AMERICAN LEGION TO KEEP UP BATTLE FOR SOLDIER BONUS

WILL BE CONTINUED WITH RE-NEWED VIGOR, SAYS COMMANDER

WELL DEFINED PROGRAM WILL NOT BE MODIFIED

Declares Washington, the Banks and Associations of Commerce Alone Are Opposed

CHICAGO, July 16.—The fight of the American Legion for the soldier bonus will be continued with renewed vigor, declared Major John G. Emery of Grand Rapids, Mich., national commander of the legion, in commenting today on the "struck" of the bonus bill in the senate.

"If the war had continued for another thirty days," he asserted, "it would have cost the government as much as the proposed adjusted compensation program."

Major Emery has been attending the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

"The American Legion's program still stands," he said. "We will immediately start the fight for the bonus all over again in the house. Our program stands endorsed by two conventions of the legion. We have practically been assured that the Sweet bill will be passed."

"We consider President Harding all wrong in his attitude. Why, the senate finance committee in its report declared untrue the claims that the Sweet bill and the adjusted compensation program would bankrupt the treasury."

Major Emery asserted the legion has a well defined program to fight for the bonuses and this will not be modified.

"There was at first considerable opposition in the legion itself to this program but this has now subsided," he said. "Wherever it existed, it was on the part of men well off financially. We have now induced these men to devote their shares in the compensation to the men who need it."

The wounded and disabled men will be taken care of by the government, he said. "The country as a whole is with us in this," he said, "and the banks and the associations of commerce are against our program."

WILL NOT INTERFERE WITH LEAGUE'S DISARMAMENT MOVE

By Associated Press.

LONDON, July 16.—The temporary mixed commission for the reduction of armaments appointed by the league of nations decided today that the conference on this subject will be called by President Harding would not conflict in any way with the league's disarmament move.

Instead of continuing the sessions immediately after convening, as had been suggested, the commission will first continue its work.

Rene Viviani, French representative and chairman of the committee, in opening the meeting, declared that the Washington conference fitted in with the commission's study of disarmament.

Mr. Viviani argued that the league's disarmament work could only aid in accomplishing the objects sought by the Washington meeting.

The chairman of the committee was approved by H. A. L. Fisher, Great Britain's representative, who said that the league's commission should continue its work.

Delegates remarked that while the United States is declining contact with the league, the forthcoming conference in Washington would find it self obliged to consider such commissions as the league's commission might propose.

During discussion of the treaty of St. Germain for the suppression of the traffic in arms, the committee pointed out that the United States was virtually the only country which was not a party to it.

MORE ADEQUATE CARE FOR DISABLED SOLDIERS SUBJECT OF RESOLUTION

CLEVELAND, July 16.—A resolution declaring for more adequate care of disabled soldiers, was ready for presentation at today's session of the second annual convention of the Rainbow Division Veterans' association.

The bonus question was left over for the last business meeting.

Informal discussions indicated that opposing the bonus until disabled veterans have been properly cared for.

The collection of funds to restore the devastated district of Belleau Wood as a memorial to the American army in France is endorsed in a resolution which it was said also would be placed before the delegates.

PEACE OR A RESUMPTION OF ARMED RESISTANCE

DUBLIN, July 16.—Commenting on the conference between Eamon de Valera and Prime Minister Lloyd George in London, the Irish Bulletin today declared:

"If a peaceful settlement should be denied the Irish people, they will resume arms resistance to foreign domination. They possess the will, and, by endurance, the power, to bring their fight eventually to success."

Referring to the observance of the truce arranged between the Irish republicans and the crown forces, the Bulletin said it proved "there is in the nation that discipline and obedience to authority which is the essence of successful self-government. The surprise expressed by English newspapers that the truce was kept arises from the inability to understand the realities of the situation which the British press consistently has displayed."

VEIL OF MYSTERY AROUND THE IRISH PEACE CONFERENCE

LEADERS WILL NOT REVEAL WHAT IS HAPPENING BEHIND THE SCENES

DECLARE THIS IS ONLY MEANS FOR SUCCESS

Lloyd George is Spending the Week-End in His Country Home at Chequers Court

LONDON, July 16.—What is happening behind the scenes in the consultation of the Irish parties preliminary to the renewal of the conversations between Eamon de Valera and Premier Lloyd George on Monday, was revealed by what Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, termed this morning a "rigid silence."

Sir James used this phrase in explaining to interviewers his belief that everything depended upon the way the question was handled.

"The slightest indiscretion or misrepresentation," he said, "may easily cause incalculable harm. What will be the attainment of peace is for everyone concerned to withhold comment outside official conversations."

One of the principals in the conference, Lloyd George, is spending the week-end in his country home at Chequers Court, near Windsor.

The cabinet probably will be called to assist him in his resurvey of the delicate position, while de Valera and his colleagues will be in London to view the exhibition here of Sir John Lavery's paintings, which include pictures of the trial of Sir Roger Casement and of the annexation of Eire.

London of Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork and a portrait of Archbishop Mannix of Australia.

Sir James Craig was awaiting the arrival in London of three members of the Ulster cabinet, M. M. Pollock, minister of finance, K. A. Archdale, minister of agriculture, and L. M. Anderson, minister of labor, whom he summoned from Belfast yesterday for conferences here which are expected to be held this evening.

The arrival of several millions of the Ulster premier and colleagues is believed to rest the immediate hope for the unembarrassed continuance of the Downpatrick conference, which it is possible Sir James will join Monday, although such a visit to the prime minister's official residence would be a second personal interview with Lloyd George.

The de Valera headquarters was bombarded this morning with requests for comment on the publication of reports as to terms, concrete proposals and decisions alleged to have been made during the talks on the peace question.

The official rejoinder was: "We are pledged to secrecy. These reports are pure fabrications, out of the minds of their writers and are wholly unwarranted."

POSTPONE RESUMPTION OF CONFERENCE UNTIL MONDAY

LONDON, July 16.—Resumption of the conference between Prime Minister Lloyd George and Eamon de Valera, Irish republican leader, was not planned for today, it having been announced their next meeting would occur Monday.

