SAYS COL. SAWYER STANDS IN WAY OF AID FOR VETERANS

PERSONAL PHYSICIAN OF THE PRESIDENT BLAMED FOR CONDITIONS.

CRITICISM IS VOICED BY COLONEL SPRAGUE

Reminds Sawyer That He Has Had No Contact With Men or War Experience.

CHICAGO, July 25.—Colonel A. A. Sprague, chairman of the American Legion's national rehabilitation committee, in a letter to Brigadier General Charles E. Sawyer, personal physician to President Harding and chief coordinator of the federal board of hospitalization made public today, charges General Sawyer is standing in the way of proper care for wounded and shell shocked veterans and holding up hospital plans voted by congress.

"I recognize the fact," Colonel Sprague writes to the president's physician, "that before becoming chief coordinator of the federal board of hospitalization you had no contact with the men and women who were serving in the army and navy during the war and no experience either in the field or in government service that would give you a chance to really know how men feel who lose their nerves, their health and their minds in devotion to duty or how their families look upon these men who went out to invest their life in the nation's service."

Appealing to General Sawyer to "stand aside," Colonel Sprague said "over 4,500 mental cases are still confined in contract institutions and that of the remaining 4,715 victims of mental disorders only 3,500 are in government institutions devoted entirely to their care."

Quoting from a letter received from General Sawyer in which the chief coordinator said "I am convinced that the peak of hospitalization has been passed," and that the government had sufficient beds except in two districts, Colonel Sprague replied:

"It is almost unbelievable that having satisfied congress that these hospitals were needed and that we now have no reply to your statement that they are unnecessary, you ask the boys in the contract institutions and their families, ask the men whose nerves have been shattered by this war, who have suffered for this lack of adequate hospitalization."

NEGRO PREACHER WILL MAKE SECOND ATTEMPT TO SAIL FOR LIBERIA

LOS ANGELES, July 25.—The Rev. J. E. Lewis, negro pastor of the Church of the Living God, has announced another attempt to sail from Los Angeles to Monrovia, Liberia.

His first attempt failed when the Ark, a craft upon which he had labored many months, sank at its launching. Now he and his flock have obtained the motor ship Angel and christened her the Queen of Liberia and they plan to start on the voyage to Africa August 15. The pastor said he hoped to carry 30,000 negroes to the African republic in the next year. The vessel, 110 feet long, will be loaded with Liberian products on her return trip, he explained.

PESSIMISTIC PICTURE BUSINESS CONDITIONS IS PAINTED BY BOARD

NEW YORK, July 25.—A pessimistic picture of business conditions resulting from railroad, coal and textile strikes is painted with figures included in the weekly review of industrial conditions made public by the national industrial conference board.

"A depressing effect on business generally is evident," the review said. "Altogether over 2,000,000 persons are voluntarily idle through strikes, and since the beginning of July 100,000,000 man-hours of work have been lost each week. With the average wage of labor taken at 50 cents an hour, the wage loss alone since the first of the month has been over $100,000,000 and is proceeding at the rate of over $8,000,000 a day. This, in effect, means a serious contraction in purchasing power which in turn may have its effect on future employment and general business conditions."

BURNETT, INDIANA PAVING CONTRACTS TO BE CARRIED OUT

Having on Indiana from Tenth to Thirtieth street in Burnett will be continued under the old contracts. This action was taken by the council at the regular session Monday night.

The paving companies agreed to carry the city's part of the expense at 4 per cent interest until January 31, 1923. The council hopes to be in position to continue the paving on Eleventh street in the near future. A decision on this will probably be reached at the next council meeting, as the matter is being considered by city officials now.

Following the disposal of the paving proposition the council passed an emergency ordinance preventing any circus from showing in Wichita Falls within 30 days from the opening of the Texas-Oklahoma fair.

Dr. Reed health commissioner, reported to the council that the municipal swimming pool was unusable until January 31, 1923. The pool is open only three days a week. The council gave Dr. Reed authority to take whatever action he thought necessary.

