LEWIS DESCRIBES MINER'S DEMANDS BEFORE COMMITTEE

LARGELY A MOVE TO FORCE REGULARITY OF EMPLOYMENT.

CONGRESSMAN BLACK QUESTIONS THE WITNESS

President of Miners Discusses Question of Hours and Production.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Miners demands for a six hour day and five day week, issues involved in the national coal strike, were described by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, in continuing his testimony today before the house committee on labor.

Representative Black, democrat, Texas, called that if the five day, six hour demand was granted the public would pay $24,000,000 additional for the same amount of coal they are now getting each year.

"Who will that come out of?" Mr. Black demanded after figuring up his total.

"Nobody," Mr. Lewis retorted, "because your figures are absurd."

Mr. Black pressed his calculations.

"When the 12 hour was changed to the 10 hour day," Mr. Lewis interrupted, "the efficiency was increased and the output per man per day increased. The same effect continued when the 10 hour day was cut out to eight hours."

"The efficiency increased and the output per man per day increased. The same effect continued when the 10 hour day was cut out to eight hours."

"I can't figure out how you can expect the production to increase," Mr. Black said, "after you have reduced the hours of work down below a reasonable basis."

"I'd like to point out that we are willing to discuss all these demands," Mr. Lewis returned, "and then if we cannot show them to be reasonable we won't expect to press them."

Mr. Black declared that "while wages of anthracite miners now can pay 18 per cent more than they could in 1920, the purchasing power of the farmer in his territory has been cut 50 per cent since 1920."

Mr. Lewis replied, "Do you think that the industrial and transportation workers can long withstand the pressure to have them take some of the loss, too?"

"It is well to remember that the advantage of great inflation in their prices and profits," Mr. Lewis replied, "while we contend that miners were never able to get the full increase in living cost represented in their wage advances."

He declared that the spread of the disease has reached the epidemic stage and is on the verge of being serious. Fourteen cases have been quarantined to date, several of which are in the University of Texas and high school.

A survey of the university and city schools is to be made to combat the spread and prevent a serious epidemic.

ARE NOT CERTAIN ABOUT RECOGNIZING KLANSMEN

DENISON, April 4.—Persons who yesterday declared they were positive that they recognized the Ku Klux Klan man whose mask was torn from his face by W. L. Smith, a fugitive of the First Baptist church, when a party of masked and robed men visited the church Sunday night, today are not "sure" they knew him. It was first stated by persons who saw the affair that they recognized the unmasked man as being a prominent Denison business man.

PREDICT THAT NAVY APPROPRIATION WILL PASS HOUSE INTACT

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Prediction that the navy appropriation bill providing for an enlisted personnel of 67,000 would pass the house without change was made today by Chairman Madden of the house appropriations committee. After a conference which he and Representative Kelly of Michigan, chairman of the sub-committee in charge of the naval measure, had today with President Harding, Mr. Madden did not indicate the president's views on the $7,000 figure, but asserted there was "no revolt" in the house against such a cut.

LASKER WITNESS AT THE HEARING ON MARINE MEASURE

COMMITTEES OF THE TWO HOUSES TAKE UP PROPOSED BILL.

HEARINGS ARE EXPECTED TO CONTINUE A MONTH

Not Thought Senate Will Be Able to Act at Present Session of Congress.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Joint congressional hearings on the admiralty merchant marine bill were begun today with republican leaders confident the house would be able to act on the measure before the close of the present session but generally doubtful as to whether the senate would find time to act on it until after congress reconvenes in December.

Sitting in joint sessions the senate commerce committee and the house merchant marine and fisheries committee plan first to hear the testimony of the shipping board officials, with Chairman Lasker as the initial witness and then to ascertain the views of both proponents and opponents of the legislation. Members of both committees will be generally of the opinion that the hearing will continue for a month or more.

Prepared by shipping board officials, with the approval of President Harding, identical bills proposed government aid for the United States merchant marine are pending before both committees.

Mr. Lasker announced that in his opening statement to the committee he would declare the shipping board believes that any free competition with the privately owned shipping of the world, through successful government operation, is an impossibility. Government operation of the ships, in the opinion of the shipping board, is not only a costly failure, but is driving private owners off the seas without accomplishing anything useful.

EXPECT OVER 2500 VOTES TO BE CAST IN CITY ELECTION

TOTAL OF 1728 BALLOTS USED UP TO 3 O'CLOCK TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

CROWD AT ONE BOX BARS SOME VOTERS

Congestion Results in Several Abandoning Effort to Cast Their Ballots.

With a total of 1,728 votes cast at 3 p. m. Tuesday—1,419 at the county home and 309 at the city hall—indications were that between 2,500 and 3,000 votes would be polled in the city election.

That which began falling shortly after 3 p. m. looked upon as a factor which might reduce the late vote.

In spite of inclement weather, large numbers of women voters were in evidence at both voting places.

The inefficiency of having only two voting boxes was demonstrated in the election, when some voters at the county home left without casting their ballots, owing to the large number in line ahead of them.

Election officers expected that the result would be known by 8 p. m. The usual flock of rumors and counter rumors on how the vote was going was in evidence Tuesday afternoon.

CORNING, ARK., April 4.—The "lip-stick" case of Knobel, Ark., in which Miss Pearl Pugsley, 18 years old, seeks a writ of mandamus to set aside the rules of the Knobel school forbidding students to use cosmetics, wear low and peek-a-boo waists and short skirts, is set to come up before Judge W. W. Bonds in Clay court circuit here April 6.

National notoriety has been given the case and Miss Pugsley says she had received thousands of letters from all parts of the country and from persons in all walks of life sympathizing with her on the question.

She also declared that a moving picture concern offered her $1,000 a week to enter the movies.

JUDGE BARTON OF RAIL LABOR BOARD EXPLAINS THE ACT

CHICAGO, April 4.—Judge R. M. Barton, chairman of the U. S. rail board, today appeared for the first time in court in federal court by the Pennsylvania systems to test the authority of the wage setting body to enforce its decisions.

Explaining the transportation act under which the board was created, Judge Barton said that "if this board can be interfered with in dealing with disputes, the orderly function of government can be paralyzed."

The suit resulted from the Pennsylvania's refusal to hold new elections among its employees as ordered by the board, the road bringing suit to obtain an order restraining the board.

WAURIKA PROJECT NOW LACKING ONLY FEDERAL PERMIT

The certificate of the interstate-commerce commission, granting permission for the construction of the railroad, was partially the only remaining formality Tuesday afternoon before the beginning of work on the Byers-Waurika railroad.

A delegation of Waurika business men, headed by F. P. Dawson, met with Frank Keil Tuesday afternoon, when practically all details of the contract with the citizens were agreed to. Some minor right of way matters remain to be adjusted, but it is not thought these will present serious difficulties.

Mr. Keil said Tuesday afternoon that he did not know when the certificate of public necessity, for which he is petitioning the interstate-commerce commission, would be issued. Work cannot be started until this certificate is granted.

MAYOR OF DALLAS ASKS GOVERNOR TO FURNISH THE FACTS

ASKS THAT INFORMATION BE LAID BEFORE THE GRAND JURY.

Protest Charges as Reflecting on City.

Replies to Statement of Governor As Given Out From Austin.

DALLAS, April 4.—Mayor Sawley R. Aldridge of Dallas today asked Governor Pat M. Neff to lay before the Dallas county grand jury any facts the governor may have about alleged lawless conditions in Dallas.

The request was made in a letter to the governor in reply to a communication from the chief clerk in which the governor intimated in his opinion the law enforcement machinery of Dallas needs overhauling.

The mayor declared the governor's statements were a serious reflection on the city and county.

Major Aldridge said to the governor: "I note your statement with reference to lawlessness, bootleggers, gambling houses and other illegal places in Dallas. These statements published broadcast throughout the nation constitute serious charges against our city and necessarily reflect not only upon the police department of the city but upon the entire community."

"I, therefore, respectfully request that you submit, either to myself or to the Dallas county grand jury, any facts which have caused you to make those statements."

The mayor said he had not received the governor's letter, but had read it in newspapers.

