

NOTHING TO JUSTIFY PESSIMISM STATES PRESIDENT BANKERS

SITUATION IS SUMMARIZED AT SESSION OF BANKERS ASSOCIATION.

THREE GREAT DOMESTIC INFLUENCES MENTIONED

Delayed Adjustment of Labor, High Cost of Transportation and System of Taxation.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 4.—There is nothing in either the domestic or foreign situation to give rise to the pessimistic conclusion...

"Rational examination of our condition today," he said, "shows the greatest danger that we face are but the natural manifestation of a world-wide maladjustment that great natural forces are working to remedy."

Reports from more than a thousand bankers were the basis, he said, for his subject today.

"Our situation today—a country-wide economic survey."

In part, it follows: "The output of finished goods throughout the country is considerably smaller than it was a year ago and measurably smaller than it was six months ago."

"The output of finished goods throughout the country is considerably smaller than it was a year ago and measurably smaller than it was six months ago."

"In the great cotton states of the south, in the agricultural states of the middle west and the west, in the western mining and raising states, in the lumber producing regions of the northwest and the southeast, there has been a great reduction in buying power, consequently a slackened demand for natural products and a reduction in their value without a commensurate decrease in the prices of finished goods."

"In the industrial regions there has been a reduction of production, consequent upon reduced foreign purchasing and reduced buying by producers of natural products at home. This reduction in output of manufactured goods in industrial centers has thrown millions of men out of employment, and consequently has operated to reduce further the national buying power. Thus increased consumption of natural products is prevented, increased purchasing by producers of natural products is prevented, increased employment of labor is prevented and the circle revolves."

"If world influences in the process of readjustment could be divorced from domestic influences this country would not now be considering problems of readjustment; it would have solved them and would be walking in the old path. But this could not and cannot be; world influences now and henceforth must have a powerful bearing even on the problems that in former years were considered purely domestic."

"The reports I have received have also shown that the three great domestic influences that more than all others are retarding the readjustment of prices and costs and these are: "First—Delayed adjustment of cost of labor, which prevents adequate reduction of prices of manufactured commodities and services; in the cost of which the cost of labor is the most important factor, and also serves to prevent full employment of labor. This is a dual both to slow adjustment of compensation of labor and to the continuation of shop rules that impair its efficiency."

"Second—Sustained high costs of transportation, which prevent normal and normal movement of commodities of all kinds to markets."

"Third—An unjust system of taxation that diverts working capital from its proper channel, and thereby prevents an accumulation of working capital that is necessary for increased production, for application of improved methods of production and for full employment of labor."

"Common sense, evidenced in hundreds of reports that make up this survey, is that when these three deterrent influences have been eliminated the chief obstacles to a restoration of a proper and equitable price equilibrium will have been removed, trading between one group of producers and others will proceed naturally and labor and capital will be more fully employed in productive enterprise."

"But in spite of these problems, the process of readjustment is going on and there have been undeniable signs of at least a modicum of improvement in the last few months. Every step in the process of readjustment is using its bit to restore the normal value of purchasing power to the entire people and in the nature of things, there is no room for 'anything but confidence in the gradual improvement of business."

MARINE PRESIDENT GIVES TESTIMONY AT A SPECIAL HEARING

EXPLAINS OPERATING AGREEMENT WITH THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT.

NO EFFECT ON COMPANY'S AMERICAN FLAG SHIPS

Hearing Results From Attack Made By Senator Jones of Washington.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Operating agreements between the International Mercantile Marine company, an American corporation, and the British government did not affect the company's American-flag ships even before the drafting of a supplementary agreement requested by the shipping board, P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Marine, told members of the board at a special hearing here today.

The hearing was called to obtain from Mr. Franklin a recital of details of the British agreement which was attacked by Senator Jones of Washington before its amendment as being inimical to the foreign commerce of the United States.

The agreement, originally drafted in 1902, was sought by the company, Mr. Franklin told the board, to offset advantages gained by the Cunard line when the British government began to build up that line by loans and favorable mail contracts, following acquisition of British tonnage by the International Mercantile Marine.

The agreement gave the International Mercantile Marine the benefit of British mail and other valuable contracts. He denied it had been kept secret.

"During nineteen years of operating under these agreements," he continued, "we have never been interfered with by the British government in the management of our ships."

"During this entire period we have had American-flag ships in competition with British ships which we own in strong and continuous competition with the Cunard and other British companies."

Mr. Franklin emphasized that the company was an American corporation, 93 per cent of its stock being owned by American citizens.

He asserted that, recognizing the development of national aspirations of an American merchant marine, the company began negotiations in 1915 to dispose of its British-flag ships, but that sale was stopped at the request of President Wilson.

"During the hearing Mr. Wilson read his letters from Mr. Wilson in support of his assertion. German ships from the United States for a total of $28,500,000 and said the company had offered to agree to keep the ships forever under the American flag. This, he declared, furnished conclusive evidence that the company's agreement that its British ships would not be used to the detriment of the British trade, did not prevent the company in any way from expanding its business under the American flag."

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Under a conciliation scale adopted by a board of conciliation and arbitration affecting the manufactured iron and steel trade of north England, wages will be reduced 25 per cent immediately. This will make a total reduction since January of 12 1/2 per cent as compared with the pre-war scale. The present wage scale is 2 1/2 per cent above that scale.

again, and just as he stepped back and tried to adjust the mask over his face again, I was seized by several people in the crowd which lined the street. I had a gun in my hand when they grabbed me," Burton said, "and I was trying to get away from them when I heard Bob cry that he had been shot. I drew my other gun, but was not able to get away from those who held me until I threatened to kill one of them whom I recognized."

"I then began snooting and that is all that I care to say now."

"Burton, following the melee, went to the drug store where first aid was being administered Sheriff Buchanan, and said that at that time he noticed the sheriff's holster was empty."

"They took his gun away from him during the fight," Burton volunteered. According to available information, the gun had not been found at a late hour tonight.

"Of course, it was all framed to get me," Burton said, "and they had men placed in the crowd for that purpose."

One of the men he recognized, however, and whom he threatened to shoot, is a personal friend of his, he declared.

He reiterated that he had not shot until he heard two shots fired, followed closely by Buchanan's cry that he was wounded.

Asked where Deputy Wood was during the fight, Burton said that he did not see him after a half hour before the clash took place, until he found him guarding the door of the drug store to keep the curious crowd back from Buchanan whose wounds were being dressed. He evidently had been in another portion of the crowd when the fight was in progress.

Participants in the parade have not been identified, and as yet, no statement or comment has been forthcoming from the local chapter of the Klan.

Physicians have placed a formidable crowd around Sheriff Buchanan, Louis Crow and Ed Howard, who were seriously injured in the clash, and neither has made any statement regarding the affair. The only announcement the attending physicians will make is that their "condition is critical" and that they will not permit anyone to talk with them.

Citizens of Lorena are withholding comment on the clash until the outcome of the investigation by the McLennan county grand jury.

The day following the shooting a committee of prominent citizens of Lorena appeared before County Attorney Tiley and asked him to file complaints against Sheriff Buchanan and Deputy Burton. The attorney declined the request and asked the committee to await the investigation of the grand jury.

It is a known fact, according to the report received from Lorena, that there is some adverse criticism at the action taken by the sheriff. The opinion seems to be that the sheriff should have withdrawn when he saw that the masked paraders were not going to obey his request that the parade be called off. The sheriff declared, it is said, that he was doing his duty in attempting to prevent the parade on the ground that he is against the law to that parade mask.

Red Cross Still On The Job; Ex-Service Men Receive Help

Thousands of ex-service men throughout the United States, ill from the effects of the war, are expressing their gratitude to the American Red Cross for its help in obtaining medical and nursing care, for placing them in hospitals or for assisting them in getting their compensation, sometimes long overdue. This statement was given out last week by Edward B. Orr, director of post war service of the southwestern division of the American Red Cross. The southwestern division along with other divisions has hundreds of such letters.

"One man dying from tuberculosis, in a hospital in one of the states of our division, sent the Red Cross a contribution of $100 in recognition of the cheer and comfort which he had obtained through its workers. Another, who was a mental case and who had forgotten practically all he ever knew, when taken in hand by the occupational therapist who helped to bring back the activity of his weakened mind, wrote a pathetic child-like letter to the chapter chairman in the section where his case was cared for. This man was at one time recommended for admission to St. Elizabeth's at Washington, an asylum for the incurable insane. That he was able to write at all speaks volumes for the progress made in his case.

