BOTH OLD PARTIES STATE OF ALABAMA HOLD CONVENTIONS

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Sept. 7.—Democrats of Alabama assembled here today for their first state convention in 16 years, to formulate a party policy and to adopt a general working program.

Growth of the republican party in Alabama has had much to do with calling the democratic convention here today, it has been stated, they having shown such strength at the last general election, to entitle them to a primary at the expense of the public treasury had it been so willed.

The light wine and beer question was thought to be a certain subject of discussion at the convention. The last convention went on record as opposing local option as a settlement of the liquor problem. Since that date the state has passed prohibitory liquor laws and Alabama is regarded as a straight out prohibition state and the democratic party is a dry party.

REPUBLICANS PLAN TO NAME STATE TICKET

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., Sept. 7.—After today Alabama will have "two strong, active and progressive political parties," according to republican leaders, who announced their intention to name a full state ticket at today's state convention here and to wage an aggressive campaign in opposition to the democratic nominees. While state democrats are working on a party policy at Montgomery, the republicans likewise will be promulgating a platform.

The number and influence of the negro at the convention will be negligible according to foremost members of the party who attended the caucus.

WHEAT PRODUCTION FOR 1922 WILL BE BELOW LAST YEAR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The world's wheat production this year will be less than it was last year.

but considerably greater than the pre-war average, according to estimates made public today by the department of agriculture. Estimates indicate a yield this year of 3,019,325,000 bushels compared with the production last year of 3,053,594,000 and the 1918-1919 average of 2,920,352,000 bushels. Increased wheat production in both the United States and Canada was indicated, the combined estimate being 3,125,965,000 bushels this year, compared with 1,924,781,000 in 1921 and the pre-war average of 2,921,000,000. ### 250-CAR ORDER FOR EXPORT KEROSENE BOOKED

Shipments Show Substantial Increase Within Past Few Days Here.

Hope of an early advance in the price of crude oil is seen by local operators in the fact that a brisk export demand for refined products is developing. Already this week about 150 cars have been forwarded from local refineries for export. One refinery Wednesday booked an order for 250 carloads of kerosene for export; this being one of the largest kerosene orders ever received here. The demand for gasoline is steadily improving, particularly the export demand.

DAM SITE BONE DRY OPERATIONS HALTED BY LACK OF WATER

At the site of the storage dam which is expected to eventually create the largest artificial lake in Texas, it is now so dry that no water is available for construction work.

It is necessary to haul water for stock and drinking purposes. There is scarcely a drop of moisture at the site itself. Work on the conduits and the sheet piling construction is being held up as a result. Practically all water has to be hauled from Seymour or from distant tanks.

Some day that site will be one of the wettest in the southwest. Just now it would be hard to find a dryer spot.

Thousands Of Women Are Now Taking This Newer Form Of Iron

Worn-out Housewife Tells How She Quickly Regained Her Health and Strength.

"Only a short two weeks ago I was so tired, nervous and worn-out from the drain on my nerves and strength of home hold drudgery, that I thought I could not keep up another day."

"I had a short two weeks' treatment of the newer form of iron and I have gained a marvelous increase in health, strength and energy. Now I can do my whole house without being tired, and do not have to sit at home in the evening 'all-in' sick and nervous."

"The above is a typical hypochondriac case," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Out-Door Dept.) New York, and the Washington County Hospital.

"You can get well and strong and full of vigor and power unless your blood is rich in iron. It is your red blood cells that enable you to resist and overcome disease and that nourishes every organ in your body, that nourishes your brain, your nerves, your eyes, your heart and kidneys, and that gives you energy, and that feeds all 'run-down' and tired out."

"When your blood lacks iron do not waste your time taking stimulating medicines or narcotic drugs, but directly enrich your blood with the newer form of iron sold by all druggists under the name of Nutrasol Iron, which is like the iron in spinach, lettuce, and apples, and is in a form easily assimilated into your blood."

PEACE OFFICERS OF STATE ENTERTAINED BY ABILENE PEOPLE

ABILENE, Sept. 7.—The forty-fourth annual convention of the sheriffs' association of Texas met here Tuesday morning for a three-day session with 40 or more officers from the various sections of the state in attendance. A number who were not present at the opening meeting came in for the last two days.

