DALLAS KILLING MAY BE SOLVED

NEGRO SAID TO HAVE CONFESSED SLAYING MISS CRAMER IN MARCH.

NAME NOT DIVULGED

Two Rings Found In Prisoner's Possession—Declares He Did Not Mean to Kill.

By Associated Press. Dallas, Texas, July 27.—A negro arrested in McKinney yesterday, whose name officers refuse to divulge, has confessed to the murder of Miss Zoella Mae Cramer, nurse found dead on the Oak Cliff high school campus March 26, according to Assistant County Attorney Adams. No reason was made by the authorities for withholding the negro's name. Adams said the negro made a full confession to him, saying he meant to rob Miss Cramer but did not mean to kill her. In the negro's possession Adams said he found two rings which he claimed were once the property of the nurse. Miss Cramer was killed while going from the depot to her home in Oak Cliff after returning from North Texas where she had been on professional duty. Mystery surrounding the death has been deep since then and although several suspects were arrested all were later released.

VERGE OF COLLAPSE

Mind Apparently Affected—Is Placed In Jail at El Paso For Safe Keeping.

By Associated Press. Alpine, Tex., July 27.—Harry J. Spannall, manager of a local hotel, was given a preliminary examination on a charge of killing his wife and Lieut. Col. M. C. Butler, U. S. A. here today before Justice Rogan and remained to jail without bond to await action of the grand jury, which meets here September 11.

Spannall, apparently crazed by jealousy, it is asserted, shot and killed his wife, the daughter of Holland, a leading banker and cattleman of West Texas, and the army officer, a week ago today while the three were riding in Spannall's car. The shooting occurred on a residence street in Alpine.

When the prisoner was brought into the court room he seemed oblivious to friends that he was on the verge of a mental collapse. He sobbed a greeting to the few officers present and with bloodshot eyes searched the room. Apparently he paid little attention to the legal phases of the examination but mumbled over and over again "O, my little girl; my own little girl" referring apparently to his five year old daughter now at the home of her grand parents here.

Spannall persisted in refusing to discuss the case. Thus far the only statement attributed to him was contained in a note to a friend in Waco, Texas, in which it was asserted he had not intended to kill his wife; that accidentally he had hit her while firing at Butler.

He always knows what he is doing. Birdie is the nickname of General Birdwood, their commander.

WEEK'S DELAY LIKELY

May Be Held Until Some Word Comes Regarding Her Sister Ship—Receipts Planned by Ambassador Indefinitely Postponed.

By Associated Press. Baltimore, July 27.—If Captain Paul Koenig of the Deutschland plans to start today on the return voyage to Germany, there was nothing going on this morning at the pier where the submarine is berthed which was any more indicative of departure than has been the case for the last few days.

Overnight developments, in fact, tended to increase the probability of a report late last night that the ship was destined to hold the Deutschland until some word had been received concerning her sister ship, the Bremen.

When Earl A. Luederitz, German consul here, announced that the reception of Ambassador Von Bernstorff which had been planned at his home for last evening, had been indefinitely postponed, he was asked when the Deutschland would leave.

"She will not leave for a week," answered Mr. Luederitz.

SAYS MANY WILL MOURN JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY

(Houston Post) James Whitcomb Riley is dead. The poet of the Middle West passed away at his home in Indianapolis in the peaceful hours of the night of July 22. The man who loved home life and children and who sang of the joys of sweetheart days had no loved ones by his side when the summons came. Only the nurse was there. But the Hoosier poet went on no lonely journey. For thirty-six years his verse has been known and loved by hundreds of thousands from Maine to California. He has as many friends on the other side of the River There are Eugene Field and Bill Nye and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow and a host of others who loved him and have gone before.

