

INTENDED TO LEAVE THE DOOR OPEN FOR FUTURE DISCUSSION

SUCH IS WHITE HOUSE INTERPRETATION OF HAGUE NOTE

CONFIRMS EXPLANATION MADE BY LLOYD GEORGE

No Further Comment is Made in Connection With Proposed Conference.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The American note of yesterday declining to participate in the proposed meeting at The Hague next month for discussion of Russian conditions was intended to leave the door open for further conversations, it was said today at the white house.

UNITED STATES DECLINES TO JOIN IN CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The United States government having removed today the last possible doubt as to the finality of its decision not to participate in conference on the European economic situation at Genoa, the next move of the powers attending the Italian meeting.

Impartial observers at Genoa have been unanimous recently in stating that only the hope of securing the attendance of the United States either at Genoa or at the proposed conference at The Hague had prevented the arising of an impasse.

This government is unable to conclude that it can helpfully participate in the meeting at The Hague. Secretary Hughes called the American ambassador to Genoa and explained the reasons for the decision.

The United States, Mr. Hughes pointed out, maintains its original position, maintaining its original position, maintaining its original position.

DISAPPOINTMENT OVER REFUSAL OF UNITED STATES

GENOA, May 16.—Foreign Minister Schanzer of Italy on learning today that the United States would not join the proposed conference on Russian affairs at The Hague, expressed great surprise, especially as the rapidly with which a decision was reached.

Great disappointment at the American decision was expressed generally in conference circles, as the belief had gradually been forming here that the United States was ready now to join the other powers in dealing with Russian economic problems.

When news of the American decision got abroad it became at once the topic of the day. The opinion generally expressed was that America's absence from The Hague might kill that meeting, as the refusal of the United States to participate would be regarded as the chief reason for the failure here to achieve definite results.

It was remarked that the Russian government was gratified by the invitation to join the mixed commission at The Hague, implied a belief that the power of the Russian government was being restored, and that therefore other means must be found for solving the Russian problem as well as meeting the dangerous European political and economic situation.

Those among the delegates here who were participants in the Washington armaments conference frequently reiterated their conviction that America's absence from the conference could only come by each country earnestly setting to work to restore her finances by balancing her state budget and this could only be done by reducing expenses, especially by limiting armaments.

GRANTED 24 HOURS IN WHICH TO MAKE REPLY

GENOA, May 16.—The entire Russian delegation attended the meeting today of the political sub-commission. Foreign Minister Tchitcherine, head of the delegation, asked a number of questions concerning the details of the proposed meeting at The Hague, and upon his request, the Russians were granted 24 hours in which to frame a reply to yesterday's proposals concerning this meeting. The sub-commission then adjourned until tomorrow.

At the very conclusion of the meeting Mr. Lloyd-George was handed the Russian note, but it was not discussed by the sub-commission.

ATTRIBUTED TO AMBIGUITY OF THE MEMORANDUM

PARIS, May 16.—The declaration of the American government to participate in the conference of experts at The Hague on the Russian question is attributed to an official dispatch here to the ambiguity of the memorandum setting forth the agenda of the conference, which in French opinion, may be interpreted so as to avoid this danger there is little likelihood it was decided that France will be represented at the Hague.

PURCHASES BRANCH OF KATY AND GETS TRACKS TO MEXIA

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 16.—William Edendorp, owner of the Louisiana Railway and Navigation company, today announced he had concluded arrangements to purchase a branch of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas line, and also tracks into the Mexico oil fields.

The Texas railroad commission has given its approval. It is said to be the "highest railroad deal made in the south in the last 25 years."

It is expected the L. R. and N. system in its extended form will be in operation within the next 30 days. Mr. Edendorp is to acquire the Missouri, Kansas and Texas line in Texas, extending from McKinney, Winnboro and Hughes Springs to Waskom on the Texas line, and thence to Shreveport, from which the L. R. and N. operates to New Orleans. It is 212 miles from McKinney to Greenville, 178.4 miles from Greenville to Waskom and 19.5 miles from Waskom to Shreveport. When the extended system is in operation it will be about 400 miles in length, exclusive of existing branch lines.