Before adjourning, Mayor Collier read a telegram in open council meeting from the United States attorney, in Dallas, in substance, asking for the co-operation of the local police force with federal officers in the strike situation. Police Commissioner Pitts announced that his men were already working with the federal authorities in every way possible.

SPEAKING OF NAMES.

Mr. John Gould, the Times' city editor, is enjoying a chuckle over the naming of his latest little niece.

He received announcement of the arrival of little Miss Patty Rose Early at the home of his sister, in Waco Sunday. The two Christian names are for his two grandmothers, and the city ed.'s unseemly mirth is mainly because he thinks the baby's mother was unconscious of the most commendable old-fashioned virtue suggested in the combination.

French Hagia emphasizes the becomingness of the delicate apricot shade. It seems to be preferred to the more common pink.

PAINS SO BAD WOULD GO TO BED

Two Women Tell How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Stopped Their Suffering

Iron Mountain, Mich.—"I had terrible pains every month and at times had to go to bed on account of them. I saw your advertisement and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with very good results. I can work all day long now at my work time. You may use these facts as a testimonial and I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends."—Mrs. A. H. GARLAND, 218 E. Brown St., Iron Mountain, Michigan.

Xenia, Ohio.—"Every month I had such pains in my back and lower part of my abdomen that I could not lie quietly in bed. I suffered for about five years that way and I was not regular either. I read an advertisement of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other women, so I decided to try it. It surely has helped me a lot, as I have no pains now and am regular and feeling fine."—Mrs. MARY DALE, Route 7, Xenia, Ohio.

If you suffer as did Mrs. Garland or Mrs. Dale, you should give this well-known medicine a thorough trial.

"That so," said Dr. Snuffles. "Well, well I'll have to give you some leg medicine."

Nancy and Nick overheard Mrs. Robin talking to Mrs. Frog down by the pond.

Mrs. Robin was saying: "Oh, don't be disappointed about your children, Mrs. Frog. Mine were born without a single feather—half as door-knobs, my dear! But I went to Dr. Snuffles and he gave me some drops and in three weeks my children were beautiful."

"Oh," said Mrs. Frog eagerly. "do you think it would do my pollywogs any good, Mrs. Robin? Really, I'm almost ashamed of them. They haven't a leg to stand on and, mind you, they've actually got tails like lizards."

"Well," said Mrs. Robin. "I have half a bottle left and you're welcome to it, I'm sure."

The Twins slipped away and told the fairy doctor all about it.

"Hm," said that gentleman thoughtfully. "It's bad business for people to take other folks' medicine. I'll have to give her a little lesson."

Next day Dr. Snuffles presented himself at Mrs. Frog's front door and asked about the pollywog children.

"They're fine, thank you," said Mrs. Frog. "only their legs don't grow very fast."

"That so," said Dr. Snuffles. "Well, well, I'll have to give them some leg medicine. I gave Mrs. Robin's children some feather medicine, and you ought to see 'em now!"

"Feather medicine?" shrieked Mrs. Frog. "Was that feather medicine she gave me? Goodness! They will have feathers all over them! Oh doctor, what shall I do?"

Then Dr. Snuffles kindly, but firmly, gave her a piece of his mind. He told her what not to do thereafter. And that was not to borrow medicine from a neighbor.

Also he said to let her pollywogs alone and they'd grow all the legs they needed and lose their tails as well.

Which they did.

AFTER WALKING FOR MILES, JACK AND HIS FAITHFUL DOG WERE VERY TIRED. THEY SAW A GOOD SPOT ALONG THE ROAD, AND DECIDED TO TAKE A REST.

WHEN HE DECIDED TO PITCH CAMP FOR THE NIGHT, JACK BUILT A SHELTER OUT OF TREE BRANCHES AND LEAVES, AND PREPARED FOR A GOOD NIGHT'S SLEEP.

A PIERCING SCREAM AWAKENED JACK FROM HIS SLUMBERS. HE SAT UP WITH A START AND DISCOVERED A PAIR OF GLEAMING EYES SHINING OUT OF THE DARKNESS.

