

MRS. BERRY TO BE HONOR GUEST AT TEXAS CENTENNIAL SUN., NOV. 15

Mrs. Mary Catherine Berry, one of the three surviving widows of the Texas revolution will leave for Dallas on the Sunshine Special Saturday morning where she and Mrs. Mary Catherine Longley of Abilene will be honor guests of the Texas Centennial Sunday, the day being set aside for the two widows of the revolution of 1836, heretofore forgotten women.

The Callahan Luncheon Club of Baird, with the cooperation of the Abilene Lions Club and Max Bentley, managing editor of the Abilene Reporter-News, Judge B. L. Russell of Baird, have joined the Texas Centennial in making possible this long delayed event in the lives of the two widows of the revolution.

On the Callahan county committee are Bob Norrell, R. L. Edwards, and Earl Johnson. It will act as sponsor for Mrs. Berry. On the Lions club committee are Judge W. R. Chapman, J. M. Wagstaff and C. M. Caldwell, and the club will be sponsor to Mrs. Longley.

Mrs. Berry and Mrs. Longley, each with an escort, will go to Dallas as guests of the Centennial, with all expenses paid. They will be met on arrival and escorted to their hotel, and early Sunday morning will be met again at the main gates by a welcoming committee of Centennial executives. They will have an official escort as they go through the grounds. A reception is being planned in the outdoor court of the Texas Hall of State; the honor box will be reserved for them at Texas Cavalcade where they will be introduced; and plans are on foot to have them speak over radio, the Gulf hookup carrying their words throughout the grounds. Newspaper reporters and cameramen will be with them all day.

The two widows have received their formal invitations from Harry Olmsted, director general, written on the flag-embossed stationery of the Centennial. The letters read:

The management of the Texas Centennial Exposition would deem it a great honor and a privilege if you would be our guest on some appropriate day before our World's Fair closes November 29th.

It is our belief that you as one of the three (x) surviving widows of heroes who fought for Texas liberty a hundred years ago should have a prominent part and a hearty welcome at this Centennial of Texas' freedom.

We would suggest, therefore, that if it is possible that you should visit the Texas Centennial Exposition on Sunday, November 15th, which we will set apart as a special day in your honor.

We will be very glad to pay all your expenses to the exposition, including that of any person you may select to escort you.

Will you please let us know just as soon as possible if you can accept this invitation and if date suggested is convenient to you.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) Harry Olmsted,
Director General

(x) The third widow alluded to by Olmsted is Mrs. Mary Price, 93, of Rochester, New York, invalided with infirmities of age.

Mrs. Berry will be escorted by her daughter, Mrs. Pearl Gaines of Abilene and her son, Harry Berry and wife of Clyde. Mrs. Longley will be escorted by her granddaughter, Mrs. S. S. Ingram of Abilene and her little son, Max Bentley and his mother of Abilene also plan to accompany Mrs. Berry and Mrs. Longley. Mrs. Berry will be given a farewell reception at the T & P station Saturday morning as she boards the train for Dallas. Miss Eliza Gilliland is in charge of arrangements. Judge B. L. Russell will introduce Mrs. Berry. The citizens of Baird and Callahan county are invited to meet Mrs. Berry at the station Saturday morning at 10:15 a. m. as she will join Mrs. Longley on this memorable trip to the Texas Centennial. ### Annual Roll Call November 11-26, 1936

Annual Red Cross Roll Call Under Way

Annual roll call of the American Red Cross was officially opened Wednesday, Armistice Day and yesterday, Mrs. Earl Johnson of Baird, general chairman for the Red Cross drive and her group of solicitors, working under local chairmen in each community in Callahan county began active solicitation of membership.

The goal for Callahan county is five hundred members.

Dedicated to the saving of life and to the preservation of health, the Red Cross for 55 years has flown its flag at every scene of major disaster in the United States. Support of the citizenship is necessary to continue this work, said Robert T. Bridge, field representative Wednesday.

The roll call will continue through Thanksgiving.

Last Sunday a Red Cross message was given from the pulpit of every church in Baird. In the absence of Rev. J. A. Scoggins, pastor of the Methodist church, Judge L. B. Lewis made a Red Cross talk at the Methodist church.

The local chairmen are Baird, Mrs. Ace Hickman; Clyde, Mrs. Will Barton; Cross Plains; Cottonwood, Drensy, Mrs. Paul Boase; Denton, Mrs. Evan Barton; Putnam, Mrs. John Cook and Junior Study Club; Oplin, Mrs. Robert Slough; Admiral Mrs. Bill Hatchett; Midway, Mrs. Roberta Mayes; Eula, Mrs. Lester Farmer; Dudley, J. D. Kaufman; Iona, Mrs. Leo Tyler; Belle Plain, Mrs. I. A. Warren; Hart, Mrs. J. A. Yarbrough; Erath, Mrs. Eugene Green; Tecumseh, Mrs. Dolph Hodges; Rowden, Mrs. J. A. Sikes; Oak Lawn, Mrs. Ernest Hill. Sub-chairmen in Baird: N. E. Leota Alexander; S. E., Mrs. E. C. Fulton; N. W., Mrs. Ashby White; S. W., Mrs. B. F. Russell, Jr.

Other assistant workers named later are: Cross Plains, Mesdames Henry McGowan, Fred Cutbirth; Nat Williams; Stanley Clark, Elliott Bryant and H. E. Coburn; Pecan Bayou, Mrs. W. P. Brightwell; Burnt Branch, Geo. T. Baum; Dressy, Mrs. C. D. Baird; Cottonwood, Mrs. Floyd Coffey; Clyde, Mrs. H. C. Cotton; Mrs. Austin Bouchette and Mrs. L. M. Green.

Mrs. Boase, chairman of the Cross Plains committee, announces that the Loyalty Club, both the Senior and Junior Study Clubs are active in the roll call campaign.

DAUGHTER BORN

John Roberson of Oplin was in Baird Monday.

Donald Dunlap Succumbs To Illness

Donald Dunlap, 20, prominent young man of the Belle Plain community, died at the Griggs hospital in Baird, Friday morning at 1 o'clock. His death resulted from a ruptured appendix.

Funeral services were held at the Admiral Baptist church at 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Royce Gilliland, Baptist minister. Burial was made in the family plot at Admiral cemetery.

Active pall bearers were Bill Matson, Robert Green, Hulén Hughes, Jackie Street, Lee Roy Walker and Hershall Bibbs. The football team of 1934-35 were named honorary pall bearers.

Donald Dunlap, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Dunlap, a pioneer family of Belle Plain, was born April 28, 1916. He has spent his entire life in that community. He attended Baird high school in 1934-35 and played on the football team.

Survivors besides the parents are two sisters and three brothers, Mrs. L. C. Gillet and Mrs. L. N. Taylor, Eldon, S. N., Jr., and Elbert Dunlap, all of Belle Plain and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Julia Sanders of Admiral.

Complete Tabulation Of Election Returns Announced To-day

This issue of The Star contains a complete summary of results of the November 3 general election, which is especially timely, since it provides the grand climax to America's straw poll mania. It settles the claims and counter claims that were hurled back and forth during the campaign and the endless conjecture regarding Republican strength in California, for instance, against Democratic strength in Massachusetts.

It is the final answer—the real poll to end all polls! We suggest you save it for later reference.

BEARS THUMP CLYDE BULLDOGS 19-0 IN ARMISTICE GRUDGE GAME

Rev. J. A. Scoggins Returned As Pastor Of Baird M. E. Church

Rev. J. A. Scoggins, pastor of the Methodist church the past year, has been returned as pastor by the Methodist conference held in Houston last week.

Other appointments in the county are: Rev. T. J. Rea, Clyde; Rev. Rea was formerly pastor of the church here, serving as pastor when the new church building was erected. Clyde circuit, Rev. Franklin Weir, Cross Plains, Rev. P. L. Shirler.

Rev. C. A. Long, presiding elder of the Abilene District was re-appointed. Dr. T. J. Griswold, former pastor of Baird, now superannuated and living at Clyde was appointed agent of the superannuated home. Dr. B. W. Dodson, also a former pastor here, was re-appointed as head of the department of religion at McMurry College, Abilene.

Rev. Cal C. Wright, former pastor of the Baird church was appointed as presiding elder of the Vernon district. Rev. Wright has been pastor at Colorado for the past several years. Rev. P. E. Yarbrough, pastor preceding Brother Scoggins, has been returned as pastor of the church at Dumas.

Rev. M. S. Leverage, a former pastor who has been in the New Mexico conference, was transferred in the North West Texas conference. Rev. O. B. Ammis, son of the late Rev. J. F. L. Ammis, founder of Belle Plain College and pioneer Methodist circuit rider, was transferred to the Arizona conference.

42nd. Judicial Court Proceeding

H. L. Meyers, one of four defendants who entered guilty pleas before Judge M. S. Long in 42nd. district court here Monday, drew three sentences totaling 42 years in the state penitentiary.