Discussions they would have with their advisers during the day, might, however, it was believed, have an important bearing on the future progress of the conference.

Mr. de Valera remained at his hotel here and was expected to meet prominent Irish leaders during the day. The prime minister went to his country home at Chequers Court for the week-end, but did not look forward to the conference until Monday.

It would appear that the discussions between Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. de Valera have developed the subject of a future tri-partite conference between the Irish republicans, representatives of the British government and the Ulster premier, to be held in London.

Mr. Lloyd George yesterday afternoon, Mr. de Valera had left Downing street, and it became known later that several members of the Ulster cabinet had returned to London.

There was no suggestion that the reality of yesterday's conversation between the prime minister and Mr. de Valera indicated that they had reached a deadlock, nor was the postponement of the conference until Monday looked upon as significant of danger to the future of the negotiations. In fact there seemed last night to be a relaxation of the tension which prevailed on Thursday and Friday and the impression gained was that while the situation had lost none of its delicacy, some progress had been made.

At the time of the de Valera's headquarters during the evening appeared to reflect the determination of the Irish republicans not to meet Sir James until at least for the time being. It was indicated he had forfeited his right to enter the conference by refusing to meet the Irish republicans.

Referring to the observance of the truce arranged between the Irish republicans and the crown forces, the Bulletin said it proved "there is in the nation that discipline and obedience to authority which is the essence of successful self-government. The surprise expressed by English newspapers that the truce was kept arises from the inability to understand the realities of the situation which the British press consistently has displayed."

LIFE IMPRISONMENT FOR MRS. KABER IS SENTENCE OF JUDGE

CLEVELAND, July 16.—Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber was found guilty today of murder in the first degree but with a recommendation of mercy by the jury which tried her on a charge of plotting the killing of her husband, Daniel F. Kaber.

Under the verdict Mrs. Kaber must serve the remainder of life in prison. Although the jury had not yet reported officially to the court, Judge Maurice Beron announced the decision to Attorney Francis W. Poulson, Mrs. Kaber's personal counsel, so that he might inform Mrs. Kaber in hopes that she would revive sufficiently from a stupor to be brought into court to hear the official announcement.

She has been in a stupor all morning. Mrs. Kaber was sentenced to life imprisonment at Marysville by Beron. Under the Ohio law there is no hope for pardon under such a verdict.

Mrs. Kaber is the first woman in Cuyahoga county to be convicted of first degree murder.

William J. Corrigan, Mrs. Kaber's counsel, said he was well satisfied with the verdict. The same expression was made by County Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton.

The jury announced that it was ready to report a verdict at 8:45 a. m. after having deliberated in all four hours. Mrs. Kaber, according to her counsel, said she understood what the verdict was, and was carried into the courtroom at 10:20 o'clock. The jury had not yet been brought in.

The jury was brought in a few minutes later and made official report of the verdict. Mrs. Kaber was pronounced guilty of murder in the first degree.

When informed by Mr. Poulson of the verdict, Mrs. Kaber merely nodded her head, he said, showing no signs of emotion.

He told her that unless she went to the courtroom today to receive the verdict and be sentenced, she would have to go Monday and asked her if she could go. She again nodded her head.

Marian McArdle, Mrs. Kaber's daughter, who was with her mother when she was told of the verdict by Attorney Poulson, said she was well pleased with the verdict, according to Mr. Poulson.

Unconscious Friday Night. Mrs. Kaber was Friday by her attorneys to have been practically unconscious last night. She had been carried from the court room and had not eaten during the day.

By a coincidence the jury began balloting two years, the first Friday in July, from the time Mr. Kaber was stabbed to death by assassins alleged to have been hired by Mrs. Kaber.

Though Mrs. Kaber was suspected of being implicated in her husband's death at the time, insufficient evidence was found then by officials to charge her with the crime. For two years Moses Kaber, the aged father of the murdered man, doggedly kept working on the mystery with the aid of private detectives.

Finally, a brother of Mrs. Kaber was brought in as a ruse and her mother, Mrs. Mary Brickel, who was suspected of knowing much about the murder, was charged with the crime. The ruse worked as it had been planned. Mrs. Brickel, to save the son, is alleged to have confessed, implicating her daughter, Mrs. Kaber; Miss Marion McArdle, daughter of Mrs. Kaber; herself and others.

DENISON BANK EXPECTS TO RE-OPEN NEXT TUESDAY

DENISON, TEXAS, July 16.—The Denison Bank and Trust company, which closed its doors Friday when the withdrawal of deposits developed into a run, was unable to resume business today.

In a speech to the crowd, which congregated around the institution, many blocking traffic on two streets, W. B. Munson, president of the board of directors, stated that all depositors would receive their money.

He stated that the bank would probably be able to open Tuesday.

The affairs of the institution are in the hands of A. L. Slaughter, state bank examiner. An examiner from the Dallas federal reserve bank, of which system the bank is a member, is also here.

EXPECT TO PUT DOWN LATE MEXICO REVOLT WITHIN A FEW DAYS

MEXICO CITY, July 16.—War office authorities declared last night that the uprising in the state of Tamaulipas, led by General Daniel Martinez Herrera, would be put down in little more than a week. It was declared federal troops were being despatched into the trouble district, and that the danger would soon be over.

President Obregon met newspaper men last night and seemed inclined not to treat the Herrera revolt seriously, asserting there were sufficient forces to suppress any trouble. He asserted the government intended to investigate the situation and determine what influences were behind the revolt and "treat them as circumstances permit."

Plutarco E. Calles, secretary of the interior, also said the uprising was not serious.

The German ships turned over to the United States for experimental purposes.

Should they fail destroyers will shell the Frankfurt and the Ostfriesland will fall a target to the 14-inch guns of the superdreadnought Pennsylvania, flagship of the Atlantic fleet.

