INTERESTING LETTER FROM RALPH W. THOMAS
Norfolk, Virginia, July 26, '42.

The Friona Star, Friona, Texas.

Dear Mr. White: I should have written earlier, but we really have quite a bit of work and studying to do. But as everyone knows, we will have to give everything we have in order to have victory, but we will win and if the people at home will do as much as those in the service, this war will be won. We can never forget how our fathers and uncles fought in the last war and they won the victory. We will do the same or go down fighting. It is quite a sight to see the serious faces of the boys here when we hear news broadcasts and hear about something happening to the good old U. S.

I read a letter from Pvt. Daniel Mann, of the army, and will say it was very good. And I can assure you every man or boy should feel the same. I have been receiving the Star here and all I can say is "thanks a lot" and keep it coming and give us more Japs. So in closing I will say, "Victory or death". Hoping to see this in print in the good old Friona Star, so everyone will know we are for America 100%.

Your Parmer County boy in the Service,

Auto Dealers To Collect Scrap

DETROIT—More than 8,000 automobile dealerships in almost as many communities throughout the country will become collection depots in the government's scrap metal drive, under a plan proposed today by Chevrolet dealers by William E. Holler, general sales manager of Chevrolet.

"Six million tons of scrap metal is the objective set by the government's War Production Board," Mr. Holler said. "With the public cooperating and Chevrolet dealers the country over assisting in the promotion of 'Salvage for Victory' campaign this goal will surely be attained. I am confident that Chevrolet dealers will support this program wholeheartedly as another evidence of their willingness to serve in any capacity that will contribute to victory.

"Today scrap is ammunition—it's guns, it's planes, it's bullets, it's tanks—and these materials must be supplied to our fighting forces in invincible volume. We have been informed reliably that there is enough steel and iron on the farms, vacant lots, and in city homes that, if collected, would be sufficient when used with other materials to make double the world's number of battleships afloat today or enough 2,000-pound bombs to drop three per minute for three years.

"Collection of this scrap is an opportunity to manifest patriotic cooperation which I know Chevrolet dealers will welcome. Their places of business are centrally located in their communities and are generally well known. I believe they will be ideal scrap metal collection depots, and we are asking that all Chevrolet dealers join in this worthwhile endeavor."

Rhea Folks Enjoy Outdoor Gathering

Friday night July 31, families of Rhea community gathered at the schoolhouse to enjoy an outdoor supper.

After the fire was built and the kettle set up, the men collected in groups on the outside edge of the firelight. Others went into the schoolhouse to play "42" and dominoes.

The women had the center of the stage around the kettle, and after many jokes were told and many tears shed from the smoke, young and old were called to supper of fried chicken and potatoes and all that goes with it.

It was the first community get-together since harvest, and each one enjoyed it immensely.

HERE LAST WEEK
Mrs. Bob Cox, of Lubbock and her small son, Don Crawford, and Mrs. George Adkins and small daughter, of Rockwall, spent a part of last week here visiting their father and sister, T. J. Crawford and Miss Jeanie Crawford, and their grandmother, Mrs. S. K. Smith.

Farmers Asked Watch Quality Dairy Products

The government is gratified by the manner in which farmers have responded to its call for increased production of dairy products but is disturbed by the quality of some of these products, advices received by the Friona Star indicate.

"Too little and too late" will never be said of the efforts of the dairy farmer in the past year, according to T. G. Sitts, chief of the dairy and poultry division of the Agricultural Marketing Administration. In the case of almost all dairy products he has delivered a plenty, and right on schedule too, he says.

On the other hand, J. O. Clarke, chief of the central district of the Food and Drug Administration, has served notice that war conditions, far from leading to relaxation in the vigilance and enforcement activities of his division, will probably bring closer watchfulness over all wh o produce, handle and distribute the food for our citizens, our armed forces and our allies.

Fats are of particular importance with shortages existing or impending, and butter, as one of the vitally necessary foods, is in for special attention. In normal times, Mr. Clarke points out, inspections were made chiefly of the finished product but now that we are at war any and all steps deemed necessary to prevent the waste of food that results from poor quality must and will be taken.

