ELECTRA PLANS TO INCREASE CAPACITY OF MUNICIPAL LAKE

ELECTRA, TEXAS, June 1.—Raising the level of the municipal lake two feet is the method advised by the Electro Engineering company for providing a more adequate supply of water for Electro. To do this, the engineers say, the dam should be raised three feet higher. This would give an embankment six feet above the spillway.

Report of the engineers points out that the present dam is too steep on the lower side as a result of wash and erosion. The city is advised to repair this at once and to build a concrete spillway which will remove any likelihood of losing the dam by the washing out of the present earth spillway.

Electra has now a water supply adequate for twelve months for 6,000 people. By raising the water level two feet the capacity of the lake would be increased from 152,000,000 to 224,000,000. It would provide for a city of 10,000 people, and would require the purchase of about 20 acres more land, unless leaves be built to improve the water within the area now owned.

According to the engineers there is no other suitable site around Electro for a reservoir. It is pointed out that a reservoir might be constructed a mile below the present one. However, it would require the purchase of 100 acres of land, and would be unfit for use.

It is pointed out that there is some objection to the present water supply, and while the filter plant is correct in principle of design, it is too small to purify the quantity of water flowing through. The engineer recommends that the capacity of the filtration plant be increased to 450,000 gallons in 12 hours; that a new 500 G. P. A. pump with motor be installed; and that old pumps be overhauled.

A ten-inch standard cast iron bell-and-spigot type pipe line with lead joints is being ordered laid from the plant to the city stand pipe, as recommended. Further recommendations, not yet acted upon, call for a 400-gallon concrete tank near the north limits of the city; the placing of two relief pumps in a small building at the tank and discharging the surplus into the iron pipe for fire service, laying cast iron mains and setting new hydrants. These improvements would entail an expenditure of about $15,000, exclusive of the cost of laying 10-inch pipe as ordered at a cost of approximately $25,000.

An investigation of Red river sands as a possible source of water leads the engineers to the conclusion that this is inadequate as well as of poor quality.

SUCH PAINS AS THIS WOMAN HAD

Two Months could not turn in bed Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Finally Restored Health

Linda Lee Inc.

by LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

(Continued From Our Last Issue) But always ere now, he had fortified and shriven her conscience with the belief that they were of one mind, it must be Rene first. No Rene no longer held forth any promise of salvation, of the law's sanction, the church's countenance. Today and henceforward it must be all for love or nothing—a break final and irrevocable.

And for all the shock she had suffered, for all the wrong Lynn had done and the pain of which his ill-faith had been the cause, the love she had given the man still was dear, dangerously sweet and disarming. Already she was aware of anxiety to grasp at excuses for him, to comfort the ache in her heart with the thought that she was according charity to a dear transgressor, already she felt her strength to resist being sapped, flesh and spirit succumbing anew to the spell he knew too well how to weave.

With an ease that in a queer, detached way she found surprising, she managed to break his embrace. She released the effort left her faint. She faltered to the fireplace and rested a hand on the mantel, her forehead upon the "mum"—Lynn followed, stood up beside her, and over and over murmured gently: "Linda, Linda, Linda." Shaking her head to free it, she made a feeble sign of appeal. He directed the entirety, his arms again stole round her and would have drawn her to him but that, of a sudden, her mind caught at a strand of memory, him, lips that were a quiver with "Yes," resolutely pronouncing "No!"

"No, Lynn. Wait. Tell me something. You say she—your mother agreed to divorce you?" "I made her promise!" Seymour asserted grimly. "When was that? The day she disappeared? The day I found her senseless in her room?" "I suppose so—well, then—yes." "Did you have much of a scene?" "I'll say it was some stormy young scene!" "Is that why you found it necessary to strike her?"

Summer had started. "What?" Strike her? What do you mean?" "But his eyes winced from her impertinent regard. "She—Nelly had a bruise on her cheek, that afternoon; and it wasn't an old bruise. Lynn, you struck her." "Perhaps. Maybe I did forget myself. I don't remember. What if I did? She asked for it, didn't she? I'd have half killed her if she'd stuck to her refusal to go back east!"

Realizing that his tongue was again running away with his discretion, he curbed it sharply. She started back in repulsion, but he overtook her in the middle of the room and again pushed her to him. "Linda, Linda! What do these things matter? I love you, dearest, you love me, nothing else matters. For God's sake be kind to me! Let's forget—"

The fury of her antagonism found him unprepared. Once more his arms were empty. And this time when he started in pursuit, something he couldn't see struck him brutally in the chest and threw him back. In the same instant he heard a heavy crashing noise he couldn't account for. An inhuman sound. It shook the room, beat deafeningly upon one's ears. As if someone had overturned a heavy piece of furniture. Only no one had. Certainly he hadn't, certainly Lucinda hadn't. She was flattened against the farther wall, watching him with a face of horror, blanched and gaping.

beating into her face, of her bare flesh suffering a rain of cruel blows. "Throw away without warning, how she couldn't guess, she felt herself reeling back, stripping, falling. Something struck the back of her head a stunning blow, and she knew flickering nausea while dense night like a moving cloud on every hand closed in upon her.

Choking and coughing, she unclosed her eyes upon the vision of Bel's face. A hand holding a bottle of smelling salts dropped away from her nose. Bel saluted her reviving intelligence with an even glow: "You'll do now, I guess. Try to pull yourself together. No time to lose."

