not do better," he declared, "because of the character, the power, the vacillation of and continued interference by the Kaiser." It was Dr. Muehlon who asserted the authenticity of the statement that Emperor William stated at a meeting of German army officers that he had plenty of prisoners and that he hoped the officers would see that no more prisoners were taken.

Maximilian Harden, a German liberal leader, declared the German brought on the war because of his desire "for something like world rule." William often proclaimed his innocence, and endeavored to put the onus of the war on the shoulders of the Entente Allies. In his speech from the throne after the war began he said:

"In pursuing its interests the Russian Empire stepped in the way of Austria-Hungary. Our duty as an ally called us to the side of the Austria-Hungary. The situation arose not from temporary conflicts of interests or diplomatic combinations but is the result of ill-will existing for years against the strength and prosperity of the German Empire."

Gives Vent to Anger.

The Emperor, despite his previous expressions of good will for America, gave vent to his anger against the United States when it became evident no official action would be taken to stop the shipment of munitions and supplies to the Entente Allies by declaring to the American Ambassador, James W. Gerard, "I shall stand no nonsense from America after the war."

William's designs to spread German dominion in Asia found expression in his famous visits to Constantinople when he was proclaimed as protector of the Moslems. This the world saw a cunning step toward achievement of the German ambition of German dominion from Berlin to Baghdad.

Friedrich Wilhelm, Victor Albert was born January 27, 1859, and became Emperor William I on the death of his father, Frederick III, July 15, 1888. He came out of the University of Bonn fully prepared to enter the school of statecraft. Set to work in the government bureau he was early taught the routine of official business under the tutelage of the great Bismarck.

At the death of his father, the imperial throne devolved upon William. It was then but twenty-nine years of age Bismarck continued as Chancellor but not for long. Though the great statesman had made every effort to mold his young pupil with his own ideas of government and diplomatic policies, the new Emperor soon found that he disagreed with his grandfather's theories in many important respects. In 1890 the disagreement of the two men reached a crisis, a rupture came and Bismarck was dismissed from office. The relations between the two men remained strained for several years, but before Bismarck died peace was made between them.

With the passing of Bismarck the Emperor's real reign began. As a military man he was a stickler for efficiency, discipline and the observance of etiquette to the last detail. And of the details of all these components of army life and training he was familiar to the smallest point. It is related that during military reviews he was able to detect the slightest imperfection in the equipment or training of a regiment or squadron and called attention to the dereliction sharply. With the principles of tactics and manoeuvres, too, he was thoroughly acquainted.

Besides being well versed in army matters, the Emperor was thoroughly familiar with naval affairs, having a technical mastery of the details that go to make up the efficiency of a fleet. Study of naval problems was one of his pet occupations. His influence was potent in fostering the development of German commerce, art and science. His interference in these affairs as well as in statecraft often embarrassed German leaders and evoked from them admonitions to leave diplomacy to his chancellor.

In everything he was described as thorough, and, withal, one of the hardest workers in the empire. His rising hour was six o'clock sharp and a long day's hard work, which frequently extended well into the night followed. Stated hours were devoted to the task of informing himself on the progress of events at home and abroad through reading of the principal German and foreign newspapers.

Before the war Emperor William often professed friendliness for America. He encouraged the foundation of exchange professorships by which prominent German educators visited this country and lectured in the colleges here while American college professors similarly filled chairs in German institutions of learning.

Enthusiastic Yachtsman.

He was an enthusiastic yachtsman and despite his withered arm was able to take personal command of his racing yachts, and sail them with considerable success. He spent much time at his palatial hunting lodges and is reputed to have been the champion quail shooter in the world in the point of game killed. It was stated that the Emperor had killed 61,730 pieces of quail—more than 4,000 of which were stags.

Give Names of Those Indicted in Aircraft Case

By Associated Press. CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—The names of three men recently indicted in federal district court on charges of conspiracy in connection with the aircraft inspection service were made public today.

It was a great reader—his private library in the imperial palace at Berlin before the war was becoming one of the most interesting collections of books in the world. He posed as a dictator in music, painting, poetry and acting.

At one time it was announced that he had composed the libretto of a ballet to be given in celebration of his birthday. A private performance of one of his musical efforts is said to have been given in the Potsdam palace without notable effect upon the musical world.

Physically unimpressive—he was short and inclined to stoutness—William was fond of being photographed while striking a military posture, though taking good care to veil the deformity of his left arm; a disfigurement with which he was born, and of which he was extremely sensitive. He blamed his English mother for living a life of self-indulgence and cursed her repeatedly as being responsible for his degeneracy.

No description of the Emperor's personal appearance will be complete without mention of his full, bristling mustache. His photographs, which he distributed with a lavish hand, showed it with ends twisted up at belting equestrian angles.

He married Augusta Victoria, oldest daughter of Grand Duke Frederick of Schleswig-Holstein-Gonderburg-Augustenburg on February 27, 1881. They had six sons and one daughter of whom the crown Prince Frederick is the eldest. With the Crown Prince, his father clashed frequently and on one occasion virtually exiled young Frederick to Danzig but soon recalled him and restored him to favor.

German mothers who wrote to the Emperor of the deaths of their sons killed in battle elicited from him no word of sympathy. He regarded their deaths as "glorious." Yet his own six sons, though holding high commands were so protected that the imperial family stood practically alone of all Germany in warding off the clutches of death.

The Marines would die for Old Baptist "Doc"—He almost died for them

By Sergt. ALEXANDER WOOLLCOTT
of "The Stars and Stripes," A. E. F.

YOU would turn your pockets inside out for the United War Work Campaign if you knew dear old "Doc" of the Marines, a white-haired, slow-speaking padre, who is Y. secretary with the leathernecks and so beloved by them that it's past telling. He was a preacher in Arizona—had been, I think, a missionary with the lepers when the war came, and he went from his pulpit to the Y.

They have always loved him, the Marines. I think it was because he had the genius for meeting all mankind brother-to-brother. And because he would not spare himself any hardship that the boys had to undergo.

If they hiked, he would not ride. If they had to march half-way across France as fast as their legs would carry them, Doc marched, too, and what is more, carried the full pack, lest any boy should ever say old Doc did not know what a real hike meant.

Of course, their devotion became a cult on the Marne when it was he who took the hind end of a litter and went out through a very rain of shells to bring in and save the wounded colonel. And they did save him. Can't you picture it—the two of them creeping over the treacherous ground, with the private turning now and then and hissing back to poor old bulky Doc not to "stick up so far" in the air?

That little expedition dropped Doc unconscious with gas and shrapnel, and when he came to he found that quite mysteriously, all his Y insignia had been cut away and Marine emblems sewed on in their place.

Doc holds services now and then. I know of one a young Jew organized. It was held in a deserted church which a volunteer squad had spent three hours in cleaning for the occasion—three hours routing the dust and cobwebs and litter of fallen plaster and broken glass. Then the congregation trooped in and the service began with the distribution of rosaries fished from Doc's capacious pockets for the Catholic boys, some of whom had lost theirs in the fight.

They have a way of looping their rosary through their left shoulder strap and wearing it into battle as the knights of old wore their lady's colors into the jousts. It is an inspiring thing to see a whole company thus beautifully uniformed, but sometimes they come back with the beads torn away.

Well, Doc distributed his own supply and I doubt if a passerby at that moment would have suspected him of being a Baptist clergyman. Doc—and indeed most of the padres of the front—have to rake their memories to tell what denomination was theirs before they took this great communion.

Why you should give twice as much as you ever gave before!

The need is for a sum 70% greater than any gift ever asked for since the world began. The Government has fixed this sum at $170,500,000.

By giving to these seven organizations all at once, the cost and effort of six additional campaigns is saved.

Unless Americans do give twice as much as ever before, our soldiers and sailors may not enjoy during 1919 their

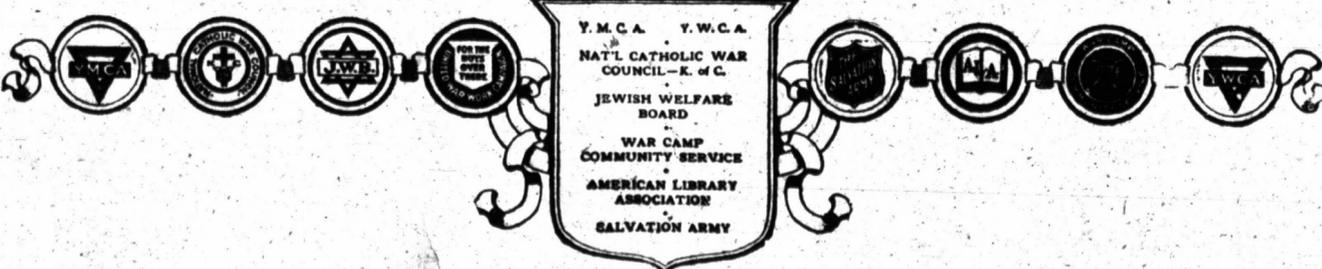

- 3600 Recreation Buildings
- 1000 Miles of Movie Film
- 100 Leading Stage Stars
- 2000 Athletic Directors
- 2500 Libraries supplying 5,000,000 books
- 85 Hostess Houses
- 15,000 Big-brother "secretaries"
- Millions of dollars of home comforts

When you give double, you make sure that every fighter has the cheer and comforts of these seven organizations every step of the way from home to the front and back again. You provide him with a church, a theatre, a cheerful home, a store, a school, a club and an athletic field—and a knowledge that the folks back home are with him, heart and soul!

You have loaned your money to supply their physical needs.
Now give to maintain the Morale that is winning the war!

And Baptist Doc is only one of thousands who are serving your boys in the great religion of Fatherhood, whose creed and faith are Service. Keep them on the job next year! Pershing needs a thousand like them every month.

IN THE SPHERE OF WOMANKIND

TO ALL OF YOU.

