Mrs. Mulvehill Owns Land In Family

THE STAR CORRECTS AN ERROR

The Star hereby corrects an erroneous statement made in its columns about three weeks ago, when it stated that T. E. Mulvihill of Kansas City, Mo., was here looking after his land and farming interests, stating that he owned a tract of fine land west of Friona. About ten days ago, Mrs. T. E. Mulvihill arrived and on learning of the statement, asked the editor to correct the expression above referred to, stating that the land belonged to her, that it was paid for with her money, that she was looking after it herself and that no other parties have any say in its management.

Rev. Chester C. Brown Makes Friends in Friona

Rev. Chester C. Brown, a theological student of the University of Chicago, who is here supplying for Rev. Paxton Smith at the Congregational Church, is getting acquainted with Friona people and winning friends among them. He has preached here on both the past two Sundays and his sermons have won the commendation of his congregation. He will preach again this Sunday at the morning service hour, 11:30.

Rev. Brown is staying with John White during his stay here.

Good Rain Falls Monday Afternoon

Between two and three inches of moisture was received Monday afternoon in the immediate vicinity of Friona in a rain which lasted less than an hour.

Territory covered by the rain extended from the Roy Clements farm on the west and did not reach the Clyde Seamands ranch, two miles east of Friona. Rain to the south of Friona varied from an inch in the Lakeview Community to a very heavy rain at the Bev. Buchanan farm, 12 miles southeast.

Smith Enjoying Work At Colorado School

Loveland, Colo., Sylvan Dale Ranch, July 13, 1942. Mr. John White, Editor Friona Star, Friona, Texas. Dear John:

I was indeed glad to receive a copy of the home-town newspaper today, and Ralph Woodward was pleased to look over a copy of the publication he has set type for once or twice. I found that he had already talked about Friona and Spring Lake churches, and several of the faculty recall Carl Dollar, who attended this school in 1940. I found two Congregational ministers from South Dakota, here who knew Friona and Spring Lake real well, having lived in the Panhandle at one time. They are Norman L. Rice, of Gregory, S. D., who is a brother-in-law of Ray Smith, of Friona, and used to live at Hereford and Spring Lake, and William Jurgensen, of Badger, S. D., who used to live within the vicinity of Spring Lake. There are over 50 Congregational ministers from most of the States west of the Mississippi in attendance. Rev. D. D. Wilson, of Fort Worth, who preached in Friona, May 24, is my room mate. They call me "Tex" and ask me if I am from "Deep In the Heart of Texas."

For a plainsman, such as myself, these majestic mountains, rugged cliffs and swift-flowing streams and rivers are, indeed, an impressive sight. They are enjoying "unseasonably hot weather" for cool Colorado they tell me here. We are about a mile high at the camp, and the days are hot and the nights generally cool, a great deal like Friona. However, Sunday, we went over the continental divide, (12,183 feet above sea level, with several feet of snow it was rather cold.) I am glad to be that harvesting is progressing so well, and I miss all of the people there very much. I know you will enjoy the presence and ministry of Rev. Chester Brown in Friona. Sincerely your friend, Paxton Smith.

They say the darkest hours comes just before dawn, but there aren't many folks who can prove it.

If you want to get rid of a man who tries to borrow some money... lend it to him.

COGITATIONS and APHORISMS of Jodok

Of course, we always want good people to come to our city, to trade, to visit or to live, and since these recruits to our business life, our social life or our population must all be won by some sort of attraction, it is up to our people to furnish these varied attractions.

Some of the business attractions are steady employment for labor; prompt and dependable craftsmanship for those needing such services, and at a reasonable price; high quality products and merchandise, accompanied by truthful and courteous salesmanship on the part of those who deal in such articles; that all necessary crafts of the locality be represented therein. A dependable banking institution with capable and courteous attendants; a hospital or medical clinic commensurate to the needs of the locality, and a skillful and fully qualified physician and surgeon. All of these Friona already has.

The main attractions for a social life are a hospitable people, or citizenry; a suitable number and variety of civic and social organizations accompanied by a good moral atmosphere; and with these Friona is sufficiently supplied.

As an attraction for permanent residents or citizens of the desirable type, a city should have all the above named attributes with the added attractions of churches, educational institutions or churches, educational institutions and advantages of the highest possible type and competent and efficient ministers and instructors. And these requirements are filled at Friona.

