

Text of President Harding's Inaugural Address

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The text of President Warren G. Harding's inaugural address follows:

My countrymen, when one surveys the world about him after the great storm, noting the marks of destruction and pleading for the things which withstood it if he is an American he breathes the clarified atmosphere with a strange mingling of regret and new hope. We have seen a world spend its fury, but we contemplate our republic unshaken, and hold our civilization secure. Liberty within the law—and civilization are inseparable and though both were threatened we find them now secure. There comes to America the profound assurance that our representative government is the highest expression and highest guarantee of both.

Standing in this presence, mindful of the solemnity of this occasion, feeling the emotions which no one may know until he senses the great weight of responsibility for himself, I must utter my belief in the Divine inspiration of the founding fathers. Surely there must have been God's intent in the making of this new world republic. Ours is an organic law which had but one ambiguity, and we saw that clarified in a baptism of sacrifice and blood, with union maintaining the nation supreme and its concord inspiring. We have seen the world rivet its hopeful gaze on the great truths on which the founders wrought. We have seen civil, human and religious liberty verified and glorified.

At the beginning the old world scoffed at our experiment, today our foundations of political and social belief stand unshaken. A precious inheritance to ourselves, an inspiring example of freedom and civilization to all mankind. Let us express renewed and strengthened devotion, in grateful reverence for the immortal being and utter our confidence in the supreme fulfillment.

Progress Through Wisdom.

The recorded progress of our republic, materially and spiritually in itself, proves the wisdom of the inherited policy of non-involvement in world affairs. Confident of our ability to work out our own destiny and jealously guarding our right to do so, we seek no part in directing the destinies of the old world. We do not mean to be entangled. We will accept no responsibility except as our own conscience and judgment, in each instance, may determine.

Our eyes never will be blind to a developing menace, our ears never deaf to the cries of civilization, with the closer contacts which progress has wrought. We sense the call of the human hand and friendship, and harbor no hate. But America, our America, the America founded on a foundation of freedom and self-determination, is not a party to no permanent military alliance. It can enter into no political commitments, nor assume any economic obligations which will subject our decisions to any other than our own authority.

I am sure our own people will not understand, nor will the world misconstrue. We have no thought to impede the paths to closer relationship. We wish to promote understanding. We wish to do our part in making offensive warfare so hateful that governments and peoples who resort to it must prove its righteousness of their cause of state as outlaws before the bar of civilization.

Association for Counsel.

We are ready to associate ourselves with the nations of the world, great and small, for conference, for counsel, to seek the expressed views of world opinion, to recommend a way to approximate disarmament and relieve the crushing burdens of military and naval establishments. We seek to participate in suggesting plans for mediation, conciliation and arbitration, and would gladly join in that expressed conscience of progress, which seeks to clarify and write the laws of international relationship and establish a world court for disposition of such justifiable questions as nations are agreed to submit there to. In expressing aspirations, in seeking practical plans, in translating humanity's new concept of righteousness and justice and its hatred of war into recommended action, we are ready most heartily to unite but every commitment must be made in the exercise of our national sovereignty. Since freedom impelled, and independence inspired and nationality exalted, a world super-government is contrary to everything we cherish and can have no sanction by our republic. This is not selfishness, it is sanity. It is not aloofness, it is security. It is not suspicion of others, it is patriotic adherence to the things which made us what we are.

Today, better than ever before, we know the aspirations of humanity and share them. We have come to a new realization of our place in the world and a new appraisal of our order by the world. The magnificence of these United States is a thing proven, our devotion to peace for ourselves and for the world is well established, our concern for the national civilization has had its impassioned and heroic expression. There was no American failure to resist the attempted reversion to barbarism, there will be no failure today or tomorrow.

Rests on Popular Will.

The success of our popular government rests upon the correct interpretation of the deliberate, intelligent, dependable popular will of America. In a deliberate questioning of a suggestion of a national policy, where internationalism was to supersede nationality, we turned to a referendum to the American people. There was ample discussion, and there is a public mandate in manifest understanding.

America is ready to encourage, eager to initiate, anxious to participate in any seemingly program likely to lessen the probability of war, and promote that brotherhood of mankind which must be God's highest conception of human relationship. Because we cherish ideals of justice, of peace, because we appraise international comity and helpful relationship no less highly than any people of the world we aspire to a high place in the moral leadership of civilization and we have maintained America, the freest republic, the unshaken temple of representative democracy, to be not only an inspiration and example, but the highest agency of strengthening good will and promoting accord on both continents.

Mankind needs a world-wide benediction of understanding. It is need among individuals, among the peoples among governments and it will inaugurate an era of good feeling to mark the birth of a new order. In such understanding men will strive confidently for the promotion of their better relationships and nations will promote the comities so essential to peace.

Trade Ties Bound Closely.

We must understand that ties of trade bind nations in closest intimacy and none may receive except as he gives. We have not strengthened ours in accordance with our resources or our genius, notably on our own conti-

PRESIDENT HARDING'S CABINET SELECTIONS

Here is the new cabinet as tentatively selected by President Warren G. Harding: Secretary of State, Charles Evans Hughes, of New York; Secretary of Treasury, Andrew W. Mellon, of Pennsylvania; Secretary of War, John W. Weeks, of Massachusetts; Postmaster General, Will H. Hays, of Indiana; Attorney General, Harry M. Daugherty, of Ohio; Secretary of Navy, Edwin Denby, of Michigan; Secretary of Interior, Albert B. Fall, of New Mexico; Secretary of Agriculture, Henry C. Wallace, of Iowa; Secretary of Commerce, Herbert Hoover, of California; and Secretary of Labor, James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania.

of putting our public household in order. We need a rigid and yet sane economy combined with fiscal justice and it must be attended by individual prudence and thrift, which are so essential to this trying hour and re-ensuring for the future.

Reflection of War's Reaction.

The business world reflects the disturbances of war's reaction. Herein flows the lifeblood of material existence. The economic mechanism is intricate and its parts interdependent and it has suffered the shocks and jolt incident to abnormal demands, credit inflation and price upheavals. The normal balances have been impaired, the channels of distribution have been clogged, the relations of labor and management have been strained. We must seek the readjustment with care and courage. Our people must give and take. Prices must reflect the receding fever of war activities.

Perhaps we never shall reach the old levels of wage again, because war invariably readjusts compensations and the necessities of life will show their insuperable relationship. But we must strive for normalcy to reach stability. All the penalties will not be light, nor evenly distributed. There is no way of mending them so. There is no instant step from disorder to order. We face a period of grim reality, charge off our losses and start afresh. It is the oldest lesson of civilization. It would like government to do all it can to mitigate them, in understanding, in mutuality of interest, in concern for the common good our tasks will be solved. No altered system will work a miracle. Any wild experiment will only add to the confusion. Our best assurance lies in efficient administration of our present system.

From Destruction to Production.

The forward course of the business cycle is unmistakable. People are turning from destruction to production. Industry has sensed the change, and our own people are turning to resume their normal, onward way. There lies the promise to America to go on. I know that congress and the administration will favor every wise government policy to aid the resumption of our normal system.

I speak for administrative efficiency, for lightened tax burdens, for sound commercial practices, for adequate tariff protection, for democratic concern for all agricultural problems, for the omission of unnecessary interference of government with business, for an end to government experiments in business, and for more efficient business in government administration.

With all of this must attend a mindfulness of the human side of all activities, so that social and economic justice will be squared with the purposes of a righteous people.

With the nationwide induction of womanhood into our political life, we may count upon her intuitions, her refinements, her intelligence and her influence to exalt the social order. We count upon her exercise of the full privileges and the performance of the duties of citizenship to speed the attainment of the highest state.

Prayer for Industrial Peace.