It is understood that Mr. Edendorp further expects either to extend his line into Dallas and Fort Worth or get to these points through packet agreements, thereby giving direct connections to New Orleans and Shreveport, from north Texas points and with railroads in that section which have no lines to the larger cities.

The purchase price for the Katy branch is reported to be close to $30,000,000.

SHREVEPORT BRANCH OF KATY PURCHASED

AUSTIN, May 16.—The railroad purchased by William Edendorp, president of the New Orleans Railway and Navigation company, is known as the "Shreveport branch" of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad. It runs from McKinney in Collin county, to Shreveport, La. The road connects with the main line of the Houston and Texas Central railroad at McKinney, and runs through Mexia, Mr. Edendorp presented his case to the state railroad commission several weeks ago.

Through these alleged confessions and other information, according to the police and prosecutors, evidence has been obtained to connect the work of the bombers and killers with "Big Tim" Murphy, head of the gas workers and street sweepers union, former member of the state assembly and congressional secretary, "Cox" and "Frenchy" Mader, president of the Chicago building trades council, the criminal courts will render a decision today on the plea of attorneys for Murphy and Mader that their cases be assigned for immediate trial.

Murphy is quoted as having said he regards himself as being made the "goat" and is through with Chicago labor. He is under a $100,000 bond for complicity in a $400,000 mail robbery. The wives of Murphy and Mader have stated in affidavits to obtain $100,000 bond for their husbands' defense.

CHARGE SOCIALIST PAPER SOUGHT TO OVERTHROW UNION

MUSKOGEE, Okla., May 16.—A declaration that the Oklahoma Leader, socialist newspaper published in Oklahoma City, and Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois state of the United Mine Workers, had attempted to overthrow the international organization of the union, was made by John Wilkinson, president of the Oklahoma district convention here today. The charge was made after a telegram from Farrington had been read accepting the invitation of the convention to speak before it tomorrow.

"Before I get through I will charge delinquency in the Oklahoma Leader and the Illinois miners, at least by President Farrington, to absolutely overthrow the international organization," Wilkinson shouted. "This is a broad statement, but I will prove it by the records."

FOUR IDENTIFIED IN THE CHICAGO CASES AND THREE CONFESS

CLAIM EVIDENCE CONNECTS 'BIG THREE' LEADERS WITH THE CRIME.

MURPHY CHARGES HE IS BEING MADE THE "GOAT"

Declares He is Through With Chicago Organized Labor—To Leave if Acquitted.

CHICAGO, May 16.—Evidence distinctly connecting bomb throwers and the slayers of two policemen with the "big three" Chicago labor leaders, was claimed today by police and state's attorneys who have worked indefatigably since the slaying of Lieutenant, and Thomas Clark, policeman, was shot down a week ago after two buildings had been dynamited in the so-called labor war.

Four men have been identified positively as the slayers of the policemen and three of them have confessed. The police said, while John Miller, a bartender, owner of the motor car from which the fatal shots were fired, has been identified as the driver through the bloody finger prints on the automobile door. Two men who rode with him were arrested when they applied for medical aid, the police said, one having a body wound and the other a bullet through the shoulder. Under questioning they broke down, police said, and one made a complete confession. Miller himself confessed early today under constant questioning, the police said. He was removed secretly to an outlying police station because of an attempt to poison him. Police said one "Big Tim" Murphy, head of a restaurant, contained a quickly acting poison.

Through these alleged confessions and other information, according to the police and prosecutors, evidence has been obtained to connect the work of the bombers and killers with "Big Tim" Murphy, head of the gas workers and street sweepers union, former member of the state assembly and congressional secretary, "Cox" and "Frenchy" Mader, president of the Chicago building trades council, the criminal courts will render a decision today on the plea of attorneys for Murphy and Mader that their cases be assigned for immediate trial.