Meyers pleaded guilty to two charges of assault with intent to murder, drawing 15 years in each case, and to one complaint of burglary, for which he got 12 years. All grew out of the attempted burglary of a Baird bank September 25. He is already under terms totaling 45 years in Abilene courts, drawing 25 years in federal penitentiary on an attempted bank robbery charge, and two ten-year terms in two cases of automobile theft in 42nd. district court. Thus, he has sentences of 87 years in the federal prison at Leavenworth and the state penitentiary at Huntsville.

The other defendants who pleaded guilty and the terms they received were J. W. Adams, two charges of burglary and one of hog theft, two years in each case; Irvin Loggins, burglary, two years; and Henry Hayes, five years suspended on a felony theft charge.

Court recessed for Armistice Day and took up the docket again yesterday morning. Marion and Oscar Tate of Cross Plains were on trial charged with arson.

The case of Fred Brachene, charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of M. B. Jones in Baird Tuesday of last week has been set for Monday, Nov. 16th. A special venire of 75 men have been summoned for this case. The defendant will be represented by Russell & Russell of Baird, Scarborough and Ely of Abilene.

Defense motion for continuance in the trial of Joe Totten, charged with murder without malice, was granted by Judge M. S. Long today. The case was set for December 14, in a special session of court.

Totten was indicted at Abilene in connection with the highway death of Robert Cluney, 13-year-old Abilene boy, last summer. The child died after being struck by a motor vehicle. The case was transferred to Baird on a change of venue.

Continuance was asked on ground of absent witness.

S. T. James is visiting his sister, Mrs. O. E. Wolfe and family in Big Spring this week.

Baird's power attack, aerial circus and side line proved too much for the highly touted Clyde Bulldogs in their annual Armistice Day grudge game on the latter's field Wednesday, as the Bears sailed to smashing 19-0 decision over the mongrels. Scoring once in the second quarter and twice in the 3rd., the Bruins took it easy in the remaining period as practically every sub on the squad was used.

Dub Ashton skipped around right end for 14 yds. and a touchdown late in the 2nd. quarter. He also converted. In less than 6 minutes after the second half had started Ashton heaved a 16 yd. pass to Trap Cooper over the goal line for another touchdown. Try for the extra point from placement was no good. Trap Cooper's pass interception late in the same period started the Bears on another touchdown march. Ashton skirted left end for 19 yds. and the last 6 points. Kick for extra point was no good.

Clyde penetrated the Bear 20 yd. marker twice but either thrust was not serious. Bill Jackson's 22 yard dash around rt. end late in the 4th. quarter was the longest gain for the Bulldogs.

The Bear team lacked the services of Bob Austin except for a few minutes in two quarters. Grover Wiley was carried out early in the game with an injured ankle.

First downs were 12 to 4 for Baird. The domestics amassed 203 yds. from scrimmage to 82 yds. for Clyde. Four pass completions for the Bears netted 43 yds. Clyde tossed the ball 14 times, 2 complete for 32 yds., 3 intercepted and the remainder incomplete. Punt average for Baird was 18yds. as 29 for Clyde.

The Bear line stood out exceptionally well. Perfect blocking was also featured by the Bear aggregation.

The two teams meet again in a non-conference tilt Thanksgiving Day

Starting line-up for Clyde: ends, Connel and Dugan; tackles, Collins and T. Pyeatt; guards, Harless and Kendrick; center, J. Pyeatt; quarter, Wright; half backs, Jackson and Easterling; full, Taylor.

Substitutions for Clyde: Jackson, Bobby Wright, Tarrent

Substitutions for Baird: Owen, Cooper, Miller, Hollingshead, Austin, Smartt Bruce, Stanley, Alexander Watts, Hughes, Chatham, and Samuel Irby Smith, Jr., Pitzer.

Officials: Tindall Jones, Blackie Calloway, Bill Harris, all of H-SU., Abilene.

Drilling Is Picking Up Around Baird

Ungren & Frazier are drilling on the Dr. R. L. Griggs farm about 1 mile southeast of Baird on the Baird and Cross Plains public road.

Miller and Castor have made a location on the J. F. Dyer ranch north of Baird, for a 1500 foot test.

E. G. Johnson, et al, are drilling on the N. M. George ranch east of town.

Talco Oil Co., Mrs. Will McCoy, south of Clyde, has resumed drilling at 504 feet.

Radio And Theatre Mgrs. To View Plaza Amateur Talent

The amateur's day is about to come around at the Plaza and the non-professionals are taking the chance to come before the public.

The management of the Plaza has announced that representatives of several radio stations and theatres are to be a part of the audience during the amateur contest to be held in the near future. The Plaza is asking the cooperation of every citizen to give every young artist in their vicinity a chance to bring his talent before radio and stage officials, by bringing their names to the box office of the Plaza this next week. The date for the contest has not been set as it is the hope that every talented person in the county will have an opportunity to receive a large cash prize and an audition for radio and stage appearances.

AT WHAT AGE IS A MAN NOT WORTH MARRYING?

So Steve has to sit gulping his beer and biting into his sandwiches alone, and he hates it, and feels that he has lost his pal.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

THAT very few bachelors of thirty-five and over are worth marrying is the expressed view of Dr. Paul Poponoe, of the Los Angeles Institute of Family Relations. This is not the first time I have quoted the views of Dr. Poponoe, but if I remember correctly on the last occasion I was in direct opposition to him. In this case it seems to me that he is at least partly right.

There isn't any question that young marriages, plus character and fineness and self-control and real love, are the happiest marriages. Later marriages need more character, more fineness and self-control, and more love, and as a rule have less of all these elements. The field narrows, as the woman reaches the last twenties and the man the middle thirties, and the demands of each increase. The quality of young excitement and adventure goes out of the marriage, and new considerations come in. Both husband and wife have settled into spoiled little ways; both are fearful that the whole thing is a mistake. Curiously enough trifles are extremely important to older brides and grooms, they go into despair and gloom over mole-hills, whereas the younger adventurers laugh at very mountains of trouble, make nothing of really serious problems.

The happiest wives I know are the women who have married young, for love, who have faced all the ups and downs of young business worries and young nursery cares, and who have emerged into the sunshine of middle age sure of themselves, sure of their mates, standing firmly in the ranks of the successfully wed. These are the very foundation of all civilized societies; the real servants of the commonwealth, although they never get any recognition for it.

When a girl waits for her thirtieth birthday before making her choice of a mate several difficulties beset her. For at least twelve years she has been her own mistress; the man has been doing things in his own way for longer than that. Worse, perhaps he has had a mother and sisters to spoil him, to determine that Davy is going to be so happy at home that he never will want a wife!

In such questions as their attitude toward intimate old friends, as to meal hours and reading lights and the acceptance of invitations lie countless pitfalls. The dreams they have dreamed for a score of years are ended in a rude awakening. Jane doesn't like late little cosy suppers, after all; she seemed to when they were engaged, indeed she used to cook them herself for Steve. But now she says, laughingly and pleasantly enough, but yet firmly, that personally she never will eat a bite of anything after dinner, it is the quickest way in the world to get fat! So Steve has to sit gulping his beer and biting into his sandwiches alone, and he hates it, and feels that he has lost his pal.

He brings his friends home for dinner; Jane is amiable enough. But she protests mildly that Bob and Dick and Joe don't "contribute" anything. They happen to have been his intimates since college days, Steve comments icily, who would she suggest in their places?

And so into the late new marriage come fearful hours of despair, when the handsome popular unmarried man who was Steve, ringing the doorbell at Jane's apartment, coming in with a great box of roses, seems to disappear completely. And the clever bachelor maid who was Jane, always so trim and self-possessed and happy, always so much in demand, vanishes likewise. In their places are a silent, bewildered, deeply-pondering man whose possessive thought is wonder how he can get out of the tangle he has stepped into, and an embittered woman who tells her few intimate friends that it was all a dreadful mistake.

And yet, if the two will but weather this dark hour without a break, there may be great happiness ahead for them. For after all, the choice of twenty-eight is a more reasonable choice than that of eighteen.

To live on peaceable terms with anyone takes tremendous character and self-control, sooner or later. The young lovers find it later; their youth, the novelty and excitement of the adventure, and their common physical delight in marriage hold them together usually for a few years, perhaps even four or five, if children come long. Then comes the rub; they have to meet the wild impulse to separate, to get away from each other, to make a drastic change of some sort. At this point unless circumstances stronger than this mood of rebellion hold them together until the fever subsides and the danger mark is past, they usually get a divorce. Two years later they often wish with all their sick and despairing hearts that they were together again, but that's another story.

With the older pair this disillusionment comes almost at once. The ignorant romantic dreams of the late teens and early twenties have long vanished, and the two hearts and minds and bodies that have been free for so long struggle madly against the trap. The man forgets that he really admires and loves this woman, that for months he had dreamed of the joy of having her for his own, he only remembers that he is married, and that marriage is a darned sight easier to get into than get out of. The girl has always cherished the thought of a fine man coming home to her hungry and adoring and companionable, at the end of day, to sit by the fire and talk of books and praise her for keeping him so comfortable. It is a strange contrast, this new life of nerves and idleness and of being criticized.