"My head aches." She saw Bel in his shirt-sleeves, with the cuff turned back above his right elbow, the forearm rudely bandaged with torn linen on which a deep stain was spreading. "But, Bel—your arm—"

"Hurts like hell. Bullet ploughed through my arm." She saw Bel in his shirt-sleeves, with the cuff turned back above his right elbow, the forearm rudely bandaged with torn linen on which a deep stain was spreading. "But, Bel—your arm—"

"What became of her?" "Got away clean, worse luck—ducked past me and through the window like a shot." Summer had started. "What?" Strike her? What do you mean?" "But his eyes winced from her impertinent regard. "She—Nelly had a bruise on her cheek, that afternoon; and it wasn't an old bruise. Lynn, you struck her." "Perhaps. Maybe I did forget myself. "Linda, Linda! What do these things matter? I love you, dearest, you love me, nothing else matters. For God's sake be kind to me! Let's forget—"

The fury of her antagonism found him unprepared. Once more his arms were empty. And this time when he started in pursuit, something he couldn't see struck him brutally in the chest and threw him back. In the same instant he heard a heavy crashing noise he couldn't account for. An inhuman sound. It shook the room, beat deafeningly upon one's ears. As if someone had overturned a heavy piece of furniture. Only no one had. Certainly he hadn't, certainly Lucinda hadn't. She was flattened against the farther wall, watching him with a face of horror, blanched and gaping.

Enraged, he put forth all his strength to recover from that inexplicable blow. And instantly it was repeated. And again. Each time accompanied by that savage, crashing noise. Like thunder cut off short.

papers are going to make big capital out of this scandal in the movie colony. They've been itching for it for years, knowing it was bound to break out some day. How long do you imagine it'll be before the reporters will ferret out the fact that Linda Lee is Mrs. Bellamy Druce? Do you want to sit in the witness-box and testify against that demoralized creature when she's tried for murder?"

"What you think?" "What the devil do you care what I think? If you aren't what people are going to say you are, what are you doing here, alone with Summer, in his own home, at night?" "The Louisaes were coming to dinner, but—"

"But!" Bel snorted. "Oh, all right! I'll give you the benefit of the doubt, if that'll induce you to clear out of this before it's too late. And it isn't as if you could do Summerland any good by staying. His fate's all up to the surgeons. I'll keep you posted. I'll come and tell you what the surgeon says."

CHILDRESS MAKING EFFORT TO SECURE ANOTHER RAILROAD

CHILDRESS, June 1.—A theoretical rail road through Childress, starting from either Ferris or Canadian on the north to either Sweetwater or some other Santa Fe town on the south, is becoming more and more a general topic for discussion every day. Letters are circulating back and forth from the Childress chamber of commerce to representatives from several towns along the proposed route; and it is planned that as soon as sufficient interest is aroused in the town, a big meeting is to be held at Childress to start the actual organization of the work of securing a railroad.

the results of these conferences will not be given out until further action is taken by the towns on this route. There are nearly 15,000 people in the counties through this direct north and south line would pass; and although there are five streams to cross, the tonnage that would be shipped out of the several stations would almost eliminate the drawbacks of having to construct bridges. Information is being compiled which will give statistics relative to crops, stock, passengers and freight that would be handled through the various points, and it is a sure thing that these figures will be attractive to the prospective road builders.

Pretty Shower First Compliment Extended Bride-Elect Wednesday

A beautiful morning bridge party and linen shower in the first compliment to be extended Miss Mary Maer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Maer, whose marriage to Albert Maer is to take place on the afternoon of June 2nd.

The shower was given Wednesday morning at the golf club by Misses Maer, Lillian, and Helen. The guests included Misses Maer, Lillian, and Helen, and Charles Francis, when tables were arranged for nine sets of players in the beautifully decorated living room of the club. Neatly arranged and used with charming effect throughout the party—bouquets of them in pots and baskets gracing the mantel and table with pretty nosegays as plate favors during the refreshment course, and nautarium nut cups holding the salted almonds.

In the games, Miss Lulu Wood won high score and Miss Ruth Nolan low, and both presented their respective centerpieces of flowers and tokens to the honoree. These were beautiful compliments to the date's articles in the linen shower, which was most attractively presented. Two little "pikaninies," their eyes rolling happily and their round brown bodies encased in real "Gold Dust Tawny" costumes, as colorful as they were brief, brought the "closer" in a big wicker basket. This "set-at-the-foot" basket, however, and found it to be filled with beautiful linen gifts from her girl friends.

Those who attended the shower included Madamess O. E. Maer, Jack Speagle, Newton Maer, C. L. Anderson, Jim Bernard, E. W. Marriot, Wayne Hammon, Harold Haynes, William P. Erwin, Perry Hancock, Juliette Bonner, John W. Thomas, Harry Welch, Clarence Moore, Robert Hoken, Wiggins of Brooklyn, Pat Garrett, Alex. Upchurch, and H. C. George of Fort Worth. Misses Marian Maer, Annette Walsh, Mattie Ruth Carlett, Lillian Fain, Florence Sammons, Miss Nell, Agnes Reid, Thelma Kahn, Cecilia Adickes, Willie May Kell, Gretchen Avis, Edie Adickes, Louise Prizze, Ruth Carlett, Lillian Fain, Jane Martin, Vera Hale, Suda Willis and Kathryn and Lois Moore.

Violet Alleen Storey Oh, yes, I know, young maiden June, that you'll be marrying quite soon; But really, it's quite wrong, you know, for you to flout your finery so.

You've flung your green silk lingerie, you've dropped your purple pansy gown, upon the earth, so dull and brown; And lying in our garden bed, slim bushes hold your Bridal Blush beneath the sun.

Your Lady Slipper lies beneath; And every morn, you careless lass, I find your diamonds in the grass.