"Another case in the same locality was that of a soldier, who went to the chapter chairman with an allotment towards completion of his case. His pay was withheld, his wife was living with her mother in a distant state, there was sickness in the family, a young baby, and no money. This matter was taken up with the Red Cross and the difficulty was adjusted.

"Another case was that of a man who, because he was sickly and unable to work and had not received his allotment, had become estranged from his wife. This case also was straightened out by the Red Cross and the family brought together.

"Jobs without number have been obtained for the unemployed ex-service men, sometimes in practically all the cases are repaid as soon as the man obtains work. One letter along this line received by the Red Cross is particularly interesting. It follows:

"To the Lady of the Red Cross—We are doing fine and the baby is grand and doing well. We hope some day you will pay us a visit if you happen to be close to us. I have a good job and hope to make good. We are sending you $5.00 this time and will send more on my pay day. I want to thank the Red Cross again for your kindness. Love from me, my wife and the baby.

"This man had had trouble in finding his allotment. The Red Cross took care of that, furnished a layette for the new baby, and saw to the care of the mother when the father was away.

"There are just a few examples at random from the numbers of such letters we receive. The Red Cross is greatly interested in its post war work and keenly sensible of its responsibility and the obligation of the nation to its former service men."

WHEN PERSIA AND PARIS MEET

By MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Surely the laws of the Muses and the Pyramids must have been fashion distates. Nothing more beautiful than the unchangeable Persian design has been adapted to the term Parisian. Indeed, when Persian meets Parisian and the combination is transplanted to America the effect is "tres ravissante."

One of the most beautiful Callot models is this afternoon gown of Persian brocade velvet combined with black satin—a Mary Walls import.

The "movement" of the drapery, which swings around the back over a black satin panel and meets again in front, is extremely original.

The huge kimono sleeves of black satin have deep bands of the Persian brocade.

Use of black satin brings out in gorgeous relief the tones of the Persian designs.

FASHIONS

By LENORE

Nothing could be more girlish or picturesque than this frock of Lanvin's, with its quaintly tight bodice wrinkled at the sides, and the graceful sweep of the neckline. The bodice and so slender skirt foundation are of sunset taffeta, but the very full transparent skirt is of Georgette. This exactly matches the taffeta in color and provides an exquisite background for the narrow frilled ribbon, which is shaded in rose and yellow, with tiny pink roses at the intersections.

Of course, it must be said that such novelties as shaded ribbons are not easily to be obtained in even the largest stores, so that it is often difficult to follow French ideas. It is in just these details that the ingenuity of the home dressmaker meets its greatest rewards.

FIRST CHURCH WESLEY GIRLS MEET THURSDAY AFTERNOON

M. E. MISSION WOMEN HEAR INTERESTING LETTER FROM MISSIONARY IN NANKING

Mission women of the First M. E. Church, South, in all day meeting at the church Monday, were especially interested in a letter just received by the secretary from Miss Janie Watkins, the society's missionary in China.

Miss Watkins, who sailed for China in the summer at the completion of her college work in Columbia university, is now in Ginling College for Girls in Nanking, and her letter was an exceptionally interesting word picture of the trip over, her first impressions of the Orient, and her work in the school. She spoke of notable Americans on board the same steamer, who were on their way to investigate conditions in China for various American commissions and relief organizations. Among these were John D. Rockefeller Jr. and Mrs. Rockefeller. John D. gave a million dollars in one sum this past year to the famine sufferers in Europe and has given large sums to the sufferers in China.

Miss Watkins' communication also contained a set of beautifully hand-painted cards, on each of which was a personal message addressed to various ones among the Mission women here who made up a box of gifts for her before her sailing date. She spoke with great interest of her work in the girls' school.

Chicken Pie Dinner The society enjoyed a short social session Monday morning, and were served a sumptuous chicken pie dinner by the members of Circle One, on a table beautifully decorated with fall flowers. There were poinsettias, dahlias, periwinkles, solias, roses, lilies and other old and new fashioned blossoms and the table formed a most attractive picture in its pretty dress.

After luncheon, the business session was called at 2 o'clock, with the new president, Mrs. D. B. Withers, in the chair. Mrs. W. W. Cook led the devotional service and reports were made by officers and circle members. Mrs. Montgomery read the letter from Miss Watkins. Mrs. Grover Bullington, the new credit-roll superintendent, gave the report from that department, mentioning her assistants, Mrs. Jim Hankins and Mrs. Jason Walker. Mrs. F. M. Black, recently returned from the School of Missions at Dallas, gave a good report of that meeting and circle reports of work were made. A total of 259 visits to the sick and strangers were reported, and at roll call Circle 1 had 15 members present, Circle 2, 15, and Circle 3, 15.

A Flower Grew By MARGARET SANGSTER A flower grew in the rocky soil, And it bore on a tiny, stunted stalk, A blossom of purest gold, And some folks wondered how it had come to bloom in that barren place, And some folks paused in their journeyings To gaze on its golden face.

The flower clung to the hardened heart, And raised its face to the sky, Giving a message of hope and cheer To many a passer-by, And the heart seemed gayer, because of it, And warmer, and softer, too— And after a while, folks spoke of it, As the heart where a flower grew.

They were large and red and itched, and at times would burn and sting and be very sore. My face was disfigured and I lost rest at night because of the irritation. CUPID INVADERS DIANA CLUB

By N. E. A. Service

SHAOSON, S. C., Oct. 4.—The Diana club of Sharon is just an ordinary crowd of girls—except that they prefer outdoor amusement to sewing circles and teas.

This little exception was meat for a story yesterday morning, from 10 to 11 o'clock. The club members, under the leadership of Miss Susie Hartness, president of the club, were out for a walk.

Miss Hartness brought much mail to the club from young men in all parts of the country, who were interested in a girl who could understand an affection for a shotgun or a fishing rod.

But—Grist himself beat them all out. Now Cupid has marked "Susie Hartness" off the possibility side of his accounts and will soon write, under the "happily married" heading—Mrs. James D. Grist.

GETTING OFF THE EARTH.

"I have looked at the stars too long—too long," one of the modern poets wailed in an outburst printed in one of the leading American magazines about two years ago.

The poem caught at the heartstrings of a portion of the poetry-loving American public because of its music and its universal appeal. All of us long for the things of earth with particular desperation at times.

But a few weeks later an obscure little poet in another part of the country sang a different kind of song, with its first line, "I have looked at the earth too long—too long," and somebody else got the two together and published them in a set.

To make a long story short, the second poet showed the first poet up. Because, right down in the bottom of every human heart that ever was created, the Creator set a star in the beginning of things. And that star reaches for the other stars—off earth. There is no more poignant sweetness, nor mobility of thought, nor more certain revelation of the soul's immortality, than that which comes to the open mind when the eyes search the still, starry firmament.

"Stars, nothing," you might scoff. "When you have a wife and six orphans to take care of, you get your mind off stars mighty quick!" We all do. We get our minds on earth, and on wives and orphans and business and troubles and sickness and war and blood and the price of oil. But not all of the vaunted materialism of business, nor all of the cocksure disregard of the scoffer, can do away with the steady persistency with which the stars in the firmament call to the stars in the souls of men.

If you don't believe it, "get out under the open sky" and pick out a particular star and watch it for half an hour. If it doesn't get you off the earth for at least an strange, transcending moment—if the star inside you doesn't tug at its moorings sometime between the first and the thirtieth minute—then you haven't got any insides.

Making a Flank Steak Tender and Delicious

By MISTER MARY One of the cheapest cuts of beef is the flank steak. If this steak is cooked carefully the tough fibers of the meat are softened and made palatable. There is no waste by bone or gristle and quite as much nourishment as in the most expensive cut.

Most butchers take their knife and score a flank steak before selling it to their customer, but this is easily done by the cook herself. Be careful not to cut too deeply and do not "pound" the meat.

Make a paste of one-half teaspoon mustard, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar and about three tablespoons vinegar. Spread this paste over the meat. Put the meat in a large frying pan and cover with an onion very thinly sliced. Pour one-half cup boiling water in one side of the pan very carefully. Do not let the water disturb the paste or onion. Cover closely and put in a slow oven for at least an hour and a half. When ready to serve, dot with butter and sprinkle with minced parsley.

