

REPARATIONS PAY MUST BE REDUCED SAYS NEW CHARGE

NECESSARY TO THE ECONOMIC RECONSTRUCTION OF GERMANY, HE SAYS.

MUST ALSO NEGOTIATE AN INTERNATIONAL LOAN

Expresses Hope That the United States "Would Take Part" in This Provision.

PHILADELPHIA, May 12.—Impartial experts agree that the only hope of economic reconstruction for Germany lies in a "speedy and considerable reduction of the exaggerated reparations payment" and the settlement of all such payments for "at least a number of years," Karl Lang, German charge d'affaires, declared in an address here today before the American Association of Political and Social Science.

In his first public utterance since arriving in this country last fall as the German diplomatic representative, Charge Lang added that an equally important essential to Germany's economic recovery was the negotiation of an international loan. In this, he said, Germany hoped the United States "would take part" for "it seems that a collapse of Germany and consequently of other European nations is inevitable if the United States continues to stand aside."

As a conference was running and there is little unemployment at present and certain signs of luxury are observed in the larger cities of Germany, Mr. Lang said, foreigners traveling there are "sensibly led into a misconception of the true situation." The real truth about this "so much talked of prosperity" is that it is to a very great extent absorbed, first by reparations payments, and second, by the "incredibly important" gold market, owing to the decline of German agriculture, "caused by the war."

Added to the economic handicaps which he said Germany now faced, Mr. Lang estimated that since the signing of the Versailles treaty the wealth of the German people had been cut down by approximately forty-five billion gold marks, and forty-five of the lost colonies and ceded territory. More than eleven billions of this amount, he said, was in German property expropriated in France and Belgium. The United States, he said, has not followed this course with respect to German property. Mr. Lang remarked that adherence to this policy would be a guide to "every individual as to the country in which to invest his money where it would not be touched in the case of further international trouble."

Airplane Stolen From Love Field; Officers Notified

DALLAS, May 12.—Officers within a radius of 100 miles of Dallas are looking out for a German airplane that today entered a hangar at Love Field, formerly an army air station here, rolled out a big plane, "cranked it up" and sailed away. Officers in the surrounding country were notified.

Dr. Ellis was one of three whose depositions were taken today, the testimony to be used in the national trial of the case against Sheriff Tom Garner of Jefferson county. Fourteen more witnesses are to be heard.

When Chief of Police E. B. Johnson was questioned at 2:00 o'clock he said he attended one meeting of the Klan some time during the holidays but never took the oath, he said he never saw Sheriff Garner at one of the meetings.

MAY INVOKE A LAW USED IN CONDUCTING HATE MARKET RIOTERS

EIGHT INDICTMENTS ARE RETURNED AGAINST LABOR LEADERS.

MORE THAN 400 ARE PLACED UNDER ARREST

Efforts of Attorneys For Men to Secure Their Release Have Failed.

CHICAGO, May 12.—Through an unexplained error by some official Jeremiah Horn, former saloon-keeper, indicted with several labor leaders for murder in connection with the killing of two policemen, was released from the county jail last night on a $250 bail—after being booked on a misdemeanor charge, and has disappeared. Two squads of detectives were ordered by Chief of Police Fitzmorris to scour the city for Horn when his release became known today.

CHICAGO, May 12.—Police and civic organizations today set in the indictment of eight Chicago labor leaders and the state's attorney's threat to use against them the law invoked 14 years ago to obtain executions of the Haymarket rioters, a smashing blow at what they termed gang terrorism. In the first night session on record by Cook county special grand jury returned true bills charging murder against "Big Tim" Murphy, head of the gas workers' union; Fred Mader, president of the Chicago building trades council; Cornelius P. (Con) Shea, secretary-treasurer of the streetcar union; and others, referred to as the "big three" of the vicious labor circles, and five others.

The indictments are forerunners of a series of other, city and county officials said. More than 400 persons were arrested and but few have been released with the greater number denied freedom on writs of habeas corpus.

OTHER NAMED IN INDICTMENTS ARE: Leaders Braverman, head of the furniture hangers union; Daniel McCarthy, business manager of plumbers' union; Jerry Hogan, saloon keeper; Thomas Hogan, former police officer; and Robert McCleod, chief in the building of Ewan Jackson. The eight are charged specifically with the killing of Terrance Lyons, acting police lieutenant. The slaying of Lyons followed a murder by Thomas Clark, contractor in guard at a building which previously had been bombed, police say, by labor agitators. The case was handed down by J. M. Landis, former federal judge.

Efforts of the attorneys for the labor leaders to secure the release of Murphy, Shea, Mader and the others failed when Judge Kitcham Swindell declared that a state of emergency existed between the police and the anarchists. "I am convinced that we have enough evidence under this law to constitute an emergency," he said.

PINCHOT IS TRYING TO BREAK MACHINE IN PENNSYLVANIA

RUNNING AS AN OUTSIDER HE CHARGES MISMANAGEMENT OF GOVERNMENT.

CANDIDACY SUPPORTED BY OLD PROGRESSIVES

Will Also Command the Vote of Insurgents From the Republican Ranks.

By MARK SULLIVAN National Political Correspondent of the New York Evening Post and Wichita Daily Times.

(Copyright, 1922 by the New York Evening Post, Inc.)

PHILADELPHIA, May 12.—The next political event in sight is the Republican primary in Pennsylvania, to be decided next Tuesday. For the understanding of the public outside of Pennsylvania, it can be said that the two United States senators concerned are not the cause of the excitement in political circles. For the succession to Senator Knox there is but one republican candidate.

But it is over the governorship of Pennsylvania that the most bitter fight is on that has taken place within the republican party in Pennsylvania within a generation. The candidate who is creating most of the interest is a nationally known figure—Gifford Pinchot. Mr. Pinchot's career in politics has been that of an idealist, a progressive, a Roosevelt man. Early in life when he was still a student at Yale, he adopted a profession, then compartively little known in America, that of forestry. This profession he studied for several years in France, Germany, Switzerland and Austria. Since the completion of his student days, he has spent his entire career in one branch or another of this profession.

For twelve years he was head of the bureau of forestry of the United States government. This experience coincided for seven years with the Presidency of Roosevelt, and Mr. Pinchot as an intimate of Roosevelt was frequently described as one of the members of Roosevelt's "kitchen cabinet." Pinchot came conspicuously to the front as the champion and spokesman of the policy of conservation of national resources in the Ballinger controversy during the presidency of Taft. It was during that fight that Pinchot left the government service.

For the past few years he has been the head of the Forest service of the state of Pennsylvania. Under ordinary circumstances, and especially as long as the late Senator Penrose was the head of the Pennsylvania republican machine, a man of Mr. Pinchot's type would hardly have had the personal chance to win an elective office in Pennsylvania. It is the partial disruption of this old Pennsylvania machine incident to Penrose's death that has given Pinchot the opportunity he now has.

The fight is staged wholly between what remains of the old Pennsylvania machine, whose candidate is the present attorney general of the state, Alter, and Pinchot, running on the republican ticket with some slight support from an insurgent section of the old machine.

The issues involved include largely Pinchot's personality and public record, which is of the sort to appeal to women voters and to all the old Roosevelt element in Pennsylvania. Added to this is the issue of charges of extravagance and other forms of mismanagement of the state government under the administration of the republican organization. Pinchot's support is rather more powerful than that of any other man who has ever contended against the Pennsylvania republican machine.