I wish for America no less alert in guarding against dangers from within than without. Our fundamental law recognizes no class, no group, no section. There must be none in legislation or administration. The supreme inspiration is the commonwealth. Humanity hungers for international peace and we crave it with all mankind. My most reverent prayer for America is for industrial peace, with its rewards, widely and generally distributed amid the inspirations of equal opportunity.

No one justly may deny the equality of opportunity which made us what we are. We have mistaken unpreparedness to embrace it, to be a challenge of the reality, and due concern for making all citizens efficient. Satisfaction will give added strength of citizenship and magnify our achievements.

If a revolution insists upon overturning established order, let other people make the tragic experiment. There is no place for it in America. When world war threatened civilization we pledged our resources and our lives to its preservation, and when revolution threatens we unfurl the flag of law and order and renew our consecration. Ours is a constitutional freedom, where the popular will is the law supreme and minorities are sacredly protected. Our revisions, reformations and evolutions reflect a deliberate judgment and an orderly progress, and we mean to cure our ills, but never destroy or permit destruction by force.

I had rather submit our industrial controversies to the conference table in advance than to a settlement table after conflict and blood. The present is thirsting for the cup of good will. Understanding is its fountain source. I would like to acclaim an era of good feeling amid dependable prosperity and all the blessings which attend.

Protection of Industries.

It has been proved again and again that we can not, while throwing our markets open to the world, maintain American standards of living and opportunity and hold our industrial eminence in such unequal competition. There lies a lurking fallacy in the theory of banished barriers of trade, but preserved American standards require our higher production costs to be reflected in tariff protection.

We never before, when peoples are seeking trade, restoration and expansion, we must adjust our tariffs to the new order. We seek participation in the world's exchange, because therein lies our way to widened influence and the triumphs of peace. We know full well we can not afford to do not buy, and we can not sell successfully where we do not carry.

Opportunity is calling, not alone for the restoration, but a new order in production, transportation and trade. We shall answer it best by meeting the demand of a surpassing home market, by promoting self-reliance in production and by bidding enterprise, genius and efficiency to carry our cargoes in American bottoms to the marts of the world.

An America of Homes.

We would not have an America living within and for herself alone, but we would have her self-reliant, independent and ever nobler, stronger and richer. Believing in our higher standards, reared through constitutional liberty and maintained opportunity, we invite the world to the same heights. But pride in things wrought is no reflex of a completed task. Common welfare is the goal of our national endeavor. Wealth is not inimical to welfare; it ought to be its friendliest agency.

There never can be equality of rewards or possessions so long as the human plan contains varied talents and differing degrees of industry and effort, but our ought to be a country free from great blotches of distressed poverty. We ought to find a way to guard against the perils and penalties of unemployment. We want an America of homes, illumined with hope and happiness, where mothers, freed from the necessity for long hours of toil beyond their own doors, may preside as better the birthplace of American citizenship. We want the cradle of American childhood rocked under conditions so wholesome and so hopeful that no blight may touch it in its development and we want to provide that no selfish interest, no material necessity, no lack of opportunity shall prevent the gaining of that education so essential to best citizenship.

There is no short cut to the making of these ideals into glad realities. The world has witnessed, again and again, the futility and the failure of ill-considered remedies for social and economic disorders. But we are mindful today as never before of the friction of modern industrialism and we must learn its cause and reduce its evil consequences by sober and tested methods. Where genius has made for great possibilities, where mothers, freed from the necessity for long hours of toil beyond their own doors, may preside as better the birthplace of American citizenship. We want the cradle of American childhood rocked under conditions so wholesome and so hopeful that no blight may touch it in its development and we want to provide that no selfish interest, no material necessity, no lack of opportunity shall prevent the gaining of that education so essential to best citizenship.

Service, the Supreme Commitment.

Service is the supreme commitment of life. I would rejoice to acclaim the era of the golden rule and crown it with the altruism of service. I pledge an administration wherein all the agencies of government are called to serve and ever promote an understanding of government purely as an expression of the public will.

One cannot stand in this presence and be unmindful of the tremendous responsibility. The world upheaval has added heavily to our task. But with the realization comes the surge of high resolve, and there is reassurance in belief in the God given destiny of our republic. If I felt that there to be sole responsibility in the executive for the America of tomorrow I should shrink from the burden. But here are a hundred millions, with common concern and shared responsibility, answerable to God and country. The republic summons them to their duty and I invite co-operation.

I accept my lot with single-mindedness of purpose and humility of spirit and implore the favor and guidance of God in His heaven. With these I am armed and confidently face the future.

I have taken the solemn oath of office on this day of passage of Holy Writ wherein it is asked "what doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly and to love mercy and walk humbly with thy God?" This I plight to God and country.

Vague Hints That Gulf May Be Bridged But Report is Not Confirmed.

LONDON, March 4.—Vague hints that discussions were going on between the allies regarding the possibility of bridging the gulf between them and Germany were heard last night. Nothing tangible, however, developed and members of the German delegation told newspapermen at midnight they had heard nothing from Berlin relative to the address made yesterday by Premier Lloyd-George in presenting an ultimatum to Dr. Walter Simons.

Today's newspapers engaged in speculation regarding the extent of the allied military measures to be adopted if the Germans failed to meet the terms laid down by the supreme council in Paris. The Daily Mirror claimed to have information that the British war office was ready to place a division of infantry at the disposal of Marshal Foch, and the newspaper said it understood that the British would occupy Dusseldorf. Andrew Bonar Law remarked in the house of commons recently that the number of British troops on the Rhine numbered 12,500.

Artillery Dispatches. Marshal Foch, it was declared by the London Times, believes the allies sufficiently strong in occupied districts of Germany to hold Dusseldorf, Duisburg and Ruhrort, if necessary. A dispatch from Brussels stated a battery of artillery had been dispatched to German territory occupied by Belgian troops.

The speech of Mr. Lloyd-George to the German delegation yesterday drew high praise today, even from anti-government organs. The majority of this morning's newspapers professed little expectation that the German government would yield.

Some thought that the position of Dr. Simons had become so difficult that the German cabinet would resign and another government more amenable to the allies demands would be formed.

The Morning Post declared the penalties laid down were insufficient and said it could not see how the customs proposals could be successfully carried out unless German seaports were occupied and the British fleet was employed out in the North Sea and the Baltic.

FLOYD RAY WILL NOT BE HANGED MARCH 18

Fort Worth Attorney Gives Notice Of Appeal And Will Take Case To Higher Court.

Floyd Ray will not hang on March 18th. Phillip O. Loo, an attorney from Fort Worth, appeared before Judge Weldon of the 20th district court Friday morning and gave notice of appeal. The court granted the counsel sixty days from date of trial, February 8, 1921, for the filing of the statement of facts and the bills of exception.

Fletcher S. Jones, district attorney, said he nor his assistant were present when the matter was taken up, although he was in his office in the court house at the time. Although the death warrant, calling upon the sheriff to execute the condemned man has been issued, it is stated that the notice of appeal and the granting of time for the filing of papers automatically stays the execution until the court of criminal appeals renders its decision on the case.

The date of execution was just two weeks from today and the action of the attorney from Fort Worth was the first gleam of hope that has appeared for the condemned man. Judge Weldon overruled the motion for new trial the day after he was found guilty. When the negro was advised of the action taken and an explanation given that he would not be executed on March 18, he showed no elation in any respect except to state "That's pretty good."