There is still another attraction which should, perhaps, have been mentioned first and which applies to each of the above named factors or objects in attracting people to our city, and that is beauty.

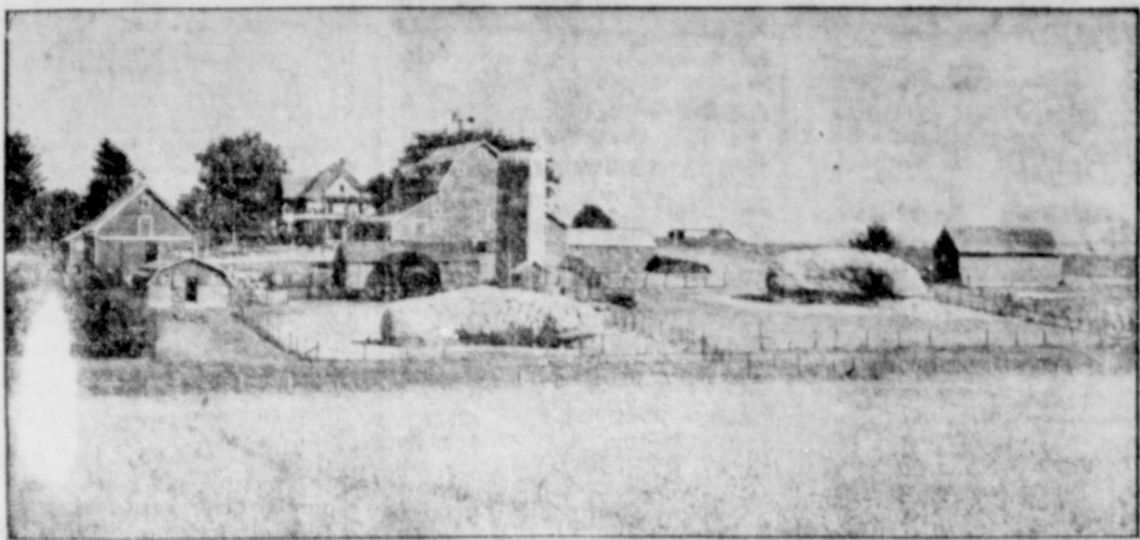

Friona has a great many beautiful homes with shady yards and well kept lawns, still further beautified by flowers and ornamental shrubbery. But these are not enough to make an entirely beautiful city, and especially when these things are eclipsed or partly so by growths of high, rank weeds, piles of cow feed, cast off machinery and other unsightly rubbish. And such as this can be seen in nearly all parts of the city, and more especially in the business section, where alleys are almost completely choked with such things, and with strong emphasis on the weeds.

And not alone in the alleys are these objectionable features to be seen, but on nearly all vacant lots and the rear end of the lots that are occupied, may they be seen; and to say the least, they do not afford an attractive sight to business visitors, social visitors or prospective residents.

Not only do such conditions hinder business and social life and retard an increase in population, but they detract from the value of all properties where these conditions abound and become a handicap to business enterprise and economic thrift.

I mentioned the fact last week that cities must be built, as they do not grow of their own accord. But that is not true of weeds, which includes all noxious vegetation. Regardless of the fact that this has been one of the driest seasons on record, so far as the city of Friona and its immediate surrounding territory is concerned the city has a most prolific growth of tumble weeds, cockle burrs, bull nettles, careless weeds, mule

Farm Income Sets New Record

Farms, like this one in Grundy county, Iowa, earn a higher cash income from marketing in 1941 than in any year since 1920. Gross farm income in 1941 is estimated at just under 14 billion dollars. Increase resulted both from heavier marketings and higher prices.

tail or hog weeds and many other varieties of the noxious vegetation growing in the alleys, along the sides of the streets and on vacant lots and even along the sidewalk along the front of the school grounds.

And it is a sorry fact that much or all of this could be avoided if every business man, every home owner and landlord, and the city officials would get busy and see to it that these weeds are all destroyed on all premises owned or controlled by them. Thenceforth surely would no be much left.

Some of these have already done this, and my hat is off to B. T. Galloway, who has all the weeds cut and piled that grew on the lot in the rear of his place of business; to J. A. Blackwell, who has done a commendable job of clearing the weeds from the vacant lot south of his store. True all of this could not be done without moving the various idle machines that are located there, also to O. F. Lange for the almost immaculate condition of the Rockwell Bros. & Co. lumber yard. There is hardly a weed to be found on those premises. In addition to that, Oscar has several well trimmed shade and ornamental trees, surrounded by a pretty green yard in front of the office building, which add beauty to the surroundings.