Oh, yes, I know, young maiden June, that you'll be marrying quite soon; But these—your trousseau—careless one, will be laid by the sun; And then your bridegroom, warm July, will see a shabby bride draw right—Ladies Journal, June 1, 1922.

Party Birthday Party For Miss Irene Tittle

Little Miss Irene Tittle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Tittle, had the delightful assistance of about thirty of her small friends Wednesday afternoon at a birthday celebration very prettily planned in her honor.

The children played half a dozen indoor games in the early part of the afternoon, after which they were invited into the dining room where the birthday cake was cut. The cake was served with ice cream and the little folks were presented with dolls and marbles, as their production happened to be, as favors. Those who enjoyed the party and brought from many pretty remembrances of her anniversary included: Misses Hilda Maule, Col. Francis Raymond, Elizabeth Downing, Peggy Jo Tittle, Angela Long, Helen Long, Pauline Davis, Betty Silver, Violet Trevathan, Marian Trevathan, Bernice Trevathan, Letta May Trevathan, Dorothy Gant, Mary Gertrude McGrath, Mildred Gibbs, Helen Hanks, Agnes Young, Eva Jo Young, Joyce Young, Gwendolyn Appling, Frances Burnett and Irene Tittle; Madams Layton Downing, Joe Long, Dorothy Gant, Johannie Jo Albritton, Edward Silk, W. S. Appling, Tommie Appling, Norman Tittle and Roger Mills Tittle.

Careless Shampooing Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and greasy), and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonful of Mulsified in a cup of glass with a little warm water, is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dirt, dust, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage. Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified—adv.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS COMET-LEGS PLOTS TO GAIN CONTROL OF MOON!

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"These wicked old fellows don't like anybody," said Mr. Peerabout.

"And now," said Mr. Peerabout, he won't stay on a planet, big or little.

"So he loses around with Rena Meena, the magician, who makes bad dreams, and with Twelve Toes, the Sorcerer, and old Tricky Trick, the wizard, and Hallo Halloo, the conjurer.

"They are all helping him to put me out so he can be the Man-in-the-Moon."

"None of them like us," said Nick. "So it's going to be hard to get Comet-Legs."

"Those wicked old fellows don't like anybody!" said Mr. Peerabout. "And they are afraid of the magic powder; too! If they know you have it they'll try to steal it."

"But here's a secret which may help you out of a tight place now and then, my dear! If you put a little of the powder on the tops of your tongues you will both change to butterflies."

"And with your magic green shoes you ought to be pretty sure of being safe. Come! I'll show you over the moon, and then you may start."

OUR FIRST YEAR

CHAPTER LI—RECONCILIATION RUINED

By a Bride

We knew we were acting absurdly but neither of us would give in. We had reached our second Sunday since the situation developed, and I had resolved to capitulate before dinner. After breakfast Jack went to see his mother, so he said. In an hour he came back, smiling, minus his mustache.

"And then I felt terribly repentant for my part, I cried in my husband's arms and told him I was ashamed of my method of coercion, and Jack owned up that he was disgusted because he had held out so long."

The more we talked about it, the siller the subject looked.

"Am—were both too happy for words to describe because we were in complete harmony once more. Not meaning to be contrary, but just because the idea had been lurking in my subconscious mind, I couldn't keep from saying—

"Jack, I was wrong to fuss so about your mustache. You ought not to have shaved it! Doubtless Mrs. Herrod approves of it!"

"What? Oh—I don't know!"

"Well, I do! She told me she thought it made you look years older!"

"Oh—she told you! I see! But it is important to us—what Mrs. Herrod thinks!"

"Not to me!" I announced in a tone which distinctly implied that what Mrs. Herrod thought was probably very important to Jack.

"Oh, darling! Don't! Please don't spoil our nice day!" pleaded Jack.

"All-right—I won't!" I agreed. But I had a good deal on my mind—things I'd been collecting for days, and I wanted to get rid of the burden. I wanted to "talk over" a lot of our troubles. Jack wanted to park them all in the past—and forget them. No, of course, I'd have to keep still.

Mrs. Herrod has been to see me quite often. I wanted to tell Jack to ask him why she came.

"I had grown to like her, and to lean upon her judgment in a way. Sometimes I think we humans are a lot shallower than we appear. We talk a good deal about our emotions, about love and hate, but we soon calm down and forget."

So it was with my jealousy of Mrs. Herrod. I ought to have resented her visits, her invitations, the way

MASTER EUGENE NAPIER OPERATED ON WEDNESDAY

Master Eugene Napier, seven year-old son of Judge and Mrs. E. W. Napier, is resting as well as could be expected Thursday following an operation Wednesday at Call Field hospital for appendicitis.

Eugene accompanied Judge and Mrs. Napier and his older brothers, George and Edward, to Fort Worth last week, where his parents expected to place the other two in the Bryant summer camp. He became suddenly ill on the trip and suffered an acute attack. The operation was performed yesterday, and it is expected to be ten days or two weeks before he will be able to be up.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Briggs of Fillmore, are entertaining as their house guest Miss Olive Gallagher of Wylie, Texas. On Monday evening Miss Gallagher was complimented at a seven-table "50c" party at the Briggs home, when about thirty young people spent a delightful evening. Other parties have been planned in the guest's honor.

Pickford Divorce Validated by the Courts of Nevada

CARSON CITY, NEV., June 1.—Mary Pickford's divorce from Owen Moore, validated here yesterday when the state supreme court ruled the attorney general had not the power to institute and maintain an annulment action, had removed the legal shadow which was cast over the film star's marriage to Douglas Fairbanks, who married her one week after she obtained a divorce at Minden, Nev., in 1920.

