The seven men on trial are: Dan Riddish, Ray L. Beede, C. G. Whitcomb, J. H. Pitts, Tom Hall, Frank Cardwell and John Smith.

RAY BEEDE ACCUSED OF THE MURDER OF CARROLL

ARDMORE, OKLA., Dec. 23.—A sensational automobile case at Ray Beede, local automobile dealer by Walter Carroll, witness, brought to a dramatic climax Thursday the preliminary trial of Beede and six other Carter county citizens, charged jointly with murder in connection with the killing of three men at Wilson here on the night of Dec. 13. Carroll, a brother of Joe Carroll, who was called to the door of his home at Wilson and was shot down by masked men, was the second witness to testify, and after repeating several times in answer to questions of the prosecution, that he had recognized the man who killed his brother, he was asked if that man was among the defendants in the trial.

Appearing uncertain at first, he requested that the defendants be asked to stand and no sooner had he given answer from their seats in front of the witness box, than he pointed at Beede and said:

"That is the man who shot my brother."

Comparatively shocked into silence, the court room hush was broken by the hysterical cry of Mrs. Beede seated directly behind him, her husband who rising from her seat, in an agonized voice, said:

"He didn't."

To those farthest from her in the courtroom, it seemed as though she had swooned, but she immediately regained her composure broken only at intervals by her sobbing.

Witness Next Door

Carroll, who said he is 23 years old and a barber, testified that he lives next door to his brother and that he was awakened the night of the killing, by the sound of shooting. Procuring his revolver, and unclothed, he went outside, and amid the screams of women and the shouts of men he saw several men in a struggle with his brother, while others, all of whom were masked, he stated, were passing and shooting at a woman standing in the doorway. He also stated that there was shooting.

There were five or six men to the best of his recollection, he stated, and he fired into the melee until his revolver was emptied. He then returned to his home and obtained a rifle, returning fire by five more shots at the intruders.

He said he saw a man moving a woman about and heard the woman say:

"Don't do that, Ray," after which, he testified the man had his brother on the ground and was firing into his body with a short gun."

He described his brother's assailant as a few, heavy set man with broad shoulders, and told the court that the man was taken to the county jail and locked up the day following his (Carroll's) arrest Saturday.

Questioned Freely

Attorneys for the defense then put several questions to the witness and on re-direct examination, he was asked by Attorney General Freeling if the man who killed his brother was in the courtroom. It was then that he noticed his accusing finger at Beede and made the statement which sent a wave of amazement over those in the courtroom.

The seven men who faced trial today from, among the 14 charged with murder in connection with the affair were asked on trial under joint information.

All seven entered pleas of "not guilty." Four of the remaining defendants requested severances and their cases were continued until Tuesday. Two were granted 24 hours in which to enter pleas, and the case against the other man was passed indefinitely.

The men on trial are: Dan Riddish, Ray L. Beede, C. B. Whitcomb, J. H. Pitts, Tom Hall, Frank Cardwell and John Smith.

BRIAND FIRST TO SENSE THOUGHT OF AMERICAN PEOPLE

JUSTIFIES ESTIMATE BY HIS FRIENDS OF MENTAL EQUIPMENT.

U. S. BADLY INFORMED AS TO FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Wentons to London to Confer With Lloyd-George on Plans For Europe.

By COL EDWARD M. HOUSE, (Copyright, Public Ledger Co.)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21.—Arling-bridge Briand was not in the United States long, but while here he justified the estimate his friends have of his mental equipment. We have had many of his comparisons with us in the past, men distinguished in statescraft and affairs, but Briand is the first to sense American thought and feeling as they relate to Europe. It takes something more than sheer ability to understand properly the psychology of an alien race. What Briand seems to have learned in the few busy weeks he was here was that we are a peace-loving, generous people, but badly informed as to foreign affairs and not at all inclined to become international philanthropists on the grandiose scale Europeans have in mind. Therefore, it is said that this subtle-minded statesman has taken himself to London to confer with his no less subtle minded colleague, Lloyd George, to plan ways and means by which Europe may save herself. This is at it should be, and the pity of it is that it was not undertaken sooner.

Few Realize Condition. When the Versailles peace treaty was being made, few of the makers realized the condition in which Europe had been left by the war. The predominant thought was to gather in the spoils of victory and to find ways for making the enemy pay for the grievous wounds which had been inflicted. There was but little realization then that the peace should not be much a matter of punishment as the finding the way out of a hopeless morass which threatened to engulf us all. The United States is not unwilling to do its share toward the rehabilitation of a shattered continent to which it is tied by so many interests. But it must first understand what that share is to be, and why the effort should be made. We slowly are learning how closely our affairs are interwoven with those of Europe and how essential their well being is to our own.