There are lovers on the other side who heard the poet read "An Old Sweetheart of Mine" when the world was young. There are others who sang "Heart of Mine, We Shouldn't Worry So" when gray heads were bowed with age. They all knew and loved the man who sang their joys, their sorrows, their lives and their deaths, and sang in the language they knew and understood. There were no loved ones at the bedside when his spirit passed out, but over the country there are mourners and many a tear has fallen for the poet of humanity.

RILEY, POET OF PEOPLE, MOURNED BY "COMMON FOLK" FOR WHOM HE WROTE

They held "this man who sang of common things, and I am moved by their fore to suggest that his remains be allowed to lie in state in the rotunda of the capitol." Arrangements were made for the burial of Riley's body in Crown Hill cemetery, near Indianapolis, relatives feeling that Mr. Riley should be buried where the public might best visit his grave. Thus, adds of persons silently passed the Riley home in Indianapolis while many closer friends of the poet entered the home to view the body.

17 CASES TRIED IN CITY COURT TODAY

A woman was fined $5 for fighting and a man was given a like amount in two cases, one case having come over from the day before, while the second offense was committed late yesterday afternoon.

Friberg Items

Everybody feels very thankful for the fine rain which fell last week. Every farmer has his whole force in the field plowing the ground. George Musgrave and family, Mrs. Lovell and daughter, Catherine, visited with Lank Thornberry and family Sunday. Henry Musgrave and Mr. Callen have their tractors at work on their farms plowing the wheat stubble. A woman is digging a new cistern on her farm.

The revival meetings which began last Sunday three miles east of Friberg are still in progress and will close there over Sunday. The old time religion is being preached by a consecrated man of God. Come and bring your family home. The services are held under a tabernacle where the people have full access to the cool air. The evangelist, pastor and people of Friberg and Thornberry extend a special invitation to the people of Wichita Falls to come out in their cars and attend the services. Your presence and help will be greatly esteemed and appreciated. Ruth Musgrave entertained a large number of friends Wednesday afternoon, the occasion being Miss Ruth's birthday. Her friends departed at a late hour wishing her many more happy birthdays.

CHANGES ARE PLANNED IN COUNTY LIBRARY LAW

By Associated Press. Austin, Texas, July 27.—At a joint meeting recently held here by the legislative committees of the State Federation of Women's Clubs and the Texas Library Association it was decided to recommend to the next legislature several important changes in the present county library law. Among the proposed changes are: increase of the county library tax from 5 mills to a maximum of 5 cents on the $100 of property valuation; the requiring of only 100 qualified voters instead of 25 per cent to sign a petition calling for an election to vote for or against a county library; certification of county librarians by a state board of library examiners; and a regular majority instead of a two-thirds vote in favor of the establishment of a county library to carry on an election.

is coming along, and growers naturally are concerned as to the reception it will receive at the markets. No attention of Packington information has come. Packington is too busy with a scramble for hogs of the old crop with which to fill contracts. At the middle of July 20 was a common price for good hogs, a condition for which no precedent exists. A year ago $7.50 bought them at the same period. Abnormal conditions exist. Instead of being on a fresh meat basis at midsummer the price of cured product is the dominant factor and 65 per cent of the carcass goes into salt.

Usually packers are under the necessity of carrying this surplus in storage until it can be distributed through regular channels; at present they are able to contract it before the hogs have been bought, which explains why a $10 market is possible. When and in what condition the pig crop will be marketed depends in a large measure on the corn crop outcome. That pigs are healthy is indicated by scarcity of small hogs at the markets. July usually witnesses a bargain sale of youngsters, but this year they have sold close up to mature hogs. That the pig crop is larger than that of 1915 is admitted, and if it can be matured tonnage will be far heavier than during the first half of 1916. September generally is high month in the hog market. In October packers begin putting prices on a winter or accumulation basis.