The main question involved in the decision is that of the power of the attorney general to bring an annulment action, the court held in its decision, passing over all other contentions set up by the defendant, except to hold that the lower court order annulling and revoking the order for publication of summons is an appealable order.

The court concurs in the claim set up by the attorney general that his office is clothed with all powers granted under the common law, in addition to those provided by the state of Nevada, but the court adds that the office inherited no power to bring an independent action to set aside a decree of divorce.

CONFIRM REPORTS U. S. TROOPS GUARD BRIDGE AT LAREDO

SAN ANTONIO, June 1.—Confirmation of reports that United States troops were placed on the international bridge at Laredo Wednesday night following reports of a rumored impending attack by rebel forces on Nuevo Laredo was given here today by military authorities at headquarters of the eighth corps area. The guard was strengthened, they said, after hearing reports of rebel bands in the vicinity of Nuevo Laredo.

The action was taken upon the initiative of the Fort McIntosh officers and a report of the action was sent here.

LOVETT DENIES THE BANKERS DOMINATE VARIOUS RAILROADS

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Charges that "a New York banking combine" dominates through interlocking directorates 42 per cent of the nation's railroads with $11,000,000,000 of track were denied before the interstate commerce commission today by Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the Union Pacific.

"I know the charge is absolutely untrue and consequently there is no real evidence to support it," Mr. Lovett declared.

Oklahoma Girls Expect to Marry Replies Disclose

NORMAN, OKLA., June 1.—The girl who allows visions of a "future" in at profession or business to interfere with the possibility of marriage has no place at the University of Oklahoma.

This is indicated in a survey just completed by university authorities of questionnaires answered by some 2,500 students setting out their aims and private activities.

Not one girl listed herself as a potential "old maid"; all said they expected to wed.

The average age at which the women students expect to marry is 22 years, the answers revealed. A majority of the co-eds manifested little interest in the amount of money a husband should earn. Most of them left the question unanswered, but of those who did respond the average thought $2,000 a year would suffice.

The men placed the age for marriage at between 22 and 30 years, with an average of 24. A few answered "at the first opportunity."

DEMAND PRESIDENT OF PARAGUAY HAND OVER GOVERNMENT

BUENOS AIRES, June 1.—A 24-hour ultimatum demanding the handing over of the government has been delivered to President Ayala of Paraguay by Colonel Chirife, leader of the forces of former resident Shalrer, says a dispatch to La Nación from Asuncion today.

Should the ultimatum not be complied with, Colonel Chirife threatens to take the capital and declare himself dictator.

Desultory fighting between the rival factions has occurred at Encarnacion on the Parana river, 150 miles southeast of Asuncion, the message states.

The newspaper Juventud asserts that ex-President Shalrer has taken refuge in the German legation at Asuncion.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MY NAME IS EARTH... I am a big ball, rolling noiselessly through limitless space.

Dogs poke their hunting noses into my skin and hug me close. Little children romp as I roll. Into my ether melt the heart voices of billions of little birds who play and nest in the covering of my fiery breast.

Something is always happening in and about me. Typhoons, wars, weddings, births, deaths, smiles, tears.

And yet, I am perfumed with an exotic odor that fascinates the very leaves of the shrubs and trees which cling to my heart.

I sleep in beauty, and as I measure the hours against the years, I only pace off what is infinitesimal against the time of Eternity.

Out of my rivers and oceans, the thirsty Sun sucks my waters, to play with in pictured clouds and opalescent sunsets, and then to drop back again to their course as making and moving parts of flowers, springs and seas.

So that I am just a small pay-ball of God's, after all.

WHAT YOU OVERLOOK

Discussing fake trance mediums B. J. Walton, magician known on the stage as Professor Heller, says in a letter to Detective Story Magazine:

Children are keen observers because, to them, everything is fresh and new, hence interesting.

You have noticed how easy it is to "put something over" under the very eyes of the aged.

After the average person reaches 40, his brain cells become "set," like concrete.

The individual loses interest, stops observing, becomes "set in his ways." It is difficult to drive a new idea through his head.

That is the reason why middle-aged people are not as quick to see and grasp opportunities as the young fellows, despite their superior ability and "background" of experiences.

When the power of close observation becomes feeble or heavily paralyzed—goodby to opportunities!

THE TWO OUTSTANDING CANDIDATES

As the senatorial campaign enters the month next before the primary it is becoming apparent that there are two candidates which have outstanding appeals to the people of Texas.

Of these there is little doubt but that Senator Culbertson has a long lead at this time. Senator Culbertson has to his credit years of splendid and faithful service to the people of Texas.

Ever since he entered the campaign Mr. Ousley has been discussing public issues with courage, understanding and dignity, and his views have shown a breadth and statesmanship and have been expressed with a clarity and vigor that have arrested the attention of thoughtful men in every part of the state.

James E. Ferguson says that when he goes to the United States senate he will have a bill passed making it a penitentiary offense to charge more than six per cent for money.

That depends on what it is, ma, sed. Meaning she was suspicious even before she knew and I sed, You awt to of herd all the fellows laffin, ma, I dident know wat they was laffin at at first, ma, and wat do you think they was laffin at?

Well try to guess, ma, I sed, and she sed, There's a million things they mite of bin laffin at, how in the world you want me to tell you, ma? I sed, and she sed, Not particularly. Meaning she had a kind of a faint, know in your ma, sed, you, there was a big hole in the back of my pants and they saw it and I dident, wassent that funny?

Your bran new pants' sed, ma, and I sed, Well id been wearing them all morning. Deer me you dont say so, sed, ma, sourcastic, and she dident seem to see anything funny about it, and neither did she when he came home, and neither did I when I had to stay in after supper.