The Friona Star office also has a fair sized swath of the weeds cut from around it, which permits people to enter without becoming choked from the dust that accumulates on the foliage of weeds. I have not been around any of the local churches lately, so cannot tell as to conditions there this year, but last year the church grounds were all kept free from weeds and were beautified by plantings of lovely and fragrant flowers.

In making these suggestions, compliments and criticisms, I am not blaming anyone in particular, and am including myself in any or all criticisms made, and there may be others who are deserving of being complimented for their individual effort in making a beautiful city in which fact we are all interested or should be interested; but many of us are prone to become accustomed to deleterious sights and conditions and thus become careless about them, and frequently need to have our attention called to the fact and our interests aroused in ridding our city of them. I shamefully acknowledge that I am one of the guilty ones, but I have made some efforts toward keeping the weeds down around my home and dhava so far succeeded that I am still able to get on and off the premises without getting lost in the weeds.

I have not kept up on all the campaign speeches and radio addresses of the many candidates for office in our state. Neither have I read much of the campaign literature that has come to my hand from these various candidates. So far as I have learned, I have nothing in particular against any of these candidates for State offices, and I know I have nothing but friendly feeling toward all our county and precinct candidates, for regardless of whom shall be elected, we will have good men at the helm.

As to the three candidates for United States Senator, I hold no personal enmity against any of them, neither am I frantic with love or admiration for any of them. They have each served as governor of the State, and I have lived under the administration of each of them, and so far as I have been able to discern, I have fared as well under one as either of the other two, so what difference should it make to me?

I have not the least reason to doubt the word, the honor or the veracity of any of these men, but if each has told the truth and only the truth about his two opponents, they are none of them morally fit to sit as a member of the United States Senate.

I have just read and listened to enough of their harangues to convince me of the truth of the above statement. I have no particular interest in Senator O'Daniel, but I do believe the man is honest in his convictions, although he may be lacking in influence and ability, but even at that he stands a fifty-fifty chance with his two opponents. And I feel assured that they, too, are honest in at least one purpose, and that is to defeat O'Daniel, either by fair means or foul.

I have never been able to enjoy a dog fight (or any other kind of fight, for that matter) and especially does it arouse my indignation when I see two dogs attack another dog and apparently try to eat him alive. My sympathy always goes out to that "third dog" and this present Senatorial race reminds me very much of that sort of a dog fight. I reminds me, also of the old eucher—playing day many years ago, when there were but three players, with two of them playing against the other one. In all other respect the game was played like "eucher" but was called "Cut Throat."

This three-cornered Senatorial race, also reminds me of the game, "cut throat," from the fact that both the Hon. Mr. Moody and the Hon. Mr. Allred, seem to be throwing or shooting all their vitriolic expressions and accusations at Senator O'Daniel, and seldom referring to each other. They both seem to be after O'Daniel's throat.

But that makes me nothing out, for if they have each told only the truth about the others they are neither one of them worthy of my vote. As to the candidates for governor, I can see no reason why Governor Coke Stephenson, has not made as good an official as any man that has ever occupied the Governor's Mansion. He seems to be fair and honest. As to Mr. Collins, I know nothing much about him except what his enemies have written about him. However, he has made some accusations against the Governor, that do not savor good with me.

Then there are the candidates for Commissioner of Agriculture—the present incumbent and the man who wants to oust him. I do not know what Mr. McDonald's policies have been, but his opponent accuses him of being false to his party and thinks he should be cast out, regardless of wisdom of his policies and their worth to the farmers of the State. This opponent (I believe his name is Corry) as good as says that if he is elected he will be true to the party regardless of whether or not it will be a blessing or a curse to the people who elect him. Well, as for me, my vote is too precious to be thrown away on such a man as that, regardless of what his party affiliation may be. Any man who will sacrifice the interests of the people for party fealty, is not forthly to hold any office.

But regardless of my personal opinions about such matters, may the election pass off peacefully and may all the best men be elected. I have no ill will toward any of them, even though I may not be thoroughly infatuated with them. They are politicians and politicians just naturally want to be in office.