Back of each instance of confiscated butter, says Mr. Clarke, almost invariably it will be found that the cream from which it was made had spoiled because something was done wrong, or something was left undone, along the farm production line.

The law covering the production, sale and handling of fat has teeth in it—teeth designed to deal alike with the careless, negligent producer of unfit cream and the manufacturer who puts bad butter into the channels of commerce—and the Food and Drug Administration will not hesitate to use them.

Cream that has been allowed to spoil cannot be made good again, and to avoid a possible run-in with the law, state or federal, the farmer must make clean milk, rather than cleaned milk, according to Mr. Clarke. Particular care must be taken to prevent particles of any kind from dropping into the milk or cream during milking or separation or while being held on the farm. While much of the foreign matter which may enter can be strained out of the milk, the full wholesomeness of an exceptionally delicate food product, once harmed, can never be wholly restored.

The days of the poor cream producer are numbered, Mr. Clarke believes, because more and more creameries are learning the wisdom of buying cream on grade and rejecting any that is unfit. He suggests this simple test for farmers wishing to (Continued on Back Page)

Walther League Convention Set Aug. 10-12-14

The International Walther League, the Lutheran youth organization within the Lutheran Church, will sponsor its local Dedication Convention on August 10, 12 and 14. In former years the International sponsored the conventions, but this year due to the rationing of time, tires, gas and food commodities, the International convention was cancelled. This convention was to be held at Denver, Colorado, but in order to reap the rich fruits of such conventions, a program was planned to bring a convention to every Walther League society. Therefore, the Immanuel Walther League of Rhea, Immanuel Lutheran Walther League of Clovis, and St. John's Lutheran Walther League of Lariat combined their numbers to make such a convention possible in our vicinity.

The General Convention Committee was elected by the respective societies, the members of which are as follows: Melvin Sachs and Gilbert Schueler of Rhea; Melvin Pzyetki and Anita Kirsney of Clovis; Gilbert Kaltwasser and Albert Krieger of Lariat; and the Rev. Karl Keller of Clovis, and the Rev. Rudolf Weiser of Lariat. The General Convention Committee met last Wednesday evening in Rev. Keller's study in Clovis, to outline the program for the three sessions of the convention, and also met this Wednesday evening in Rev. Weiser's study at Lariat.

The work of the Walther League will be discussed in these sessions. The program is as follows: The first session will be held in Clovis, at the public library, 6th & Pile, Monday night, August 10, at 10 p. m. (CWT). The session will open with a vesper service. Rev. Weiser will speak on the text: "Be Strong In The Lord," Ephesians 6:10. Melvin Pzyetki of Clovis will serve as business chairman of all three meetings, while Melvin Sachs of Rhea will serve as secretary. Messages will be read by the secretary to the Leagues. Messages of the president of Synod of the Lutheran Church, Dr. J. W. Behnken; president of International Walther League, Henry W. Buck, and a report from the chairman of the Golden Anniversary Fund. This fund, which amounts to $100,000, for which they will erect the building at the International headquarters in Chicago. The building will be dedicated on Sept. 20.

The educational topic for the first session will be the administration of the Walther League. The discussion will center about the work of the organization—its program and the executive board. Special feature for the Monday night session will be an autograph hunt.

The second meeting will be held at Lariat, on the following Wednesday, August 12 at 10 p. m. in St. John's Church. This meeting will also open with a vesper service. Candidate Ralph Temme will be in charge. The topic discussion will center about the "Christian Knowledge" department of the Walther League. The Christian knowledge department is the education division of the organization. The special feature for the (Continued on Back Page)

County Wide Junk Rally Set August 29

August 29 has been designated by Governor Coke R. Stevenson, the War Production Board and the County U. S. D. A. War Board as local Junk Rally Day for Parmer county. It is requested that all persons in the county who have useless scrap metal and rubber take this junk to the nearest local junk dealer on the above date, who will be glad to pay you prevailing prices. County dealers handling junk are the State Line Wrecking Yard, Texico, N. M., Ernest Englant's Garage at Bovia, and O. C. Jones in Friona.