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTE BOOK

I tore a pritty big of a size hole in the back of my new pants today while I was climbing over Puds Simpkinses back fence, the fellows seeing it ferat and all yelling as if they thawt it was grate news, me thinking, Gosh G, good nite. Being the ferat time I had wore those pants on account of having jest got them because there was so many holes in my other pants.

This family is kept separated by complicated technicalities of the immigration laws of the two countries.

It is a pathetic situation. Many will grumble at "official stupidity." The governments' side of the case is that immigration laws have to be enforced. The farmer's side is so futile at enforcing some of the other laws with equal sternness.

Are the farmers soon going to be organized as strongly as union labor in the cities? The possibility is suggested by the American Farm Bureau Federation's report that its membership now exceeds a million and a quarter farmers.

While this organization does not seem to have any political aims, it seems the farmers' ability to get together when they want to.

It also raises the very interesting question of whether or not if the farmers one of these days locked their tools in their barns and announced that they had started a national strike for shorter hours and more pay?

MILITARY DRILL

We can distribute many of our present lies to the war, but there is one thing that was did for us: it aroused in us a hearty appreciation of the benefits of military training.

The training of the late war turned many a slouching, mediocre specimen for a man into a superb specimen.

In the awkward squad you are first introduced to a fine system of gymnastics, in which, nearly every muscle, organ and cell in your body gets a chance.

Sometimes for hours at a stretch you are compelled to stand to the back of your height, shoulder, back, head up, chin straight out, eyes to the front. Your movements are timed and measured and rhythmical for you.

It is the varied exercise in the open air, the immense appetite the exercises awakens and the sound sleep, such wholesome exercises brings on that makes army drill and discipline so valuable.

Proper posture soon becomes a habit, quick responses, well-trained muscles to commands comes without any strain or volition. Your chest deepens, your flesh and muscles harden; in fact, you begin to know the delight of perfect health which means happiness.

JUST FOLKS

THE REAL GARDEN... He showed me round his garden and the lawn was green and sweet.

It was like a rug of velvet, soft and springy to the feet; and the pansy bed was lovely, and the peonies straight and fair—

But there wasn't any laughter of the children ringing there.

The roses stood in order and were beautiful to see, I heard him sound the praises of a fine old maple tree, But beneath its spreading branches was no patch that should be bare.

For the swing of happy childhood had not ever dangled there.

There were blossoms rich with color, and the gardener named them all, But they'd never known the havoc of a little fellow's ball;

There were blooms of rare perfection which require man's constant care, But there wasn't any symbol of a youngster playing there.

Now, my lawn is poor and barren and my grass is hard to grow, And it struggles for existence, for the youngsters tramp it so, And my garden seems untidy, but I fervently declare That to me its greatest beauty is the children playing there.

Cam H. Murray, state weights and measures inspector, who has for the past three weeks been busy inspecting and weighing and measuring apparatus in Wichita Falls and surrounding territory, left Wednesday after checking over his final report on conditions found in and near this city. Exact figures on the total number of inspections made were not available Thursday, but a general outline of his work was given by Mr. Murray as follows:

Out of 173 gasoline filling stations inspected in and around Wichita Falls approximately 40 per cent were found to be running short. Five per cent, the report stated, were registering fast, thereby giving

COMMUNITY PLAYERS READY FOR THEIR PRESENTATION OF 'MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM'

The customer more than he paid for. The shortage ranged from a fraction of a pint up to a pint or more as an average, although one extreme case was found where a pump ran two gallons short out of every five.

Such a shortage, however, is found but rarely, according to Mr. Murray, but a little mathematical work will reveal that 40 per cent of the gasoline stations operating in this vicinity, each running short, would result in gasoline consumers losing hundreds of gallons weekly through the defects. This, at the current price of gas, would represent quite a respectable financial figure in the course of a year's time.

In the scale classification about 800 pairs were tested and 43 per cent were found inaccurate, less than three per cent of this total representing scales registering overweight. The average shortage was found to be around half a pound, it is indicated, and cases of merchants using such scales for 200 or 250 sales a day were found to be not at all infrequent. Figuring on this basis it is seen that 100 or 125 pounds of merchandise a day were paid for by customers that received absolutely nothing for their money. This applies to just one store alone. Mathematics again shows that the total for the entire city runs high in the deficit column.

Mr. Murray's inspections included Henrietta, Iowa Park, Electra, Burkburnett, Archer City, Olney and a few other places. Inaccuracies in these smaller towns were found to be surprisingly low, the reports show, and in only a few instances was it found necessary to condemn apparatus in these places.

The condemnation proceedings in Wichita Falls were vigorous. Each scale or pump that was found out of line was promptly closed up, not to be opened for use under a penalty of a heavy fine until repairs were made by an expert.

The weights and measures inspections will be carried on regularly now under supervision of the city health department officials. These inspections were never visited Wichita Falls before explains the why and wherefore of conditions here, Mr. Murray declared before leaving, but with proper supervision now the trouble is expected to be largely eliminated.

A brisk advance sale of tickets for the Community Players' presentation at the Wichita theater tonight and Friday of Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream" was reported Thursday morning, with indications that the houses would be well filled for both performances. Tickets have been on sale for some time and reserved seats were available at the theater box office Wednesday morning.

From those who have seen rehearsals of the production have come emphatic declarations that it gives promise of being a play with more than ordinary merit. With a drama written by that master of all English, William Shakespeare, and a vehicle for its talent, it only remained for the Community Players' cast to perfect its lines and arrange for the correct properties in order to assure an evening's entertainment of the highest order.