From where I sit...

by Joe Marsh

You ought to meet my friend, Will Dudley. I suppose Will must be seventy-eight or nine... but you'd never know it. He's tall and lean and hard as a hickory. And although the only formal education he ever had was a few winters in the old red schoolhouse, I think that he's the wisest man I know in many ways.

For one thing, Will taught me the value of what he calls "Just a-settin'!"

Come upon Will in the evening, when his hard day's work is done, and you'll find him "just a-settin'," in a rocker on his porch. In one hand he'll have his old briar pipe and in the other, a tall cool glass of beer.

"Wholesome, appetizin' beer," says Will, "is standard equipment for proper settin'! Puts a feller in an easy-goin' peaceful mood."

You see, Will holds the theory that in our present mixed-up world, a man needs a quiet hour every day. An hour in which to sit down quietly and restore his strength and courage.

Will thinks, and I agree with him, that a man ought to forget all his own and the world's worries during that hour-of-peace. And Will feels that a glass of fragrant melow beer helps most to bring you quiet relaxation.

Show me the man who sits down quietly on an evening with his glass of beer and I'll show you a man who is wise in the ways of living. Such men, like Will Dudley, live to a ripe old age, unembittered by the troubles of the world. They seem to remain, all their lives, sweet-natured and kindly.

Time has a way of rendering accurate judgments on the value of the things men use and enjoy in the world. And Time... thousands of years of it... has handed down the verdict that beer is a pleasant and worthy companion for all men of good will.

Let's Cook Something

Here is an inexpensive little cake that brings forth much favorable comment when served. The question of what sort of cake to bake keeps bobbing up, even though sugar is on the rationed list. More than one cup of sugar can hardly be spared. Your taste will tell you why this cake is one of Mrs. George V. Stambaugh's favorites and it's simple and easy to make too.

SUGAR RATION CAKE

- 2 squares bitter chocolate
- 1-4 lb. butter (melted)
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup water
- 1 1-2 cups flour
- 1 scant teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream the sugar and butter and add the melted chocolate and blend thoroughly. Add unbeaten eggs, one at a time, mixing well and beating thoroughly after each egg. Add the water and flour alternately and last place the soda on one side of batter in mixing bowl and the baking powder on the other and stir vigorously until all is blended. Bake in loaf or layers in 350 F. oven for 35 to 40 minutes. It is good without icing.

Mrs. Jack Flowers of Hereford was a caller in the J. A. Roe home Wednesday afternoon.

J. A. Roe had about 15 acres of stubble land burned off Friday night. It was late in the night when the fire was discovered. The boys took the tractor and plowed around the burning area and it was soon brought under control. There have been a number of stubble fires since harvest. Most farmers like to plow the stubble under as there is less danger of the soil blowing unless the stubble is very heavy.

Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Roe and children of Hereford were visitors in the J. A. Roe home Sunday afternoon.

John Ross received word the last of the week telling of the death of his oldest brother, Hooker B. Ross. He passed away Tuesday at his home at La Plata, Mo. He leaves a son, Leslie, four other brothers and two sisters besides John here. He was 81 years of age and had been ill for some time. John Ross was unable to attend the funeral.

Kenneth Lisenbee who is on furlough was visiting friends here Sunday afternoon.

Another apparently very busy man is H. H. Weis, who has the contract for erecting the string of storage bins for the Santa Fe Grain Company, and is apparently moving heaven and earth to get the job under way.

Another man who is going to be fairly busy when the bins are completed is Slim Taylor, who has the job of moving the wheat from the big steel storage bins of the Company and placing it in the smaller bins. Slim has rheumatism in his back and arms just now and could not handle much grain if the bins were ready.

It is understood that the grain that is to be moved is government hold-over wheat, and it is being moved so that the Santa Fe Grain may have the use of its steel bins for handling this year's crop.

Some of our younger people have been taking advantage of the nice artificial lake at the home of Mr. Talley, northwest of town as a bathing or swimming resort. It is reported to be an excellent place for such sport, and the chanticler is informed that Mr. and Mrs. Talley do not object to its use for that purpose, but ask that these swimmers do not take their property,

News of AAA Farm Program

By JOHN MARTIN, Administrator

Producers who have in orders or any farmers who are interested in CCC grain bins are advised to contact the AAA Office in Farwell, in order to secure one of these bins. At the present time we have approximately 12 bins which have been unloaded and are stored in Bovina, and approximately 12 bins stored in Friona.