Sheriff W. T. Vann of Brownsville is president of the association and took charge of the opening meeting. Miss Ada Kirk, daughter of a former president of the association who died in office, was in attendance and acted in her position of secretary.

Meetings were planned for Thursday, at which time questions of vital importance concerning the enforcement of law in the state will be taken up.

The welcome address was given by Mayor Dallas Scarborough, who told the officers that the doors of Abilene were opened to them, that they would receive royal treatment everywhere they went. The welcome was responded to by W. Hollingsworth of Comanche county, who assured Mayor Scarborough that the royal treatment being extended would be received the prize of every officer in Texas.

Theatres and all amusements were opened to the visitors for each of the three days. It was stated at the first meeting by members of the local chamber of commerce that Abilene wanted the visitors to feel at home, and that admission would be granted to everything free of charge. A rodeo, a trip over Taylor county, including Lake Abilene, and many other features were planned for the members of the association. It was stated by the chamber of commerce representatives, with the town from which they come, follow:

- W. T. Vann, Brownsville; J. J. Reeves, Mount Pleasant; D. H. Harrell, Dallas; W. Bonds, Belton; Al Cousins, Haskell; W. D. Miller, Austin; R. M. Miller, Paint Rock; Sam Porter, Mount Pleasant; John W. Vann, San Antonio; J. E. Whitely, Bonham; T. H. Garner, Beaumont; H. E. Nix, Greenville; John Wright, Stephenville; J. H. ### SEPTEMBER 19 TO BE THIS CITY'S DAY AT SEYMOUR'S FAIR

Tuesday, September 19, has been designated as Wichita Falls day at the Baylor County fair according to advice received from R. E. Baskin, secretary of the Seymour chamber of commerce.

Baylor county expects to send several thousand folks to Wichita Falls for Baylor County day at the Texas-Oklahoma fair, and wants a big crowd of Wichitans in Seymour for Wichita Falls day at the Baylor county exposition. It is expected that a large delegation from this city will make the trip by automobile.

Rout Blackbirds With Rockets and Roman Candles

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Mount Vernon's police force last night succeeded in routing hundreds of noisy grackles, a species of blackbird, from their roosting places in the exclusive Chester Hill residential section. Residents claimed the birds had made such a racket for the last two years that life was almost unbearable. The police were unwilling to shoot the birds.

LIVE STOCK SHOW PLAN FOR ELECTRA SEPTEMBER 26-27

ELECTRA, TEXAS, Sept. 7.—Instead of a community fair, Electra will hold a livestock and pure bred hog sale September 26-27 under auspices of the chamber of commerce and agriculture. Liberal prizes will be offered for livestock and farm crop exhibits, including prizes of $4, $2.50 and $1.50 for both sows and boars in the various classes. An award of $2 will be given for the senior and junior champion sow and pig, and a ribbon will be awarded grand champion sow and boar.

Other prizes include awards of $4, $2.50 and $1.50 for the best sow and litter, and for the four best pigs in one litter. Prizes will be given for both Duroc and Poland Chinas. Liberal awards are offered for various breeds and classes of chickens, turkeys, guineas, geese and ducks; for cattle, horses and mules. In the agricultural division, prizes will be offered for the best ten heads of maize, kafir, fetterita, red top, the best ten ears of corn each of sugar cropper, Bloody Butcher and Yellow Dent; for the best peck of wheat, oats and barley; the best bundle of kafir, Sudan and sorghum; the best bale of alfalfa hay, three stalks of cotton, fifty bolts of open cotton, peck of sweet potatoes, the best pumpkin, best watermelon, three cantaloupes and best half dozen table beets.

It is thought that many of the exhibits from here will be taken to the Texas-Oklahoma state fair in Wichita Falls.

SOUTHERN TO START WORK SHORTLY ON A NEW SHOP BUILDING

Work will start within the next few days on the new shops and repair sheds of the Wichita Falls and Southern, replacing the structures destroyed by fire about three weeks ago.

The new shops will be larger and more complete than those destroyed. There will be room for six to eight locomotives and for a large number of cars, enabling the road to care for both present and future needs of its rolling stock.

