

CULBERSON STILL GAINS; SUBMISSION 2689 AHEAD

SENATOR HAS LEAD OF 6160 OVER BROOKS

Submission's narrow margin being steadily cut down and opponents claim proposition has been lost.

IN OTHER RACES

Ferguson's plurality over Morris now over 40,000 and may reach 100,000—Several Congressional contests in doubt.

Figures given out at noon today by the Texas Election Bureau on Saturday's primary follow:

For submission, 143,947; against, 141,258; present majority for, 2689.

For Senator Colquitt, 100,478; Culbertson, 75,280; Brooks, 69,120; Campbell, 56,913; Henry, 31,388; Davis, 8755. Colquitt's plurality over Culbertson, 25,198; Culbertson's plurality over Brooks 6160.

For Governor: Ferguson, 201,964; Morris 138,986; Marshall, 16,602.

For Associate Justice, supreme court, Yantis 159,498; Hall, 146,801.

For Judge, court criminal appeals; Morrow, 163,236; Harper, 124,083.

For Robertson law, 145,589; against, 89,009.

Still further shrinkage of submission's lead and a significant, though not commanding increase of Culbertson's lead over Brooks for second place for senator, are revealed by the figures given out today by the Texas Election Bureau.

The senatorial figures account for approximately 245,000 of the total vote, so that enough ballots are still uncounted to give second place to Brooks though this is im probable. Culbertson's margin has been slowly widening, as additional figures come in.

Submission, at one time over 8000 votes ahead, now has less than 2700 votes margin, and with the additional returns coming in all apparently reducing this narrow lead, it is predicted confidently in anti-submission circles that the complete vote will witness the defeat of submission.

Governor Ferguson's plurality over Morris now is in excess of 61,000 and there is some chance of it reaching the 100,000, the chief executive is claiming.

Today's returns indicate no changes in the standing in other state races, the results in most of which were known Saturday night.

In the congressional races, in addition to Stephens and Calloway, three others may be unseated. Dies is a few votes behind Howth in the Beaumont district. Burgess is slightly behind Mansfield in the Ninth district and Blanton is still leading Smith in the West Texas jumbo district. None of these races is yet determined.

WARSHIPS LIE IN WAIT FOR DEUTSCHLAND

First and second lines of allied craft said to be guarding exits from bay to catch submarine.

FIGHT MAY ENSUE

Many Plan to Witness Attempt of Submarine to Escape and Big Demand For Yachts and Motor Boats Has Resulted.

By Associated Press. Norfolk, Va., July 25.—Reports from an authoritative source, that a line of strong second line of allied warships lies some 20 miles off Cape Henry in readiness to seize or sink the Deutschland if she crosses the first line patrol on the three mile limit today, made the demand for small seawaycraft brisk.

The possibility of a fight at sea, suggested by rumors that a line of armed German submarines also waits outside the three-mile limit has aroused such interest that owners of strong vessels capable of putting out 20 miles or more are flooded with offers from private parties for the use of their boats.

The new allied warship, thought to be a British scout cruiser, which first appeared on the front line of patrol yesterday and relieved a French ship continued its lone vigil today.

In German circles it is believed that the Bremen, sister ship to the Deutschland, either has been headed off by the allied ships or met with an accident.

FRENCH DRUM AND CURTAIN FIRE HERALDS FURTHER DRIVE BY ALLIES

FRENCH HEAVY GUN AND MAP OF FRANCO-BRITISH ADVANCE

As a result of recent slight gains the British held to line from Thiepval southward to Longueval, shown in the upper portion of the accompanying map. Their line joined the French line northeast of Hardecourt, about the center of the map. The double line is the old battle front before the Franco-British advance. The British are trying to reach Bapaume, and the French immediate objective is Peronne, both important railroad and road centers. The French now command the railroad from Comble to Clerly, leading to Peronne, and have overrun a wide stretch of German first line trenches. French artillery is increasingly active, including new attempts to advance the infantry.

HEAVY LOSS SUSTAINED IN FIRE TODAY

Damage of $50,000 to $60,000 Results When McFall Warehouse Is Guttered by Flames This Morning.

CONTENTS BURNED

Fire Threatens Adjacent Lumber Yard But Is Confined to Warehouse After Hard Fight—Large Amount of Storage Goods Lost.

Fire starting about 9:30 this morning, gutted the warehouse of the McFall Transfer & Storage Company at Sixth and Indiana and destroyed practically all contents.

The loss on the building, which is owned by J. A. Kemp, Frank Kell and C. C. Huff, is estimated at about $10,000, covered by insurance.

The loss on the contents is placed at $40,000 to $50,000 making the total damage $50,000 to $60,000. The warehouse was packed to its capacity. The fire is thought to have originated from defective wiring.

The fire which started at 9:30 and which was practically under control at 10:30, originated just over the office on the Sixth street side of the building and gained quite a little headway before it was discovered by one of the employees, J. M. Fox, who is in charge of the business in the absence of J. M. and Louis McFall, believes that defective wiring was responsible.

The fire department responded promptly but the flames had a good start in the inflammable material on the second floor of the warehouse, and the thick black smoke that was arising made it difficult to combat. Three lines of hose were hooked up and all the fire fighting forces of the city, aided by numerous volunteers, were thrown into the effort to check the flames.

On the second story of the warehouse the furniture and other storage merchandise was arranged in small compartments, closely packed and after the flames had been raging for a few minutes it became impossible to do anything more than confine the fire to that building. This was done not too easily, for immediately adjoining the warehouse was the Mayfield Lumber Yard, and for a long time it seemed doubtful if the fire could be prevented from reaching this.

The water pressure was insufficient at first, but rapidly improved until 30 minutes after the fire started pressure of more than 100 pounds was recorded by both engines.

The fire furnished an object lesson of the value of the fire wall. The south side of the McFall building is a heavy brick wall of probably 20 inches thickness, a bulwark that effectively prevented the flames from reaching the lumber yard where the possibility of further great damage was large.

Three lines were used on the fire. Engine No. 1 hooked to the plug at Seventh and Indiana and No. 2 to the plug at Sixth and Ohio. A direct line was hooked up at the corner of the building itself. With these efforts were directed toward the south and west sides of the building, where the furnace like caldron in the interior of the warehouse was threatening to force its way out to greater damage.

For 20 minutes after the department arrived practically no flames were visible, the fire being in the interior, consuming the closely packed furniture, pianos, mattresses and other material, and sending out clouds of dense, black smoke that made the fight one of unusual severity. Presently the flames broke through the roof and from that time the fire was more easily directed. One squad in charge of Grover Habern of the Floral Heights company stationed itself on the roof of the fire wall, only a few feet from where the flames were eating the gravel mixture away, and piled the hose until they were forced to retreat. Spectators believed them in imminent peril and shouted repeated warnings. Another squad of men fought from the alley side, while a third was busy on the Sixth street side. T. R. T. Orth, S. P. Sproules and other volunteers did good service there, where the damage was materially reduced. Mr. Orth had to desist after a time, the heating being about to get the best of him, but he resumed work later.

Only one automobile, a second hand machine, was lost in the fire. A number of cars on the lower floor were so badly damaged that they were not even taken out. No estimate was available today of the amount of goods stored in the upper story of the warehouse, but it is known to have been closely packed with a variety of merchandise such as furniture, pianos, mattresses and other material that served to feed the flames.