Two of the most capable dramatic coaches in Wichita Falls, Mrs. E. L. Fulton and Miss Bruce Dickson, have given their undivided attention to the direction and coaching of the cast during recent weeks. And no pains have been spared in order to assure a truly Shakespearean stage atmosphere for the play.

In selecting those who are to carry the leading roles of the production the powers that be culled through the entire list of Wichita Falls amateur dramatic stars. Inasmuch as the production is a comedy, drama it behooves the directors pay special attention to those parts primarily humorous. The hard-core Avon created six of his comedy clowns in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," each being given a part of paramount importance in the story. For those parts Joe Marlow, Sellers Rogers, Evan Haynes and Gordon Harris have been selected. The other characters evolved by Shakespeare will find their modern counterparts well adapted to the roles.

The difficult task of training the large number of juvenile performers has met with gratifying success, according to those in charge of this phase of the work.

ANOTHER BIG GAIN SHOWN IN DISTRICTS CRUDE PRODUCTION

Production for the north and central Texas district for the week shows an average of approximately 146,125 barrels daily, a gain over last week's figures of nearly 5,000 barrels for the entire district.

Electra with some good completions shows another increase. Comanche county has added the runs from the Bryson well and other good producers in the Pioneer field of Eastland county shows a gain over last week's runs of 4,000 barrels. Young county and the Burkburnett section still keep up their usual output. Following are the figures:

Burkburnett	23,520
Iowa Park	2,924

RAIN HALTS ROAD CONSTRUCTION IN COUNTY THIS WEEK

The rains of the last few days have caused a halt in the road construction work on the Clay county road. The Tibbets Construction company has been unable to operate due to the condition of the sub grade. It is believed, however, that work will be resumed Friday morning. To date a little more than a half mile of concrete has been laid.

The McMullen Construction company is patiently awaiting the arrival of rock. The non-arrival of this material has caused a delay in getting started on the road north out of Electra.

A large part of the machinery of Fotts and Prentice has already been moved from the old camp site to the new one in Burkburnett. It will, however, require another week before things will be in order there to start operations.

STINES GETS CITIES' FUNDS

By MILTON BRONNER, European Manager for NEA

BERLIN, June 1.—Every little penny added to what you've got makes just a little bit more. It seems to be the favorite motto of Hugo Stines, the acknowledged king of German business.

Like some of our American business men, he has a formula—convert coal into gas or electric power, or water and you will soon have an entire community pouring their money into your coffers.

Stines is ideal location. The coal is right there in the Ruhr. It doesn't have to be hauled for miles before being available. So coal is cheap.

Stines' present plan is enormous. It covers a region from the Dutch frontiers as far south as Ahrtal and is especially strong around Dusseldorf, Cologne, Dortmund, Essen and Bochum. In several places the electric power plants actually stand at the edge of coal mines, so the fuel goes from pit to boiler.

The electric plants not only supply lights for many cities of the Ruhr and for the illumination of big mines, but also the power used in the street railways, most of which are owned and operated by the municipalities.

Stines also constructed and partly owns a considerable number of water reservoirs. The far-seeing Stines also brought into the Ruhr the big lignite company, the Bruhl. This not only gave him another immense electric power station, but assured the combine an annual supply of 8,000,000 tons of lignite.

Stines also has a big interest in the South German Railway corporation of Darmstadt. Stines also derives income from still other municipalities. This last named corporation owns power stations in Birmingen and the city of Mannheim.

In his next story Bronner tells of Stines' great shipping interests and of the "trick ships" he now is building in an effort to corner Russia's trade.

Buddy Tanner Stars As Spudders Defeat The Buffaloes Again

HOUSTON, June 1.—The Spudders didn't collect as many hits off Barnes and Kelly here Wednesday as the Buffs did off "Rip" Wheeler and Steve Moran, but the score collected them at the psychological moment—at the time when the Buffs were kicking and heaving the pallet all over the lot and the result was another victory for the invaders to the tune of 11 to 7. None of the hurlers possessed anything to brag about, but the Spudders' defense was far superior to that of the southerners and the outcome hinged on that phase of the contest. The Buffs pressed in several errors, including fumbles and wild plays, while the Spudders contributed only two. Barnes' wildness also put the Spudders in a position to score several times. Though Salm's hurlers were hit freely, their control was good and they managed to keep their bases covered well enough to come out on top.

Cleveland Catcher Has Great Respect For The Athletics

"Connie Mack's ball club is the most dangerous team in the American league." There you have the opinion of Steve O'Neill, one of the leading catchers of the Johnsonian organization. "The Athletics can hit a club that can hit in always dangerous." "Most of the Athletics are natural hitters. This ability to hit, plus the uncanny ability of Danny Murphy in calling the pitches, is a big obstacle for any team." "Denny Murphy, from his position in the catcher's box at third base, calls practically every ball pitched. By some word signal he tells the batters know whether to expect a curve, fast ball or spitter. His judgment is uncanny. This is quite an advantage. It enables a batter who is weak on a certain style of pitching to get properly set in an effort to overcome this weakness." "The Athletics have always been noted for a strong offensive. This is the club in playing a strong defensive game. It is by far the best club has a great catcher."

"Offer Tough Opposition." "Regardless of where Connie Mack's team finishes, no club in the American league offers tougher opposition day after day." Steve O'Neill's opinion of the Athletics shows that many other players, pitchers in particular. All Connie Mack says in reply to the many kind things that are being said about the Athletics is: "Looks as if the other teams were through kicking my club around."

WOMEN RECEIVE LETTERS AT STATE

Most Awards Given in History of University On Annual "T" Night.

