

Tree-Climbing Skunk
The common skunk or polecat cannot climb trees. There is only one member of the skunk family that does climb trees to avoid pursuit. This is the kind called the "little spotted skunk" or the "hydropobia skunk" and is found chiefly in the southwestern and western states.

Stepping Heavenward or (?)
Accredited scientific observers are telling us with increasing plainness that under the new ideas of today which have translated liberty into license multitudes of girls, to say nothing of young men, are being swept away into open and notorious immortality.—New York Journal.

Slightly Mixed
Bobby, sent by his mother with a message to a lady down the street, got the wording of it mixed up a bit. "Mother declines with pleasure your invitation for next Thursday," he said, "and thanks you extremely for having given her the pleasure of doing so."—Young Man.

Term of Objurgation
"Rascalion" is a form of rascallion, which comes from rascal, meaning a low, sneaking person. Rascalion means about the same thing, although there is a tendency to use it in an affectionate sense, especially when speaking to a boisterous boy or a mischievous dog.

CENSUS EXAMINATIONS ANNOUNCED

Washington, D. C., October 16 1919.—The United States Civil Service Commission has announced that it will receive applications until November 2 1929 for certain temporary positions in the Bureau of the Census in Washington, D. C., in connection with the Fifteenth Decennial Census.

The positions for which examinations are to be held are junior clerk junior calculating machine operator, and junior tabulating machine operator, with an entrance salary of $1,440 a year, and under card-punch operator with an entrance salary of $1,260 a year.

These examinations are open to all citizens of the United States, both men and women, who meet the requirements.

It is expected that a large number of appointments will be made. The length of service will probably range from one to two years in most cases but in no case will it extend beyond December 31, 1932.

Full information regarding these examinations can be obtained from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., or from the Secretary of the United States Civil Service Board at the post office or customhouse in any city.

National Museum

The United States National museum is at Washington, in charge of the Smithsonian institution. The museum is rich in the natural history, geology, paleontology, archeology and ethnology of America, and has collections of American history, including war collections, as well as many series relating to the arts and the industrial arts. It is an educational and research museum.

"Quebec" Indian Name

The word Quebec is of Indian origin. It was used by the Micmacs to denote a narrow passage like that between Halifax harbor and Halifax basin, and by the Algonquins for a similar purpose. The peculiar conformation of the St. Lawrence river at Quebec where Cape Diamond narrows it so suddenly, is readily noticeable, and doubtless gave rise to the use of the word as the name of the city.

Says Memory's All That's Left Of Old Trouble

Mrs. Givens' Health Restored by Orgatone suffered with stomach trouble and indigestion.

"About all that is left of my many months of suffering is the memory of it," said Mrs. W. W. Givens, residing at 712 N. Scott, Wichita Falls Texas, in relating her experience with Orgatone recently.

"If I could have only found Orgatone a long time ago" she continued, "I would have been feeling better today, and I would have saved many a dollar besides for I've spent several hundred dollars with doctors and trying to find something that would help me. My doctors doctored me for a long time and said that I had heart trouble but it didn't seem to help me much. I was nervous and restless most all the time and could not eat anything but what it would sour my stomach. Gas formed after each meal until I was almost afraid to eat anything and this would cause my heart to palpitate and I was in a very badly rundown condition."

"I saw where Orgatone was advertised so highly and so many local people were taking it and what it was doing for them that I decided to try it and I am certainly glad I did for I am feeling like a different woman. I have a good appetite now, and rest and sleep better and my food digests now. My heart doesn't bother me now, and I know that it must have been my stomach with gas formation for I noticed the improvement right away. Orgatone has helped me so much I am buying two bottles in order that my husband may take it. I am glad to recommend it to my friends for it has certainly proven its worth to me."

Genuine Orgatone may be bought in Baird at Wheeler's Drug store.

Goldsmith's Birthplace

The birthplace of Oliver Goldsmith, the British poet, playwright and novelist, is not known for certain. He is usually said to have been born at Pallas or Pallasmore, County Longford, Ireland. Recent investigations indicate that he may have been born at Elphin, Roscommon, Ireland, in the home of his mother's father, Rev. Oliver Jones. At any rate, Goldsmith was born in Ireland in 1728.