We feel that it is not your desire to hinder the war effort by failing to place this valuable junk where it may be used to bring this suffering and bloodshed to a speedy end. Have you ever stopped to realize that your hundred or so pounds of scrap iron or your fifteen or twenty pounds of scrap rubber might save the life of some boy who is now fighting to preserve our liberty and freedom? There is scarcely a person in the United States who does not have someone near and dear, as father, son, husband, sweetheart, or friend who is today fighting with our armed forces; therefore we urge you to help in this small way to make August 29 a red letter day in the history of Parmer county.

Ted Houlette In Ministry

One of Friona's most dependable young men has entered the ministry, according to information reaching the Star office, and has taken charge of a congregation, of the Pentecostal Holiness Church at Lubbock.

This is Ted Houlette, son of Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Houlette. His father reports that Ted is enjoying his work as pastor of the church, and the members of the congregation have expressed their pleasure and satisfaction with his services.

Red Cross Calls For Assistance In Sewing Campaign

Mrs. R. H. Kinsley has authorized the Star to announce that there is an abundance of sewing to be done for the Red Cross; she said materials are now on hand at her home.

Mrs. Kinsley asks that all ladies with time to help with Red Cross sewing call at her home for the materials and patterns for the work. She further stated that if there were any of the ladies who cannot call for the work, if they will notify her she will take the materials to them.

There is an urgent demand for this work and workers are sorely needed, Mrs. Kinsley pointed out.

Mrs. W. A. Massie and son, Ed, and daughter, Miss Anna, visited their son and brother, Jessie Massie, of Claude, last weekend.

'Sand Piles' of Excess Wheat

Louise, 5, and Lenora, 7, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Sherman, Garden City, Kan., play on the pile of wheat from their daddy's bumper crop. Wheat has been piled on the ground in hope that storage space will be found. Scarcely any elevator space is available for western Kansas wheat flooding in from the fields.

COGITATIONS and APHORISMS of Jodok

I had my hand called for laying off last week, but this week's effusion may be so bad that no one will want to read my stuff again. But we can tell more about it when it is written and printed.

I am frequently accused by my good friends, Floyd Reeve, George McLean, John Silver-tooth and few others, of "living too much in the past," and they may be right about it. It is a commonly understood fact that when a man gets into his "eighties," he really has very little future to live in, and the present is so short—just a second at a time—that one cannot live much in it; therefore, the past becomes his mainstay for living. (Please note that I have not said I am 80.)

Anyway, I have many happy days and hours recorded in the past, which I do greatly enjoy by living them over again and again. And quite frequently these things are brought to me without any seeking on my part.

My dear mother was taken to her eternal home, when I was too young to have even the faintest remembrance of her, and my life through my babyhood, childhood and boyhood—and even my youth—was cared for and directed by two of the best women that ever blessed this earth with their presence—my grandmother and an aunt, (my father never re-married thus I never had the experience of a stepmother) and all I know of my mother is what they told me.

But my aunt sang to me many old, old songs, that I thought most beautiful, and many of which I still remember; and she told me my mother often sang them and that they were favorites with her. Other people have told me that my mother was a beautiful singer, although I doubt if she knew one thing about written music. When, by chance, I run across one of these old songs, can anyone blame me for going back into the dim past to relive a few of those happy moments?

Well, that is just what happened one day last week when I read Boyce House's weekly column—which always comes to me in manuscript form—for he had quoted therein one of those old lovely songs—the words only—and it occurs to me that they are so fitting for these days and time that, and I am sure not many, if any, of my readers have ever heard them, and will pardon me for quoting them here today. Mr. House stated that it is one of Mr. Lincoln's favorite poems. It reads as follows:

"If you are too weak to journey
Up the mountain, deep and high,
You can stand within the valley,
While the multitudes go by—
You can chant in happy measure,
As they slowly pass along—
Though they may forget the singer,
They will not forget the song."

"If you cannot in the conflict
Prove yourself a soldier true;
If, where fire and smoke are thickest,
There's no work for you to do—
When the battle field is silent,
You can go with careful tread:
You can be at the wounded,
You can cover up the dead."