DALLAS MASS MEETING WILL DISCUSS SITUATION.

DALLAS, April 4.—The "law and order" mass meeting, called by leaders of a movement disincorporating "river bottom court rooms" and clandestine application of the law for 8 o'clock tonight at the city hall, with General M. M. Crane as chairman, Sam P. Cochran, former County Colquhoun, and Dr. J. B. Crane as speakers, is an outgrowth of floodings here, General Crane said.

"We want to impress on all people everywhere," General Crane said, "that this new organization is a morally bound body rather than a politically bound one. There is no question about it, and there has not been undertaken because of similar movements elsewhere. If there are similar movements elsewhere, we have not heard of them and are not actuated by them."

"We simply realize that an intangible situation has arisen and we are going to form ourselves into a strongly organized body to enforce the laws of the state, the county and the city."

"And we will not wear masks to do it."

Girl and Little Boy, 4, Taken From Office of Juvenile Officer Yates.

Elizabeth Tatum, aged 10, jumped from a Katy passenger train Monday night shortly after the train had pulled out from the union depot in this city. She said she did not want to run away from her mother.

The child left the train when it slowed down at a switch in the lower yards and walked back to the union station.

Tuesday afternoon charges of kidnaping two minor children were placed against W. H. Tatum, stepfather of the girl as a result of his alleged action in taking the children away from the juvenile officers room at the court house late Monday.

The little girl and her four year old brother were taken in charge by Juvenile Officer R. L. Yates Monday afternoon after a complaint had been filed by the stepfather, W. H. Tatum, that the mother, with whom the children were living, was incompetent of caring for the children.

Mr. Tatum left the children in his office and went to the third floor of the court house to attend to other duties. Upon his return the children were gone and a search Monday evening did not reveal their whereabouts.

The little girl, who jumped from the train, was taken to the county home by her mother, Mrs. Tatum, her stepfather, who was in Mr. Yates' office when Mr. Yates left Monday afternoon and that shortly after his departure Tatum took her and the little boy and later boarded the train.

Officials at Ringgold were notified and took Tatum and the little boy from the train and returned them to this city.

ANTHRACITE STRIKE MAY BE SETTLED AS RESULT OF OFFER

OPERATORS REPORTED WILLING TO MEET THE 19 DEMANDS.

SUGGEST NEGOTIATION OF SEPARATE CONTRACT

Scale Committee Will Meet in New York Wednesday to Act on Matter.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Strike leaders announced here today that the anthracite miners general scale committee would meet in New York tomorrow to act on the reported offer of several independent producers to grant the strikers 19 wage demands immediately if they would return to their jobs. Acceptance of these offers, hailed by the union as "the first break in the ranks of the operators" may result in the negotiation of separate contracts.

At least one anthracite mine in the United States is operating regardless of the strike. It was learned it is the mine where for three months 30 men have been digging frantically in search of a miner, Stanis Zuluski, who disappeared under an avalanche of hard coal early last January.

Union leaders here today elaborated on the United Mine Workers' program for nationalization of the coal industry, which was announced for the house labor committee yesterday by John L. Lewis, president of the international union.

The first step, according to miners' officials, will be the introduction in congress of a bill providing for appointment of a government "fact finding" committee. This body would investigate the mine developments, alleged waste, profits, working conditions, wages and markets.

Conflicting statements concerning the success of the mine strike call in southern West Virginia came from operators and union headquarters yesterday and developments more clearly defining the situation were expected in the afternoon. The suspension had been far from complete, union leaders maintained that union production was completely stopped and that thousands of workers are rapidly flocking to the support of the strikers.

Eighteen hundred miners in the Wyoming coal field yesterday refused to work, according to reports from union officials, stating that representatives of the operators refused this claim, stating that only 500 men at Lemberton had ceased work.

PITTSBURGH HOLDS MONTHLY MEETING

PITTSBURGH, April 4.—Indications of the actual standing of the non-union miners in the central Pennsylvania area were expected to be available today, operators and union officials having been unable thus far to obtain the facts in regard to the shooting at Oklahoma City of Lieutenant Colonel Paul W. Beck, commander of Post Field, ordered having been issued prohibiting telephone service into and out of the post.

The name of Beck has been associated with Fort Sill, where the original post was constructed in 1863. Lieutenant William H. Beck and Mrs. Beck, parents of Lieutenant Colonel Beck, came to Fort Sill on January 8 of that year from Fort Lyon, Colorado. His father was at various times quartermaster of the 2nd Cavalry, the famous Custer's regiment and the 10th Cavalry. It was the tenth that built the original post at Fort Sill.

Mrs. Beck, mother of the lieutenant colonel, left the fort in 1874 and did not return until last August, when she came to Fort Sill to make her home with her son. She is there at present.

Lieutenant Colonel Beck was a widower, his wife having died last August at Atlantic City.

STATE CHAIRMAN OF PARRISH CAMPAIGN ISSUES STATEMENT

PRaises LOYAL FRIENDS AND WORKERS AND PRESS OF STATE.

VOICES PROFOUND GRIEF AT HIS TIMELY DEATH

Favorable Sentiment for the Candidate Crystallized Fast Last Two Weeks.

FOR T. WORTH, TEXAS, April 4.—

W. D. Smith, state chairman of the "Parrish for United States" campaign, in an interview to the press today expresses appreciation and gives praise to the press of the state and loyal friends and workers.

"I am sure all Texas shares in the profound grief and regret that is felt by the loyal friends who inaugurated the campaign of Congressman Lucian W. Parrish for the United States senate in Fort Worth recently, by reason of his untimely death."

The fullest appreciation is due his many political followers and loyal friends all over the state who recognized his ability and his qualifications to fill the high office to which he aspired. They remained loyal and held the line of his position in the great battle for the life that had been so full of accomplishment for good and promised so much for the future. It is to them that I would express not only my personal appreciation for the assistance they have rendered, but the sincere thanks and gratitude felt by members of Mr. Parrish's family as well. I had so many friends and supporters in Texas whose names and addresses we do not have at headquarters, that it will be impossible to write to each one personally; therefore I take this method of reaching them.

I can but feebly express our attitude to the people of the state which has so generously and unselfishly supported Mr. Parrish and the issues upon which he based his candidacy; also for the beautiful tributes and messages of sympathy they have conveyed to the people of Texas through their generous columns.

I have never witnessed the crystallizing of sentiment in favor of any candidate so rapidly as has

DENIES M'ADOO'S STATEMENT AS TO RAILWAY SITUATION

GIVES FIGURES SHOWING INCREASE IN TRAFFIC ONLY TWO PER CENT.

PRESIDENT OF B. & O. IS BEFORE THE COMMITTEE

McAdoo Charged Roads Had Broken Down Before Control By Government.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Figures showing the railroads of the country moved only two percent more traffic in 1918 than in 1917 were cited by Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company, before the senate interstate commerce committee today to refute the recent testimony of William G. McAdoo, former director general of railroads, in the effort that the roads had broken down before being placed under government control.

Mr. Willard appeared at the hearings on the general railroad situation, which developed under the war in 1917, rather than the effect that he attributed a "failure, if not a breakdown, of our system of railroad regulation as then in effect."

Rapidly mounting operating expenses in 1917 were proving a serious financial problem for many of the roads, he said, because under the law they were unable to advance their rates without permission from the interstate commerce commission.

The commission, he said, did not seem willing (perhaps did not feel authorized) under the law to deal with the matter with such promptness and liberality as the situation in his opinion demanded.

Former Director General McAdoo has pointed with pride and justifiably so," Mr. Willard continued, "to the record of accomplishments of the railroads under his direction during 1918, but the figures show that the same roads that moved 420,000,000,000 ton miles in 1917, moved only 428,000,000,000 ton miles in 1918, or about two percent more."

Quoting from President Wilson's address to congress in January, 1918, in which he stated that the taking over of the roads was "not because of any deterioration or failure on their part, but only because there are some things which the government can do and private management cannot," Mr. Willard declared, the former president clearly showed thereby that he did not feel the roads "had failed to do all that could be expected of them under the circumstances."