(J. Clarence Edwards)
 We'll like a life into a road
 That's long from end to end,
 With houses few and far between,
 Each house we'll call a friend.
 A road for every soul we'll say;
 The scenes will differ much;
 Your way will lead you to a friend
 That my path doesn't touch.
 Old friends to love, new ones to gain
 To hope and then take less,
 Yet be content and bridge the gaps
 That break out happiness.
 This is the pace the Fates have set—
 Such is the road of life—
 A sign, a tear, a smile, and still
 A joy to temper strife!
 This is the course all lives shall lead—
 The course we lead each day,
 But since your house was on my road,
 I'm glad 'twas blessed that way.

NEW IDEA CLUB MEETS WITH MISS MCCARTY

Miss Clara McCarty was hostess on Wednesday to the New Idea Club, the members spending the time of the meeting in the accustomed manner. Mrs. Brennan and daughter, Margaret, Mrs. Miller and little Miss Evamack Cockrell were guests. The members present were: Mesdames T. E. Dobson, J. J. Simon, D. Dellis, Rosa Corlett, J. A. Wolfe, M. E. Carey and Harry Thornberry. Mrs. J. E. Wolff will be the next hostess.

HARLEY HEATH MARRIES AT MINERAL WELLS, TEXAS

Harley Heath, former resident of Wichita Falls, and Miss Camille York of Mineral Wells, were married this past week in Mineral Wells, and are now in New Orleans on a short wedding trip, according to a telegram received by Mr. Heath's sister, Mrs. T. B. Noble, on Saturday. This news will be of much interest to the many friends of the groom, who had lived here since boyhood, until a few years ago, when business took him elsewhere. At present he is operating in the oil fields around Mineral Wells, and he and his bride will make their home in that city.

MRS. LOUIS PINK ENTERTAINS COUNCIL OF JEWISH WOMEN

Mrs. Louis Pink entertained the members of the Council of Jewish Women in the first regular session on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Sam Leiben was appointed chairman of the committee for organizing a Jewish religious school. Plans for devoting Wednesday afternoon of each week to work at the Red Cross were adopted. After the business session, the members present enjoyed piano selections by Mrs. Oje Art and a paper on "The Development of the Jewish Woman in Society" by Miss Rose Reizenstein.

MEL McCUTCHEON IS MARRIED IN DENVER

Announcement of the marriage of Mel McCutcheon, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McCutcheon, formerly of this city, to Miss Helen Wilson, of Denver, Colorado, on October 3 has been received by friends here.

MRS. NEWTON OF FT. WORTH ENTERTAINED BY FRIENDS

Honoring their guest, Mrs. L. W. Newton, of Fort Worth, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Crut entertained a number of friends at their home on Friday evening. A delightful evening, featured by well selected musical numbers was enjoyed.

STUDENTS OF ACADEMY ENJOY ART EXHIBIT

Boards and day students from the Academy of Mary Immaculate chaperoned by an instructor from the school enjoyed the art exhibit at the library under the direction of F. C. Freyermuth Saturday.

YOUNG FOLKS ENJOY LIBRARY STORY HOUR

About forty little folk enjoyed the first of a series of story hours at the library Saturday afternoon. Miss Anna Belle Farquar, kindergarten instructor, was in charge Saturday afternoon and the hour was most delightfully spent. The Saturday afternoon story hour will be observed regularly throughout the winter months and all children interested in stories are cordially invited to spend the hour from 2 until 3 with the story teller in the library.

MISS KERR WEDS MR. CLIFFORD STOBGHILL

With only a few intimate friends and relatives attending the ceremony, Miss Carrie Kerr was married to Clifford Stobghill, of Call Field, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Kerr, at eight o'clock Saturday evening. Rev. E. S. Lowrance officiating with the ring ceremony. Decorations in pink and white carnations and roses were attractively arranged in the living room. Mrs. J. C. Pressley, sister of the bride, played the wedding march as the bride and groom entered the room unattended. The bride wore a lovely dinner gown of white broad cloth and carried a gorgeous bouquet of brides roses. An informal reception followed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Stobghill left this morning for a brief wedding trip. They will be at home after a few days at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride has spent her entire life in Wichita Falls and is the recipient of the best wishes of a large number of friends.

Mr. Stobghill came to Wichita Falls about eighteen months ago and was employed in the local postoffice before entering the service at Call Field, and has won many friends in the city and at the camp.

WITH THE WOMEN OF THE CHURCHES

First Baptist Church. With Rev. O. L. Powers as leader, members of the Alliance enjoyed an unusually interesting Bible study hour at the church Monday afternoon. After the lesson a box of clothing for the Buckner Orphans Home was packed. The box will be left open until after Monday for other contributions. Plans for another box to be sent immediately have been completed.

The Alliance will meet in separate divisions at three o'clock Monday afternoon at the church. Monday is set for the election of officers.

Church of the Good Shepherd. Mrs. J. M. Sammons was hostess to the Episcopal Guild in the regular Monday afternoon meeting. The samplings followed last winter in making corners will be carried out in the Guild this year. Mrs. John Humphries at 2602 Ninth is this week's hostess.

The young women of the church were organized into a social unit in a "get together" meeting called by Rev. J. O. Larsen on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Lester Burns was elected president, Miss Florence Sammons secretary and Mrs. Stonewall Brown sponsor.

All young women of the church and all interested are invited to attend the next meeting announced for Wednesday evening, Nov. 13, at eight o'clock at the parish house.

Those present Wednesday included Mesdames Almond, Brown, Smith, Beckman, Humphries and Misses Jessie Sammons, Ethel Cobb, Louise Maupin, Dorothy Kribbs, Julia Bartoeb and Florence Sammons.

First Christian Church. Members of the Altar Society of the Church of the Sacred Heart met in joint business and social session at the home of Mrs. Robert Schesserly on Monday afternoon. Miss Sullivan was assisting hostess. The members heard an appeal for support during the United War Work campaign this week from Mrs. Wade Walker, chairman for the Catholic division of the campaign, and pledged the most hearty co-operation.

The society was busy with Red Cross work throughout the afternoon. Those present included Mesdames Bates, Bullitt, Morse, Hughes, Walker, Delaney, Easton, Maxwell, Hutton, Fall, Robertson, Hall, Larkum, Oeschner, Hargrave, Lewis, Dorsey, Schesserly Jr. and Sr., Mooney, Patton, Moran, Keim and Misses Sullivan and Howe. Mesdames Murphy, Davis, McKinney, Culver and Cole were received into the organization.

First Christian Church. The Ladies Aid Society and the C. W. B. M. met in joint social and business session at the home of Mrs. E. E. Shepherd on Monday afternoon. The home was attractively decorated in flags and each guest was presented a souvenir in the national colors.

Mrs. Downing, of the C. W. B. M., took charge of the opening program which opened with a song, followed by scripture readings by Mrs. R. L. Tyson and a prayer service led by Mrs. Lillie Gray. After a short business session, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. O. A. Scharff, of the Ladies Aid. A delightful solo by Mrs. Derden was enjoyed. During the Ladies Aid business session a total of $167.50 was collected. Pledges amounting to $629.00 have been made toward the purchase of Liberty Bonds.

The society will hold a $500 bond and will present a $500 bond and $75.00 in cash to the Fowler orphans home in Dallas. R. E. Shepherd addressed the guests on the subject of the Liberty Loan.

This is United War Work Campaign Week

Every department represented in this campaign is doing a wonderful work for our boys. It is our duty as patriotic citizens to lend our aid in a financial way to assist them. Lets get busy and go "over the top" with our quota of the $170,500,000 to be raised this week.

A Patriotic Christmas

Again we call your attention to early Christmas shopping. For many reasons it is your patriotic duty, mainly because all presents sent to the boys overseas, must be mailed before Nov. 20th. Remember that our government has asked that Christmas shopping be done in November, thereby relieving the crush of late December buying.

Holiday Hints for Patriotic Purchasers

"Shop during November, thereby permitting December to be normal."
 "Shop early in the day and thereby relieve the congestion in the downtown stores."
 "Return home early in the day and thereby relieve congestion both in the stores and on street cars."
 "Carry home your packages, whenever possible as the pledge not to enlarge forces makes this request necessary."
 "Be as patient with store employees as possible; remember they are working under both mental and physical strain."
 "Assist the government by advertising your observance to the new rules to your friends and neighbors."

Gift Suggestions

Manicure Sets — beautiful leather and satin brocaded folders, manicure articles finished in pretty ivory, excellent for gifts, $1.50 to $9.85
 Oval shape picture frames, Imperial Silver, non-farishable, each 75c
 Silk Shirts, excellent patterns, beautiful stripes, $5.00 to $10.00
 Beautiful Ties for men, many patterns of imported silks, 50c to $2.50
 Completing line of Phoenix Silk Hose suitable for gifts.
 Women's Beaded Purses, exquisite designs, each $3.50 to velvet Purses $1.95 to $4.95
 Service picture frames, different branches, army and navy, cloth covered, each $1

Holiday Selection of Blouses

A COLLECTION OF RARE PRICES RANGING IN STYLE FROM THE NEAT AND SIMPLE TO THE MOST ELABORATELY FITTED.

No more suitable article could be selected to please the lady-folk than one of these blouses, fineness of workmanship, sheer perfection of material, and beauty of design combine to make each one a delight to the eye and a pleasure to wear.

Equally noteworthy is the prices at which they are offered, a fortunate purchase of one New York buyer enables us to offer you the prettiest things you have seen for many days.

Wonderful Assortment of Beautiful Collars

Many dainty things have just been received. Wonderful creations of Georgette, Organdies in many pretty designs. We have never shown a more complete assortment and we want you to see them Monday. Collars priced 50c to $3.50

To be becomingly and stylishly attired does not necessarily mean that you be extravagant, as will be readily apparent to all who view our

Splendid Suit Displays

Although it required a greater effort this year than ever before, to assemble adequate assortments at moderate prices, our displays are evidence that we have been successful beyond expectations.