A friend of Floyd's mother visited with him Friday morning and promised to bring him new clothes and to have him asked the warden to be transferred from the death cell to the "bear" cage where he would not be so lonesome.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR HOLD INITIATION MEETING
About 15 Knights Templar attended Thursday night's session of the local commandery, when degrees were conferred upon A. F. Speers, J. S. Garlington, C. W. Carey and J. H. Allison. Dr. H. C. Smith, past eminent commander, was in charge of the conferring of degrees, assisted by several other past commanders. The First Christian church has been chosen for the church services to be held in connection with the Grand commandery meeting here in April. The local commandery will have the usual Easter services, but it has not yet been decided where these will take place. James R. Bachman has been elected assistant secretary of the commandery. "ON TOP OF THE WORLD" TO BE KRICKERBOCKER'S SERMON SUBJECT SUNDAY

"The brightest high-lights of all my travel experiences" said Dr. Krickerbocker to a Times reporter. "I will give in my travel lecture Sunday night. The subject will be 'Adventures on Top of the World.' As in the other lectures, sometimes we laugh, sometimes we cry. We will come at last to the mountain tops of the Alps and the still more Alpine splendors of spiritual mountains from whose glory ill craves you will catch a vision of heaven and of God. We will travel on the Swiss Canal and walk on the gravestones of kings in Westminster Abbey and sit on the parapets of fancy and see the greatest battle of history, Waterloo, and sit by the death bed of Napoleon Bonaparte on his lonely prison island. We will eat ice cream in Egypt and listen to two strange concerts in London. Come early to get a seat. At 9:30 our great Sunday school will be greater than ever. We had 393 out last Sunday and we are pushing and pulling for a thousand this coming Sunday. At 9:45 at the Olympic theater the subject of my lecture to my big men's class will be 'If You Love Me, Tell Me So.' We had 184 men out last Sunday. We look for 250 this coming Sunday. The contest between the 'Mabbits' and the 'Terrapins' grows hotter every day. At 11 o'clock at the church the subject of my sermon will be 'Brilliant Failures.' It will be a message of vision and hope and courage. Special music by the 'Rusty Hinge' quartet at the men's class and by Mrs. E. C. Huckabee's great chorus choir at the other services."

JURY IN CITY COURT ACQUITS CONTRACTOR
A jury of six men in the city police court Thursday afternoon returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of J. G. Braddock, on trial for alleged violation of the building ordinances of the city. Braddock was arrested on a complaint made by Lee Patterson of the engineering department, in which it was charged that the defendant had constructed a concrete sidewalk at 1212 Pearl street for which he had not received a permit from the city clerk. Testimony showing that the work did not come under the jurisdiction of the city and hence was not subject to the rulings of the permit ordinance was introduced by Mr. Braddock and made the basis of his defense. JUDGE OGLE FINED TWO MEN WHO IGNORE SUMMONS

Police Judge J. R. Ogle made good his threats to slap fines on jurymen who failed to report for duty in his court when he gave two local business men fines of $10 each Thursday afternoon. The men had been summoned for jury duty in the case of J. G. Braddock, and did not respond when roll was called. One of the pairs came into court twenty minutes later and after offering a plausible excuse for being tardy, had his fine remitted, but the other did not put in an appearance at all and was due for a visit from the police sergeant Friday morning. A great deal of trouble has been experienced in the police court by the failure of jurors to heed a summons, and the judge is of the opinion that the only way to uphold the dignity of the law is to deal with the violators in drastic fashion.

The Yellow Face

By A. CONAN DOYLE

Copyright, 1921, by Harper & Bros. Published by special arrangement with The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The story so far:—
 Mr. Graser Munro, a quiet and well bred young man, is troubled with the following situation, which he presents to Sherlock Holmes. He had been happily married for three years when the first sign of trouble between him and his wife came. She was a young widow when he married her. Her name was Mrs. Heuron. As a young girl she had gone out to America, where she had married an American lawyer at Atlanta, Georgia. They had one child, and child and husband died of yellow fever. She returned to England and married Munro. Six weeks before the story opens she asked her husband for one hundred pounds, which he gave her, but she would not tell him what she wanted it for. A few weeks later tenants appeared in a deserted cottage near the river. When Mr. Munro passed he saw a hideous yellow face peering at him, which quickly drew back into the shadow when he looked at it.

PART TWO.

Mr. Munro went on:—
 "I am usually an extremely sound sleeper. It has been a standing jest in the family that nothing could ever wake me during the night. And yet somehow on that particular night, whether it may have been the slight excitement produced by my little adventure or not I know not, but I slept much more lightly than usual. Half in my dreams I was dimly conscious that something was going on in the room, and gradually became aware that my wife had dressed herself and was slipping on her mantle and her bonnet. My lips were parted to murmur out some sleepy words of surprise or remonstrance at this untimely preparation, when suddenly my half-opened eyes fell upon her face, illuminated by the candle-light, and astonishment held me dumb. She wore an expression such as I had never seen before—such as I should have thought her incapacity of assuming. She was deadly pale and breathing fast, glancing furtively towards the bed as she fastened her mantle, to see if she had disturbed me. Then thinking that I was still asleep, she slipped noiselessly from the room and an instant later I heard a sharp creaking which could only come from the hinges of the front door. I sat up in bed and rapped my knuckles against the wall to make certain that I was truly awake. Then I took my watch from under the pillow. It was three in the morning. What on this earth could my wife be doing out on the country road at three in the morning?
 "I had sat for about twenty minutes turning the thing over in my mind and trying to find some possible explanation. The more I thought, the more extraordinary and inexplicable did it appear. I was still puzzling over it when I heard the door gently close again, and her footsteps coming up the stairs.
 "Where in the world have you been, Ethel?" I asked as she entered.
 "She gave a violent start and a kind of gasping cry when I spoke, and that cry and start troubled me more than all the rest, for there was something inde-scrupably guilty about them. My wife had always been a woman of a frank, open nature, and it gave me a chill to see her slipping into her own room, and crying out and wincing when her own husband spoke to her.

 "You awake, Jack?" she cried, with a nervous laugh. "Why, I thought that nothing could awake you."
 "Where have you been?" I asked more sternly.
 "I don't wonder that you are surprised," said she, and I could see that her fingers were trembling as she undid the fastenings of her mantle. "Why, I never remember having done such a thing before in my life. The fact is that I felt as though I were choking and had a perfect longing for a breath of fresh air. I really think that I should have fainted if I had not gone out. I stood at the door for a few minutes, and now I am quite myself again."
 "All the time that she was telling me this story she never once looked in my direction, and her voice was quite unlike her usual tones. It was evident to me that she was saying what was false. I said nothing in reply, but turned my face to the wall, sick at heart, with my mind filled with a thousand venomous doubts and suspicions. What was it that she was concealing from me? Where had she been during that strange expedition? I felt that I should have no peace until I knew, and yet I shrank from asking her again after seeing her from now on. You are at liberty to preserve your secret, but you must promise me that there shall be no more nightly visits, and more doing which are kept from my knowledge. I am willing to forget those which are passed if you will promise that there shall be no more in the future."
 "I was sure that you would trust me," she cried, with a great sigh of relief. "I shall be just as you wish. Come away—oh, come away up to the house."
 "Still pulling at my sleeve, she led me away from the cottage. As we went I glanced back, and there was that yellow livid face watching us out of the upper window. What link could there be between that creature and my wife? Or how could the coarse, rough woman whom I had seen the day before be connected with her? It was a strange puzzle, and yet I knew that my mind could never know ease again until I had solved it.
 "For two days after this I stayed at home, and my wife appeared to abide loyally by our engagement, for, as far as I know, she had never stirred out of the house. On the third day, however, I had ample evidence that my solemn promise was not enough to hold her back from this secret influence which drew her away from her husband and her duty.