GREEK TROOPS OCCUPY THE CITY OF KUTAJA, AN IMPORTANT RAIL POINT

ATHENS, July 16.—Greek troops have occupied the city of Kutaja, an important point on the southern branch of the Bagdad railway about 75 miles southeast of Bursa. It was declared in a private dispatch received here last night from Smyrna. Advice from Asia Minor, where the Greeks are conducting a general offensive against the Turkish nationalists, indicated the Turks were pouring Tartar and Kurd reinforcements into the Kutaja area and it was indicated a severe battle might take place there.

The correspondent of Kronkon, who is in the front of Anatolia, reports that Kutaja was invested yesterday by Greek columns.

WISCONSIN STATE BANK IS ROBBED BY THREE MEN

GREEN BAY, WIS., July 16.—Three men robbed the state bank of Wabesa Friday afternoon, getting $5,000 in cash and $22,000 in Liberty bonds, according to a telephone message received here early this morning.

The bandits, it is said, locked Cashier Rowell Richardson and Assistant Cashier Myrtle Gratton in the bank vault. They were rescued half an hour later by occupants of an office above the bank.

DEPORTED BY SHERIFF AND POSSE FOLLOWING DEMONSTRATIONS AT ABERDEEN, S. D., DURING FRIDAY

HURON, S. D., July 16.—William D. Henderson, 23, of Austin, Texas, was shot and killed last night at Wabesa, S. D., three miles west of Huron, by a member of a band of some three hundred I. W. W. on the top of a freight train pulling out of Wabesa for the north when he refused the demand of the I. W. W. organizers to take out a card in the organization.

Neighboring towns and villages which had been notified of the movements of the men, were on the watch and are expected to keep them moving. The driving out of the men most followed demonstrations Friday aimed at securing the release of Harris Casey, who had been arrested Thursday night on charges of kidnapping.

The request for time to procure a lawyer from Chicago.

After the arraignment of Casey in procuring meals in a number of restaurants and then refusing to pay for them, aroused sentiment against them and when the men went into camp a short distance from the city, the sheriff proceeded to summon a posse and compel the alleged I. W. W. to "march."

A large number of I. W. W. members were said to be coming on freight trains toward this city from Mitchell and other places in South Dakota.

TWO HUNDRED MILLION INCOME TAX RECOVERED

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Approximately $200,000,000 was added to the government's revenue during the fiscal year just ended through recovery from false and fraudulent income tax returns, Commissioner Blair announced today.

Indictments have been returned during the year in every section of the country, he said, and the amount of income tax which was also assessed.

Fraud upon the revenue by way of filing false and fraudulent tax returns appears in many unique ways, Mr. Blair said, and that the government is continually cradling in its methods and reducing their taxes by merely omitting large items of income from their returns.

Some of the more common methods of fraud upon the revenue by which the government is losing income are now in the hands of the police.

POLICEMAN SCARES THIEVES AWAY FROM STORE; GUNS STOLEN

Chance interruption of their work by a motorcycle officer is what prevented thieves from making a valuable haul of firearms at the Lewis-Jones hardware store in Chicago, early Saturday morning, according to Chief Detective Boyd, who visited the scene of the robbery. Eight expensive revolvers were secured by the robbers before they were frightened away.

Motorcycle Officer Newton is credited with having saved a larger loss, as his investigation of the place is believed to have scared off the trio of men. According to his story he rode past the hardware store shortly after 1 o'clock Saturday morning and noticed two men emerge from the front door and approach an automobile parked at the curb. A man was said to have been sitting in the car and the motor was reported to have been running.

Newton immediately dismounted from his machine and started for the store front, with the result that the two men on foot pumped into the waiting car and drove rapidly around the corner. Newton's revolver was pointed at them and he said and three repeating shot guns were lying on the walk.

Entrance to the place was effected by means of skeleton keys, the police believe, as no signs of the doors having been broken could be found. Aside from the details noted, nothing was obtained from the store stated Saturday morning and hopes are entertained of recovering these. The manufacturers' names from the guns were obtained and the guns are now in the hands of the police.

When I had milked the cow and her datter and had at breakfast I did not want to see the bunch right away because I did not want to tell them that I had spent my half a dollar. When the less cream has sort of wore off a fella is sorry that he has spent his money, but I do not care because I spent my half a dollar. A fella has got to live a long time in the world and he has got to get used to spending half dollars. There is not going to be any fun living if it is going to hurt a fella every time he spends a half a dollar.

I kept my half a dollar almost a week and that is doing pretty good. I expect that is because I am getting old. I looked in my looking glass again this morning but there is not any mustache even by daylight, but there is a kind of old look around my eyes. If anyone would not look at my short pants I guess they would think that I am a kind of a well off old man that has just had a shave or something. If I had another half a dollar I would go around to that store and spend it and maybe the woman would say something else to me.

I thought I would go over to the brickyard for a while till the bunch had took the cows out, and when I got over there they were making bricks and they had a whole lot of them spread over the drying pen, and the boss hollered to me and I thought he was hollering at me, and me and Jubilee started to skin out, but he hollered again and motioned to me, and he said to me that if I could get a bunch of boys to come and turn bricks for a couple of days I would give us half a dollar a piece, and he said he would give me a dollar for getting them.

So me and Jubilee skunk out for the bunch, and they was all crazy to go but we had to take the cows out, and we did not know what to do till Hopper, which is our crup, said he would take the cows out and bring them home two days if we would each give him a nickel because he cannot turn bricks very good. So we said we would.

I bet if the woman in the store could see me turning bricks in the sun she would think I was a man. Turning bricks to dry is just the same as if a fella would be little enough to step down into the frying pan and turn the bacon over by hand, only he would have to keep doing it all day. The drying field is hard clay and it is right in the sun, and my back was almost burnt, and I would think I was a man.

I looked in my looking glass again this morning but there is not any mustache even by daylight.

It broke when I got done, and then I had to milk the cows. Darn a cow.