"If you cannot, on the ocean,
Sail among the swiftest fleet,
Rocking on the highest billows,
Laughing at the storms you meet;
You can go among the sailors,
Anchored yet within the bay,
You can lend a hand to help them

As they launch their boats away.
"Do not, then, stand idly waiting
For some greater work to do;
Fortune is a lazy Goddess;
She will never come to you.
Go and toil in any vineyard,
Do not fear to do or dare—
If you want a field of labor,
You can find it anywhere."
—Author Unknown"

Can anyone say that this is not a beautiful sentiment? And the air is also charming, musical, and easily sung. I am wondering if there may be any who read this, who is old enough to remember this fine little poem or song. If there should be, I would like to know it. In Mr. House's quotation of it in his column, he had omitted the third stanza, and I have supplied it from memory as I used to hear my aunt sing it.

Two weeks ago, when commenting on the approaching Primary Election, I stated that it occurred to me from what I could read and hear, that Judge Allred had the backing of the Administration, that ex-Governor Moody had the backing of the newspapers and that Senator O'Daniel had the backing of the voters. (Or did I read that somewhere?)

Well, anyway, someone stated it and it occurs to me that he was not far wrong in his surmise. And as to Judge Allred having the backing of the administration, whether true or false, who ever said it seems to have plenty of company in his opinion. Judging from what I have heard and read since. And as to Mr. Moody having the backing of the newspapers, if that surmise was correct, the newspapers seem to have very little political influence in Texas and the voters still have the say-so, when they choose to use it. And so it is, so long as we, Americans, have the privilege of a free and unquestioned franchise, we can still free ourselves, from any condition that becomes odious to a majority of the American voters. But when these "free" voters allow their better judgement to be thwarted by anything of no greater import than a blind fealty to a party name it is a truly morbid condition; one not easily corrected, since it is by our franchise, and that alone, that such conditions can be corrected.

Bill Wright said one day last week, that I am "the meanest darned old cuss in Friona," or words to that effect. Well, I am not disputing Bill's right to say that but he ought not to do it, for someone might believe it—even if it was Bill who said it. And it is no hearsay either, for he said it right in front of my own face, and within my own hearing.

It is both encouraging and consoling to know that some of our people are doing their bit to help make Friona a pretty city. My hat is off to F. S. Truitt; he had Clarence Jasper out on the west side of his lumber shed one day last week, and Clarence was surely making that patch of weeds look forlorn and sickly. F. S. cannot dare to get into the weeds himself on account of his hay fever, but he sure had Clarence hitting them a hard lick and it was having its effect—the looks of the street along there.

Then on another evening I passed by the home of my good friend, John D. Hamlin, out on Forrest Avenue and he had one of those two-edged weed cutters that cuts both going and coming, and he was welding it to good effect in his yard; if he kept that up very long there would be no weeds nor superfluous grass left in his yard.

Then as I was coming down town to take up my stand on the street corner Monday morning, my good friend, Will McCoy, invited me to stop into his yard and garden and see some of the things he is growing there.

Will has lived on this place but three or maybe it is only two years, and when he moved there he found no vegetation on it, except perhaps some tumble weeds. Now he has a pretty green lawn on each side and in front of the house, which he clips at least once each week. In addition to this pretty lawn, he has plum trees, peach trees and paper-shell pecan trees, growing quite thriftily; the lawn is bordered by many kinds of pretty flowers, including dahlias, some of them as large in diameter as a half-gallon fruit jar, and vines and climbing roses clambering up and over the front porch.

In his small garden he grows practically all the common garden vegetables, with a nice bed of rhubarb and a few Bowson berries, but the berries have not yet come into bearing and neither have the fruit trees as they are but two years old. The pecan trees, however, deserve special mention as they do not seem to be adapted to this soil, but these of Mr. McCoy's are making an excellent growth and are very thrifty looking youngsters.

Mr. McCoy also has a small poultry yard on the back end of his lot, with a small, but well arranged poultry house and a fine flock of hens and young stock, representing both the Buff Orpingtons and the Buff Leghorns, and from the hens he received a nice yield of fine eggs.

Another very attractive place is the home of F. I. Spring, over on Cleveland Avenue and 10th Street. Mr. Spring is one of our City Commissioners and is also one of our leading merchants; he manages to take off from these duties to care for a small, but well kept lawn on three sides of his home; his home is almost completely inclosed on the south and west sides by a well kept plot of fruit trees, vegetables and flowers.