Process of Education. This process of education regarding the interdependence of nations is going on more rapidly in Europe than here. We find the British prime minister gradually and sanely withdrawing his preposterous position that the Germans should pay the entire sum which the war cost the allies on land and sea. Victory is a heady wine, and it went to more heads than one. We find him each successive month yielding something further regarding the payments of reparations. That matter was never thought out well in the beginning, otherwise it would not be the source of trouble it is. If a definite sum had been fixed for Germany to pay, a sum as great as it was humanly possible for her to pay, but no greater, the bankers of the world would have underwritten it and most of the international financial distress with which the world has been afflicted for the last two years might have been avoided. This would have eliminated also the fear of having the international markets flooded with cheap goods. Even Briand is beginning to see this question eye to eye with Lloyd George. Recently he was saying: "The bankruptcy of Germany will bring France to an impossible position." And so it will. One of the greatest of the German bankers said to the writer last summer: "If bankruptcy comes to Germany today, it will come to France tomorrow." But there is no necessity for it to come to either, and Lloyd George and Briand doubtless will find the way out. One of the most hopeful signs is that they are no longer looking to us to find the way for them. That hope was as fatuous as their demand of Germany to do the impossible. There never will be a disposition in this country to help in the way Europe wants us to help until she helps herself. The United States wants continental Europeans to cease their constant threats of war and to disarm, to reduce their governmental expenses and to tax their citizens as drastically as her own citizens are taxed. Let these conditions be met, and we will be ready to discuss the part we should take toward the rehabilitation of European finances.

ONE BANDIT KILLED ANOTHER CAPTURED

Party Held Said to Resemble Man Who Robbed Passengers On B. & O.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—Victims of the Chesterfield bandit who robbed several passengers on the Baltimore and Ohio night flyer Tuesday night, today called at the police station for the purpose of identifying Claude Thomas, 23, of Seattle, who was captured last night after his companion, Carl Gilbert, 20, of Omaha, had been killed by a policeman. Thomas and Gilbert had kidnaped Mrs. James J. Callahan, wife of the former manager of the Chicago American league baseball team; her daughter, Margaret, 17, and George Hamilton, her brother, after they had stepped into an automobile in front of their home on the south side. Police William McNaughton, leaning from the running board of a pursuing car, commanded by Mr. Callahan, killed Gilbert and forced Thomas to surrender after a wild zig-zag drive through the streets of the south side, which ended when the Callahan car was

From the income of the foundation fund awards will be made from time to time by a nationally constituted committee to the individual or group that has rendered within a specific period meritorious service to democracy, public welfare, liberal thought or peace through justice. THE WOMAN'S PAGE

Three Pairs of Twins Will Help Christmas Along

Three happy pairs of twin babies will help Rev. and Mrs. W. L. Nelson of 502 Virginia street celebrate Christmas this year, and are putting the Nelsons in the champion grandparent class. The little folks, all of whom will be here by Saturday noon, are:

Little Misses Rena May and Dena Fay Whorton, twin girls of Mrs. Arthur Whorton of Canadian, Texas, aged two years.

Master Burzell and Miss Merle Whorton, twin children of Mrs. Tom Whorton of Hollis, Okla., aged 15 months.

Misses Pearlina and Geraldine Cannady, twin daughters of Mrs. Ben Cannady of Mangum, Okla., aged two months.

The babies will be accompanied by their mothers, of course, and the Nelsons are expecting a tip-top Christmas celebration. Neither Mr. or Mrs. Nelson was a twin, but Mrs. Nelson's mother was one of a pair, and Mr. Nelson had sisters who were twins.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS DADDY'S ADVICE

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The Green Shoes were on in a second and the Twins turned their attention to a funny little house of rough boards, snuggled away up in the top branches of a big apple tree.

The little house had been there ever since they could remember and had been a constant source of curiosity and chagrin because they were not allowed to climb up and investigate its mysteries.

"No," Daddy had said over and over. "As I was the carpenter for the little board house when I was a youngster, I know how wobbly it is. I don't know how the old thing holds together at all after so many years."

"To be satisfied with pretending that it's a fairy-elevator or a witch's haunt, or whatever you like, kiddies. That's just as much fun and far less dangerous. By the time two healthy youngsters like you would add your weight to the porricky thing, with all its nails falling out, it wouldn't last two minutes!"

"And so there was nothing left to do but take Daddy's advice and pretend. They pretended that the old house in the tree was every thing from the Turk's Flying Carpet to Snow-White's Crystal Casket, where the prince found her and took her for his bride.

But the house had remained a

SEVENTY-FIVE MOTHERS AND BABIES ATTEND CRADLE ROLL PARTY

Seventy-five babies and their mothers attended the Cradle Roll party at the First Methodist Church South, Thursday afternoon, when Madames Grover Bullington, superintendent of the infants class; Jason Walker, Jim Hanks and C. Y. Tully and Miss Margaret Hanes, assistants, gave their first quarterly entertainment for the babies.