The meat accumulations at the end of the first half of 1916 at Western packing points were nearly one million pounds less than a year ago, and much of that stock was under contract. The heavy stock of 1915 had been cleaned up at the inception of the winter packing season, and it is a certainty that there will be nothing on hand when the advance guard of the 1916 crop shows up. Packers naturally would be indisposed to carry product from $10 hogs into the new season, and it is more than probable that three months hence they will be hungry for material to fill December and January contracts. The consumption of both fresh and cured hog product is at flood tide and regardless of peace or war in Europe is likely so to continue. Even lard, which was recently a drug, is making a favorable showing. Stocks of that commodity at Western accumulation points decreased more than one million pounds in June, against an increase of 19 million pounds a year ago. Last February there were 33 million pounds more lard at the five points in excess of a year ago, but five months after changed the relative position to 33 million pounds less. Packers evidently have confidence in the future of lard, believing that peace in Europe will materially appreciate its value. The foreign situation depends largely on the duration of war. Enormous quantities of meats and lard are constantly being sent across the Atlantic, and this will continue, even if the war drags along another year. Should a peace basis be reached the replenishment of the larders of Central Europe will tax the resources of American packers. But even with Germany practically excluded from this market exports during the seven months ending with May were largely in excess of the previous year, with the exception of lard. Efforts have been made to maintain an adequate supply at Liverpool, but bacon stocks there decreased 1 1/2 million pounds during June, against an increase of more than three million pounds a year ago. Late September and early October will mark the crucial stage in hog trade. If the pig crop continues healthy, and a good corn prospect develops, growers will have an incentive to put on weight and winter supply will be distributed equally. The present prospect is that there will be a place to put every pound of pork lard the country is able to market during the next twelve months at the best prices in trade history. Power dwells with cheerfulness; hope puts us in a working mood; whilst despair is no must and untunes the active powers.—Emerson.

CITADEL DEDICATION BRINGS PROMOTION--NOW ENSIGN ROBB

In connection with the dedication of the new building recently constructed at 204 Seventh street, former Captain H. G. Robb was last night commissioned as ensign in the army organization, the commission being given by Brigadier John C. Smith of Dallas, who was in command of the dedication exercises, and who explained that the promotion carried with it equal honors to Mrs. Robb's faithful aide in the noble work that was being done in the city of Wichita Falls. Both responded feelingly in appreciation and a wave of applause went forth from the congregation in token of the esteem in which Captain and Mrs. Robb are held by this people.

Incident to the program Brigadier Smith read the following telegram received from Commissioner Thos. Estell of Chicago: "I wish to thank and congratulate the citizenship of Wichita Falls for the practical sympathy and liberality which has made possible the construction of this beautiful citadel for the work of the Salvation Army in their enterprising city. The Wichita Falls comrades and local Captain and Mrs. Robb and yourself have done magnificently. May the new citadel prove a center of ever increasing spiritual blessing and helpful activity."

Preliminary to the formal program that was rendered within the new building, Mayor A. H. Britain presented the keys for the new structure with an appropriate address, in which he praised the work of the Army in this city, and elsewhere and referred to the splendid efforts that had been put forth by Captain and Mrs. Robb and to the response that had been made to their appeal for assistance in securing a permanent home for the organization.

Brigadier Smith of Dallas responded to the address of the mayor and thanked the citizenship of Wichita Falls, also taking occasion to emphasize the work of the local organization.

Following the presentation of the commission as ensign to Captain Robb, the congregation sang, "Stand Up, Stand Up, For Jesus," music being furnished by Taylor's band, which very kindly volunteered its services for the occasion.

The invocation was delivered by Rev. N. F. Grafton, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, after which Mrs. Smith was introduced and rendered in splendid voice and with much feeling a beautiful solo, with music by the band and in which the congregation joined in the chorus.