 "I had gone into town on that day but I returned by the 2.40 instead of the 3.24, which is my usual train. As I entered the house the maid ran into the hall with a startled face.
 "Where is your mistress?" I asked.
 "I think that she has gone out for a walk," she answered.
 "My mind was instantly filled with suspicion. I rushed upstairs to make sure that she was not in the house. As I did so I happened to glance out of one of the upper windows, and saw the maid with whom I had just been speaking running across the field in the direction of the cottage. Then of course I saw exactly what it all meant. My wife had gone over there, and had asked the servant to call her if I should return. Tingling with anger, I rushed down and hurried across, determined to end the matter once and forever. I saw my wife and the maid hurrying back along the lane, but I did not stop to speak with them. In the cottage lay the secret which was casting a shadow over my life. I stayed long enough to make certain that the house was absolutely empty. Then I left it, feeling a weight at my heart such as I had never had before. My wife came out into the hall as I entered my house, but I was too hurt and angry to speak with her, and pushing past her, I made my way into my study. She followed me, however, before I could close the door.
 "I am sorry that I broke my promise," Jack, said she; "but if you know all the circumstances I am sure that you would close the door."
 "Tell me everything, then," said I.
 "I cannot, Jack, I cannot," she cried. "Until you tell me who it is that has been living in that cottage, and who it is to whom you have given that photograph, there can never be any confidence between us," said I, and breaking away from her, I left the house. That was yesterday, Mr. Holmes, and I have not seen her since, nor do I know anything more about this strange business. It is the first shadow that has come between us, and it has so shaken me that I do not know what I should do for the best. Suddenly this morning it occurred to me that you were the man to advise me, so I have hurried to you now, and I place myself unreservedly in your hands. If there is any point which I have not made clear, pray question me about it. But, above all, tell me quickly what I am to do, for this misery is more than I can bear."

 Holmes and I had listened with the utmost interest to this extraordinary statement, which had been delivered in the jerky, broken fashion of a man who is under the influence of extreme emotion. My companion sat silent now for some time, with his chin upon his hand, lost in thought.
 "Tell me," said he at last, "could you swear that this was a man's face which you saw at the window?"
 "Each time that I saw it I was some distance away from it, so that it is impossible for me to say."

"You appear, however, to have been disagreeably impressed by it."
 "It seemed to be of an unusual color, or, and to have a strange rigidity about the features. When I approached it vanished with a jerk."
 "How long is it since your wife asked you for a hundred pounds?"
 "Nearly two months."
 "Have you ever seen a photograph of her first husband?"
 "No; there was a great fire at Atlanta very shortly after his death, and all her papers were destroyed."
 "And yet she had a certificate of death. You say you saw it?"
 "Yes; she got a duplicate after the fire."
 "Did you ever meet any one who knew her in America?"
 "No."
 "Did she ever talk of revisiting the place?"
 "No." "Or get letters from it?"
 "No."
 "Thank you. I should like to think over the matter a little now. If the cottage is now permanently deserted, we may have some difficulty. If, on the other hand, as I fancy is more likely, the inmates were warned of your coming, and left before you entered yesterday, then they may be back now, and we should clear it all up easily. Let me advise you, then, to return to Norbury, and to examine the windows of the cottage again. If you have reason to believe that it is inhabited, do not force your way in, but send a wire to my friend and me. We shall be with you within an hour of receiving it, and we shall then very soon get to the bottom of the business."

 "And if it is still empty?"
 "In that case I shall come out tomorrow and talk it over with you. Good-bye; and, above all, do not fret until you know that you really have a cause for it."
 Tomorrow—The Yellow Face, concluded.

CLIFFORD WILL NOT SEEK COUNCIL SEAT, WITHDRAWS FRIDAY

N. M. Clifford announced Friday that he would withdraw his name as a candidate for alderman, place No. 1. This withdrawal leaves that race to R. E. Shepherd without opposition.

Mr. Clifford several days ago yielded to the importunities of some of his friends and consented to the circulation of petitions for his candidacy. Since that time, he has reconsidered his decision in the matter, and Friday morning authorized the statement that he would not make the race.

As today is the last day for filing candidates' petitions, the lists for the city election are considered practically complete. Frank Collier, who was mentioned as a possible candidate for the place occupied by Mr. Shepherd, is not to run, it is understood.

Coveted Nauvoo.
NEW YORK—Narcotic division detectives couldn't understand the loving care bestowed on a pack of frankfurters by 25 Chinese sailors. Investigation showed the sausage contained 19 pounds of opium.

Do This For Constipation

THE public should know that there is a vast difference in the action of the various remedies for constipation. Some are "laxatives," purges, cathartics. They gripe and weaken.

For lasting effect use a laxative. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin acts gently and mildly so that even a tiny baby can use it with safety. It is a compound of Egyptian Senna and other simple laxative herbs with peppermint and pleasant-tasting aromatics. A six-ounce bottle will last an average family many months.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the most popular of all laxatives and more is used in American homes than any other. Last year eight million bottles were sold by druggists, the largest sale in the world.

Tone of Uneasiness Permeates Comment of Press of Paris

PARIS, March 4.—Underlying editorial comment on the inauguration of a new president of the United States in this morning's newspapers, there was a certain amount of uneasiness as to the effect of Mr. Harding's policy on the European situation. The inauguration of Mr. Harding was given much attention, but he was more or less of an unknown quantity to most of the editors.

The Journal declared it had "confidence in the upright and broad political sense of Mr. Harding to repair, as far as possible the consequences of the mistake."

The appointment of Charles E. Hughes as secretary of state was considered by the newspaper as an evidence of good will to France, and action was expressed that Myron T. Herrick would be appointed ambassador to France. "Sure of American friendship," said the Echo de Paris, "we can only rejoice to see at least the great transatlantic republic assume its place at the international council board."

COOLIDGE ADDRESS.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Following is the full text of the inaugural address of Vice President Coolidge:

"Five generations ago there was revealed to the people of this nation a new relationship between man and man, which they declared and proclaimed here American citizenship. Therein they recognized a legislature, empowered to express the will of the people in law, a judiciary required to determine and state such law and an executive charged with securing obedience to the law, all holding their office not by reason of some superior force, but through the duly determined conscience of their countrymen."

"To the senate, renewing its membership by degrees, representing in part the sovereign states, has been granted not only a right, but a duty, to negotiate there, may be added ratification and to appointment approval. But its greatest function of all, too little mentioned and too little understood when exercised in legislation or reviewing, is the preservation of liberty. Not merely the rights of the majority; they little need protection, but the rights of the minority, from whatever source they may be assailed. The great object for us to seek here, for the constitution identifies the vice presidency with the senate, is to continue to make this chamber, as it was intended by the fathers, the citadel of liberty. An enormous power is here conferred, capable of much good or ill, open to the charge of abuse, but necessary, wholly and absolutely, to secure the required result."

"Whatever its faults, whatever its human imperfections, there is no legislative body in all history that has used its powers with more wisdom and discretion, more uniformly for the execution of the public will, or more in harmony with the spirit of the authority of the people which has created it, than the United States senate. I take up the duties the people have assigned me under the constitution which we can neither enlarge nor diminish, of presiding over this senate, agreeably to its rules and regulations, deeply conscious that it will continue to function in harmony with its higher traditions as a great deliberative body, without passion and without fear, unmoved by clamor, but most sensitive to the right, the stronghold of government according to law, that the vision of past generations may be more and more the reality of generations yet to come."

FIRST SPUDDER VET PUTS IN APPEARANCE

"Babe" Ruth and Battery Mate Join Small Squad at Athletic Park.

The first Spudder veteran to put in an appearance is "Babe" Ruth. Ruth and his battery mate, Fawcett, arrived Friday and immediately set sail for Athletic Park to report to Skipper Salm. Salm saw the youngsters while he was in Corsicana and told them to report a couple of days ago. While he was wondering what had become of them, the two of them stepped onto the field. "Babe" looked as fit as a fiddle and said that he felt just as he looked.