But even while writing this I think of many instances of marriages made when the man was in the late thirties, and the woman past thirty, marriages that have been not only successful, but ideal. Marriages in which the wedding of older minds, wiser intellects, more finished characters has resulted in such happiness as few younger couples know. The love of a fine man is a miracle of content to a lonely woman who has sacrificed all her young years, perhaps, to the need of an old parent, or the perfecting of herself in her profession, and what the tenderness and companionship of such a woman means to a man only that man—so long an outsider to domestic joys, could say. If parenthood comes to such a pair it is what parenthood always should be and so rarely is, a sacred responsibility, a pride and delight beyond any other that life can offer, a miracle never to be placed beside the other commonplaces of every day.

In my library is the biography of a certain Englishman of letters, a man who was never famous in his own day, but whose rare volumes are coming more and more steadily into their own. He came home from college to a household of mother and sisters; the girls married one by one, in the rather difficult fashion of girls in English countrysides a hundred years ago, the mother died. The man went to London for a yearly stay; came back to books, fireside, dogs, old trees, old lanes, old neighbors. At forty-two he married his Annabelle, a quiet woman of thirty-three who was keeping house for a widowed brother, and being an angel-aunt to three small boys on a nearby estate.

The story of the wedded love of these two is one of the most romantically passionate, of all the books I know. Juliet, leaning at delicious eager fourteen from her balcony to whisper her forbidden love, stretching herself on her tomb, never tasted the depths of it. The letters of this essayist to his wife, during their few short separations, could not have been penned by a hundred Romeos. They had two sons and a daughter; the boys they kept, the daughter left them in her fourth year; their letters and diaries tell the story, and it is one almost too exquisite for other eyes than theirs to see.

No, fine men and women can marry at any age, and find happiness in their mutual love. And men and women who aren't fine, who don't mean to be patient and self-controlled, and try to draw success from the difficult situation of early married days, ought not to marry at all! But that late marriage is different from young marriage, and demands a slightly different handling, a very decided philosophy and constant doses of saving laughter, nobody in his senses dare deny.

Ragout of String Beans.

Chop six slices of bacon, put in frying pan and fry out. Add 1 cupful of chopped onions and brown five minutes. Add 1 quart of boiling water and one pound of string beans and cook for twenty minutes. Add one pound of potatoes, cut in half, and cook until done. Add salt and pepper when nearly done. A nice variation is to add a cupful of tomatoes with the beans.

Here's that Fast "Phillips" Way

To Alkalize Stomach Quickly

On all sides, people are learning that the way to gain almost incredibly quick relief, from stomach condition arising from overacidity, is to alkalinize the stomach quickly with Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

You take either two teaspoons of the liquid Phillips' after meals; or two Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Almost instantly "acid indigestion" goes, gas from hyperacidity, "acid" headaches—from over-indulgence in food or smoking—and nausea are relieved.

Try this Phillips' way if you have any acid stomach upsets. You will be surprised at results. Get either the liquid "Phillips" or the remarkable, new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Only 25¢ for a big box of tablets at drug stores.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM:

Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Fame has only the span of a day, they say. But to live in the hearts of the people—that is worth something.—Ouida.

DISCOVERED Way to Relieve Coughs QUICKLY

IT'S BY relieving both the irritated tissues of the throat and bronchial tubes. One set of ingredients in FOLEY'S HONEY & TAR quickly relieves tickling, hacking, coughing . . . coats and soothes irritated throat linings to keep you from coughing. Another set actually enters the blood, reaches the affected bronchial tubes, loosens phlegm, helps break up cough and speeds recovery. Check a cough due to a cold before it gets worse, before others catch it. Check it with FOLEY'S HONEY & TAR. It gives quick relief and speeded-up recovery.

Pattern of Life

Life is like a tapestry; first choose your design and then make each day a stitch in that design.—Lucille Watson.

Less Monthly Discomfort

Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, run-down condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CARDUI, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.

Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated.

Cardui, praised by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

Sympathy and Influence

There is little influence where there is not great sympathy.—S. I. Prime.

Lesson for November 15

THE HEROISM OF CHRISTIAN FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Acts 21:12, 13, 27-34; Romans 9:1-5.

GOLDEN TEXT—Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. John 15:13.

PRIMARY TOPIC—On the Castle Steps. JUNIOR TOPIC—On the Castle Steps. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Taking Risks for Christ.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Risking All for Christ.

We now come to the close of the third missionary journey of Paul. As he came to Jerusalem for the last time in his eventful life he was warned by a prophet, Agabus at Caesarea, that if he went up to Jerusalem he would be bound and given over to the Gentiles.

Heroism of the highest and noblest type has characterized the followers of Christ in all times. Paul was not one to be deterred from what he believed to be God's will by the probability that he would suffer. Like all who follow the Lord Jesus Christ in truth he was

1. Fearless, in Practice as Well as Theory (Acts 21:12, 13, 27-34).

Many there are who sing, "I'll go where you want me to go, dear Lord, I'll be what you want me to be," or smoothly repeat consecration vows, who are frightened away at the slightest difficulty, and who feel that they must have been mistaken about the Lord's will for their life at the first indication that his guidance would interfere with their comfort or convenience. No such cowardice or vacillation was found in Paul.

In the first place, he did not intend to have a holy purpose weakened by disheartening talk. How many young men and women have left a place of sacred meeting with God aglow with the purpose of serving Him in the foreign mission field, and then permitted an uninterested friend or relative or employer to talk them out of it.

In the second place, we find Paul carrying through his purpose. When he came to Jerusalem he was counselled to enter the temple to take a Nazarite vow, and thus to satisfy his enemies. Some have commended Paul for thus pacifying those who withstood him, others strongly condemn him for yielding. His purpose was good, but his act led to unfortunate results. An infuriated Jewish mob saw him in the temple and wrongfully accused him of defiling the temple by bringing a Greek into this holy place.

A riot ensues, and Paul would have been killed had not the Roman captain and his band rescued him. Was Paul afraid? He immediately turned his arrest into an unsurpassed opportunity to give a testimony and to make a defense of his ministry (See Acts 21:40-22:22). He admonished others to "be instant in season and out of season" (II Tim. 4:2); he practiced what he preached. He constantly urged faith in God, steadfastness in the midst of trials; he gave full proof of these things in his own ministry.

In all this he did not seek his own glory, or any honor for his own name. The Christian hero knows nothing of heroism for publicity's sake; he does not serve with an eye on the "grandstand." Paul was actuated by a deep and a genuine

II. Concern for the Salvation of His People (Rom 9:1-5).

The Christian worker who knows nothing of "great sorrow and unceasing pain" in his heart over the plight of the unsaved does not follow in the Pauline succession, nor does he know the heart of the Man of Sorrows.

Paul surely did not wish himself separated from Christ, but was so deeply moved that he said he "could wish" it—if it were not wrong—in order to save his brethren.

Do we need a revival of compassion in our churches, and in our own hearts, a yearning over the multitudes about us who are asleep without a shepherd?

A Golden Link

A mother's love is indeed the golden link that binds youth to age, and he is still but a child, however time may have furrowed his cheek, or silvered his brow, who can yet recall with a softened heart, the fond devotion, or the gentle chidings, of the best friend that God ever gives us.

Love of Our Work

It is only those who do not know how to work that do not love it. To those who do it is better than play—it is religion.

Life

Life is not made up of great sacrifices of duties, but of little things of which smiles and kindness and small obligations given habitually, are what win and preserve the heart.—Sir Humphrey Davy.

Prejudices

Prejudices may be intense, but their lives are limited—to discover when they are dead and to bury them, is an important matter, and no unseemly tears should be shed at their funerals.

Certain of Milady's Vote

THREE post-election candidates for milady's wardrobe, every one a winner. Choose any one of these clever patterns and the vote will be unanimous that you have done well by yourself. Every pattern is accompanied by an illustrated instruction chart giving step by step details for quick sewing and perfect fit—the short cut to an adequate wardrobe.

Pattern 1821, a comely morning frock fashioned along princess lines, is available in a wide range of sizes, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. The smooth fitting and slenderizing hip line joins with the scalloped collar and cuffs in contrast to achieve a flattering effect, and this design is so simply made and so easy to wear, in swiss or percale or lawn or pongee, it will win instant favor. Size 38 requires four and three-fourths yards of 39 inch material.

Pattern 1958, the blouse and skirt combination, speaks for itself. Versatility is the keynote of this double duty pattern which consists of just eight simple pieces for both blouse and skirt. The wide and graceful revers conceal those extra pounds above the waist, and the panelled skirt is of the sort that will go well with any ensemble or tunic. Quickly and inexpensively made, this combination will add new life to any wardrobe with a minimum of effort. The pattern is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20; 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 18 requires two and three-fourths yards of 39 inch material for the blouse, two and one-sixth yards for the skirt. A grand pattern bargain.