VALUATION FEATURE OF THE TARIFF BILL BEFORE THE SENATE

PROPOSAL IS DISCUSSED BY SENATOR CAPPER OF KANSAS.

SAYS PROPOSED PLAN WOULD WEAKEN PARTY

Would Conceal Excessive Amount of Protection Difficult to Defend.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—American valuation again was brought into senate discussion of the tariff bill today, Senator Capper, republican, Kansas, chairman of the senate agricultural bloc, charging that the "most zealous advocates" of this system desired it because they believed that it they could conceal from the American people the extent to which they desire to raise rates.

"In effect," he said, "they admit that they are seeking rates so high as to be unpopular; that they are endeavoring not to represent the will of the people, but to fool the people."

Senator Capper predicted that "real propaganda" for American valuation was coming in spite of the inaction of the senate finance committee in abandoning its inaction of the foreign valuation bill that it should be launched by those who desire exclusively higher protective duties on manufactured articles. He added that manufacturers were not content with their position in the American market, but they were endeavoring to force their position in competition with foreign producers, but desired "an exclusive position in the American market."

TRUSTEES TELL OF PRESENT SCHOOLS' WORK

Superintendent says employing of faculty for college will be big task.

The recent voting of the school board and the plans for the junior college were the principal topics of discussion at the weekly luncheon of the University club in the hotel Tuesday noon.

After thanking the club for the interest manifested by the members, Superintendent Clark declared that one of the first steps to be taken by the board now would be the institution of a junior college which has already been championed by the University club.

He said that the trend of the times toward the death of the junior college rather than towards the high school is a fact that is being better and that the state requirements were such that the cost of operation was too high.

After the institution of such a college, the main thing will be to put the right men and women in the school. Teachers of more advanced scholarship will be necessary.

Airplane Loaded With Whisky Is Wrecked in N. Y.

New York, May 15.—The wrecking of a whisky laden airplane near Croton-on-Hudson, where New York City's drinking water comes from, caused prohibition authorities today to consider steps to prevent this form of smuggling from Canada.

The plane was a double seater and the passenger cockpit had been fitted with bottled goods packed in gunny sacks. A cistern in the cockpit of the cargo was a copy of a Montreal newspaper.

George J. McCall, a former deputy sheriff, said the plane was wrecked to earth in an instant the machine was a wreck. Mr. McCall ran toward the airplane expecting to find cover, someone dead, and was whirled away. One hundred quart bottles were broken in the crash and 20 were intact.

Linda Lee In

by LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

And Mr. Wilkins was to understand that these were to be regular tests and no monkey business; he was to see that someone with plenty of knowledge helped the ladies make up; after which he was to shoot the party as a whole in some little some or other, in addition to making individual close-ups.

A compliment signalled their screen debut: the presence of Miss Daley. "All persons composed, acceptable, showing every anxiety to make their tests successful."
"I thought it would be nice if we could have her," Miss Daley explained, "make a regular little scene of it."

"I'm sure that would be delightful," replied Lucinda, suspended judgment melting into liking even in those first few minutes.
Miss Daley was tactful enough to make her guests forget themselves and the trial to come, as they took their places—and were served with tea by actor-writers in correct tuxedo. All the same, Lucinda noticed that their hostess ingeniously maneuvered to a central position in the foreground, where she sat full-face to the camera; this being by far her best phase. And just before the lights blazed up, the girl launched into a spirited account of her past—starring with King Lauchlin.

Clever actress that she was, Miss Daley extemporized a star part for herself by playing without warning and announcing that she would have to run and change for the scenes to be photographed.
"I'll try to hurry and try to get here before you go," she said, shaking hands all around with charming grace; "but if I don't see you again, it's been just wonderful to meet you all, and I do hope this isn't goodbye forever!"