The McFall building was erected about four years ago and is 102x150 feet. The front part of the building, which is used as a garage, is one story, extending about sixty feet. The remainder of the building is two stories in height and it was in this part that the flames did their worst execution. The front part suffering very little.

J. M. McFall is out of the city, leaving ten days ago for Okinawa to attend the International Rotary convention. Louis McFall has been in Oklahoma City for several days and J. M. Fox was in charge of the office. The first intimation those in the office received of the fire was when an employe gave the alarm, and this is believed to have been at least ten minutes after the fire started.

Secretary Seward began negotiations for the acquisition in 1842 because the naval operations had shown the necessity of a base in the West Indies.

A treaty was made and ratified by Denmark, but the United States Senate failed to act on it in proper time and it lapsed.

President Wilson in his volume on Congressional government written about 1882 referred to the incident as the "great mariner power of the Senate."

EXPLOSION IN TUNNEL KILLS 22 WORKMEN

Conduit Under Lake Near Cleveland is Scene of Disaster Monday Night, and Death List is Large.

RESCUERS KILLED

Several Lives Lost in Futile Efforts to Save Others—Work of Saving Lives is Delayed by Lack of Helicopters.

By Associated Press. Cleveland, Ohio, July 25.—Twenty-two men are dead and a half dozen others dying as a result of the explosion of gas in the waterworks tunnel five miles from shore under Lake Erie late last night.

The dead included workmen who were trapped in the tunnel when an explosion and later two more died. Two rescue parties who attempted to save the trapped men. Of the dead eleven were in the force trapped by the explosion. None of these escaped. The first rescue party consisted of seven men. Four of them perished and three were saved.

The second rescue party comprised eleven men. Six of these lost their lives and five escaped.

The first rescue party accomplished nothing. The second saved one of the first chief rescuers. No one else reached any of the original eleven caught in the explosion.

Of the eight rescuers who got out alive two in all were killed. Two were also caught by fumes who did not go into the tunnel.

A third rescue party entered the tunnel at 11:30 and brought out Justin Van Dusen, superintendent of city waterworks construction who headed the second rescue force. Van Dusen may die from his experience. One body was also brought out by the third rescue party, a member of the first rescue party.

The true fate of the rescuers was due to the fact that they worked without oxygen helmets which were unavailable. No pumpkins were at hand for use in raising oxygen. The lack of rescuing apparatus was condemned by the rescuers and Mayor Harry Davis promised to conduct a study of the cause of this lack as well into the catastrophe itself.

The third rescue party was equipped with helmets which had been assembled, but nearly eleven hours had intervened before equipment was assembled to permit entrance into the tunnel.

The cause of the explosion has not yet been learned. It is supposed that some workmen struck a pocket of gas with a pick, or possibly gas collected in the tunnel and became lighted with an electric spark.

All of the ten bodies so far recovered are of men who were in the first and second rescue parties. Eleven workmen originally entombed are still alive. Rescuers believe the tunnel exited in after the explosion and the remaining victims are buried under tons of mud and may not be reached for days.

Foreman Johnson summoned volunteers and led the first rescue party of volunteers down the elevator and into the tunnel; 150 feet from the bottom of the shaft the gas became inflammable and fell overcomers by the gas.

Dolan, who had resumed his post in the air chamber after the first day, saw a flash of light in the darkness. It proved to be Johnson's flash light which he still grasped when he had fallen. Dolan grabbed him by the bottom of the elevator and went back.

Almost dead himself, he dragged Peter McKenna to safety, then he collapsed. Others rushed to the crib and the three up the elevator and they were placed aboard bags which had been attracted from shore by rockets. It was two hours later that Van Dusen who had been summoned from his home organized the second rescue party on shore and went to the crib. With his men he descended into the tunnel. His men found Michael Knoch of the first rescue party still alive and dragged him out.

They were unable to suffer the same fate which had befallen the first party. Finally four of them managed to stagger back to safety. The others did not come out until the third rescue party was organized and went after them. It was then that Van Dusen was brought out.

It became known today that work in the tunnel was suspended three days ago because gas was found. The men went into the tunnel last night to work salvaging the gas had been eliminated.

"We should never have gone into the tunnel last night," said Dolan today, "never got a report from the chemist whether the place was safe and clear of gas, but they said it was all right for us to go."

The tunnel was equipped with an electrically driven machinery for excavating. The party of eleven workmen who were caught by the explosion entered the tunnel at 8 o'clock last night. The work has been carried on in three shifts. This force was in charge of Harry Yolkas as shift boss. First intimation of the disaster came when William Dolan, lock tender in the air chamber at the entrance to the tunnel heard the boom of the explosion about 9:30 p. m. Dolan was thrown against the door leading to the blast and deadly fumes poured out of the tunnel and almost overcame Dolan. He managed to close the door, then releasing the high air pressure in the chamber he gave the alarm to men at the surface of the lake.

Mayor Davis and Chief of Police Rowe went to the scene early today. The construction job on which the loss of life occurred is being done by the city with direct labor. It consists in building a tunnel from the waterworks in Lake Erie known as Crib No. 5 to the new filtering plant being built on New 54th street. The tunnel will carry water to the plant now nearing completion which will filter the water supply of what is called the west side section of the city.

Another thing we are going to be forced to keep our part of the road in much better shape. These tourists are not coming away from our towns because Fort Worth and Amarillo do not like us. BIG DELEGATION TO RATON PLANNED

Efforts to Change Route of Colorado Highway to be Vigorously Opposed.

Wichita Falls will not lose the hundreds of tourists who annually follow the Colorado-to-Gulf Highway through this city, without a fight first, it is declared, and plans are under way for sending a strong delegation to the meeting at Raton, New Mexico on August 2, 4 and 5 of the highway association.

It is expected that a number will make the trip in cars, also that Wichitans who are planning to go to Colorado will make it convenient to stop at Raton. The particulars of the fight to take the highway away from this section are set forth in a letter written by Acting Secretary Thomas to a number of interested parties. This letter follows:

We have just received notice from Mr. O. L. Williams, representative of the Colorado Highway Association, that there will be a meeting of this Association at Raton, New Mexico, August 2, 4 and 5, and that as this is an Annual Meeting, it is very important that all interested be in attendance.

We are endeavoring to stir up interest in the towns along the Fort Worth and Amarillo highway, those who are directly and vitally interested in this important highway we will certainly appreciate your support and influence toward a good attendance.

It comes to us that tourists are now being routed out of Fort Worth via Midland, Sweetwater, Lubbock, Amarillo back to Raton, Trinidad and other Colorado points thereby leaving us off the route entirely. We cannot afford to allow any such switching of routes and it is up to the towns along the Denver Road from Fort Worth to Amarillo to make a howl and get what is coming to them.

It is the writer's personal opinion that the roads along this route between the towns mentioned are not in first class shape and the reason Midland, Sweetwater and Amarillo are getting our travel is because they maintain better roads.

We thoroughly appreciate the importance to any town of tourist travel and being and urge that you write up to the magnitude of the money dropped in our towns by these travelers. There is not a day but what at least twenty-five tourists pass through our city and I am sure they likewise pass through yours. Will it not be an easier matter to maintain this important highway than to secure money one after this one has been taken away from us? You well remember the fight we put up to get the Colorado to the Gulf Highway—lets not give up now but keep right after our roads until they are the best natural roads in the entire State of Texas.