We went in swimming in the mudhole before we went to milk. No one has drowned anything in the mudhole for quite a while. I saw fella could breathe water nobody could drown him. I washed my feet. When I was turning bricks I tried to bang my tongue out of my face like Jubilee does when it is hot, but I couldn't. It was a good thing I washed my feet, because my father hollered at me, and I was tired to want to go down.

BUGHOUSE FABLES

SONNY, HOW'D YOU LIKE TO TRY YOUR LUCK IN THE CITY?

NOT ME PAP. I LOVE THE FARM

By ANNE RITTENHOUSE

THE TIGHT POINTED BODICE OF ANOTHER CENTURY HAS ARRIVED IN MODER FASHIONS. IT IS USED WITH THE FULL SKIRT WHICH GROWS ACCEPTABLE. BUT IT DEMANDS A SUGGESTION OF WAISTLINE.

THE comforting thought is given us by those who study the history of fashion that it is not necessary to lace the corsets in order to adopt a tight bodice.

The reason this statement always is slowly infiltrating through to the front lines of fashion. It is a recognized garment in Paris; it may become a feature of fashion over here in October. The semi-annual exhibitions of clothes held in Paris in August will decide that vexed question. The American buyers will be there as well as the rest of us who follow the flag of fashion wherever it is raised.

This tight bodice is said not to require a small waistline, because it is to be worn after the manner of Queen Elizabeth and her ladies; the bodice passes over the waistline proper and runs to a boned point which promotes the appearance of a small waist without demanding it.

Whatever the amelioration of this bodice when it comes to be worn by the American woman, the truth is that it does change the contour of the figure. It is not a compromise. It is a revolution. It destroys the straight line from shoulder to heel it increases the size of the hips, it shortens the line under the arms and demands a flattened abdomen. The public has been dressing in a manner entirely different from this. It has made a fetish of a contour that was exactly opposite. The acceptance of this tight bodice with its elongated point in front means the overthrow of all that has governed our clothes for two decades.

The sketch shows a dinner gown worn in Paris. It was well observed by Americans who are in that city for the purpose of gathering ideas for the great market of the country. The tight underskirt, the shapely bodice borrowed from another epoch, are of black satin. The full skirt with its several points is of thin white crepe and demands a flattened abdomen upon a row of white lace with centers of black taffeta.

The full skirt is accepted. There is no longer any argument on that question. It is placed over a tight foundation which seems to steady it and create a link between what was and what is to be. The fashion of cutting the full overskirt into points is more acceptable to America than

Something to Think About

What the Old Liberty Pole Meant

By F. A. WALKER

IT was in 1776 that the Liberty Pole which stood in "The Fields" outside the City of New York was chopped down by order of the British Governor.

Now, nearly a century and a half after that event, a replica of the mast has been set up by the Sons of the Revolution and Historical Society close to the original spot in City Hall Park.

No symbol of Revolutionary days, and the events which led to the foundation of the American Republic, could express more clearly than this flag staff the change in public sentiment which brought about the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

When the first of five Liberty Poles was put up in 1766 the colonists had not become nationalists. Their idea of freedom was not independence. They did not want to go their own way. All that was to come later.

It was on the birthday of George III and to celebrate the repeal of the Stamp Act that the original pole was erected. The ceremonies were marked by expressions of loyalty and general satisfaction. But this was not to last for long.

What the Americans of that day had objected to was the way in which the British Parliament had treated them.

They could see no reason why British subjects living on the side of the Atlantic should not enjoy the same rights as British subjects on the other side of the Atlantic. They objected as "Englishmen" to what they called the un-English things other Englishmen in London had done to them.

If the first Liberty Pole was associated with good will to the mad old King over the water, the other four poles which succeeded it took on a different significance.

The authorities came to dislike the new ideas that they stood for. So they were cut down as having a bad influence.

The last pole was erected in 1770 after some opposition. It stayed in place as a rallying point for the Sons of Liberty, until the year 1775, when it was removed in the midst of the excitement caused by the revolution.

The site of the Liberty Pole is thus one of the historic spots associated with the final and new freedom.

These include Washington's pew in St. Paul's Church, the place on the Treasury steps at Wall Street where the first President was sworn in, and the little park at Bowling Green where stood the leader statue of King George which was pulled down and melted into bullets for the use of the American soldiers.

There Are Curious Combinations of Black and Yellow Shown in the Season's Fashions Which Are Emphasized in the Sweater Blouses Offered On Every Hand in Generous Measures.

None appears to desire to get rid of the sweater. It remains as a staple garment in the wardrobe, although its name has changed and it has taken to itself the luxury of ornamentation. The popular sweater blouse was founded on the sweater. When makers of garments realized that the informality of this type of covering was agreeable to women and that they wore it with as much ease and satisfaction as a college boy, they began to devise schemes to keep it in fashion. They have been successful, because they produce it in many shapes, although it is reduced to informal uses.

The sweater in its fundamental form is still to be had at any shop. Probably one hangs in every wardrobe for protective purposes, but upon this foundation has been built a tower of Babel with all the sweaters speaking of different nationalities suggesting their source and origin.

It is not difficult to find the sweater in history if one looks back far enough. In the Metropolitan Museum of Art, in New York, there is a black and white tunic in a luscious red tone, woven of knitted silk and stamped with metallic flowers. Such a sweater might have been worn by the young dandies in the reign of Darius, when he overran the world of his day. The woman who invented the woven silk sweater with metallic stamping probably founded her fashion on just such a museum piece.

If the sweater of today is merely the sweater of the day before yesterday, it at least, presents to this particular segment of the generation a new and happy idea in dress. Women have become weary of the woolen garment, except for country wear, but they have grown very fond of these luxurious over-blouses which serve more purposes than the shirtwaist.

In them is shown a high attempt to bring color and brilliancy of design to the average costume, and both these features are worked out in the black and yellow silk jersey blouses worn with crepe skirts. The sketch shows one of importance.