RALCO-ROARK NO. 2 MAKING MUCH GAS. SEEMS PRODUCER

The Detroit-Mexia Oil company on the Lynn tract situated about one mile northeast of the Ralco-Roark well south of Bunker in Young county, encountered a sand in their No. 2 well at 2555 which was penetrated 10 feet and is making 15,000,000 cubic feet of gas and spraying oil. The owners are looking forward to a good producer as the gas wells in this locality usually turn into oil after a short time, and a 500 barrel well is considered likely.

One of the best wells reported from the Breckenridge district was completed Thursday by Landreth and Foster, it being their No. 5 on the Shaker lease in the Curry pool south of town. The well came in flowing natural 200 barrels from the usual time, but was given a 40-quart shot of nitro when the flow increased from 500 to 500 barrels. Tom Hunter's No. 3 well on the Murdock tract in the south Burk-burnett pool is completed in the 1200-foot sand and reported swabbing and flowing at the rate of 250 barrels. These wells are in what is known as the Loring and Moninger section of the pool, where some good shallow producers have been finished.

No. 17 of the Tahoma Refining company on the S. M. Gose tract in Archer county is drilling in the 1600 foot sand Friday and has all the appearance of a 250 barrel producer. No additional acreage is added to the field as the well is in the proven area.

To the Voters of the Thirteenth District

In fairness to the men and women who will cast their ballots on May 13, to elect a representative to Congress from the Thirteenth Congressional District, we desire to submit for your consideration the following:

S. A. L. Morgan entered the race for Congress in the summer of 1921. Following the death of the late Lucian W. Parrish, a special election was called to be held on May 13, to elect a successor to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Parrish. It has been impossible for Mr. Morgan to see personally all the voters of the district; he has conducted a vigorous campaign and to the certain knowledge of his friends who have been active in his support his campaign has been clean and upon a high plane to which every man should adhere.

Mr. Bullington before leaving for Washington about the middle of April agreed to become active in behalf of Mr. Morgan upon his return from Washington; for some reason, however, he announced while in Washington that he would be a candidate for the office upon an independent ticket. This naturally gave rise to a report circulated over the district that Mr. Bullington would divide the vote in Wichita County and defeat Mr. Morgan; we have found, however, this is not true, but on the contrary his friends have rallied to his support and we believe that the voters of Wichita County and over the district, understanding the effort that has been made to divide the vote will stand by Mr. Morgan solidly on May 13.

At the present time there is only one Congressman in Washington representing all of the northwest portion of Texas and the Panhandle; should either of Mr. Morgan's opponents from the lower end of the district be elected it will place four Congressmen in a radius of fifty to sixty miles of each other, there being one already at Fort Worth, one at Dallas and one at Bonham. It is more than three hundred miles from Fort Worth to Amarillo and that distance lying between these points should certainly be entitled to a man to represent them who is familiar with the needs of the people.

May we ask that before casting your ballot you give Mr. Morgan's candidacy serious consideration and vote for the man whose record is clean, whose qualifications are not questioned and whose honesty and integrity is unimpeachable. VOTE FOR THE HOME MAN AND A DEMOCRAT.

MORGAN CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE, Luther Hoffman, Chairman.

FORMER EMPEROR OF GERMANY IS DEVOTING ATTENTION TO RELIGION

AMSTERDAM, May 11.—Former Emperor William's devotion to religion has progressed to the point of mania, Admiral von Tirpitz, former minister of the German navy, is reported to have said recently. The German ex-emperor is described as spending the greater part of each day in reading the scriptures, commentaries, sermons and other religious books and in prayer. His health appears to be good, but the members of his entourage at Doorn regard his mental state with some anxiety. It is observed that his interest in European affairs has greatly diminished, even German politics finding him somewhat uninterested. His mind appears to live rather in the past than in the present and he is disposed whenever he does converse on politics and someone speaks of the injustices of the world, to allude with a certain melancholy and indifference to what he terms the false accusation of his having "willed the war."

Community Stage School Develops Talent

JONATHA JONES, CHILD ACTRESS

By MABEL FONDA GAREISEN
Director, Children's Theatre Guild of Rochester, N. Y.

The next national step-in education will be the children's theatre. We have started it as a community movement in Rochester and the results have been so splendid that I foresee its adoption by cities all over the country.

The dramatic field for little folk has far-reaching possibilities. It is high time that children learned what constitutes good drama and good acting. Otherwise there will be no development in the American stage.

Pleasant of fine music is written expressly for children, but there is very little dramatic literature for them.

We cannot begin too early to teach children good taste and high standards, not only in music but in drama. The children's theatre need not be merely a school to make actors and actresses. It will teach poise and personality, cultivate the

"Spank, Mother, Spank With Care"

(Roy K. Moulton may have written this "on the spur of the moment" all right, but it does justice to a conviction that a lot of folks have had for the past few years. An epidemic of old-fashioned spanking, a prayerfully administered, might do a lot to induce a return to normalcy among the early-teenage generation.)

A New Jersey mother, a scrapper, is raising a politer child. The mother says she is a flapper who travels around with the wild. So, mamma has picked out a spanking world. And now she informs the whole world she is going to make one flapper tingle. This judgment she grimly has hurled.

When girls hang around with cake-eaters And show an abundance of nerve With flat-wheelers, lizards and cheaters, A spanking is what they deserve. So hisses this parent, commanding, This old-fashioned home autocrat, And Rosie will eat her meals standing. For quite a long time after that.

And so this stern parent, in passion, May bring an old remedy back. The whole country take up the fashion. And echo the New Jersey whack. Take warning in time, young cake-eaters; Take warning, O fatuous simp. For next time you happen to meet her, Your flapper may flap—with a limp.

DEFINITE RESULTS ARE REPORTED IN BUY AT HOME MOVE

OIL COMPANIES TO OBTAIN AUTO ACCESSORIES AT HOME HEREAFTER.

WHOLESALE GROCER TELLS OF JOBBERS' SHIPMENTS

Says Retailers Save Nothing By Buying Direct Through "Drop Shipments."

Definite and substantial results of the "buy-at-home" campaign which the business council of the chamber of commerce has been conducting for several weeks were reported at the weekly luncheon of the council Friday, when it was announced that arrangements had been perfected whereby large oil companies and like concerns which have been running well into the tens of thousands of dollars annually, will hereafter get them locally.

The purchases, which have been running well into the tens of thousands of dollars annually, were made elsewhere because of better prices; this advantage has now been offset locally.

Another problem for the committee which has this campaign in hand was brought by L. E. Whitley of Carroll-Brough-Robinson-Giles, wholesale grocer, who said that many retail grocers were in the habit of buying what is known as "drop" shipments, that is, shipped shipments which come direct from the factory and in the making of which the jobber has nothing to do save hook the order and make the collection.

There is absolutely no advantage in price on these shipments, Mr. Whitley pointed out, and there is at least a slight disadvantage in time and service. The argument that gets the retailer, Mr. Whitley pointed out, is that he is buying his goods direct from factory, and dodging a few middlemen; Mr. Whitley declared that the jobber got his profit on the shipment just the same, so that no advantage accrued to the retailer.

Mr. Whitley told of an incident that had come to his knowledge, in which two local housewives resolved to take advantage of the exceptional bargains offered in another north Texas city. After spending about $50 for fare and hotel bills, he said, they bought their clothing from local merchants.