And though moderately priced, there is distinctiveness of style and excellent quality in every suit. You'll find the most desirable of the season's fabrics in the beautiful new Fall colorings, delightfully fashioned, and splendidly made—in fact, they are garments for which you'd expect to pay much higher prices. Your desire for a suit of "style" and "quality" can be gratified here at a very moderate cost.

Morale Is Winning the War!

AN American is capturing a Hun—not because he is any heavier or stronger or older or bigger, but just because he has the fighting spirit which his enemy is losing.

That's morale.

"Where are those Germans? Let's get at 'em!" yelled an American before Chateau-Thierry. He was going under fire for the first time. He was wild to get there!

"We are constantly on the alert and are afraid the Americans are going to attack," wrote a German to his wife. He was captured before he could mail the letter.

"The men are so embittered," wrote another Hun, "that they have no interest in anything, and they only want the war to end, no matter how. We are only slaves of the Government." Now he is a prisoner, too.

Every despatch from France brings new proof of American fighting spirit—stories of individual valor. Morale makes Americans glad to fight for freedom. The lack of it makes Germans hate to fight for Prussia.

Our soldier knows he is a free-born fighter. He is no slave of any Government. He is part of a nation waging war. He wants to fight. He needn't be driven into battle. He yells: "Let's go!"

That's morale! Let's let them keep it! Let's keep them keen and fit and confident!

General Pershing finds that 900 men who have a hut to spend their evenings in are more effective than 1000 men without it. Napoleon called morale three times as important as other factors in war.

The strain comes with the first swift change from civil to military life, when these organizations give your man a place to meet his family, books to read and study, the hospitality of American homes, when whole cities are re-adjusted to the new conditions created by having a cantonment nearby.

It comes later, too, when a man has been off in some lonely camp for weeks, when the war itself seems miles away, when letters are irregular and home seems somewhere in another world, when a man has lived out in a gun-pit or a dug-out, has slept in filthy straw, when the bodies of his friends lie just beyond him, out in No Man's Land.

That's when the men and women of your organizations overseas can show our fighters that they aren't forgotten, that home is following them up to the guns. Sports, entertainment, education, religion, warmth, and cheer and friendship—these are the forces that are working to keep morale up to a victory pitch.

On you, this week, depends this question of morale. These are the seven recognized activities through which the Government enables you to stand behind your fighters. Their value depends on just how much you, as an individual, will give to help them hasten victory. Give as you never gave before! Give for morale!

Why you should give twice as much as you ever gave before!

The need is for a sum 70% greater than any gift ever asked for since the world began. The Government has fixed this sum at $170,500,000.

By giving to these seven organizations all at once, the cost and effort of six additional campaigns is saved.

Unless Americans do give twice as much as ever before, our soldiers and sailors may not enjoy during 1919 their:

EMINENT STARS IN INSPIRING PRESENTATION OF "OUT THERE"

C. J. Glover, of the "Waco-Times Herald," at Waco, Texas, has written the following review of "Out There," the allied war drama, on the road with an all-star cast, and to be seen at the Wichita Theatre on Monday night, Nov. 18.

"Long after the final curtain had closed from view, the sublime scene showing Pauline Ford as the Red Cross nurse delivering a recruiting speech in 'Out There' the inspiring, patriotic dramatic composition by J. Hartley Manners which was presented by an all-star cast at the Auditorium last night, no audience was still in their seats and remained there while the curtain was raised and lowered twice more under the spell of this charming character and the message of duty and devotion, love, laughter and tears that she so vividly and cheerfully presented with the assistance of her costars.

The hearts of all those present were touched to the innermost depths and their eyes welled up with tears at each outburst of sweet simplicity and devout loyalty and supreme sacrifice as voiced and portrayed by the several characters.

It is not once in a decade that an all-star cast of this luster visits this city and section, and it is only once in a generation that such a classic as "Out There" is produced.

Frederick Ward, always a favorite here, lends dignity and poise to the role of Dr. Hanwell, whose gray hairs felt the call to duty and ministry to the wounded and suffering in "Out There." Thomas W. Ross visualizes with all the reality of life itself the prize fighting bully who also came to see the light leading him to glory and words, thanks to the guiding hand of his sister, and Miss Mary Shaw leaves nothing unmissed in her portrayal of the evil-minded, "Gypsy."

Others appearing in the second act, which revealed "Orange Day" at a hospital ward and which depicted as the actors types of the allied fighters, are especially worthy of mention for their close application to the national characteristics and parts of the Irishman, the Cockney, the Canadian, the Scotchman and the American, the noble presenting a stretch of comedy that lightened the tense moments and that turned before the close of the act to pathos and tears.

All these actors, as carefully selected as they are, and their characterizations, as realistically portrayed as they were, are but a background for Miss Pauline Ford, as "Haunted Annie" (well use it, although it's not there in Annie's language), the sweet and abused sister of the household, who felt the call to duty long before she saw the way to go, and who sewed her Red Cross apron and cap in spare moments so as to be ready. Words were words—she is inadequate to talk or write about this charming young lady; her cleverness, her sweetness, the beauty of her voice, the willingness of her hands and feet, and whole being, the gaiety of her tongue and chatter, the divinity of her tears, all beggar description.

To Waco she is a new star in the limelight, and her star in "Out There" will always shine brightly. There will always be a special comment would be that Miss Ford is supreme and sublime.

frivolity that many young girls possess; she sees life in a soberer light. In the light of figures that the Smith College alumnae recently brought forth it seems plainly evident that college training gives a girl a force of character and stability of temperament, which makes her look upon divorce as non-existent and undesirable, perhaps unnecessary.

The evils of divorce are startlingly shown in the William Fox picturization of "The Blindness of Divorce" which will be shown at the Empress Theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

WESTERN MIX-UP IS WORKED OUT IN "BY PROXY" In "By Proxy," Roy Stewart's newest Triangle western, to be shown at the Gem Theatre on Tuesday, Roy is called upon to effect a marriage between Aleck, a bashful cowboy on his ranch, and Lindy, the lady of Aleck's dreams. Roy brings the wrong girl, and a Chinese chef cooks up a mess of hilarious complications, but it is all straightened out to Cupid's satisfaction. Maud Wayne, who starred recently with William Desmond in "Closin' In" is Mr. Stewart's leading lady in this picture.

THE TRUE STORY OF WAR SHOWN IN PICTURE The most distinguished "cast" that ever featured the presentation of a motion picture has been offered in "Crashing Through to Berlin," the thrilling review of the world war, which will be offered at the Majestic on Monday and Tuesday.

It is an assemblage of "all stars" from President Wilson down to the most humble soldier in the ranks of the army of India. King George of England, King Albert of Belgium, President Poincaré of France, Emmanuel, the Cockney, the Canadian, the Scotchman and the American, the noble presenting a stretch of comedy that lightened the tense moments and that turned before the close of the act to pathos and tears.

All these actors, as carefully selected as they are, and their characterizations, as realistically portrayed as they were, are but a background for Miss Pauline Ford, as "Haunted Annie" (well use it, although it's not there in Annie's language), the sweet and abused sister of the household, who felt the call to duty long before she saw the way to go, and who sewed her Red Cross apron and cap in spare moments so as to be ready. Words were words—she is inadequate to talk or write about this charming young lady; her cleverness, her sweetness, the beauty of her voice, the willingness of her hands and feet, and whole being, the gaiety of her tongue and chatter, the divinity of her tears, all beggar description.

To Waco she is a new star in the limelight, and her star in "Out There" will always shine brightly. There will always be a special comment would be that Miss Ford is supreme and sublime.

From the slaying of Archduke Francis Ferdinand of Austria, in what has been proclaimed openly as a conspiracy by Germany to involve the world in a hateful struggle for dominance of land and sea, every event in the war that smacked of fiction was disregarded.

"THE HUN WITHIN" PRESENTS DEADLY HUN SYSTEM The province of the modern photoplay is to instruct as well as entertain, according to Chester Withey, the famous motion picture producer, whose Paramount-Artcraft special production, "The Hun Within," a superb photoplay dealing with the Hun spy menace in the United States, is to be shown at the Empress theater next Monday and Tuesday.

"In 'The Hun Within,' I have sought to show the dangers of the German spy menace in this country at this time when the world is struggling against the most powerful and deadly military autocracy known to civilization. In dealing with this menace, I have tried to show in the most effective manner how to combat it. In this respect therefore, 'The Hun Within' has a distinct mission in an educational sense, but the lessons are conveyed in a series of scenes in the dramatic interest of which they are wholly submerged. Any photoplay which stimulates patriotism in the masses as this one does, has a value which does not attach to the ordinary photoplay."

The story of "The Hun Within" is capably developed by fine screen play ers, chief among whom are George Fawcett, Dorothy Gish, Charles Gerold, Douglas MacLean, Bert Sutch, Max Davidson, Lillian Clarke and others.

MUSTEROLE—QUICK RELIEF! NO BLISTER!

It Soothes and Relieves Like a Mustard Plaster Without the Burn or Sting

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with the oil of mustard. It does all the work of the old-fashioned mustard plaster—does it better and does not blister. You do not have to bother with a cloth. You simply rub it on—and usually the pain is gone!

Many doctors and nurses use Musterole and recommend it to their patients.

They will gladly tell you what relief it gives from sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

30c and 60c jars; hospital size $2.50.

Operations On the Oil Exchange Are Again Very Active

Trading on the Wichita Falls Oil and Stock Exchange was unusually active Friday, and it is the belief of those operating on the board that the depression which followed the closing of the exchange and the shutting down of many of the rigs during the influenza epidemic is entire gone and that stock from now on will remain steady. Thousands of dollars and large blocks of stock are reported to have changed hands at the eight o'clock open session. This state of affairs denotes confidence of the public in the local oil field, as practically all of the stock traded in was in companies at Burk Burnett.

The National Bank of Commerce places at the disposal of the people of this community a thoroughly organized service and the most complete and up-to-date facilities. Small accounts are welcomed.