Despite the "congestion and confusion which naturally followed the country's entrance into the war," Mr. Willard said, "the railroads showed an effective capacity for co-operation under the executive railroad war board in 1917, handling a volume of traffic 127,000,000,000 ton miles greater than that handled two years before."

WILLIAMSBURG, VA., April 4.—The interior of the historic president's house at the college of William and Mary was partly burned last night by fire which is believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion in cleaning rags in a closet. No one was in the house at the time.

The president's house was built in 1722 and was the headquarters of General Cornwallis prior to the siege of Yorktown. Last night's fire was similar to the one which in 1781 destroyed the interior and left only the walls standing. It was at that time occupied by French officers serving with Washington's army.

SPECTACULAR AND EXPENSIVE OIL FIRE BURNS ITSELF OUT

SAPULPA, OKLA., April 4.—The most spectacular and costly oil tank fire in the history of Sapulpa burned itself out after raging more than 26 hours, doing damage estimated at $300,000 and threatening property worth more than a million dollars.

Early this morning tank No. 33, the third tank to catch fire at the Sapulpa Refining company's plant here, after a lightning stroke Sunday night fired a 55,000-barrel tank, boiled over and rapidly died out.

It was this tank that had constantly threatened the entire refining plant and an army of fire fighters was on duty throughout the night fruitlessly battling with the flames.

When the oil boiled over, however, the flaming liquid poured out on the north side of the tank and

Weak, Thin, and Run-Down on Three Big Meals a Day

What to do to help put on good firm flesh, increase weight, strength and energy and obtain a more beautiful form and figure

Since the discovery of an amazing food factor called Vitamins, science now shows why thousands may be thin, weak and undernourished on three big meals a day.

While we now know the almost miracle-like results produced by Vitamins, even the most learned scientists are yet unable to explain their exact nature.

By helping to create millions of new, red blood cells, Nuxated Iron taken after meals unquestionably increases the power of the body to transform lifeless food matter into living cells, flesh, muscle and tissue, and Vitamins taken before meals mixes with your food, food or strength out of it and therefore both food and Vitamins are absolutely useless. It is for this reason that organic Nuxated Iron should be taken with Vitamins.

To prove to you the surprising results which we feel should be quickly obtained from this valuable combination, arrangements have been made with druggists in this city to give you a LARGE DOLLAR PACKAGE OF GENUINE YEAST VITAMINE TABLETS ABSOLUTELY FREE with your purchase of a bottle of Nuxated Iron.

HOME CANNING INDUSTRY IS ONE OF MANY PROFITABLE IRRIGATION POSSIBILITIES

By FRANK S. REID.
The completion of the local irrigation project, as has been suggested, will mean nothing to the community in which it benefits if the people themselves and those who settle upon the irrigated land will not take every advantage of an education in the things that will concern irrigated farming. Where irrigation is practiced in the western states, and where the people themselves have been alive to every opportunity to make two blades of grass grow where one did, and where they will encourage experimental stations, agricultural agents and every agency possible, the success has been marked, and so this brings to the writer's mind, among other things that have been mentioned in previous articles concerning irrigation work, based upon his actual experience, the disposal of surplus products of the farm.

In southern Idaho in the Twin Falls country, the ranchers were thoroughly alive to every situation that confronted them, and one of these situations was the home canning of products of the farm for winter use and for sale. It was really wonderful the number of people that came about from experiments in the home canning of products of the farm by several of the leading citizens of the community—vegetable canners, boys' canning clubs, if you please, canning clubs everywhere, in the home, in the towns as centers of the county seat.

work of an experimental farm and county agent thoroughly familiar with all phases of agricultural work will bring to the farmers many rare chances to bring out the very best in his work.

Now that the irrigation project is well under way, and prospects encouraging for an early completion of the work—or at least sooner than contract time, it is up to some agency to work out by some means or other, some effort to get an experimental station in our midst where everything of an agricultural nature can be demonstrated.

NEW COUNCILMEN TO GET FAMILIAR WITH PROSPECTIVE DUTIES

WILL PARTICIPATE IN AN ADJOURNED SESSION THIS WEEK.

GRAVELING OF 7TH TO BALL PARK IS ORDERED

Collection of $9,000 Claim Against Electric Co. to Be Considered Shortly.

A decision to gravel Seventh street from Michigan street to the baseball park was reached by the city council Monday night, the commissioners feeling that the fans were entitled to an improved highway.

This was practically the only definite action taken at the meeting, although several matters were discussed. The council recessed until Wednesday evening, at which time the new members chosen in Tuesday's election will be invited to "sit in" and get familiar with their jobs. The new officials will not be sworn in until next Tuesday night.

One matter that is hanging fire and which the council wants to settle, if possible, before the new administration takes hold, is a claim of approximately $900 against the electric company for water used by that corporation. Under its contract with the city for furnishing power for the water system's pumps, the electric company is entitled to a million gallons of water a month. It is claimed that the company has used enough water in excess of this amount to create a charge, at minimum rates, of about $900.

P. A. Rogers of the electric company, Monday night, that Dallas officials wanted an opportunity to be heard on the matter. Adjustment of water department finances is another pending matter. The council contract for interest and sinking fund payments on water bonds, amounting to about $100,000, have been paid out of tax collections. At present the general funds should be reimbursed to that amount out of water department earnings. This matter will probably be adjusted this week.

THREE IMPORTANT TESTS DRILLING IN ELIASVILLE REGION

With three tests now drilling north and west of Eliasville, this section of Young county is looking forward to a busy summer. The newest test is the Gulf Production company's No. 1 on the Hart tract located about six miles north of Eliasville. The Panhandle company's test on the Martin farm a short distance north of town is attracting a great amount of attention and is expected to pick up one of the sands within the next few days. At present the test is drilling around 2600 feet. Two miles west of Eliasville another test has been spudded in by Rice associates on the Cotton survey.

The three tests form practically a triangle in the northwest Eliasville field, and in the event of any one making a well a big producing area will be added to this part of the county. These tests hope to pick up the Stephens county formation in Young county. Although the prolific Stephens county line has approached to the border of this county, all previous tests in Young have failed to encounter it. In the south Eliasville field just across the line in Stephens county the Mc-Kane company Tuesday completed their No. 4 well on the Adkins tract and is making around 1000 barrels from the 2200-foot sand.

William found a pocketbook But the string jerked it back

It looked like a happy discovery as it lay there on the sidewalk—until the discoverer reached to pick it up. Then the hidden string jerked it away. All William got was disappointment.

That's the way a good many people have found it to be with the comfort and cheer they thought they had secured in tea and coffee. When they came to depend on it—there was a hidden string, and nothing left but disappointment.

Postum, that wholesome and delightful cereal beverage, is completely satisfying and there's no harmful quality whatsoever, to jerk away the comfort which you find in this splendid table drink. Any member of the family may enjoy Postum with any meal—and there will be no after-regrets.

CALL FOR SPECIAL ELECTION DUE SOON

Mrs. Parrish Decides Late Monday Not to Seek Seat For Unexpired Term.

A four-cornered contest for the congressional seat vacated by the death of Lucian Parrish now seems in prospect. Governor Neff is expected to call the special election for some time early in May.

Miss Annie Webb Blanton, superintendent of public instruction, and a resident of Denton county, is the fourth entry in the contest, according to information reaching here Tuesday. S. A. L. Morgan of this city, Guinn Williams of Decatur and W. S. Moore of Gainesville are the other three entries.

The decision of Mrs. Parrish, announced late Monday, not to be a candidate for the place, resulted in Guinn Williams and S. A. L. Morgan, previously announced aspirants, entering the contest for the unexpired term. Both had stated, as had Miss Blanton, that they would not run for the unexpired term if Mrs. Parrish should seek it. Mrs. Parrish's statement follows:

"My heart is filled with gratitude toward our friends who have wanted to honor me with the place left vacant by my dear husband, Lucian Parrish. But I feel that I should not undertake the responsibilities involved and have decided not to be a candidate for the unexpired term."