Fable

The old fellow was ninety-four and told reporters he didn't attribute his longevity to any particular diet.

HE'S THE WHOLE THING

So much is heard of colossal mergers and big financiers that it is refreshing to learn that the small city bank and the small city banker has not entirely disappeared. At a luncheon meeting late secretaries were introducing the other officers of their State organizations. Eugene P. Gum, Oklahoma City, presented Dr. D. P. Richardson Union City, Oklahoma, a large man with a kindly face and snow-white hair.

"Dr. Richardson" said Gum calmly, "is a member of the Board of Groupe One Bankers, president of the Bank of Union president of the El Reno Bank chief surgeon of the Rock Island Railroad for Oklahoma, local physician and mayor of Union, and he owns the drug store cotton gin and hardware store. He is the postmaster and owns 3,000 acres, which averaged thirty-seven bushels to the acre when the country averaged sixteen bushels."

"He is the man who ordered a bill of gods from a city firm and returned it as unsatisfactory. The city firm sent the bill to the local bank for collection but it was returned. It wrote to the postmaster for information about the dissatisfied buyer and then wrote to the local attorney, who replied:

"I am the man who returned the unsatisfactory goods. I am the local banker you asked to collect the bill. I am the local postmaster you asked for information. I am the local attorney and the mayor, and if I were not the local minister I would tell you to go to hell."

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Callahan County—Greeting:

You are hereby Commanded to summon Don E. Lewis, by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in any newspaper published in the Forty-second Judicial District; but if there be no newspaper published in said Judicial District, then in a newspaper published in the nearest District to said Forty-second Judicial District, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Callahan County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in Baird, Texas, on the 4th, Monday in October A. D., 1929, the same being the 28th day of October A. D., 1929, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 13th day of October, A. D., 1927, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 7274, wherein R. A. Rowland, Trustee is Plaintiff, and Don E. Lewis and Mrs. Estelle W. Lewis are Defendants, and said petition alleging that on the 7th, day of January 1920, Stewart Farm Mortgage Company conveyed to defendant Don E. Lewis the North one-half (1-2) of the T. E. and L. Company Survey No. 3000, in Callahan County, Texas, containing 160 acres more or less, that Defendant Don E. Lewis in part payment for said land executed his five certain promissory vendor's lien notes for the sum of Nine Hundred Forty and no-100 dollars ($940.00) each dated January 7th, 1920, bearing interest at the rate of eight per cent per annum and payable to the order of Stewart Farm Mortgage Company on or before 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 year respectively after their dates; that in said deed vendor's lien was retained on said land to secure the payment of said notes.

That on the 13th, day of December 1922, defendant Don E. Lewis conveyed said land to defendant Estelle W. Lewis, who assumed payment of said notes. That on the 15th, day of July, 1927, Stewart Farm Mortgage Company transferred and assigned to plaintiff the said notes and the lien securing them. That said notes are unpaid and have been placed in the hands of L. L. Blackburn, an attorney, for collection and plaintiff has contracted to pay him the ten per cent attorney's fees stipulated in said notes, said petition prays for judgment, for plaintiff's debt interest, attorney's fees and costs of suit, for foreclosure of plaintiff's lien on said land and that the same be sold according to law.

Herein Fail Not but have before said Court, at its aforesaid regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given Under My Hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Baird, this 25th, day of September, A. D., 1929.

AT
Jones & Conner's Store
BAIRD, TEXAS

FRIENDS, we're out after new customers. Most of the good people of Baird and vicinity are already favoring us with their business, but there are still a few who have not yet tried RED CHAIN Feeds.

We are going to make it worth while to come to our new store Saturday, by offering you a 25c saving on every 100-lb. bag of any RED CHAIN Feed. This will make the price of RED CHAIN approximately as low—or lower—than even the very cheapest "junk" feeds. At this big saving, you can't afford NOT to try RED CHAIN!