DAILY PRODUCTION IN THE COUNTY IS 36,000 BARRELS

Present daily production in the oil fields of Wichita county is, in round numbers, 36,000, according to records of the big pipe line companies, which show all the runs of all companies handling oil from the county. This is divided into two districts, Electra and Burk Burnett. Electra, which contains Electra proper and Sunshine Hill, has a daily production of 14,000 at present, while Burk Burnett has a production of 22,000. This will probably be increased early next week as several wells have been completed and will be ready to run off shortly. The old pool at Burk Burnett has an estimated production of 9,000 barrels.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT FOR WEOWNA STOCKHOLDERS AND OTHERS INTERESTED

The Weowna Oil Company owns lease covering the right of way of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern Railway from the North line of Fifth St. in the town of Burk Burnett, Texas, including the stock pens, thence south to a point south of Bacon Switch, with exception of one mile between Mile Posts Nine and Ten.

The Weowna Company has six drilling locations in the town of Burk Burnett alone, saying nothing of the locations available outside of the city limits.

Contract for well No. One, located opposite Block 37, has been let on a reduced price per foot basis. NO PART OF THE PRODUCTION FROM THIS WELL IS TO ACCRUE TO ANYONE OTHER THAN THE USUAL ONE-EIGHTH ROYALTY TO THE RAILROAD COMPANY AND THE REMAINING SEVEN-EIGHTHS TO THE WEOWNA COMPANY, EXCEPT FIVE-THOUSAND DOLLARS TO BE PAID TO DRILLING CONTRACTORS FROM THE FIRST OIL PRODUCED.

Contract for well opposite and directly west of Block 38 has been let on same basis as well opposite Block 37.

Contract for well opposite Block 39 gives drilling contractor one-half of seven-eighths production for drilling and equipping well. Weowna Company will receive one-half of seven-eighths, the Railroad Company the remaining one-eighth.

Contract for well opposite Block 40 is same as contract for well opposite Block 39, with exception the Weowna Company receives a bonus of $5,000.00 out of the first production.

Well near cotton platform is being drilled on a favorable contract and a "Turn-Key" basis for well complete, and no portion of production from this well will accrue to anyone except the one-eighth royalty to the Railroad Company and remaining seven-eighths to the Weowna Company.

The above is a true statement of facts regarding the Weowna Oil Company as reflected by records kept on file in its General Office in Room 7, Bean-Anderson Building, Wichita Falls, Texas.

C. H. EVANS, Secretary. WEOWNA OIL COMPANY R. W. HOCKADAY, President.

Drilling of the sixth well at same price and in same manner is provided for in contract covering drilling of well number five.

There are at present three rigs drilling on the right of way. First on location opposite Block 37, which reached a depth of 1260 feet Saturday, 9th, five p. m. Second on location opposite Block 40 which reached depth of 470 feet same hour and date, and the third well near cotton platform which had attained a depth of 752 feet. All of these rigs commenced work in the past few days and are of the best in the field. Sand should be reached in all three wells within the next week or ten days.

Proceeds from sale of the stock recently placed on the market and disposed of will pay for drilling the three wells opposite Blocks 37, 38 and near cotton platform, also cost of several thousand feet of three and four and one-half inch flow line, steel sectional storage and flow tanks, all connections, etc. As previously stated, NO PART OF MONEY RECEIVED FROM ANY SOURCE GOES TO ANYONE FOR PROMOTION, the only expense being that paid out as commission, all remaining funds being used for development purposes.

IT IS PROPOSED TO DRILL ALL WELLS IN WITH CABLE TOOLS. This company is capitalized for $100,000.00 and incorporated under state laws of Oklahoma, licensed to do business in state of Texas.

STATE CONGRESS OF MOTHERS HAS PRAISE FOR CITY

SEVENTEEN LIFE MEMBERS ARE ENROLLED HERE, BREAKING RECORD.

WORK IS CONCLUDED

Session One of the Most Successful in the History of Organization.

Wichita Falls citizens made it possible for the 1918 session of the Texas Congress of Mothers to boast of receiving three times as many life members in one day, as had ever been received in one year previously. Mrs. Edward Kneeland, of Dallas, auditor of the Congress and special chairman of the Life Membership committee stated Friday night, Seventeen Wichita Falls men and women enrolled as life members on Friday, breaking the record of the organization. The session of Mrs. Kneeland who was very much pleased with the response, saying that it surpassed any she had ever experienced during her work as chairman of this committee.

Broadminded Citizenship.

"I was more than pleased to find the men of Wichita Falls so broadminded and interested in child welfare work," she said, "and when I explained that the $25 life membership fee went for extension work, for furthering the child welfare work, they were glad to become enrolled as life members of the organization. I had heard much of the enterprise and fine spirit of Wichita Falls men and women, and now I am convinced that there has been no exaggeration. The cooperation of the city has been shown at all times during the Congress, and especially in the enrolling of life members. I feel that I am expressing the sentiment of every member of the Congress present, when I say that there has been no better, more enthusiastic or more successful session held in many years than this Wichita Falls meeting which just closed."

Seventeen Life Members.

The seventeen life members secured by Mrs. Kneeland in Wichita Falls were: Mrs. J. W. Lee, president of the First District; Mrs. R. O. Harvey, Mrs. Dan Hardy, Mrs. J. W. Akin, Mrs. C. W. Snider, Mrs. P. P. Langford, Mrs. T. McAllister, Mrs. J. Davis, Mrs. J. A. Pitzer, Mrs. J. Vancheater, Mrs. W. Silk, R. E. Huff, W. D. Cline, W. Gardner, J. J. Perkins and N. H. Martin. There were nine life members from other cities.

The total of 26 life members in one day far surpasses any other enrollment of a year's time. Mrs. Kneeland stated, Texas has always led every other state Congress in life membership, and with this splendid record

Concluding Program.

The program Friday afternoon included talks from Mrs. Maggie Barr of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and A. & M. College, on the government work for child welfare. Miss Irene M. Davidson, of C. I. A. Denton, spoke on the co-operation of the C. I. A. extension department with the Child Welfare Department through the employment of a child welfare specialist. Mrs. Claude DeVan Watts spoke again on needed legislation for the protection of juveniles.

The resolutions committee, composed of Mrs. W. Chamberlain of Stephenville, chairman; Miss Irene Davidson, Denton; Mrs. Moore, Fort Worth; Mrs. Claude DeVan Watts, San Antonio; and Mrs. C. Shelton, city, made its report, preceding the election of officers. The report being adopted. In addition to the recommendations for legislation which was passed unanimously, thanking Wichita Falls for its hospitality and expressing appreciation for the many courtesies that had been shown the members of the Congress, in being entertained in the home of the city, and for the many "extras" that had been given. Special mention was made of the interest shown by the men of the city, both in their joining as life members and in their attendance on the sessions.

In addition to the resolution of appreciation passed by the Congress, thanking all who took any part in the entertainment of the visitors, Mrs. Lee, chairman of the local committee, and now the new vice president of the state at large, has asked that all who helped in making the Congress the success it was, in spite of war conditions, be publicly thanked for their efforts. The local committee chairmen were:

Mrs. J. W. Lee, General Chairman.
Mrs. T. B. Smock, Vice-Chairman.
Mrs. E. M. Carter, Home Chairman.
Mrs. E. M. Nicholson, Place of meeting.

Mrs. Dan Hardy, Luncheon.
Mrs. C. W. Feider, Information.
Mrs. H. T. Weldon, Registration.
Mrs. T. P. Adams, Automobiles.
Mrs. W. W. Silk, Trains.
Mrs. J. K. Kemp, Information Reception at Church.

ADVISES CLOSING ADVENTIST SCHOOL THAT USES GERMAN

The Wichita County Council of Defense went outside its jurisdiction Saturday and recommended the closing of the Seventh Day Adventist parochial school in Clay county in which the German language was used in its devotional exercises. The pupils in the school were advised to attend the public school in that vicinity.

After hearing the statement of A. A. Ewart, teacher of the school, and statements by several of the pupils, the county council decided that while it might be within its jurisdiction that a file good advice would not be out of place and give it.

The school has been taught by A. A. Ewart, a disciple of the Seventh Day Adventist faith. On being questioned Mr. Ewart told the council that his conference had recommended that parochial schools be opened wherever possible. He denied that the German language was used in the school except that certain devotional exercises were conducted in German.

T. R. T. Orth, secretary of the County Council of Defense, advised those responsible for the school to close it and send their children to the public school in that neighborhood. It was expected that this would be done. Mr. Orth pointed out that there was a good school in the vicinity that a number of boys had gone into the army from that neighborhood and that public sentiment could not be expected to tolerate the use of the enemy language and that disastrous consequences might ensue if the use of the German language was persisted in.

The school has been conducted a few miles east of Jewett in the Clay county line. About seven families have supported the school paying the teacher thirty dollars a month and boarding him for his services.

The high standing of the National Bank of Commerce, its large capital and surplus and its willingness to serve in small matters as well as in large make it an ideal bank for you.

Miss Day's Pupils Please Audience On Friday Evening

A number of the younger pupils studying expression under Miss Edith Day, instructor of reading and public speaking in the public schools, pleased a large audience at the high school auditorium Friday evening, in the first recital of the year. The students were assisted by Misses Virginia Shell and Irene Simpson, high school students and members of Mrs. J. M. Baber's music classes.

The evening's program had been carefully selected to suit the youthful performers, and was featured by a number of selections from the life of Tom Sawyer.

All members were unusually well received and there were many encores. Beginners among the performers a number of whom had had only two months' training, gave evidence of rapid progress and splendid unusual in young students.

With a large capital and surplus, a strong and representative directorate and every modern banking facility, the National Bank of Commerce is able to render thoroughly satisfactory service to both firms and individuals.