Mayor Britain again spoke and called attention to the proposed removal of Captain Robb from this city some time ago and recalled the earnest effort that was made by the citizenship of the city for his retention in charge of the work here, how the wires were kept hot to prevent his removal and how gratified were his people when it became known that his order had been rescinded. The mayor humorously spoke of the trials of the executive of the city in responding to the call of the needy, and told of the manner in which this burden had been removed from his shoulders by Captain Robb. Mayor Britain then referred to the new building and the manner in which it had been constructed, calling attention to the fact that it had cost $10,500 not including the expense for seating, and that there remained some indebtedness which he desired to see liquidated without worry to Captain Robb or his co-workers. He called attention to subscription blanks that were passed through the congregation and urged all to contribute to this worthy cause.

Rev. F. P. Walters spoke of the splendid work of the Army and urged a revival of interest in the Bible school which he said was the foundation for character building and the one thing most needed to prepare the young minds for the duties that lay before them and to drive out their thoughts from the worldly temptations that surround the young men and the young women of the city.

Recalling that he had on a previous occasion taken part in dedication of a Salvation Army barracks across the water, which exercises were attended by General Booth, the founder of the organization, Rev. F. T. Dawson, rector of the Episcopal Church, emphasized the work of the Army, especially in this connection, and a class that other churches could not reach. He reminded his hearers that the churches should not permit the Salvation Army to monopolize this class of work. Responding to this reference, Brigadier Smith explained that the Army was enabled to perform this service because its members lived in touch with the masses.

Adjutant James of Fort Worth spoke enthusiastically of the results accomplished at this place and expressed the hope that his city might soon awake to accomplish a similar service to the Army and to humanity in this connection. Brigadier Smith called attention to the fact that the organization in the city of Dallas had been paying rent for $25,000, and was now compelled to contribute $400 per month for quarters, adding that had a similar effort been made in this city, it would have been the splendid result accomplished, and he too paid a splendid tribute to the citizenship of Wichita Falls and to Captain and Mrs. Robb.

Culberson with work extending over not more than 10 days. If there be equal interest in other counties then there should be no trouble in returning him a winner in the second primary.

"It was a noticeable fact--very noticeable--that not one of his opponents had one word to say against the official record of Senator Culberson. They appeared to be agreed that that was invulnerable. That is a most hopeful fact for the friends of every candidate in the race can safely count on Mr. Culberson in this second primary and be assured that his vote will be cast for a man approved by the friend who received the first vote.

AUTOMOBILE GOES RIGHT INTO SALOON
Backs Across Street, Climbs Curb and Hits Safe Behind the Bar.

Lamar Fain of the McCluhan store borrowed George Thorburn's Overland roadster to drive home for lunch today. Mr. Fain got into the car on Ohio avenue in front of Mr. Thorburn's office and started the engine and pushed it in the clutch to back. He became confused and evidently when attempting to push in the brake pushed on the accelerator instead. Anyhow the car shot backward across the street, in a circle and then backed over the curb in front of the Princess saloon and into the window. It came to a stop when it bumped into the big iron safe bank of the bar. The plate glass window was shattered into bits. A brook on tall light was the only damage to the car.

GIRL DECIDES TO ACCEPT
UNCLE'S 'TAINTED' MONEY
(From the New York Sun.)
Miss Edith H. Kitching, who for many years skipped along on $300 a year in a hall bedroom, when she cooked her own meals on an oil stove, has finally decided to accept the "tainted" money accumulated by her uncle, Frank P. Ripley. Mr. Ripley gave up a job as bank clerk more than twenty years ago to lend money on his own account, and loaned it so successfully that when he died, November 11, last, in a furnished room in Brooklyn, he had amassed a fortune of $201,000. At that time it was thought Miss Kitching would get $50,000, the amount Ripley had jotted opposite her name in a tattered memorandum book containing other items, but she announced that she would accept no part of the estate. Later, after the transfer tax appraiser had disallowed all other claims, holding Miss Kitching the sole heir, she manifested signs of changing mind.