AUSTIN, June 1.—All awards in women's athletics made during the year were presented on annual "T" night, staged this week in the woman's gymnasium of the University of Texas. It was the biggest "T" night ever held, from the standpoint of number of spectators given and enthusiasm among the coeds.

Championships Held. If a record of nine won and four lost on the road, such as the Spudders' season of Wednesday's game, is not pennant winning ball, there "isn't no such animal."

Too bad the Crabs couldn't have pushed that other run over in the ninth.

Offers Swelled. The Spudders road trip was a success financially as well as otherwise.

Pick On Giants For Victory and Take Odd Game of the Series.

NEW YORK, June 1.—The Philadelphia Nationals, after being handed roughly by most of the other clubs in the league, selected the league leader, the Yankees, as the means of demonstrating a reversal of form.

They won the odd game of the series from New York, Lee Meadows pitching them to victory in decisive fashion, 3 to 1. As the Pirates bowled over Cincinnati, 11 to 3, the margin between the McGraw men and their principal rivals was reduced to a game and a half.

HOW TO PLAY BALL

ROGERS HORNSBY. By ROGERS HORNSBY National League's Premier Bateman.

The most important point in the development of a successful batter, in my opinion, is the selection of the proper bat. Get a bat which fits the grip of the hands and your natural swing. Many players are handicapped by a bat which is entirely too heavy for them.

A heavy bat is going to interfere with your swing and your follow-through cut at the ball when you have been fooled by the change of pace from the pitcher.

A practice rule which I believe is beneficial for every player is to aim the ball back at the pitcher. Try this. When you are hitting either liners or grounders back at the pitcher, you are hitting good ball.

These are just a few of the important theories I have closely adhered to in my career as a player. There is no close study of the opposition's pitching, constant effort to correct my faults and a willingness to listen to advice offered by players I regarded as great hitters.

Any player can improve his batting if he makes up his mind to. Tomorrow—Pitching, or the art of outguessing the batsman, will be considered.

Managership Not Disagreement as All Zeb Milan To Salary Didn't Had Supposed Last Very Long

Zeb Milan, who is guiding the destinies of the Washington club, is just about convinced that managing a major league club is not what he thought it was.

Baseball abounds in unusual situations on and off the ball field. The case of Pitcher Ed Rommel of the Athletics bears this statement out.

Last winter Rommel and Connie Mack disagreed over salary. Rommel was of the opinion that he was worth much more than Mack offered.

"I am through pitching major league ball for a minor league salary," Rommel had said.

It is not surprising that Rommel was of the opinion that he was worth much more than Mack offered.

PROSECUTRIX ON WITNESS STAND IN TRIAL OF TUCKER

TELLS OF SEVERAL AUTOMOBILE RIDES SHE TOOK WITH DEFENDANT.

DISCOURAGED ADVANCES, SHE TELLS JURORS

Jury in Case is Completed Early Thursday Afternoon and Trial Begins.

Mike Tucker's criminal assault trial began at 2:02 Tuesday afternoon. One day and a half had been consumed in selecting a jury of 12 men.

It was 3:02 when Ethel Ellidge, the prosecutrix took the stand. The court was crowded. The jury leaned forward in order to hear the witness' testimony.

G. C. Gallinger and John Tanser were the last two jurors selected. The defense had exhausted its challenges before the last man was selected.

The jury was sworn in at 2:45 o'clock. State's counsel asked for ten minutes to talk to the prosecutrix.

At 3 o'clock Miss Ellidge accompanied by Mr. Burdick came to the court room. Miss Ellidge took her seat in the witness stand and held her right hand high in the air as she was sworn.

She was 19 years of age and had been reared in the country, the witness said. Her family lived near Sulphur Springs.

She met Mike Tucker, the defendant on Sunday afternoon as she was leaving the Salvation Army canteen without the consent of the parents.

He looked like a pretty good boy so I went riding with him," she said.

He stopped his car on this first ride, the witness told.

She said she told him she wasn't a bad girl and then he took her back home. He was sorry for the way he had talked to her she said.

On this trip also the witness said before she knew what had happened he had picked her up and taken her out of the car.

She told of several more rides that she took with the defendant. On the third Sunday afternoon after

BEGIN HEARINGS ON THE PROPOSED CHILD LABOR LAW

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Consideration of a proposed constitutional amendment to enable congress to enact legislation controlling child labor and other plans to solve the problem presented by the recent decision of the supreme court holding the excise tax law unconstitutional was begun today by the house judiciary committee.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, the first witness, urged that the employment of children in mines, quarries, factories and other gainful occupations be prohibited or regulated.

Organized labor would prefer that congress, if possible, meet the situation with legislation. Mr. Gompers said, but advocated a constitutional amendment in the event the same purpose could not be accomplished without it.

Reviewing efforts to protect children against "compulsory labor for profit and exploitation," President Gompers declared there was serious "economic competition involved" because some states prohibited and others permitted such work.

Saying he did not wish to criticize the recent decision of the supreme court nor set up his judgment against that of the court, Mr. Gompers insisted that significance had been attached to its previous decision upholding the match tax to protect the health of labor against harmful sulphurous fumes.

He also suggested that the decision of the supreme court holding constitutional of the oleomargarine law provided a precedent for finding the child labor tax law constitutional.

CAR FRANCHISE IS PASSED BY COUNCIL DESPITE OPPOSITION

FOUR MEMBERS VOTE FOR ORDINANCE—WORK TO START SOON.

ANOTHER APPLICATION TO BE MADE SHORTLY

Opinion Cuts Payroll Again—Time Limit For Paying Cars Is Disputed.