There will be absolutely no taste of vinegar or mustard, but the meat will be very tender. The vinegar is used to soften the tough fibers rather than give flavor.

Another way to cook a flank steak is to spread it with the same vinegar paste, cover it with a bread stuffing, roll it up and tie it. Then bake it in a slow oven for the same length of time.

FIRE THREATENS THE BIG GRAIN DISTRICT OF CITY OF CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Fire which broke out in the Calumet grain elevator on the Calumet river, South Chicago, shortly after noon, spread so rapidly that two dozen employes barely escaped with their lives. A general alarm was sounded and 27 engines and nine ladder wagons responded. The fire started in a loading chute of elevator A, presumably from a grain dust explosion. The elevators contained thousands of bushels of wheat, corn and oats. Firemen confined their efforts early to checking the spread of the flames to nearby elevators. The scene of the fire is in the heart of the biggest grain storage district in the world. The firemen brought the flames under control and succeeded in confining the blaze to one elevator. Officials of the company said the loss would be large.

NO AGREEMENT CAN BE MADE NOW TO REQUIRE MINERS TO ARBITRATE

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 4.—No agreement can now be made binding the United Mine Workers of America to arbitrate any disputes that may arise next spring in the wage negotiations with operators, President John Lewis today told the union convention in session here. Such an answer, he said, had been given to government officials, who, in connection with the unemployment conference at Washington, are seeking to avert a nation-wide coal strike. Mr. Lewis' statement was regarded as indicating that the arbitration proposal would be considered at the February convention when the wage demands are drawn.

ATTORNEY AND A FARMER CHARGED WITH BARRATRY

BROWNSVILLE, TEXAS, Oct. 4.—Indictments against James R. Page, an attorney of Mission, Texas, and Nathaniel J. Gordon, a farmer, charging barratry were returned today by the grand jury at Edinburg, Hidalgo county. The indictments contain eight counts in each case and are an outgrowth of alleged recent activities in which Gordon and Page are declared to have "incited" land owners to institute litigation against certain land sales companies in the lower Rio Grande valley. Disbarment proceedings also were filed against Page, who is reported to be at his former home in Kansas City, Mo.

TULSA OIL MAN IS ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF FRAUDULENT DEAL

TULSA, OKLA., Oct. 4.—Charles E. Starr, president of the Starr-Kane oil company of Tulsa and formerly a resident of Philadelphia, was arrested here today on a fugitive warrant from Philadelphia, charging him with obtaining $25,000 fraudulently in an oil stock deal. Starr was arraigned and released on $5,000 bond. His attorneys declared the arrest was the result of a "frame-up" by certain Philadelphians to force him to complete a transaction, their part of which they failed to uphold.

SMITHVILLE CITY COUNCIL GOES ONE STEP FURTHER

SMITHVILLE, TEXAS, Oct. 4.—The city council of Smithville has gone further than merely forbidding parades on the city streets by masked men. By ordinance the council has affixed a penalty against any person who refuses to assist an officer when "duly summoned" by that officer to help enforce the anti-parade law. Rumors have been circulated that Ku Klux Klan will attempt to stage a parade in Smithville but no attempt has yet been made. The local officers have their instructions to break up the parade if it is attempted.

MISSOURI SENATOR DENOUNCES ACTION OF BUDGET BUREAU

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The action of the budget bureau in cutting down congressional appropriations for the federal department as a part of the plan to reduce taxes was denounced in the senate today by Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, as an "impudent assertion of the right to set aside the action of the legislative body. "I denounce his action as illegal," declared Senator Reed. "I denounce it as a defiance of the power of congress. I assert that if allowed to proceed congress has forfeited the greatest right of a legislative body, namely, the right to say how much shall be spent and when and where it shall be spent. "If carried to its logical conclusion, the army could be dismissed, the navy junked and the operations of the government ended. For such action impeachments should be had." Senator Reed made his attack on the budget bureau in the course of a prepared address criticizing the tax revision bill.

CALOMEL MAY TURN ON YOU NEXT TIME

Next Does You Take May Sallivate and Start World of Trouble.
Calomel is mercury, quicksilver. It rushes into your veins like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system. If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money. Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tonic straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not sallivate. adv.

TRAFFIC ARRESTS DWINDLE TUESDAY, OBSERVE NEW RULES

The vigorous offensive launched by the city police department against traffic violators of the city has had its effect, officials believe, for Tuesday's police blotter took on a normal appearance again and the number of arrests on charges of driving incorrectly dwindled to a mere handful. "I want to thank the people for the way they have co-operated with us in working for a betterment of conditions here," said Police Commissioner J. B. Pitts Tuesday morning, "and I want then to know that we appreciate the way in which they have been helping us." Less than half a dozen arrests were made between midnight Monday and 3:00 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and this, according to the police, is indication of the care drivers are now using. "If they step over the line we'll get 'em," one official said, "but they haven't stepped today."

LESS DRUNKENNESS AND FEWER MURDERS IN 1920 IN THE CITY OF CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—There was less drunkenness, fewer murders and fewer arrests in Chicago in 1920 than in the previous year, according to the annual report of the police department made public today. There were more automobile thefts, more persons missing, more auto accidents and larger fines, the report showed. Murder cases last year number 116, as compared to 124 the year previous.

GOOD RESULTS FROM NOTE EXCHANGES.

The British government and the Irish republicans may not have accomplished much by their note writing but neither side appears to have lost anything and an opportunity has been given for a calmer study of the situation both in England and in Ireland and this has served to clarify and define the position of each party.

The advantages of note exchanges over an open break are discussed by the Houston Chronicle.

"When the delegates get together," says the Chronicle, "they will require no waste of time finding out where each group stands."

"Some people are still pleased to regard all the note writing as superfluous, and all the preliminary maneuvering as futile."

"The Chronicle does not. The Chronicle wishes that more disputes were developed and made clear in a similar way."

"This idea of going at questions impulsively and with never-say-die prejudices has cost the world more trouble than anything we can think of."

"On a dozen occasions during the past few months, either Mr. Lloyd George or Eamonn De Valera could have precipitated war."

"It is to the everlasting credit of both men that they have maintained an attitude of calmness."

"Each has stated his position with dignified firmness, but without offense."

"Each has undoubtedly felt a deal of pressure from extreme partisans."

"There are people in England, and there are people in Ireland, who would prefer war."

"Such people are to be found in any and all countries, at any and all times, when irritating issues arise."

"They have had their way too frequently for the good of the world."

"They form a natural background for the demagogue and agitator and they compose an element which makes it very hard for real, far-sighted statesmanship."

"If the real truth of the present Anglo-Irish situation ever comes out, it will probably be discovered that both Mr. Lloyd George and Eamonn De Valera have experienced their greatest difficulties each in his own camp."

"It will probably be discovered that each has had to deal with an extreme, uncompromising faction which preferred conflict to agreement, not because of the particular issue, but on general principles."

"The big point about the note writing and negotiations is that they have helped to overcome the influence of such a faction on both sides, have given time for more conservative people to make their opinions felt, and have served to clear the atmosphere of a lot of hot temper."

"The note writing and negotiations may serve no purpose in the deliberations of the forthcoming conference, but they have contributed materially to pave the way for it."

THE REGRETTABLE AFFAIR AT LORENA.

The McLennan county grand jury, to which will be referred the fight at Lorena in which several persons, including Sheriff Buchanan, were seriously wounded and half a dozen others injured when the sheriff attempted to stop a parade of the Ku Klux Klan, can be expected to get at all the facts of the fight but it is already apparent that the sympathies of the people of Lorena are with the Klan rather than with the sheriff. The fact that the prosecuting attorney in McLennan county has been petitioned by many citizens of Lorena to file charges against the sheriff indicates this.

The crowd that gathered at Lorena to witness the parade and which cheered the klansmen on in their defiance of the sheriff's orders is responsible in no small measure for the clash. The klansmen had announced their intention to parade. The sheriff had issued orders that the parade could not be held. The crowd was gathered to witness the parade. If the parade was not held, if the klansmen obeyed the orders of constituted authority, they doubtless felt that they would lose prestige with the crowd gathered to witness the parade. Their standing as a power in the community, they felt, would be compromised. On the other hand the sheriff doubtless felt that the dignity of the law and his own reputation as an officer was at stake.