URGES CULBERSON'S FRIENDS TO BETRIB THEMSELVES
(Houston Post.)
"The fact that it is former Governor Colquhoun who is so content in the second primary with Senator Culberson makes it imperative that every friend of the senator betrib himself--and betrib now," said J. C. Hutchinson, chairman of the Culberson Central Club of Harris county Sunday evening.

The German submarine, Deutschland, has taken out her clearance papers and will soon start on her return voyage to some German port. Captain Koening and her crew know that in starting on the voyage the chances are that they will meet death. Enemy ships await them outside the three-mile limit and it is believed that the enemy has stretched steel nets with which to entomb them and hold them for a slow death by suffocation, yet with true German courage the crew is steady and anxious for the start of their perilous voyage. The whole world admires their courage and daring. Even those who are against Germany in the great struggle hope that they will evade their fate and destroy the submarine. The voyage of the Deutschland was a far greater victory for Germany than the sinking of the Lusitania or a hundred merchant ships.

If Senator Culberson goes into the second primary, as now seems probable, this will afford the voters of Texas the opportunity of voting in one contest where the prohibition question can not be considered an issue. Both Senator Culberson and former Governor Colquitt are anti-prohibitionists and both have expressed strong opposition to nationwide prohibition and both are opposed to nationwide woman's suffrage. With the prohibition issue eliminated, therefore, the voters can direct their attention to the real issue of the second primary. That is, whether the people of Texas wish to endorse or condemn the administration of Woodrow Wilson. If they wish to endorse it they can vote for Senator Culberson, who has been a strong support to President Wilson in the senate and who is known to be in entire sympathy with the administration. If they wish to condemn President Wilson they can vote for former Governor Colquitt. Colquitt is entirely out of harmony with the administration and has done everything in his power to embarrass it. In a signed interview he declared the Wilson administration "the greatest failure in the history of the presidency" and predicted that the election of 1916 would end the democratic regime in Washington. The issue could not be more fairly presented to the democratic voters of Texas. Vote for Culberson and thereby endorse the democratic administration and what it stands for; vote for Colquitt and condemn President Wilson and his policies. In the closing weeks of his campaign Colquitt made his appeal entirely to the anti-prohibitionists, proclaimed himself their champion and most faithful champion. This appeal doubtless won him thousands of votes. If it is found that submission has carried Governor Colquitt will probably again seek to rally to his support the anti-prohibition element. He will point out to them that a great struggle impends on prohibition and will urge that they stand shoulder to shoulder and elect him as their leader. But if submission is found to have been defeated Colquitt can not raise this cry. That is one reason why some prohibitionists who place their democracy and their allegiance to the national administration before prohibition are indifferent about submission carrying. They do not want to allow Colquitt to have any advantage he might steal from such an issue.

ISSUE IN THE SENATORIAL CONTEST.

If it should turn out, as now seems nearly certain, that the run-off for the senatorship is to be between Senator Culberson and Mr. Colquitt, an excellent opportunity will be afforded for a line-up of the friends and foes of the Wilson administration. Of course other considerations will be taken into account, and properly so, by most men when they come to determine the cast of their ballot. There are differences amounting to contrasts in the personalities of the two men, and almost equal disparity in intellectual attainments. They are the exponents of radically different traditions; or perhaps it would be more accurate to say that each is under the guidance and restraint of traditions while the other is not. These and other considerations even into the fact that one is and the other is not physically robust will be taken into account by the average voter. But the deeper cleavage between the two men is marked by their opposing attitudes toward the Wilson administration, and this will be the determining consideration with most voters. For once, and for the first time in many years, the voters will have an opportunity to choose without thought of the prohibition question. Both are anti. Senator Culberson, it is true, has said that if by any referendum process the people of Texas should make it clear that they wish to vote on an amendment to the Federal Constitution for nationwide prohibition he would feel bound to record their wish in the senate. Mr. Colquitt has not said this, but he would probably feel likewise obligated by accepting a place on the primary ballot.