The bank lights blazed out and the camera shifted its centering.
"Nice little scene," said Mr. Culp, intercepting Lucinda as she left the set. "Goin' to screen pretty. I'm bankin' on Jack here. He's got it. He dropped an affectionate, fat hand on the shoulder of the cameraman. "Excuse me, Mrs. Druce, want to see the camera man ever turned a crank." The cameraman grinned sheepishly and professed a diffident hand. "No temp—ment, no fussing business about Jack, Mrs. Druce. When Jack says that little scene took pretty, I know it did."

"Right, Mrs. Druce," Mr. Timothy averred. "I wouldn't say about the others, but you and that other little blonde lady—"
"Mrs. Lucinda."
"Her and you registered like a million dollars."
Nevertheless the little filip administered to her self-esteem made Lucinda feel more contented; it deepened her interest in the business in hand.

On the point of leaving, Culp put in a hasty appearance and insisted on escorting Lucinda to the door.
"Mrs. Druce," he abruptly volunteered to Mrs. Druce, "I was going to turn out great. That's just what he said—like a million dollars. And I been thinkin'—"
"I was speakin' to you, Mrs. Druce, in her dressing-room, d'ya see, and she's strong for it, says she'd be tickled to place. I was thinkin' maybe you'd like to try out into pictures. You got everythin' d'ya see, looks and style and all, everythin' but experience; and that's somethin' you can get right here in this studio, workin' with Mrs. Culp. I got a good part for you in her next picture you could try out in, and—"
"It's exactly kind of you," Lucinda interrupted, "and I'm truly appreciative, Mr. Culp; but really I couldn't think of it."

"Well, if you don't, that's different." He pondered gloomily this incomprehensible freak. "Liza," he suggested, brightening, "tell you what, Mrs. Druce; you go home and think it over."
"Seriously, Mr. Culp; if I should think it over for a month, my decision would be the same. But thank you ever so much—and please thank Mrs. Culp for me, too."
"Well, Culp," said reluctantly, holding the street door, "if that's the way you feel about it, well, of course . . . G'night, Mrs. Druce, and please thank you."

Creeping to her car, Lucinda experienced a vagary of vivid reminiscence. Just for an instant the clock was turned back for her a dozen years and, more, she was again a little girl, a child bringing dazed eyes of dream from the warm and scented romance of a matinee, her thrilled perceptions groping mutually toward verities of streets mantled in blue twilight.

That passed too quickly, too soon she was Lucinda Druce once more, brown up and married, disillusioned . . .
Notwithstanding that she drove directly home, pausing only to drop Daubney at his club and the Lonsdales at their hotel.
The telephone rang in the boudoir. The maid answered for her, and came to report: Mr. Druce had called up to say he wouldn't be dining at home that night, he was detained by "conference."

Without looking, Lucinda knew that the woman's eyes were demure, for lips twitching.
Her just anger of that afternoon scoured with strength redoubled.
On leaving her bath Lucinda declared only long enough to shrug into a dressing-gown before going to the telephone, call Daubney and make an engagement for the evening.

At first place, the huge main room of the Palais Royal seemed less frequented by clients than by waiters; but the interior of the former was constant, and when a gang of incurable melodramatics crashed, blared and whanged into a jazz foot-trot, the oval dance floor was quickly hidden by swaying couples.

For some minutes Lucinda sat looking out over without seeing these hordes dancers, only aware of the shifting swirl of color and the hypnotic influence of savage music, her thoughts far from his closest adaptation of jungle orgies which she had come to witness. And presently a smile began to flicker in the depths of her eyes.

"Oh!" she said, rousing when Daubney uttered a note of interrogation—I was thinking about this afternoon, remembering King Lauchlin mooping and mawing in his magnificent delusion that he was conducting an orchestra.
"You don't know about the handsome offer Mr. Culp made me, with his wife's approval just as we were going away," she continued. "What kind of an offer?"

"To become a movie actress under the Culp banner, a sister-in-art to Alma Daley."
"Do you mean Culp actually had the impertinence—"
"Oh, come!" Lucinda's amusement subsided. "Mr. Culp was most kind, at least he meant to be. He said he, his wife and his cameraman—whose opinion he values more highly than only director's—all agreed. I had shown a great deal of promise; and that, if I cared to try it on, he'd be glad to give me a good part in his wife's next picture, and if I made good in that he'd form a company to star me."