The street car line to North Wichita was considered a certainty Thursday morning, following the action of the council Wednesday night in passing the franchise ordinance asked for by the traction company.

Street Commissioner Clifford, who had opposed the ordinance unless some changes were made, was absent Wednesday night, being out of the city. A vote of the remaining council members, voted for the ordinance. Mayor Leebenson, who is disappointed that the traction company had not consented to the changes suggested, providing for maintenance of the cars, and the motion to pass the ordinance was made by Commissioner Pitts and seconded by Commissioner Shepard.

The traction company on Thursday extended its option on some material for the extension, but will not start work until the ordinance is finally passed. This cannot be done until two weeks' notice of public hearing has been given. The line will be built from Sixth and Indiana to the river as promptly as possible so that it can be used for transporting supplies for the across-the-river portion.

It is probable that the controversy over the streets will be settled in a few weeks, as the traction company will, as soon as the high school bonds are voted, ask for a franchise for a line to the school site. It has not yet been decided whether the ordinance will be amended by an extension of the South line from Collins and Archer, or whether a branch of the factory line, south from Ninth street on Tyler, will be constructed.

The council Wednesday night issued instructions for strict enforcement of the city plumbing ordinance. Following a report by Commissioner Pitts that six local plumbers, who had refused to take the required examination, are disregarding that provision of the ordinance. A petition from residents of Scottland addition, asking for installation of five alarm boxes on Broadway at the intersections of Fifth and Ninth streets, was presented, and the council indicated that when the pending negotiations for a loan are concluded, the work might be done.

The council made a further reduction in the municipal payroll by dropping a sewer foreman and adding his duties to those of E. L. Moore, plumbing inspector; one of the sanitary department employees will also be dropped. An ordinance putting a limit on the amount of gasoline that can be stored in a building was requested by Fred C. Cline, who pointed out that the amount allowed under existing regulations was too large. City Attorney Mann was instructed to prepare the necessary ordinance. Chief McClure also renewed the request of a building code, pointing out the necessity for such a measure. A special committee to consider such a code will be appointed shortly.

The council discussed, without

REMARKABLE GROWTH OF SAUL'S STORE RECORDED IN ANNIVERSARY SALE

Starting eight years ago in a "hole in the wall" at 817 Indiana street, Saul Leebenson, proprietor of Saul's store, today occupies a floor space of 25,000 square feet and employs 40 clerks.

In announcing his eighth anniversary sale, in which everything in the store is being offered at discount, Mr. Leebenson attributes his success to giving the public a square deal, in advertising and backing up his advertising. Mr. Leebenson started his business in 1914 in the little place on Indiana, he was the proprietor, and chief clerk, office boy, bookkeeper and everything else. At that time his wife assisted him. In 1915 he moved to the corner store at Indiana and Seventh and last August he moved into his new building across the street. Two weeks ago he took in the annex which was erected at the year of his new building.

CAREFUL CROSSING CAMPAIGN WILL BE OBSERVED LOCALLY

The "careful crossing campaign" inaugurated by the American Railway association and which was into effect Thursday, June 1, will be observed by the local railroads. The campaign will extend throughout the summer, closing on September 30.

The object of the campaign is to guard against the railroad crossing accidents which during the year 1920 were responsible for the death of 1,272 people and injury to 1,977. Several million tracts illustrated posters are being circulated throughout the country in an effort to convince people the absolute necessity of exercising carefulness in crossing railroad tracks. In addition to educating the public on this matter all employees of railroads and especially watchmen and engineers and firemen have been asked to more carefully observe the crossing rules. All of the local railroads have received a large number of the posters which will be distributed and exhibited throughout the course of their lines.

KATY WILL ERECT MODERN BUILDING AT 9TH AND OHIO

A modern freight and office building will be erected between Ninth and Tenth on Ohio street by the K. & T. railroad company during the summer, a franchise for the change having been granted by the city council Wednesday night. The new building and all the changes planned will cost in the neighborhood of $175,000, according to F. W. Drake, superintendent of the Northwest. The new building will occupy the corner at Ninth and Ohio and will set back from the street some ten or twelve feet. The length of the building will extend towards Tenth street and from this point to Tenth street a covered freight shed will be erected. Permission was granted to construct an inclined driveway from the street to the freight house. The old freight house will be torn away and without a doubt the gasoline-filling station at Tenth and Ohio will also be removed. The tracks of the company will be run in back of the building and shed and concrete driveways for the teams from cars will be put down. All of the railroad offices of the company will be housed in the second story of the building. HAULING MATERIAL FOR CULVERTS AND BRIDGES

ELECTRA, TEXAS, June 1.—The hauling of sand and gravel started today for construction of culverts and bridges on the six-mile stretch of paved road which will extend north from Electra. The road will be an extension of Waggoner street. Contract calls for completion of the work in 28 days, and Campbell McLean in charge of construction, expects to have the concrete laid in much less time than that. B. S. Walker & Sons of Electra said the contractor has 15,000 barrels of Lone Star cement to be used in the work.

What Refinement Means in a Waltham Watch

A Waltham Watch today is the result of doing one thing supremely well for seventy years. From the first Waltham Watch to this masterful, lovely model (The Colonial "A" No. 264, Washington) the great Waltham organization has been refining the product. That means making the Waltham movement supreme in dependability and unexcelled in time-telling for a life-time. This is what we mean by "Refinement." It goes deeper than the case. It is older than today. It is that "something" which is not included in the price, but makes this grand watch worthy of your desire and decision to own it and appreciate it. Cut out this advertisement. Ask your jeweler to show you the watch it describes. He knows what a great watch it really is. Write for a valuable booklet that is a liberal "Watch" education.