With these attitudes on both sides and with the crowd hungry for excitement and in sympathy with the klansmen it is difficult to see how the clash could have been avoided. The results, under these circumstances, might easily have been much worse than they were.

The sheriff might have acted with greater discretion, although it is not clear just how he could have done so. But on the other hand the questionable reputation of the Ku Klux Klan has not been enhanced by Saturday night's regrettable clash.

THE INVESTIGATION AT GATEVILLE.

The state board of control has gone to Gateville to begin a thorough investigation of the death of Dell James, an inmate of the state training school for juveniles, who died after he had been disciplined by an official of the school. There is every reason to believe that the investigation will be as thorough as it is prompt and that all the facts in connection with the death of the youth will be brought out. The people of the state will be satisfied with nothing less, and if it is found that any official has caused the death of a boy through criminal methods he must be prosecuted.

Above all the people want to know whether brutal methods are employed against the wards of the state and if it is found that such methods are employed they must be stopped. It is recognized that discipline must be maintained in the school and that it is probably necessary often to resort to corporal punishment to maintain this discipline but this punishment must stop far short of anything that is likely to cause the death or serious injury of any inmate of the school.

Harding's numerous trips are a matter of habit; as a newspaper publisher he believes in a wide circulation.

OFF TO THE MOON.

All aboard for the moon! Prof. Robert H. Goddard of Clark University announces that a rich man has furnished "the necessary" and that the Goddard Rocket, sensation among scientists, will be fired from the earth to the moon next spring.

Who will travel inside the rocket? "I have 20 applicants," says Goddard. "All of them are adventurers, rather than scientists." Naturally!

Jules Verne, in 1870, published "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea." It was considered the wild dream of a visionary. In reality, it was an accurate prophecy of the modern submarine.

In 1865, Verne published "A Trip to the Moon." Will it, also, prove to be an accurate prophecy? The Goddard Rocket will tell.

In Verne's book, the men who were rushing on through space in a shell, bound moonward, passed out of the earth's sphere of gravitation. They dropped a dog out. The dog didn't fall. It began revolving in space, around the shell, a satellite, just as the moon revolves around the earth.

That raises this important scientific question: Will the Goddard Rocket reach the point where the earth's gravitational field meets that of the moon, and pause there, suspended in space?

That would be annoying to the man inside the rocket. Man unquestionably will send huge rockets to the moon. If Goddard fails, other scientists will carry the work on to perfection.

Unquestionably, too, dare-devils will travel inside the rockets. There's always some one that will try anything. What of the mentality of such a ventureser? Crazy? Why so? The rocket passenger in 30 seconds would live more than you and I live in 30 years. Then, too, he would be a martyr to a noble cause.

We of today live on the threshold of an age of scientific magic. What lies beyond can be imagined only by men like Goddard, with his moon rocket, or Marconi with his message from Mars.

Having conquered the earth, man will fly out among the stars and conquer space. Berlin, London, Tokio, Washington, Wall Street and Paris will cease to be the big sources of news. Headlines will feature dispatches from the Sun, Jupiter, Moon, Mars or "Somewhere in the Milky Way."

Sadi Lecointe, Frenchman, has just traveled nearly three and a half miles a minute in an airplane. At that rate, as soon as science learns how to counteract gravity, we could fly to the moon in 40 days. Electricity, sent by wireless, will be the motive power.

Pity you cannot live another 100 years, to see the scientific marvels of the future.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FACE AND FIGHT THEM ALL.

The world is all the time vexed with problems. It has to face each one, sooner or later—and fight each one out. And that is the same with us all.

We are puzzled with an increasing number of choices. We may choose to be mediocre—or we may determine to rise above the average, to stalk above the crowd—to be great!

It takes much more time, infinitely more pains and patience, days and nights of discouragement and maybe suffering—and Oh, so much waiting and waiting—waiting—to be great, though. The easy way, however, is the temporary way—full of disappointment that breeds disappointment.

You must think the thing you want to be—the man or woman you want to become. Then face every problem and fight the good fight to a finish.

I have a little motto pasted on my typewriter. Here it is: "Make no small plans—they have no magic to stir the imagination."

If you have imagination, if you can see yourself stronger and more courageous with the oncoming of every new day, you will be adding equipment to your character which will serve it faithfully when dire emergencies come unawares.

Then will you be able to face your tasks without crumbling in heart, and fight them out to a grand result. But try not to lean in your climbing—lift!

And do your best to lift someone else besides yourself—for "he climbs highest who helps another up."

Be a real artist. But did you ever hear of anyone who ever distinguished himself as a real artist who didn't first distinguish himself as a fighter who faced every fight—big or little—and who won more than he ever lost?

It is easy for any intelligent person to believe in one who believes in himself—and demonstrates the fact!

THE THINKER.

There's a fortune in store for the man who can think And glory to crown his endeavor; He can come to renown, who will often sit down Away from the wise men and clever; And with reason to guide him will map out a plan That is best for his country and best for the man.

The thoughtless are many, they swarm in a throng But the Thinkers are solemnly few, But the man at the top, is the man who will stop To ponder the course he'll pursue; And he never attacks any problem of doubt Before he has carefully thought it all out.

Our country will honor the man who can think For the need of his wisdom is great; The man unafraid and not easily swayed Is the man who shall fashion our fate, For plausible Folly the mob often moves, But the Thinker considers before he approves.

These are days for the Thinker, there's much to be done And many the dangers to face, And what seems to be good when it's all understood May be ruin and shame and disgrace. Whenever arises a problem of doubt For the good of our country let's reason it out.

SMILE a WHILE

It all comes out in the wash. War never pays; but it collects. Business falls before the charge of the railroads.

YOU AND I

Needn't Worry About the Germans' Finances as Long as They Work Like Beavers.

Germany has had a national eight-hour-day law since 1918. It was intended to protect toilers from Simon Legree employers, and was so drawn. But now the cart is before the horse.

The Wirth cabinet finds it necessary, for purposes of national health, to ask the reichstag to pass a new eight-hour law, directed against the employe, restraining him from working more than eight hours.

It seems the ambitious German workman is so keen about providing for a rainy day that he works on one job eight hours, then hustles to another job for four to eight hours more.

That, in a nutshell, is the German situation. Germany's financial system may go to smash and turn the economist's hair white. But a people who have to be restrained by law from working too much are certain to pull their country out of the hole fast. Work is what makes any nation. Money is just the reflection in the mirror.

Sadi Lecointe, French airman, steps into an airplane and flies nearly three and a half miles a minute.

That makes a new world's record, but it doesn't excite much attention, because it soon will be a common thing. In another ten years three and a half miles an hour will be slow flying.

Man, when his artificial wings are fully developed, will travel like a rifle bullet.

Yeggmen. Yeggmen in the last 12 months burglarized the American Bankers Association. Total loot was only $229,087.98, an average haul for each "job" of .096. Usually it has to be divided among a gang.

It's a queer sort of warped brain that will risk death or liberty in a venture that nets only .996.

And of every 166 successful bank burglaries, 74 fail entirely. Does crime pay? Not even in dollars and cents.

HOUSEKEEPERS. In New York public schools, girls are being taught to keep house in small, cramped flats. Too bad, but that is necessary for the increasing tendency is for people to congest more thickly in cities.

It will be a red letter day when the tide turns to the farms and city schools begin to teach girls how to keep house in the open country with its fresh air, good health, pure-milk for babies, independent life, glorious nature and the good life grounds for the kiddies. Living in a city is a mild form of insanity.

BATHS. Man invented the pottery bath tub so he could bathe without chopping a hole in the river ice. Then came a wooden tub, next a tin one, then the more sanitary porcelain lined tub.

But the bath tub, every time you bathe, merely dissolves 108,000,000 body germs, invigorates them, sends them back into the pores, hence it must give way to the shower bath, say scientists at Northwestern University.

This ought to interest all except house boat dwellers of the Mississippi. That's an allegorical question, to set you thinking on what job you'd most like to hold in the business world.

Our guess is that the average son would pass up the chance of being the face of the manning of a watch, and select the job of being the pretty girl's picture in the back of the case. After all, the whole watch runs only for her. So does the owner.

DISABLED. About 150,000 Americans, now living, were completely disabled by industrial accidents. Fifteen thousand of them

MAJOR CULBERSON ARRIVES HERE TO ASSUME HIS DUTIES

NATIONAL GUARD INSPECTOR COMES ON FOUR-YEAR DETAIL.