Fawcett handled Babe's shoots the greater part of last season in semi-pro circles and is said to be a backstop of no mean ability. He'll have plenty of opportunities to make good as the Spudder receiving department is not the strongest in the world at present.

first time in about a week looking over the improvements. He was not so busy looking at the grounds, however, that he was unable to watch his men occasionally. He managed to keep one eye cocked in their direction, but would not commit himself as to whether or not he was satisfied with the way they handled the pellet.

London Journals Choose to Assume a Waiting Policy

LONDON, March 4.—Dispatches from the United States have given London newspapers little basis for editorial comment relative to the new American administration's prospective foreign policy and London journals have assumed a waiting policy until Senator Harding makes his inaugural address. A New York dispatch to the London Times declares it is understood Mr. Harding will follow generally the policy of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, which is declared to contemplate separation from Europe, no permanent alliances and no economic commitments that might endanger the sovereignty of the United States. At the same time, the dispatch declares, Mr. Harding is said to have taken the attitude that the United States will be ready at all times to give her assistance which she thinks it advisable and fitting to do so.

The effect on the new administration of German affairs was not touched upon by any newspaper except the Daily Sketch, which said: "Germany calculates on getting better terms as a result of American intervention following Mr. Harding's inauguration."

TOTAL OF 129 OF MEMBERS CONGRESS LEAVE OFFICE TODAY

MANY GO OUT ON TIDAL WAVE THAT SWEEP G. O. P. IN POWER.

HUNDRED AND EIGHTEEN RETIRE FROM THE HOUSE

Three Of These, However, Were Promoted To The Senate End Of The Capitol.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—One hundred and twenty-nine members of the house and senate retired today to private life. Most of them went out in the back wash from the tidal wave which swept the republican party into full control of all the functions of the government, but some few republicans as well as democrats, elected not to run again for their seats.

One or two of the republicans may become officials in the Harding administration, but the great majority will know public life no more for two years, at least, and many for a longer period, if ever.

Champ Clark, one of those who would have retired today, was claimed by death two days before the session ended. A picturesque character among the outgoing members was Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman, republican, Illinois, who did not offer himself for re-election.

The actual number of house members retiring was 118, but three of these—McKinley, of Illinois; Harrell, of Oklahoma, republicans and Carraway, of Arkansas, democrat, go to the other end of the capitol as senators. McKinley's house record was fourteen years.

The political land-slide of November 2 gave the republicans a much larger working majority in the house—too big in the opinion of some leaders. The new extra session expected to be called soon will start with 311 republicans, 133 democrats and one socialist. The lone prohibitionist in the closing congress under which the country went dry was beaten. There is one man shy—from Pennsylvania—at-large. The republican vacancy caused by the death of the member-elect will not be filled until fall.

Majority of Twenty-Two. The new senate, which convened today in special session to act on nominations by President Harding, contains 43 republicans and 27 democrats, giving the republicans a majority of 23 as against only two majority during most of the last congress when the line-up generally was 49 republicans and 47 democrats. The seating of two republicans in January in place of democrats gave the former a slightly larger working margin during the last few weeks.

For the second time in history the house will have a woman member, Miss Alice M. Robertson, of the second Oklahoma district, who succeeds William W. Hastings.

For the first time in the history of the house the territory east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio rivers will dominate legislation, republicans from that area being in full control and strong enough to overcome all combinations of republicans and democrats from the south and west. Many places formerly held by veterans were captured by men young in years and politics, but some veteran politicians come in, among them Theodore Burton, of Ohio, a former senator, and Bourke Cockran, of New York.

Champ Clark is to be succeeded by a man new in congress. Although his service was not continuous, Mr. Clark's total time was 26 years, running third in that respect to Cannon and Speaker Gillett. Two Tennessee democrats—Sims and Moon—turned over their seats to younger men after coming here together 24 years ago.

Leading Democrats Retire. Two leading democrats on the ways and means committee, which must frame a tariff law, Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, and Hull of Tennessee—marched out. Rainey after eighteen years and Hull fourteen. Sherwood, of Ohio, who went into the union army as a private and came out a brigadier general, retired with sixteen years marked on his legislative resume. The same mark set by Goldfogle, of New York, whose place was taken by Meyer London, the only socialist winner in November. Other prominent democrats retiring were Scott Ferris, Okla., and Bee, Texas, brother-in-law of the retiring Postmaster General Burleson.

The delegations from fourteen states many of them with small representation, remained unchanged. Gallivan and Tague, both of Boston, stood up as the sole and solid democratic representation from all of New England. Ohio, the state of presidential nomination, sent a solid republican delegation.

Thus far there have been indications of a determined fight to oust Speaker Gillett, or the republican leader, Mondell, Kitchin, along with absent, is stated for democratic leader, the job he held while Clark was speaker.

Senators Retiring. Prominent among the twelve democrats and two republican senators retiring today besides Senator Sherman were Senators Chamberlain, Oregon; former chairman of the military committee; Cronin, North Dakota, former republican chairman of the agricultural committee; Hoke Smith, democrat, Georgia, who was succeeded by Thomas E. Watson; Thomas, democrat, Colorado; and Gore, democrat, Oklahoma.

Other retiring members were Beckham, Kentucky; Gay, Louisiana; Johnson, South Dakota; Kirby, Arkansas; Henderson, Nevada; Smith, Arizona; Smith, Maryland and Phelps, California, all democrats.

Another retiring notable was Vice-President Thomas R. Marshall who will go on chautauqua circuits next week. He will sail for Europe in May to remain until fall.

Of the fourteen new senators who took their seats today eleven were republicans and three democrats. The republicans were Ralph H. Cameron, Ariz.; Samuel M. Shertridge, California; Samuel D. Nicholson, Colorado; William B. McKinley, Illinois; Richard E. Export, Kentucky; Ovington E. Weller, Maryland; former Gov. Fisher L. Oddie, Nevada; E. F. Ladd, North Dakota; former Rep. J. V. Harrell, Oklahoma; Robert N. Stansfield, Oregon; and former Governor Peter Norbeck, South Dakota. The democrats were: Former Representative, F. E. Caraway, Arkansas; Thomas E. Watson, Georgia and Edwin S. Bruns, Louisiana.

NEGRO WHOSE AFFECTIONS TWO WOMEN CLAIM IS IN CITY COURT FRIDAY

Being supposedly married to two women and having both appear in police court with claims for his love and support was the unpleasant situation in which Fred Johnson, a negro, found himself Friday morning. He was arrested Wednesday noon with two negroes, Ella Ingraham and Blanche Reese, after the latter pair had indulged in a fight, started, it is said, by jealousy.

The case furnished more fun for members of the court than any that has been tried in many days, for the negro was badly scolded both by the questions propounded to him by the court and by threats of retribution by each of the indignant women.

The Ingraham woman testified that she had known "Mistah Johnson" from babyhood, and that they had both worked on a plantation in the Brazos country. She had been a wife and a mother to him, she said, and they had lived together for years, although a legal marriage ceremony had never been performed. Leads to property purchased by her made, made by Mrs. Fred Johnson, and the court ruled that by common law marriage they were man and wife.

Reese stated emphatically that she loved Blanche and had married her, but that he guessed he was a "fruit" man and ought to go to the pen for bigamy. He was prevailed upon by the court to return to Ella, who opined that he would as long as she kept her health, and after collecting a ten dollar fine they were freed. The court ordered the trio freed.

WICHITANS INVITED TO SEND GREETING MESSAGE TO PRESIDENT HARDING

Several Wichitans sent a telegraphic "howdy" to President Harding Thursday morning extending their good wishes for the administration that came into being at noon.