Wheat producers are urged to begin thinking of insuring their 1943 wheat crop since this insurance will be offered to the producers of this county within the next few days. The new insurance contract will be written for a period of three years. Past farming experience has taught us that we do not make a wheat crop every year as we have made this year; therefore, in order to secure a normal income from our future wheat crops we should protect our crop with Federal All-Risk Crop Insurance. You will be notified within the near future as to your 1943 allotments, yields, and premium rates. After you have received this notice we will be glad to explain the crop insurance program to you in detail if you will call at the local AAA Office.

As yet we do not have enough boys to measure land for general compliance and if anyone is interested in this kind of work please call at the AAA Office at the earliest possible date for an examination which will be given before starting to work. The rate of pay for a performance reporter is $5.00 per day and the rate of pay for a chairman is $3.00 per day for eight hours work.

It doesn't pay to be so busy doing so many things that you forget what you are supposed to be doing.

O. F. Lange has received three carloads of new-lumber for Rockwell Bros. & Co., this week. These cars contained dimension stuff and flooring, and are to be used in building grain bins for the storage of our large wheat crop.

It is stated on good authority that towns in the Eastern and Central part of the State are unable to secure any kind of lumber; but Oscar tells the wholesalers that the government is calling on the farmers to produce lots of food, and that the Panhandle is doing just that—but must have storage space for its production, and he is getting the materials.

Marvin Whaley is reported to have the largest collection of various breeds of birds, native and foreign, to be found in Farmer County and probably in the Panhandle. He also has a fine assortment of flowers at his home.

AT TECH SCHOOL

Charles Reeve, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Reeve is now at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill., where he is in training to become instructor in the Army Air Corps Technical Schools.

He writes of his work and conditions as follows:

"Thus far I am liking my work fine. I can't say that I like the hours too good though. It is sure a task to get up at 4:30 a. m. and drive to Rantoul, (since I am living at Campaign, 15 miles from Rantoul), and get to class at 6:30. I stay in class until 2:00; study from 2:00 until 3:00 and then go home. I reach home about 4:00 o'clock and study until 7:00 or 7:30, eat supper and go to bed about 8:30 or 9:00. As you see I really have very little time for myself.

"In this school we have certain phases that are to be completed in ten days. All student instructors are required to make a grade of 85 for each phase. Here is an outline of the phases of the course: Basic, Structures.

They Fight on the Home Front

When the three sons of Wyoming dairy farmer Allen C. Hunsaker volunteered for Army service, operation of their 30-acre farm was left to Hunsaker, his wife, and 13-year-old daughter Ruby. They work 14 to 18 hours a day, employ scientific agriculture to speed up production for wartime needs. A milking machine reduces the work of milking 20 high-grade Holstein cows. A pooling arrangement with neighbors saves tires and gasoline in hauling milk to the cheese factory. Mr. and Mrs. Hunsaker pose with pictures of their sons, top photo. Mr. Hunsaker hauls part of 75-ton hay crop he raises each year on an irrigated meadow, left photo. Mrs. Hunsaker had 400 quarts of fruit left over after canning 1015 quarts last summer, right photo. Like other farm families, the Hunsakers are helping to win the war in every quart of milk, every pound of butter they produce.

Hydraulics, Propeller, Instruments and single engine, i. e. a thorough course in the mechanics of the airplane. This makes a total of 60 days training. It will then take 20 days observation of teaching and methods. Then 20 days for practice teaching. In class today we took the landing gear off an airplane, gave it an inspection and returned it. That is about all we did.

"There is something like 30,000 soldiers and 5,000 instructors at Chanute Field. Every hour we have a ten minute recess, and I wish you could see the mob of men during that time. There are three places to punch time clocks and at each place there is always a string about 500 feet long with people punching out. Besides that, there are two shifts and thus far I have only seen half of what goes on.

"David, my roommate, and I went into town last night. I had no idea there would be so many people. The crowd reminded me a lot of Broadway in New York City. The people were just standing around and looking. There are no beautiful signs to watch, however. I believe there are more nice stores (clothing stores) than in Amarillo. You should get quite a "kick" out of window shopping here.

"I think I have a good chance of being sent to the Technical School at Amarillo when I complete my training, since the school will be opened about the time I finish my training period here.