HAS HEADQUARTERS HERE AT HIS PERSONAL REQUEST

Guard Units of Northwest Texas and Panhandle to Be Under His Jurisdiction.

Major W. L. Culberson, inspector for the 142nd Infantry, who is to have his headquarters here for four years, arrived in Wichita Falls late Monday, making the trip from San Antonio by automobile. Major Culberson was house-hunting Tuesday, and hoped to get definitely located within a short time. He will have offices in the Morgan building.

The 142 Infantry covers the territory north of the T. & P. and west of the M. & T., and this will be in Major Culberson's jurisdiction during the four years of his detail. For the present he will also have a considerable section of East Texas territory to cover in addition, but will be relieved of this, he expects, in the near future.

Wichita Falls becomes the major's headquarters at his own request. Fort Worth was originally chosen as headquarters, but when Major Culberson expressed a personal preference for Wichita Falls, this city was chosen. He has a host of friends here, both among "his old boys" who were with the 26th division, and among the citizenship generally. He has the reputation of being one of the most "human" regular army officers on the army list, and the readiness with which he has made friends here is an indication of this.

With Major Culberson are Mrs. Culberson and their two children. They are stopping for the present at the Kemp.

He was for some time engaged in the oil well supply business in Vernon, and is well known here.

WESTON AT 82 WILL TRY TO WALK FIVE HUNDRED MILES IN SIX DAYS; ADVISES WALKERS TO CARRY CANE

EDWARD PAYSON WESTON

By NEA Service
NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 2.—Edward Payson Weston, although in his 82d year, firmly believes he can duplicate his record-breaking feat of 1874. In this city when he astonished the world by walking 500 miles in a little less than six days.

He is here again today and expects to try the feat in November.

Can he do it? Well, he's spry and active as though he was below the half-century mark, and shows no signs, either in appearance or actions, of being an octogenarian. He still walks erect, with the same stalwart stride that has made him famous the last 50 years.

Does he look his age? No, despite his white hair and long white mustache. Weston doesn't smoke or drink liquor, eats three meals a day, and makes temperance in everything his slogan.

His Principal Meal
Breakfast is the walker's principal meal. It usually consists of rolled oats, eggs, bread and butter and two cups of coffee.

He doesn't believe in medicine of any kind. Salt and water mixed is his favorite remedy for throat and other ordinary ills. He boasts of having had no serious illness since 1870, and ascribes his good health to the exercise of walking and to leading a simple, but vigorous life. Just now he is doing some lecturing about New York. He wants to collect enough money to finish payment of a $10,000 debt contracted on his last cross-country hike, declaring he wishes to face his Maker with a clean slate.

Weston says all walkers should carry a cane, staff or swagger stick, for it helps to keep one's mind off the strain, and keeps swelling out of the hands, so frequently encountered when the hands are allowed to swing at the sides for long periods.

At present he carries a cane given to him by the Duke of Richmond. This he has carried 68,000 miles out of the 8,000 miles he has walked in his life.

His Greatest Feat
He regards as his greatest feat his 500-mile walk against time in old Industrial hall in Newark in 1874. This he completed in 22 minutes short of six days.

Thousands of dollars were wagered for and against him, the majority saying he couldn't do it. Feeling became so intense near the finish that Weston's life was threatened as he walked. The chief of police with drawn revolver took a place by his side, surrounded the walker by a cordon of detectives, and thus Weston finished the last five miles amid much excitement.

CIRCUS DAY BEHAVIOR IS EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD, POLICE RECORDS INDICATE

A record which police declare should stand for some time was set Monday when the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus left town without a single theft being reported or an arrest made. Usually, according to Chief Morgan, circus day attracts an element of visitors who make efforts to depart with a few automobiles and any other valuables which may be lying around, but Monday was a welcome exception.

Not a machine was reported stolen and not even a circus drunk was picked up. A number of negro laborers with the big show were arrested by county officials for shooting craps but this was the extent of the law breaking.

Thorough policing of the circus grounds by both city and county officers was credited by Chief Morgan with having kept down crime. The parade Monday morning resulted in a half dozen babies getting lost from their mothers, reports to the police indicated, but after the crowd had thinned out the youngsters were found and returned to parental custody.

RUNAWAY ORPHANS ARE ARRESTED HERE, BROTHER IS SOUGHT

Preston Roscoe and Edward Williams, two boys in their early teens, were picked up by the police Tuesday morning as they alighted from a train at the union station. Both admitted that they had run away from the state orphan's home at Texarkana.

According to Roscoe's statements he had been an inmate of the orphanage for the last nine years, while his companion had been there a little over three years. Young Roscoe told Chief of Police Morgan that he had a brother, Harvey Roscoe, living in Wichita Falls at the present time and that he had come to find him.

Efforts of the chief to locate the older man had met with no success late Tuesday morning but the search was to be continued by the police and by the local Welfare council. If homes can be found for the boys here they will not be returned to Corsicana, Morgan declared.

Mrs. C. E. Cusley, head of the Welfare council, now has the youngsters in charge.

NUXATED IRON A DRIVING FORCE BEHIND KEEN SUCCESSFUL MEN AND WOMEN

When you think of the successful men and women you know—people who are doing things worth while—you will find that they possess force, vim and energy—the kind that simply brim over when the blood is filled with iron. Nuxated Iron by enriching the blood and creating new red blood cells, strengthens the nerves, rebuilds the weakened tissues and helps to instill renewed force and energy into the whole system. Four million people use it annually as a tonic, strength and blood-builder.

MAKE THIS TEST

See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired; next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Numbers of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while have most astonishingly increased their strength and endurance simply by taking iron in the proper form.

TO RESUME WEEKLY BUSINESS COUNCIL LUNCHEONS FRIDAY

DIRECTORS REQUEST MEETINGS BE HELD AGAIN—SESSION TUESDAY.

WELCOME IS EXTENDED TO MAJOR CULBERSON

Is Elected Honorary Member—Directors Hear of Plan For Drilling Test at Call Field.

Revival of the weekly luncheons of the business council of the Chamber of Commerce was requested by the chamber directors at a meeting Tuesday morning.

The luncheons, which were discontinued during the summer, will be resumed Friday, Chairman J. C. Mytinger announced.

The directors adopted a resolution calling on all members to pay their dues, there being a considerable amount delinquent at present.

Cyrus Edwards, who is interested in the plan to sink a wild-cat test at Call Field, explained the proposition to the directors, saying that as a result of donations of material and giving of interests in the well for labor, only $2,800 cash would be required, and about $1,200 of this had been promised.

The directors held that the matter was one worthy of encouragement by those financially able to do so, declaring themselves as approving any effort to develop unskilled acreage in this vicinity. Mr. Edwards is asking for donations to complete the fund.

Maj. W. L. Culbertson, national guard inspector, who has just arrived here, was introduced to the directors by D. M. Perkins and in a brief and happy speech expressed his pleasure at being associated again with "the best regiment that ever went overseas," and being stationed in a community where he had many friends.

Major Culbertson spoke of the possibility of Wichita Falls being headquarters, at some future time, of some air service units in the new military regime. Upon motion of Mr. Kell, the directors extended Major Culbertson a vote of thanks for choosing this city as his headquarters, and pledged full co-operation in his work.

J. M. McFall moved that Major Culbertson be elected to honorary membership in the Chamber of Commerce, and this motion prevailed. Major Culbertson declared that he was already a full-fledged citizen and that he expected to do his part as one.

"I want you to put me to work," he said.

President Noble was authorized to appoint a committee of seven to make nominations for five directors to be elected in January, when the terms of W. D. Cline, C. W. Reid, W. W. Anderson, G. C. Wood and W. S. Currie expire.

The eight ministers whose names were announced were:

To Czechoslovakia, Lewis E. Einstein, of New York; to Bulgaria, Charles S. Wilson, of Maine; to Finland, Charles L. Kagey, of Kansas; and to Siam, Edward E. Brodie, of Oregon.

At the same time the White House announced the selection of J. Morton Howell, of Boston, as special diplomatic agent and consul general at Cairo, Egypt.