The room was attractively decorated in Christmas things, and a brief little folks' program was given. Miss Mignon Sanford gave two readings, Master Oral Jones two and Miss Bon Hardy Chambers one, following the singing of a beautiful Christmas song by Mrs. E. C. Hockabee. Then a big hamper, attractively decorated, was brought in, and the babies were permitted to draw toys from the bag by pulling ribbons, beginning with the "littlest" baby present, young Miss Hones. Later Miss Hanes introduced Mrs. Bullington, laughingly charging the mothers that they might go to Mrs. Bullington for sympathy, as she was a mother, but they should come to her for advice, as all "old maids" are notably well prepared to direct the rearing of children.

The mothers were taken into the pretty nursery, adjoining the West street classroom, where babies are cared for during Sunday school each Sunday by a colored girl. Later, after finding their two nearest street neighbors by means of the tags each wore, they were served delicious refreshments of hot chocolate and cake. The little folks were served animal crackers and stick candy.

CHRISTMAS CANTATA TO BE GIVEN SATURDAY NIGHT

The young people and little folks of the First M. E. church, Seventh and Lamar, will entertain Santa Claus with a beautiful Christmas cantata program Saturday evening at the church, when the latter arrive to distribute presents from the big Christmas tree.

The program will begin at 7:30, and brownies, fairies, newboys, Chinese, Indian, Eskimos, the Frost King and Queen, with a big crowd of doll mothers, will take part in the cantata, numbering nearly a hundred children who have been in training for the entertainment for some weeks. The parents and friends are cordially invited to attend the program, as are all others interested.

2nd Generation Is True to Form, Friends Assert

Friends of a certain Wichitan are convinced that there is something in heredity.

This Wichitan has recently brought his son downtown to see the Christmas windows and perhaps get a line on what the youngster wanted Santa Claus to bring him. The boy displayed but mild interest in the array of mechanical toys, wagons, guns and other boyhood delights, but when he spied a small mechanically-operated figure of a dancing woman he would not be denied. He insisted that such a gift, of all things, was what he must have for Christmas.

The next man that quotes the saying "Like father, like son" in that office had better be prepared to dodge quick.

COMMUNITY SERVICES AT FREE METHODIST CHURCH

Announcement that community church services are being held each evening in the Free Methodist church on Lee street has been made by Mrs. Letha Reeves and Miss Leona Ling, associated workers with Claud H. Elliott, who is directing the work. Mr. Elliott has had 19 years' experience in Fort Worth, Waco and other Texas points as a director of evangelistic work. He is being assisted by his father, D. S. Elliott, and son, Marvin.

Although conducted in the Methodist church the services are in no respect denominational and a hearty invitation is extended to the public to visit any of the nightly meetings.

Some street work is also being done by Mr. Elliott and his co-workers.

PECAN EXPERT TO VISIT THIS SECTION EARLY NEXT YEAR

W. T. Evans of Arlington, one of the foremost authorities on pecan culture in the country, will be in this section early in 1922 to look into the possibilities of improved pecan growing. It was learned Friday that Mr. Evans is now conducting some important experiments in pecan growing for W. D. Cline and C. H. Clark of this city, both of whom are planning extensive pecan planting on their farm properties.

Mr. Evans believes that by budding the native trees of this section can produce large paper shell nuts of a readily marketable variety, and it is expected that his trip here will lead to more attention to pecan culture in this section. The native pecans of this section are said to rank in flavor and richness with any that are grown, but do not attain the size of some other varieties.

Of the two special varieties of pecans to which Mr. Evans is giving his attention, one, called the Walter Cline pecan, did very nicely this year; the other, known as the C. H. Clark pecan, did not do so well.

CLARENDON RECEIVES A CAR OF DAIRY CATTLE

CLARENDON, TEXAS, Dec. 22.—Along with the line of diversification Donley county gets a car of good dairy cattle. Many of the Donley county farmers have expressed their faith in dairy cows as the best means of providing for their family during these strenuous times. One banker of long experience made the remark, "It is seldom, if ever, a foreclosure is made on a man who has as many as four dairy cows and produces his meat and poultry at home."

The local expressman is endeavoring to secure a better rate on the shipment of cream to market. In many of the states cream is shipped several hundred miles and with a low express rate the same can be done here.

With the increased interest already in the hog industry and with this new start in the dairy industry, at the present time a renewed interest is being taken in the poultry. Using these along with agricultural lines spells "diversification." The watchword for Donley county. Add "buy at home." "Live at home." "Have good roads at home, and this section cannot fail.

CHIC SALE PICTURES OLD HOME TOWN IN NEW MOVIE

The center figure is Chic Sale as he is. The others represent four of the seven characters in "His Nibs," a clever movie picturing the Old Home Town and the movies.

By JAMES W. DEAN.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—The Old Home Town as Stanley caricatures it in his cartoon has reached the photoplay screen. This, in Chic Sale's new movie, "His Nibs," is the best contemporary mimic of rural and small-town types, plays seven parts in the comic. It is a satire on the small-town movie exhibitor.