GARDEN DANCE PARLOR NOT INVOLVED IN RAID BY SHERIFF'S DEPARTMENT

The dance hall which has been the scene of several raids recently, with arrests for drunkenness, as set forth in The Times of Monday, was not the Garden Dance parlor at 307 1/2 Tenth street, the management of the Garden Dance parlor Tuesday issued a statement that it was not involved in the raids in any manner.

"We stand for clean amusement only," says the statement, "with a recreation spot that the public can be proud of, and where you can take your sister, sweetheart or mother without being embarrassed. We have maintained an amusement place for ladies and gentlemen and expect to continue to do so."

The dance hall referred to was in another part of the city.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN AUXILIARY INSTALLS NEW OFFICERS MONDAY

The women of the First Presbyterian auxiliary installed new officers at their monthly business meeting Monday afternoon at the church, Mrs. R. J. Webb, new president, taking the chair vacated after the disposition of old business by Mrs. G. D. Anderson, past president.

The installation service was directed by Rev. Mr. Dooley, assistant pastor of the church, and was very impressive and interesting. Mrs. Anderson presided until the reports and several matters of unfinished business had been attended to, the reports being given by the secretary, Mrs. Webb, the treasurer, Mrs. L. R. Buchanan, and the Sunshine fund chairman, Mrs. E. W. Nicholson, following the devotional led by Mrs. L. Swanson. New plans were made for the coming year's Bible study, Monday afternoon's meeting being the first meeting of the new church year.

The new officers who were installed included: Mrs. R. J. Webb, president; Mrs. G. D. Nickell, first vice-president; Mrs. J. H. Collier, second vice-president; Mrs. A. Thompson, recording secretary; Mrs. J. M. Bell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Bert Williams, treasurer; Mrs. J. Zele, secretary of literature; Mrs. J. A. Harris, secretary of missionary education; Mrs. A. H. Carrigan, secretary of young people; and Mrs. E. W. Nicholson, secretary of the Sunshine treasury.

Mrs. Anderson made a brief talk on retiring presiding officer, then presiding over the auxiliary members very sincerely for their cooperation during the past year, and the new president also made a talk touching on plans for the new year. A collection for the day nursery, representing the First Presbyterian women's support of that institution, was taken and totaled something over $70. The auxiliary members were instructed to send a check for that amount to the nursery. Reports from the visiting committee were given, a pretty thorough canvass on the town having been made in visits among those whose memberships are with the church elsewhere but have not joined or attended.

The president appointed Mrs. G. D. Anderson leader of Circle One of the auxiliary and Mrs. E. H. Gibson leader of Circle Two, and both ladies drew the names of their membership. A joint social meeting for the circles was planned to be held with Mrs. R. A. Thompson next Monday, the date of the next circle meetings. The president also appointed the program committee for the year, Mrs. Bernard Carrigan chairman and Mrs. A. H. Carrigan, Mrs. D. Anderson and E. H. Gibson members.

THE BERTHA IS BACK

NEW YORK, April 3.—And occasionally one finds on the newest of frocks something reminiscent of the days when a Bertha flattered at the shoulders of every gown that laid any claim to smartness.

This Claire frock of pale lavender Canton crepe wears a two-colored semi-bertha of chiffon edged and weighted with finely pleated tulle.

Such a shoulder treatment naturally calls for the fullest of skirts and this too is ornamented with fine pleatings which extend quite around the hem and mount panelwise to the waist line at the side fronts.

The light bodice is washed with narrow silver ribbons tied and caught at the front with lavender velvet roses. Narrow washings are quite the thing this season and they invariably extend below the hem line of the gown and contrast in color. Royal blue is often seen on black and the silver and lavender combination of the Claire gown is exceedingly good.

WOMEN'S WORK 25 YEARS AGO INSPIRES WORKERS OF THE CHURCH TODAY

What the little band of eighteen members of the First Baptist church Women's Auxiliary accomplished twenty-five years ago in Wichita Falls proved a most effective inspiration for the members of the big auxiliary of today when it was pictured in a spirit of reminiscence to the star by Mrs. W. H. Davis Monday afternoon.

The Baptist women held their regular monthly all-day meeting at the church, opening with a business meeting at 2 o'clock. It was during this business meeting, with the 32-500 pledge remaining the chief topic of discussion, that Mrs. Davis made her splendid talk, delineating in a quaintly graphic style the days when the number of houses tied in front of the hostess' home told how many women were attending mission meetings, in contrast to the present day method of counting noses.

She told how the little band of eighteen sold ice cream, held "weighing" parties, made up their "white offerings" and worked faithfully and industriously in score of different ways in an effort to assist the church to pay its big debt of $300. In conclusion Mrs. Davis declared her faith in the ability of the present band of workers to raise the remaining $2,500 of the auxiliary's pledge of 10,000 to the same spiritual determination and the same application of energy in the big cause.

Wylie Robertson followed Mrs. Davis with a brief talk about old times, telling of various enterprises of the church of those days and how they were put over, finishing with the present responsibility of the men and women members. At the conclusion of his talk Mr. Robertson took volunteer pledges from the members present, and several hundreds of dollars in pledges were reported by the ten circle leaders. Rev. Mr. Powers also made a word of appreciation of the women's efforts.

After the business session a good program was given, in which Mrs. E. L. Fulton, Miss Ella Marie Mathis, Miss Bruce Dickson, Mrs. Jerry Shaeffer took part. Mrs. McGinnis led the devotional service, and during the hour of singing, many of ways and means of raising money there were many offers of "talents" for the exchange, under the direction of Mrs. J. L. Maxwell.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS THE RESCUE

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Two dreams coaxed out, like smoke out of a pipe.

Nancy and Nick were sleeping peacefully under a nice bush in the pleasant valley between the Electric Mountain and the Elderdown Mountain, when Twelve Toes led the magician's star and flew to a place in the dark sky right over their heads. He had turned into a bat, you know.

Then he untied the string of the bag he carried and two dreams coaxed out like smoke out of a pipe. These dreams, unlike smoke, went down instead of up, and made straight for the Twins.

One dream whispered to Nancy, "So Nancy got up and Nick got up and the two of them began to walk in their sleep, but in opposite directions."

They both dreamed that they were walking over the Elderdown Mountain and over the Five-and-ten-store Mountain and over the rich westward valley, leaving the lost record near the place they had been sleeping.

If Nancy had kept on she would have walked over a high cliff, and Nick had kept on he would have walked into a thorny patch where sharp thorns would have torn him to pieces.

But again the red feather rescued them. It jumped out of Nick's pocket and stretching itself on the ground, caught Nick's toe just as he was about to take his last step. That woke him.

Then flying after Nancy the feather did exactly the same thing. Another step would have brought her to the edge of the precipice. But her toe caught, she tripped, fell and wakened.

"Where am I?" she cried. "And where's Nick? What's happened?" (To be continued.) (Copyright, 1922, NFA Service.)

MISSION MEMBERS MAY ATTEND DISTRICT MEET

Members of the Lamar Avenue Baptist mission auxiliary made tentative plans to attend the district mission meeting in Vernon this month, at their meeting Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

During the business meeting, after the devotional, leaders for several of the auxiliary circles were appointed as follows: Circle No. One, Mrs. Ballew; Circle No. Three, Mrs. Marshall; Circle No. Four, Mrs. Dickens. Good reports were given from the Y. W. A., the Girls Auxiliary and the Sunbeam departments. Members of the mission were very much grieved to learn of the accident which recently befell the district mission president, Mrs. E. M. Francis, who was injured in an auto smash-up.

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS

Read This Letter from Mrs. W. S. Hughes

Greenville, Del.—"I was under the impression that my eldest daughter had the most interesting and most interesting troubles ever since the first time her sickness appeared she had to go to bed and even had to quit school on one for a week. I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound myself so I gave it to her and she has received great benefit from it. You can use this letter for a testimonial if you wish, as I cannot say too much about what your medicine has done for me and for my daughter."

Mother and oftentimes grandmothers have taken and have learned the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So they recommend the medicine to others.