Pattern 1843, the fitted slip, offers a choice of the strap or built-up shoulder and makes a perfect foundation garment for a smooth silhouette. Fashioned in silk or taffeta or pongee, the pattern employs just six pieces and goes together like a charm. Send for it today, in size 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 or 44. Size 36 requires three and one-fourth yards of 39 inch material.

Send for the Fall Pattern Book containing Barbara Bell well-planned, easy-to-make patterns. Exclusive fashions for children, young women, and matrons. Send 15 cents (in coins) for your copy.

Uncle Phil Says:

Reminiscence

The scenery one remembers most fondly will be what he saw while sitting serenely in contemplative meditation.

Culture also consists in knowing what not to cultivate.

A fault finder is better than a fault finder.

The way of the transgressor is hard, but apparently not half hard enough, or there wouldn't be so many repeaters.

Virtue and Vice

Following virtue is a steep ascent; following vice is a precipitous leap.

Everything in nature goes by steps, nothing by leaps.

Many a man has noble aims, but it is the hits that count.

Probably your wants are as twenty to one to your needs.

But They're Not Assets

A man of bitter and glittering words may not have many friends but he has hosts of envious admirers.

Science, the friend of man, turns murderer in times of war.

A good deal of common sense consists in just simply not butting in.

No Time to Choose

Lots of things he doesn't want come to the man who is impatient.

If science knew how to produce a genius, it would produce too many.

Besides backbone, another thing equally lacking, altogether too generally, is self-respect.

A hard-shelled man doesn't necessarily mean a hard-boiled one.

Good society wants good morals, and whenever they can't be, wants them kept out of sight.

Greatest triumph is to fish your friend out of the blues and make him laugh again.

SIGNIFICANCE OF INSCRIPTION ON OUR DOLLAR BILLS

A Treasury department circular states that the design on the back of the new one dollar silver certificates presents for the first time on any money issued by the United States, a representation of both the obverse and reverse of the Great Seal of the United States, first adopted in 1782, prior to the adoption of the Constitution.

The reverse of the Great Seal shows an unfinished pyramid, surmounted by an eye in a triangular glory. The pyramid bears in Roman numerals the year of the Declaration of Independence, 1776. Above the eye is the Latin motto "Annuit Coeptis," rendered as "He (God) favored our undertakings." The motto at the bottom, "Novus Ordo Seclorum," is translated as "A new order of the ages."

The eye and triangular glory symbolizes an all-seeing Deity. The pyramid is the symbol of strength and its unfinished condition denotes the belief of the designers of the Great Seal that there was still work to be done. Both the mottoes on the reverse of the seal are condensations of excerpts from Virgil's Aeneid.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Canada's Indians Gain

There is no foundation for the common belief that the Indians of Canada are a vanishing race. The census, which is taken at five-year intervals, has shown a substantial increase in each of such periods during the last fifteen years at least. According to the last census there were in Canada 122,911 Indians—62,943 males and 59,968 females. About 112,500 live on the reservations.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By Julian Capers Jr.

Austin.—Business in Texas—both big and little—today faces the brightest outlook in 10 years. With the national election definitely behind it, with returning prosperity reflected by every recognized index, and with the national administration already at work toward bringing the national budget into balance within another year, the national picture is the brightest since 1929.

But equally important to Texas business, is the state picture. Freed for the first time in a decade of threats of a revolutionary revision of the state tax system, with a governor in office for another two years who is firmly pledged against any new or increased taxes, an era of industrial expansion and development is expected by leading experts to follow in the wake of the Centennial year, which has focused national attention upon Texas.

The old age pension situation apparently has been adequately taken care of by the omnibus tax bill passed by the recent special session. The general fund of the state has a deficit somewhat above normal, but seasonal tax collections soon will begin reducing it to reasonable proportions. The Confederate pension fund, surrounded by constitutional limitations, is behind, but is on a basis that will bring it out of the "red" eventually. All other state funds are in excellent condition. The highway department remains on a cash basis, and will begin next week on the new 1936-37 federal-state program, by letting contracts for $2,400,000 as the first step on a program of closing gaps in cardinal highways that will call for expenditure of $15,500,000 during the fiscal year.

BLENDED TAX SYSTEM

A "blended" tax system, in which sales taxes on gasoline, cigarets and other commodities, substantial natural resource taxes on oil, gas and sulphur and ad valorem taxes on real property other than small homesteads, all share equitably in the cost of government has been evolved. Neither the sales tax advocates, who would tax everything sold, nor the "tax the rich" adherents who would put all the load on oil and gas, nor those who would remove all taxes from the land, have been completely successful. But all are reasonably well satisfied, and no revolutionary policy of state taxation that will upset present operating estimates of business, need be feared for the next two years, observers here are convinced.

PENSION HOWL COMING

The new house of representatives, with 75 new members, 36 of them having defeated incumbents, and many making their race on a more liberal pension platform, is expected to raise considerable howl for more liberal pension payments in January—particularly when their constituents who are going to be cut off under the new deliberalized law, begin complaining. But the senate has demonstrated a conservative and common-sense viewpoint on pensions. And there will not be sufficient change in the complexion of the new senate to upset that attitude. The 45th legislature will have time to develop some statesmanship. It will be able to deal at length with such topics as social security, governmental planning, improvement in governmental methods, advertising to develop Texas industrially and as a tourist resort, regulation of quasi-public businesses, moral questions such as the gambling laws, horse and dog racing, etc. It will not be confronted with a more or less constant financial crisis in the state's affairs, such as its predecessor, the 44th, was.

OIL COMPACT WORKING

The oil states' compact, originated by Texas leaders, has more than justified its existence, by averting federal control of the oil industry, and besides, it has achieved other far-reaching benefits. Col. Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the compact body, and chairman of the Texas railroad commission, told oil men of the nation at the annual American Petroleum Institute meeting in Chicago this week. State legislatures of compact states, and the national congress will be asked soon to renew the life of the compact for another two years, and the industry, which was doubtful and divided at first, is now 100 per cent behind the program. To Texas, producing half the nation's oil, any program that affects the industry is vitaly important.

VOTERS CHANGE SENTIMENT

The voters of Texas apparently have undergone a decided change in sentiment regarding the state constitution, and political observers here are beginning to wonder if the time has come to consider the writing of a new document to expound the fundamental law. Formerly, the voters voted down good and bad amendments without mercy. The adoption of all six of the amendments in last week's election indicates a decided tendency in the opposite direction. An interesting sidelight was the heavy vote polled in the large cities for the amendment to limit the number of house members from heavily populated districts. Several members of the legislature from large cities expressed amazement. Critics of the legislature explained it by declaring the legislature in recent years has fallen into such disrepute with the people that the people were quite willing to restrict house membership on almost any basis.

DEPRESSION ENDS FOR THESE

Gov. James V. Allred, Atty. Gen. Bill McCraw, State Comptroller Geo. Sheppard, Treasurer Charley Lockhart, Land Commissioner J. H. Walker and Secretary of State B. P. Matoch, will soon be able to bid the late depression a not-to-fond farewell, as a result of salary raises voted Nov. 3. Allred's salary, after his new term begins Jan. 19 will be $1000 a month; Lockhart, Sheppard, Matoch and Walker will draw $500 monthly; and McCraw $10,000 a year. All but the governor's increase are effective after the official canvass, Nov. 19. Bill McDonald will succeed Walker in January, all the others remaining in office another two years except Matoch, who holds an appointive place. Reports current are that J. B. ord, member of the house will be named secretary of state next January by Allred.

COUNTY AGENT NEWS

ROSS B. JENKINS, County Agent

Cottonwood-Atwell Agricultural Association To Be Formed

The past three years have taught the farmers more as to the value of cooperation and organization than probably any other previous period in American agriculture. Because of this growing realization for cooperation many farmers in the Atwell and Cottonwood communities have expressed a desire that a community organization be formed there and suggested that Cottonwood be the place of central location.

On Monday night, Nov. 16th, if the weather permits, it is now planned that the county agent and H. D. Agt. will meet at Cottonwood with the farmers and farmers' wives from all adjacent areas and form an agricultural association. This association will be used to further the cooperative enterprises that may be launched in the community such as collective buying of cottonseed pure bred maize, and other seeds as well as foster and encourage boys and girls 4-H Club work and also foster nights of play entertainment that both the young and the old may participate in and enjoy, and various other agricultural questions that will arise during the coming years.

The year 1937 will present for the first time a planned program in which the farmers themselves will have a very distinct voice. The general election has proved that both men and women today are interested in the affairs of the nation and surely are intensely interested in the programs that affect them in their everyday lives. Everyone is invited to attend this meeting.

Drought Feed Rates Extended

The drought freight rates on feeds was scheduled to expire in this county on November 12 but due to the fact that many farmers and ranchers are yet planning to order feed in car lot quantities the railroad commission has extended the time for these reduced rates until Feb. 12, '37.