The characters in the movie are much the same as those Sale has portrayed on the vaudeville stage for years. Yet they are very similar to those in the Old Home Town cartoons. About the only character missing from the cast is Bruno, the "git-fer-home" dog.

This movie has merit. It has a new idea—and that counts for most in a motion picture. The characters are humanly drawn, yet are natural. Some of the comedy is subtle, some of its borders on the slapstick variety, yet it is all wholesome. There's a movie within the movie. First a local news reel is shown. The feature of that is President Harding passing through town. Only the speeding train is shown, but the president passed through, anyhow.

One local citizen would not enter until the "bell-rin" and "playin'" is over. He wanted to see the pitcher. He has the same attitude toward the frills as some of his big city cousins have toward prologues and other features of presentation.

His Nibs omitted the subtitles from the feature film. He made up his own as the film progressed. That was better than having every-one reading the titles aloud.

The hero hit the villain "Wham!" That was the cryptic subtitle His Nibs announced.

He didn't show the train when the hero left town. He announced it out of the train. It's the same in every pitcher, anyhow.

The hero became involved in trouble. "The boy's in a mess now," His Nibs announced.

After the climax was reached the film ended. "The rest of the pitcher I cut out; it was too mushy," the exhibitor announced.

That's clever satire. Most of the films of today include too much of the obvious. It is not unusual for a subtitle to point out a situation or condition which the audience has already sensed.

Then, too, it hardly seems necessary to show persons boarding a train to indicate that they are leaving, or leaving a train to show that they have arrived, when no incident during the trip is essential to the plot. It is not relevant to the plot to disclose the manner of travel, nor is it essential to show hero and heroine in embrace to indicate a happy ending.

Highbone Stuff.
Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, has proposed the establishment of a film gallery in Los Angeles. He would admit to its pictures achieving a certain standard and passed upon by impartial reviewers. He would make of the building an architectural masterpiece. This project would correspond to the Louvre and other great art galleries of the world.

The Projector.
Maurice Tourneur is filming "Lorna Doone." Griffith's next may be "East Is West." Fay Bainter's stage success "The Golden Galleon" is the next vehicle for Miss DuPont. Universal staff who once was Marguerite Armstrong.

"Always Warm and Green" That's the title role of a scenario written by Gouverneur Morris for Goldwyn.

"The Gilded Cage" has been bought as a vehicle for Gloria Swanson. That is an adaptation of "Love Dreams," a musical comedy now playing on Broadway.

PRISONERS NEED WEARING APPAREL -SHERIFF SMITH

ASKS DONATIONS OF DISCARDED CLOTHING AND SHOES FOR 35 MEN.

SURPLUS IF ANY TO BE GIVEN SALVATION ARMY

Sheriff Smith and Wife Prepare To Serve Prisoners With Turkey Dinner.

Practically all of the 35 men who are prisoners in the Wichita county jail are destitute of clothes and wearing apparel in general and Sheriff Fred Smith is sending out an appeal for donations of clothes and shoes which people are ready to discard.

Some of the prisoners are without friends or relatives and some have been in jail for such a length of time that their clothes are all worn out and they have nothing more to depend upon.

Mr. Smith and his wife are preparing to serve every one of the men in jail with a turkey dinner on Christmas day.

All the trimmings that attend a turkey dinner will be included. The sheriff stated that he expected to make Christmas as joyful an occasion as circumstances would permit for the men housed in the county jail.

CHARGE OF RECKLESSNESS GROWS OUT OF SMASHUP LATE THURSDAY EVENING

San Warren, a negro employe of the Kent Brothers garage, was fined $25 Friday morning when assigned before Judge Ogil in the city police court on a charge of reckless driving.

The complaints against Warren were made by Joe Martin, a workman of the Wichita Cleaning and Dye Works, following a traffic smashup in front of the Times office late last Wednesday afternoon.

Martin's car was reported to have been badly damaged in the accident. The negro was vigorously prosecuted by City Attorney Mann, and was defended just as vigorously by W. T. Kent, one of his employe's.

Some verbal battles grew out of the case and following the verdict a complaint charging Martin with reckless driving was made by Mr. Kent.

Judge Ogil set this case for trial Saturday morning.

ALICE LORRAINE DALY

By NEA Service. PIERRE, S. DAK., Dec. 23.—A "campaign against conditions" is promised by Alice Lorraine Daly, educator and public speaker, who has been nominated by the non-partisan league for governor of South Dakota.

Under the Richards primary law Miss Daly must name three paramount issues of the campaign and debate them with her opponents in at least three different towns in the state. In the following article, written especially for The Times, she tells her platform and the sources of her inspiration.

By ALICE LORRAINE DALY Non-partisan league candidate for governor of South Dakota.

My campaign will not be a campaign against anybody. It will be a campaign against conditions against the weaknesses of our present wornout economic system, and for a more modern system of finance, credit, public control and ownership that will lift from the masses of our people the burdens of mortgages, taxes and every recurring payment of interest that keep them in a state of servitude and make the burden of anguishes too intense for continuous human endurance.