We are making this special ONE-DAY OFFER because we know, from past experience, that anyone who tries RED CHAIN comes back for more—and we've won another satisfied customer. At the regular price most of the feeders of this community will tell you that RED CHAIN Feeds—judged by results and net profits—are the MOST ECONOMIC FEEDS YOU CAN USE!

OLD CUSTOMERS

YOU are included in this offer, too! We appreciate your business and we will offer you this same saving as a token of our appreciation. Come—and bring a new customer with you!

YOUR BOY AND GIRL
Have we a national asset more worthy of conservation than the HEALTH of our Children? We hear much about the conservation of water power, of timber and of soil, but our program for the CONSERVATION of our Children's HEALTH lags years behind.
It is true that millions have been spent in building institutions to care for the afflicted, but what have we done to CONSERVE the HEALTH of our growing boys and girls?
This is not a public problem—it is an individual responsibility of every Father and Mother. True we give them wholesome food, fresh air, sunshine and exercise—and these are very important. But are you especially concerned if your child lags in his school work? Don't censure him unless you are sure it is willful on his part. He may have a serious handicap of which you are not aware! His vision may be poor, or his hearing deficient. He may have bad tonsils or adenoids.
If your child's school work is unsatisfactory, if he is underweight or his appetite poor, if he is subject to colds or sore throat, if his eyes are bad or his hearing deficient you should lose no time in taking him to your Chiropractor for a thorough examination. All these troubles are readily correctable by Chiropractic and no time need be lost from school work. It is safe and scientific.
Awake to your responsibility—give your child an even break with those more favored with strong bodies and, consequently, keen minds. THERE'LL BE NO REGRETS!

England's Prime Minister, Ramsey MacDonald bade farewell to the United States Wednesday at Niagara Falls before starting on a sightseeing trip through Canada. He said: "As I step across the border and leave you the moment I do so, rich with profits that while the Atlantic ocean divides us, the cause of peace unites us. That is the message from you which, I am taking back with me to Great Britain.

"I appreciate everything. I appreciate the treatment accorded me privately and publicly, by the congress and by the senate. It is impossible to mistake the meaning of your cordiality.

THE FUTURE OF THE SMALL TOWN

Electricity is giving every town an opportunity to become a city. In the past, great industrial concerns have been forced to locate in the congested centers of population because of the necessity of readily available power. The small plants common in towns and villages could not be counted upon for unremitting, efficient and economical service. As a result, the smaller town was an industrial nonentity.

The development of interconnected electric systems and the consequent decrease in small, local plants is rapidly changing all this. Now thousands of towns receive the same high grade service, at the same low rates, that is provided in great cities. And many of them are gradually coming into prominence as industrial centers.

The small town can offer the advantages of unlimited space, reliable labor and pleasant living and working conditions that the great city lacks. And with the adjunct of plentiful, cheap power, it can make an almost irresistible appeal to all manner of industries.

It is safe to say that many of the great industrial localities of the future will be towns that today are little more than names on a map. Electric power has given our America a glimpse of new vistas of social and industrial progress and prosperity.

CLARENCE E. GILMORE DIES

Clarence E. Gilmore, 57, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, died suddenly of heart failure in San Antonio on Thursday of last week while attending a meeting of the commission, death coming suddenly in his room at the Gunter hotel at 1:40 p. m.

Following a recess for lunch after a morning session, Mr. Gilmore left L. A. Gueringer, chief engineer of the Railroad Commission, to go to his room, apparently in the best of health.

Mr. Gilmore staggered as he reached the door of his room and gasped to a maid to get a doctor quick. When Dr. O. L. Nanes arrived a few minutes later, Mr. Gilmore was lying on the bed, dead. According to Mr. Gueringer, Mr. Gilmore had had several slight attacks of heart trouble recently.

The body was carried back to Austin Friday and reposed in the senate chamber from 3 to 8 p. m. Long before the casket was placed in the hall, flowers began to arrive and when it was removed there had been banked beside it a great floral offering. The body was carried back to his home in Wells Point, a little town in Van Zandt county, where he started his career as a country newspaper editor, and where on Sunday afternoon funeral services were held when hundreds of the homefolks paid honor to their native son who had won state-wide prominence.