BELIEVE THAT BOY SCOUT CAME TO HIS DEATH FROM ACCIDENT WHILE AT PLAY

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Samuel Buffington, 14 year old boy scout, who was found hanging in his closet Sunday afternoon with his hands tied, palms outward behind his back, came to his death through an accident while at play, according to an opinion expressed today by Ben Newmark, chief investigator of the state's attorney's office.

Newmark announced his theory following an all night grilling of the lady's mother and stepfather and his 10-year-old brother, Hugh. Hugh was joint heir with Samuel to a $60,000 estate. The brother's death at length his "opinion" of how Samuel might have died. "Some one might have tied his hands," Hugh said, and "might have" fixed the rope around his neck and Samuel "might have" stood upon a stool and then accidentally kicked it out from under him.

No stool was found in the closet. Newmark said he overheard a woman friend of the family tell the boy's mother last night that she "couldn't understand how he happened to think to take the stool away."

Hugh was still held at a hotel today, but his parents were released to attend Samuel's funeral.

A social session will be held in connection with the business meeting.

PLEDGE OF SUPPORT FOR LEGION GIVEN BY UNIVERSITY CLUB

The local post of the American Legion is making a strenuous effort to be of some value to the community of Wichita Falls and it is our purpose to join hands with all civic organizations for the betterment of the city, declared Luther Hoffman, commander of the Pat Carrigan post of the American Legion, at the regular weekly luncheon and meeting of the University club in the Kemp hotel Tuesday noon.

To carry out this end Mr. Hoffman urged the whole-hearted co-operation of the members of the University club, saying in part:

"Most citizens of this country realize by this time that the main purpose of the American Legion is the cultivation and preservation of a love for our country and though different posts may disagree on various matters this thought is uppermost in the minds of all."

"Our post does not agree with others in certain undertakings, but there are many local affairs in which we could be of great benefit to the community. For example, when there were only a handful of active members here, jobs were obtained for about 3,000 ex-soldiers—an undertaking which was no small task. Furthermore, about 200 ex-soldiers who needed medical attention received it free of charge. The legion here wants to continue to do that work through a well organized employment bureau and such a bureau is going to be needed badly here. Every day I have from two to six applicants for work and it is a serious proposition."

"Again, there are many residents of Wichita Falls, and there are some in the legion, who are bordering on anarchy and are only a few steps away from bolshevism. This class is hard to deal with and unless they are well taken care of they are very apt to become a menace to the community. The only method that I know of to oppose this is to bring the entire membership together frequently and to have frequent meetings between members of the legion and other clubs. If we are to have these meetings we must have an attractive common meeting place where a sort of open forum could be held monthly. Members are working on that at present and it will soon become a reality."

"We are not asking money from any club. All we want is their hearty co-operation and the assurance that they are with us in our undertakings. The recently organized women's auxiliary is a good example of what can be done by those who are not actually members of the post. Their enthusiasm for the ex-soldiers is unbounded and they have been a wonderful help to us. We want the clubs to talk 'American Legion' and the things for which it stands and if this is done I am positive that all will be benefited."

In closing Mr. Hoffman asked that a committee be appointed from the University club to act with the legion and President Bailey named the following to serve: Chairman, Judge Guy Rogers, Norris Ewing and Dr. J. T. Strong.

Marriage Bliss Lingers Around But Short While

Maud Wilson in her suit for divorce against J. P. Wilson, just filed alleges that the bliss of married life lingered about only a short while. She states that they were married on May 14 of this year and separated on June 1, a total of 16 days.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendant represented to her that he was an honest, hard-working young man and that his name was J. P. Wilson, when his real name is M. E. Lewis, she contends. She also alleges that her 16-day husband did not work and that he has since their marriage been convicted of the offense of theft and indicted for forgery.

DEEP TEST PLANNED IN TILLMAN COUNTY, WILL GO 4,000 FEET

Although many dry holes have been drilled in Tillman county, Oklahoma, most of them have been completed at depths less than 2,000 feet and so far as can be learned no hole more than 2,000 feet deep has ever been sunk in that county.

Negotiations are now in progress by Tillman county citizens with one of the large oil companies of Oklahoma, whereby four test wells of a depth of 4,000 feet or greater may be drilled. The Frederick leader Tuesday contains the following story concerning these negotiations:

The Panhandle Refining company is making preparations to resume drilling on its deep test on the Burnett ranch in Hall county. The well has been shut down for the past six weeks, after encountering a good gas sand around 2,800 feet.

RESUME OPERATIONS ON TWO PANHANDLE DEEP TESTS SOON

Arrangements have been made to drill down to the oil sand found in the Gulf Production company's well around 3,400 feet, which well has the distinction of being the only producer in that part of the state.

The Bridwell-Heidrick oil company's No. 5 test on the Waggoner ranch, in the South Electra field, which encountered an entirely new sand for this district around 1,900 feet, as was reported in The Times of Sept. 29, has shown up to better advantage since the earlier report.

Word has been received from the office of the company that the well will be cleaned out and start to bail Tuesday evening.

Making Extraordinary Mileage a Certainty

Car Owners want more rubber on the tread where the wear is hardest; more gum between cord plies to perfect a resilient and powerful carcass. And they want a scientifically constructed Non Skid tread with all angles and contacts to resist skidding and give sure traction. Firestone Cord Tires have met these demands of the car owners.

Read Letters Below—

Records from 29,000 to 57,000 Miles

Cord Tires built the Firestone way could not fail to produce mileage. Every day, from all over the country, comes the word that 10,000, 20,000 or 30,000 miles are frequent and consistent records.

Now and then they are emphasized by unusual instances such as quoted below. Performances like these demonstrate the ultimate possibilities of Firestone Cords under careful driving.

Sept. 10, 1921
The Harvey E. Mack Co., Threesouth & Harmon Place, Minneapolis.
Gentlemen—
It occurs to me that you might be interested in the mileage that I obtained from the set of Firestone Cord tires on my Dodge coupe. The first tire went over 4,000 miles. The second tire rolled up a mileage of between 34,000 and 35,000. These were both rear tires and had been cut considerably by chains. The two front tires have gone better than 31,000 miles and are still in good condition. I expect to get at least 40,000 miles from each of them. I need scarcely say that the Firestone Cord will be my choice for the future.
Archie H. Beard, 523 1/2 St. N., Minneapolis.

Sept. 2, 1921
I submit herewith the history of a 324 Firestone Cord tire. This tire has run 57,000 miles to each retreading. The average mileage was about 7,000. I think you will agree this is a remarkable record. It is especially unusual as I know the owner to be a severe driver. However, he gives his tires proper inflation. In question is not yet out of service and has every indication of being sufficiently strong for another retread. I am mailing photographs under separate cover.

Will Ruth Do All That Is Expected of Him in Big New York Classic?

By HILLY EVANS
World's Greatest Baseball Authority

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—What is the value of a home run hitter in a world series? Will Babe Ruth play as big a role in the coming clash between the Yankees and Giants as is generally expected?

What part have home runs played in deciding the outcome of world series games. Has any world series been won through the medium of some player's ability to hit home runs?

Would the chances of the New York American club be seriously handicapped if Ruth should suffer an injury that would keep him out of the world series? How much does the league value the presence of Ruth in the lineup mean to the Yankees? When he is in a batting slump, does his failure to hit have any bearing on the rest of the team?

These and a score of other questions have been fired at me when it was apparent that the New York Yankees and the great Babe Ruth would be the American league representative in the world series. The ordinary series offers enough topics for conversation, but when the outstanding figure in baseball, Babe Ruth, is listed among the performers, it makes the annual clash all the more interesting.

Will Draw Many Intentional Passes. Ordinarily, home runs have not played an extremely important role in many of the world series. It is apparent that the value of a slugger would be more evident over a campaign of 154 games than in a short series of nine contests. It is also a matter of record that in a short series, pitchers work far more carefully than a batter noted for his ability to hit home runs than they do during the ordinary game. It is always customary to pass the home run hitter rather than pitch to him and take a chance on his breaking up the ball game.

It is a certainty that Babe Ruth will draw many intentional base on balls during the coming series if he happens to bat with a couple of men on and a pitcher in the lead.

There is a chance that Ruth may not do the many great things the public expects of him. In a pinch, the pitcher elect to work on him there is sure to be nothing at stake. At such times Ruth is going to be pitched very hard and he is liable to strike out. So that Ruth is liable to whiff more often than he makes home runs.