There can be no issue worthy of the name of a senatorial contest in the prohibition question, unless it is that one seems to be an anti chiefly in obedience to principle and the other chiefly in obedience to policy. The real issue is the one which is likely to present, is in the question of support or opposition to the Wilson administration. Each can face this issue unembarrassed by their positions with respect to prohibition. By a queer turn of politics, and one which probably not the most experienced politicians foresaw, the contest for the senatorship is brought down to two men who are almost literally the poles of thought with respect to the Wilson administration. As a result of this the issue is sharpened, this falls out at a moment when the decision of Texas will exert an appreciable moral influence on the mind of the country as it comes to determine whether it will continue or omit the Wilson administration. Texas has played a singular and even a decisive part in determining the political career of Mr. Wilson. It is not exaggerating to say that if, in April, 1912, Texas had not sent forth the news from its primary conventions that its vote would go for him, Mr. Wilson's chance of getting the presidential nomination would have quickly evaporated, and Mr. Clark would, in all likelihood, have been the democratic party's nominee. Texas made "them" an irrevocable precedent. There is even less risk of exaggeration in saying that it was the steadfastness and grim resolution of the Texas delegation at Baltimore, as much as any other one thing, which brought about Mr. Bryan's nomination, and even Mr. Bryan's efforts to make "them" a precedent for the steadfastness of the Texas delegation. Having played this highly influential, not to say decisive part, in bringing about the nomination of Mr. Wilson, Texas is now called upon to renege its promise, when its action must tend definitely to confirm or repudiate its own work, by giving its commission in the senate either to one who has denounced the Wilson administration as "the worst failure in the history of the presidency,"—Dallas News.

BLESSED ARE THE PEACEMAKERS

In San Francisco the other night Paul Scharrenberg said: "I used to think that danger might come from across the Pacific, but since meeting the fraternal delegates from Japan to the American Federation of Labor I am convinced that the workers of Japan do not want war with any more than the workers of America want war with them." But the workers, Paul, are not the one who decide the question of war. The rulers, sometimes order a war to lessen discontent. It has been remarked these past two years that the men who are fighting each other in Europe fairly love each other. The American people do not want war, and they would be foolish to turn their country into a vast military camp. But it is the unexpected that happens. Therefore, they should strengthen their arm of defense, the navy. All the world should be given to understand that it would be profitable to make war on this country. In the meantime, this country should go on proclaiming, "Blessed are the peacemakers," and not depart therefrom save, as Rudolph Spreckles puts it, "to strike a blow for human liberty"—that is, for the preservation of free institutions.—Waco Times-Herald.

Bricks Are Hurlled at Car in Bronx But No One is Seriously Injured

New York, July 27.—The first outbreak in the strike of street car men in Bronx and Westchester counties occurred shortly after noon today when a mob of several hundred strikers and sympathizers attacked a West Pike car in the Bronx. Bricks were hurled at the car and it was reported several persons were hurt. Police reserves and ambulances were summoned. When the police had succeeded in checking the demonstration it was discovered that no one was seriously hurt. About a dozen persons were arrested.

REMAND SMITH TO JAIL WITHOUT BOND

State Attacks Self Defense Plea of Clay County Boy Accused of Murder

Special to The Times. Henrietta, Texas, July 27.—Alfred Smith was remanded to jail without bail this afternoon following the conclusion of his examining trial in the justice court here; he is charged with murder in connection with the death of Blue Grove, south of this city. Although evidence adduced yesterday advanced the self-defense plea of the defendant, the state brought out today that the elder Smith was wounded in the back of the head and that the pillow just back of head was set on fire by the discharge of the shotgun held by his son. The defendant, on the stand, testified that his father started to arise from his bed. In refutation of this testimony, the state showed that the father was sleeping on his left side, that his right ear was powder burned, but that his left ear was not; the state contended that had the father started to rise, both ears would have been powder burned. The defense gave notice of appeal from the decision of the justice in remanding without bail. The appeal will be taken before either the court of criminal appeals or before Judge Bonner at Wichita Falls. Judge R. E. Taylor has been added to counsel for the defense. The hearing case to a close this afternoon.