The Western Union Telegraph company telephoned a number of Wichitans Thursday morning, asking them if they didn't want to send a word of greeting to the new chief executive.

While many declined on the ground that Mr. Harding had never met them, several adopted the suggestion, and wired their good wishes.

BALD-HEADED "SEAMSTRESS" SHOWS SOME FANCY STITCHING

That even a bald-headed man can be a competent "seamstress" when equipped with the proper facilities is being demonstrated daily by H. H. Hilton, special factory representative of the White Rotary Sewing Machine Company, Cleveland, at the store of McCoswell Bros., on Indiana avenue.

Mr. Hilton is an expert in artistic sewing and executes the most difficult stitches that the ordinary housewife would find even as hand-work.

Among the classes of sewing being demonstrated by Mr. Hilton are emulating, drawn work, scalloping, buttoning, special, punch, Roman cut and point lace work—all upon an ordinary sewing machine and with amazing rapidity.

What is more, he declares that almost any woman may master his art with a bit of care and patience. A large number of specimens of his work are on display in the McCoswell Bros. show windows.

REMOVE OFFICE OF OIL AND GAS DEPARTMENT FROM BRECKENRIDGE TO GRAHAM

GRAHAM, TEXAS, March 4.—The oil and gas department of the railroad commission of Texas has decided to move the district office from Breckenridge to Graham. Fred S. Knisley will have charge of the Graham office. This will undoubtedly serve the oil interests better as Graham is now considered headquarters, being more easily accessible, and the enormous amount of development in Young county to be undertaken this year makes the change advisable.

SOUTHERN'S PERMIT GRANTED, MAY REACH GRAHAM THIS MONTH

LAYING OF STEEL TO START IN FEW DAYS; MUCH WORK COMPLETED.

AUTHORITY ISSUED AFTER VANQUISHING OF OPPOSITION

Frank Kell Wins Fight Over Adverse Interests—Road Was Financed in Wichita Falls.

Trains will be running into Graham over the Wichita Falls & Southern by April 1, perhaps as early as March 26. The last obstacle to the construction of the Southern's extension from Newcastle southward to Breckenridge, giving Wichita Falls direct connection with the oil fields of Central West Texas, was removed late Thursday in Washington, when the interstate commerce commission issued the permit for this work.

Frank Kell was advised Thursday night by C. C. Huff at Dallas that the permit was issued. Steel sufficient for 25 miles of track is already on the ground at Graham and Newcastle; the grade from Newcastle to Breckenridge is almost finished, having been started early in anticipation of the issuance of the permit; the labor gangs are being assembled, the necessary contracts have been awarded, and the only delaying factor is the failure of some track-laying equipment to arrive.

The construction of this important link is the only piece of railroad building under way in the entire country.

Opposition Overcome. While it has been assumed for some weeks that the permit would be issued, it was not obtained without a struggle. Texas cities, who could foresee the effects upon their West Texas trade of giving Wichita Falls a direct line to the Ranger and Breckenridge fields, sought in every way to block construction of the road.

Their opportunity to make a real fight came by virtue of that section of the transportation act which forbids railroad building without the permission of the interstate commerce commission.

A hearing on the issuance of the permit was held at Austin early this year, when elaborate and vigorous protests were made by other railroads. With his fighting clothes on, Mr. Kell was on hand to protect his interests; he made such concessions as seemed advisable, on minor points, but he pointed out the importance of the project itself so forcibly that the outcome was a foregone conclusion, and the opposition was ready to admit defeat at that time.

Although no protests were made other than those of the railroads, there is unmistakable evidence that certain Texas cities were in the fight with all their power.

Additional evidence of this was furnished a few weeks later when one of the representatives from Tarrant county, urging passage of a bill to facilitate interurban construction, told a house committee at Austin that Mr. Kell's railroad project threatened Fort Worth's trade and prestige in West Texas, and that only by building an interurban line from Fort Worth to Breckenridge could Fort Worth expect to hold her own.

In Wichita Falls Project. Stock in the company which will construct the extension is owned almost entirely in Wichita Falls; it was subscribed at a time when it would have been impossible to float a bond issue, but a number of Wichitans joined hands with Mr. Kell in financing it. Originally, the project included the line now operated by the Wichita Falls, Ranger & Fort Worth railway, of which the late Jake Hamon was the moving spirit. Some time ago the original organization was divided up, the portion of the road from Breckenridge to Ranger and Dublin being taken over by the Hamon interests. There is no connection between the two roads now.

Plans have been under way for several days for fitting celebration of the linking of Graham to Wichita Falls. An excursion will probably be run as soon as the road is completed.

Mr. Kell stated Friday morning that a skeleton track would be laid as rapidly as possible, and double daily train service inaugurated, ballasting will proceed after train service starts.

To Proceed Rapidly. Progress of construction work south of Graham will depend largely upon the date of completion of the steel bridge across the Brazos, contract for which was awarded last week. Everything possible will be done to speed up the work, and it is confidently expected to have trains running into Breckenridge by early in the summer. The total cost of the road is estimated at $3,522,500, or roughly $60,000 per mile.

The great importance of the road to Wichita Falls in a commercial way is already indicated by announcements that two large oil companies will make Wichita Falls the headquarters for all their West Texas operations. It is known that oil field supply companies which have been maintaining headquarters in Fort Worth and conducting operations in both Northwest Texas and Central West Texas from there, are planning to move to Wichita Falls and take advantage of the direct connection which the new road will afford them.

Aside from the oil business, the road will open up to Wichita Falls wholesale and retail establishments an opportunity for trade by extension that will be made the most of, and for which plans are already very actively under way.

WOODROW WILSON.
 President Wilson today becomes plain citizen Woodrow Wilson. We can believe that he steps from a position of power and influence far mightier than that of any king or potentate on earth with a feeling of relief and with his only reluctance that all he had sought to accomplish was not done.

His eight years in the presidency have been the most glorious period in the history of our country. Great constructive legislation was enacted and things which for many years had only been in men's hopes were made realities. The great masses of the common people won greater advancement and enjoyed more widespread and general prosperity during his administration than in any other. A great war was fought and won during his administration and as he himself was the great leader and inspiration of the world, his country has become the leader among the nations.
 He sacrificed his health in his fight for a just peace and for the adoption of a plan to end war that would redeem the pledge to his return to private life. He did not attain immediately the full accomplishment of his lofty purposes but history is yet to be made.
 Millions of people, not only in his own country but throughout the world will hope that his return to private life will permit a fuller restoration to health and that he may be spared for many years to inspire us.

PRESIDENT HARDING.
 President Harding begins his administration with the cordial good wishes of the American people. There is little of partisan animus felt toward him and democracy in congress has promised him their co-operation in all worthy purposes. There is little of the spirit of smallness and partisanship apparent among democrats that was manifested by republicans at the beginning of Woodrow Wilson's second term.

We think it can be truly said that Mr. Harding has grown in public estimation since his election. He has shown himself a genial, tactful man who earnestly wishes to do the best for his country. Most of his cabinet selections have been pleasing and have satisfied the majority of the people.
 Some of the members are men capable of administering their departments efficiently and of giving the president good advice on matters of general policy.
 Mr. Harding and his party have come from the period of criticism and promise to that of performance. The manner in which they carry out their promises will be the standard by which their success will be measured.

THE CASE OF WILLIE DALTON.
 "I was getting only $45. I had asked the bank for a raise and they would not give it to me. I am sorry. It doesn't pay."
 These words are part of the statement following his arrest made by William Dalton, the 37-year-old Chicago bank messenger who took $72,- 000 in bonds from the bank in which he was employed.