"What role?"
"Very well, Dobbin. Let's say no more about it."
The constraint that fell between them—like a certain of stifling folds, was presently emphasized by an abrupt suspension of the music. When Daubney could endure it no longer, he broke it with a question the most impolitic conceivable: "You didn't tell me what answer you gave Culp, Linda?"

"What role?"

The constraint that fell between them—like a certain of stifling folds, was presently emphasized by an abrupt suspension of the music. When Daubney could endure it no longer, he broke it with a question the most impolitic conceivable: "You didn't tell me what answer you gave Culp, Linda?"

But his manifest penitence earned him no more than a show of restoration to favor. The heart in Lucinda's bosom felt hot and hard and heavy with chagrin, she had banked so confidently on Dobbin's sympathy . . .
"Don't let's talk any more for a while, Dobbin—I'd rather dance."
Descending the several steps from the box level to the common, they reached the way through a pair of tables to the fringe of the dance-mad mob, in whose closely-packed, rocking and surging rout considerable imagination and ingenuity were required to find room.

All about them couples were practicing every conceivable variety of rhythm beaten out by tireless drums whose timbre had all the grim and masochistic stimulating monotony of African tom-toms. Many contented themselves with a solemn, well-nigh ritualistic jigging by means of which they craved the floor-crawling, inch by inch. Others charged short distances at headlong speed, checked short, whirled madly, darted and swooped, again with incredible agility, in a sort of corymbatic frenzy. Still others favored a tedious twirling, like amorous dervishes. Yet there were strangely few couples.

And suddenly she knew she had had enough.
"It's too crowded," she told Dobbin; and he nodded agreement. "Shall we stop when we get round to our box?"
Without warning Lucinda was struck by a sudden, scorching body with such force that she lost footing altogether and must have fallen; but for Dobbin's quick reflexes.

Simultaneously the floor shook with the impact of two heavy falls. And clinging to Dobbin, a little dazed, Lucinda saw a strikingly pretty young woman, stunningly underdressed, sprawling at her feet and at a yard's distance a man in similar plight.

HAMBONE'S MEDITATIONS

WEN FOLKS TRYIN' T' SCANLIZE YOU, DEY YES 'DIS MUCH BOUT IT--DEY AIN' APT T' WASE DEY TIME TELLIN' LIES ON YOU, EF YOU AIN' WUTH IT!

It will interest you to know that enough meteors fall on our earth each year to make their collection and sale profitable.

Still more interesting is that some one had sufficient vision to see the unexplored opportunity in the meteor business.

Compasses were always getting out of order on Great Lakes ships, causing no end of inconvenience, delay and accidents.

Frank Morrison, then a young man, saw in the situation a great opportunity. He studied compasses, became an expert with them.

Soon he had built up a big business in Cleveland as "the only compass maker on the chain of lakes," with a steady trade at repairing, inspecting and overhauling the needle devices that point north to the magnetic pole.

Along by sea-coasts, four or five other men have carried their way to comfortable fortunes with the same implement.

Observe that Willard, Morrison and the meteor collectors found their opportunities in queer pursuits. They did more than find, they made their opportunities.

For the man or woman with imagination and alert eyes, the world is full of just such opportunities. Keep on looking, never permit discouragement, and eventually you will find what you seek.

It may help to notice that the Willard-Morrison-meteorologist trio discovered opportunity by looking about until they found something that no one else was doing, despite a waiting market.

Captain Tom Hickman of the Texas Ranger force has been named as judge in the rodeo events at Dallas. It is safe to predict that Captain Hickman's awards will not be disputed.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
OVERLOOKING AND LOOKING OVER.
All of us have two pairs of eyes—one that looks over and one that overlooks.

The pair of eyes that look over is in our head—the pair that overlooks is in our soul.

Thus it is that our personality is made to take on a touch of the infinite and to travel in pleasant places here in the finite.