Eugene Leopold reported on his successful effort to land the 1922 convention of the Retail Clothiers Association of Texas, in which contest Wichita Falls defeated Galveston by three votes. Mr. Leopold said that he had promised to try and secure special hotel rates for the convention, and in this connection, he mentioned complaints from traveling men as to the sample room rates charged by the Kemp.

This elicited a reply from J. H. Stafford, new manager of the Kemp, who said that the sample rates were figured on a space basis and that the prices quoted were as low as could be profitably made. Business houses had taken their losses, Mr. Stafford pointed out, since boom days; but the hotel could not do this because the rent was just as high as during the boom and if there were anybody to take the loss, it was the men who owned the hotel.

The business council voted to send delegates to the west Texas chamber of commerce meeting at Plainview and the Colorado-Gulf association meeting at Amarillo, late this month.

FINDS POKER GAME IN OFFICE BUILDING, PLAYERS PAY FINES

A poker game in the very heart of the business district, in one of the city's largest office buildings, in fact, ran afoul of the law late Thursday afternoon when Ranger Koonsman and Detective Shook, suddenly interrupted the entertainment and placed five men under arrest. All of the victims were business men.

In police court Friday morning four $10 fines were duly recorded and a $15 bond that had been made by the fifth member was declared forfeited.

The court collected, in all, $160 cash from a score of offenders brought before the bar of justice. This exceeded by $5 the total taken in Thursday evening, all of which indicates that Judge Chauncey and Special Prosecutor Gibson are vindicating the contention that police court revenues should be more than enough to pay prosecution charges.

Traffic violations made up most of the cases tried Friday, the motorcycle squad and patrolmen in a busy twenty-four hours rounding up speeders, wrong parking offenders and similar violators of the law. Judge Chauncey has warned all of these that he is "not running a collection agency and that he intends breaking up these minor infractions of the law."

Minimum fines have been assessed thus far, but the judge has declared that "repeaters," those arrested a second time, will find out how high the maximum penalties can mount.

Four intoxication charges were disposed of and a negro man, arrested Wednesday morning after he had just hit town from Burk Burnett and had beaten up a negro woman on general principles, was ordered turned over to county officials on charges of assault and battery. The testimony of the woman, as given in court, indicated that the assault was of an aggravated character.

RESIDENTS OF SCOTLAND ADDITION WANT ONE OF SCHOOLS LOCATED THERE

More than 100 residents of the Scotland addition have signed a petition to the school board asking that one of the new school buildings to be built with money from the bond issue to be voted Saturday, be located in that addition.

H. M. Kauffold, who has circulated the petition, says that there are about 150 children of school age in the addition and that a school is badly needed there.

"We, the undersigned, understand that there are two new schools to be erected in this city. We feel that we are in need of a school in this addition more so than any other addition, as the river is between us and the schools in town and the railroads between us and the north side schools."

The petition will be laid before the school board at an early date.

The petition says: "We, the undersigned, understand that there are two new schools to be erected in this city. We feel that we are in need of a school in this addition more so than any other addition, as the river is between us and the schools in town and the railroads between us and the north side schools."

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself, that where I am, there ye may be also.—John 14:3.
Think a little less of your sorrows, and more of your joys, for the joys will make you grateful and gratitude is in itself one of the most beautiful pleasures of the soul.—Stopford Brooke.

HOW HE GOT RICH.

Most of the money you have made, so far in life, has passed out of your hands and into one of the cash registers manufactured by John H. Patterson, dead now at the age of 77.

Patterson was a wizard of psychology. He knew the science of making money, knew it "from soup-to-nuts." From his life, you can learn much that may help you get rich.

Patterson's greatest legacy to the future is scientific salesmanship, of which he was the step-father. His factory, the National Cash Register Company, had the first school in our country devoted exclusively to salesmanship as a science or art. The idea was imported from Germany.

In this school, Patterson's drummers were taught the answer to every possible objection or question that might be raised by a prospective cash register buyer.

From this, learn the value of thoroughness in everything.

Learn, also, what Patterson instinctively knew—that success is largely a matter of salesmanship. No matter how wonderful your work, ideas or products, they will bring you success only in proportion to your ability to sell them profitably.

Ignorance of the principles of salesmanship keeps many a man and woman working for a fraction of what they could get if they developed a greater market for their stuff, through salesmanship.

Maybe you wonder why you sometimes see, in a small store, a cash register worth as much as the store's whole stock.

The answer is: Patterson spread the value of protecting money against theft and keeping accurate, analytical records—both functions combined in the cash register.

It's a good deal like a business that has $500 invested in a safe that never holds more than $200.

The Patterson method of appealing to a prospective buyer was to show the buyer how to protect his cash against loss and how to run his business so it would at all times show him just where he stood, also reveal lines of unprofitable effort.

Patterson made money by showing other people how to make money. The customers came first, Patterson second. Usually it's the other way, cart before the horse. That's why so few small businesses attain the size of the National Cash Register Company.

John H. Patterson was one of the business giants now rapidly fading into eternity. He was in the class with James J. Hill, Andrew Carnegie, Henry Flagler, John D. Rockefeller, John Wanamaker and other pioneer leaders of industry.

These men were the kind Horatio Alger wrote about—from poor boy to riches. They proved that the plattitudes, much laughed at, get the money.

And their lives are indelible lessons to young men of today who grumble at having to start at the bottom of the ladder.

VOTE FOR THE SCHOOL BONDS SATURDAY.

The Times wishes again to urge the tax paying voters in the Wichita Falls independent school district to vote Saturday for the school bonds.

It is hardly conceivable that bonds for such a purpose could be defeated in a community like Wichita Falls, but it will be a good thing for every voter favoring the bond issue to go to the polls and register his endorsement of the proposal and a large affirmative vote will aid in the sale of the bonds. The latter reason is one of considerable importance, for even those who may oppose the bond issue will certainly wish that the bonds having been voted will bring the best price possible.

As has been stated the purpose of the bond issue is to provide money to build a new high school building in connection with which it is proposed to have a junior college, and to provide funds for other school buildings and the enlargement of some of those already built. Wichita Falls has one of the finest public school systems in the southwest but the schools are overcrowded and a new high school building is an absolute necessity if education is to be provided for all of the young people of Wichita Falls who want it.

The bond issue which the voters are asked to authorize in Saturday's election will give Wichita Falls adequate and splendid physical equipment for its schools and no greater good than this could be conceived. In the opinion of this paper the extension of its educational facilities will be one of the most important things for Wichita Falls that has ever been undertaken and will be the most important development for Wichita Falls that its people have ever undertaken.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the congressional election Saturday. Voters ought not to forget the school bond issue. Remember that there is only one voting place for the school bonds. That is at the city hall. After you have voted for congressman, or before, go to the city hall and vote for the school bonds.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MY FRIEND

There is something very beautiful to the sound of "my friend." It means so much. As though a great calamity should come and I should say to myself: "Well, I have my friend to go to for comfort, advice and inspiration."

My friend!

I sat talking the other evening with my friend Don Herold. He is a mind that is friendly. He brought up the topic of conversation—useless things.

"I believe that I like useless things more and more," he said—"the unnecessary rosinness of sunsets, the playfulness of children, the extravagance of Gothic architecture, the wag of a dog's tail."

I have been thinking a great deal about this subject of useless things since this talk with my friend. I walked about my yard and saw little strange flowers poking their yellow, blue, white and purple heads from the ground along the edge of where I walked. And I thought how really useless they were in themselves, but how full of importance to me—for I love them.