Several ranchers have already taken advantage of this reduced rate and have made a very substantial saving. The form may be obtained for this reduced rate in the office of the county agent.

1936 Turkey Crog

It is estimated that there are more turkeys being grown this year than in many years and notwithstanding the improved buying conditions the crop is going on the market at much less than 15 cents.

In order to be able to contribute some real information and help in formulating possibly a marketing association for turkeys and chickens the county agent would appreciate having the names of every turkey grower and large chicken producer in the county. If you produce as many as 100 turkeys or more and 300 or more laying hens want you drop a card to this office and tell how many that you have? You will be put on the mailing list so that you may be sent the most current information that is issued concerning your business. Send in your name at once.

Cotton Supply

The world supply of cotton is the largest in three years according to the outlook report being released from Washington. This vitally affects the farmers of Texas because we are always subject to the law of supply and demand. If the supply is greater than the demand the price is going to go down. Many farmers this year increased their acreage of cotton hoping to clean up a high price hoping that the outside world would not find out that they were producing more cotton than usual before the crop had been sold.

The crop reporting bureau in the Department of Agriculture, however, keeps such an accurate check on production that these increased plantings are known even before the crop begins to move to market. It means, therefore, that if a fair price is to be obtained in 1937 that farmers must pay more attention to the quality of the cotton, plant less of their lands to this soil depleting crop and plant more of the soil improving crops and crops that will produce feeds for their livestock. It may be that the farmers will be in position to plant more acres than they are now planting in the near future if the world continues to take an increased amount of cotton for home and commercial uses. There is also a constant study being maintained to try to find more and varied uses of cotton.

Cotton is now being used to strengthen highways and if such uses can be made of the fibre we may hope to maintain a great acreage in the South but there will always be a possibility of over production and low prices if we fail to keep within reasonable bounds on our planting scale.

EULA H. D. CLUB

The Eula H. D. Club met in the home of Mrs. Clifton Thomas Tuesday Nov. 10.

After the business session Miss Moore gave a demonstration on cheese making.

Our next meeting and demonstration will be at Mrs. Willis Baulch Dec. 1. We will bake fruit cakes. The club is glad to report a nice club fund they have now had from a Negro Minstrel put on by club members in new school auditorium.

EULA 4-H CLUB

Eula girls 4-H club met November 5, and re-organized.

The following officers were elected Geraldine Bell, pres.; Floella Hallmark, Vice-pres.; Aline White, Sec-treas.; Lela Faye Gardner, reporter; Mrs. Clifton Thomas and Mrs. J. H. Bone, sponsors.

The following members joined: Letha May Cutbirth, Emma Wilkinson, Evelyn Finch, Mardena Petree, Margaret Gann, Wynelle Faulkner, Kathryn Carr, Ruth Hallmark, Mary Francis Bell, Jean Bone, Sylvia Wilkinson, Marjorie Bagwell, Lois Farmer, Joyce Miller, Erma Brown, Irene Franklin, Laverne Whitmire, Ruth Brock, Hazel Beeman and Altha Fay Beeman.

Miss Moore will meet with the club Nov. 10.

Annual Subscription Bargain Rates

The Star's annual bargain subscription rates are now in effect. $1.00 in Callahan county and $1.50 outside the county—a saving of 50 cents on each subscription. We will also accept back due subscriptions at these rates and we earnestly ask that all pay up.

During the past several years when money was scarce we did not push collections as we felt that those who had the money would pay us as their subscriptions came due and many did, in fact, The Star has several hundred subscribers on our list who have always paid up, among these are many who have been on our list since The Star was established 49 years ago. But on the other hand many have not paid, consequently our list of delinquent subscribers has grown considerable the past several years and we are compelled to collect what is due us as we have obligations to meet and we again earnestly request all to pay up.

The following subscribers have taken advantage of our bargain rates:

- Frank P. Carmichael, Pasadena, California.
- Fred Hollingshead, Baird.
- Dave O'Shields, Oplin.

It's A Gala Week At The Plaza

This week is hit week at the Plaza with vehicles such as "Star For A Night," "Gorgeous Hussy," "Picadilly Jim," "I'd Give My Life" and "Murder With Pictures. All big hits and new pictures being released in the last two months.

Starting the week off with a bang, Clair Trevora and Jane Darwell come to the front with "Star For A Night" there is a laugh, a lilt and a heart pang in this musical comedy, that is absolutely different from the usual run of his type. Song hits featured in this picture are 'Bend Down Sister,' 'Over a Cup of Coffee,' 'Down Aroun' Malibou Way.' 'Star For A Night' plays Friday through Saturday matinee.

The solution of a baffling murder committed directly in front of forty horrified witnesses who see the victim fall dead, but do not see the murderer nor his wapon, is the basis of "Murder With Pictures," showing Saturday night only. In an entirely new treatment for this type of picture, the identity of the slayer is ultimately revealed in a whirlwind finish by a photograph taken just as the crime was committed. Lew Ayres, Gail Patrick and Paul Kelly do their finest roles in this murder drama with plenty of laughs to make the night a success.

Starting with the midnight preview and continuing through Sunday and Monday comes what the critics have called "the season's biggest triumph," in the film "The Gorgeous Hussy," starring Joan Crawford, Robert Taylor, Lionel Barrymore, Franchot Tone, Melvyn Douglass and James Stewart. The story starts back in the history when Martin Van Buren toasted the daughter of an inn keeper as the "first lady of democracy"—when Andrew Jackson fired his cabinet for the same lady, and when Bow Timberlake of the United States Navy told the girl 'No man whoever kisses you once will ever be satisfied until he kisses you again.' It is the great saga of the building of our United States and the greatest stars of the screen cast together to bring out, the season's biggest triumph.

Greater love hath no man than that he lay down his life for a friend and that is the kind of love that comes to the heart of an ignorant little gangster in 'I'd Give My Life,' a new thriller playing Tuesday only, with Sir Guy Standing, Tom Brown, Frances Drake and Janet Beecher. 'I'd Give My Life' is adopted from 'The Noose,' one of the most successful legitimate plays of recent years, and its story is as poignant and thrilling as if it had been written from your favorite newspaper headlines.

For Wednesday and Thursday we are off on the funniest voyage in the history of navigation. We are about to have fun, don't you know? The gist of the matter is that we have all read that amusing Wodehouse story, 'Picadilly Jim' or we have heard about it, now the Plaza is bringing it at its funniest to the local screen. The man who is bringing the tremendous merry musical, "The Great Ziegfield, Robert Z. Lenord, directed 'Picadilly Jim.' That alone promises a wealth of entertainment and a lavish production. There are four of the screen's greatest comedians in the cast, Robert Montgomery Frank Morgan, Billie Burk and Eric Blore with Madge Evans supporting the romantic end of the film. You will rock with laughter the whole voyage.

Weddings

Tremendous Victory of President Roosevelt Gives Him Electoral Vote of 523 to 8 for Landon—Congress More Strongly Democratic.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

"WE LIKE your New Deal policies and have complete confidence in your administration. Go as far as you like."

President Roosevelt

That in effect was the message sent to Franklin Delano Roosevelt by more than twenty-five million American men and women when they voted to continue him in the Presidency for another four years. It was the most tremendous victory ever scored by a Presidential candidate since the days of James Monroe, for Mr. Roosevelt captured the 523 electoral votes of 46 states.

Only Maine and Vermont, with five and three electoral votes respectively, were won by Landon and Knox, the Republican candidates. Their popular vote, when all returns are in, and tabulated, may be fifteen and a half million.

The amazing New Deal landslide is looked upon by most unbiased observers not as a Democratic party victory, but a personal triumph for President Roosevelt, an expression of confidence in him and a recognition of the improvement in the country's business and industry. It was so overwhelming that the President may well consider he has been given carte blanche to do as he pleases in carrying his policies on to their logical ends.

President Roosevelt, moreover, will have at his command a congress more heavily Democratic than were the last two, for the lingering hopes of the Republicans that they could capture enough seats to enable them, in conjunction with conservative Democrats, to put up effective resistance to New Deal measures, were not realized.

Governor Landon and Colonel Knox, his running mate, accepted their defeat gracefully and sent to Mr. Roosevelt congratulatory telegrams promising to support, as good Americans, his efforts for the welfare of the country.

The Republican party, despite its terrific drubbing, is not dead. Its national organization is intact and it, and such organizations as the American Liberty league, the Sentinels of America and the Volunteers, will continue their efforts to keep the ship of state on an even keel and headed in the right direction.

William Lemke, candidate of the Union party, failed to carry a state and his popular vote was not impressive; but he was re-elected to congress from North Dakota on the Republican ticket.

Incidentally, John N. Garner, who was scarcely mentioned during the hectic campaign, was re-elected vice president and will preside over the senate again.