SAYS NATIONAL PRODUCE EXCHANGE IS NECESSARY

Dallas, Tex., July 27.—The last of the peach bulletins now being issued daily by the United States bureau of agriculture was put out today. John R. Babcock, assistant to the president of the chamber of commerce and manufacturers' association, through which the bulletins have been handled, said today that in his opinion the service rendered by the bureau of markets this year will be a start toward a national produce exchange. Not less than half a million dollars should be appropriated for the work, he said. "This year the appropriation for the entire United States was but $146,000."

POSTAGE STAMPS CARRY INFECTION

Forty-Eight out of Fifty Have Germs, According to Scientists New York.—Two Philadelphia scientists, Dr. Robert A. Kelly and Philip D. McMaster, have been carrying on an investigation in the McManus Laboratory of Pathology of the University of Pennsylvania to determine whether postage stamps are germ carriers. Their experiments have been completed and the results were published in yesterday's issue of the Medical Record. The answer to the query is "Yes." They learned that 48 per cent of fifty stamps tested in several ways forty-eight yielded bacteria. On the other hand, with the possible exception of two cases, stamps by the postal service are harmless, as with those that are stamped with postage stamps, that is, to get some idea of the general character of bacteria, the scientists with special emphasis in the search for tubercle bacilli, bacillus tetani, the colon group, and diphtherial forms. The literature on this subject is surprisingly meager, and but little record is made of the bacteria of stamps. The subject is usually approached from the viewpoint of the stamp collector, by the postal service as a whole, the infection by letters and the fumigation of letters and stamps, or of the bacteria on stamps. The answer to the question, "Do stamps carry germs?" is that they do, but that they are harmless, as with those that are stamped with postage stamps, that is, to get some idea of the general character of bacteria, the scientists with special emphasis in the search for tubercle bacilli, bacillus tetani, the colon group, and diphtherial forms. To reproduce the lovely belles and stately dames of the post-revolutionary period in the shape of dolls is the aim of Mrs. Theodore Lightfoot, originator of a remarkable collection of historic dolls at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. In the collection are a number of colonial models ranging from days of the Puritans and the Dutch down to examples of the "early General Grant period."

HARROWING SCENES IN RETREAT OF SERBIANS

They were very aged even for Serbs, and carried no provisions of any sort that I could see. The old woman was following the old man. I saw them visibly grow weaker and weaker until their progress became a series of stumblings falls.

The mayor acted at the request of the Yonkers Merchants' association.

WAGES INCREASE BUT PRICES INCREASE FASTER

From the San Francisco Bulletin.
Do high wages cause high prices, or high prices high wages, or do other causes—such as high finance—cause both high wages and high prices? A favorite theory among economists who approach the problem from the direction of Bankers Row is that high wages are much to blame for the vicious circle, leading from prosperity to inflation, and from inflation to deflation and depression. But, perhaps, this theory is one sided. If it could be shown that prices keep ahead of wages, so that the wage earner, getting more in money, cannot buy so much of the world's goods, he certainly cannot be blamed for inflation. The admission, if made, is fatal. This is what actually did happen in the United States between 1901 and 1913. During this period money wages rose about 25 per cent, but prices rose so rapidly that the increased money wage bought 14 per cent less in 1913 than in 1901. In quotations meat elbow room, and so on the wage dropped. In Australia, during the same period effective wages rose about 1 per cent; that is, they gained that much on the price of living.

Wages have risen very rapidly since the great war. So have prices. Without an elaborate statistical study such as the government probably will publish after we are all dead, it is impossible to say that the American workman is better off, in real wages, than he was two or three years ago. He is better off because he has steady employment, but that is another story.