It brings out the Princeton colors with strength. It is fashioned in a new way, this jersey, at its low waistline there is a slight ruffle, which lengthens the garment and brings it down well below the hips. The collar is of yellow and the design in the same color, are hand-painted on the silk surface. The hat is yellow jersey to match the overblouse; it is trimmed with the ever-present black cherries. Some of the new silk sweater blouses adopt a favorite French trick in trimming; the material is cut into inch wide strips and plaited in the same fashion that children weave mats in kindergarten classes. This plaiting forms the edge of the sleeve or the tight hipline which holds the sweater into the figure below the waist. It would be a good idea to make entire sweater blouses in this plaiting, using strips of woven silk, or ribbon, or a combination of the two materials. The fashion of plaiting ribbon has grown apace since its inception. It is not general today, which fact gives one a chance to get it into the costume before it becomes as common as fringe or bead embroidery.

BETTINA

BETTINA, curiously enough, has no etymological connection with Betty, as is generally supposed. It is an Italian feminine name which was derived from the old verb betto, to bless, and later, with the word benedictio (to speak well). Beata and Bettrix were the early forms of the name and in Diodorian persecutions, the Christian maiden who drew the bodies of her martyred brothers from the Tiber and buried them, afterward sharing their fate, was called Beatrix. Her relics were enshrined at Rome and her fame spread broadcast. Dante further contributed to the prevalence of the "blessed" names, by making the love of his youth, Beatrice, Portinari, the theme of his "Vita Nuova" and his guide through Paradise.

Bona, another form of the name, was used by the daughters of the Counts of Savoy and in the House of Luxembourg, and came to the throne of France with the daughter of Johann of Bohemia, the blind King of Bohemia. In Spain, a Visigothic nun was canonized as Benedicta and partly in her honor and partly through the fame of the patriarch of the Western monks, Benedict, her name became the popular and accepted form in the Latin countries. Italy, producing a Benedict, straightway contracted it to Bettina, a form which England and America adopted and popularized.

The ruby is Bettina's talismanic gem. It promises her courage and power and the attainment of wealth. Thursday is her lucky day and 5 her lucky number. The lily is her flower.

The natal stone for today is the lapis lazuli, which protects its wearer's mental welfare, and gives him spiritual. It is said to be a cure for melancholy, and to create a state of cheerfulness for its wearer. It is gone through towns years afterwards and had folks ask for 'em again. "I hired a wagon that night and commenced selling the bottles on Main Street. They started off like sweetbread on toast at a vegetable dinner. I had sold two dozen at fifty cents apiece when I felt somebody pull my coat tail. DOROTHY DIX'S TALKS

By DOROTHY DIX
THIS WORLD'S HIGHEST PAID WOMAN WRITER

Love to Order

AS A MAN likely to be happy in marriage, a woman for whom he has no warmer feeling than respect" asks a correspondent. Then he goes on to say: "The type of women I enjoy are the gay and giddy sort, the ones who are pretty, and all dolled up and full of pep and fun, but my mother wants me to marry the daughter of a friend of hers—a quiet, domestic girl who is a model of all the virtues. Matrimony is not only disillusioning, but it is trying. It takes a robust affection to stand the wear and tear of the eternal sacrifices and concessions that husbands and wives must make before speaking. Moreover, the woman who is everlastingly patient has to extend to each other's little peculiarities. There is nothing that quickens our heart action, or piques our romantic sentiment, as having to deny ourselves something we want in order to spend the money on somebody else, or having to put up with the way another eats eggs or herbs or men or women." Nor do men fall in love with their wives for their virtues. If this were true, we would not have so many cases of middle-aged men forming a new attachment with a young girl whose virtues are not their own, and saying to help them, and running off after little fappers young enough to be their daughters. As a rule, the woman who most deserves love, though she possess every charm and virtue, is the one who is least likely to be loved. The woman that men go crazy over are never the headliners of their sex. Quite the other way about.

Moreover, the thing a man can never forgive a woman is being under an obligation to her, whether this be financial or moral. Therefore, a man decides himself if he thinks that his gratitude towards a rich wife who makes his way easy is going to blossom into affection for her.

A man who marries a woman he does not love, will not fall in love with her. Once she possesses every charm and virtue; but a woman who marries a man she doesn't love will almost invariably fall in love with him if he is kind and good to her. And therein lies one of the fundamental differences between the sexes.

For a woman is chiefly interesting to a man as long as he is pursuing her. Once she belongs to him, she loses much of her allure for him, but a woman cares most for a man after she has got him. The sense that he is hers, rouses all of her loyalty and devotion, and the knowledge that he stands between her and the world, draws her to him by every instinct of heart and home.

Beyond this is the fact that all the conditions of life tend to separate a man from his wife, and to draw her to him. He has his business, a thousand outside interests besides sentimental ones. Her life is bound up by the family circle. Thus it may be said that in marriage a man does business upon a continually decreasing capital of affection, while his wife carries on her sentimental operations on a rising market. Therefore, it is much more important that a man should be wildly, madly, overwhelmingly in love when he marries than it is that a woman should.

At any rate, a man may be very sure that if a woman doesn't interest him before marriage, she won't do it afterwards, and that if he doesn't love her before marriage, he won't fall in love with her afterwards. He may respect her, but respect is a poor substitute for the love that alone makes marriage worth while.

An O. HENRY Story

Jeff Peters As a Personal Magnet

By O. HENRY

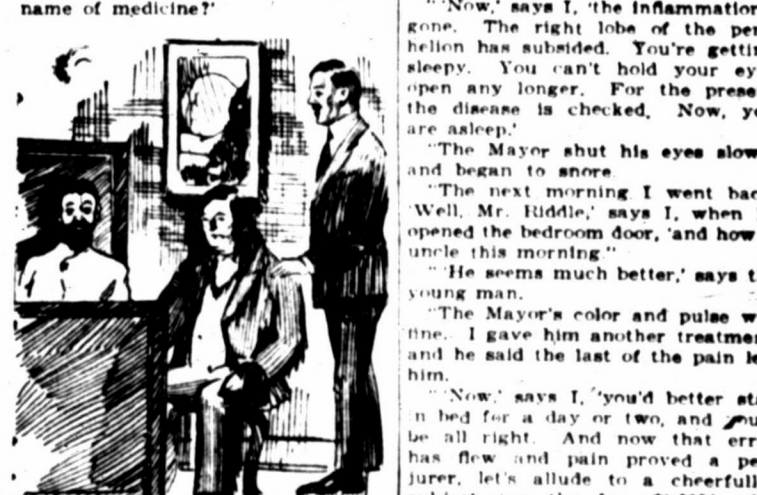

JEFF PETERS has been engaged in as many schemes for making money as there are recipes for cooking rice in Charleston, S. C. Best of all I like to hear him tell of his earlier days when he sold liniments and cough cures on street corners, living hand to mouth, heart to heart with the people throwing him off their tails with fortune for his last coin.