The best test of any medicine is what it has done for others. For nearly fifty years we have published letters from mothers, daughters, and women, young and old, recommending the Vegetable Compound. They know what it did for them and are glad to tell others. In your own neighborhood are women who know of its great value.

Mother—daughters, why not try it?

Alkali In Soap Bad For The Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulifield's coconut oil shampoo, which is pure and greaseless, and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulifield in a cup of glass with a little warm water is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, smooth and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulifield's coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulifield—adv.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY.
And ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost parts of the earth.—Acts 1:8.

Born about 389, St. Patrick's training was Christian. Seized in a raid about 405, he was for six years a slave in Ireland. Escaped to the continent, he was for some years an inmate of the monastery of Lerins, off the southern coast of France. In 432 he was ordained a missionary bishop, and began the work in Ireland which ended with his death in 461. Few facts survive; but of his zeal there can be no question, and as little of his abilities as an organizer under whom the hitherto scattered Christianity of Ireland was systematized and made great advance.—Walker's Church History.

A BIG PROBLEM IN ONE OF OUR BASIC INDUSTRIES.

The coal mines of the country are closed up. More than six hundred thousand men are on strike; their pay is stopped; their families will soon be suffering. The country's surplus stock of coal is being eaten into and if the strike lasts for sixty or ninety days, many industries will be forced to close down and there will not be enough coal for domestic users. It is hardly possible that the strike can go long without violence and bloodshed; these have always accompanied big miners' strikes. Things like the foregoing have happened a good many times in the history of the coal industry. They have been happening intermittently since the first coal strike in 1849. There have been scores of strikes in the coal industry since that time. Five of them have been comparable to the one that started Saturday. These were the strikes of 1893, 1897, 1900, 1902 and 1919. Seasonal demand and slackness have been great promoters of strikes in the coal industry. Seasonal demand has brought about seasonal employment. There have been periods of rush work followed by longer periods of no work. The periods of no work have brought suffering to the miners and their families and have made fertile ground for the growth of radicalism. The periods of rush work have given miners the opportunity to obtain concessions from the operators that they could not hope to gain otherwise. The seasonal demand has also led to the development of more mines than are necessary to supply the demands of the country if the mines were operated with any regularity. This too has tended to make the operation of other mines more intermittent with intermittent employment of miners. There may be, and doubtless are, other things behind the coal strike but as long as the operation of the mines is seasonal and there are periods of rush work and other longer periods of unemployment there is likely to be labor trouble in the coal industry. If the consumer of coal—the industrial user and the householder—could be induced to buy all through the year the mines might be operated with more regularity, the miner would have less excuse for striking and coal might cost the consumer less.

THE JAZZ ANTIDOTE.

Jazz music, imported from the underworld dives of Buenos Aires, began to sweep America in 1913. Sailors brought it into New Orleans. It spread up the Mississippi river. Negro routabouts on the levees chanted new varieties of jazz "blues." Tramps, in their camps, which they call "jungles," caught the infection. They called jazz "snowbird music"—"snow" being the underworld name for cocaine and a "snowbird" meaning dope fiend. Infectiously the epidemic of jazz spread over the country, evolving from jazz melodies to a form of jazz life characterized by fatalism, indifference, recklessness and immorality. Simultaneously, the jazz germ swept Europe. In "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" you read Ibsen's fine description of France being worked to a high pitch of jazz emotionalism. Psychiatrists recognized the jazz epidemic as one of the peculiar waves of social neurosis, or hysteria, which periodically sweep countries or even the whole world. The tango craze was one of these psychic epidemics. The international wave of social hysteria culminated in the world war, violent international insanity. The reaction is on. World sobers. Nerves calm slowly down. People are becoming normal again—thinking healthy thoughts. Jazz is passing. During the jazz epidemic there has been a lot of worrying about young America. Youth in general seemed to have gone off on a tangent of wild profligality. One morning the country woke up and was amazed to learn that the youngsters had gone crazy on wireless. The radiophone had corrupted juvenile enthusiasm. The wireless craze has developed far enough to show that it's going to be the most powerful antidote against jazz. The lad who is tinkering with Hertzian waves has his feet on the ground, is thinking clean thoughts, training his brain, soaking up useful knowledge. The wireless fan is vaccinated against jazz, just as boys of a generation ago were kept in a healthy, normal mental state by playing Indian, building shanties, collecting bones and old junk in alleys, listening to street fakers, staging amateur minstrel shows, stringing toy telegraphs. We are a foolish lot of sheep, we humans. But a kindly providence shepherds us, bringing us back to the fold when we stray too far from normal. Professor says our side of Niagara will be dry in 2122. Why don't they leave prohibition alone?

BIG INCREASE IN CHURCH MEMBERSHIP.
Church membership in the United States increased 761,727 during the year 1921. This was the biggest increase ever reported in one year by the churches of America. The jazz, bootleg liquor, the crime wave, and floggings and mob action get talked about and monopolize space but the great work of the churches goes ahead quietly and certainly. Despite the talk of alarmists and sensationalists the world is growing better. Police records, savings bank deposits, mortality statistics and all other signs point to that fact. And the churches are doing a big part in bringing about this better condition. But statistics show that there are in the United States more than 65,000,000 people who do not belong to any church. The total of church membership in the United States is 43,523,000. The total population, in round figures, is 110,000,000. As remarkable as have been the gains in church membership during the past year they have little more than kept up their proportional increase with the growth in population. The churches have a big work ahead of them.

TODAY'S TALK
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

OLIVER GOLDSMITH.
Oliver Goldsmith was born November 10, 1728, at the parsonage of Pallas, county of Longford, Ireland. His father was a minister, his mother the daughter of a minister. Oliver was the second born in a family of five boys and three girls. His early life was spent on a farm. And to this environment he owed his love of nature, his simplicity of statement, and his sincerity of soul. I can imagine all farmers having the heart of a poet. In school, Goldsmith's teachers considered him unusually dull. But as the boy had an imagination not appreciated by those who sought to teach him, he drank into his mind the characteristics of these teachers and later wove them into his famous poems, and stories. Goldsmith's mother early believed that she had a genius in Oliver and so she saw to it that he was sent to college. Here he was careless and indolent in his studies but very popular with his associates. Goldsmith was a failure at teaching, the law, medicine, in fact, everything he attempted—until he began to write. At one period of his life he supported himself by playing the flute, and by taking part in the disputes, or debates, at the universities. He was a rambler and a wanderer. But as he progressed in his writings, the name of Oliver Goldsmith grew in lustre. He was invited into a literary club in which were many famous folk, although he was so awkward and ungainly that he felt greatly out of place there. Here it was, however, that he met three of his staunchest admirers and supporters—Dr. Samuel Johnson, Sir Joshua Reynolds, and Burke. Goldsmith was short, sturdy and clumsy in figure, homely in face, yet with an unusual fascination of manner that endeared him to all who really understood him. It was Dr. Johnson who once said of Goldsmith: "Let not his faults be remembered, he was a very good man." And Washington Irving has commented: "Let them be remembered, since their tendency is to endear him." Probably the most noted of Goldsmith's writings are "The Deserted Village," "The Vicar of Wakefield," "The Traveller," and the famous play "She Stoops to Conquer." For pure beauty and grace of expression there have been few poems written comparable to "The Deserted Village." The heart of Goldsmith ripples through its entirety. And the thought which we carry with us longest about Goldsmith is that beauty lives forever!" (Copyright, 1922, by George Matthew Adams.)