Among the well-known Republican senators unseated by the upheaval are Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware, Lester J. Dickinson of Iowa, Jesse H. Metcalf of Rhode Island and Robert D. Carey of Wyoming. The one gain by that party was the Massachusetts seat won by Henry Cabot Lodge II, grandson of the noted senator. He succeeded in defeating Gov. James M. Curley, Democratic boss of the state.

The Michigan seat of the late James Couzens was won by Representative Prentiss M. Brown, who beat former Gov. W. M. Brucker. William E. Borah of Idaho, Arthur Capper of Kansas and Charles L. McNary of Oregon, all listed as Republicans, were re-elected; and so was George Norris of Nebraska who ran this year as an independent with the approval of Mr. Roosevelt.

Minnesota Democrats meekly accepted the wrecking of their state ticket by New Deal orders and helped elect Ernest Lundeen, Farmer-Laborite, to the senate. New Hampshire, the only state in which the Presidential vote was at all close, sends a Republican to the senate in the person of Gov. H. Styles Bridges. Other governors who won in senate contests were Theodore Francis Green of Rhode Island, who defeated Senator Metcalf; Clyde L. Herring of Iowa, victor over Senator

Dickinson, and Ed C. Johnson of Colorado, who defeated Raymond L. Sauter.

Among the many Republican members of the house of representatives who failed of re-election were Isaac Bacharach of New Jersey, Chester Bolton of Ohio and Mrs. Florence P. Kahn of California. George H. Tinkham of Massachusetts and Bertrand H. Snell of New York, minority leader, retained their seats. The new house will have five woman members, one fewer than in the last session. Oregon elected its first woman representative, Nan Wood Honeyman, Democrat and close friend of the Roosevelt family.

AT LEAST 25 states elected Democratic governors, and the number may be 27. In only three were the Republican nominees winners. William Langer, independent, won the governorship of North Dakota, from which he was ousted some time ago. Elmer Benson, Farmer-Laborite, was victorious in Minnesota, and Philip F. LaFollette, Progressive, in Wisconsin. New York re-elected Gov. Herbert Lehman, but he ran far behind President Roosevelt. Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois, Democrat, also won, but his vote, too, was far less than that for the head of the ticket.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, leaving Hyde Park for Washington to "try to balance the budget," as he said, authorized the announcement that on November 17 he would start on a cruise on the warship Indianapolis for a rest of about four weeks, and that it was possible he might go to Buenos Aires, Argentina, to open the Pan-American peace conference on December 1. He may also visit Rio de Janeiro.

JAMES A. FARLEY, manager of the triumphant Roosevelt campaign, resumed his office of postmaster general, attending the first post-election meeting of the cabinet. He said he would serve out his term but refused to comment on predictions that he would not be in the next cabinet. Mr. Farley is about to leave for a short vacation in Ireland.

The Democratic national chairman, commenting on the election, called attention to his exact forecast that Roosevelt would carry every state except Maine and Vermont, and added: "We would have carried Maine if we had put forth the same effort there as we did in the September election."

DEFENSE MINISTER EDOUARD DALADIER sees a possibility of a swift attack on France by Germany, so he urged upon the chamber of deputies army committee the immediate fortification of the Belgian and Swiss frontiers and the speeding up of manufacture of war materials. He asked the committee to recommend an appropriation of 500,000,000 francs to fortify the borders with another "Maginot line" of steel and concrete "pill boxes" and underground passages.

Edouard Daladier

Obligatory physical training for all Frenchmen, beginning at the age of eighteen, was proposed by Daladier as an aid to building up the French army.

The number of professional troops in the army, he asserted, has been increased in the last few months from 100,000 to 144,000.

KING EDWARD VIII, making his first parliamentary appearance since he succeeded to the throne of England, opened parliament with all the traditional ceremony. His throne stood alone in the house of lords and beside it rested the crown which has not yet been placed on his head. Robed in crimson and gold, the monarch read his address to the nation, beginning with his affirmation of the Protestant faith.

"My relations with foreign powers continue to be friendly," he said. "The policy of the government continues to be based on membership in the League of Nations."

He took up in turn the points of his government's proposed program. It would, he promised, work with other nations through the league, for peace. It would "persist in efforts" to build a new Locarno treaty and to extend the naval armaments limitations treaty signed last March by Britain, France, and the United States.

The government, he announced, will call an imperial conference in London next May, and that after his coronation he would go to India to be crowned emperor.

Mrs. Wallis Simpson, the king's American friend, had a choice seat in the diplomats' gallery, being accompanied by two other women.

Party Line-Ups in 10 Congresses

This chart shows how Republicans and Democrats will share seats in both houses of seventy-fifth congress, as compared with nine preceding congresses.

Election Sets a New Record With 43,000,000 Votes Cast

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, elected to a second term by a greater plurality than any candidate has ever enjoyed in the past, finds himself now with perhaps more power than has ever before been trusted to any man in the world. He polled some 25,500,000 popular votes, to set a new all-time record. Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, his Republican opponent, was a bit shy of 16,000,000, while William Lemke, the Union party candidate, polled about three-fourths of a million.

These results were based upon 107,309 districts reported out of the 122,722 in the United States. It was estimated that the total vote, with all districts reported, would approximate 43,000,000 also a new all-time record.

The American people, providing the incumbent Democratic candidate with 523 votes in the electoral college to 8 for Governor Landon, also voiced their approval of the New Deal by materially increasing the Democratic majority in both houses of congress.

The senate in the Seventy-fifth congress will find the Democrats with 75 of the 96 seats, outnumbering the opposition more than 4 to 1. The house of representatives, where the Republicans had hoped to recover as much as 125 seats, will see the Democrats even stronger than before, holding 334 seats against 89 for the G. O. P.

PRESIDENTIAL VOTE BY STATES

President Franklin Delano Roosevelt swept to re-election on the crest of the largest wave of votes, both popular and electoral, ever cast for a Presidential candidate, it was apparent with 105,251 districts reported out of a total of 122,722 in the United States. The table below shows the number of districts reporting in each state, the popular vote, the electoral vote and the winner's plurality in each state. Pluralities are estimated, since in most cases complete returns will not be available for some time:

Table with columns: STATE, Dists., Roosevelt, Lemke, Plurality in, Elect. Vote. Lists states from Alabama to Wyoming with corresponding vote counts.

* Complete. † Estimated total plurality when all returns are in. ‡ Landon Plurality

Here's How Parties Line Up in Congress

With smashing Democratic victories all down the line, this is the way the houses of the Seventy-fifth congress will line up, as compared with the Seventy-fourth congress. The next house of representatives: Democrats 334, Republicans 89, Progressives 7, Farmer-Laborites 5.

Total 435. The last house of representatives lined up as follows: Democrats 321, Republicans 104, Progressives 7, Farmer-Laborites 3.

The senate of the Seventy-fifth congress will find the seats distributed this way: Democrats 75, Republicans 23, Progressives 1, Independent 1, Farmer-Labor 2.

Total 96. The party alignment in the old senate was: Democrats 70, Republicans 23, Farmer-Labor 2, Progressive 1.

Total Vote Grows. The total vote in the 1936 election surpassed that of four years before by more than 3,000,000.

Limiting Incomes

If all the personal incomes in this country were limited to $5,000 and all money earned in excess of this amount equally divided among those whose income is under $5,000, each beneficiary would receive less than $2 a week extra. In 1931 this excess amounted to $4,000,000,000 and the number of incomes under $5,000 was 40,000,000.—Collier's Weekly.

SYNOPSIS

Dr. Greeding, a wealthy and talented middle aged surgeon, is possessed of seemingly supernatural powers. Occasionally he can wish for something extraordinary to happen and have the wish fulfilled. Greeding meets Ira Jerrell, a wealthy business friend of his own age, who tells him he loves his daughter Nancy and would like to marry her. Dr. Greeding is pleased and tells Jerrell he has a clear field. Nancy, however, is in love with Dan Carlisle, an assistant professor at the University who has little means. They discuss marriage, but decide to delay talking to her father about it. Nancy, who has been playing tennis with Dan that afternoon, tells her father she had been playing with a girl friend. Greeding knows this is untrue and is secretly enraged. Stepping into his wife's room his eye falls on a marble statuette which he dislikes. He picks it up, wishing he could smash it to bits. Suddenly it is snatched from his grasp as by an invisible force and burst asunder. Mrs. Greeding is greatly disturbed over the mysterious destruction of the statuette. The doctor reveals that Ira Jerrell wants to marry Nancy. On the way to a dinner party a car cuts in front of Greeding's. He angrily expresses the wish that the driver would break his neck. An instant later an accident occurs in which this very thing happens. At the dinner the Greedings meet Prof. Carlisle, Dan's father, and his daughter Mary Ann. Dr. Greeding is intrigued by Mary Ann, who is a surgical nurse. Mrs. Greeding tells Prof. Carlisle about the destruction of the statuette, and he indicates it might have been caused by a "poltergeist," a "racketing, mischievous spirit." Greeding pretends to Nancy that he has no objection to Dan. More interested in Mary Ann, Dr. Greeding induces her to take a position in his office. Eventually he finds he loves her. Jerrell continues to see Nancy, whose love for Dan is unchanged. The Greedings invite the Carlises to dinner. Dr. Greeding discusses with Prof. Carlisle the subject of "poltergeists," the doctor telling of some of his own experiences, but attributing them to a friend. Prof. Carlisle comments: "He who eats with the Devil will need a long spoon." The dinner party is interrupted by a call for Dr. Greeding from a neighboring town. He asks Mary Ann to accompany him. On the ride to see the patient, Greeding is extremely happy. He invites Mary Ann to visit their summer home. It is late when they finish the call. Nancy is disquieted when he kisses her hand on parting. Mrs. Greeding upbraids him when he returns home.