Willie Dalton liked to play pool.
 He liked to go round with the boys and spend money like some of the rest of them. He couldn't do it on his salary. He asked for a raise and it was refused. Doubtless Willie began thinking the bank was rich and could afford the increase and that he was entitled to have money to spend for a good time. The bonds came into his possession. With them came the suggestion that it would be easy to get out of the bank with them. Willie Dalton fell. Now he will live in regret and under a cloud.
 The trouble with Willie Dalton was that he allowed himself to feel that the bank owed him a living and money enough for a good time after his own ideas as to what constituted a living and a good time, and that there was any other way to get an increase in wages than through application and hard work. He had doubtless heard about a judge turning loose a defendant charged with embezzlement because the bank employing him had not paid him sufficient wages. Like many others older than himself he had done he fell into sympathy with himself and thought over his own supposed wrongs so much that he failed to see the enormity of his own offense. People get that way sometimes and any man of prominence who makes a statement extenuating individual wrongdoing because of the shortcomings of somebody else cannot know how they may influence persons of weak character.
 The thing that ought to be emphasized is personal responsibility for wrongdoing. Nothing ought to be said or done that would allow any person to escape personal responsibility. There has been some tendency in the other direction. It is a dangerous one and will lead to ruin.

A CLUB FOR SUNDAY, TOO.
 Wichita Falls has a regular meeting for some business or civic club every week-day. But the city of Roswell, New Mexico, has one on Roswell has a Sunday morning club.
 The Roswell Daily Record has the following concerning this club:
 "A new organization that will see its inauguration on next Sunday morning at the Methodist church, South, is not only a new and novel idea, but already promises to become very popular. At that time a club will be organized that will be known as the Sunday Morning Club. The members will meet every Sunday morning at 9:45 and have a thirty or forty minute program consisting of vocal, instrumental and other entertainment of a high order, after which there will be a short discussion of the regular Sunday lesson.
 The club will be under the direction of J. H. Mullis, and the program will

Texas Cotton Mills.
 (Fort Worth Record.)
 There are seventeen cotton mills in Texas giving employment to approximately 9,000 men and women. Earnings are almost everywhere above the national average. The oldest mill of the state is that of the Dallas Cotton Mill which was established in 1858. It is capitalized at $250,000. It employs 225 people. Mill and assets are valued at $1,000,000. Waco has the finest and most modern mill in Texas. While Texas produces one-fourth of the cotton grown in the United States, the state has never been regarded as a cotton manufacturing commonwealth.
 A statement prepared by the Dallas office of the United States Cotton Machinery company is interesting. The Texas mills are listed as follows:

Bonham Cotton Mills, Bonham; Denison Cotton Mills, Denison; Sherman Manufacturing company, Sherman;
 Texas Cotton Mill company, McKinney;
 Dallas Cotton Mills, Dallas; Corsicana
 Cotton Mills, Corsicana; Waxahachie

 Yard Mills, Belton; Miller Cotton Mills,

The oldest mill of the state is that of the Dallas Cotton Mills, which was established in 1858. It is capitalized at $250,000. It employs 225 people. Mill and assets are valued at nearly $1,- 000,000.
 The McKinney mill is capitalized for $750,000 and employs 350 people, and is one of the largest in the state. It manufactures denim awnings and suitings.
 The mill at Bonham has a present value of $700,000. Last spring the Consolidated Textile company sold the Consolidated Textile company for $600,- 000. After liquidating the liquid assets, the sale of the mill aggregated $100,000. It is a fine example of a mill of 1907 and 1914, was 25 per cent.
 The Sherman plant was built in 1891 and is one of the finest cotton mills operated in 1895 and 1900. The capital when organized was $100,000. When organized in 1904 a bond issue of $150,- 000 was floated and it is practically complete. It is owned and operated by Wellington, Sears & Co. of Boston.
 Duck is manufactured and 165 people are employed. The annual pay roll is $1,000,000.
 The Denison mill was built in 1891 and has been in constant operation since 1905. It now has a capital stock of $250,000 and employs 250 men and 300 employees with an annual pay roll running from $150,000 to $200,000.
 Earnings for thirteen years have averaged $14 per cent.
 The mill at Corsicana was built in 1900 but was closed down a number of times on account of bad management in the early days. Since the reorganization in 1911 the mill has been successfully operated. The present capital stock is $100,000 and 250 people are employed, with an annual pay roll of $200,000. Flat duck and onaburgs are manufactured.
 The Waxahachie mill is capitalized at $200,000, manufactures duck and employs 150 people. The mill was organized by local people and built in 1901.
 The Hillboro mill was built in 1902 with a capital stock of $100,000, of which $55,000 was paid in and the balance borrowed. The present book value of the stock is $100,000 or $50 more than par value. The mill manufactures duck and employs 150 people.
 The Brasos Valley Cotton Mills at West was organized in 1904 and has a capital of $100,000. Duck and onaburgs are manufactured and 125 people are employed. Improvements aggregating $25,000 have been made.
 The Isaac mill represents an investment of $200,000 and was orga-

In spite of the legend which states that certain members of the Continental Congress took the trouble to assemble on a calendar covering the entire nineteenth century, and selected as inauguration day, the day which fell less frequently on Sunday every fourth year, the facts in the case are quite different. In the first place, the Continental Congress appointed the first Wednesday in January, 1793, as the day on which the people should choose their electors. The first Wednesday in February was then named as the day on which the electors should choose a president, and the first Wednesday in March the government was to go into operation under the new constitution.
 The last named day, in 1789, fell on March 4—hence the fourth of March, following the election of a president, is the day appointed for his inauguration. By the act of 1792, it was provided that the presidential term of four years should commence on this date, and by the amendment to the constitution made in 1804, if the house of representatives did not elect a president by March 4, the electors were to meet to become president, March 4 is thus virtually made, by the constitution as well as by statute, the day when a new presidential term begins.

Life's Difficulties.
 A feller's life, it seems to me,
 Ain't fixed the way it ought to be,
 Jen' 'bout the time he's sleepin' good,
 All warn an' sung so that he could Say there for several hours or more,
 His bed will be begin to rattle,
 An' makes him wish like everything
 Becos the school bell's going to ring,
 Then when he doesn't want to sleep
 An' really feels that he could keep Awake all night, an' wants to stay
 Down-stairs where they are any way
 An' read his book—as sure as fate,
 His Dad will begin to rattle,
 An' busts the game up, cause I got
 To go for things she needs a lot.
 It rains when I don't want it to,
 An' when I'm sick the skies are blue
 An' all the sunbeams dance about
 But jes' let me begin to rattle,
 An' I busts the game up, cause I got
 To go for things she needs a lot.
 Then when he doesn't want to sleep
 An' really feels that he could keep
 Awake all night, an' wants to stay
 Down-stairs where they are any way

MARSHALL PLEADS FOR PRESERVATION OF THE OLD FAITH

ITS REHABILITATION BY FAR THE GREATER WORK HE DECLARES.

RETIRING VICE-PRESIDENT DELIVERS FINAL ADDRESS

"Not Demoted To Ranks of Citizen For I Never Rose Above Them," Says Mr. Marshall.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Following is the text of the address of Vice President Marshall on his retirement from office:

"Very shortly I will have ended my official life as the constitutional presiding officer of this body. That moment when it arrives, will not mark my demotion into the ranks of the average citizen, for I never arose above them.

"I sprang from the loins of men who helped to lay the foundations of the republic. At my birth my father placed upon my baby brow the coronal of a free-born American citizen. In my youth I was taught that if I wore it worthily, no prince nor potentate nor electorate could add to or detract from the honor of that royal coronet. I may have failed, but I have tried to keep the faith. I have never doubted that, as far as principles of civil government are concerned, the pillars of Hercules rest upon the declaration of independence and the constitution of the United States. To my mind there is no beyond. The forms under which the principles of the republic are administered may need changes to meet changing conditions, but the underlying idea does not, for truth is unchanging and eternal. What was so when the morning stars sang together will be so when the angel of the Apocalypse appears.