THE TRAGEDY OF GOLF.
What is fame and what is fortune, what are honors, tell me, pray, if you cannot get your wrists in and your body's bound to sway? What are all men's feeble praises for the brilliant things you do if you haven't any rhythm and you lack a follow through? What is glory, what is money though you have it mountain piled, what are pomp and high position if your drives are always wild? What are all the things men value from the cradle to the grave if your left arm is a traitor and your shoulders won't behave? What is worldly recognition, what is standing at the peak Of your chosen occupation, if you cannot play the creak? Where's the fun in being wealthy, where's the joy in being great if you've grown too fat to pivot and your shots are never straight? Now happiness is something gold and silver cannot buy, Men have said it long before us, men will say it when we die, And how can man be happy with his money or his fame if he's doomed through his existence to a most indifferent game? Infected Wounds
By DR. R. H. BISHOP

Whenever we think of wounds most of us think of danger due to great loss of blood. In ninety-nine out of a hundred wounds bleeding is not dangerous. In every wound there is danger of infection. One of two things happens. On the one hand, a wound may heal quickly, with no danger to the patient's life or health. "In this case the wound has not become infected." On the other hand, the wound may become red and angry. It will throb with pain and the patient may have chills and fever. This is an infected wound. Blood poisoning may follow. Germs cause infection. The germs are not the same as in contagious diseases. In wounds they are called pus forming germs. As in contagious diseases, they do not have it all the time, but they do have it in our blood defeat some of the pus germs and prevent them from doing harm. Some germs will undoubtedly be driven into the body in every wound. Our object should be to prevent the introduction of more. Fortunately pus germs do not float about in the air, so there is no danger in exposing a wound to the air. They are found on our hands, on knives, scissors, clothing and in water. Surgeons have found a way to kill them, however. Advantage has been taken of this knowledge and prepared surgeons' gauze that is free from germs. The gauze is simply cheesecloth that has been put through a special process to kill the germs. It can be bought in any drug store. It should be used to cover every wound, and should be kept on hand in every household. Never wash a wound, for pus germs are found in water. Instead, put on a pad of gauze once, being very careful not to touch that part of it which is to go on the wound. If you have no gauze and cannot procure it, you can take a folded towel, recently laundered, and boil it 10 minutes, squeezing out the water, but not touching the surface to go on the wound. McKinley Courier-Gazette: The upkeep of public roads that have been piked in our county is one of the most important problems that our county commissioners' court has to deal with. Gravel pikes must have attention constantly or they will rapidly disintegrate and blow and wear away. For this reason the percentage of concrete and brick roads is steadily increasing in mileage every year throughout the nation. Their initial cost is more, but their life is many times longer and their cost in upkeep is negligible. Dwarf oaks, which will take root out forests and hidden in dense undergrowth.

Texas Viewpoints

Port Worth Record: Many men have written the past few months on the subject, "What is the Matter With the World?" or on "What Does the World Need Most?" The one answer about which there can be no dispute is that the world is suffering from an overdose of worldliness and that it needs most the spirit of God, which is what we mean when we say, "We need more religion in life." Port Worth begins this week a unique and wonderful civic and religious experiment, the dropping of the "worldliness" from its religious life. Far as cooperation goes, and standing, shoulder to shoulder, to emphasize the fact of man's dependence upon God, and his need of God's spirit if he is to live and progress and finally become reconciled with his Maker. The differences between the two religions are not so great as they seem. The differences between the well known human weaknesses and the established fact that men's minds differ when they begin to feel strongly about anything, have injured the cause of religion, and have demonstrated the fact that men do not all think exactly alike. This would be a dull, draw world if we did. Through honest differences of opinion comes the search for truth, comes progress, comes liberty, comes invention, comes study and service and sacrifice. On the other hand, the truth, the religious spirit is tolerant as well as zealous. Once the conception men had of religion, a religious spirit was far different. Then men were not so tolerant, but too slow one another because of religious differences and in the name of religion. That is nearly extinct in the world now. But too many do the same thing in spirit, though they have ceased to physically. Port Worth's simultaneous religious and civic will demonstrate the unity of all truly religious bodies in setting the things of the spirit above those of the flesh. It will show that men can hold different individual opinions upon religious matters with even more fire and zeal than did the men of olden times still exhibit the spirit of tolerance, the spirit of fellowship, the spirit of which the angel sang: "Peace on earth, good will toward men." True religion is not selfishness, and you will find along the trail worldliness, laxity of morals, intolerance, hatred, prejudice, ignorance. At the end of the trail, if there is no love, no tolerance, no honesty, tolerance, friendliness, fellowship, purity, spirituality, truth and at the summit, love, for God is love, and the children of the living God will love each other. The religion of dependence on the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit of difference will seem little beside the great essentials of a common fatherhood of God, a common brotherhood of man, and a common citizenship of association in the spirit of God will come more of value to Port Worth than all the institutions of this world can ever bring.

STANDARDIZED.
The scarcity of Siamese Twins emphasizes how nature in a rough way standardizes things. Symmetry of standardization is a basic creative law—ants, sparrows and bees, for instance, being almost identical when nature creates them. Man did not apply nature's standardization system to manufacturing until 1862, when Springfield rifles were made with interchangeable parts for quick repairs. Civilization of the future will be standardized—cut-and-dried. Some propagandists, enemies of originality, would even standardize thought making brains as alike as Ford cars.

FLOODS.

River engineers say the levees along the Mississippi from the mouth of the Ohio to the Gulf of Mexico, in most places are now able to hold the river even if it goes five feet higher than ever before. The $50,000,000 for Mississippi levees, appropriated by congress in 1917, will be spent. The levees now protect 15,000,000 acres of land formerly subject to overflow, home of nearly 1,000,000 people. The fight that has been waged by the levee builders for more than 200 years appears to be nearly won.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY.

It's used like this—"Those who promote judicial stock schemes prey on credulous persons."

PRESS COMMENT ON DEATH OF HON. LUCIAN W. PARRISH

San Antonio Light: It is not meet that men should question the acts of Providence, for man's reason rises no higher than the level of earthly affairs. But when death stills the heart of one who had no apparent fault, as faults are judged by the finite man, and who was respected and admired even by those whose personal ambitions and interests clashed with his own, the mystery of life and its purposes cannot but deepen. Why was it that Abraham Lincoln, a few days from the hands of his assassin, was removed from human affairs at a time when it seemed to his countrymen that his services were scarcely less vitally needed than they had been in the days of threatened disruption of the union? No one can know; no one dare guess. Lincoln himself had premonitions of his fate; he was given to dreams, and shortly before his assassination he expressed the quiet conviction that something unusual was going to happen. The end came though the man had been created for a single purpose, with no other worth-while task to perform after his one great mission had been fulfilled. FEDERAL JUDGE IS AGAINST THE KLAN HE TELLS AUDIENCE

JUDGE WILSON DISCUSSES MATTER IN SPEECH AT WEATHERFORD. DECLARES CULBERSON DID NOT MISS IT FAR

Says Klan "is a Smooth System of Chloroforming the Government."

WEATHERFORD, TEXAS, April 4.—Expressing opposition to everything that the Ku Klux Klan stands for "as far as I know," Federal Judge James C. Wilson of the northern district of Texas in an address before the Weatherford chamber of commerce last night declared that Senator Culbertson "did not miss it far" when he said that "if permitted to continue the Klan would soon overthrow the government."

The federal judge stated that it was nothing more than a form of anarchy which operated by first getting as members the sheriffs, then the police, trial judges and preachers. "It is a smooth system of chloroforming the government," he declared. "This country was founded by foreigners," he declared. Giving two remedies for the successful curbing of the organization the judge stated that public sentiment would force it to cease. Another remedy he said to "mob the mob." This, he declared, could be done without violation of the law. The individual gives the individual the right to protect his life and his property from the attacks of another. Judge Wilson asserted that it was as strongly against the anti-Ku Klux Klan as he was against the Klan. "All mobs are bad," he stated. He urged the arming of all jails with machine guns and men to man them so that mobs which attack jails to obtain possession of prisoners could be thwarted.

FURTHER EVIDENCE BY PROSECUTION IN OLIVIA STONE CASE

NEW YORK, April 4.—The state and defense rested this afternoon in the trial of Miss Olivia M. Stone, graduate nurse, charged with the murder of Ellis K. Kinkaid, former corporation counsel of Cincinnati.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Ejected today by two police matrons, Miss Olivia M. Stone, graduate nurse, heard additional witnesses testify concerning her attitude toward Ellis K. Kinkaid, former corporation counsel of Cincinnati, whom she is charged with having murdered in Brooklyn last year.