"I struck Fisher Hill, Arkansas," said he, "in a buckskin suit, moccasins, long hair and a thirty-carat diamond ring that I got from an actor in Texas. I don't know what he ever did with the pocket knife I swapped him for it."

"I was Dr. Waugh-hoo, the celebrated Indian medicine man. I carried off one best bet just then, and that was Resurrection Bitters. It was made of life-giving plants and herbs accidentally discovered by Ta-quah, the beautiful wife of the chief of the Clow-taw Nation, who gathered truck to garnish a platter of boiled dog for the annual corn dance."

"Business hadn't been good at the last town, though I had five dollars. I went to the Fisher Hill druggist and he credited me for half a gross of eight-ounce bottles and corks. I had the labels and ingredients in my valise, left over from the last town. Life began to look rosy again after I got in my hotel room with the water running from the tap, and the Resurrection Bitters lining up on the table by the dozen."

"Take? No, sir. There was two dollars' worth of fluid extract of cinchona and a dinter's worth of aniline in that half gross of bottles. I've gone through towns years afterwards and had folks ask for 'em again. "I hired a wagon that night and commenced selling the bottles on Main Street. They started off like sweetbread on toast at a vegetable dinner. I had sold two dozen at fifty cents apiece when I felt somebody pull my coat tail. I knew what that meant, so I slipped down and snatched a five dollar bill in the hand of a man with a German silver star on his lapel. "Constable," says I, "it's a fine night. "Have you got a city license? he asks, to sell this illegitimate essence of spoonju that you flatter by the name of medicine?"

"YOU'RE UNDER ARREST, DR. WAUGH-HOO, ALIAS 'PETERS,' SAYS HE

"I have not," says I. "I didn't know you had a city. If I can find it tomorrow I'll take one out if it's necessary."

"I'll have to elope you up till you work. Want it you that put up the hotel. I was talking to the landlady about it."

"Oh, you won't stand no show in Fisher Hill, sir," he says. "The only doctor here, is a brother-in-law of the Mayor's, and he won't allow no fake doctor to practice in town."

"I don't practice medicine," says I. "I've got a State medical license, and I take out a city one wherever they demand it."

"I went to the Mayor's office the next morning and they told me the landlady showed up yet. They didn't know when he'd be down. So Doc Waugh-hoo hunched down again in a hotel chair and lights a limpswood regalia, and waits."

"Half-past ten," says I, "and you are Andy Tucker. I've seen you work. Want it you that put up the Great Cupid Combination package on the Southern States? Let's see, it was a Chilean diamond engagement ring, a wedding ring, a potato masher, a bottle of something syrup, and Dorothy Vernon—all for fifty cents."

"Andy was pleased to hear that I remembered him. He was a good street man, and he was more than that—he respected his profession, and he was satisfied with 300 per cent profit. "I wanted a partner, so Andy and me agreed to go out together. I told him about the situation in Fisher Hill and how finances was low on account of the local mixture of politics and jalap. Andy had just got in on the train that morning. So we went out and sat on the porch and talked it over. "The next morning at eleven o'clock when I was sitting there alone, an Uncle Tom shuffles into the hotel and asked for the doctor to come and see Judge Banks, who, it seems, was the Mayor and a mighty sick man. "Banks," says he, "Doc Hoskins an done gone twenty miles in de country to see some sick persons. He's de only doctor in de town, and

THE SEEDS OF CITIES

There are a thousand cities like your own
That lie in other vales, on other hills;
By mighty rivers and by singing mills,
With hearts courageous, pioneers have sown.
The seeds from which communities are grown.

The seeds of cities, brother, what are these?
The call of commerce for a common mart—
But more the call in every human heart
For sympathy, for life's comrades:
These are the seeds of our communities.

And, tenants of the cities, what of you?
You who enjoy the bloom the pioneers
Planted in toil, and watered with their tears,
You have some duty in this garden, too.
Each summer's citizen his work to do,
For he who reaps the fruit and the seed must sow:
Who plucks the bloom the reaps must replace
To light the pathway of a later race.
That other men life's loveliness may know—
So will your garden die or garden grow.

LAST NIGHTS DREAMS; WHAT THEY MEAN

DID YOU DREAM OF ORACLES?

THE majority of the oracles regard a dream of seeing a mason—not a member of the masonic order but a member of the trade is meant, engaged in his work in the social or financial scale. Also the dream means that the associates and the surroundings of the dreamer will hereafter be of a more agreeable nature than heretofore. A stone-mason seen in a dream has an especial significance, according to some of the oracles. It presages a birth in the family. There are a few very few oracles who do not look with favor upon a dream of seeing a mason.

The Housewife's Economy Calendar

THE TRYING TIME.

OLD-FASHIONED folk used to talk a lot more about spring tonics and spring fever than we do today. They used to take it for granted that in the interval between winter and summer, the vitality was at low ebb. Farmers' wives learned from their mothers, who in turn learned from their mothers of the various plants of woods and fields that would tone up the system to bridge over this spring depression. Moreover, in the scheme of work they often planned to "take things easy" in the spring, knowing full well that the very busy days of summer could not be met fairly and squarely unless a little slacking of the tension had characterized the days of spring.