We walk out into the world just as the sun begins to warm the earth and we see nature happy and we say what a beautiful place in which to love and live.

Then why not overlook that which does not make us happy?

There are too many lookover friends and too few overlook friends. By which I mean that we choose too often by the outward appearance and do not take a little journey into the heart home of the one we would have for a friend.

Real, ripe friendship is impossible without a great deal of overlooking on our part and on the part of the one who would unite their friendship with ours. How many scanty glances of judgment have ruined lifelong associations!

In the same manner as we grow in body until we attain our full stature, so does the soul grow, and so does our sense of appreciation grow, and so does everything grow that keeps becoming a part of us. Therefore, the more we overlook the faults and failings of our friends, the deeper will their fine qualities become bedded in our affections.

Where beauty and loveliness are, we have no desire to overlook anything.

Let us, therefore, go where these things are and live upon them.

Look over everything. You never know when some fine discovery will be made. But overlook that which does not offer you something that will make you better and happier.

JUST FOLKS

THE BOY.
A possible man of affairs.
A possible leader of men.
Back of the grin that he wears.
There may be the courage of ten;
Lawyer or merchant or priest,
Artist or singer of joy,
This when his strength is increased
It may become of the boy.

Heedless and mischievous now.
Spending his boyhood in play.
Yet glory may rest on his brow.
And fame may call him some day;
A skill that the world shall admire,
Strength that the world shall employ
And faith that shall burn as a fire,
Are what may be found in the boy.

He with the freckles and tan;
He with that fun-loving grin.
May rise to great heights as a man;
And many a battle may win;
Back of the slang of the streets
And back of the love of a toy,
It may be a Great Spirit's breath—
Lincoln once played as a boy.

Trace them all back to their youth.
All the great heroes we sing.
Seeking and serving the Truth,
President, poet and king,
Washington, Caesar and Paul,
Homer who sang about Troy,
Jesus, the Greatest of all,
Each in his time was a boy.

DISCOVERY.
The dread typhus germ has been discovered and isolated in Moscow by Dr. N. Krich.

The next step will be development of a vaccine or curative serum. That should be a matter of only a short time. Then typhus will begin vanishing from the earth, like other deadly diseases that now are nearing extinction.

Dr. N. Krich is a woman. Like Marie Curie, who discovered radium, Dr. Krich demonstrates that emancipated woman will run neck-and-neck with man in contributing to progress. There were more famous women than famous men, in history, if men hadn't kept the woman in seclusion for thousands of years.

As women are emancipated and "get the hang of things," after thousands of years of compulsory seclusion, they will demonstrate that the female brain is superior to the male.

Woman has every brain faculty possessed by man. She is sometimes in a dormant because women have been isolated from problems and situations that require reasoning. A few centuries will strengthen this faculty to par.

In addition, woman has the sixth sense, intuition, in a degree possessed by no man.

Intuition is the shadow of imagination, the dynamic force behind all new things. It was intuition that prompted Mrs. Eliza Howe to tell her husband to move the needle's eyelet to the sharp end, thus perfecting the sewing machine.

Freddie, the former crown prince of Germany, in developing a "complex." He wants to visit America, and throws out a feeble to learn how Yanks do things.

Not much chance of him coming. If he did, it would be prudent to spend most of his time locked in his hotel room, and would be a top price to see him in St. Louis.

On the average, though, Americans are sportsmen enough probably to be able to see Freddie see the sights. The American draws no lines, to satisfy his curiosity. He hates Satan, but would be a top price to see him in St. Louis.

From the mountains near Hickory, N. C., comes a story of a young fellow who runs his auto on moonshine. A supper club was held at the hotel before it condenses into liquid form. He carries a reserve supply.

How far off is the day when alcohol will take the place of gasoline? It could be first class, for it can be made out of anything from potato peelings to cornstarch, as home brewers have found out.

A big oil company has just bought an "inventive" formula for "alco-gas." Keep the name in mind. You may buy it later.