The defendant appeared calmer than yesterday but she kept muttering to herself. Harry Abrams, assistant United States attorney in Cincinnati, was the first witness called. He testified that Miss Stone had called at the federal prosecutor's office several times and once had told him that she was through with Kinkaid. He did not wish to marry him and wanted to see him jailed.

Abrams said he had set Miss Stone in May, 1929, in Cincinnati and that she then had told him she wanted to "get" Kinkaid, if it was the last thing she did.

Matthew T. Hagen, Nashville letter carrier, testified that in 1926 Miss Stone moved from 112 Sixth avenue, South, and gave him an address which the prosecution contends was a disorderly resort. He said he showed the forwarding card to Charles Naury also subpoenaed as a witness.

54 TEXAS MILLERS HAVE BEEN INDICTED FOR SHORT WEIGHTS

AUSTIN, April 4.—Representatives of 26 flour mills of Texas yesterday advised Commissioner of Markets and Warehouse Charles H. Daughman that their mills will comply implicitly with the state weights and measures laws and will cooperate with the department in enforcement of the law.

There are now indictments against 54 Texas millers for short weights. It was announced.

DRY ENFORCEMENT AGENTS INDICTED

Charge Bribes Accepted For Issuing Liquor Withdrawal Permits.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Secret indictments were returned by a federal grand jury yesterday charging prohibition enforcement agents in this district with accepting bribes for the issuance of liquor withdrawal permits to sellers of illegal liquor.

A second federal grand jury returned indictments against four inspectors at the immigration station at Ellis Island. They were charged with accepting bribes from immigrants in payment for permitting aliens to enter this country illegally.

The names of the inspectors were announced as William Alexander, William Leonard, John Donovan and John Y. Elitager.

Federal officials declared other indictments would follow. The investigation, they said, revealed a conspiracy in "immigrant running" embracing employees of various steamship companies, as well as federal immigration officers.

(Continued From Monday's Paper) "Clearly, as it were yesterday, he remembered the day she had declared to him her choice. In the Cathedral cloisters. Walking together. And suddenly, in the midst of indifferent things, she told him, 'I say, Marko, I'm going to marry Lord Tybar.' And his reply, the model of indifference. 'Are you, Nona?'"

CHAPTER V But it was October before he asked her to explain them. The Tybars, as he learnt when he next met her, a week after her visit to the office, were only at Northrepps for a breathing spell between their parents' trunks. Through the summer they were going the usual social round, ending in Scotland. Back in October for the shooting and wintering there through the huting season.

There was the occasion of a little dinner party at Northrepps to which he had come with Mabel, Major Hopscotch Millet and one or two others were among the guests. Nona came with them to the door on the steps. "Well, I shan't see you again till October," she said. "No, till October," he had no more than touched her hand and turned away.

She was close behind him. He heard her give the tiniest little catch at her breath. She said, "Shall I write to you, Marko?" He turned towards her. She was smiling as though it was a chaffing remark she had made. Her shielded her own shield. "Oh, well, I'm bad at letters, you know."

But their eyes met with no shield before them, and she was wounded for he just caught her voice as he went down the steps. "Oh, Marko, do write to me!"

He got into the cab. Major Millet had taken the seat next Mabel. As the horse turned, Mabel inquired, "What was Lady Tybar talking to you about all that time?" He said, "Oh, just saying goodby."

But he was thinking, "That's a fourth question: Why did you say, 'Oh, Marko, do write to me?' Or was that the answer to the other questions, although I never asked them?"

CHAPTER VI A draper occupied the premises opposite Fortune, East and Sabre's. On an October afternoon, just before 5:00 o'clock, Sabre saw Nona alight from her car and go into the draper's. He got out on his hat and coat and descended into the street. As he crossed the road she came out.

"Hello, Marko!" "What about having some tea somewhere?" "I think that's a good idea."

He suggested the Choister Tea Rooms. She spoke to the chauffeur and accompanied him. Nona began some account of her

She very slowly turned her body towards him. He thought her most beautiful and the expression of her beautiful face was most terrible to him in all his emotions.

She spoke very slowly, almost with a perceptible pause between each word. She said, "Well, I'll tell you I said 'flotsam,' didn't I? If I explain that—you know what flotsam is, Marko. Have you ever looked it up in the dictionary. The dictionary says it terribly. 'Goods shipwrecked and found floating on the sea.' I'm twenty-eight, Marko. I suppose that's not really very old. It seems a terrible age to me. You see, you judge age by what you are in contrast with what you were. If you're very happy I think it can't matter how old you are. If you look back to when you were happy and then come to now when you're not, it summer visitations. Sabre spoke a little of local business. But the subjects were but skirmishes thrown out before dense armies of thoughts that massed behind, met, and trifled, and rode away. With pretense of dragging out the meal, Sabre could do nothing but maintain. Nona looked at her watch. "Well, I must be getting back. We haven't had a particularly good meal, but the chauffeur had none."

Sabre said, "Yes, let's get out of this." It was as though the thing had been a strain. He put her into the car. She was so very, very quiet. He said, "I've half a mind to drive up with you. I'd like a ride, and a walk back."

They were within the gates. It had been a dull day. Evening stood mistily far up the long avenue of the drive and in the distance about the park on either hand. Among October's massing leaves, a small disquiet stirred. The leaves banked orderly between their parents' trunks. Sabre noticed as a curious thing how, when they stirred, they only trembled in their massed formations, not broke their ranks as if some living thing ran beneath them.

He said, "Do you know what this seems to me? It seems as though it was only yesterday, or this morning, that you came to see me at the office and we talked. Well, I want it to be only yesterday. I want to go on from there."

He said, "Yes." He hardly could hear the word. He looked at her. She was as tall as he. Not least of the contributions to her beauty in his eyes was the slim grace of her stature. But her face was averted, and he wanted most terribly to see her face. "Stand a minute and look at me, Nona." He touched her arm. "I want to see your face."

She turned towards him and raised her eyes to his eyes. "Oh, what is it you want to say, Marko?" "There was that which glistened upon her lower lip; and about her mouth were trembling movements, and in her throat a pulse beating."

He said, "I've you I want to say something. I want you to explain some things. Some things you said when you came into my room that day and shook hands you said, 'The—when you gave me your hand. You took off your glove and you said 'There.' And you said, 'Well, I had to come.' And you said you were flotsam. And that night—when we'd been up to you—you said, 'Oh, Marko, do write to me.' I want you to explain what you meant."

He answered, "Because I remember, you must explain." "Please let me sit down, Marko." She faltered a little laugh. "I can explain better sitting down."

A felled trunk had been placed against the trees facing towards the parkland. They went to it and he sat beside her. She sat upright but bending forward a little over her crossed knees, her hands clasped on them, looking before her across the park.

"No, you must look at me," he said.

She put out the palms of her hands towards where misty evening banked Marko.

It ought to have married you, seems a most terrible and tremendous grief—and you see yourself just floating—drifting farther and farther away from the happy years and just being taken along, taken along, to God knows where, God knows to what."

She put out the palms of her hands towards where misty evening banked Marko.

The batting averages of the Spudders, now on Salm's roster, in the exhibition games to date reveal that "Caruso" Beck is the real leader of the club, having smashed out 19 hits out of 33 trips to the plate for an average of .578.

The McDonald Case.

Never in the history of local baseball was a greater stir created than on Monday afternoon when Manager Walter Salm of the Spudders imposed a $500 fine on Tex McDonald for "his actions on the ball field Sunday."

Could Be Popular Player.

It is to be hoped that Tex has seen the light. Thus far this season he hasn't shown the slightest disposition to get into condition and help the ball club.

May Use Buddy at Second.

There is more than a slight possibility of Buddy Tanner being used at second base before the season is over.

Much adverse criticism was directed at McDonald last year and he showed that he and the ball club were serious about the game.

CARDS HOPE TO WIN FLAG THIS SEASON

Only Five New Faces Possessed By Manager Branch Rickey.

By NEA Service. Out of a crop of almost 50 athletes starting this 1922 training season for the St. Louis Cardinals Manager Branch Rickey will have but 25 when the National league pennant race starts.