DAVE HONIGSBERRY FLAGG

Your boy comes stumbling out of the battle-line—

He wants a place to rest, a place to get warm, a place to smoke and get a hot drink and hear somebody talk United States.

He sees a light ahead. It's a hut!

Do you think he cares whether that hut is run by the Knights of Columbus or the Y. M. C. A., Jewish Welfare Board or the Salvation Army? Not much! He knows what he wants and he knows that he'll get it—whatever uniform the folks inside happen to be wearing.

Your boy knows what real democracy means.

He's fighting to make it something bigger and better and finer than it ever was before. He's the world's greatest authority on democracy today. Take his word for it!

Keep the hut fires burning!

A hut is your fighter's home over there. It is his store, his theatre, his church, his school and his club.

It is the place where he writes your letters.

It is the place where he reads his books and magazines, where he and his friends get around a piano and sing or listen to a phonograph.

It is the place where all the movies are given, and the concerts and the minstrel shows and vaudeville. Often it is the only place within reach that is dry and light and warm and clean.

A hut may be a shed or tent or a fine old chateau or a hotel. Sometimes, at the front, it's just a battered little shack—the only building left standing in town.

On the fighting line, it's just a board laid across two boxes with a sign nailed to a tree.

The sign doesn't matter—it's what the hut gives your fighter.

Back up these seven organizations without thought of race or creed, because your boy knows that he is always welcome everywhere, and he needs them all.

Why you should give twice as much as you ever gave before!

The need is for a sum 70% greater than any gift ever asked for since the world began. The Government has fixed this sum at $170,500,000.

By giving to these seven organizations all at once, the cost and effort of six additional campaigns is saved.

Unless Americans do give twice as much as ever before, our soldiers and sailors may not enjoy during 1919 their:

- 3600 Recreation Buildings
- 1000 Miles of Movie Film
- 100 Leading Stage Stars
- 2000 Athletic Directors
- 2500 Libraries supplying 5,000,000 books
- 85 Hostess Houses
- 15,000 Big-brother "secretaries"
- Millions of dollars of home comforts

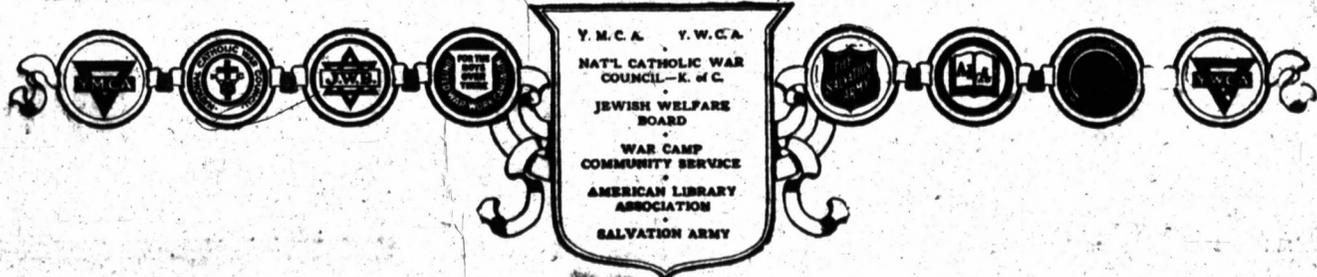

When you give double, you make sure that every fighter has the cheer and comforts of these seven organizations every step of the way from home to the front and back again. You provide him with a church, a theatre, a cheerful home, a store, a school, a club and an athletic field—and a knowledge that the folks back home are with him, heart and soul!

You have loaned your money to supply their physical needs.

Now give to maintain the Morale that is winning the war!

LIEUT. GOULD WRITES INTERESTINGLY OF EXPERIENCE IN OVERSEAS SERVICE

Interesting incidents of life in the service "over there" with side-lights on the habits and customs of the French people are given in a communication received from First Lieutenant John Gould, Q. M. C., a member of the Times editorial staff. Lieut. Gould's letter is as follows:

A. P. O. 713, A. E. F., Oct. 15.

I have not seen a copy of the Times since I hit Europe, and if these observations of mine contradict anything that other contributors have written, you must strike an average and let it go at that. It is a mid-Autumn storm, which means that it is either raining, has just stopped raining, or is just going to rain. Between showers, the sun comes out and the clouds disappear; the next thing I know the rain is spattering into my room from the three leaks in the roof. But only one of the leaks is over my head, and I do not complain, for my room has glass windows and electric lights, and is only 300 yards from the best shower bath in France. One day I went to a brother officer's quarters. My first night in France was spent on a pile of lumber in the railroad yard of a busy French port. The next night, a brother officer and I went to bed with some chickens, whose roost was in one of the four rooms of a French farm house near the "rest camp." I wonder what army humorist gave it that name. A captain, entitled to better quarters by virtue of superior rank, shared the adjoining apartment with two sheep. The next room was occupied by the horse at night and used as a kitchen by day; the fourth room was bed room, parlor and dining room for the family.

Everything Famous Except Bed. On the third night, I had a room in a famous villa, occupying the best of a famous side to a famous French general. Everything was famous except the bed; it was soft and restful as French beds are, but you rather dislike sleeping with smells that you can't personally account for. The chief feature of French bedding is an immense quilt, or "couvert," as a West Texan would call it, six inches thick, but not heavy. All things considered, the little g. m. cot with the o. d. blankets will do me until I get back to the States.

Speaking of smells it is hard to get away from them in this country. So far as I have found, France conforms very closely to the movie pictures, and if a movie proprietor wanted to give a touch of realism to the scene, he could do so by admitting two or three goats to the theatre, or having Swiss cheese sprinkled around pretty liberally.

Offense is forgotten. But the things that offend the nose are forgotten, while those that delight the eye persist, and there is no lack of pleasing prospects, so far as the scenery is concerned. As yet I have never gotten away from the idea that I am in one vast, carefully planned park; trees, rivers, roads, canals, farms and fields all blend into vistas and landscapes that one is not likely to forget, and that, best of all, never quite become monotonous. Nothing is ever ugly in rural France except those now numerous places where the busy, industrial hand of America has gnomed the scenery all up with warehouses and sliding glass doors. You imagine that the French would have grinded it different; that each siding, each brick structure, would have been fitted into the landscape without marring it. They seem to figure that where man and nature have put in a few thousand years making something pretty, nobody has any business to come along and mess it up in such a hurry. But then the Frenchman never hurries. He is wasteful of nothing but time, in which an American economizes at the expense of all else. And the question of thrift leads to this unsavory little story:

Nothing is Wasted. A French farmer came to the mess sergeant and asked to be allowed an call for the mess hall garbage every day, saying he wanted it for his hogs. He was given permission. One day the mess sergeant, thinking that fresh pork might bring some welcome variety to the salmon and corn-william, went to the farm house to see if the hogs were for sale. There were no hogs on the farm, and there never had been.

The French town is picturesque, but monotonously so. When you have seen one, you have seen all. If the town or village is near an American camp, it makes a brave attempt to be American. There will soon be an American bar, and probably a cabaret where, while one drinks, French girls sing songs that, translated, would make an old man bluish. An inevitable feature is a pronounced bull movement in prices of everything that an American soldier might want to buy. While there are reasons for believing that a lower scale of prices prevails for the natives, the French grocer is not going to be keen to sell his neighbors apples at two francs a dozen when the Americans will buy them at two apples for a franc. But such profiteering as the French indulge in is on a petty scale, and meets with few complaints from soldiers who had been soaked by experts back in the states. The main difficulty lies in the fact that a French merchant expects you to bargain and haggle before buying, and Americans are not accustomed to that.

Winehouses are always numerous and Sunday, when soldiers may buy during the day, every farm house near the camp becomes a dispensary for the misguided vineyard that is sold to the soldiers. The average American soldier is no connoisseur in vintages, which is just as well, perhaps. The French farmer sells wine just as his American prototypes would sell ice cream and peanuts; father, mother, grandmother and all the girls pitch in and do bartender duty while the French child has its glass of wine at an age where it would be denied even coffee by most American mothers; and yet there are some signs that France is not blind to the evils of alcohol. In railway stations one can see posters published by the "French Anti-Alcohol Society" with such sentiments as these: "Alcohol is a greater enemy than the Hun"; "a drinking father makes a dissolute son"; "There are other things that France needs worse than prohibition; sewers, for instance."

First and Last French Shave. Another need is American-plan barber shops. I shan't soon forget my first and last visit to a French "coiffureur." A young Frenchman cut my hair, but turned me over to a 40-year-old Delilah, his mother, for the shave. The lady laboriously mixed a bowl full of lather and proceeded to smear it on liberally; then stepped back to view the effect, adding a touch here and there like an artist finishing a masterpiece. She suddenly seized a towel, obliterated all traces of her handwork and began again. This time the result was more to her liking, and after stropping her razor in a business like manner, she started scribbling nothing except a visit to an army dentist could compare with it. Next I was thoroughly lathered again, and there was more torture with the razor. The barberine then polished my face with a chunk of alum and, with a device such as was employed in the States to concoct the late-lamented highball, she sprayed me to a finish. The French may like that sort of tonorialism, but it seems to me that sand paper would serve just as well. The shave and haircut cost 18 cents.

French railroad methods are a source of never ending interest to every American youth that ever hopped a freight, and while there is a big difference between French and American systems, the difference is not altogether in America's favor. For one thing, that Wichitans can appreciate, French engineers manage to get through a day's work with scarcely a single foot of schedule, and that only when necessary. French engines have no bells, but some of the American engines are equipped with them and there is one engine whose bell has a tone that takes me right home to the union station at two in the afternoon, and I can see the truckload of personal liberty all over the platform, hear a sepulchral voice calling, "All aboard! Westbound Wichita Valley—Allendale, Holliday, Dundee, and all intermediate points to Abilene."

The "Galloping Goose." The French engine—known to the American railway men over here as the "galloping goose" looks like a toy beside an American locomotive, but it asks little or nothing from the latter when it comes to walking with a heavy train. They are not much to look at, but they do work. If the lone locomotive of the Henrietta & Southwestern were to marry a Southland street car, the resultant offspring would look very much like a French engine.