All departments of State Government were closed on Friday afternoon out of respect to Mr. Gilmore.

Clarence Edgar Gilmore was born Oct. 26, 1872, at Canton, Van Zandt county Texas. He was educated in the common schools and the high school at Canton which comprised his scholastic attendance, except for a short session at the University of Texas.

His early life was spent on a farm and he farmed and taught school until June 1, 1894, when he purchased an interest in the Wills Point Chronicle, which paper he edited for eighteen years with a slight intermission. He was nominated as County Surveyor before he was 21 but declined the nomination. He served at Representative in the Thirtieth, Thirty-First and Thirty-Second Texas Legislatures from Rains, Van Zandt and Kaufman Counties and was defeated for speaker of the House in the last named by three votes.

Mr. Gilmore was elected to the Railroad Commission of Texas in 1916 and was re-elected in 1924. He had been chairman of that body since March 1, 1923.

Mr. Gilmore was elected president of the Texas Press Association in 1908. He studied law and was admitted to practice in 1912, in which year he was elected general attorney of the press association and had served continuously since that time.

Mr. Gilmore was married March 18, 1897, to Miss Lena McKain of Wills Point. To this wedding were born two children, Leon M. Gilmore and Clarence E. Gilmore Jr. Mr. Gilmore was a member of the Methodist church and of the Masonic and Knights of Pythias lodges.

WHY SUBMIT AMENDMENT? THEY WOULD NOT CARRY

I see the officeholders are still wanting more amendments to the Constitution. No use to offer them, the people have lost confidence in the Governor and Legislature. Both went in office on economy platforms. They made more offices and increased the salaries of officeholders too much, and should be turned down. The voters will vote for amendments that give them a fair show? Make $6,000 the limit to pay any officeholder. Pay the Governor $6,000 per year; pay the members of the Legislature $3 per day; cut the number down to ninety; put the pay of District Judges back to $3,600, or less, and other salaries in proportion. Let all resign who want to do so. There are plenty to take their places just as able as they.

Too many courts too many Judges, too much pay. Let the voters see that they have a fair show and they will vote for the amendments and not otherwise—and vote on all of them at one time, and save expense of several elections. There are many capable clerks in Texas who would be glad to get much less pay than officeholders get and who work more hours than officeholders do. I believe in giving fair play for work done. Officeholders work eight hours per day; farmers, twelve to sixteen hours, the farmer's pay is uncertain, the others' sure, rain or no rain and every month. Don't have to wait month after month. An old saying it that "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush." Think of that It was once thought to be an honor to be elected to office. Now it is the almighty dollar they are after. Some teachers are paid too much and some $80 or $90 per month, and by the time they pay $40 for board and room and other expenses, doctor bills and for a few clothes and washing, what have they left? These could all be paid a reasonable price by adopting the above.

I wish we had more men like Thomas C. Andrews of McKinney. What he said about Tammany Hall is correct. I was reading Brick Pomeroy's Democrat at the time, and he lambasted the Republican party about things as only Brick could do.

SEES A DARK HORSE IN GUBERNATORIAL RACE

Dallas News

While the political prophets are looking only at some present officeholder or prominent politician as likely to secure the next nomination for Governor, I predict that there is likely to be a surprise sprung in Texas politics next year.

This is based on the conversations I overhear in my duties as railroad brakeman, running between Denison and Waco.

There is much discussion on trains as to the possible candidacy of the Hon. Fred Robinson of Waco, who is being urged to enter the contest.

Mr. Robinson's views in opposition to the big bond issue and also against rebuilding present highways and leaving off established cities and towns are being favorably commented on by travelers, as also his plan to connect up present highways in one year with the funds in hand, as well as reduce license fees and the gas tax from 4c to 2c, and if he enters the race he will, I think, have a large following.