Included in his variety of fruit trees are apples, peaches, pears, plums and cherries, most of which have been bearing nice crops of fruit for the past four or five years. He also has a variety of berries growing. Al though this is not what is termed a good "fruit year" in Friona, Mr. Spring is reported to have a fair crop of several varieties of fruit, with an average, or better, crop of cherries.

I have no doubt that if I had the time to traverse our city in its entirety, from north to south and from east to west, or vice-versa, I would find many other examples of where our citizens are adding their bit to beautify our city, but I have not the time to spare, for if a street corner philosopher is going to be a street-corner philosopher, he must be on the job and at his place of business the greater part of the time. But the examples I have mentioned will suffice to show that we have much in our city that is deserving of commendation, and that I was merely showing the rougher side two weeks ago when I told mostly of the weeds and rubbish that tin some places almost, if not quite, blocks the alleys.

If beautifying ideas become contagious among our homes, it may spread to our City Commission and the business places and become a means of helping to get the business part of the city cleaned up. Then we will not hesitate to invite our friends from other localities to visit us, or to encourage those seeking a place to make a home, to locate here. And that will be one step toward making Friona the kind of a city we all want it to become.

"I love the man, who says, 'I can,'
Though tough and hard the grade;
Who goes right in and works to win,
Until the goal is made."

"Though tough the climb and long the time
Before he'll win the prize,
He neither waits nor hesitates
But goes ahead and tries."

"The staller stands with idle hands
And cries—"It can't be done"
But this brave heart just makes a start
And soon the goal is won."

"Long live the man, who says,
'I can,'
Without complaint or sighing!
For work begun is work half done!
The hardest part is trying."

State To Rent Jacks, Stallions To Texas Farmers

Austin—In order to help meet the growing demand for saddle and draft horses and mules, Texas farmers and stockmen who need a stallion or jack should make application immediately to the Jack and Stallion Division of the State Department of Agriculture, Austin.

The department issued that statement today with the announcement that there are now several of the state-owned jacks and stallions available. The stallions include Belgian, percheron and saddle types.

The animals may be leased by stockmen or farmers for $30 yearly, with the remuneration to be derived from breeding fees. The fee limit is $10. The animals will be delivered to the lessee free of charge by the department.

Curtailed supplies of rubber and gasoline is expected to bring about a greater demand for horses and mules, and thereby increase the demand for the services of the state-owned jacks and stallions. It is estimated that the state animals have already increased the wealth of the state about $3,000,000, although since its creation in 1934, the Jack and Stallion Division has never cost the people of the state a penny for its upkeep and administration.

A large electric fan contains enough steel to make three .38 caliber revolvers, enough zinc for the zinc parts of an Army motorcycle, enough copper for 77 .30 caliber machine gun bullets and enough aluminum for the aluminum parts of seven gas masks.
The lark is among the early rising birds, but early rising is no lark.

Texas had an appreciable network of railroad lines of its own before the first railroad line connecting it with the rest of the United States was built in 1873.

With the Churches

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES

We take this method of expressing our deep appreciation to all who cooperated in any way in the revival which closed last Sunday afternoon.

We trust that each person who came received a blessing. We are indeed grateful for the large crowds and interest shown by every one who came.

Visible results were 22 additions, 15 by baptism and seven by letter. One young man surrendered to the call of God to preach the gospel. This revival proves to us again that God hears and answers prayer.

In the absence of the pastor, Rev. T. L. Pond of Plainview will preach at both hours next Sunday. Hope he shall have a good hearing.

"May God bless us all" is my prayer.

Rev. O. J. Wilson, Pastor.

UNION CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The Ladies Aid enjoyed a good meeting and fellowship this past Wednesday in the church.

The choir, composed of our fine young people, will rehearse this Saturday afternoon at six o'clock at the home of Mrs. Floyd Reeve. The help of the young people in our services has been greatly appreciated and has added to the worship of our services.

We welcome our pastor back this Sunday. He will bring us highlights of his month's experiences at Loveland, Colo. Let us all make an effort to be present to welcome him.