"JELLY BEANS" NOW UNDER POLICE BAN, FITTS ANNOUNCES

"Mashers," "Jelly-beans," in fact all young men who linger around picture shows in Wichita Falls had better watch their step in the future. Word has been received at police headquarters that young girls who go to the movies at night are being accosted on their way home by young men, who ask them to go car riding.

Police Commissioner J. B. Fitts issued orders Tuesday morning to all his force to pay particular attention to all young men who appear to be "just waiting" near some theatre.

Several reports have been received at the police station from young women who have been stopped on their way home and invited to take a car ride, Monday evening a young lady was stopped by two men on the corner of Seventh and Lamar. The young men were in a Ford coupe and asked the girl if she would go riding with them.

Commissioner Fitts stated that the young men must stop and that he would go as far as putting every man in jail caught committing such an act.

KIWANIS CLUB ASKS COUNCIL TO PROVIDE CAMP FOR FAIR VISITORS

The city council in the near future may purchase several acres along Holliday creek to be set aside as a tourist camping park. This was suggested in the city council meeting Monday night after a committee from the Kiwanis club offered to put such a park in condition for tourists.

It is the hope of the Kiwanis club to secure some site that can be converted into a camping park by the time practice starts at the fair starts. At the present time the city has no official camping park for tourists and there is a great need for one.

Members of the council favor the proposition and in the meeting Monday night directed the park commissioner to take charge of the proposition.

To Find the Frozen Fleet That Haunts the Pole

Explorer Amundsen Sets Out to Freeze His Schooner in the Circling Floes at the Top of the World to Verify the Eskimo Legend of Ghostly Ships, and Perhaps to Touch the Pole.

SOMEWHERE within those vast uncharted wastes of ice that lie due north of Bering Strait, a fleet of battered ships manned by frozen crews is swinging in a slow uncertain orbit about the North Pole.

Tales of this grisly flotilla have been coming back to civilization at odd intervals for a long time through the mouths of Eskimos—mighty hunters who ventured too far north and were caught in the ice packs of the Polar Basin. They were ships of tattered masts, the Eskimos said, ships that were glazed with frost from stem to stern, ships that were ghostly, silent and unoccupied save for a few rigid figures looking like men, which clung to the rails or stood on the companionways.

For a long time little attention was given these tales. But their persistent recurrence finally stirred the curiosity of adventurers and scientific men. And now finally an expedition has started out, headed by no less a person than Capt. Roald Amundsen, discoverer of the South Pole, to hunt down these grim wanderers of the north and to find out what manner of creatures they may have been—or still may be.

Capt. Amundsen's ship, Maud, sailed out of Puget Sound early in the summer, bound for Nome and then for the slow drift across the unexplored basin to the North Pole. The ship is equipped and supplied to withstand seven years in the Arctic.

If he follows out his plans Capt. Amundsen will voluntarily submit his ship to the situation that befell other Arctic adventurers through misfortune or miscalculation. That is, he will let the Maud become frozen into the ice and drift at the will of the winter storms and the summer currents. If, as has been thought, there is a consistency to the drift of the ice field in the Polar Basin, the Maud will describe much the same route about the pole as these frozen ships.

The expedition will thus be in a position to make investigations and explorations into a region that is still unplumbed by man. Whereas Capt. Amundsen will not be the first explorer to drift across the Polar Basin—it was accomplished in 1893-1896 by Fridtjof Nansen—he will be the first to carry the elaborate equipment necessary for the proper study of polar conditions.

"We are taking the finest scientific instruments that were ever sent north," said Capt. Amundsen. "With two airplanes and elaborate photographic apparatus, we will be able to study the surface conditions for hundreds of miles on each side of the vessel—something that was impossible when dog sleds were used."