Mr. Robinson has always taken an interest in the welfare of the farmer and working man and is a member of union labor. All who know him best speak well of him, as I personally know.

It might be well for those interested to keep an eye on Fred Robinson of Waco as the representative of the "common people," so termed by Abe Lincoln, because there are so many more of them than the other kind.

Texas and Texans

By WILL H. MAYES

Candidates Plentiful

Already the woods and fields are thick with candidates for office, although the election is more than a year off, and already the candidates are learning that the voters are demanding to know the things for which they stand. Platitudinous promises are not going to satisfy Texans next year—they are going to insist on knowing specifically the things which candidates will do. Principles are going to outweigh personalities unless all the early signs are wrong. The hand-waving orator with a hog-calling voice will find himself unable to "sway the masses" with oratorical hypnotism. The people will want definite promises, and especially from those entrusted with making the laws and spending the tax monies. There is a general feeling that the administration of government in Texas, from the highest State offices down to the lowest precinct offices, is costing entirely too much, and a harder effort than ever before will be made to secure men in office who will help to curb official greed and mismanagement.

Short Cotton Crops

The short cotton crop in many parts of the State is causing people to practice the utmost economy, and while this will be hard on them for the time it will eventually be a blessing. Diversification has been more preached than practiced in Texas until very recently. The farmers have learned at last that it does not pay to do cotton farming to the exclusion of other interests. The farmer with a small herd of dairy cattle, a few sheep or goats, some hogs and chickens, who grows his own fruits and vegetables has no cause to complain of hard times. He is prospering and especially when he grows a variety of crops even though he may at times fail to make a profit from

Things Think On These

If a man have a stubborn and rebellious son, which will not obey the voice of his father, or the voice of his mother and that when they have chastened him will not hear unto them:

Then shall his father and his mother lay hold on him, and bring him out unto the elders of his city, and unto the gate of his place:

And they shall say unto the elders his city. This our son is stubborn and rebellious he will not obey our voice: he is a glutton, and a drunkard.

And all the men of his city shall stone him with stones, that he die: so shalt thou put evil away from among you."

CHAPTER VIII.—A friend of the party, and his partner, locate Berna...

CHAPTER IX.—In the hospital recovery, Athol learns from Doogan...

CHAPTER X.—Explaining his inability to keep his engagement...

CHAPTER XI.—With Doogan's return, Athol is returning from a prospecting trip...

CHAPTER XII.—Lovers leave Dawson, Athol finally prevails on Berna to marry him...

CHAPTER XIII

SPRING with its thaw was upon us. With a curious fascination, I gazed down at the mighty river...

Berna, now conscious she was to me! How anxiously I watched over her!

Sometimes it was the very intensity of my love that made me fear; so that in the ecstasy of a moment I would catch my breath and wonder if it all would last.

Here was something they did not understand, some contrivance of the tyrant Man to curb them, to harness them, to make them his slaves.

The "something" was a man. He raised the floodgate, and there at last was a way of escape.

But what was this? They had come on a wooden box that streaked down the slope as straight as an arrow from the bow.

He gave a mighty start, then at once he was calm again. This was the meeting he had dreaded, longed for, fought against, desired.

He waved his hand to the other man. "Go away!" he shouted. Moshier refused to budge.

"Say, your wife's in town. Been there for the last year. Didn't you know it?" Jim shook his head.

"Yes, she's in town—living respectable." Jim redirected his giant with a savage swish.

"Say, I'm a sort of philanthropic guy," went on Moshier, "and there's nothing I like better than doing the erring wife restitution act."

He was sneering now, frankly villainous. Jim gave no sign. "What d'ye say? This is a likely bit of ground—give me a half share in this ground, an' I'll guarantee to deliver that little piece of goods to you."

It lifted him up in the air. It shot him forward like a stone from a catapult. It landed him on the bank fifty feet away with a sickening crash.

"Berna, we must get married." "Yes, dearest, whenever you wish." "Well, tomorrow."

How clear the air was! Sounds came up to me with marvelous distinctness. Summer was coming, and with it the assurance of a new peace.