Nowadays the housewives' days seem to be especially crowded in spring. We suddenly realize that summer is approaching and that various social obligations have not been met. There is a crowding into a few weeks of delayed dinner parties, teas and other purely social affairs, with a host of benefits for charities and community enterprises. Summer clothes must be thought of and the inevitable house-cleaning. If we have plans for a summer trip from home there is the cottage to be found, or visited and set in ship-shape for summer.

Something to Think About

Getting On

By F. A. WALKER

HOW are you getting on? Every day when a ship is at sea the captain, with an astronomical instrument measures accurately the altitude of the sun above the horizon and with a series of charts determines his position on the great waters. The safety of his ship and the safety of his passengers depends upon his accurate knowledge of where he is, how far and in what direction he has gone since he last computed his position.

How long since you took observations to find out where you were? When did you figure out your bank balance or determine in cold hard figures whether or not you were increasing your efficiency as a workman?

You are sailing a sea just as devoid of marks and mile posts as the watery plain along which a vessel plows.

Your life is not like any other life. No one else can live it for you nor even tell you accurately how you should live it.

Wise advice they may and do give you as to the broad principles of success but there will be complications all your own which you must solve without anything to guide you except good judgment and a sense of right.

Getting on is largely a question of getting up. If you ever tried to move fast, to get ahead in a crowd you know how impossible it is.

So long as you are content to move along with your fellow workmen, to do no more than the average, no more than you are required to do to keep your job, you will never get on very fast nor very far.

It is the man who insists upon getting up, getting above his fellows; who does not only more than the average but who tries to do more and better work than any of his fellows; who insists on getting above them, that will catch the eye of the men over him and win the reward of superior endeavor. An aeroplane on the ground is not a very interesting thing. You would go out of your way perhaps once to see one. But when it gets into the air, when it is up, then it appeals to you as the great wonder it really is.

It used to be that once a year a merchant took account of stock. He thought that once in twelve months was often enough to figure out whether he was making money or running behind.

But as competition became keener, as merchants became keener buyers, as clerks became keener sellers, the wide awake business man thought it would be wise to find out a little oftener how he was getting on.

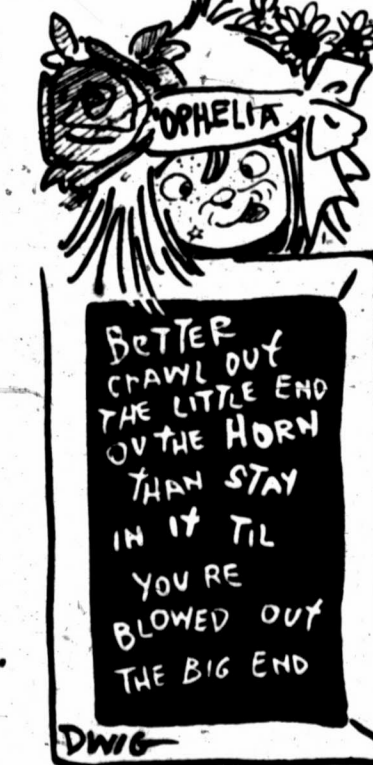

Today in the big stores each head of a department, and that means each head of the many small stores that collectively make the big store, is expected to know every day how he stands as regards his stock and his profits and if he is not able to give the "big boss" a comprehensive answer as to "how are you getting on?" he will shortly find himself looking for another place unarm'd with any very convincing recommendation.

Some people are like a boy's reeling horse—never by spasms and jerks but always in compliance with the laws of its progress.

There are laws which we may apply to our daily efforts no matter how lowly those efforts may be. We can apply the law of perseverance, of right ambition, of faithfulness.

There is only one brand of real failure in the whole world of endeavor and that is failing to do as well as we know.

If we always do that, if we are always faithful to the best ideals we have we shall be eternally getting on an eternal getting up and that in the last analysis is about the whole of life.

DON'T SNEER, CHEER

By RICHARD LLOYD JONES

When McCormick perfected his reaper his first public demonstration of it failed because the rattle of the machine so frightened the horses that they ran away and demolished his invention. Those who could not invent a reaper sneered.

When the locomotive first came into use there were those know-it-alls who said that it couldn't last and that it ought to be suppressed by law because it frightened horses and killed folks.

The know-it-all is pretty sure to be the know-nothing. It is he the poet had in mind when he said:

"The dull fool's sneer
Hath ofttimes shot chill palsy through the arm,
Just lifted to achieve its crowning deed."

Every great achievement grows out of a noble dream and a consecrated enthusiasm.

The prophetic vision plans and the fool ridicules.
We ride on the horseless trolley car today; the telephone enables us to speak to an ear hundreds of miles away; we stitch a garment on a sewing machine in a day which by hand labor would mean the work of a fortnight; all because there have been men who would not yield their dreams to the cutting ridicule of the doubter and the drone.

Every shop has its barnacles. Don't be a barnacle. Do more than merely hang on to anything that comes along. Get an idea, a purpose, a plan, a policy—anything that you think the world can use, then propel it.

List yourself among those who believe that a thing CAN be done. Then convince yourself that YOU can do it.

Don't be an ostrich with your head in the ground, declaring that because you do not see a thing it can't exist.

The fellow that sees that which you can't see is not to be laughed at but to be respected and studied. It requires no brains to oppose progress. If you have brains use them. Build. If you haven't brains enough to build something yourself, turn in and help some other fellow.

Any fool can break a watch; but it requires a man who has faith in himself to make a watch.

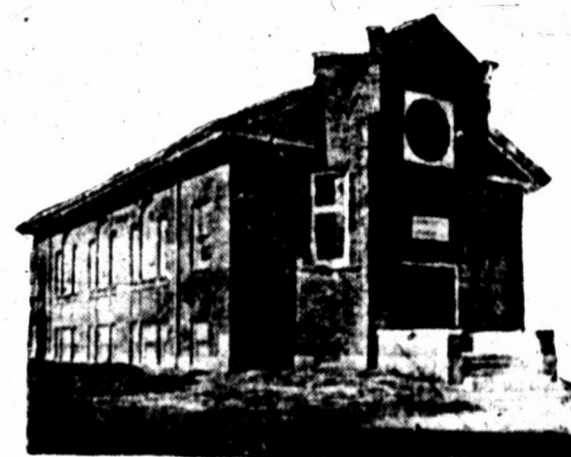

Any brainless fool or an outlaw may wreck a train; but it takes an organized social force to build and operate that train.