Summer conference is only a week away now. A number of young people of our other churches are coming by truck. Our meeting this Sunday evening should consider this problem of transportation. The experience gained in this one week will be valuable to you in the days to come, especially in the planning of your future programs.

This will be my last Sunday with you as your student pastor. I have tried to carry on the work of the church to the best of my ability. I thank you for your patience with me, your fine evidence of real Texas hospitality, and your many gracious courtesies. I shall cherish the days I spent here for a long time to come. May God richly bless you as you continue the all-important work of building toward a greater kingdom to come.

We are asking the full cooperation of all Christian people in the community that we may have a great community-stirring meeting. We need to turn to God in this hour. He, alone, can meet our needs. May we depend on YOU to help get His message over?

CHDA Notes

By Elsie Cunningham Home Demo. Agent

Lately a number of people have been complaining about ants coming into the kitchen and have been asking what to do about them.

Entomologists of the Department of Agriculture say that all methods of control of ants are based on the way ants live, in nests or colonies. The queens live in the nests and are fed by the worker ants, the ones you see running about looking for food. The secret of getting rid of ants is to locate the nest and destroy the queen and young ants. When you do that, the worker ants do not live very long.

Follow the trail of the ants to where they disappear. Try to inject a little carbon disulphide, kerosene, or gasoline into the opening with an oil can or small syringe. And by the way, these are inflammable materials; don't smoke or have any fire nearby while you use them.

If you can't find the ant colony, try poisoned sirup as bait. Add a small piece of sodium arsenite about the size of a pea to 1/2 cup corn sirup and stir until the sodium arsenite mixes completely with the sirup. Now, divide the sirup into portions, pouring into small saucers or the tops of fruit jars and set in places where ants cause trouble. It should cause the ants to cease their annoyance in a few days.

Notice that I said sodium ARSENITE and not sodium ARSENATE in the poisoned sirup. They are two different substances. Be sure you get sodium ARSENITE.

Another way to discourage ants is to dust with sodium fluoride, the same material used in control of cockroaches. Sprinkle along the edges of the kitchen floor, allow it to remain for some time.

Still another effective material is one of the commercial fly sprays. This should be placed in a small sprayer and sprayed along the runways, under baseboards, and into corners frequented by ants.

If you've had trouble with ants getting on cakes and other foods before you could put them away there's the old-fashioned way of protecting your kitchen table when you want to use it for cooling foods. Stand the table legs in small saucers or jars containing a little kerosene. Keep the surface of the kerosene clear of used ants. The live ones will use them as a bridge to get over and crawl up the table legs.

The best advice, however, is to destroy the ants home before they invade yours and of course, sweep up all crumbs promptly and keep your food supplies in tight containers.

"Give Your Clothes A Professional Touch" is the name of a new bulletin just released by the Texas A. & M. Extension Service. The bulletin is written by Mrs. Dora Barnes, clothing specialist, and explains how to make bound buttonholes, plackets, pockets and other tailored finished thru word description and detailed drawings.

The new bulletin is of particular interest to Parmer County home demonstration women, inasmuch as Mrs. Clarence O. Smith, president of the Bovine club, posed for the cover picture according to Elsie Cunningham home demonstration agent.

GOP To Send Resolution To State Meet

Friona, Texas August 1, 1942 Proceedings and minutes of The Parmer County, Texas, Republican Convention held at Friona, Parmer County, Texas, on Aug.

The convention met pursuant to the call of George McLean, Chairman of the Parmer County Central Committee, and the following business was transacted or accomplished:

F. W. Reeve of Friona was by unanimous vote of the voters present chosen and appointed as regular delegate to represent Parmer county at the State Republican Convention to be held at San Angelo, Texas, on Tuesday, August 11th, 1942.

The following resolutions were presented and unanimously adopted:

The Republicans of Parmer County declare for an "all-out" war effort. We believe that as long as it is necessary to have the young manhood of America under conscription, it is only fairness to that manhood and also an act of national safety that all civilian efforts should be forcefully directed toward accomplishing the war aim.

Efforts of political and personal advantage at the expense of patriotism is looked upon with contempt and should be exposed and punished.