My life has been made up chiefly of experiences that were singularly impersonal; what has happened to me personally, has been trivial. The experiences that have shaped my life have been the experiences of other people. Those incidents stand out like flaming torches against a midnight sky.

The execution of Sir Roger Casement. The mobbing of a pacifist in his home town, which was also my town, after he had served his sentence in the penitentiary. The fact that I witnessed the farmers of a county excluded from a hall they had engaged because the local authorities had learned that the farmers intended to hold a non-partisan league meeting.

The knowledge that mothers, already too heavily burdened, must go down into the shadow of the valley of death, alone, miles from any medical assistance, in order that our state, heedless of their needs, might be enriched by the coming of new life.

The death of good homes among our workers, the lack of educational opportunities for our rural children.

Born on an island farm on the outskirts of St. Paul in the Mississippi river, I lived out of doors free and close to nature. I believe that I love nature as the Indians love it. It has been one of the most powerful, uplifting and appealing influences of my life.

Ever since I came to South Dakota I have been intensely interested in the suffrage movement, and later in the work of the league of women voters.

I am deeply interested in all phases of the peace movement and have consecrated my life to the fight against militarism and to the effort to make the teachings of the prince of peace a reality in our national and international life.

MEDICINE MAN IS WORTH A MILLION

Makes Fortune in Eleven Years, Though He Knocks Some Of His "Yarbs."

By NEA Service. HAMMOND, IND., Dec. 23.—Joseph E. Myer, who lives here, is worth more than a million.

But 11 years ago he was striving to put bread in his children's mouths on a salary of $35 a week.

How did he do it? Selling Indian herb remedies. Some of them will cure what ails you and others—well—they won't do you any harm.

Myer has built up a nation-wide clientele and easily has more patients than any doctor in the world. He has an herb formula concocted to cure almost every disease and he sincerely thinks they are beneficial.

And he has other herbs that he says will cure nothing but which superstitious people demand. He urges his customers not to buy them—but they persist.

"I've printed thousands of pamphlets knocking my own products," he says, "that is, the useless ones."

But people continue to demand "yarbs" to ward off the evil eye, to make them attractive to keep ghosts away, to defeat plans of witches, to win lovers—and a stream of quarters and halves pours into Myer's coffers.

Still Myer says superstition's decreasing. He's learned: That women are more superstitious than men. That the southwest is the most superstitious part of the United States and the Great Lakes region the least.

That superstition will have vanished altogether in the United States after 25 years.

PRESIDENT SENDS MESSAGE THROUGH SALVATION ARMY

DALLAS, TEXAS, Dec. 22.—For the first time in history the white house at Washington is sending a direct message to the poor and needy of America when the Christmas bells ring out this year. In a brief but important announcement, President Harding is about to thank the poor for their patience and optimism in a most difficult crisis, at the same time announcing to them the return of national prosperity. The signed statement will be delivered to the homes of tens of thousands of the very poorest people in the United States, when Christmas baskets, filled with good things to eat are handed in by the Salvation Army on Christmas eve. Tucked away with the poultry, vegetables and sweets will be a copy of the "War Cry," for which President Harding has especially written his message of thanks and good cheer to the poor.

An outstanding feature of the president's special Christmas message to the poverty stricken, is a time in which he thanks the distracted poor, the life and all unfortunate for having kept good order in this country during the ordeal of a great commercial and industrial depression. The president thereupon lifts the curtain on an approaching better times. His message reads: "Through the medium of the Salvation Army, which throughout its history has been peculiarly useful and helpful, I want to send a word of Christmas greeting to these unfortunate for whom the Salvation Army has accomplished so much. I think we may confidently hope and believe that the most difficult part of that period of industrial and economic depression which followed the war is now past, and that from this time forward conditions will improve. It has been an occasion of great satisfaction to me throughout this distressing period there has been manifested all over the country so splendid a spirit of understanding and good citizenship. I am sure that I do not exaggerate when I say that I believe in no other country would such splendid order and uniform good conduct have prevailed among the people at large, during a time which involved such difficult living conditions for great multitudes of people. It is because our people have shown such fortitude, such high civic idealism, that we are now emerging from the distress and difficulties of this period."

HOPE FOR FREIGHT RATE REDUCTION TO BENEFIT THE STATE

DALLAS, Dec. 22.—Hopes of a freight rate reduction beneficial to Texas shipping, were expressed today by Mr. Leffingwell, manager of the transportation department of the Texas chamber of commerce, who has returned from a hearing before the interstate commerce commission. Eastern, southern and western carriers were heard after which the hearing adjourned until January 3, when the carriers will be given an opportunity of presenting further evidence. This will probably require ten or twelve days, after which several days will be devoted to cross examination of the carriers. After the conclusion of the cross examination shippers will give their testimony.

Shippers and shippers' representatives held a meeting at the opening of the hearing and elected Charles E. Elmquist, St. Paul lumberman, head of the steering committee, which will conduct the shippers' campaign for reductions.