To each of the people who knew him best, this change presented itself in a different guise. Paul Master, through whom Doctor Greeding made his occasional investments, saw it in the shape of a reckless turn to speculation. Doctor Greeding had in such matters always heretofore been willing to hear advice and to be guided by sane counsels; but Associated Cottons was not the sort of security calculated to appeal to a conservative man, and Greeding had always been conservative. When during May and June he steadily increased his purchases of this stock, Master was more and more perplexed and uneasy. Cottons sagged steadily; but Doctor Greeding continued to buy, with a stubborn insistence which Master's best arguments could not shake.

From Mrs. Greeding's point of view, Doctor Greeding altered in the direction of an increasing irritability. He was apt to object to things which hitherto had evoked from him no least remonstrance. Between any husband and wife there grow up certain tolerances, certain acceptances. It had been so with these two. Mrs. Greeding always came downstairs to breakfast, usually in a dressing-gown and slippers and with a lace cap to hold in order her untended hair. Despite her presence, Doctor Greeding always read the morning paper, and Mrs. Greeding always talked to him constantly throughout the meal, content with his monosyllabic replies.

But now, when she did only what she had always done, he might explode: "I wish to heaven you wouldn't talk to me while I'm reading, Myra." Or: "Can't you find time to brush your hair before you come downstairs?" Or: "Isn't a woman wiser to make herself presentable in the morning before greeting her husband?" Or, obscurely: "They've a rule in Surabaya, I have heard, that no one speaks to anyone else before breakfast. It's a good one."

Mrs. Greeding was disturbed; but she was not in the least in awe of her husband.

"Nonsense, Ned," she protested, one morning. "I declare I don't know what's got into you all of a sudden. You object to the things I've done for years."

"Isn't the fact that you've done the same things for years enough reason for wanting to change?" he retorted.

"No, of course not. People our age are old enough to have arrived at a routine."

"Our age?" he demanded, in a rising exasperation. "You appear to think me on the verge of senility."

"I think you're on the verge of being a crosspatch," she said with a wistful tenderness. "Ned, dear, what's the matter with you lately? Tired? Nervous? Are things going badly at the office?"

"Nothing is the matter with me," he assured her angrily. "But you take the typical feminine attitude. If anything ruffles the placid surface of a woman's life, she decides there is something wrong with her husband. It never occurs to her that there is anything wrong with her."

"I haven't changed," she protested. "I haven't either," he insisted. "I always did resent your coming down to breakfast frowsy and half-dressed, and gabbling like a hen. But I've kept quiet about it for twenty years."

She said carefully: "I'm glad you did, Ned. It has made the years pretty happy ones for me."

So he knew a grudging contrition for his words, and came to kiss her cheek. "There," he said. "Sorry, Myra. Let me blow off steam on you, won't you?"

"Of course," she agreed, forgiving him completely. "As much as you like, my dear."

Early that evening Nancy and Dan had gone in her car, with sandwiches which she had herself prepared, to have a picnic supper together beside the Cochituate reservoir; they made a lark of it, enjoying the fact that all about them at little distances were other cars, other young folk like themselves who had come here to be alone.

"It makes me feel as though I belonged," Nancy confessed. "I suppose it's common, but I like it. I like to be doing the things all these other girls are doing, riding out here with their young men, and whispering together in the darkness, and making love." She said half-dreaming: "It makes me feel as though I were part of a big thing, a universal thing." She held Dan's hand tightly. "It is big, and universal, Dan; this loving, this mating, isn't it?"

Dan chuckled. "Bless you, yes, I suppose so," he said. "But I like to think it has never happened to anyone but us before. No one here can even half guess how I feel about you," he assured her. "No woman could!" He said, with mock gravity: "In fact, a serious doubt if even a man could more than vaguely understand the depth, the profundity, the complexity—"

She smiled beside him, pressed her fingers on his lips. "Hush," she bade him. "Those big words are over my head. Just kiss me, my dear; that's something I can understand!"

But in his arms she confessed presently: "Men are different, though, aren't they?" And she asked: "Dan, do you like Father?"

"Like him?" he echoed. "Sure, I think he's a wonder."

"So do I," she admitted. "But I'm scared of him."

"Why?" he protested. "He's been mighty decent to us. I expected him to rave and cuss and swear and drive me out of the house with a shotgun; but he has—"

She interrupted reflectively: "I think that's what worries me. When he first guessed about us, I know he was furious; but since then, he hasn't seemed to object at all—except to want us to keep it secret and wait. Dan, I have a feeling that he's just waiting for something to happen to separate us; that he thinks we'll quarrel, or you'll find some other girl, or something like that!"

"He'll have a long wait," he assured her loyally.

"No, I'm serious," she insisted. "I'm worried, Dan. He'll stop us if he can. And he's so shrewd and wise." Then, remembering: "He's changed lately. Mother says so, and I see it myself. He always used to be so calm; but now little things upset him. It's like having a stranger in the house."

"I suppose he blows off steam at home," Dan suggested; and he said: "Mary Ann says he never gets upset when he's working, says nothing disturbs him. She thinks he's a marvel!" He added, vaguely puzzled: "And she says he's a lot of fun, too—joking all the time, and gentle and kindly and considerate. She likes him."

Nancy shivered in his arms; and he asked: "Cold?"

"No, not a bit," she assured him. "I don't know why I shivered. Just—something."

CHAPTER V

It was not wholly true that Mary Ann saw no change in Doctor Greeding. She did not confess this even to Dan; yet no woman can be wholly unconscious of the fact that a man's thoughts are bound tight around her.

A day or two after that trip to Kennebunk together, disturbed by her own perception of the developing situation, Mary Ann came to the Doctor to suggest giving up her employment with him.

"I think Dan and Father need to have me more at home," she said evasively. "To keep the house running smoothly."

He said seriously: "I can understand the need for you there; but there is also a real need for you here."

"You could get some one—"

He spoke directly, with a disarming frankness. "Let's be straightforward about this," he urged. "I know what you're thinking. You're ill at ease, since our drive together the other night. You suspect that—my interest in you is rather more than professional!"

Her cheeks flamed; and he said with a chuckle: "I suppose that suspicion on your part is not unnatural; but Mary Ann, if it will reassure you, I guarantee that I'm not in danger of falling in love with you."

"Heavens!" she protested, laughing. "I never thought that! You must think me insufferably conceited!"

He shook his head. "Not at all! You know that I like you. I admire your ability, but I like you personally too. Very much indeed. But you need have no least misgiving, Mary Ann." He added soberly: "And in all seriousness, I do need you here. You are invaluable to me in my work. We can save a good many lives together, you and I."

In the end she did stay. He had, by stating her thoughts in plain words, shrewdly succeeded in making them ridiculous, and so destroying any reason she might have had for leaving him.

But also, she wished to stay. She found in this association with his work a daily pride and wonder. He had a healing magic in his fingers. He did miracles, without apparently realizing that they were miracles. She saw him perform operations which her training told her were well-nigh hopeless; yet the patient proceeded to swift and complete recovery.

Late in June, Mrs. Greeding and Nancy went to the lake to open the house for the summer, and the Doctor was left alone in Cambridge. Mary Ann suggested one night that he dine with them; but Doctor Greeding declined.

"I suspect your father is a little bored with me," he said. And he added: "I'm dining with Jerrell tonight. I hope he will spend the week-end at the lake with me. . . . By the way, when can you and Dan come up there? Sometime during August, say?"

"I know Dan will want to," she asserted, added evasively: "I'm not sure, myself."

But he insisted. "You must come. Myra and I like to have young people around. I suppose it makes us feel a bit younger ourselves."

"You're the youngest man I know," she assured him, smilingly; but she did not promise to accept this invitation.

He did dine that night with Jerrell; and Jerrell asked: "How's Nancy? I had no chance to see her before she went to the lake."

"You'd better run up with me over the week-end," Doctor Greeding suggested. "Myra will be glad to have you, and Nancy too, I know."