Industrial, agricultural or labor profits in excess of the standard as set for our fighting men is looked upon as blood money and should not be tolerated.

Granted legal dictatorial authority during the war, we are just as insistent that with the return of peace, America must have a return of free enterprise, and competitive business practices under constitutional regulation. All semblance of dictatorship, regimentation, communism, planned economy and just plain New Dealism must be kicked into the fiery furnace with Hitlerism and various other European and Japanese isms.

Resolved that we hope that the desires, rights and freedom of the common man can again be revitalized and be made secure under the Stars and Stripes.

Resolved, Because agriculture is close to the heart of and vital to the economic interests of Parmer county citizens, we further and especially resolve the Republican Party should champion the leadership of and work for national legislation that will help to stabilize and make prosperous the farm homestead. We emphatically condemn most of the present so-called farm legislation as being wasteful of national wealth and of over-stimulating industrialized farming, which is in direct and destructive competition with the millions of free family-sized farmers. We look upon all free independent farmers in conjunction with all independent business men of all lines of endeavor as being the nucleus, the foundation and heart of free enterprise of America.

Signed, George McLean, Chairman, F. W. Reeve, Secretary

Bunting Won't Last Very Long

Beribboned champagne bottles displayed by Betty Andrews, Los Angeles, are for use in launching new Liberty ships. At one to a launching they won't last long in the huge California ship-building yards.

Producers who have fall seeded barley which was a good stand and reached a reasonable growth and was not harvested may count this acreage as soil-conserving crops under the 20% provision, provided no other crop is grown thereon during the 1942 program year.

This fact should be called to the attention of the performance reporter when he visits the farm in connection with regular performance.

Applications for the new three-year all-risk wheat crop insurance now are being accepted at the county AAA office, Olan N. Schlueter, chairman of the county AAA committee, has announced.

This is the fifth year in which wheat growers have been able to obtain wheat crop insurance from the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

Federal all-risk wheat crop insurance protects the grower against all unavoidable hazards, such as hail, drought and insect damage, Schlueter explained.

When the grower signs an application for insurance, he signs at the same time a note which is due July 10 of the year in which the crop is harvested. At prior to maturity this note may be paid in wheat or the cash equivalent or after maturity it may be deducted from payments due the grower under the AAA program, from proceeds of a commodity loan, or from indemnity payments.

Schlueter predicted insurance sales in the county this year would be greater than last year due to the fact that the past two years have been good years and past experience tells us that we can't have a good wheat crop every year.

Deadline for signing applications for insurance is August 31 or before seeding wheat, whichever is earlier.

Walther League

The third meeting will be held at the Rhea Lutheran Church on Friday, August 14, at 10 p. m. This meeting will begin with the educational feature of the evening, namely, the discussion of the Christian service department of the Walther League. The special feature for this meeting will be a lobby sing. A vesper service will conclude the session.

The public is cordially invited to attend all sessions. This gives residents an opportunity to acquaint themselves with this youth organization.

Farmers Asked

(Continued from Page 1) check on the quality of their cream even before it leaves the farm: If you taste it and want to swallow it, that's good cream; if you taste it and spit it out, that's poor cream; if you won't even taste it, that's bad cream. Ultimately the law will catch up with the producer and the buyer of bad cream, but even those who produce or buy the doubtful product are on pretty dangerous ground.

Chants of the Chanticleer . . .

Lots of expressions are heard out on the streets, but sometimes the hearer does not catch who said them, so if some of your expressions are quoted herein and you are not given credit for it, that is the reason.

Three or four men were talking and an expression like this was heard from one of them: "I see the President is considering what to do with those eight German saboteurs. Anyone should know what to do with them without even a second's consideration—Shoot the damned cusses at daylight or earlier."

And here is a story that someone told the night of the primary. It was represented as having a factual basis for the main part of the story, but the latter part is probably fictitious:

A boy who is now in California, wired back to his father in Parmer County to send him $75 so he could get a Union Card so he could get a job, as he could not get one without it.

His father did not understand this matter so he went to his banker and asked him if that was straight goods, or was his son just trying to get in on him for the $75. The banker explained that it was absolutely straight goods, as this is the regular policy of our country at this time.