Home Runs Have Decided World Series. Ordinarily, home runs do not play a determining part in a world series. The 1911 and 1915 and 1920 events were exceptions in this particular. In 1911, Frank Baker secured his title of "Home Run" Baker by hitting Mathewson and Marquard for home runs. Those two drives beat the Giants. In 1915 three home runs decided the final game of the series and gave the championship to the Boston Americans. Duffy Lewis contributed one of the three Hooper hits in the other two. The score was 5 to 4. In 1920 Elmer Smith's hit with the bases filled against Grimes, the star pitcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was the turning point in the game and series.

Home runs therefore have figured in every series in which the games have been pitched in a pinch with a short right or left-field fence. That is the case in New York, Cleveland and at both Philadelphia parks. Since all the games of the world series are played at the Polo grounds, which has a short right and left-field boundary, I look for the home run to be in evidence, and that does not necessarily mean that Ruth will do the swatting. There are any number of players on both the Yankees and the lants capable of turning the trick.

However, there is no denying that the New York Americans would feel greatly the loss of Ruth. If an injury prevented his playing, Ruth is the punch of the club. When he is hitting, it seems contagious. When he is in a slump, the club plays as if depressed by the fact.

EVERS PICKS GIANTS TO WIN BASEBALL CLASSIC

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Johnny Evers, former manager of the Chicago Cubs, favors the Giants in the coming battle between the two New York clubs for baseball supremacy of the world.

"I like the Giants," declared the former infield star today. "McGraw is a great manager and has a better team than many think he has. The Giants are a smart bunch of players and fast on the bases."

"Babe" Ruth may prove a stumbling block for the National league club, however, in Evers' opinion. "McGraw's pitchers will have to watch their step when it comes to Ruth," he said. "The big fellow is apt to break up a game any time he comes to bat. Outside of Ruth, though, I think the Giants have the edge on the Yanks in batting. The series should go seven or eight games."

AMERICAN LEAGUE HAS EDGE ON NATIONALS

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—American league clubs having won the world's series, the Yankees go to bat against the Giants on Wednesday with the opportunity of making it an even dozen victories, or two to one, for the Junior organization.

Since the classic was first played in 1902, National league clubs have won but six times, and the Giants are anxious to add another to their league's string.

Thousands of tons of phosphates were obtained during the war from fen lands in England, a cemetery of antediluvian mammoths covering thousands of acres.

Safety First. Jose Capablanca is taking no chances in these days when everyone is claiming everyone else's title.

When Rubinstein, the Russo-Polish chess wizard, challenged Jose to a match for the world chess title, the first thing the champ did was to submit conditions for the match to the United States Chess association for its approval. 'Twas the first time any recognized body ever has been asked to O. K. conditions.

The American Medical association ought to insist that next year the majors get the doggone pennant race over by mid-season. Then there wouldn't be this seventh hour epidemic of heart attacks.

Philadelphia doesn't see much of chance in these 154 women who are playing golf over in New Jersey?

Harry Greb is storming Tex Rickard's office for a fight with Tommy Gibbons. Harry must have insomnia. If he hasn't now, he will have.

We would fret about what goes on in New York. It's nothing at an inter-city series. Pooh! pooh.

Shucks, I knew Ruth when he had only one home run.

Don't look for a record-breaking attendance at the world series. When the American league race was hot, the Polo grounds management stood the fans up—and the park was jammed. In a series only those who have seats will get in.

Help It Along. Nick Altrock, the famous baseball laugh maker, has signed a contract with the All-Star Service league of America, to appear in film comedy roles, accompanied by his right-hand jester, Al Schacht.

The proceeds of L-use films will go into the treasury of the service league and be used to buy athletic equipment for the children in all parts of the United States. This equipment will be distributed through the schools, playground and various recreation committees.

At the recent National-American league game the service league gave away 2,000 baseballs to Cleveland children, as well as 500 bats, 250 gloves and 50 masks. It's a good move. Everyone ought to boost.

MEMPHIS LEADS SOUTHERN IN SEASON'S ATTENDANCE

MEMPHIS, TENN., Oct. 4.—Memphis, with a total of 252,338 led Southern association cities in attendance during the 1921 season and established a new league attendance record, according to figures made public today.

Atlanta with a total of 22,628 admissions last year held the previous record.

The attendance for the league as a whole was 1,105,993, a decrease of 109,348 under the total of the 1920 season.

Don't forget that the club which has won the first game out of 14 of the 16 series, has come out on top at the end. Guess that means that our Yanks will have to come through tomorrow.

THE GIANT INFIELD

Here's the inner defense upon whom John McGraw is depending to cut off Yankee base hits. Though it hardly compares with the old Cub machine which included Chance, Evers, Tinker and Steinfield or Connie Mack's $100,000 infield made up of McLinnis, Collins, Farry and Baker, it is one of the best in the big show today. Its weakest spot is at second base, the berth held down by Johnny Rawlings, and its strongest is at third, where Frank Frisch, the Fordham Flash, will catch.

WOMEN'S GOLF CROWN AT STAKE THIS WEEK

By ROY GROVE.

One hundred and sixty-two women golfers have left the dishes in the sink and are fighting it out for supremacy this week in one of the greatest tournaments of its kind in this country. It's the Links of the Hollywood Golf club of New Jersey and the battle is for the United States women's golf championship.

Practically every woman golfer star in this country and Europe is competing. Among those teeing off are Miss Cecil Leitch, the imperial golf wizard, from Great Britain, and America's king kiegale, Miss Alex Stirling of Atlanta, Ga.

The British under is here to try to annex another title to her string, having already defeated the best of her sex in England and France and recently secured the championship of Canada which until recently was held by Miss Stirling.

She's Powerful. If power alone has anything to do with the game, Miss Leitch should win by a tub full, for there is as much difference between the play of the two bag-toters as between a boxing champ and a boxing comish.

Miss Cecil has a distinctly masculine type of play. She drives with favor him. Fifty-nine in less than 154 games. Figure it out for yourself.

Danny Clark is up to his old tricks. He belted one over the right field fence for Amarillo yesterday, but his club lost to Oklahoma City 9 to 4. The series is now even, both clubs having gained two decisions.

Unofficial batting averages in the American league show that Harry Heilmann topped his boss, Ty Cobb, by .003 of a point. They were virtually tied with a mark of .37, but by carrying the figures out to difference was found.

Though the high school football team has been unable to cross the opposing goal line in the two games played to date, it at least has the satisfaction of knowing that the opposing teams have been in the same fix. Saturday's setto with the Electra eleven should be productive of a couple of touchdowns at least, though it's hard telling which team will make them. The local eleven will be drilled this week as Electra is conceded to have the

MISSES LEITCH AND STIRLING SHOULD WIN THEIR MATCHES TODAY

Three International Matches Feature First Round in Women's Golf Tourney.

DEAL, N. J., Oct. 4.—Three international matches featured today's program of first round match play in the annual tournament for the women's golf championship of the United States.

Miss Glenna Collette, youthful Providence player, was matched against Miss Edith Leitch of England, sister of the British champion.

Mrs. Latham Hays of Mid-Surrey, England, was drawn against Mrs. W. A. Gavon, champion of the New York Metropolitan district.

Miss Cecil Leitch, British champion, and Miss Alex Stirling of Atlanta, American champion, were generally conceded to have presumptively easy opponents in Mrs. H. M. Hammons, New York and Miss Harriette Sheppard of Hartford, Conn., respectively.

INDIANA WILL PLAY HARVARD SATURDAY

First Intercollegiate Game of Year When Western Team Goes East.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The first intercollegiate football game of importance in the east this season will be played at Cambridge, Mass., next Saturday, when Harvard meets the Indiana university eleven, making its Eastern debut.

The success of the intercollegiate struggle between Harvard and Centre college (Ky.) last season prompted the Crismon committee to place Indiana on its 1921 schedule. Harvard will meet the University of Georgia team Saturday, Oct. 15, and two weeks later will be pitted against Centre.

Spurred by the realization that the Hoosier team has the best chance to break into the limelight of Eastern football, Coach Ewald Stehm, is bending to the task of whipping his gridmen into shape. And so out at Bloomington, Ind., the home of the Indiana eleven, he is daily sending his charges through the hardest sort of a training program.