"There was a general feeling among shippers at Washington that, in case reductions are granted, they should favor no particular commodity," says Mr. Leffingwell. However, indications are that many shipping interests will seek rate reductions upon specific commodities during the January hearing.

Mr. Leffingwell also attended the argument by the carriers for a suspension of the order in the western grain case. This order, which reduces freight rates on wheat and articles taking same, at about 13 per cent, with an even greater reduction on coarse grains, will become effective December 27, the commission having refused to grant the petition for suspension.

AN INVESTIGATION INTO RETAIL PRICES HAS BEEN STARTED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Federal investigation of retail prices charged in various parts of the country for food, fuel, shoes and clothing has been initiated by Attorney General Daugherty. He gave orders to Director Burns of the bureau of investigation to the justice department to assign a force of men at once to the duty of obtaining data on retail prices in different localities.

Mr. Daugherty declared that prices of necessary commodities were too high and that in some instances the profits of retailers were "unconscionable." It would never be possible, he asserted, to get prices down to the pre-war level, but with the cost of foodstuffs reduced, he was determined to learn whether the present "badly proportioned" retail prices should be maintained.

Mr. Burns was instructed to put his men to work simultaneously on the variations in various localities in the retail prices of general foodstuffs, such as meats, provisions, beans, bread and butter, fuel, shoes and clothing and to make subjects of the comparative prices. Reports will also be gathered on the wholesale price of wheat, beef and mutton of all kinds in order, Mr. Daugherty explained, that comparisons might be made of the costs of these commodities with the prices charged by the butchers and grocers. The department agents are to be instructed to do their work

PICTURES OF WOMEN'S ARMY IN MINE WAR

Women, carrying babes in their arms, were common among the 6,000 soldiers of the feminine army that took up the cause of their striking husbands and fathers in the mine fields, near Pittsburg, Kansas.

The army of 6,000 wives and daughters of striking Kansas miners advancing toward the pits where men, obeying orders of the United Mine Workers of America, were at work. Waving American flags, laughing and jostling, they halted only at stopped until arrival of state troops.

carefully but as rapidly as possible. Organization of retailers in different parts of the country were blamed by Mr. Daugherty for high prices.

The department, he stated, intends to investigate these while at same time recognizing that many innocent merchants had been imposed upon by them.

Trade associations generally, he said, were showing a commendable willingness to confine their activities to the lines suggested by the justice department as in conformity with the law but where the department's advice had been disregarded, it had been necessary to institute proceedings under the Sherman anti-trust act.

Recognition of the de facto government in Guatemala will depend upon the reports of conditions there to be made by American minister, Roy Davis, it was said today.

Mr. Davis is expected to go to Guatemala City in the near future. Preceding him, George D. Childs, who sailed last week to be American charge there, will investigate the revolution and the new government thoroughly, particularly to learn if it represents a majority of the people, it was said.

Three Americans are the only inhabitants of the Palmyra islands. They gather coconuts and are visited by a schooner once a year.

"General" Marie Gault, leading the women's army that marched against the coal mines of Kansas, exhorted her 6,000 soldiers not to give up until all "strikebreakers" were out of the pits.

U. S. MAKES EFFORT TO PRESERVE PEACE IN SOUTH AMERICA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—An effort on the part of the United States to preserve peace in Central America following the revolution in Guatemala was disclosed today at the State department.

Immediately after the outbreak in Guatemala City, which resulted in the overthrow of the Herrera government, the United States government addressed a note to Salvador and Honduras, expressing the hope that peace would be preserved by them in accordance with the terms of their treaties with Guatemala. This note, it was said, was intended merely as an expression of the American government's desire for world peace.

Salvador and Honduras were members with Guatemala of the proposed republic of Central America and it was feared in some quarters that the revolution in Guatemala would result in efforts on the part of the other two member governments to prevent Guatemala's withdrawal from the proposed confederation.

Recognition of the de facto government in Guatemala will depend upon the reports of conditions there to be made by American minister, Roy Davis, it was said today.

Mr. Davis is expected to go to Guatemala City in the near future. Preceding him, George D. Childs, who sailed last week to be American charge there, will investigate the revolution and the new government thoroughly, particularly to learn if it represents a majority of the people, it was said.

Displeased With Activity of Press At Landru's Trial

PARIS, Dec. 22.—Only witnesses and such newspapermen as bear official permits with their photographs attached, will be admitted to French courts of assizes hereafter, Minister of Justice Bonnavoy ruled in the senate yesterday. Press photographers will be barred absolutely.

The ruling came after an interpolation by Senator Philip, representing the department of Gironde, on "what measures the government intends taking to prevent recurrence of the scandalous scenes and incidents in the Versailles assizes during the Landru trial."