From $20,000 to $25,000 will be expended on the shops, which will be located in the factory district not far from the site of the old buildings which were destroyed.

Negro Moves When He Discovers Body Hanging From Tree

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7.—An unidentified negro driving a team through Elysian park last night saw a human form dangling from a tree limb. He jumped from his wagon and fled. The uncontrolled team ran away and smashed two automobiles and wrecked the wagon against a tree.

Police accused the automobile parties, captured the team, removed the body of the suicide and started a search for the driver. At least reports he had not been found.

VERNON'S WATER SUPPLY A COMPLICATED PROBLEM

VERNON, TEXAS, Sept. 7.—Continued dry weather has brought about a material shortage in Vernon's water supply that is presenting a somewhat complicated problem to the city commission. Local lawns are suffering markedly from the lack of moisture, and pumping facilities at the plant are being taxed to the utmost. Six big wells furnishing water are thought to be adequate, but city mains in some sections of Vernon are too small to carry a sufficient volume of water.

COMING WEDDING IS ANNOUNCED WEDNESDAY

The announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Gene Cowling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Cowling of this city, to George W. Truett of Amarillo, was an interesting feature of the luncheon tendered at Kemp hotel Wednesday by Dean E. D. Jentzen of Southern Methodist University.

The luncheon was given by former students and alumnae of the Texas Women's College at Fort Worth, with which Dean Jennings was formerly connected for many years, and was a tribute to the love and respect of his former students who are here attending the teachers' institute.

Mrs. C. L. Roberts of Wichita Falls acted as toastmistress, and made the announcement of the coming wedding of Miss Cowling, who was a popular member of the graduating class of '19 of T. W. C. a surprise feature of the introductions at the close of the toast program.

The program opened with a toast to Dean Jennings by Mrs. M. L. Hines of Iowa Park, and Dean Jennings responded with a talk. At the close of the luncheon a committee consisting of Miss Lorena Hines of Wichita Falls, Mrs. Hines of Iowa Park, and Miss Lilla Majors of Burk Burnett, was appointed to attend to plans for the organization of an students' T. W. C. club.

Those at the luncheon included the honor guests, Dean Jennings, Judge P. A. Martin, another guest, Mesdames Blaise Hardy, Hattie, M. L. Hines of Iowa Park and C. R. Roberts; Misses Mabel, Gladys, D. Smith, Lois Martin, Lilla Majors, Lurline Hightower, Sarah Major, Jessie May Shreve, Dixie Goshorn, Daisy Lee Jones, Mabel Hays, Leola Smith, Gene Cowling and Cora Knauth.

WALNUT STREET AUXILIARY MEETS WEDNESDAY

The Women's Auxiliary Circle Two of the Walnut Street Baptist church met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. H. L. Debeaux at her home on Orange street, opening with a Bible study session. Later it was voted for the circle to piece some quilts for Buckner's Orphan's home, and a call was made for all members to attend the meeting Tuesday afternoon of next week at Mrs. L. H. Goodrich on Orange street to begin the work. It was also stated that anyone wishing to donate a top, lining or cotton could bring or send it to Mrs. Goodrich.

Just Apply This Paste and the Hairs Will Vanish!

(Boudoir Secret)
The judicious use of a delicate paste insures any woman a clear, hairless skin. To prepare the paste, mix a little of the powdered delatone with some water, and apply to the objectionable hairs for two or three minutes. When the paste is removed, and the skin washed, every trace of hair will have vanished. We pain attend the use of the delatone and it will not mar the most sensitive skin, but to insure the best results you get real delatone—adv.

SUFFERED A YEAR WITH PIMPLES

On Face, Arms and Shoulders. Cuticura Healed.

"For about a year I suffered with pimples on my face, arms and shoulders. The pimples on my face were small, white, on my arms and shoulders they were very much larger. After a day or so they would fester, and burst a good deal."
"A friend advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using them about a week I could see a great improvement. I continued using them and soon I am completely healed." (Signed) Miss Frances C. Ferris, West Point, Kentucky.
Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum promote and maintain skin purity, skin comfort and skin health when used in all cases.