"Yes, we should have done that a year ago. It's all been a mistake. It didn't matter at first; nobody noticed, nobody cared."

"Not for the world!" she cried. "What will be the result of me, I wonder, poor, ignorant me? I believe I'm afraid of him."

"Oh, my beloved! perhaps we'll not always be alone as we are now. Perhaps, perhaps some day there will be others—little ones—for their sakes."

"I kissed away her tears. Foolish tears, I blessed her for them. I held her closer to me. I was wondrous happy."

"Wife, dear, dear wife, I too." There was no need for words. Our lips met in passionate kisses.

There on the porch stood Garry, the lips and trembling. She looked at me piteously.

"I'm afraid," she faltered. "Be brave, little girl, I'll whisper, leading her forward. Then I threw aside the curtains."

"There they stood, face to face at last. Long ago I had visioned this meeting, planned for, yet dreaded it, and now with utter suddenness it had come."

And Garry—his smile had vanished. His face was cold and stern. No doubt he saw in her a creature who was preying on me.

"How you've changed, lad!" said he at last. "Have I, Garry? You're just about the same. But by all that's wonderful, what brought you here?"

"The stage. I just arrived a few minutes ago, and hurried here at once. Aren't you glad to see me?"

"I don't know, I don't know. I keep on planning to go and then something turns up, and I put it off a little longer."

"I'm going to stay here for a month and then I want you to come back with me. Come back home and get some of the old color into your cheeks."

"I'll be back in half an hour, dear," I said, while Garry gravely shook hands with her.

"I'll be back in half an hour, dear," I said, while Garry gravely shook hands with her.

"I'll be back in half an hour, dear," I said, while Garry gravely shook hands with her.

derful, why, in the name of Heaven, haven't you married her?" His manner toward her in the early part of the interview had hurt me.

"Excuse me one moment," I said. I parted the curtains and entered the bedroom.

Pleasure and Sorrow "To enjoy life's pleasures," said Hi Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "we must face its sorrows. No one could believe that happiness might depend on being deaf, dumb and blind."—Washington Star.

Man's Duties
Man was not born to solve the problem of the universe, but to find out what he has to do—and to restrain himself within the limits of his comprehension.—Goethe.

Pretty Salutation
In ancient days the Spanish people used this abbreviation at the close of a letter: "S.s.a.b.s.m." This is interpreted, "Your faithful servant who kisses your hand."

CITY BAKERY

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Boydston and Mrs. Franklin attended the fair and visited relatives in Dallas last week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Estes, Miss Mildred Estes, Fred Robert and Bettie Jane Estes, visited the Texas State Fair at Dallas Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. Guy W. Green who held a meeting at the Presbyterian church here some years ago, writes The Star: "I still remember my visit to Baird and your kindness. Give my regards to all my friends"

Mrs. Arthur Mills and little daughter Elizabeth Ann visited Miss Minnie Mills Thursday and Friday of last week.

Dr. J. L. Bailey, of Clyde who has been seriously ill at the West Texas Baptist sanitarium, Abilene since September 26, when he underwent an operation for appendicitis, is reported improving.

Texas and Texans
cotton growing.

Produce Plants

A few years ago most of the produce raised by the farmers of Texas was sold to their local merchants who made the buying of farm products a side line to merchandising as a method of collecting debts. There were few "produce merchants" who followed buying farm products, other than a few staple crops, as a business. Now almost every town has several firms engaged in competitive buying and selling of farm produce, and these firms are having to enlarge their plants to handle their growing business. Kenedy is one of the small cities where a plant is being enlarged to handle the turkey and poultry business that is expected this fall. When completed, it will be one of the largest produce houses in that section of the state.

Band to Tour Europe

The Simmons University Cowboy Band of Abilene, has arranged to make a tour next summer covering a great part of Europe. Nearly 300 Texans will accompany this band, the purpose being both to see Europe and to advertise Texas. This should be a great educational trip for those who go and for the countries visited. The good that will be accomplished will depend largely on the personnel of the party, which should be, and doubtless will be composed of Texans who will reflect credit on the state. In Texas the tour will result in much favorable publicity for Simmons University.