It has come to the writer that there is a move under foot to change the Colorado to the Gulf Highway to go via the above mentioned towns and it is up to us to attend the meeting at Raton and put up a strong delegation but we do wish to fight single-handed. We urge your attendance that with the combined support and cooperation of the locally interested we can keep this important Highway through our respective cities and counties.

Another thing we are going to be forced to keep our part of the road in much better shape. These tourists are not coming away from our towns because Fort Worth and Amarillo do not like us. It is because better roads are maintained in those sections and even though the distance is farther tourists can make better time.

Please consider the importance of this matter and write the undersigned at your earliest possible convenience. But the things he is proudest of are his visits to the front, for he has been here not once but many times. His first visit was a matter of considerable family discussion.

GERMAN PARTIES UNDERGO CHANGE

INTERESTING POLITICAL DEVELOPMENTS AT LAST SESSION OF REICHTAG.

OPPOSE CHANCELLOR

His Overtures to Loyal Socialist Element Meets With Conservatives' Disapproval.

Associated Press Staff Correspondence. Berlin.—The Reichstag session just closed was marked by interesting developments in the relations between the government and the various political parties.

One result was to bring out more sharply than hitherto the opposition of the Conservatives to Chancellor Bethmann-Hollweg.

The Conservatives represent the old aristocratic traditions of Prussia, and their social and political influence is so great that they usually succeeded under previous chancellors in shaping the course of the government.

They have ever taken the lead in opposing all socialist and democratic tendencies in the state; and before the war one of their chief lines of policy was war upon the Socialists as an element dangerous to the monarchy and the present order of society.

Since the war has been in progress, however, the government has quite changed its attitude toward the Socialists. The chancellor has steadily acted in the spirit of the emperor's declaration, made just as the war was about to begin that henceforth he knew no parties but only Germans.

The loyalty with which the Socialists have stood by the government and helped to fight the country's battles has been more than once recognized by Bethmann-Hollweg in his speeches in the Reichstag, and he has clearly admitted the fact that some political readjustments after the war is over. This has never pleased the Conservatives. But the chancellor has gone on his way making friends of the Socialists and inviting their support for government measures.

The Conservatives looked on coldly at all this, for they saw that their best argument for keeping the government rigidly conservative was being wrested from their hands.

Besides this, the Conservatives have taken offense at the government's taxation policy. They are fully committed to the view that the empire must collect its revenue taxes through indirect taxation, like customs duties, and internal revenue taxes of various kinds.

Especially do they urge the abolition of direct taxes—income, general property, and inheritance taxes—should be reserved for the federal states. The huge problem, however, of raising revenues to pay interest on the war debt, to pay pensions, and meet other expenses growing out of the war, cannot be solved without resorting to direct taxes.

There are not enough indirect taxes in reach to meet the requirements of the situation. Hence along with the various indirect taxes proposed this spring by the government was a direct tax on war profits.

In working out the details of collecting this tax, however, it was found by the budget committee that it would be practically impossible to distinguish between profits due to the war and profits not due to it.

Hence an all-around property tax of one mill on the dollar was proposed by the committee and accepted by the government. Some of the Conservatives finally voted for the tax, but their two leaders, Count Westpritz and von Hydebrand, voted against it to the bitter end.

In this, curiously enough, they found themselves in agreement with the Socialists, who split off from the main body of the Socialists last March.

In the debates on these tax measures and on the press censorship the Conservatives were very severe in their criticisms of the government and of the chancellor. They resent it particularly that their newspapers were not permitted to say what they pleased about the United States in the height of the submarine controversy between Washington and Berlin; neither can they forgive the chancellor for having yielded in modifying the form of submarine warfare.

Several days ago the chancellor spoke with unusual passion in exposing the false statements put forth in an anonymous pamphlet written by a certain publisher evidently emanating from Conservative quarters; and he also had some sharp things to say in replying to another pamphlet by Herr Kemp, an influential conservative politician. These pamphlets made the impression upon the country that the Conservatives were beginning a systematic campaign against the government.

Some of the National Liberals are also dissatisfied with the chancellor and are known to sympathize with these attacks upon him. In proportion, however, as the ultra-national elements turn away from the Chancellor, he is finding all the warmer support from the other parties in the Reichstag, including the old Socialist party. It was a curious unwonted spectacle, during the chancellor's speech of June 6, to see the Conservative listening with dissent, along with the seceding Socialists, while all the other parties in the house applauded him to the echo.

Indeed, he liked the front so much that he has since got permission to visit it again and again, until now his happy smile and his sailor uniform of blue serge have become known to the soldiers all along the front.

It is related that during his last visit, when the weather was warm on the lower hills of the Isonzo river front, seeing some soldiers going barefooted he insisted on taking off his own shoes. "If the soldiers can go barefoot, why can't a sailor boy?" he demanded.

While the first prince of his line destined to a naval career, young Humbert like the sailor as much as the navy. His fondness for soldiers comes from his associations with his aged grandfather, King Nicholas of Montenegro, who has been a soldier all of his life and involved in wars with both Austria and Turkey.

Humbert loves his grandfather very much and has always insisted on hearing tales of the latter's exploits in war. His physical training has made of him an unusually strong boy for his age. A year previous to the war, young Humbert was nominally under the direction of Miss Brown, the English governess in charge of the girls of the family. Nevertheless he has found many hours for sport, particularly at Castel Bordingo, an estate overlooking the Tyrrhenian Sea, purchased by his father and converted into a hunting forest. There in the summer months before the war he tramped in the forests with his father or played with his sisters along the seashore, took swims in the sea or sailed boats

DULL SEASON NOT FELT IN BUSINESS

Activity is Noticeable in Many Ways. According to R. G. Dun Summary. New York, July 25.—Although this is a season when business conditions might be expected in business, noticeable activity is evident, according to the weekly report of R. G. Dun & Co., which says:

GOLD BEING RAPIDLY EXCHANGED FOR PAPER

Paris.—Exchanges of gold for paper at the Bank of France continue at the remarkably uniform rate of about six million francs per week. A committee has now been organized under the presidency of M. David-Mennet, president of the Paris Chamber of Commerce, to give greater impetus to the influx. The committee includes the presidents of all the chambers of commerce in France and the most authorized representatives of every branch of art, industry and business.

500,000 MEN AVAILABLE FOR ATTACK ON SALONIKI

Associated Press Mail Correspondence Bern, Switzerland.—According to reports here, the Bulgarians and Germans have about a half million men ready for an attack upon Saloniki. The greatest difficulty the Bulgarians have had to contend with is the lack of shoes. A Swiss doctor just returned from Sofia says that fully half the Bulgarian forces are without shoes, which civilians also find with difficulty.

proximately double the normal average increase—there has been so great a demand that mills have not supplied the demand, and there is much concern regarding the future.
During the first five months of this year 26,901 tons of news print were exported from the United States, as compared with 15,877 tons for the same period of 1915, and 19,162 tons for the same period during 1914.

of the marbles and the phosphate and the minerals without end, and I have envied your section its boundless natural advantages. But as I have studied these conditions I have remembered that Massachusetts has gone to Alabama, and to West Virginia, and to Virginia, and bought its coal and its iron. It has bought its timber, and Texas and bought its lumber. It has gone to the West for its foodstuffs, and it has gathered these things together because nature gave our state few advantages that we had neither raw materials out of which to create manufacturers nor the soil out of which to produce the foodstuffs for our people.