The French railroad cars—small, high-bodied, big-wheeled contraptions, do not bear up well under American railroad methods, and until American trainmen get used to them, there are frequent smash-ups. The American freight cars that have been built over here are of standard size, but conform in many respects to the French types. There are no automatic couplers and few air-brakes; the cars are hooked up by hand, and the union tightens by screwing up a wrench. At each end of the car are two iron shoulders, or bumpers. This method of coupling results in a tremendous amount of slack that makes the brakeman's job a risky one. There are few curves and few steep grades on French roads. If they can't go around a hill, they tunnel through it. Grade crossings are found only in the country and even there they are guarded with gates, which are closed whenever a train is due. In cities, the tracks are usually elevated.

French train service, excellent in peace times, is pretty slow during the war, when traffic is so heavy. The trains speed well enough until they come to a block, where there is sure to be a long wait; the engineer and conductor get chummy over a bottle of vin ordinaire and take their ease until the red light disappears.

Bicycle is Popular. Aside from the railroads, the French man's favorite means of travel is the bicycle, which is used by all classes, especially since the supply of essence, or gasoline, became so limited. It is not unusual to see a widow pedaling along her black veil trailing in the wind, and the cyclists include old patriarchs whose beards seem always about to be entangled in the wheels. The horse drawn vehicle most in use is a high, two-wheeled cart. The French know how to care for animals; the children may be unkempt and underfed, but every horse, cow and sheep will be sleek and fat. It has not been long since the French harvest, which was interesting by contrast. The average farm is too small to make practical the use of improved methods, even if the French farmer were temperamentally inclined to use them, which he isn't. An American wheat farmer would laugh, perhaps, but he could take a leaf out of the Frenchman's book in some particulars, with profit. Not a handful of the grain is wasted. The farmer himself does the cutting, using an immense cradle scythe that causes the straw to fall against the uncut grain. Mrs. Farmer trails her husband, gathering the cut straw into bundles; next come the children, picking up any loose heads that may have been missed, and finally come the chickens, cleaning any stray grains that are left. I have seen but one binder and one thrasher, both of American make and both venerably antique. Most of the threshing is done by the tedious flail method.

Since the wheat harvest, the farmers around here have harvested and marketed the raspberries which grow in thick hedges by the roadside, and the cantaloupes, for which rich American officers pay handsomely. Just now, in countless tiny vineyards, the grapes are beginning to blush ripe; blushing, no doubt, with pride over the prices they bring later when turned into wine and sold to Americans. French Methods Mystifying. French methods, in general, are mystifying and amusing to Americans, and there is little likelihood that the latter will ever get the French viewpoint of things. I know what the Americans think of the French, but none of us, probably, will ever know what the French think of the Americans. For one thing, though, a Frenchman cannot understand the Americans lack of reverence for things aged and historic. I think it is that the American is unreverent rather than irreverent, that he fails to venerate and respect because the necessity or propriety for so doing have never been made clear to him. There is the instance of some soldiers who, wishing to shoot crabs and despairing of a place away from the unfriendly eyes of the top sergeant, started their game in the gray, crumbly alcove of a church that was cracked and moss-grown with age when Queen Isabel put her lavaliers in hock for Columbus' mad scheme. Some of the parishioners were shocked, but the wise old priest was not disturbed. Probably, if he said anything at all, it was just "C'est la guerre"—that is, war—which is the reason and the excuse for everything in France these days.

The French take quite kindly to all of their war time guests of whatever colors and creeds. They are least partial to the Chinese who are used here extensively for common labor. The orientals play home-made guitars, sing native ditties, wrestle and loaf in the shade, but they work very little. I don't know what the government pays them, but they're not worth it. When an American passes a gang of them, they pause to observe him, chattering the while in a way that sounds personal—like they were talking about one's shape, or something. Quite different are the small, Indo-Chinese, who wear the French uniform, and who work like beavers.

Chinese in Evidence. The Chinese, like the negroes and everybody else, have their own Y. M. C. A., with a secretary of their own race. One wonders sometimes how wars were properly run before the Y. M. C. A. came into being, and yet now and then some small-souled individual pops up with criticism and unkind words for this great organization. Near here, there is a middle-aged Baptist minister serving as assistant secretary; being a newcomer, he has the cut job, sweeping out and selling cigarettes. While he wields the broom with true Baptist energy, it looks like he'll never learn to tell Camels from Fatimas. His chief, a Presbyterian pastor, knows, because he smokes himself. We must have cigarettes, which rank above food as a necessity of life, for smoking and reading are almost the only regular diversions. For reading, we have the Paris editions of the London Mail, the New York Herald and the Chicago Tribune. I prefer the London paper myself, though I can't get used to its practice of calling everybody "mister".

Until a few days ago, the papers were purveyed to us by one Jean Alexis Pierre Laouli Gaillard. When Jean, etc., learned that there was to be an American camp here, he promptly started studying English and as a result he was able to copy 90 per cent of the trade of some 15,000 soldiers. On the first of this month he went around to all his regular customers and collected for as many weeks in advance as he could, saying his father had gone back to the war and he needed the money. And that was the last we saw of Jean Alexis Pierre Raoul Gaillard.

Makes Trip to Paris. I have made one trip to Paris which was a wonderful experience to a country boy like me. It seemed a little strange that I should visit the French capital when I had never been in any American city larger than Kansas City, but that helped me to enjoy both the varied sights that there are in every large city and the novel and beautiful things that are peculiarly Parisian. Three honest American men, one of which included fried chicken and ice cream, were an important feature of my all too brief stay. I spent most of the time tacking around on the Rhone de Lixieux, the Rio de Reoolay and other points of historic interest. There are more than a few signs of war in Paris, and some of them I have seen. The French had hoped for an air raid, but was disappointed. If the presence of soldiers and officers of almost every allied nationality in any indication of war Paris is surely warlike. A friend and I were able to identify fourteen different uniforms. The American negro on guard at one building had apparently given up trying to make distinctions, and was saluting Belgian privates and Serbian colonels with absolute impartiality.

1758 NAMES ON LIST OF DEAD IN LATEST REPORTS

The casualty lists reported by the Commanding General of the American Expeditionary Forces, for release Saturday and Sunday morning, represent a total of 1758 of this number 813 were killed in action, 411 died of disease and 14 were killed in accidents. In addition to this number 708 are reported to have been wounded. Owing to the length of the list it is impossible to publish all the names reported and the names of those from Texas and Oklahoma are herewith given:

SOUTH AMERICAN JUGOSLAVS AID AMERICAN RED CROSS
 Among the most pro-Ally of all the peoples of the newer parts of the world are the Jugo-Slavs in South America. These people live in settlements scattered all down the western coast of South America. Most of them came originally from Dalmatia, where there a thriving colony of Jugo-Slavs, ten men sent $2,500 to the United States, to our American Red Cross. All were members of the Jugo-Slav National Defense.

an organization which is active in furthering the interests of the Jugo-Slavs in South America, and has put forth considerable efforts in support of the Jugo-Slavic cause in Europe. Large sums of money have been raised to assist the Southern Slavs of Europe in their fight for liberation and independence. The society has branches in every town where there is a Jugo-Slav colony of any size. Many of these Dalmatian emigrants have become owners of salt-petre mines and have amassed big fortunes. In addition to giving their money freely for war relief charities and such purposes, some of the younger men have gone back to Saloniki to fight on the Serbian front, paying their own passage money which amounts to about $500, back to their native land. Service in Clothes Selling

The greatest success in business comes, in the end, to the store that gives the greatest service. We all want success; but some times we forget that serving is the way to it.

Serving, as we understand it, means more than "waiting on" a customer pleasantly, delivering his purchase promptly, etc. Service begins when we buy, not when we sell; yes, before we buy; it begins with the makers of our goods. That's why we buy, and sell

Chiropractic Has Proven Itself in Influenza

When the influenza epidemic went over the country, most people, even many who were familiar with chiropractic, rushed to the medical doctors for relief, in the thought that nothing but the old line of strong drugs would do for such a serious situation. In this they differed with the army surgeons, too, who did not give but little medicine.

Of the Several Hundred Cases of Influenza Which We Adjusted We Did Not Have a Single Case of Pneumonia.

Chiropractic is just as logical for influenza as it is for any other disease—and its merit as a health agent in almost any disease is but a question of the understanding by the public. The body was meant to be healthy, and will be healthy if we give it a chance.

Chiropractic Gives It the Chance

It straightens out the life lines—the nerves—so that the brain can deliver the amount of life force which the organs demand. This done the body will readily heal itself. For the many diseases the chiropractor simply adjusts the spine at the points outlined in the illustration.

- 1 Slight subluxation at this point will cause so-called head aches, eye diseases, deafness, epilepsy, vertigo, insomnia, wry neck, facial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, etc.
- 2 A slight subluxation of a vertebra in this part of the spine is the cause of so-called throat trouble, neuralgia, pain in the shoulders and arms, goitre, nervous prostration, la grippe, dizziness, bleeding from nose, disorder of gums, catarrh, etc.
- 3 The arrow head marked No. 3 locates the part of the spine wherein subluxations will cause so-called bronchitis, fevers, pains between the shoulder blades, rheumatism of the arms and shoulders, hay fever, writers' cramp, etc.
- 4 A vertebral subluxation at this point causes so-called nervousness, heart disease, asthma, pneumonia, tuberculosis, difficult breathing, other lung troubles, etc.
- 5 Stomach and liver troubles, enlargement of the spleen, pleurisy and a score of other troubles, so-called, are caused by subluxations in this part of the spine, sometimes so light as to remain unnoticed by others except the trained Chiropractor.
- 6 Here we find the cause of so-called gall stones, dyspepsia of upper bowels, fevers, shingles, hiccough, worms, etc.
- 7 Bright's disease, diabetes, floating kidney, skin disease, boils, eruptions and other diseases, so-called, are caused by nerves being pinched in the spinal openings at this point.
- 8 Regulations of such troubles as so-called appendicitis, peritonitis, lumbago, etc., follow Chiropractic adjustments at this point.
- 9 Why have so-called constipation, rectal troubles, sciatica, etc., when Chiropractic adjustments at this part of the spine will remove the cause?
- 10 A slight slippage of one or both innominate bones will likewise produce so-called sciatica, together with many "diseases" of pelvis and lower extremities.