It is his hope, therefore, not only to solve the riddle of the phantom fleet, but many others. After the completion of the polar drift he hopes to be able to tell how the weather is made, whether the frozen Arctic ever will be made navigable, how deep the water is beneath the endless fields of ice, whether there are other lands never discovered in the unexplored region, of what the floor of the Polar seas is made, and whether there is animal or perhaps human life there of which the world has never known. In short, he hopes to bring the 1,000,000 square miles of uncharted territory into the knowledge of man.

dition—Axel Heiberg Land, Ringnes Land, the Parry Islands and Alaska.

Two-thirds of the Arctic Ocean—and the unexplored regions so far as is known—is covered by ice fields that have an average thickness of six or seven feet. Various influences are brought to bear upon these tremendous floes and cause them to drift first in one direction and then another. But while the channels of escape from the Arctic Ocean into the larger bodies of water are many, they are also very narrow and for this reason it has been generally assumed that very little of the ice which finds its way into the Northern Atlantic comes from the Arctic regions.

As practically all necessary data is lacking, little can be told about the drift of the immense ice packs in the uncharted regions. The pack immediately north of Bering Strait, however, through the action of the winds and the currents, drifts in a north-northwesterly direction to that part of the Arctic Ocean lying between the Pole and Franz Josef Land. From there it turns southwesterly toward Jan Mayen.

Some of this pack may become detached and escape into the Atlantic through Baffin Bay and Davis Strait, or perhaps through the Greenland

Sea, but the amount is relatively small. For the most part, these bodies of ice, according to the general scientific belief, continue this Arctic drift and remain practically intact. In fact, it is considered possible that glacial formations may have taken place owing to the gradual thickening of these ice floes and that immense century-old icebergs—much larger than those discharged from Greenland into the Atlantic—may be floating around in the Arctic.

A further possibility that has suggested itself to explorers and Polar scientists is that ships and men, caught in the ice packs and gradually swept out into the wastes, have been securely frozen into these glaciers. The phantom fleet that Amundsen hopes to find, therefore, may be imbedded in the heart of some icy mountain. The stories of some Eskimos might mean that.

If this be the case, the phantom fleet, like the glacier that encloses it, may be centuries old. Scandinavian settlers in Greenland and Iceland often speak of ships that sailed away hundreds of years ago into the north never to return.

But one does not have to go to the tales of early Norse and Danish explorers for instances of ships that have been swept out into the uncharted region. Many vessels have so disappeared from time to time. And in one fell swoop the hungry ice pack, in 1876, carried off thirty whaling ships from the waters north of the American continent. Most of the men fled to the ice and escaped to Point Barrow and other points on the Arctic coast, but seventy refused to desert the ships. The slow but ceaseless drift of the ice finally swept them away.

Old-time explorers agree that it's perfectly possible for ships to remain virtually intact in the ice. They hold that once within the maw of the pack the ships would rest secure in their foundation and from then on the only damage would be that wrought by storms. The bodies of the crews, once frozen, would remain in their original composition indefinitely. The ice, they say, does a perfect job of embalming.

Six Eskimo Members of Amundsen's Crew in Everyday Attire.

Greenland and North America—together with innumerable smaller bodies, hedge in the Arctic seas and make of them virtually a huge ice-strewn lake.

But between the North Pole and Bering Strait lies the greater part of the Polar Basin and the greater part of the uncharted territory which Amundsen will invade, though part of it lies between the Pole and Franz Josef Land. Specifically the Polar Basin is bounded by the northern coast of Siberia from Bering Strait to the northern Taimur Peninsula, Franz Josef Land, Spitzbergen, Greenland, Grinnel Land—one of the places touched en route by the Peary Polar ex-

NOBODY HOME. A brutal crime frequently attracts your attention in the newspapers. It is an atrocious murder or a fiendish assault.

Check back over the past and you realize that you have met many morons—grown-up with a child's mentality—who have been going along placidly through life without committing crimes.

William J. Robinson, celebrated leonoclast-doctor, writes in his Medical Critic and Guide: 'A man may be a great painter, sculptor, actor or even a great poet, and in all other domains of human thought be a moron, have the mentality of a 12-year-old child.'

You see the reverse of this in the case of the man who is a 'jack-of-all-trades and master of none. He is not a moron in any particular branch of mentality. He knows a smattering of everything.