He referred to the trial of Henri Desire Landru, so-called "Blue Beard of Gambais," now under sentence of death for the murder of ten women and a boy. Senator Philip related how press photographers had snatched the jurors while deliberating on the case and even while voting. Minister Bonnavoy replied that the photographs mentioned were taken 10 days before the verdict was reached. Senator Philip insisted that "scandalous behavior on the part of some war profiteers of both sexes was manifest both before and after the verdict."

"The scandal lasted 23 days," he added. "While the eyes of the French nation should have been turned on Washington or Angora (where the French negotiations with the Turkish nationalists were held) one heard and read nothing but Landru."

Landru himself during his trial had remarked: "Why all this fuss about the Landru case? There is a conference going on in Washington that is much more interesting."

The electrical resistance of the human body is less if a person is not in good health and greater in summer than in winter.

WHITE SOX VETERAN LEADS TWIRLERS IN AMERICAN LEAGUE

Urban Faber Has Great Record Despite Poor Showing Of Club.

Pitching honor for the past season in the American league went to Urban C. Faber, the White Sox veteran, according to the official pitching average released today. He allowed but 2.48 earned runs for each nine innings. Faber worked 331 innings before he was laid out with a sprained right arm. He pitched against Chicago by opponents when he pitched that were earned off the second best regular, George F. Savelle, of Washington, who had a sparkling season. The Chicago star was credited with 27 victories and charged with 15 defeats, a winning average of .625, though his team finished in seventh place.

Urban Shocker, great spittin' hurler of the Browns, won nine straight games in August and far ahead the season with a record of 37 won and 12 lost. Davis of the same team pitched and won a 19-inning contest from Washington in which only one man reached first base in the last nine rounds. Sam Jones and Joe Bush of Boston, Ed Egan and Ed Walsh of Cleveland and Stanley Coveleski of Cleveland all were effective despite the lively ball, while two young stars, Cole of Detroit and Bayne of St. Louis were almost unbeatable during the final months of the season. Most of the pitchers found it very difficult to pitch with the great sluggers of the league and the hurling, as a whole, was far less effective than in previous years. A few shutouts and games of few hits were conspicuous by their rarity and strike-out records of former years were not approached by the most successful of the twirlers.

If Clyde Milan is appointed manager of the Washington club it will mean that three of the best league leaders in 1921 will be star outfielders. That will be a bit out of the ordinary, as outfielders rather than the exception as big league managers. Tris Speaker of the Cleveland team has enjoyed great success during his managerial career. He won a pennant and a world series in 1920. In 1921 with a team that suffered badly at pitching he was a contender all the way. Ty Cobb at Detroit is the other star outfielder to assume the managerial reins of a big league club. In his first year as a leader, Cobb advanced his team a position higher than the previous year. He is of the belief that a strengthened infield will enable him to finish in the first division this year.

Who will succeed George McMillin at Washington? That is the question that is puzzling Washington fans and American league supporters in general. Clyde Milan has been prominently mentioned. A year ago no one would have given Milan the slightest consideration as a manager. If any one had mentioned the possibility of even Milan, he would have scoffed at the very idea. Fate very often decides one's destiny. Last year when an injury forced McBride out of the game, it was necessary that some one take charge of the club. McBride was under the doctor's care. Milan being the veteran in the lineup, had the position thrust on him. The club was in a very bad way at the time. It did not seem as if Milan would be able to make much headway. The club won the first game played under his direction, then the second and third. Milan became intensely serious. The players assumed the same attitude. They wanted him to make a good showing.

The club won 11 straight games with him in charge. The success caused Milan to have managerial ambitions. I am sure he would accept if the position was offered. The records show that catchers have predominated as managers. Infielders are a close second, and outfielders next in order. If Milan is appointed, the American league will present a rather unusual list of managers, three of them being star outfielders.

"BO" McMillin Promises TO BRING "ALL STAR" TEAM TO FORT WORTH, Dec. 23.—A telegram received this afternoon from Captain "Bo" McMillin of the Centre college eleven said positively that he would bring a team of "all stars" to Fort Worth December 21 to play the "All college stars of the south-west." He said his team would not appear as the Centre eleven, but the players as individuals. Among the regulars of Centre will be only McMillin himself. But stars of other days at Centre, like "Red" Weaver and Matty Bell of Haskell institute, he said, would play.

MIDGET SMITH TO MEET BUFF AS RESULT OF HIS VICTORY OVER HERMAN NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Pete Herman of New Orleans, whose dreams of conquest in the flat world included the regaining of the ban-champion title, lost last fall to Johnny Buff, was on his way home for Christmas today, a victim of the right-handed wallop of Midget Smith.

Last summer Pete became one of the "famous few" by regaining the title from Joe Lynch, to whom he lost it last December. He lost it again to Buff and hoped to battle his way to another bout with the Jerseyite for the title. He had marked success until last night, when he met Smith in a 15-round bout.

The New Orleans lad was off town, or something, and a mark from Smith's punches in a majority of the rounds. Smith as a result is to get a chance at the title.