SCATTERING.
New York learns that its congestion of population has been reduced by the "scattering" of city workers to the far out and get back and forth at fast speed.

Some future further marketing a cheap flying flyover.

That day will begin the gradual breaking up of groups of factories and stores. Homes will be in the country—fresh air and plenty of playground for the children.

DISAPPOINTED.
Twenty million letters a year go to the dead letter office, reports the post department. Carelessness.

Yet these form only a small fraction of the property addressed to people that postmen are able to deliver after deep study and "trying them" here and there.

Naturally, you don't send a letter unless you want it delivered. Be careful about getting addresses correct and in full. As a rule, you put your return address on every envelope.

That will help speed the mails and frequent letters will mean annoyance and inconvenience.

BABE KEPT KENNETH IN THE BACKGROUND

Season's Premier Circuit Cloutier, Thus Far, Just Emerging From Shadow. By KEN WILLIAMS. One man can do so big a baseball job that he completely overshadows the rest of other players.

That is what the American league batters have been up against for three or four years in the person of Babe Ruth.

With Ruth the hitting of home runs was such an easy task that it seemed as if any one of the average players could do it.

Williams, "always placed on a swing for the circuit," has done so many times during the past three years that some other player made a home run, though it took them eleven or twelve at bats.

Good Season at Bat. Last season I hit .347 in the American league. I made 31 two-bases, hit seven three-bases and 34 home runs. Ordinarily that would be considered a mighty good season at the bat.

Ruth, however, with 44 two-bases, 13 three-bases and 53 home runs, had all the rest of us stopped cold.

Once upon a time not so many years back the making of 34 home runs in the American league would have made a player a nationally discussed figure.

Yet last season my home run record meant nothing to the fans, only a few really knew I made 34.

Ruth was the dominating figure of the American league. When players are keenly interested in the doings of some star it gives you some idea of his importance.

All players as a rule look on any great feat as all in the day's work. All Watching Ruth. For the last two years, however, even big league players would turn to the sport when they saw the New York score the very first thing to see if Ruth had hit any home runs.

That is one reason why my showing has created such a stir in the early weeks of the season. I am glad the fielding thrill of the day I ever started making home runs. Few of the fans knew I was the runner-up in 1921, simply because they were so busy watching Ruth.

WILSON'S WILSONS by Paul W. Larkin

Pity the Weak Hitters. With the Spudgers would get the jump on the opposition some one of these days and not until the last few innings to come from behind. The fans will be physical wrecks.

Get Any More, Ray. Ray O'Brien threw away the bat that Bowman used Monday with the declaration that there was no wood in it. It's a good thing there wasn't any because O'Brien might have been killed.

Beck Shifts Camp. Freddie Beck also used a new club with most satisfactory results. Those four blows ought to give "Caruso" a new lease on life. He says he went 14 days last year in the Western without hitting anything.

"Told You So." The fans could not reconcile themselves to the fact that Ray O'Brien should be put for the first time this season Wednesday. Hub Northern's crew will spend three days in the city.

Stark Wallpapers. After a day's absence from the lineup, Danny Clark broke in again and thumped out a single and a triple against the Yankees Monday. He also pitched a double play.

Bears Open Wednesday. The Spudgers will be hosts to the San Antonio Bears for the first time this season Wednesday. Hub Northern's crew will spend three days in the city.

South Next Week. The San Antonio series will be the last of the current home stay. The Spudgers stop off in Dallas Saturday, where a twin bill will probably be staged.

"Duck Soup" for Bischoff. If there's anything Bischoff likes better than fork him twisting, it's more fork hand twisting. He also has a passionate craving for inside balls. Caldero and Brooks know it now, though it took them eleven innings to find out.

"Shorty" Gets in Some Way. "Shorty" Adams came keep-out of the calcium rays for a day. He fell off to one hit Monday, yet furnished the fielding thrill of the day when he went several feet into the air and stabbed DeMaggio's line drive with one mitt in the first inning. A runner was perched on when he goes hunting, especially for Alaskan brown bear, he takes a rifle that carries a terrific load of power and 25 grains of lead.