And I look at my walls covered with pictures of rare beauty, doing no service there—except to make me happy that they are there.

What a thing to have a friend to talk things over with!

Tonight as I was about to go to my home, someone came to me and took my arm. I looked up and there was one of my finest friends—his face so full of genuineness and worth, a man clean in mind and inspiring in the work which he does, a man among men no matter where you meet him.

I do not know what I would do if I couldn't "finger over" in my mind the names of those whom I delight to recall as my friends.

How worth while all things are when you can truly say that "my friend understands."

I like folks to introduce me to other and strange folks as "my friend." I am, highly honored and at once made distinguished.

God means something to me when I think of Him as "my friend!" (Copyright, 1922, by George Matthew Adams.)

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

LEARN FROM THE ROBIN.

A robin underneath the eaves. A nest of wondrous pattern weaves.

The cat who watches from below, Exclaims: "That's much too high to go.

"I'll show you Mistress Robin now, A most unusual apple bough.

"A little nook where you may be The leading couple of the tree.

"There you may teach your babes to fly And keep on them a watchful eye."

"Better up here," the robin said, "Than have to fear your stealthy tread.

"Better the long high flight each day Than have you steal my babes away."

So high beneath the sheltering eaves Her nest the careful robin weaves.

But men and women, not so wise, Still rear their young where danger lies.

They heed the blandishment of cheats And chance the hazard of the streets.

For pleasure's whim they build their homes Where the sly cat forever roams.

YOU AND I

By ALBERT APPLE

GRANDSON. Georges Frederique Gatinnes, grandson of "Big" Clarence, has been looking for a job in Saxville, Mass.

He is said to have spent 1,000,000 francs in less than a year. They followed his European university education.

More recently he has been shoveling coal on a factory, and working in American textile mills. It is a different type of education, but sometimes more profitable.

BOOZE. The best booze cartoon ever printed showed a quart bottle of whiskey on a table, at which sat a young man writing: "Twenty years from now, I promise to pay John Barleycorn the lion's share of my health and potential earning power, also years of my life."

Prohibition may have as many holes as a sieve. But it has accomplished one thing: Fewer people are mortgaging their futures over to John Barleycorn. Not much danger of many "getting the habit" at $12 a quart.

WAYWARD. A wealthy New York manufacturer on a table, at which sat a young man writing: "Twenty years from now, I promise to pay John Barleycorn the lion's share of my health and potential earning power, also years of my life."

Men and women usually never know what trouble it is until they have a family. There is no reason why this should be, except that there's something wrong with the system of economics and child training.

SELFISHNESS. Gabriel Weller, who buys the original manuscript of a story by Charles Dickens, pays $120 a page. Why pay so much when he could buy a new story, printed, at half a cent a page or less?

The answer is obvious. "Wells" pays the big price for "the only specimen"—something that cannot be duplicated.

The craving for possession of rare things is instinctive in most people. It is a mild outcropping of selfishness, the regulator of the individual's system of economics.

GOLD. Russian money gets so worthless that the soviet has decided to discard "the gold system." As soon as plans are worked out, it announces, it will base its money on a day's work or "so much goods" instead of gold.

That will be the system in the future, when men will be more fair in their dealings, each with a thorough knowledge of economics.

It is idealistic, but it will not work, now, under the profit system by which an equivalent exchange of labor or commodities is impossible. You cannot trade dollar for dollar when every one is trying to get two-for-one.

SELF-ROBBERY. An 18-year-old girl cashier is under arrest in Portland, Maine. She is charged with stealing money to buy an auto.

This makes talk, because it involves "other people's money." Might be a good idea to have a law against people stealing from themselves—buying things they can not afford. For instance, owning an expensive car before they own a home.

Self-robbery does us more harm than helps. It wastes a man's energy and self-robbery is the victim's own business.

Texas Viewpoints

Dallas News: Austin is the capital of Texas in matters of government and perhaps in culture also. Within its borders sit the highest tribunals of human justice established within the state. And yet it was in Austin—in the center of the business district of Congress avenue, in fact—that a negro was knocked on the head Monday and handed away as if such occurrences were of no consequence whatever.

According to the account received by The News, the negro was a farm hand come to town for work, and was slowed by unmasked white men in broad open daylight, dragged into the car and whisked out of town. The whole thing was done in the presence of at least one witness who was able to report it to the press. The dispatch makes no mention of any arrests of investigation. The violation of law involved in this occurrence is just as complete and just as flagrant as if Pat M. Neff had been hit on the head by a trucker's block from his gubernatorial suite of offices and carted out of Austin. But neither Mr. Neff nor the city of Austin seemed to be at any kind of lawless violence within the very shadow of the capitol building. The life of a citizen, black or white, is none too precious in any Texas city. It must be admitted, but it must cause the citizens of Mexico to wonder a bit that a negro field hand can't go down a sidewalk of the capital of Texas without running the risk of getting his skull cracked by the occupants of a car that happens to drive up to the curb. At the worst of conditions in Mexico, negroes are not being brained-on-bank-corners. In the minds of some, no doubt, it is of no importance what becomes of a friendly negro who is out of a job and in a strange town. There are plenty of Texans, apparently, to whom it is of no concern that almost any law or every law can be disregarded by a gang acting in conformity to a conspiracy of their own concealing. Stealing a horse in Texas is still a crime, and stealing an automobile is a science of low standing, but striking down a defenseless man on the streets in plain view of the populace is a sort of diversion for the beholders, indifferently vouchsafed by the assailants.

Amarillo Tribune: Anti-prohibitionists do not expect the prohibition amendment to be set aside by the American people but every effort known to political strategy will be made to divert the voters from the laws. A well known press correspondent in Washington points out that the amendment is itself a double-edged sword, and that it will give the power to enact prohibitory regulations and it is on that theory that the anti is relying to render the amendment in effect null. This explains why prohibition will continue to be an issue for some years yet.

Don't Be Tired

By DR. R. H. BISHOP Be careful that you are not in a constant state of exhaustion.

For fatigue is a great underlying cause of sickness. An exhausted body offers practically no resistance to the attack of disease germs.

When you use your muscles you burn up the system's supply of energy and leave certain by-products, the carbon and the lactic acid, which combine to depress and tire the body, thus bringing about complete bodily exhaustion.

Tight clothing will always aid in tiring one quickly for it will check the function of the arteries in bringing their proper supply of energy to the tring muscles.

One grade of gasoline will give the automobile engine more power and endurance than another and so some forms of food will supply more energy than others. Sugar, though not advisable as a steady diet, is immediately converted into energy. That is why soldiers on the march are often fed chocolate and why children who use up a great deal of energy in play crave sweet foods.

Working steadily, but not too fast, the muscles have the chance to throw off the refuse products, at the same time bringing in new fuel or energy for further work.

Rest is the great repairer of muscles. Rest gives the muscles the time which they must have to get rid of their poisons and replace their small store of energy.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY. Today's word is disparage. It's pronounced-dis-par-aj, with accent on the second syllable. It means-to depreciate, to cheapen, to detract from.

It comes from—the Latin prefix "dis," signifying the reversal of an action, and "par," also Latin, meaning equal.

It's used like this—"Residents of San Francisco and Los Angeles seldom miss an opportunity to disparage, each, the city of the other."

Nitroglycerin, powerful explosive, is also one of the most powerful heart stimulants known to medical science.