"I venture to express this much of that idea: A government dedicated to the inalienable rights of man to life, to liberty and to the pursuit of happiness can find its perfect accomplishment only in republics brave and strong enough to rise above the ambitions, passions and prejudices of individuals and groups. Representative government was intended to guarantee these inalienable rights of men through the enactment and enforcement of laws calculated to preserve and promote equal and exact justice to all men; religions die because priests mumble their creeds, but have no faith in their Gods. Governments go to wreck because their statesmen should their shibboleths, but let a friendly enemy pass the word.

"I freely grant the right of this people to choose our form of government and to adopt other basic principles, but if it be done let it be done decently and directly so that all of us may know its. The old faith has already too many sleek and smiling Jews asking of it 'Is it well with thee, my brother?'

"What the old order endures 'let representatives represent the 'old ideals; let it be understood that they are not here bell boys subject to calls for legislative cracked ice every time the victims of a debauch of greed, gambling or improvidence feel the fever of frenzied need.

"What the old order endures 'let the wealth of the nation if the hearts of all its people beat with true American throbs. The clothes may mark, but the clothes can not make the gentleman. The economic rehabilitation of America is of vast amount, but the rehabilitation of the ancient faith which upheld the ragged continentals, emerged in pristine glory from the throes of civil war and buried its smiling and undented face against grim engines of tyranny upon the fields of France, is a far greater work.

"Pleasant Recollections.

"It is enough—perhaps too much. Who am I to suggest, even with shame-faced timidity, anything to you. For eight long years, crowded with events which have forever changed the currents of the world's history, I have been with you. I come to the end of them with a feeling of heartfelt gratitude to you all for those little nameless unremembered acts of kindness and charity which have marked your friendship and good will. You have been good to me. The odor of your friendship will sweeten any air that I may breathe. Not one of you can wish for himself a kinder fate than I would give you if I were omnipotent. I go, but you remain. I leave with the same inarticulate cry in my soul with which I came to you: My country, it is no new nor unusual cry for the American, but it has, I fear, myriad concepts. To some it means broad acres and fertile fields; to some opportunity for personal preferment; to a thoughtful few, the right to utter every vagrant word which finds lodgment in a mind diseased; to the half educated, that democracy should be governed as soon by the infant's cry as by the prophet's warning. But to me it is but the composite voice of all the good and wise and self-sacrificing souls who trod or tread its soil. Calling for that liberty which is law-encrowned, preaching that doctrine which seeks not its own, but the common good and, above all, warning us by the memory of the dead and the hope of the unborn to close our ears to the monitions of every peripatetic reformer who tells us that the way to sanctify the republic is to remove every landmark which has hitherto marked the boundaries of national and individual life.

"It is no new religion we need. Our creed should be: One Lord, one faith, one baptism—the lord of justice, who was with Washington at Valley Forge, Grant and Lee at Appomattox, Perchasing on the fields of France; the faith that under a republican form of government alone, democracy permanently can endure; the baptism of that spirit which will not be content until no man is above the penalties and no man below the protection of our laws.

"Let him who goes and him who stays remember that he who saves his life at the loss of his country's honor, loses it, and he who loses his life for the sake of his country's honor, saves it."

ment alone, democracy permanently can endure; the baptism of that spirit which will not be content until no man is above the penalties and no man below the protection of our laws.

"Let him who goes and him who stays remember that he who saves his life at the loss of his country's honor, loses it, and he who loses his life for the sake of his country's honor, saves it."

For that little household burn

There is nothing better than Resinol to relieve the smart and sting. Its gentle medication soothes while it heals. Apply freely but gently to the affected surface, so as not to disturb the injured skin. Then place a light bandage over the burn to keep out the air. Resinol Ointment accelerates the healing—an important point—on broken skin means an opportunity for germs to enter, and if they do they often cause painful and dangerous inflammation.

The Young Mother

Youth with its vitality makes for the young mother's health and happiness. But later maternal experiences bring a different result. The care of a family, multiplied household duties, and very often the weakness caused by womanly disease, tend to prolong the suffering and to make convalescence a slow and weary process. Many women—perhaps your own neighbors—have had beneficial experience with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription which prepares the prospective mother. It promotes the appetite, ends nervousness and sleeplessness, and gives a consciousness of buoyant health. It is unexcelled as a strength-giving tonic for mothers during the period of convalescence. This Favorite Prescription was used by Dr. Pierce with great success over 50 years ago. It's still good today. Ask your neighbor!

San Antonio, Texas.—"One of my daughters has two 'Favorite Prescription' babies of whom she is very proud. She was in very poor health for eight years—could scarcely get around and was not able to do her housework. Doctoring did not seem to help her. Finally she started to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and that medicine restored her to perfect health. The babies are fine and healthy and she had practically no suffering. Best of all she is in better health today than ever before, thanks to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."—MRS. SARAH WHITLEY, 307 Sharer St.

FINDS BUSINESS MEN WANT POLES DOWN

Report Made at Business Council Meeting—All Hotel Guests to Get Welcome Letters.

A substantial majority of Wichita Falls downtown property owners and tenants favor an ordinance for removal of electric sign poles from the business district. It was reported at Friday's meeting of the business council of the chamber of commerce, and at the next session of the city council a request will be submitted for such an ordinance.

The business council heard reports of steady progress on Style-Show plans, discussed an excursion to Graham when the Southern enters that city, and heard a statement by General Manager Harrison on several chamber of commerce activities.

Some opposition to the pole-removal ordinance had developed, Burton Station said in reporting the work of the committee, but opponents of the no-obstruction movement were in the minority. The present committee was requested to bring the matter before the city council Monday night.

C. C. Randie, A. D. Allen, Mrs. T. B. Smock and others reported on several phases of brief Style-Show details of which have already appeared in The Times.

Mr. Harrison's report touched on several matters; he told of the work of the park committee and of the rapid progress with the park improvement program, which involves expenditure of $1,050 for shrubbery, flowers and trees.

A cordial letter will be placed in the box of each guest registering at local hotels, Mr. Harrison announced, calling the attention of the visitor to certain facts about Wichita Falls. Mr. Harrison said the suggestion for this novel plan originated with W. W. Anderson.

While not yet prepared to give any publicity to it, Mr. Harrison said two propositions of such importance were before the chamber of commerce at present, with good chances of success. He intimated that they involve the establishment of new enterprises here.

After a brief discussion of the Graham plans, the council adjourned. REFRESHMENT MEN HOLD FIRST OF WEEKLY LUNCHEON

Representatives of practically all local refreshment men met at the Kemp hotel at noon Friday for the first of the weekly luncheons which they are to hold. The luncheons, which are said to be entirely a social nature, will be held each Friday. Fifteen attended the first affair.

WASHINGTON, AND THE OX-CART AND STAGE COACH DAYS Our forefathers used the Ox-cart and rode in the Stage Coach and selected their glasses themselves, if they had any. They did it because there was no other way and yet, there are some persons who hold that because some of their ancestors did not use glasses, that such things are unnecessary, and yet some of these same people use automobiles and electric lights, and some of these have lightning rods. Today the Ox-Cart and Stage Coach are antiquities, and the Science of Fitting Glasses has more than kept pace with modern advancement. Persons who are best informed today have their eyes examined at least once a year, if not for the benefit of what change may have taken place in the eye, they have the benefit of whatever advancement may have taken place in the Science of Fitting Glasses. Our Optical Parlor has the most modern Scientific equipment and skill, and is for your eye protection. Why not be up-to-date in the care of your eyes?