"For my second choice in hunting I will take the fast flying duck. As for fishing, give me the brook trout on a fly, those pound or pound and a half babies in fast water."

"On one occasion I shot one of 12 fast brown boys that measured 12 feet of time 12 inches within 40 feet of two of them. I had with me an automatic rifle. My guide carried a very kind of a gun at the time and he was unhesitatingly concerned that as far as I was concerned shooting brown bears wasn't in that line of sport. My guide snapped a picture."

"Big game hunters will probably be interested in the fact that Mr. Evans, who is hunting at his home in the Everglades, has a lever action rifle. Not only does he favor that particular action but

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 16.—The women's southern golf tournament goes to Texas next year. At the annual meeting of the southern golf association for women, held here yesterday in connection with the annual championship tournament which is being staged at the Birmingham Country club it was voted to award the 1923 tournament to Fort Worth, Texas.

Mrs. Mosler Lowdens of Atlanta carried off honors in today's qualifying round, turning in 93. A missed putt on the 14th green gave Mrs. Dave Gaut, of Memphis, a 94 and second honors of the day.

Other qualifying scores of the championship division include: Mrs. George Thompson, Fort Worth, 95. Mrs. Priscilla Rogers, Galveston, 95. Miss Willis G. Stewart, Dallas, 96. Mrs. Herman Garner, Fort Worth, 107.

Patterns will be the subject of a demonstration.

TIGERS MOVE INTO KEEP AN EYE ON THE BALL, EVANS ADVISE

NEW YORK, May 16.—Ty Cobb hurried another recruit pitching ace at the Yankees in the last game of the series and launching a heavy assault on Sam Jones, the Tigers made it three out of four from the league leaders and moved into a tie for third place with Cleveland. Stoper held the Huggins to three lonely hits and was equal to 6 to 1.

At the same time Connie Mack's Athletics completed the downfall of St. Louis by putting out a 12-4 victory over the Browns, who lost another chance to pass New York. Four home runs featured the game and brought the total number of circuit clouts in the four games to 32.

Archie Nehf had the better of Vic Aldridge in a tight-pitching duel, and the Giants made it two straight from the Cubs, 3-0, while St. Louis circled three pitchers around the 27th and 28th runs and a one-sided victory.

Walter Johnson won another for the Senators, beating Bagby of Cleveland, 3-2, in a mound battle; "Rip" Collins blanked Chicago and the Red Sox made three in a row, 5-0. Turner's home in the 10th gave Pittsburgh a 6-5 decision over Boston, while Brooklyn was unable to bring the Detroit club the credit it really deserves.

"No pitcher ever reached greater height from an opposing team than did Robertson in striking that great game," says Gleason. "The Tigers are deserving of much credit in making possible such a performance. In having about Robertson's delivery, making a claim that it is illegal, they were playing right into my team's hands."

"Any time a club starts trying to discover how a pitcher is getting away with his glove, they are trying to hit the ball, the effectiveness of that club at the bat is lowered by at least 50 per cent."

"In the early innings of the game Detroit hit four or five balls very hard. Good fielding helped Robertson."

"Then someone on the Detroit club decided someone on my team was 'doctoring' the balls. Immediately the members of the club turned detective rather than being 'instead of concentrating, trying to hit the ball, the Tigers were doing nothing but trying to get the break on his fast ball."

"The moment a club gets into its mind of its own mind, it is bound to do as the result. In the last five innings against Robertson the Detroit club couldn't hit a ball hard."

"You can't make base hits by trying to see what this or that player has in his glove. Base hits are made by taking a healthy swing. You can't get them by keeping your eye on your shoulder."

"That is why I claim the Tigers unknowingly greatly aided Robertson in making possible his great pitching feat."

Gleason's statement is unique and logical. There is no denying the fact that once the Tigers started to probe Robertson's delivery, they could do nothing with his pitching.