Stehm has been handicapped by the western conference rule prohibiting a coach from taking charge of his team until Sept. 15, and has not been able to give his men the sort of work needed to perfect a machine to give Harvard an even battle. He hopes to overcome this handicap, however, and his men are giving him the best of cooperation, according to reports from Bloomington. The Indiana coach has nearly all of last year's varsity players and the work of the new men has been good.

The Hoosier eleven threw away its chances of a tie for the western conference leadership last season by losing its first game of the season to Iowa, 14 to 7, fumbling at a critical moment. After that disaster, the Hoosiers took three Big Ten eleven into camp and held Notre Dame to a 12-10 score.

Indiana's greatest triumph against eastern football methods came two years ago when they defeated the strong Syracuse university eleven at Bloomington 12 to 6.

Harvard is training as usual and awaits the coming of the Hoosiers with confidence. Enthusiasm in the student body has reached a pitch somewhat akin to that which preceded the Harvard-Centre game last year.

Promoters are talking of running a three-foot pipe 120 miles from Havre to Paris to supply a giant swimming tank with ocean water.

What's the Easiest Job On a Ball Team? Frank Frisch Tells

FRANK FRISCH

By BOB DORMAN

Whose job is the easiest? Always the other fellow's, to hear the average human being tell it.

But Frank Frisch, star third baseman of the New York Giants, is not an average man.

Third base is generally conceded to be one of the hardest baseball positions to play. Star third basemen are rare birds.

Yet Frisch says the catcher has the hardest job on the ball club.

"There's no argument to it," he says. "He is on the receiving end of every ball pitched."

"He must be alert for a bunt dumped in front of the plate.

"If there are men on bases, he must not only watch his own end but that they do not steal on them, but must aid the pitcher and basemen in watching the runners.

"The position he is compelled to take in receiving is a tiresome one and awkward, but he must be able to go after fouls and bunts quickly.

"Catching a runner at the plate is more difficult than on the base, because the batter has to be avoided.

"Why, the catcher has to be almost a whole ball club in himself.

"And the best proof that they acquire a wider experience of the game than the other players, is that so many of them become managers after their playing days are over."

But ask the fans of Gotham who is the hardest working member of the Giants, and the answer would be almost unanimously "Frank Frisch."

Due to the custom of raising a purse for babies born at sea, the number of births aboard ships among immigrants is rapidly increasing.

What's the Matter With Us, Anyway

By J. FARKE CHANNING, Chairman, Hoover Engineer's Committee on Elimination of Industrial Waste.

There are so many factors entering into the problem of unemployment that it would be futile for one to attempt to give any one thing as the cause. All one can do is to touch on certain phases of the question.

At the present time most of the copper mines of the United States are shut down, thus throwing out of work the miners and those engaged in treating the ore in concentrators, smelters and refineries.

During the war the copper mines of the United States were run at a capacity which never before attained, and immense quantities of copper were not only used for ammunition but were piled up in preparation for the continuation of the war.

Demand Failed. After the armistice the general expectation was that Europe, particularly the central powers, being denied of copper, would immediately begin to market, and for a time the current consumption in the United States kept up with production.

This continued for the years 1919 and 1920, but the expected demand from Europe did not materialize, and in addition to that the domestic demand fell off, so that in the early part of the current year the mines were obliged to close.

This is only an example of the way in which a good part of industry is conducted. We are inclined to be optimistic and over-produce; then the reaction comes and we have to cut down.

No doubt in industry there eventually will come a better stabilization and the peaks and valleys in the lines of production will be reduced as a consequence employment will more nearly approximate a horizontal line.

System Disorganized. We must remember that during the war our whole industrial system was more or less disorganized, production was intensified in certain industries and was almost stopped in others.

The relation between the prices of different commodities was entirely upset, and even at the present time we have not gotten down to normal pre-war conditions of production.

It is the duty of capital and management to lead all of their endeavors toward getting back to normal conditions, and one thing that would help us in this, as Mr. Hoover has pointed out, is that full complete statistics as to the condition of every industry be available, if possible, monthly.

Without controverting the Sherman anti-trust act, there should be more co-operation between the various individuals and firms engaged in one industry, to the end that production may run along smoothly and not by fits and starts.

Tomorrow—William Fellows Morgan, president of the Merchants Association of New York.

LAST OF CIRCUS TRAINS DEPARTED AT 12:15 O'CLOCK

TWO CAPACITY CROWDS WITNESSED AFTERNOON AND EVENING SHOWS.

WILD ANIMAL ACT DEEMED FEATURE ACT OF CIRCUS

City Police Declare Show Troop Was Most Orderly One That Ever Showed Here.

Within an hour and 20 minutes after the wild west show was concluded, the last section of the Wallace-Hagenbeck shows departed from Wichita Falls en route to Stamford. The first section departed at midnight and the last one at 12:15. The Wichita Valley dispatcher reported that the sections arrived at 7:00 and 7:35 o'clock.

Two capacity crowds witnessed the afternoon and evening performance Monday and it was a pleased assemblage that departed from the large tent that housed the three circus rings. At each performance hundreds of people were forced to accept seats around the large ring.

Of the many acts, the wild animal act in which a trainer proved himself master over six lions was labeled the feature of the circus by practically all the spectators. One of the lions is either a ferocious beast or a wonderfully well trained animal as at each performance the trainer's life was in apparent danger, for not less than 10 minutes were spent before the beast was forced to take his place in the stage setting.

City police officers stated Tuesday morning that the personnel of the Wallace-Hagenbeck circus was the most orderly troop of its kind that had ever visited Wichita Falls. Nothing out of the ordinary occurred throughout the day and not one report was made to police headquarters of any disturbances.

The two hours and 15 minutes required to put on all the acts sped by as there never was a second's lapse of interest. While the settings were being staged between the larger acts the clowns displayed their humorous stunts. One who labelled himself Herew and not a Home-Brew drew the biggest hand of the group of comedy burlesque actors.

The acrobats, trapeze artists, horse riders, wire walkers and net walkers, although all exhibited skill and daring, they were nothing but for the thousands of hours that throbbled hard and fast when the wild animal trainer demonstrated that after all man is master over beast. Many a handkerchief and perhaps a purse here and there was unconsciously torn to pieces.

The side show attractions were entertaining and the management is to be complimented on exhibiting a class of entertainment that is above the average run. Officers who made the complete round of all the shows stated that there was not a single act that was not clean cut.

Aside from the entertainment afforded everyone, one of the outstanding features of the circus is the speed, accuracy and system under which everything is conducted. The unloading, the erection of the little city of tents, the efficiency demonstrated by the organization as a whole and the loading and departure are remarkable and are the underlying principles and reasons why a circus is a success as a business.

Just as sure as there is a circus, there is also the profiteering of the vendors of refreshments and Wallace-Hagenbeck is no exception. Many a complaint was registered because Mr. Soft Drink man walked away without returning change and bringing the cost of a bottle of Coca-Cola to two bits, feeding the elephants peanuts and popcorn was an expensive amusement. Wichita Falls' ice cream manufacturers undoubtedly used pure cream instead of milk in making the ice cream that was dispensed at the circus grounds. But nevertheless it all helped to make the circus a success for the vendor.

Band and Patrol Will Hold First Revue Rehearsal

This evening at 7:30 in the ball room of the Kemp hotel the members of the cast of the "Oh Joy Musical Revue" will hold their first rehearsal, and the show that has occupied the attention of members of the band and patrol of Maskat Temple entirely for the last few days will begin to take form. The "Revue" to be staged by the shriners will be rehearsed twelve days, and then on October 13 and 19, at the Wichita theatre, the show will be produced.

When asked how it was possible to bring the cast to a point of efficient training in such a short length of time, the production director, Mr. Lacey, who has the show over in much greater style, said, "The secret of the whole thing is simply that we give every one of the seventy-five people who are in the show a little something to do, instead of giving everything to a few. Details can be arranged to a much finer point, and we can, as a whole, get the show over in much greater style. Furthermore, no one has a chance to become stale from the frequent complaint of 'over-rehearsal'."

It is said that the prominent Shriner of Wichita Falls, whose fame as an entertainer of note is "recognized throughout the length and breadth of the land" as one was heard to remark, are to appear to prove their ability as amateurs of grease paint. Numbers of popular girls of the city will add materially to the attractiveness of the performance, and everyone is pulling to make this the supreme attraction ever in the field of local theatricals.

All people who have been notified that they were desired as talent are urged to be present at this first rehearsal.