The sympathy of the people of West Texas will be with Fort Worth in her effort to secure the location of one of the twelve regional land banks to be established with the federal government rather than with Dallas. Dallas already has the federal reserve bank and ought to be satisfied with that. Fort Worth is the live stock center of the Southwest. It is also the grain center and the railroad center. It is more closely associated in a business way with Oklahoma and West Texas than is Dallas. Of course, the people of Texas will be satisfied to see the land bank go to any Texas city and Wichita Falls don't care to choose between friends but if other things are equal Fort Worth ought to get the land bank because Dallas has already been especially favored.

Of course it wouldn't do for all of us or for any considerable number of us to be like James Whitcomb Riley in certain respects, but how much of the joy and sweetness of life would have remained unshared had Riley applied himself to his father's law books instead of following his own vagrant impulses. No doubt the neighbors were very properly scandalized when Jim Riley turned his back on an opportunity for a lucrative law practice and started tramping over the country with his paint brush and fiddle working only enough to buy food and drink, mostly drink, fiddling, probably in barrooms while those enjoying his music paid for the drinks and fiddling for dances for the pure fun of watching the dancers. In this vagrant life ambition and selfishness found no opportunity to repress, or stifle the promptings of love and joy in Riley's heart, and distillation failed to do so and so Jim Riley kept on painting and singing and fiddling until his songs and rhapsodies finally got into black and white on paper, and then the world quickly recognized his genius. He died the other day and the whole world mourned his death. It is a great thing to keep the heart true and joyous.

NEWSPAPERS LIKELY TO COST MORE.
Newspaper readers can expect to pay a higher price for their papers within the next few months unless there is an unexpected improvement in the paper market, and it is not now a question of how much the publishers will have to pay for their paper stock, but whether they can get it at any price. As an instance showing conditions in the paper market, the Times has been trying to get a quotation on one or more cars of paper for delivery as far distant as January 3, 1917, but so far the jobbers through whom this paper usually places its orders have been unable to get our order placed with the mills at any price. The situation is told in the following bulletin from the American Newspaper Publishers' association which is urging upon its members the necessity of reducing consumption in order to conserve the supply:
"Dear Sir:
During the first five months of the present year the newspapers of the United States and Canada delivered approximately 800,000 tons of news print, an increase of about 13 per cent over deliveries of the corresponding months of the previous year. This is at the rate of about 1,900,000 tons per annum, or 150,000 tons in excess of 1915 deliveries.
Notwithstanding this largely increased production of news print—approximately double the normal average increase—there has been so great a demand that mills have not supplied the demand, and there is much concern regarding the future.

During the first five months of this year 26,901 tons of news print were exported from the United States, as compared with 15,877 tons for the same period of 1915, and 19,162 tons for the same period during 1914. During the same period imports from Canada increased over $3,000,000. Ordinarily, mills expect during the latter part of May to begin to accumulate stock for the fall and winter demand. We are informed that up to the present time there has been no appreciable evidence of reduction of consumption and that leads to the thought that if consumption of news print be not immediately reduced there may be a greater shortage of supply next winter than has been the case during the past months. This thought is emphasized by the fact that machines to produce any material in excess of normal tonnage seem not to have been provided by the manufacturers.
During the early part of this year the association drew the attention of its membership to this condition, and has since been urging its members to practice every economy, with the result that a material saving has been made through the elimination of waste. The situation, however is now so serious that we take the liberty of inviting the attention of every publisher to present conditions and urge that, either individually or in cooperation with other publishers in your locality, you adopt the suggestions contained on the following sheet, which is sent you in the form of an agreement in the hope that you will join with other publishers to secure significant results, if not all of the paragraphs in the agreement.
It is the hope of the American Newspaper Publishers' association that the cooperation of the publishers in the consumption of news print will be materially reduced, and we desire to learn to what extent you will reduce the consumption. Newspapers published in the largest cities have made reductions of from three to ten tons per day by practicing economies suggested by this agreement, and one New York newspaper has reduced its consumption eight tons a day through the elimination of returns.
We feel sure that your cooperation will not only prove to be of great advantage to you as an economy, but that it may also be the means of making it possible for you to purchase newsprint in the near future at prices within business possibilities.
Please write today to the mill or broker supplying you with news print, urging them to endeavor to keep their mills running Sundays until the present situation is relieved, and please state, in your own language, good business reasons why they should do so.
Very truly yours,
THE PAPER COMMITTEE OF THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

WHY NOT TEXAS?
Texas is a fifth larger in territorial measurement than Germany. Texas has more hilly acreage than Germany.
Texas produced a third of the cotton crop of America. Some day, if necessary, the rest of Texas could supply the world with 20,000,000 instead of 4,000,000 bales. Texas has an ideal climate.
Texas has navigable rivers and gulf access.
Texas is one of the greatest gas and oil producing States of America.
Texas has thousands of acres of iron lands.
Texas has vast deposits of coal.
Texas has salt beds and beds of asphaltum.
Texas has vast herds of cattle and drives sheep. Texas produces the hides for the tanneries of America.
Texas has vast forests of pine and other timber.
Texas is at the door of the Panama canal and is the neighbor of the Pan-Americans. Pan-American nations claim a population of 50,000,000. They are buyers of the goods of the world, and in by-gone years, Great Britain and Germany and France and the other nations of Europe controlled the South American trade. Now read this editorial clipping from the Manufacturers' Record of Baltimore:
"When we turn to Massachusetts, with 8,000 square miles of area, or less than one-seventh as much as Georgia, we gain a new conception of the meaning of industrial activity in the creation of wealth as expressed in savings banks deposits. The savings banks depositors of Massachusetts now have to their credit in savings banks a total of $317,000,000 an amount sufficient to buy at their combined capitalization the entire manufacturing interests of Georgia, North Carolina, Texas and Mississippi, and still not quite exhaust the amount to their credit. The aggregate capital invested in the manufacturing of these four southern states is $91,000,000, or $3,000,000 less than is to be found in savings banks of Massachusetts mainly owned by the working people of that state. It is said that at some great convention when a roll call of states was made, a representative from each was expected to tell of its advantages. One by one the delegates from different southern states in glowing colors pictured the natural resources of these marvelous and endowed states. When the time came for the response from Massachusetts, the delegate from that state said:
'I have heard with great interest of the coal and the iron of Alabama, of the timber of every part of the South,