The farmer stared at the floor and after taking a long breath, he asked the banker if Mr. Roosevelt knew about such carry-ins-on, and the banker faintly, at last report he was still out "cold".

Two ladies were looking for the Friona Star office, and not knowing that it had moved from its former location, found that place vacant. They then chanced by its present location, in the Glenn Weir building on the east side of Main Street, and stopped and were invited to enter, which they did and expressed their approval of a comfortable an office. They were Mrs. Oscar Pope and Mrs. Ervin Johnson. Yes, the Star has been in its present location since the middle of January.

There is quite a bit of business in this locality for some sort of an equipment for moving heavy objects, such as small houses, windmills, tanks and the like, and Harold Schlenker is planning to provide such an outfit. If he does, it will meet a long-felt need in the city and surrounding localities.

We have heard many complimentary remarks concerning the revival services that closed at the Baptist Church Sunday and mentioning the goodly number that were added to the church membership; also the ability of Rev. Snowe as a revivalist. Those who heard him speak in most eloquent terms of his work.

Rev. Snowe is pastor of the church at Bovina, where he began a series of revival meetings Sunday night with Rev. V. B. Brazzale as the revivalist.

Rev. Joe Wilson departed for Roswell N. M., Monday morning, where he will be in charge of a two-weeks revival service.

It is said that the Pie Sunner Bond Sale at the school auditorium Tuesday night might have been better attended; however, there was a large crowd and bidding was lively. We have not heard the exact amount of bonds and stamps that were sold but there were at least three $100.00 bonds sold, and many of smaller denominations. Ladies, as well as the men, were bidding on the pie and buying the bonds.

Rev. Paxton Smith returned Thursday from Sylvan Dale Ranch, Colo., where he has been the past five weeks. Members of his congregation were all pleased with his return and he sure has a permanent stand-in with all of them, and Rev. Chester C. Brown, who has been supplying for him has most surely been winning a place in the hearts of the congregation.

People who have been attending tell us that Ray Landrum is sure putting on some mighty good shows over at the Regal Theatre. Those of us who have not been attending these shows had better get the habit and help to keep a good picture theatre in Friona.

It seems that watermelon time is here again and this luscious fruit of the vine has been on sale from a truck at the corner of Main and Sixth Streets, during the past two Saturday afternoons, selling at 2c a pound.

The new government grain bins that have been erected on a vacant block belonging to the Santa Fe Grain Co. now have very much the resemblance of a small village. There are now four rows of the bins with eleven bins in each row and two extra, making 36 already erected and materials on the ground for several more. Verily, Friona do grow.

Just right for hot summer days is this frozen cheese salad. Mrs. Close also brought this recipe from Wyoming and it also becomes a favorite the very first trial.

Hog farming means profit farming this year. It has been a long time since hog farmers have enjoyed the almost ideal conditions we now have. There are several factors which must be taken into consideration when you go to talking about making money on growing and feeding hogs. One factor is the demand for the finished product. Another is the relation of the price of feed to the price of hogs. Of course, another factor is the availability of home grown feeds. This year we have all these factors thrown together in one of the best combinations ever known.

The government is calling for pork and more pork. Marching armies, hungry allies, and scarce shipping space which calls for shipping of concentrated foods all go together to make a big demand for finished pork. Even though the price of home grown grains has gone up there is still a wide spread between the dollar and the dollars the feeder gets for the finished hog. And who doesn't have a good supply of home grown grains on hand to put in a few hogs?

To finish hogs properly we need to have our own grains grown at home. With these we must provide a protein supplement which will take care of the hog's need for protein. We can't get by without that. Hogs need protein and they need animal protein. A good way to give them this balanced ration is to put them on a self-feeder containing grains in one compartment and an equal mixture of cottonseed meal and tankage in the other. They will balance their ration from start to finish. Good green pasture is fine for your hogs. If you don't have the pasture add 5% of the total feed in alfalfa leaf meal. Don't forget to provide plenty of fresh water, shade and protection. The more often your hogs stand up to the trough and eat in comfort the more often you will leave the bank with a deposit slip in your pocket instead of a renewed note.