If you are suffering from any form of disease it will be well worth your while to have an examination, which will be made free of charge, and if we are not able to help you we will gladly tell you so.

"Of Vital Military Value" Says the Commander-in-Chief

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

13 September, 1918

My dear Mr. Fosdick:

May I convey through you as Chairman of the Commission on Training Camp Activities, a very warm expression of the Government's appreciation of the splendid services rendered by the seven officially recognized volunteer organizations which are ministering to the troops at home and overseas. The agencies to which I refer are:

Young Men's Christian Association
Young Women's Christian Association
National Catholic War Council
Jewish Welfare Board
American Library Association
War Camp Community Service
Salvation Army

Our soldiers overseas are fighting the battle for democracy with a spirit and a morale unequalled in any other army. That spirit and that morale will win the war. Through the work which these seven organizations are jointly conducting America is expressing her wholehearted support of our troops in camp and in the lines, and her anxious desire that the fine edge of their training as fighting men should be maintained.

(activity of these organizations, therefore, in mobilizing the home, the club, and the church behind the army is of vital military value and will be of the most essential value in effecting the result.)

(The united war work campaign of these societies is merely another indication of that unity of spirit as a nation that is making it possible for us to win the war. That spirit and the place which the work of these agencies has made for itself in the hearts of all of us gives me confidence to believe that the united campaign will be crowned with abundant success.)

Cordially and sincerely yours,
Woodrow Wilson

Mr. Raymond S. Fosdick,
Chairman, Commission on Training Camp Activities,
Washington, D.C.

THE President has expressed what is in every American heart. As a nation we are united in the winning of this war. As a nation we stand behind our fighters eager and prepared to do for them whatever will hasten victory and make the fighter's task a little lighter.

As individuals there is little we can do. As a nation we can work wonders through the seven organizations authorized and recognized by the Government.

They come to you not as Catholics, nor as Jews nor as Protestants, not as the representatives of any creed or enterprise, but as Americans to ask that you join in this great united undertaking for God, and country and our fighters.

The President has voiced his belief that this spirit of unity will be "crowned with abundant success."

He believes it because he knows this campaign is "of vital military value" and he knows that you will leave nothing undone to win this war.

It rests with you. Think of this campaign as your sole responsibility. What you give will mean its success. You cannot leave this undertaking to others. It is YOUR campaign. In France, Americans are fighting this war as if the result depended on the way each individual fights. At home, this campaign rests with you. What will you give—decide to night—and make your share the biggest thing you ever did!

Why you should give twice as much as you ever gave before!

The need is for a sum 70% greater than any gift ever asked for since the world began. The Government has fixed this sum at $170,500,000.

By giving to these seven organizations all at once, the cost and effort of six additional campaigns is saved. Unless Americans do give twice as much as ever before, our soldiers and sailors may not enjoy during 1919 their:

5600 Recreation Buildings	2500 Libraries supplying 5,000,000 books
1000 Miles of Movie Film	85 Messes Houses
100 Leading Stage Stars	15,000 Big-brother "vacation"
2000 Athletic Directors	Millions of dollars of home comforts.

When you give double, you make sure that every fighter has the cheer and comfort of these seven organizations every step of the way, from home to the front and back again. You provide him with a church, a theatre, a cheerful home, a store, a school, a club and an athletic field—and a knowledge that the folks back home are with him, heart and soul!

You have loaned your money to supply their physical needs. Now give to maintain the morale that is winning the war!

Belgium Under the German Heel

(By BRAND WHITLOCK)

(Published by special arrangement with the McClure News Paper Syndicate, copyright, 1918, by Brand Whitlock, under the title "Memories of Belgium Under the German Occupation. All rights reserved. Copyrighted in Great Britain, Canada and Austria. All rights reserved for France, Belgium, Holland, Italy, Spain, Russia and the Scandinavian countries.)

Why was Miss Cavell singled out among all the others as the one to be shot at dawn on the morning after condemnation? Why, if justice, even rude military justice, were being done, were they not all shot, or at least all condemned to death? Why this signal distinction, this marked and tragic discrimination?

Because Edith Cavell was English; that was her offense. And so they slew her, slew the nurse who had cared for their own wounded soldiers—those generals with stars on their breasts and iron crosses, bestowed for bravery and gallantry. They could not even think of unfolding their own legal processes; they could not wait even the few days they had allotted to the Countess de Belleville, to Madame Thuliez or to Severin the Belgian, although the Countess and Madame Thuliez, if all that is now known of the plot and the trial is true, were as deeply involved as Miss Cavell. They had been associated in a conspiracy, if the word may be employed, to aid British soldiers to escape; the only fact that saved the Princess de Croix was her declaration that after the men reached Brussels she did not know what became of them. But "Messieurs les Militaires" must hide their intentions, perhaps even from their own colleagues in the Government of occupation, and shuffle their trail victim out by stealth in the night, in midnight garb, and gun men, because she was English.

The armies of Great Britain were just then making a great offensive and it was partly in reply to this, partly an expression of the violent hatred the Germans bore every English, the savage feeling that had been fostered and kept alive and fanned into a furious flame by historians and Herr Pastors and editors with their editorials and harangues and hymns of hate, that they did what they did. It was in this spirit that they pronounced their judgment secretly in her prison cell and hurried her out and shot her that night. Another day should come in which the voice of pity and humanity could get itself heard. They could not wait for that, and they would not disturb von Bissing, here at his game of bridge in the chateau at Trois Fontaines.

"According to German Law." We were told that according to the German law, which was the law, it was only the Military Governor in the jurisdiction in which the so-called crime had been committed who had the power to receive or to grant a plea for mercy. I do not know as to that; German military law seems to be whatever "Messieurs les Militaires" are inclined at the moment to call it. Von Sauberzweig said that he alone had the power to receive our plea for mercy or even to grant a few hours delay; he accepted the responsibility and he alone afterward when he had been removed from his post at Brussels I heard of him haunted, if not by remorse at least by the memory of the deed and increasingly explaining to all who would listen why he had done what he did. He spoke of the victim always as "Die Cavell" whose "murderer," as he did not shrink from phrasing it, he was said to be. He had a son, an officer in the army, who had been horribly wounded; a bullet had passed through the head before the eyes, blinding him for life. Perhaps, said the enraged and sorrowing father, one of the very men whom "Die Cavell" had helped to escape had fired that shot that thus maimed his boy.

Baucq, the Brussels architect, was shot that morning because it would have been too big a patent to carry from the Prussian viewpoint, to hurry out a woman all alone and kill her. And so it was Baucq's ill luck to be chosen for it was that of Severin or the others whose lives were saved. Poor Baucq has not been often mentioned in connection with the tragedy. He was less legally condemned, no less foully done to death, but his fate was swallowed up in the greater horror of the assassination of his companion of that tragic dawn at Etterbeek. He left a wife and two children. One of them was a little girl of twelve who several days after went to a neighbor's and asked if she might come in and be alone for awhile. "I wish to weep for my father," she said, "but I do not like to do it before Mamma; I must be brave for her."

There were heroisms even among the Belgian children. Miss Cavell, as I have said, did not deny having aided British soldiers and Belgian lads by giving them food and clothing and lodging and money. The thirty-four who were tried were said to be concerned in a conspiracy, the word is exact, a conspiracy of wide extent to help men over the frontier into Holland, what our grandfathers in America, in our old antebellum days, would have called an underground railway. In all seventy persons were said to be included in the vast plot.

There is of course no doubt that the military camorra, and von Sauberzweig as just then the official head of it, were determined to break up if possible the system by which escapes from the frontier into Holland were facilitated. More than seven thousand young men, it was said, had come out during the months of June, July and August. These were for the part young Belgians just come of age and they went as volunteers to join the Belgian army. Mothers in Belgium trembled to see their boys shipped up for that meant not only the danger of war that was common to all but the far greater danger of crossing the frontier. There in another dark tragedy which some months later shocked that Brussels that was so accustomed to tragedy.

forms for months until they found their Belgian friends. There were French soldiers in this plight as well, and even Belgians. There was a captain of artillery, a Belgian, who had been wounded and taken prisoner at Liege; he escaped from the hospital, got to Brussels, hid for months in an attic, and then, after wonderful adventures in Oriental Flanders a post-car guided him by night across the frontier.

Miss Cavell indeed was ideally situated to aid such patriotic work. Her nursing home offered an exceptional basis. The Germans had apparently convinced themselves at least that among the seventy whom they had arrested they had the ring leaders of a formidable organization and that they had undone the knot of the conspiracy that had been carrying on so extensively the work of recruiting for the Allied armies. They determined to break it up, and they employed their favorite weapon—"furchterlichkeit" (frightfulness). What would make a deeper impression on the mind or instill greater fear in the hearts of the people than to take a woman out and shoot her—this calm, courageous little woman with the stern lips and the keen grey eyes that were not afraid? And then she was English—the unpardonable offense.