FOR LONGER OFFICIAL TERMS.
When we consider the extremely bitter nature of the campaign just ended, and that it was marked by the same frenzy in the counties, in 1908, 1910, 1911, 1912 and 1914, surely the thoughtful citizen must be impressed by the desirability of the quadrennial campaign and election.
It is not good for the people to be stirred to such lengths of bitterness every two years. Our campaigns actually indicate a retrogression of civilization. The frequent and friendly intercourse, the spirit of mutual toleration, that ought to characterize the relations of men are almost destroyed in these frequently recurring exhibitions of humanity's worst side.
It would be fortunate, indeed, if we could invest our political campaigns with more sanity and politeness, but that can be done only if there is at least a measure of relief in reducing the number of campaigns. Instead of flying at each other's throat every two years, we should enjoy a few years in security of peace and concord.
If the four-year term would benefit the people by giving them longer periods of rest, surely there would be material benefit for the candidates also. It would be difficult to estimate what the recent campaign has cost all the candidates of Texas. Probably more than a million dollars, and then to remember the taxpayers will have another bill of $250,000 or $300,000 to pay for the general election. This would be a considerable saving and would enable successful candidates to obtain some net compensation for their services.
All this would tend to better government, a better feeling among the people and the material prosperity of the State. Since it is the custom to elect one to an office for two terms, why not double the present term and save the people the expense and the public servant his money?
Let us hope that the legislature will consider this matter next winter. And if a four-year term amendment to the constitution shall be submitted, surely the speakers in the next campaign ought to agree, one and all, to advocate the favorable action of the people and to number the terms and the public servant his money?
Texas is too great a State, and possesses too many important interests, to have her order and tranquility disrupted as it is at present. Probably half the States have already adopted the four-year term and they find it wholesome and economical. Why should Texas continue in almost perpetual political campaign, with the people generally embroiled?
Let us have fewer and better campaigns and elections.—Houston Post.

Charles W. Culberson slightly increased his lead today over Dr. S. P. Brooks for second place in the senatorial race and it is practically certain that Culberson will go into the second primary. While Colquitt's strength should not be underestimated, the chances for Culberson winning look good on the results of the first primary. In the second primary Culberson will hold the strength he had in the first primary. Practically all of those who voted for Brooks in the first primary will vote for Culberson in the second. He ought also to get a big part of the vote cast for Campbell and will probably get half of those who voted for Henry. Culberson will win if anything like a full vote is polled in the second primary. The only trouble is going to be to get out the vote. This can be done only if the Culberson forces are well organized. Colquitt has the best political organization in the state. Culberson is without one of any character. It is going to be a hard task to organize an effective force within the few weeks intervening until the second primary. The work ought to be started as soon as it is certain that Culberson has won second place.

FOUND DEFENDANTS WERE VICTIM OF CIRCUMSTANCES
Three defendants in the city court were released this morning when it was shown that they had been the victims of circumstances and were not to blame for the affray, with which they were charged.
It seems that the party was attacked during a visit to the flat district, the evidence showing that they had not provoked trouble. City Attorney Horace Nutt interceded in their behalf and when the facts were presented Judge Whitelaw very promptly rendered a verdict of not guilty.
Attorney Nutt, however, gave the defendants a friendly lecture, advising them to be careful in the future about visiting such places, impressing them with the fact that associations of which a character were calculated to get them into trouble, regardless of the innocence of their intentions.

SAYS GERMANY CHARGING HIGH PRICES FOR DRUGS
Associated Press Mail Correspondence.
The Hague, Netherlands, July 25.—The Central Public Health Council of the Netherlands has drawn the government's attention to the exorbitantly enhanced prices which Germany, acting through a special export commission, is charging for the drugs of which it has a monopoly. Examples are given showing that these are five to ten times as high as pre-war prices. The continued existence of various popular sick funds is thereby endangered, and the government is urged to make diplomatic efforts with a view of obtaining the most indispensable drugs at the normal prices still current in Germany itself.

LOCAL W. C. T. U. HOLDS SESSION THIS MORNING
An interesting meeting and one characterized by much enthusiasm was held this morning by the W. C. T. U. at the home of Mrs. C. A. Randall, 1600 Holliday at 9 o'clock. The subject for the program was patriotism and the devotionals were led by Mrs. Whitney, a life member of the Union, who later made a talk on the subject of being a life member. "Blest Be The Tie That Binds" was sung and a round table on "The Rescued Women Should Vote" was held. Mrs. Arnold led a spirited discussion on recent magazine article, "Can You Drink and Hold Your Job?" The work done by the local Union in discouraging the hiring of drinkers was discussed at length and gratifying reports were heard. During the report of the treasurer a letter was read from Mrs. John S. Turner of Dallas, asking that the four headquarters be forwarded. Mention was also made that almost $200 in pledges made during the state convention were yet unpaid. These pledges can be paid to either Mrs. J. W. Akin or J. W. Bradley at the North Texas Furniture Store. The Union will meet in the morning for the remainder of the summer.

PERSONAL CLEANLINESS IS DEMANDED IN LODZ
Associated Press Mail Correspondence.
Lodz, Poland: To correct a condition which had been appreciated by those who know Lodz, the police inspector, Herr von Oppen, has issued an order providing that such of the inhabitants appearing on the streets with evidences of personal uncleanness are to be arrested, scientifically cleaned and shorn, and held until their clothing can be disinfected and mended. If any expense is attached to the cleaning process the cleansee must pay it or work it out.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENTS CONVENE AT AUSTIN TODAY
By Associated Press.
Austin, Tex., July 25.—The first annual session of the State Institute of County School Superintendents was opened here today for four days duration, with an attendance of approximately 200 superintendents and school men from various portions of the state.
The meeting was held in the hall of the House of Representatives and was called to order by Prof. W. F. Doughty, state superintendent of public instruction. The program includes a number of instructive addresses on education. Prominent among the educators who will make addresses are Dr. J. J. McBrien, school extension agent and Dr. J. C. Mueggen, specialist in rural education, of the National Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C.
An increase of nearly 500,000 scholastic in Texas this year was estimated by Prof. W. F. Doughty. The scholastic census of the state is now being compiled in his department. The per capita appropriation of the coming school year may reach $7.50. Prof. Doughty continued, which will be an increase of $1.50 over that of the present year.
At present the scholastic population of the state is 1,129,000. This number will easily be increased to 1,500,000 by the end of the year. The increase will be largely due, he said, to the expansion of the scholastic age from 7 to 17 years of age.

ALABAMA FARMER IS ARRESTED; TALKED TOO MUCH
By Associated Press.
Birmingham, Ala., July 25.—Smith Taylor, a farmer, who was arrested in Lonsview Texas Saturday because of statements he is alleged to have made to acquaintances in Texas, taken to indicate that he had some knowledge of the circumstances in connection with the recent killing of Judge W. T. Lawler at Huntsville, Alabama, arrived here today in the custody of a Birmingham detective. Taylor returned to Alabama without restriction papers. Taylor resided near Huntsville before going to Texas. He is alleged to have talked freely of the killing of a detective in Huntsville three years ago.
Taylor will be transferred to Huntsville, where a warrant on information is held against him. Taylor asserts that he knows nothing of the killing except what he read in the newspapers.

2900 WOODMEN NOW IN CAMP HERE

Eleventh where the marchers will fall out, the first two regiments turning to the right on Eleventh and falling out, the next two taking the left hand at Eleventh and the rest of the marchers disbanding at the corner of Eleventh and Indiana.

At the corner of Eighth and Ohio a reviewing stand is being erected where Mayor Britain, and Judge R. E. Huff have been invited to review the marchers with General McDill and staff.

After the parade will come the big street dance to be pulled off on Eighth between Ohio and Indiana. This section will be roped off, the various bands massed and the dance will be on. The roped enclosure will be sufficient to accommodate several thousand couples and the devotees of Terpsichore will be allowed to indulge themselves till the small hours of the morning.