LEE FOHL EXPLAINS WHY HE GAVE ELEVEN FOR ONE

By BILLY EVANS

Lee Fohl, of the St. Louis Browns, isn't strong on interviews. He seldom breaks into print with anything sensational. He has his own peculiar methods about doing a lot of things. Some of them perhaps may not be classified as conventional, yet Fohl in his quiet way gets results. And after all it is results that count in baseball like anything else.

During the recent meeting of the major league in New York, Fohl was sitting in the lobby of the hotel where the conference was being held. Baseball, of course, was the subject of conversation.

A few hours previous the St. Louis club had announced that it had traded eleven ball players to the Columbus team of the American Association for Pitcher Dave Danforth. Naturally such an unusual trade was the sole topic of conversation among the baseball men who thronged the lobby.

"What is the idea of giving a ball club a couple of substitutes for a pitcher who has had his chance?" was the question that was constantly fired at Fohl.

The St. Louis manager simply smiled at all the hot shot that was poured at him and usually remarked, "Yes, and I have 11 more players who I will be willing to give for any other pitcher who I believe will help my club."

Most Unusual Trade. The deal involving Danforth is unquestionably one of the most unique ever made in baseball. Often three or four players and cash have been handed over for one player. But to turn over a whole team and a couple of extra men certainly was out of the ordinary.

The peculiar feature about the transaction is that neither club seems to have been gold bricked. The St. Louis club, however, is taking by far the longer haul. It is a deal filled with possibilities for both clubs. Unquestionably it was a deal for Manager Rowland of Columbus.

Rowland gets Palmero, a left-handed pitcher with plenty of stuff. If Palmero had confidence in himself he would be a big star. He lacks that in the majors. He seems to have plenty of it in the minors. He should help Rowland. Aside from his pitching he is a good fielder and fast on the bases. A handy man to have about. Lowdermilk, another pitcher with

LONG TRAIN RIDE WILL HURT CHANCES

Team Aggie Figure Centre Will Be Weakened by Jump From California.

The St. Louis Browns gave up 11 players in trade for Dave Danforth, pitcher of the Columbus team in the American Association. Columbus receives four pitchers and a second baseman immediately, three players next spring, two more in 1922 and one in 1923. Danforth pitched for the White Sox in 1917.

A world of stuff, goes to Rowland. Lack of control has always kept Lowdermilk from making good in the majors. He gets by in fine style in the minors. He has so much stuff, batters hate to hit against him. Instead of waiting him out in the minors they swing away to hurry him out of the big show.

Burwell, if he had just a little more speed, would be a big league fixture. He pitches intelligently. He has plenty of nerve and a good curve, but his ball lacks zip enough to enable him to get by in the big show. In the minors he ought to go big.

Gleason, the second baseman, is a mighty valuable ball player. The other men who will figure in the deal are players of this type. They lack just something that keeps them from delivering in the big show.

Manager Fohl of the St. Louis club gives the major league viewpoint when he says: "If Danforth can win 12 games for me, it will mean a good deal. The players I have given for him could not be counted on to deliver that many victories."

Basketball Meeting Tonight. What is expected to be the last meeting of the basketball league before the season opens January 11 will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the American legion hall. The adoption of a constitution and by-laws will be the principal matter to come before team representatives. It is thought that the scale of admission prices will be 15 cents for male adults and 10 cents for children. Ladies accompanied by male escorts will be admitted free. This nominal fee is expected to cover all running expenses and it is hoped that a small surplus will be netted which will be turned over to the legion for the installation of shower baths.

Entrance Fee $10. Each team will be required to post an entrance fee of $10 tonight. From this sum the expenses already incurred in fitting up the hall will be deducted, but the first gate receipts will be turned back into the fund until the $10 is again intact. At the end of the season this money will be refunded to the organizations providing no fines have been inflicted and that the team remains in the league until the schedule is played out. Fines will be assessed by the executive committee for any infraction of the rules, and should a team fail to complete the schedule the entrance fee will be forfeited.

Players' Limit. All teams will be required to get down to a players' limit to be decided upon by the executive committee within a week or two after the opening game. Prior to that time the teams may draw from any source in the city providing the organization which the team represents will be responsible for the player. No drafting of one player by another club will be permitted unless the executive committee sees fit and it will not be permitted unless it is evident that it is for the good of the league. These are the main issues which will come before the team representatives tonight and another enthusiastic meeting is predicted.

National Board Decision. A recent bulletin issued by Secretary John H. Farrell, secretary of the National Association, relative to the decisions reached by the national board at Buffalo contain three decisions of interest to Wichita Falls fans. Harvey Grubb, former Spudder third baseman who was sent to Galveston last year, put in a claim for time against the Crabs for $66.84 which was allowed by the board. The Bufts have been awarded the services of George Whiteman, though a claim was put in for him by the International league club from which he was obtained. The third decision of local interest was the declaration of the board that Benny Allen's application to become a free agent from Meridian had been allowed. Benny was with the Spudgers the latter part of last season, joining after the Meridian season had closed.