And Sunday afternoon he was in the settin room half way throo the Sunday paper and still reading it, and ma was reading the parts pop wasent, and I had a idee, saying, May pop, wat day does a week start on, Sunday or Munday?

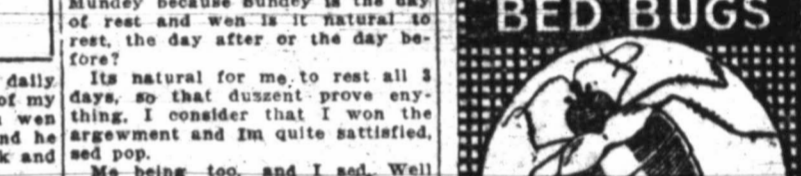

Wat, ey I dont know, Sunday, I sippes, sed pop.

Certainly it dussent, it starts on Munday, sed ma.

Now jest for that I insist it starts on Sunday and I can prove it. Sunday Munday, Tuesday Wensday Thursday Friday Sattiday, now which day came first? Sunday of course, sed pop.

Its natural for me to rest all 3 days, so that dussent prove anything. I consider that way if they wanted to. The week starts on Munday because Sunday is the day of rest and wen is it natural to rest, the day after of the day before?

Me being too, and I sed, Well then, sed pop, sed my allowance was to start the first of the week and if Sunday is the first of the week why it wat to start today, awent it?

It certainly awt, and it shall, but if I had known wat was in your mercenary mind your mother mite of wen the arguement, sed pop. And he gave me the 3 cents, making me feel I was the one won the arguement.

HENRIETTA, TEXAS, May 12.—

Delegates who attend the 33rd annual State Christian Endeavor convention in Houston June 14-18 will witness the greatest convention ever held in Texas. Delegates from the Wichita district will concentrate in Wichita Falls June 13 and leave on the 3:30 p. m. train via Fort Worth and Denver to Fort Worth in special cars which will carry them to Houston.

The night of the 13th will be spent in Fort Worth as guests of the Fort Worth endeavorers where a lively rally will be held in their honor. "Thought I'd look in on your party. You know, you asked me—"

She could not trust her tongue. If she said more in her anger, she would say too much. She cried all in a breath: "Well, go away then! I don't want you. I won't have you"—and pushing past Bel, fled into the cloakroom.

He drew himself up sharply and frowned out all indications of his embarrassment, assuming what he believed to be a look of haughty indifference.

His gaze focused intelligently upon the figures near that display of the wares of the hotel florist. Women liked flowers. But there were four in Linda's party, her guests would think it funny if he joined them, bringing flowers for his wife only.

He had disappeared by the time Lucinda showed herself again. Outwardly mistress of herself, she returned to her chair as if nothing had passed with his luncheon party, and made directly for her corner. Instantaneously Lucinda experienced a slight psychic shock and found herself again the self-contained, the young woman of the world whom nothing could dismay.

She had disappeared by the time Lucinda showed herself again. Outwardly mistress of herself, she returned to her chair as if nothing had passed with his luncheon party, and made directly for her corner. Instantaneously Lucinda experienced a slight psychic shock and found herself again the self-contained, the young woman of the world whom nothing could dismay.

Created by his introduction had subsided, he found a chair by Lucinda's side and when the conversation swung to a pageant he took advantage of the general interest to detach Lucinda's attention.

"I couldn't resist the temptation to butt in, Linda. Hope you don't mind."

"It's always nice to see you."

"I can see you're troubled about something because I know so much better than anybody else. I'll lay long odds no one else has noticed anything, but to my seeing eyes you've been flying signals of distress all during luncheon. That being so, it wouldn't be decent of me not to give you a hand and stand by in case I'm needed—now would it?"

Momentarily Lucinda contended against temptation. Then, "You are a dear Dobbin," she said almost gratefully. "But isn't fair of you to see too much. If it's true I have secrets I don't want to share, it would be kinder to let me keep them—don't you think?"

Jean Sedley was claiming her attention. "What do you think of that, Cindy? Isn't it a ripping idea?"

"I don't know," Lucinda demurred. "It must be a weird sensation."

"Not one of you need be afraid of," Lucinda promised. "If you don't mind my saying so, you would screen wonderfully, Mrs. Druce."

"You think so, really?"

"Tell you what," Lucinda offered sagaciously. "Suppose you take that what? No trouble at all to fix it up for you. Take up all for that matter, just as we are. What do you say?"

"I say it's perfectly splendid!" Jean Sedley declared. "We'd all love it. When can you arrange it?"

"This afternoon, if that suits everybody. Only have to telephone, and in half an hour they'll be all ready for us. Shall I?" Lucinda got out of his chair. "Do say yes, all of you. Mrs. Druce? I know the others will if you do."

"I don't mind," Lucinda agreed hesitatingly. Give me five minutes."

lie to me, and justify yourself by asserting that no man ought to be asked to stand proxy into his affairs. So—I leave you to your affairs—and only ask that you leave me to mine."

Neither spoke in that clash of wills until Bellamy's weakened, his eyes shifted and he stepped aside, slightly sobered.

"Please!" he begged in a turn of politeness. "Didn't mean—"

"Of course."

"You leave me to infer that your affair with Annie has reached the point where you take her to the Claque club to talk terms."

He made a pitiable effort to pull himself together. "Look here, Linda, you're all wrong about this—mistaken. I can explain—Damn it, you can't refuse."

"Can't it go home, Bel get some sleep. When you wake up, if you still think you have anything to say—consider it carefully before you ask me to listen. Remember what I tell you now: you've lied to me for the last time, one more lie will end everything between us, finally and for all time!"

On the far West Side, the brougham drew to a shuddering stop before a row of brick buildings that they were united in one service was proved by the legend running from end to end of the row beneath its second story windows: ALMA DALEY STUDIOS—CULP CINEMAS, INC.—BEN CULP, PRIST.

This was the nursery in which what Mr. Culp (or his press agent) had brilliantly imaged as the youngest, fairest sister of the plastic arts was fostering the finest flower of its expression, to-wit, the artistry of Alma Daley in private life, Mrs. Culp.

With every symptom of disgust the doorkeeper growled at Lucinda: "Yes, Kin's man up—but mind yer other."

SUGGESTS JUNIOR COLLEGE BE USED BY ALL OF COUNTY

G. C. WOOD URGES NEW PLAN FOR SCHOOL BOARD'S ADOPTION.

A suggestion that the junior college, to be established here if the $350,000 bond issue carries Saturday, be made a county college instead of merely a school district institution, has been advanced by G. C. Wood, president of the chamber of commerce, and is being considered by the school board.

"Every department that is necessary for a junior college could be maintained in perfect, and it would at once take rank above any other school in Texas of its kind. I believe the board can work out a plan whereby the benefits and advantages of a junior college could be enjoyed by every young man and woman in the county."

STATEMENT FROM COMMISSIONER FITZ

I noticed a political advertisement in this morning's Record-News from the Bullington campaign committee, one statement of which was that someone went, under cover of darkness, to the negro section, aroused many of the negroes, and with promises of compensation persuaded some of them to conspicuously display advertising matter in the windows of their homes.

MORGAN CAMPAIGN WILL CLOSE WITH OPEN AIR MEETING

S. A. L. Morgan will conclude his campaign for congress Friday night with a rally to be held in the open air at the corner of Ninth and Indiana, on the Moore and Richolt lot.