Additional companies arrived throughout the night and officers of the order estimate that fully 2900 men are in attendance. This is said to be by far the largest number that ever attended a state encampment of the order. In spite of strenuous efforts of the officers to erect enough additional quarters to accommodate the unexpected arrivals it was found necessary to quarter about three companies in the grand stand for the night last night.

The men were buckled down to the regular drill program yesterday afternoon and this morning and leaves to go to town were few and far between. At the ceremonies of guard mount and review in the evening more than 80 full companies were in line, the numbers in the ranks making these ceremonies unusually impressive.

In spite of the heat in the afternoon only three heat prostrations are reported, these coming during the afternoon drill period. The men were all right after a short time spent in the shelter of the hospital tent. Major C. W. Baynham and his assistant Captain J. A. Alexander in charge of the hospital report that all three of the prostrations were superinduced by malarial condition existing before coming to the encampment. In all the medical department has been called on to care for only 75 cases since the opening of the encampment, all except the prostrations being such cases as blistered feet, minor cuts and bruises, with a small number of cases of indigestion.

Those who only brought one blanket with them suffered considerable inconvenience from the cold last night and extra blankets were at a premium this morning. After the hot afternoon the campers were completely astounded by the nipping coolness that prevails at the lake at night.

The grounds, the cool nights and the other advantages of camping at Lake Wichita pleased the officers and men to such an extent that there was considerable talk of making this the permanent encampment and trouble with the water supply developed. The emergency water system that had been laid to supply the camp was connected directly with the first of the settling tanks and the alum in the water was so strong that the men could not drink it. After this was remedied to a certain degree the supply was interrupted to such an extent that the matter was worse than ever. Today the water for the encampment is being hauled from town, an arrangement that has proved extremely unsatisfactory. However, vigorous measures are being taken to correct the situation today and it is hoped to have the water supply in good shape early in the afternoon.

Considerable grumbling among the men has also been noted about having to pay ten cents fare on the street car to town from the lake. "Why at home (usually Dallas) I can ride you 25 miles for a nickel and on this line they take up another nickel every once in a while," is heard on every car.

Two members of the uniform rank who put in an appearance yesterday afternoon had ridden through from Del Rio on the Mexican border on horseback. They were on their way seven days and arrived at the camp saddle worn and weary, but the enthusiastic ovation they received from the officers and men fully repaid them for the hard trip.

The local company is quartered at the northwestern corner of the encampment. They have a very trim appearance and have been attracting considerable attention on account of their new uniforms and accoutrements.

Among the companies that stand prize as is Company E of the same from Oak Cliff who will put on their far famed illuminated drill in front of the grandstand tomorrow night. They are also among the favorites with the men of the contestants for the drill and are spending a term in the grand house for the drill-contest and Company I of the 50th regiment from Houston. All these companies are utting in the illuminated drill in addition during spare moments. Although this company has been exhibiting this drill for several years they are working on it nightly in order to have it down letter perfect tomorrow night. A large crowd in the grand stand is anticipated.

Several men have felt the rod of discipline already for various minor infractions of the camp regulations, spending a term in the grand house for their petty offenses. Most of the cases have been on account of talking when ordered on a detail for some duty such as policing the camp, carrying messages, etc.

One party who is confined in the guard house however, is probably in more serious plight. A Confederate visitor to the camp, bent on seeking profit it seems rather than merely seeking to gratify his curiosity. According to the commandant in charge of the guard he was attempting to enter the camp with the apparent intention of therein dispensing retail juice at retail without any one's leave whatsoever, much less the required license. Stopped by one of the guards this knight of the bottle tried to bribe his way into the encampment. It is alleged with a drink of whiskey, in spite of this munificent offer the guard proved incorruptible and he was turned over to the commandant in charge and confined in the guard tent. His case will probably come up for an investigation by the sheriff this afternoon.

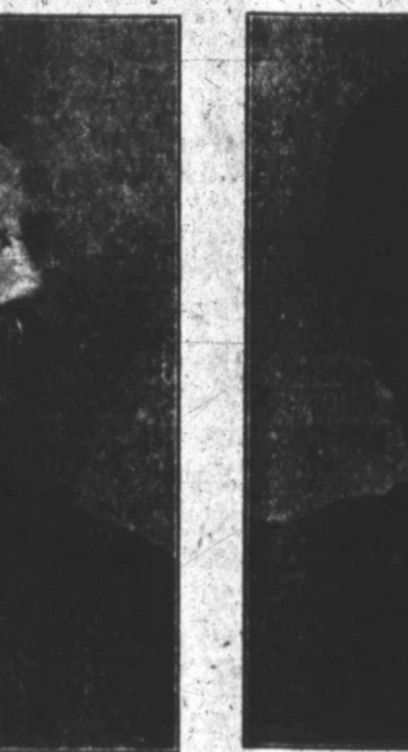

The 34th regimental band will have worthy competition for musical honors for the band of the 56th regiment from Tyler arrived twenty five strong yesterday and judging from their reputation they should be in the front ranks for musical glory. On account of the fact that this band is particularly a concert band it has been assigned to most of the concert duty. Last night it played at the pavilion for several hours, being repeatedly encored. This organization won the state prize for the Woodmen at the Waco Cotton Palace in 1915 and expects to capture another prize here. Possibly the 34th regimental band may have a few words to put in here but the contest for leadership between the two, promises to call out such good music as the least. This band has played at four Confederate reunions, the ones at Birmingham, Memphis, Mobile and Chattanooga, all of which they attracted much attention on account of musical ability. The Tyler band is an old organization having been maintained practically intact through the past eight years. It is under the command of Captain Calhoun widely known as the "kid leader" who established a permanent reputation as a conductor when he led the massed bands at the state Woodman encampment at Galveston last year. The band is being led this year by Prof. J. P. Witt, probably the best known solo cornetist in the state and the winner of many medals by his musical ability on this instrument.

Two of the members of the Tyler band seem to have either been lost, strayed or stolen. Their names are Cecil Ward and Henry Ferguson, and any news of their whereabouts will be thankfully received by the commander of the band.

RUSSIANS' PROGRESS COMPANY DENIES

Make New Breach in Teutonic Lines in Volhynia But Berlin Reports That Attacks in Riza District Were Fruitless.

The Associated Press summarizes European war operations as follows: The British are holding all the ground gained on the Somme front in northern France against desperate counter attacks by the Germans according to today's official statement from London. The greater part of the important fortified town of Pozières which stands on high ground vital to a further advance towards Bapaume is in British possession. North of the town, despite strong opposition by the Germans additional ground has been gained, London reports. Resuming their attack on the German lines south of the Somme, the French have made progress both to the north and south of Soyécourt. Today's Paris official bulletin reports a slight advance south of Estrees and the capture of a sector north of Verdun.

At Verdun a violent bombardment was reported in the Fleury and La Lauffe sectors. On the Austrian-Italian front Rome announces the capture from the Austrians of Montecione. Berlin's accounting of the fighting along the Somme front declares it took the form of a continued attack by the British and French from Pozières to Maurepas, a front slight longer than four miles, breaking down under the German fire or in hand to hand fighting. Petrograd reports a disorderly retreat of the Turks in central Armenia where the Russians, after having pushed to within seven miles of the fortress of Erzinghan.