To this Jerrell readily agreed. They arranged, before they parted, that Jerrell should accompany Doctor Greeding to the lake Friday night; and at Jerrell's suggestion they chartered a seaplane and made the trip by air. Doctor Greeding telephoned ahead, and when they landed in the open water in front of the island, a boat put off to meet them, Nancy at the wheel, some one beside her. Doctor Greeding with a quick resentment and concern recognized Dan Carlisle. He had not anticipated the possibility that this young man would be here, and regretted it; and when they were in the boat, he said almost curtly:

"Hallo, Dan. Didn't expect to see you."

"I was on my way to the mountains," Dan replied. "Just stopped on my way through."

"I made him stay for dinner," Nancy explained, and turned the boat toward shore.

Mrs. Greeding was on the wharf to meet them. They moved up the path to the house, and Jerrell made appreciative comments. The house was like a Swiss chalet in outward aspect, with a low red-tiled roof. Within, they came into a big living-room that extended to the roof-beams, with a tremendous fieldstone chimney like a column in the center. A balcony ran along two sides of this living-room; at the second-floor level, and bedrooms were accessible from this balcony. Doctor Greeding showed Jerrell his room, in the rear on the second floor, then himself returned with Mrs. Greeding to the big south bedroom which they occupied. And when they were alone there, he said to her in a low tone, resentfully:

"You might have used a little common sense, Myra. You knew Jerrell was coming. There was no need of his finding Dan here."

She said defensively. "I was playing bridge, at Mrs. Thurston's, when he telephoned. So Nancy answered, and when I got home he was here. After all, if Nancy is going to prefer Dan, she had better find it out before she marries Ira Jerrell, rather than afterwards."

"She'd have too much native decency to find it out afterward," he retorted. "You know, she's my daughter."

Mrs. Greeding chuckled in affectionate amusement. "Darling, of course! You are a model of loyalty, I know. Not many middle-aged wives can be as sure as I that their husbands have never looked around the corner."

"It's not a thing to brag about," he retorted.

"It happens to be one thing I'm proud of," she insisted smilingly. "The fact that you still love me, I shall even boast about it, if I choose."

He said morosely: "I've heard mothers boast about their immaculate sons, when I happened to know that the youngsters were plain devils."

She laughed. "Don't try to pretend that you're fast and loose, my dear," she protested. "I know you too well." And she added, still lightly: "Even if you and Mary Ann—"

He exclaimed: "Myra, for heaven's sake don't start being jealous. Even if you are ready to think the worst of me, you might have more respect for Mary Ann. She's hardly a — home-wrecker, you know. It's shameful to suggest—"

"There," she protested, laughing almost desperately, "I don't suggest anything except that you have a swim before dinner. Here's your suit."

So he was silenced, and began to undress. After dinner Dan had to leave. Nancy suggested: "Shall we all go for a boat-ride, drop Dan at the harbor, and then have a run around the lake afterward?"

Doctor Greeding caught his wife's eye. "Take Mr. Jerrell," he suggested. "Ira, if you're a timid man, she'll give you bad dreams. There are some channels around this lake that I won't even tackle by daylight, but Nancy knows them in the dark. You go along!"

"I think I'll go too," Mrs. Greeding decided. "I—"

But Doctor Greeding said: "I want you to look over the bills with me, Myra, so I can have the checks sent out Monday." And when presently the others had departed, he said irritably: "You're singularly dense, sometimes. Jerrell doesn't want to ride around the lake at night with you!"

She seemed about to speak, then held her tongue.

After Dan was gone, the week-end passed pleasantly enough. Nancy and Jerrell played tennis together; they swam; they explored the lake. Sunday on the tennis court Doctor Greeding and Jerrell and the girl shot at targets. Pistol-shooting was the Doctor's pet hobby.

Jerrell proved singularly inept at this pastime. "I'd better stick to fishing," he confessed at last. "I can cast a fly more accurately than a bullet!"

And Nancy said: "I'll take you after bass this afternoon; see if you're as clever as you say."

When Doctor Greeding and Jerrell climbed into the plane for the return trip to Boston early Monday morning, the Doctor was well content. Jerrell and Nancy had been together constantly; and when Doctor Greeding said good-by to the girl, he kissed her, and asked in a whisper:

"Like Mr. Jerrell pretty well, Nancy?"

"He's a peach!" she agreed.

Mary Ann had already gone to the hospital when he reached the office; but he met her in the corridor outside the operating-rooms. His smile quickened at the sight of her.

She remarked: "You look rested," and he nodded.

"I am," he said. "Ready to move mountains."

She laughed softly. "Nothing so massive this morning," she replied. The forenoon passed in a monotonous routine. When the last case was done, he proposed: "Come and lunch with me. You can tell me what has been going on."

She hesitated; but then she assented, smiling at her own hesitation. "Very well," she said.

"Do you like Italian food—mine-strome, ravioli?" he asked, when they arrived at the restaurant.

"Of course. And I probably make the best spaghetti in captivity," she assured him smilingly.

"That will take some proving," he told her. "They are famous for it here."

But even after lunch she still insisted on the superiority of her own product. "We always have it Thursday nights," she explained. "Maid's night out, you know. Father and Dan devour it by the bale, or bushel, or whatever the unit of spaghetti measure may be."

Jerrell Asked, "How's Nancy?"

"I'll come, some Thursday night," he declared, "and give you a chance to prove your claims."

She hesitated, then she said: "Do come! When?"

"This next Thursday?"

She said, half to herself, thinking of appearances:

"Dan won't be there this week; but of course Father will!"

He read her thoughts, and was quick to turn them into another channel. "I saw Dan at the lake," he remarked. "He stopped off for dinner, on his way to the mountains—was there when Jerrell and I arrived."

She smiled. "I expect that distressed Dan. He knows Jerrell is fond of Nancy; and he feels pretty keenly that he hasn't much of anything to offer a girl like her."

"He has—you'll, to offer," said Doctor Greeding, watching her reaction to this suggestion.

"That's a fairly common asset," she pointed out. "If youth is a man's only capital, he'll soon be bankrupt. I'd rather rely on qualities acquired by years of life and effort, than on the accidental—and fleeting—virtue of youth!"

He looked at her thoughtfully. "You plead Mr. Jerrell's cause pretty warmly," he suggested, an intangible uneasiness awakening in him.

She smiled, said in easy evasion: "Oh, I was just talking abstractions." Then, abruptly: "It's almost two o'clock. We ought to get back."

Gondolas Were in Use in Sixteenth Century Days

Gondolas are first mentioned in an Eleventh century document, and by the Sixteenth century competition among their owners in Venice had become so fierce that the city had to set up a code of fair practices. Instead of being allowed to attract passengers by the bright colors on their boats, the gondoliers were summarily ordered to paint everything black and black the gondolas have remained to this day, observes a writer in the Los Angeles Times.

Using was probably the most fragile and impermanent material man has ever used as a writing material, while the parchment which they introduced proved to be the best, the most permanent, the most indestructible, and all in all the most satisfactory writing surface ever discovered.

Parchment is usually made of sheepskin or lambskin. And vellum which most people think of as be

Today's "Heroes of Civilization"

Courage and resourcefulness, in the line of duty or otherwise, seem confined to no particular class, race or age.

Many years ago, George Bernard Shaw said, "The courage to rage and kill is cheap. My bulldog has it, but he lets the groom beat him all the same." Military courage may not be precisely "cheap," but it certainly seems less fine than the behavior of what Carnegie called "the heroes of civilization." It is one thing to go over the top with the band playing—metaphorically, at least—and another to go over alone, without incentive outside of the job that is to be done and without thought of glory.—Channing Pollock in Cosmopolitan Magazine.

Stomach Gas So Bad Seems To Hurt Heart

"The gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart seemed to hurt. A friend suggested Adlerika and the first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never feel better."

Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adlerika gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months. Dr. H. L. Shand, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adlerika greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli." Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adlerika and see how good you feel! Just one spoonful relieves GAS and stubborn constipation. Leading Druggists.

A COLD caused this!

"Colds" are dangerous! Leading doctors tell us that fifty per cent of all disabling diseases START with a "common cold." Thus the cold germ becomes America's Public Health Enemy Number One.

Any sudden change in temperature as you go from a warm room into a cold one disturbs the heat-regulating apparatus of the body and makes it susceptible to cold germ attacks. Even the brief time that it takes to answer the telephone in an unheated hall is sufficient. Fight against "colds." They create a condition of depressed physical vitality which is favorable to infection and aid the progress of serious organic diseases that frequently result in death.

If your home is inadequately heated . . . if you "huddle" in one room during winter, sudden temperature changes are unavoidable. Your family goes from an over-heated room where the temperature has climbed as much as ten degrees past the point necessary for comfort. into a cold hall or adjoining room; then shivering and chilled, they return to the heated room. This happens many times a day. Each time it happens they have made themselves susceptible to highly communicable winter diseases.

Fight colds this winter with proper ventilation and adequate heat in every room in the home.

. . . Lone Star Gas System

The common gold germ shows no favor. Invisible but dangerous, this Number One Enemy of Public Health skulks like a bandit of the night ready to rob you of good health.