IT NEVER HAPPENED

A campaign advertisement was placed in the Record News in this morning's issue by Bullington's Campaign Committee, whoever they may be, stating among other things that someone had gone to their headquarters and gotten a large assortment of campaign advertising matter and put it in the nigger section of this place.

We are reliably informed that someone purporting to be a Republican has distributed some campaign photographs of a letter, and we charge this letter to be a fake, and neither Mr. Morgan nor anyone else for him has had anything to do with this matter.

FINAL WORD To the Voters of the Thirteenth Congressional District. The campaign is drawing to a close. S. A. L. Morgan and his campaign committee and friends, have made a clean, vigorous, open campaign on live issues. They have refused to stoop to the bowery politics of some of their adversaries. They have made their claim for support wholly upon merit and the best interests of the citizens of this district.

They have not been concerned with the falling out of Mr. Bullington and his Republican negro friends. This effort to raise a racial prejudice in this district when none exists is too contemptible to appeal to sensible people. The fact remains that in August, 1920, Mr. Bullington, who has not fallen out with his negro friends, sat in the Republican convention at Dallas as a delegate with many negro delegates. We would not refer to this, but for the statement in a Henrietta paper of a supposed letter written by a supposed organization in New York (without any address) to a dead negro in Texas, and who has been dead for many days. The fact remains that it is a white man's country, and S. A. L. Morgan stands, where he has always stood, for the supremacy of the white race. He does know that it is contemptible, however, to try to raise racial prejudice against a small minority of negroes living in this district.

Having carried on the campaign in a clean, honorable, open manner, we propose to close it in the same manner, but to warn you against the eleventh-hour propaganda of irresponsible paid advertisers and representatives. In closing we thank you most sincerely for your kind support and influence. MORGAN CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE (Political Advertisement)

Visiting the Leper Isle of Molokai

Copyright, 1923, by Public Ledger Company

It Is Not at All the Pest House
Which We Usually Think of as a Place
to Be Avoided

By J. Franklin Stevens

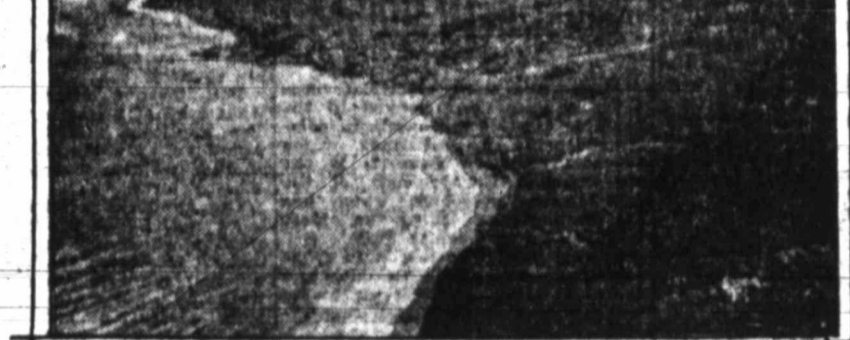

"GIVE a dog a bad name and"—that is the trouble with Molokai. The popular conception among those who have heard of Molokai, and even among those who have visited the Hawaiian Islands, is that the island is an exclusively leper settlement, a pest house or a "large waste" to be spoken of with a shudder and by all means to be avoided. The mental picture is of a small bleak island inhabited only by maimed and suffering lepers, with a few devoted people who have severed all human ties in order to give to the afflicted exiles some little medical or religious comfort. The effect is heightened by the fact that nearly all steamers pass the island at night, as though even the sight of it was to be avoided, and that virtually no information on it is available even locally in Honolulu. It would seem to be the sort of place one does not even discuss.

All of this aroused my interest, so I determined to visit the leper isle and see it for myself. Such information as I could gather sounded interesting, even though it breaking against the base some 1700 feet below. A little to the right is the "Settlement," a low flat point stretching toward the sea, some eight square miles in area and completely cut off on the landward side by the high, impassable cliffs. There is but one trail leading down the cliffs, and that is a steep and winding path six miles long which is most carefully guarded. There is an approach from the sea at the port of Kalapappa, which is the official name of

Halawa Bay, the ocean end of the Halawa Valley, where the river empties into the sea

Leper settlement at Kalapappa—a snapshot made by the author from the path or cliff above station at Honolulu and given the chaotic moorah oil treatment. So successful has been this oil treatment that cases are constantly being discharged under observation parole, and for two years it has not been necessary to handle a single case to the "Settlement" at Kalapappa. Molokai, in fact, the oil treatment given the mild cases on Molokai has resulted in a number of discharges from there.

The roads in Molokai leave much to be desired. Probably there are rougher ones, but not many, so on the return trip we abandoned the road entirely and drove cross-country through the high pasture lands. It was smoother and more interesting.

AS WE crossed a large pasture Kahinu pointed out a barren plot of land and said: "That is due to caterpillars, a great pest here. Do you know how they came to the island?" Then he told us the Hawaiian legend of the genesis of the caterpillar.

It seems that once upon a time there lived on Molokai an old couple who had a very beautiful daughter. A fine-looking man came courting her night after night and she fell in love with him. The parents could find out nothing about him, but, as he seemed prosperous and their daughter loved him, they consented to a marriage. Some little time after the marriage, their daughter fell ill and, on making inquiry of her, learned that her illness was caused by worry.

She explained that early every morning while she still slept, her husband left the house and never returned until after sunset. He refused to answer any questions as to where or how he spent his days, so his wife worried herself ill. Much puzzled, her parents sought the advice of a kahuna or witch, who told them to spend a night with the young couple and to keep the husband awake until nearly dawn and then to watch and follow him. This they did, permitting him to fall asleep just before dawn.

As the sun rose he awoke and, springing up, rushed out of the door and, as the first rays of the sun struck him, fell to the ground and turned into a great caterpillar. They followed him and he took refuge in a hole under a large rock on a hill. Guarding the hole they called their neighbors together and, as they could not lure him out, built a fire at the entrance to the hole. The heat became so intense that the body of the caterpillar swelled and burst the rock and then ascended as a great black cloud. Rising high above them the cloud dissolved into millions of small caterpillars, which fell like rain over all the land. And so came the caterpillar pest.

It must be true, for we saw the shattered rock where the man-caterpillar had taken refuge and met his death.

The following day we drove along the leeward coast to the extreme eastern end of the island, over the mountain range to the windward side and wound down the mountains to the beautiful valley of Halawa, some twenty-eight miles from Kaunakakai. As we followed the lee coast we were constantly in sight of the island of Lanai, from which we were separated by a narrow channel. Lanai is a small island, mostly mountains, 130 square miles in area, with a population of only 100. From the eastern end of Molokai we were in plain sight of Maui, second island of the group in size, having an area of 728 square miles and a population of 36,000.

Halawa is a small native settlement in a narrow valley facing the sea, completely shut in by high mountains which encircle it on the landward side, and accessible only by the winding mountain road which we had traversed. Four very beautiful waterfalls at the head of the valley unite to form the placid little river which flows through the village to the sea. It is one of the most beautiful, fertile and peaceful tropic valleys I have ever seen.

Returning to Kaunakakai in time for dinner we embarked on the Likieki at 9 P. M. and after a rather rough passage reached Honolulu at the witching hour of 4:30 the next morning.

The development of Molokai has just started, having been held back for several reasons, the principal one being that it was early designated as the site of the leper settlement and was regarded by the natives as a place of exile, a pest hole to be avoided, an island across which was written large the legend, "All ye who enter here leave hope behind." Then an enterprising citizen secured nearly one-third of the island and established a game preserve for the entertainment of himself and his friends. This is "always" an "exclusive" development.