FIRST CLASH ENDS THIS AFTERNOON AND RESULTS IN SIX MEN BEING ARRESTED—PETITION BEING CIRCULATED.

STATES THAT NO NEGROES HAVE BEEN EMPLOYED

From Oklahoma men in the city over the employment of negro laborers by the company which has the contract for the building of the court house in rapidly developing into a troublesome situation and a serious clash was narrowly averted this afternoon resulting in the arrest of six men.

Both the negroes and the contractor had been warned that the negro labor must stop at noon and this afternoon when work started some of the men gathered about the place made a break toward the negroes only a few following. They were met by Deputy Sheriff J. F. Wilson and E. L. Lawler, who arrested Tom Dansey on a charge of carrying brass knucks and J. F. Stone on a charge of attempting a riot with the purpose of keeping men from their work.

After the matter had quieted down somewhat the men went back to town and held a meeting on a street corner, whereupon they drafted a petition being circulated against the employment of the negroes on this work. This petition has been in circulation for several days and has been signed by about a thousand men, suggesting among them some of the most prominent and influential citizens of Wichita Falls.

When the deputation arrived at the grand jury room District Attorney Leslie Humphrey met them and told them that both he and J. C. Hunt, foreman of the grand jury, had signed the petition. Deputies Wilson and Lawler arrived and asked the attorney about the grounds for holding Stone and on considering the matter it was decided to hold him on $200 pending a hearing being arranged with his attorney, Bernard Martin. Mr. Humphrey stated that the attorney governing the manager of attempting to interfere with the work to the committee.

The officers called the attorney aside for a short consultation, after which they arrested and called the committee for participation in the disturbance. J. J. Thompson, C. E. Williams and Leonard Wilson are on the committee. W. D. Buck was afterward arrested on a similar charge. He retained Mr. Martin to represent him.

The work of excavating for the foundation of the new court house was begun in earnest this morning and ten teams with plows and scrapers, were being used in removing the dirt. The ground around the building location has been roped off with signs at the entrances warning the public to keep out. Other work incident to the construction of the building is under way including the construction of forms and scaffolding.

All the men employed on the work with the exception of white men and altogether between fifteen and twenty white men are employed and the negroes. E. H. Walpole, representing the construction company stated today that the company had brought no negroes here from Oklahoma as has been alleged.

FORFEIT ANOTHER BOND IN CASE OF H. C. GERTZ

The bond of H. C. Gertz in the sum of $300 for his appearance before the grand jury yesterday, was forfeited and the sureties will be called upon to make this amount good to the county. The bond was given in connection with the recent arrest of Gertz on a charge of perjury, complaint being made several days ago by Justice of the Peace Jones in connection with habeas corpus proceedings in a case originating at Ardmore, Okla.

HEAVY LOSS SUSTAINED BY FIRE TODAY

All of the fire fighting equipment stood up well in the fight, both big engines performing with entire satisfaction. This was the first fire in which the hook and ladder truck was put into real service. Fire Chief McClure was in charge of the operations. A survey of the scene of the fire this afternoon after the flames had been practically extinguished, revealed a mass of canned goods, furniture, sewing machines, store fixtures, furniture and pianos, owned by various parties, and practically all a total loss. The individual owners, most of them, had their goods insured. One man, who recently moved here from Amarillo, stored his furniture, extra clothing and other effects in the warehouse only Monday, all being destroyed today before he had taken out an insurance policy.

The fixtures for the Perkins-Timberlake building were stored in the warehouse, but were damaged only slightly if at all. Half a dozen pianos close to the outer wall also escaped. Grape juice and packery products belonging to the Armour and Swift agencies and to individuals were destroyed in large quantities. A number of sewing machines belonging to M. B. Hamilton, were a total loss. There was furniture and other effects belonging to numerous individuals, most of whom are believed to have carried insurance.

Before the firemen had quit work on the fire, another alarm sounded and was answered. Slight damage was done by a blaze at the home of C. W. Richolt, 1208 Burnett street.

Washington, July 24.—President Wilson's loud callers today have favored an exhaustive investigation of inland waterway and harbor problems with the idea of co-ordinating, systematizing future improvements. He probably will make definite recommendations along this line to the next session of congress.

A statement secured from Herbert Henne, a white man the stealer of whose automobile by one of the negroes began the trouble, said he alighted his car, was chased by the negroes, defended himself in a nearby saloon until the provost guard arrived and dispersed the crowd.

FUNSTON MAKES REPORT ON RIOT

THREE ILLINOIS NEGRO GUARDS MEN SHOT AT SAN ANTONIO.

TROUBLE IN SALOON

Clash With White Soldiers Results From Disturbance—Inquiry Under Way.

By Associated Press. Washington, July 25.—Major General Funston today made the following report to the war department regarding a disturbance created by groups of the Eighth Illinois National Guard regiment at San Antonio last night in which three of the men were injured before order was restored.

About 5:30 p. m., today, July 24, after having been told, about 40 men of the Eighth Illinois (negro) were assembled in a saloon near the reservation. Threats were made to throw out the white soldiers and it is believed some disturbances occurred. Reports came to the guard house for guards to stop the disturbance. Five men of a patrol tried unsuccessfully to disperse the crowd. Patrol was joined by four or five men of guard and they finally had to strike some of the men with butts of guns, then some men of the Eighth Illinois began to throw rocks at guard. Guard then began to fire guard shells at legs of crowd. Three members of Eighth Illinois but not seriously.

NEGROES SAY WERE GOADED BY DEROGATORY REMARKS

By Associated Press. San Antonio, July 25.—Members of the Eighth Illinois negro regiment involved in the little riot last night when the provost guard shot down three of them told officers who were investigating today that they had been goaded into it by the series of derogatory remarks made by white soldiers and civilians as they passed about their headquarters and the department as well as under way today.

A statement secured from Herbert Henne, a white man the stealer of whose automobile by one of the negroes began the trouble, said he alighted his car, was chased by the negroes, defended himself in a nearby saloon until the provost guard arrived and dispersed the crowd.

Jewel Carmen, a young actress who was just seen in an ingenue role in the De Wolf Hopper play, "Sunshine," becomes forth in "The Children in the House," as a full-fledged siren of the screen. In the part of Jane Courtney, a cabaret dancer, she lures a foolish husband, played by Eugene Palette, to his destruction. As aids to his ruin, she seduces herself in a vampirish attire remarkable for its extreme uniqueness. There are evening gowns distinguished both by originality of design and attractiveness of material, jewelry of strange shapes and patterns, and a lead-dress of jet and pearls which twine and curl about the siren's head like serpents. Norma Talmage is seen as the wife whose husband is ruined by destruction by Miss Carmen, and other prominent and busy members of the cast are the "Triangle kiddies," who go through the most amazing adventures they have encountered since they fought a bandit army in "Let Katy Do It."

SEA'S RUBBISH IS SOLD AT AUCTION

All Sorts of Things Cast up on Franco Coast By the Equinoctial Tides

Associated Press Mail Correspondence
Dieppe—Flotsam and jetsam cast up by equinoctial tides and sold here by auction under maritime regulations that date from the time of Colbert, reflect each year the destructive force of nature in fury at sea. In ordinary years it is only wreckage that predominates—minute salvage from sailing and fishing vessels such as pieces of rigging, fishing nets, broken rudders, barrels of tar and so forth, but the wreckage washed ashore on the coast of Normandy has lately gone beyond all previous records.