Which proves that all who aspire to major league fame do not develop into duplicates of Babe Ruth, Rogers Hornsby, Cicotte, Walter, Lefty Speaker, Tyus Cobb, Christy Mathewson and Eddie Collins in their first spring.

One by one Rickey applied the real test and found that he possessed only five new faces. They are added to the 23 who received the bonus for finishing third last October.

The new players are Del Gainer, first baseman and outfielder; Shortstop Earl Adams; Herbert Steen, pitcher and catcher; Catcher Harry Brunninghove and Pitcher Clyde Barfoot.

But with a club showing the strength of the Cardinals possessed last summer there was not much room for a rookie. Here and there Rickey attempted to strengthen his forces.

The pitching talent proved a bitter disappointment to Rickey. He brought in Lester Montgomery, a right hander, and Bill Pierotti, Benton, Barnes, Rinehart and Barfoot. One received his diploma—Barfoot, who was the best pitcher in the Texas league last season.

Barfoot, a right hander, will have his chance for fame, for upon the pitching strength rests the future of the Cardinals.

Rinehart is a mystery. Here is a southpaw who booms annually as a minor leaguer but flunks when he joins the Cardinals.

Barfoot is added to Bill Doak, Ed Pfeffer, Marvin Goodwin, Jesse Haines, Arthur Riviere, Bill Bailey, Lou North, Bill Sherlet, Bill Perica and Roy Walker.

The pitching staff presents this problem: Where is there one who will make a good pitcher? If he is found then Rickey sees a chance for the pennant.

Pfeffer may fill the bill. He has been a hard worker for Rickey all spring.

Bill Doak, although leading the National league pitchers in 1921, has been ailing all spring with a sore arm, and a break in Bill's spittle would be a calamity in the ranks of the Cardinals.

Two who make their debut last spring may be the entire affair. They are Perica and Walker, both right handers. The experience of last season may turn them into bill stars.

The only real new strength found with the Cardinals is in the morale of the club, which counts considerably in the pennant race.

All the players participated in the training course where last year

STOCK AND SMITH DID NOT JOIN THE CLUB UNTIL THE OPENING OF THE REGULAR SEASON.

It is the winning spirit which is expected to become a prominent factor in the Cardinals.

And it must not be forgotten that they lost 15 of their first 20 games in 1921 and they came down the stretch without a rush that they gave the Giants a scare for the pennant and almost nipped the Pittsburgh Pirates for second place.

Winn on Technical Kaye. WATERLOO, IOWA, April 4.—Tommy Conley, St. Paul, scored a technical knockout over Neal Allison, Des Moines, in the eighth round of a scheduled 10 round bout here last night. The men are middleweights.

Monday Exhibitions. R. H. E. St. Louis (Nationals) 2 5 3 Shreveport (Texas League) 5 14 1 Perica, Bailey, Doak, North and Collins were the winners; Shaber, Spay, Bird and Vann.

Winn on Technical Kaye. TEXAS A. & M. College 1 4 1 Omaha (Western League) 0 5 0 Winslow and Crawford; Wigginton, Stokes and Barnes.

Brooklyn (Nationals) 1 19 0 New York (Americans) 2 5 3 DeBerry, Miller, Mays, O'Doul, Murray and Schag.

Boston (Nationals) 2 8 1 Washington (Nationals) 2 5 3 Watson and Gowdy; O'Neill, Phillips, Zachery and Ghartry.

VETERAN FIRST BASEMAN WINS OVER RECRUIT

"Doc" Johnston, who was almost waived out of the American league, will start this season as the regular first baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Joe Hauser, the much touted first sacker from Milwaukee, will be forced to play in the outfield.

Mack secured Hauser in a deal that took several players to Milwaukee plus some money. Because of a grip on the hand he had against Milwaukee over his sale he was the last man to report at Eagle Pass, the training camp of the Athletics.

It was a bad move on Hauser's part, Johnston, anxious to stick in the big show, reported in fine shape, worked hard and is certain to start the season.

Since Johnston always goes big runs for the first half of the season it may be around Eagle Pass that Mack secured Hauser in a deal that took several players to Milwaukee plus some money.

Two who make their debut last spring may be the entire affair. They are Perica and Walker, both right handers. The experience of last season may turn them into bill stars.

WICHITA FALLS HAS GUESTS AT TUESDAY IOWA PARK LUNCH

IRRIGATION PROJECT IS DISCUSSED BY THE CHAMBER GUESTS.

CO-OPERATION PLEDGED BY MEMBERS PRESENT

Spirit of Harmony Prevails in Planning for Development of County.

IOWA PARK, TEXAS, April 4.—The business men's luncheon was attended by 76, which included a delegation from Wichita Falls water project directors. Also a goodly number of the land owners along the Wichita river valley that will be affected by the irrigation project were present. After luncheon, served at the Park Inn, had been enjoyed, Dr. J. Frank Clark, acting as chairman, made a talk stating the object of this particular gathering was to discuss and get to work making the necessary arrangements with project No. 1 for building the north side canal from the diversion dam and thus assure the people of irrigation as soon as possible, and by this means to make the project a reality. The directors of the project were instructed to meet with the directors of No. 1 and get the exact figures and necessary steps to be taken to make final action on this matter for good.

Clint Wood, first speaker introduced, made a splendid talk explaining Wichita Falls' attitude in this matter in very plain terms and stated the directors of project No. 1 were ready and willing to meet No. 2 directors in an effort to get together on this matter and form plans to get this north canal, and welcomed them to take the first step.

Engineer Thomasson next made a very interesting talk, giving his various experiences in irrigation work and giving figures showing the amount of water that could be stored and the amount of acres that it would be possible to irrigate. He stated that this project when completed would be the fifth largest of its kind and was considered an ideal location for such a dam. He told the gathering how fortunate they were in having such natural advantages making it possible to have such an enormous storage at such small expense, thereby lessening the burden of the people. He also said the work was progressing rapidly.

C. H. Clark also made a splendid talk explaining the different phases of the work and the advantages to be derived from irrigation, making an appeal to the people of this community to take advantage of the opportunity while it is possible for them to do so.

Geo. Keith of the Wichita Produce company and the two Messrs. Downing now engaged in irrigation in Wichita Falls made talks showing the great profits possible from irrigation.

Mr. McFall made a short talk stating the necessity for chamber of commerce in every town and that every citizen and the farmers in the neighborhood should be members and work with this organization. Mr. McFall extended an invitation for one of its members to be his guest at the Wichita Falls Rotary club luncheon every Thursday and to be represented at their civic and welfare meetings, stating his object was to get the Wichita Falls county closer together and a good place to live. The land owners present were thanked for their attendance and interest in the face of the muddy condition of the roads.

DERRICK BEING ERECTED ON FRANK OGLEBY FARM

VERNON, TEXAS, April 4.—A derrick is now being erected on the Frank Ogleby farm about eight miles north of town, and it is the expectation of the Dickie-Bell Oil company of Frederick, Okla., that the structure will be completed in about four days. A rotary rig will be used. Officials of the company, it is said, are enthusiastic over the location they have chosen. It is pointed out that a government oil survey of several years ago denoted the particular section embraced by the Ogleby farm as promising good oil development.

"Excuse me I Want CALUMET BAKING POWDER"

Don't be induced to buy a new brand of baking powder, imitations, or baking powders that are represented to be "just as good" because you can get a Cook Book.

You can get a beautifully illustrated Cook Book in colors from the Calumet Baking Powder Co., without investing anything or buying something you do not want. All you have to do is to write the Advertising Dep't of the Calumet Baking Powder Co., Chicago, Ill., giving them your name and address, and they will forward you the book absolutely free of cost. It's one of the most up-to-date Cook Books there is with many valuable suggestions. So don't experiment with other powders just to get a Cook Book. That is not necessary.

Insist on Calumet and see that you get it. Then you'll always be sure that there'll be no failure, to waste time and materials—that every time you put a baking into the oven it will come out light as down, pure and uniformly raised.

For your own satisfaction, test Calumet. Compare it with every other kind in the one test that tells, baking, and see how much better Calumet makes the food.