A few years ago a corporation secured 1000 acres and planted it in sugar cane. The usual method of irrigation, by pumping from artesian wells, was attempted, but the water came in salt and the crop was ruined. This land has now reverted and is mostly overgrown by alow.

MORE recently the plateau country has been turned into cattle ranches and is doing well. Bees were introduced and there is now a considerable export of honey, the alow blossoms yielding a fine grade. Within the year an extensive acreage has been planted in pineapple, with every prospect of success and dairy farming has been introduced on a large scale.

Quite recently Molokai has been selected as the site for the development of the "back to the soil" movement for the natives. Some 8000 acres have been set aside, with 1000 more in reserve, for division into twenty-acre homestead farms. The suggested plan is to rent the farms at $1 an acre per year and arrange for a long-term note of $3000 a homestead to cover the cost of buildings, equipment and cattle.

was pointed out to me that the beaten paths were safer and that, out of the many who had come to Honolulu this winter, only four people, and of these four two were writers seeking local color, had visited the island; that there were no hotels; that the steamer was poor and the connections worse.

The very efficient Hawaii Tours Company took an intelligent interest in my proposed trip and made my path easy. They wirelessly one of the natives, asking if he would take care of my little party, put us up at his house and drive us around the island. On receipt of his cordial assent they secured accommodations for us on the steamer and gave us introductions to our prospective host.

Accordingly on a sunny afternoon in mid-February we boarded a tiny inter-island steamer, the Likieki by name, and with the veteran Captain Bill in command set sail—this is literal for the Likieki carried both sail and steam power—for the port of Kaunakakai, island of Molokai.

The port of Kaunakakai is fifty-two miles from Honolulu, thirty-two of which are across the channel lying between the island of Oahu and Molokai. It is a rough channel and our boat was some roller, but we forgot most of the discomfort in listening to Captain Bill's stories of his forty years of cruising in the South Seas and his tales of adventure among the cannibal and other tribes he visited and traded with on the islands south of the Equator.

About 1 A. M. we tied up at the Kaunakakai dock and were cordially greeted by our host Kahinu, together with most of the other inhabitants of the village. We found the dock was three-quarters of a mile long, but there was a mule team takes us to the beach; so we, with passengers, were loaded aboard and slowly mule-drawn to shore.

A short trip by auto and we were at the home of our host and were assigned the royal quarters, for his house had originally been the home of Kamehameha V. There was not much to remind one of royalty in the plain board house, the grass walls and thatched roof having been boarded over, but it was immaculately clean and the rooms and porches were spacious.

In the morning we learned something of the island and found it was a beautiful tropic isle rich in vegetation, with peaceful valleys and high rugged mountains. The island has an area of 261 square miles, with five ports and as many villages and a population out of side of the leper settlement of some 1200.

SHORTLY after breakfast we started on our drive to the Pali, or cliff on the windward side of the island overlooking the "Settlement." This is the local name, and no reference is ever directly question them. The sight from the Pali is beautiful, for, standing at the edge, you look down the almost vertical face of the cliff to the ocean the colony, and this likewise is carefully guarded.

The home of Kahinu, the host and guide, the former home of King Kamehameha V

Within the "Settlement" are some 400 lepers with about 200 attendants. It is a clean, beautiful and prosperous looking village surrounded by gardens and small farms. And it is prosperous, for they told me the weekly surplus banked by the inhabitants was about $2000 in coin. They have a weekly steamer service bringing in all sorts of supplies, including ten movie reels each week, and an average of one automobile each trip.

The Greatest Golf Shots I Have Ever Seen

By Jesse P. Guilford
Amateur Golf Champion of the United States

LAST year at the Brookline Country Club in a match wherein Edward Ray and Harry Vardon were pitted against Francis Outmet and myself, Ray on the fifteenth played a shot which caused the large gallery to gasp in astonishment, so impossible did it seem. This hole measures about 200 yards, and Ray's second shot, a mashie, went over the green into the rough, where it lodged between two large tufts of grass. Apparently the only thing which could be done was to strike in behind the ball in an effort to move it out of this position into a more playable lie. Ray took his stance and with his trusty niblick hit behind the ball with all his might. Out of the grass and earth which he uprooted emerged the little white pill, which landed on the green about three feet from the hole, and taking a little sideward kick it rolled in. After such a performance Francis and I, who had been on the green in two, were unable to hole our putts for a half, and so the British players became 1 up.

Over this same course five or six years previously Francis Outmet was playing a match with these same men from across the water, not for exhibition purposes, however, though a tremendous gallery was following, but for the open title of the United States, these three having tied for the first place. The fifth hole on this course measures in the vicinity of 400 yards, and Francis after making a very good drive sliced his approach into the woods, from which it bounded, much to Francis' relief, out of bounds. At that time the penalty for out of bounds was loss of distance only, and had Francis' ball stayed within bounds it was such an impossible shot that it would mean at least two strokes before he would be able to reach the green. Francis took particular care with his next shot, which he laid on the green, and sunk his putt for a half with both Vardon and Ray, and he now attributes his victory to the luck which he had on that hole. These lucky breaks, or perfectly played difficult shots, very often occur at such a time that it means the winning of the match. The second year in which I competed for the New Hampshire State amateur and when I was defending my title, I was eliminated by just such a shot, which was made by the late C. W. Bass, who was known as the best left-handed golfer in the country. We were playing the short thirteenth hole on the course in Rye Beach, N. H., and had been having a nip-and-tuck battle all the way. Bass over-drove the green, which was guarded by a ditch about a foot deep, with perpendicular sides, and his ball rested against the back edge. It looked like a sure win on this hole for me, as I was comfortably resting on the green, but Mr. Bass not only laid his ball on the green, but it just hung over the cup, almost a perfect stymie being laid my ball, and the best which I could do was to halve the hole. Mr. Bass enjoyed the recollection of that hole immensely, and when I saw him shortly before his death he told me that it was the frailest shot he had ever made.

The tenth hole at the Woodland Golf Club, my home course, is one which I believe causes many a golfer to shudder as he stands on the tee before driving off. This hole is 150 yards, but half way between the tee and the green, which are on the same level, is an abrupt hill, which rises forty or fifty feet, and over which one shoots to the green on the other side. Some years ago the club staged an exhibition match in which Outmet and his brother-in-law, Jack Sullivan, played Paul Tewkesbury, who is now one of Philadelphia's good golfers, and myself. Coming to this hole Francis and Jack had the honor, and after each had played the caddies who stood at the top of the hill signaled that the balls were safely on the green. Tewkesbury played next, and a moment or two after the ball had left his club the caddies in wild excitement made it evident that he had made this blind hole in one!

For an array of trick shots which are performed intentionally there is no one who can beat Joe Kirkwood, the Australian professional, who toured this country this summer giving exhibitions of his wonder shots. Oftentimes I have found myself in such a position that the ability to play out of a particular lie with my left hand would just meet the situation, but not being able to do so I would have to stab at it with my right hand. Kirkwood can play either way. He drives with his right hand or his left, getting practically the same distance with each. Before he makes his shot he names it, so there is no danger of his performance being accidental, and he slices, or perfectly straight at will. I think Kirkwood's best stunt is the bunker shot, in which he tees a ball on the side of the bunker and plays it over his head. The stymie tricks which this Australian shows are marvelous, and one has but to see him play a full niblick and catch it to realize that he is a wonder at trick shots.