Jagged wounds in pieces of ship's hulls showing the traces of tarpedons, barrels, casks, cans, more or less chipped, dented or crushed by contact with the sharp reefs, with cordage and smashed cabin furniture, life saving belts, bales of rubber and cotton, barrels of oil, tin snips, and other tools, with a conglomeration of apparatus and paraphernalia such as none but a seaman could identify, or connect with any rational use, were collected in one lot along with a baby's cradle and a beheaded doll. The cradle was almost intact, the body of the beheaded doll was blackened as if by powder.

There are regular buyers of the flotsam and jetsam of this coast, who come here every year to speculate upon the season's disasters. The miscellaneous debris of an average year has been sold for a few hundred francs but these experts would ever venture to get out of it. This year, in harmony with the general movement, nearly everything brought war prices. There were some rare commodities in the salvage and there was sentiment.

The industrial alcohol, rubber, tallow and oil went to unprecedented prices, other miscellany that would have been consigned to the ordinary years was readily turned in to money.

The buyers come mostly from Havre, but this year many came from as far as Paris. The industrial alcohol went to a merchant from Armenia who is still trading with soldiers there under continual bombardment. Alcohol is rare along the coast. With the creek bought by the man from Armenia the soldiers in that section will be able to heat their rations.

Gang planks, ship's boats and ladders, along with cabin furniture and bunk clothing, brought only the average auction price out the smaller debris—things no landlubber can expect ever to find useful, were snapped up by the buyers from the interior. They showed the slightest evidence of having gone through one of the sea dramas of the great war.

All the wreckage gathered along the coast by customs officials, inventoried and classified, is sold after the legal lapse of time, if unclaimed. The proceeds less the import duty are held for thirty years in the treasury of the Marine Invalids and definitely acquired by that charity only if no one makes a claim upon it in the meantime.

Others in the cast include Little Madge Evans, E. Devaney, Lillian Cook, H. Davies and Josephine Horner. The play is directed by Emile Chautard, which means that nothing has been left undone to make it perfect in all its details.

Washington, July 25.—The international situation dominating the United States is causing the administration grave concern. Efforts Sunday to ascertain the views of officials as to the status of this government's foreign affairs, Germany takes for the most part they regard the general outlook as unsatisfactory.

Despite the fact that some of the principal controversies of the United States with other nations appear on the surface to be composed, temporarily at least, forces operating under death are disturbing the government. Disputes are pending with Mexico, Germany, Austria, Japan and Great Britain.

In administration circles it was said that President Wilson intends at any moment to prevent an open break with Germany, unless the November elections. If he is re-elected, it was declared, he will apply entirely new policies to the Mexican situation, including war, if necessary. The president's relations with Germany, however, the appeal to the people by that it has kept the country at peace when the rest of the world was warring.

There is being discussed in administration circles the possibilities of Germany renewing her warfare against British and French shipping. What is feared here is that Germany, in the event she allies herself with France, will continue to be successful, will assert that the right of self-preservation, super-legal and acknowledged by international law, to suppress all other rights, make it necessary for her to resume the mode of naval warfare which brought her to the threshold of a break with the United States.

The state department has received no assurances from Austria-Hungary that this government's demand will be complied with in the Petrolite case. The state department, an official said, expects Austria to comply, although considerable delay is looked for, and it is believed the American note will be returned, and also has been a constant but unacknowledged factor in American foreign affairs.

The chief issue with Japan, centering upon the California alien land law, has never been settled. Japan "reserved" the right of further consideration after informing the United States that she looked to this country to satisfy her in that matter, and pointing out the character of satisfaction demanded. Nothing less than treatment for her nationals on completed equality with Europeans is demanded.

The government is believed to be looking to Great Britain to use her influence in preventing trouble with Japan of a nature threatening the peace. It is a question whether Great Britain, since the conclusion of an alliance between Japan and Russia, will exercise over Japan the influence she enjoyed in the past. Japan's designs upon China are at variance with European policies.

barbaric tribe, Carranza as the ruler of a nation and as the chieftain of a tribe. No wonder that the Mexicans did not understand us; we have not understood ourselves.

Our first duty is to understand ourselves, to know the facts, and to fulfill without faltering and without passion the duty laid upon us by those facts. Mr. Lansing's note would be admirable if it were addressed to a responsible government. Addressed to an irresponsible mob, its only use is to put before the American people officially and authoritatively facts which the press for the last three years has been, with only moderate success, endeavoring to hide from them.

We are not dealing with a Mexican government; we are dealing with Mexican mobs. Our first duty is to recognize that fact and adopt our policy accordingly. That policy should be to protect from these mobs, first, American citizens; and, secondly, Mexican citizens.

SOUTH TEXAS PASSES THROUGH SEVERE DROUGHT

Corpus Christi, Tex., July 25.—Probably no more unusual and climatic weather conditions, as affecting agricultural pursuits, ever existed in this portion of southwest Texas than the prolonged drought, which was broken by general rains in this section during July. During the time crop raisers were compelled to send cattle on summer vacations to central and north Texas pastures.

As a result of this drought varied conditions in cotton farming are to be found. On several large farms three stages of cotton production are found to exist simultaneously; planting, cultivating and picking. Cotton will be from 90 to 120 days late in this section, agricultural authorities have predicted. Last year the forty-two counties affected by the drought produced by September 1, 165,000 bales of cotton, valued at approximately $10,000,000 and other diversified crops valued at $4,000,000.

Rheumatic Sufferers! Read What One of Your Citizens Says. Wichita Falls, Texas. This is to certify that I am a business man of this city. I was taken down with Rheumatism several months ago, and I grew worse all the time. I had two of the best doctors in the city with me and they failed to do me any good. I was so bad off that I could not walk or turn myself in bed. I could not get to my place of business. I did not know what to do. I was fixing to go to Marlin Wells as the last resort when a friend of mine told me of the Nichols' Famous Rheumatic Remedy and advised me to try it, which I did, and by the time I had taken one bottle I was up and going as usual. However, I bought another bottle and have only taken part of it. I would have given a hundred dollars for the medicine just as quick as I did the $5.00 per bottle had I known what it would do for me. Now, I have no interest in that matter at all, only I think this medicine will cure rheumatism, if it did in my case and did something the doctors failed to do, I am recommending it to any rheumatic sufferer. (Signed by me) L. H. GREGG. For information phone 2124. 63-11p

I desire especially to thank the laboring men and members of organized labor for the loyal support given me, and in this connection will say that I entertain no ill will toward my opponent and those who gave him their support and will seek to represent them as faithfully as I do the citizenship that was favorable to my candidacy. Again thanking you, and with best wishes to all, I am Gratefully yours. ENOS R. GREENWOOD. 63-11c

BRUCE GREENWOOD GRATEFUL TO VOTERS. I wish to express my appreciation for the big vote given me in Saturday's primary which was much larger than I had expected as I was sick during the closing days of the campaign and did not get to see many of those I had expected to see. I am deeply grateful to the voters of the county and assure them that I will give them the best service I can. I am, in gratitude. BRUCE GREENWOOD.

Carranza Plans Series of Decrees Covering Operations in Republic

By Associated Press.