But, as a general rule, the individual has only one song—and can play it only on one instrument. Maybe this is why business men of pronounced ability have not gone extensively into politics.

President Harding has told the coal operators to go back and open their mines. That is something that is much easier said than done.

People who claim they will do anything once have never said 'You looked better before it was bobbed.'

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THINGS SEEN. There are those who can get on a train and go across the country—without seeing anything!

Walk with me into the country. Let us ramble through the woods. Let us find the streams and the low places where the ferns hold court and where quiet pools feed the tadpoles and where birds come to drink.

Yesterday I had the good fortune to see one of the most beautiful trees I have ever seen. So towering and so spreading, so strong and so like a huge friend!

I could not express to my friend my feelings at so magnificent a sight. Imagine my thoughts when I was told that the next-door neighbor wanted the tree cut down for fear it might some day crash against their house in some storm!

This tree has a place in my dreams from now on. How wonderful to have actually seen things all along the way of life. So that during the moments of sadness or loneliness this great gorge, or that canyon, or that wonderful lake, this garden of flowers, that smile, may be plucked anew for our eyes as food to the soul.

And how fine it is to see only the things that do us good. For this I would not exclude the unpleasant or the unwelcome or even the sordid, for even by many of these are we made to see bolder things, full of rich meaning and with many a lesson hidden.

I would that you might always see!

Everybody needs a vacation every year and would be glad to get one every month.

Summer is divided into the people that go away and the people that stay home and get postal cards from the people that go away. This proves how easy we can share our blessings if we only have a little consideration.

Vacation is divided into the country, the sea shore and the mountain, depending partly on where you want to go and partly on where your relations live.

Some of the advantages of the country are the air, the chickens laying fresh eggs, the water, and the grass growing everywhere and flowers some places, while on the other hand the sea shore has just as much air and just as good water.

The worst thing it can do on your vacation is rain. If you have a bum vacation it is not the vacation, it is the rain that makes you glad to get back to the office.

Saskatchewan being bone-dry, like our own, the amateur brewers discovered that every one who could hobble into town on crutches wanted to serve on the board of judges.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

SWANSON FLEES TO SUCCESSFUL CANDIDATE

Editor The Times: Various comments have been heard by me, expressing appreciation of the informing character of election news published in The Times.

The country got along before the world war, during the world war, and since the world war. There is no indispensable man in any democratic government, and if there is public understanding of problems and public interest in democratic government naturally are, and must be, the defects of the individuals who make it up.

President Madison is credited with having once remarked that 'Popular government without public education is but the prelude to a farce or a tragedy, or both.'

I believe in the written laws which protect the methods, and men elected are of right entitled to the support of all citizens to best conception of citizens' duties.

URGES COOPERATION OF STRIKERS WITH MERCHANTS. Editor The Times: The strikes of railway shippers may be prolonged over a period of months, and yet there may develop a situation that will bring the country to a successful conclusion.

SUNBURN AND FRECKLES. By DR. R. H. BISHOP. Lately I have been receiving a number of letters asking how sunburn and freckles may be removed easily and permanently. Personally, I like to see freckles and tan, for they are signs of outdoor activity and consequently good health. But if you must try to remove them, do not use unknown brands of creams and lotions. Some of these are likely to interfere with the normal healthy action of that organ. Instead of hiding blemishes of the skin it is much better to remove these blemishes by improving the texture of the skin. A simple remedy is bathing the face in a lotion of lime water. Each application not only improves the skin but aids greatly in bringing about a permanent change. For cleansing the skin of the face or forehead and removing wax give skin particles, a simple cold cream made of the following materials is recommended: One ounce of spermaceti, one ounce of white wax, five ounces of oil of sweet almonds, one and a half ounces of rosewater and 30 grains of chloride of potash dissolved in a quart of water. As the old skin is gradually carried away by this method, unsightly blemishes such as red blotches, tan and freckles are removed and the body disappears gradually and harmlessly by itself.