There are many times when these trick shots would come in handy if we could but do them, and there are also many times when we perform wonder shots purely in accident. To make a hole in one, or to hole out from a seemingly impossible lie gives the thrill that comes but once in a lifetime, and makes us exclaim with Briggs: "Ain't it a grand and glorious feeling?"

A large number of motions were acted upon by the court in the final session Friday morning. A number of automobiles were ordered sold by the U. S. marshal. The automobiles ordered disposed of were seized by officers and libels filed against them, it being alleged that they were used in the transportation of liquor.

'CANNED HEAT' USED FOR JAG PURPOSES, COURT IS INFORMED

The search for something with a kick in it developed something new Friday morning.

A middle-aged man arraigned in police court on a charge of disturbing the peace, testified that a shot of "canned heat" used for small cooking outfits had been the source of his enthusiasm.

The preparation in question is supposed to consist mainly of wood alcohol. "The man said" he used it in small quantities, as he needed a stimulant. He appeared slightly paler as he leaned on the rail before Judge Channey.

"What's the matter with your arm?" asked Judge Channey.

"An officer broke it," was the reply. The man said that a deputy constable had broken the arm and inflicted a wound on the head, in arresting him several weeks ago.

The prisoner indicated to the court that "canned heat" gave him better results for less money than anything else he had tried.

Judge Channey passed the case for further investigation.

FIRST ELECTRICAL DISPLAY SIGN HERE GOES INTO DISCARD

Among the many electrical signs being changed or removed in the business district this week, in compliance with the ordinance which becomes effective June 1, is the big diamond flasher sign of the Art Jewelry company, which has the distinction of being the oldest display sign in Wichita Falls.

Mr. Art first installed it in front of his old store on Ohio avenue and moved it when he changed to its present location at Eighth and Indiana.

The sign is too heavy to be supported by braces from the building, as the ordinance requires, and is being discarded entirely.

MORE KNOWLEDGE OF LANGUAGE AND GOVERNMENT, NEEDED

JUDGE JACK REFUSES TO ADMIT APPLICANT TO CITIZENSHIP.

"TOO MANY IGNORANT VOTERS NOW"—JUDGE

Applicant Says Man Who Burns a House is "Worth" Being Hung By a Mob.

"It is almost a crime to admit a man to citizenship of the United States when he is totally ignorant of local governmental affairs and local conditions. There are too many ignorant voters in the country now and the denial of citizenship is the only method that the court has in protecting the country from this evil."

In these words Judge George W. Jack refused to grant final citizenship papers to Joe Vovil of Electra, Friday morning. The application was passed over until next term of court to give the applicant more time to acquaint himself with his government.

Judge Jack also told the applicant that he should mingle more with the English-speaking residents of his neighborhood and learn to speak the English language better.

The court asked him whether he would join a mob to hang a man who had been arrested for burning a house and causing the death of one or more people. The applicant replied, "Sure, I would, I think he is worth it."

Later he admitted, however, that the best plan was to permit the man to be tried in the courts of his country.

The district attorney inquired what kind of a countryman he was. The applicant stated he was an American. He stated in reply to another question that he was a Russian by birth.

The applicant admitted that he knew nothing of the congressional election which was to be held Saturday. He stated that he had paid his poll tax and would vote if he would be granted his citizenship papers. He said he had heard talk of Morgan, Williams, Bullington and Blanton, but didn't know what they were running for.

MUNDAY FARMERS ARE BUSY PLANTING CROPS FOLLOWING THE RAINS

MUNDAY, TEXAS, May 12.—The sky cleared after several weeks of rainy weather and the farmers are busy planting their crops. The rains have been of untold benefit to this section and farmers are rejoicing over the prospects of a row crop for this year. There is a very small acreage of grain that stood the drought, but what grain came through is looking very good at this time and promises a splendid yield.

The work on most of the new brick buildings that have been under construction for quite a while is almost completed and some of the firms are moving into their new quarters. The other brick that is under construction west of the First National bank is making good headway and the foundations of several buildings are being put down.

Editor and Mrs. J. A. Kennedy of the Munday Times and their children left Wednesday morning for the Texas Press association which is being held at Denton this week.

Earl Williams, assistant editor of the Munday Times and Miss Zora Mae Barton of Munday were married by Rev. J. O. Heath Tuesday evening, May 9, at 8:30 o'clock at the home of Rev. Heath. They will reside at Munday.

Meanwhile, however, the opposing element had delivered more than half a million bushels on May contracts, and today's receipts here were announced as amounting to 240 car loads. The upward swing of the market was soon checked and something of a reaction ensued. The opening, which varied from unchanged figures to 1/8 higher, with May 1.45 1/2 and July 1.35 1/2 to 1.37, was followed by a rise of 1/8 for May and with lesser gains for July and September.

Negro Organization Condemns Bullington

The American Association for the Advancement of the Colored Race, the organization whose paid white attorney was given a severe thrashing and ridden out of Austin a few years ago astride a fence rail for protesting to Governor Hobby against the alleged mistreatment of Texas negroes, has entered actively into the congressional race in the Thirteenth District.

Congress only men who are in sympathy with the purposes of this organization. We are therefore giving you the record of the Congressional candidates in the Thirteenth Texas district and request you to pass this on to the colored voters of this district urging them to center on one candidate to defeat the enemy of social equality and colored advancement in this race.

This negro uplift society of New York, which stands for social equality among the white and black races, is apparently circularizing the negro voters of the entire district brazenly opposing the candidacy of Orville Bullington because of his well-known opposition to negro participation in Texas politics.

"Orville Bullington: Made speech before audience of Democrats and Republicans in Dallas in 1920 and stated he would withdraw his objections to the Republican party in Texas when the negro had been eliminated from its councils. Also author of resolution declaring for white political supremacy, which resulted in making the Republican party in Texas white. Record bad."

The original letter is on file at Bullington headquarters and is available for the inspection of all interested citizens.

The letter gives in graphic detail the negro organization's interpretations of the record of the other three candidates on this question listing them as favorable, good and fair, and fully sets forth how these different grades were arrived at.

The letter clearly gives the negro organization's viewpoint of the various congressional candidates, together with their attitude on the negro question.

The original letter ends with this brazen paragraph: "This is the most reliable information we can get and it represents several weeks' of careful investigation. You can depend on it. God speed to you in promoting social equality of the race."

That portion of the letter pertaining to Mr. Bullington's stand on this question is reproduced below. The original letter is addressed to a well-known North Texas negro and is apparently getting wide circulation among the negro voters of the district.

Here is a part of the letter that pertains to Orville Bullington: "Dear Sir and Brother: This association by resolution is obligated to assist in sending to Orville Bullington hereby admits that this association has correctly given his views on the negro question.

Orville Bullington pleads guilty to having made the speech referred to and to having written the resolution.

The letter is signed by the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored Race, per J. W. Johnson (colored), Secretary.

Orville Bullington makes no bid for the negro vote in his race for Congress, but willingly concedes this class of suffrage to those who seek it.

Orville Bullington stands with other red-blooded Americans of the Southland on the race question and resents this infamous act of brazen effrontery.

Orville Bullington is unalterably and openly opposed to negro domination and solicits the undivided support of every 100 per cent American in the Thirteenth Congressional District in this fight for WHITE SUPREMACY.