It takes but little to destroy; it takes no more to condemn. He who doubts, ridicules or sneers opposes progress. It is he who, because he cannot rise to the high, expansive powers of enthusiasm, would drag the world down to his own miserable pessimistic level.

The thing which drives the locomotive is the expansive power of steam. Like steam, enthusiasm expands; it goes out. Enthusiasm creates all great things.

The world is glad to fast forget the man who is always ready to cloud the rainbow of enthusiasm with forecasts of failure.

Don't sneer at the fellows who TRY to do things. Cheer them. The world will love you for it.

TAX LEVY MAY BE LOWER THAN LAST YEAR'S ASSESSMENT

COUNTY AUDITOR BELIEVES THAT RATE OF 75 CENTS WILL SUFFICE

BASES OPINION ON TOTAL VALUATION OF $70,000,000

Board of Review Reopened Until Tuesday at Which Time It Will Adjourn

Wichita county's tax levy this year will be less than the rate established last year according to the opinion of W. W. Murphy, county auditor.

Based on his opinion on the estimated valuation of the county of over $70,000,000 Mr. Murphy is of the belief that all funds can be supplied with a sufficient amount at a tax rate of 75 cents, which is five cents lower than last year.

One or two of the larger funds have nearly enough balance to tide them over for another year and only a small assessment will be needed. However, there are one or two that will require a raise in the rate but summing the entire situation up the auditor is confident that the rate can be lowered by the practice of strict economy.

The county board of review took a recess Friday and will reconvene Tuesday morning. The board expects to conclude its work at that time and stand adjourned.

The tax levy for the year will be made out just as soon as the board concludes its work and the rolls are prepared by the assessor, at which time the exact total valuation of the county will be definitely known.

The last estimate given out by the county assessor on the total valuation was placed at $72,000,000. This report was sent into the state which required a report or a conservative estimate by July 15.

School districts in the county were notified to fix their rate on the basis of a total valuation of $71,000,000.

SIXTH STREET RESIDENCE IS DAMAGED BY FLAMES. LOSS PLACED AT $1,000

An overheated electric plate in the home of Mrs. M. Vickory, 1002 Sixth street, started a fire at 9:09 o'clock Saturday morning which gutted one room, burned away part of the roof and caused damage to furnishings and to the house itself which will amount of $1,000, according to estimates.

The blaze started in a room at the rear of the structure and spread upward to the roof. All the furnishings in this room were either consumed or totally ruined by smoke and water. Other portions of the place were not badly damaged.

Mrs. Vickory owned all furniture and other equipment in the place, while the building itself was the property of a Burk Burnett bank. Insurance to the amount of $500 was said to have been carried.

COUNTY AUDITOR TO INSTALL THE BUDGET SYSTEM

County Auditor W. W. Murphy upon his return from Houston, Saturday morning stated that he would install the budget system in this county. This new system will be inaugurated as soon as the county commissioners fix the tax levy.

Mr. Murphy went to Houston to inspect the system which has been in use there for a number of years and found to effect a great saving in the county's money.

Each one of the various funds will be taken care of by appropriations at the beginning of each year.

WILL BE RUNNING FULL TIME BEFORE CLOSE OF THE WEEK

With 700 feet of concrete already laid on the Electra- Iowa, Park road, Potts & Prentice, contractors, stated Saturday that before the close of the coming week they expected to be running full time with both mixers.

Only one mixer has been at work during the past three days. All the new track that was ordered only arrived Saturday morning and on this account one of the locomotives could not be transferred to the Electra and hand power was used in pushing the trains of cement.

According to the plans of the contractors, barring all breakages and shortage in materials that entire road will be completed by December 1.

ESTIMATE $2,000,000 FOR ELECTRA WHEAT

This Amount Will Be Paid to the Farmers in That Section of Wichita County

By H. A. STROUD
ELECTRA, TEXAS, July 14.—Over $2,000,000 will be paid out to farmers of this vicinity for wheat, according to an estimate made by E. M. Friend, a local buyer of wheat, who stated that his company had shipped out 60 cars containing 75,000 bushels and now have in storage over 50,000 bushels.

The storage capacity of local elevators had about been reached the early part of the week when the slight rains delayed threshing until they were able to make shipments and increase their storage capacity.

Wheat reaching this city to date has been of an extra good quality and No. 2 has been the lowest test reported. There were a number of cars shipped out that tested No. 1 and commanded a slight premium over No. 2 basis.

The yield over the country was somewhat cut down by bugs and the estimate average yield per acre is placed around 12 to 15 bushels. However the larger amount of acreage that was sowed will bring the total number of bushels up to the highest figure for several years. The streets have been thronged with wheat wagons and trucks hauling the wheat to the city and there are enough threshers being operated to almost close the threshing season next week. Practically all of the wheat has been threshed and number of machines have already closed down for the season.

There has been a surplus of labor this season. Many oil contractors have taken their fleets of trucks into the harvest and every day see almost every known make of truck hauling in the wheat from the farms. The harvest season has furnished work to many out of employment due to the slackness of drilling in the oil fields, and has been a stimulant to business generally.

Work on Park Started

This week saw the beginning of work on Electra's public park when excavation was started preparatory to building a swimming pool. The city recently issued $4,000 in tax warrants for the purpose of improving property for a park. A landscape artist was employed to draw up plans for its improvement and the county engineer has made the final survey. It is the plan of the city commissioners to get the swimming pool in operation and use the revenue derived to defray other expenses necessary to the improvement of the park.

The steam laundry now has its building completed, all machinery on hand and expect to open for business about the first of the month. This enterprise was financed by local capitalists.