American Legion Band

O. L. Bodenhamer, whose home at present is at Eldorado, Arkansas but who is a Texas young man, has been honored by being elected national commander of the American Legion. Major Bodenhamer was born in Mills county and educated in the public schools of Brownwood, at Howard Payne College, and at Baylor University. Before going to Arkansas, he taught in Texas schools, one position being with the late Teachers college at San Marcos. He is 34 and is unmarried. His mother lives at Brownwood, which he still calls home and where he will deliver an Armistice Day address, Nov. 11. This is the second time The American Legion has elected a Texan as its national commander, Alvin Owsley of Denton and Dallas, having served in that position with much credit.

Rio Grande Valley Resources

Following a survey of the resources and possibilities of the Rio Grande Valley, the Interior Department says that with irrigation and proper cultivation, the rich Valley would give a comfortable living to 2,000,000 people. There are 560,095 acres on this side of the river that have been converted into continuous market gardens interspersed with orange and grape-growing orchards. There are 145 separate irrigation enterprises now operating having a total valuation of about $20,000,000. This is a very small part of the area of good lands in Texas.

Highway Cops Duties

Motorcycles of the State Highway patrolmen, of whom there will be fifty, will carry first aid emergency kits to be available for automobile accidents on State highways. The corps of patrolmen will probably be ready about the first of the year to start on their duties of making the highways of Texas safer for travel. A school of instruction for the men will be held before they begin their work.

Smith County Farm Boys

At the Smith county fair, 35 boys of the county entered a contest for the best yields of corn in the county. The highest production was 91 1-4 bushels an acre on an upland farm, the average of all the crops being 50 bushels, against the average yield by the farms of the county of 8 to 10 bushels. The average on the winning crop. With corn selling at $1.25 bushell it is easy to see that corn growing was highly profitable. There are nearly a million Texas farmers who might learn some profitable lessons from those Smith county boys.

Pink Granite Demand

The pink-granite company operating at Marble Falls is reported to have $250,000 in unfilled orders, with orders and inquiries coming in every day. Two shifts keep the plant running day and night. New machinery can't be installed fast enough to keep up with the orders. Immense sheds are being added to the plant and more will be built soon. Industries like this are helping much to make "times good" in Texas.

Llano Plant Enlarges

Marble Falls is not the only town in the granite section of Texas, Burnet and Llano are in friendly rivalry with Colorado river town. Just recently a granite quarry company at Llano completed the construction of a steel and concrete working-shed, 70x380 feet in size. This company employs about 100 workmen and is one of the busiest concerns in Texas.

Carrizo Springs Builds

Carrizo Springs is building an $80,000 high school building, and has let a contract for street paving for a large part of the town. About 1,500,000 strawberry plants have been out this fall in the surrounding section. The town is in the heart of the "Winter Garden" district and is steadily building into one of the important irrigation centers of Texas.

That Paris Creamery

The chances are that the $150,000 creamery and poultry plant being constructed at Paris is going to reduce Lamar county cotton growing very noticeably. Everywhere a plant of that kind is built, farmers soon begin to reduce their crops and use the land for feed crops for cows, chickens and hogs. The black land sections of Texas, once so famed for cotton production are fast becoming equally as well known as dairy centers.

Gas Comes High

It must cost a great deal to get gas into Waco and surrounding towns, a gas company operating there has been selling gas 90 cents a 1,000 cubic feet, but under litigation on the part of the city that has lasted for fourteen months, the company now offers to make a net rate of 67 1-2 cents. Gas at the wells in Texas is selling at from 6 to 10 cents and the difference is said to be chargeable to piping and operating expenses.

Birds Unable to Walk

Martins, in common with all swallows, cannot walk. If their wings are clipped or injured they die of starvation in a short time. Their feet are used only for perching.

Localizing Disease

A "sporadic" disease is one in which the cases occur here and there. "Endemic" means in one district only; "epidemic" means widely prevalent in one place, and spreading.