It is possible that the man at the Political Department did not know that Monday afternoon, that the judgment had been pronounced. "Messieurs les Militaires" had an affair in hand and they had set their hearts on carrying it out; and they may not have told them at the Political Department may have kept the truth from their colleagues, or with that contempt they always had for the civil department of government, may have warned them to keep their hands off. Maitre de Leval did not dare to interfere. If the military party had deceived or ignored them, they, of course, in the solidarity and discipline that binds all Germans, would not have given that fact as an excuse. The excuse they did give was that Maitre de Leval had led the American Legation into error and that, any way, even if Conrad had told Maitre de Leval what he did, neither Conrad nor Maitre de Leval had any diplomatic quality and that therefore the German authorities had not deceived the American Legation. The first excuse is not founded on fact, the second rests upon a distinction too trivial to give it any moral or legal value. Maitre de Leval did not lead us into error; Conrad did tell him, and did tell Topping, either honestly believing that he said or having been instructed to say—it must be one or the other—that no judgment had been rendered when, as a matter of fact, that judgment had been rendered hours before. The deed of course was the work of the military, deliberately planned in hatred and determinedly executed in cold blood.

Key Undefined Offenses. Edith Cavell was tried for and convicted of an offense which, while she did not know it and was allowed no legal advice to make it plain, had not been even defined in German military laws; her judgment was pronounced in secret and they tried to keep the fact of it secret—until they could hurry their victim out in the night and do her to death. And Gibson summed it all up, I think, that night, when he exclaimed: "They've done a job of which Letty Lewis and Gyp the Blood would have been ashamed."

There was a young Belgian, the son of a retired officer in the Belgian army; he bore an honorable Belgian name of which he had proved himself so unworthy, as to sell himself as a spy to the Germans. It was he, so people said, who had betrayed Miss Cavell. One morning his body was found lying in the street a bullet in his heart. Over the deed there hung the mystery of a profound and impenetrable silence. The Germans were piqued because the assassins were not at once discovered and there were threats of flogging the city 500,000 marks if justice was not instantly done. But no Belgian could be found it seemed, who knew anything about the affair, and no one, in speaking of it, seemed to evince the horror and regret that a deed should excite, though there was, in the gossip of the town, a universal sympathy for the old officer the father of the recreant youth who had brought such shame upon his house.

Louis Brill was a waiter in a restaurant in Brussels and he had been tried and condemned to death that very day for having shot down the recreant son of his own father, a recreant son of his own father, who was said to have betrayed Miss Cavell. The swarming spies and the secret agents, with inexorable patience had prowled the mysterious underworld of Brussels until they had found the man who shot the traitor down in the street, and now he, too, was to die. I do not know the whole story; it will be told some day, I suppose, with many another like it, when the history of those dark times in all their grim detail, and with an element of the romanticism in which, since war itself is so wholly an expression of romanticism, all stories of war must be invested, linked the dark event to the immortal name of the English nurse. There were those who said that Brill did not shoot him to avenge Miss Cavell, but to avenge himself and his comrades when the recreant Belgian had offered to guide parties of young Belgians who wished to leave the country and during them thus into his trap had led them to the Holland border, there miserably to betray them to the Germans. He may in this way have learned of the group with which Miss Cavell was associated; I do not know; but it was for his treachery in one of the other instances that Brill dogged him, patiently, remorselessly, tracking him down until he found himself, as he stepped from his own door into the street, Brill shot him down and left his body lying there on the sidewalk.

From that hour from having been the hunter Brill became the hunted, and for weeks eluded German spies and German "politzei" until he, too, was at last tracked down and captured. The man who came to me that night, wished to know how to present the "recours en grace" (petition for pardon) that Brill's mother had signed; and I could tell him to whom to present it at any rate. It had no effect, of course, and Brill was shot the next morning as we were informed by the usual proclamation.

In the letter that Miss Cavell wrote to her nurses there is a reference to the evil of gossip which is of immense significance; not only were happiness and reputations destroyed by idle words, she says, but life itself sacrificed. It is not for me or any one to penetrate the sacred precincts of the brave soul of Edith Cavell in that solemn hour, but the references may have been in part at least due to the fact that she found herself condemned to death because of some un-restrained and indiscreet tongues that had betrayed her.

over by our Ambassador to the Foreign Office and given out to the press for publication. They were published far and wide—and in consequence the Rotterdamse Courant and the other Dutch newspapers were not allowed on sale in Brussels that next day. The closing of the frontier to newspapers was an inevitable sign, well known in Brussels, that the Germans were not satisfied with the state of things, and we soon heard that the authorities were very angry and had even intimated that the Governor (General) might have to send all the diplomats away in consequence. It was a menace that had few terrors for us. Our situation was not enviable—but had the Germans expected to take a defenseless woman out in the night and murder her and then hope to escape the moral consequences? It was of course the policy of terrorization transferred to the diplomatic field; they were trying to divert attention from their own responsibility by complaining of us.

At any rate the Germans had a copy of the London Times over at the Politische Abteilung with our reports spread out in full through all its broad columns and were greatly agitated. Even little Conrad, much moved had exclaimed to Villaloba: "They've put me in it!" "All right," said the Marquis, "you have become one of the big bones of Europe."

Then we heard that the German rage was especially directed against de Leval for having made a report at all, and that they threatened to send him to a concentration camp in Germany. That was on Saturday, the 23rd I was convalescing; my physician had told me that I might be well again and I had made an appointment to see the Baron von der Lancken on Monday to discuss la reprise du travail, an appointment that had been postponed several times already by my illness. It was raining heavily when Monday came and Dr. Barbeche came to give me a "piqueur" and to tell me not to go out but I was better, and went from his morning ride, booted, with his iron cross and other ribbons, the white cross in his hand, and a large brief under his arm, received me with a dark face, asked me up stairs to his little workroom, where a fire was burning, and when seated he began solemnly: "I am very much pained to have to make to you the communication, etc."

He spoke then of the diplomats having remained in Brussels by courtesy of the Germans, then he said that the publication of my report in the Cavell case was a great injustice to Germany; that it was a breach of diplomatic etiquette; that de Leval was largely responsible; that our Legation was furnishing an arm to England, Germany's enemy, etc. I interrupted him to say that I could not permit myself to charge us with furnishing an arm of any sort to England; that I had but communicated the facts to our Ambassador in response to a request, and that he was not responsible for the publication. His tone grew more calm; "let us talk the matter over unofficially and in a friendly way and try to reach some conclusion," he said. This was better, and we discussed the case in all its bearings.

He had copies of the Times and of Morning Post before him, marked with red and blue pencil. His objections, it soon developed, were not to the report, but to the fact that the report had been published; save that by reason of what he alleged as misstatements in de Leval's report he himself had been accused of having broken his promise. He said that I, officially, as American Minister, had not made frequent inquiries; that it was de Leval who had spoken to Conrad and that neither de Leval nor Conrad was my diplomatic quality. What he wished, then, at the end was that I express regret at the publication and that de Leval instantly be dismissed from the Legation; otherwise he could not be responsible for what would happen to him. Already the military had threatened to arrest and deport him.

"You don't think me capable of throwing him to the wolves and let this Sauberzweig eat him alive!" I exclaimed. The Baron smiled; his blue eyes twinkled. As to the regrets I said that I would not express any nor make any statement unless instructed by my Government so to do. We talked calmly and frankly perhaps as never before, both recognizing in our conversation that fact that the relations between our Governments were still strained over the Lusitania case. We spoke of the "travillement" and the danger involved to it in any disagreement, but even so, I said, rather than seem to shirk any responsibility, or to abandon de Leval I should prefer to withdraw from Belgium. At this he protested, begged me not to mention such a thing, suggested that Villaloba join the discussion, to which I consented, of course, with pleasure, and we parted to meet again at three p. m. And in the end he was friendly, shaking hands twice and inquiring solicitously about my health.

A Last Discussion. At three o'clock that afternoon in yellow salon downstairs, the Baron and the Marquis and I met, and Baron von der Lancken outlined the whole subject again; on the table before him were copies of the London newspapers with the Graphic, or some illustrated journal containing my picture, and one of Villaloba—the Marquis in a yachting cap, at Cowes, thirty years before, he said with a sigh.

Baron von der Lancken's tone made it clear that he was especially bitter against de Leval. He said that de Leval was persona non grata and that his presence compromised our neutrality. I told him that of course if de Leval was persona non grata he could be eliminated, though not as a punishment, and only after communication with Washington.

We talked all afternoon, a terrible afternoon. I was weary and depressed, weary of the long strain, weary of negotiations in French of all accents, and I was still seedy and under the horror of that awful night. I refused to give the statement he desired or to authorize any expression in the nature of an excuse, a disclaimer, or a regret. So it was left to de Leval, who when in a world of Scriptures that had given her comfort and then, last entry of all, written while she was yet alive and life still pulsing within her, when in a world of otherwise ordered, long years of devoted service might have been hers, the legend, the epithet that need not yet have been: "Died at 7 a. m., on Oct. 12th, 1915."

There were a few francs and a few precious trinkets, all her poor little belongings. And yet—how vast, how noble, how rich an estate!

The modest English nurse whose strange fate it was to be so suddenly summoned from the dim wards of sickness and of pain to a high place among the world's heroes and martyrs will have, in happier, freer times, her monument in Brussels, some street or public place will bear her name, the school she founded will be called after her, and continue her mission of healing in the earth. And when the horror of her cruel and unjust fate shall have faded somewhat in the light of its emergent sacrifice, the few lines she wrote and the simple words she spoke as she was about to die will remain to reveal the heights that human nature may attain, and to sanctify a memory that will be revered as long as faith and honor are revered of men.

Style Alone Is Not Sufficient: Quality Must Be Considered!

Style and Quality Are Combined in These New Suits, Coats and Dresses

This season more than ever before women will question the quality of the garment they purchase. They will ask, "Is it of good material? Will it wear more than one season? Is it worth what I pay for it?" Our answer to these questions is that these garments are made of the best materials obtainable. That they will wear, if properly taken care of, at least two seasons and still be in good style, for these styles are extremely practical: that every garment is reasonably priced. You owe it to yourself to investigate these garments before purchasing. We cordially invite your inspection this week.

Now Is the Time to Do Your Christmas Shopping

The Government asks that you shop early. You'll conserve labor and get better selections and values. It's only about six weeks 'till Xmas.