PVT. OWENS VISITED HOME FOLKS

Mrs. C. W. Owens of Hub Community wrote to the Star this week telling of the visit of her son.

"Pfc. C. W. Owens, of Hq. Hq. Sq., 330, A. B. G., Pendleton, Ore., arrived at home on July 9, for a few days visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Owens, of the Hub Community, and his brothers and their families. He was looking well and said he likes the Air Corps.

He enlisted Oct. 18. He was sent to El Paso, then to Jefferson, Mo., then to Boise, Ida., and is now at Pendleton, but is anxious for the war to get over, so he can come home to stay. He left for camp, July 16."

Mr. and Mrs. Owens received a letter from another son, Pvt. Juel S. Owens, of U. S. Army, Co. A, 77th Med. Bn., 7th Armored Division, Camp Polk, Ga. Part of the letter reads:

"Dear Folks: Will write a few lines tonight. Have been out in the field for the past two days. We went out in trucks and cars yesterday, and we went out on foot today. It was 8 miles out there. We went out in four groups and we had to use the compass to find our way out to dinner grounds in the woods, but we all made it all right, then we didn't grumble over what we had to eat. But it has been pretty hot down here for the past three days, but came a rain this evening after we got back to camp. We have been doing about the same as we did at Camp Berkeley."

Camp Berkeley is where Pvt. Owens received his 8 months training when he enlisted in the army on April 14. He was sent from Lubbock to Fort Sill, Okla., and from there to Camp Berkeley. He says the Army is not too bad but hopes the war will soon be over.

Farmers Rally to Meet Food Production Goals

BY RALPH HERBERT

"OUR wartime food strategy means for farmers the all-out production of many farm products."

That key sentence from a recent speech by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard helps to tie together several "recent" developments in Washington. It is a key to his support and opposition to policies outside the Department of Agriculture.

It explains why he is lined up squarely against the farm bloc in the House that wants to forbid selling wheat at less than parity price. Wickard holds that the country needs the wheat for all-out production. He says the Ever-Normal Granary has been filled for use in emergency and that this is an emergency. He says that feeding of surplus wheat will favor all-out production of dairy products, poultry products, beef and pork; and that farmers can realize parity prices for grain production without forcing feeders to pay full parity prices for wheat that can be used to advantage if it sells at a lower price.

Need for all-out production explains the satisfaction Wickard expresses with the way farmers generally have rallied to meet nearly all the "goals" for 1942. Many of these goals were set before Pearl Harbor or immediately after, and several were raised as war developments showed the need for higher and higher production. Early in July he emphasized that the immediate outlook for food was "very good," but that future prospects are not as good as they are at present. Weather has been generally favorable, the farm labor shortage is only beginning to pinch here and there, and fertilizer, insecticide, transportation machinery, and labor transportation situations are likely to bear harder on 1943 production than in 1942.

ALL the more reason, Wickard insists, for all-out production of the many foods needed in the war, and for sharply cut production of any crop that is not definitely needed. The only practical limit on what is likely to be needed is the shipping space to take it abroad, either to our armies, or to England, Russia, and China where need for our

UNION CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

From all indications our pastor is thoroughly enjoying himself in Colorado. He writes of the stimulating discussions held each day in camp, and the many activities that make the whole program unique in its contribution to growth in Christian personality. "We shall be eager to hear some of these experiences when you return, Mr. Smith."

The presence of a number of our young people last Sunday inspired me. I am glad to see them in our congregation. In these days, all hands, both young and old, should be joined in a common task—the building of a Kingdom of God here on earth. Let us never forget that the spirit of God can penetrate the darkest blackout.

Records For Our Fighting Men

A chance to do something constructive for the morale of our men in camp is offered all citizens of the Friona territory by the American Legion Scrap Record Drive which is getting underway this week. Mrs. David Moseley president of the Legion Auxiliary said today.

Briefly, the legion wants all your old phonograph records—broken or otherwise. The materials used in record manufacture are scarce, as any "Platterbug" can tell you, and these old records will provide materials from which new records can be made to send to the boys in camp.

Turn in your records to the post office or to the Roy Price Jewelry Shop.

He lists among the immediate post-war needs the feeding of the starving millions of Europe, the establishment of better racial relations, the creation of a new international order, and the inter-fellowship of Christians of the nations now separated by warfare.