WORN OUT AFTER SHE COOKED A MEAL

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Read the Result

Cincinnati, Ohio.—"I suffered for a year with nervous troubles and irregularities before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My back ached all the time and I was unable to do any work. I was unable to eat a meal, and was unable to do any washing. My girl told me if I would take your Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills I would be relieved. After taking the first bottle I felt better, and neglected it awhile, but found I could do my work until I was stronger. I took the Vegetable Compound again and now I am the mother of a 10 months old boy. He is fat and healthy and I am sure I could never have carried him. It had not been my medicine. I recommend your medicine to all women although I am young to be so strong as one older."

TO ORGANIZE C. I. A. STUDENTS CLUB HERE

Under the leadership of Mrs. Luther Hoffman, who has called a meeting of all local alumnae and former students of the College of Industrial Arts at Denton for Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A., a C. I. A. students club will be organized here.

Mrs. Hoffman was for several years head of the costume design section of the fine arts department of C. I. A., and will advise and cooperate with the college organization as an associate member. It is believed that 20 or 25 girls and young matrons will form the personnel of the club.

All alumnae and former students of C. I. A. who have not been personally notified are invited to meet at the Y. W. C. A. dining room at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

LITTLE MISS WESTFALL CELEBRATES A BIRTHDAY

Little Miss Christine Westfall celebrated her seventh birthday with a pretty party Wednesday afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. A. L. Westfall on Collins street. About a score of children spent the afternoon very happily at games on the lawn, and were later invited into the dining room for refreshments and to eat the birthday cake.

In the cutting little Miss Gene Guilfoin turned the ring in her slice, and Miss Thelma Wehrens the dime. The cake, with ice cream, was served to the following little folks: Marie Briggs, Howard Cavendish, Bernice Graham, Wilmont Hunt, Virginia Green, Ruth Thomason, Ann Lee and Lorraine Waddell, Maria Margaret Black, Marjorie Foster, Nettie Hancock, Gene Gillhorn, Frances Dixon, Marjorie and Marvin Fox, Clinton Spitzer, Francis Duval, John Elliott, Ruth Lockwood, Thelma Wehrens, Roy Jr. and Billie Louis Westfall, and Pauline Wehrens. ## ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS Tingling Finds Bewitched Twins

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Step aside," said Mr. Rubadub.

The four fairymen, Mr. Tingling and Mr. Scribble-Scratch, Mr. Rubadub and Mr. Rubadub, all stood looking at Nancy and Nick, whom Flip-Doodle had changed into white rabbits and happy as ever.

"I don't know enough magic to change 'em back into children again," said Tingling grimly.

"And I don't know enough, either," said Mr. Scribble-Scratch, looking ashamed of himself. Mr. Scribble-Scratch, being a fairly schoolmaster, was supposed to know everything.

"Step aside," said Rubadub, coming forward grandly and rubbing his hands together.

"Well, I've learned two new charms and I've been waiting for a chance to use 'em."

"Then please hurry!" remarked Tingling a bit sharply. "There is no time to be wasted."

So Rubadub said at once: "Nick, jump over his little stick!"

One of the little white rabbits gave a big hop over the little twig and scarcely had his feet touched the ground again when nick appeared in his true form, as well as smiling and happy as ever.

Then Rubadub said another charm like this: "Little Nancy Etticote is a white petticoat, And a pink nose, Turn three times around and see how tall she grows."

The other little rabbit turned around three times as Rubadub said, and behold! There stood Nancy all dimpled and bright.

"Well, we declare!" said all the fairies in astonishment. (To be continued.)

MOTHER!

Clean Baby's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry Mother! A half-teaspoonful of genuine California Fig Syrup will make your cross, fretful baby comfortable. It cleanses the little bowels of all the wind and gases, the bile, souring food and stomach poison which is causing baby's distress.

Millions of mothers depend upon this gentle laxative to keep baby's stomach and bowels clean, and thus correct diarrhea, colic, biliousness, coated tongue, sour stomach, feverish breath, and constipation. It never cramps or overacts. Contains no narcotics or soothing drugs.

Babies love the taste of genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has full directions for infants in arms and children of all ages plainly printed on bottle. Say "California" to the druggist and accept no imitation fig syrup.—adv.

which thousands of acid acres will be brought under the ditch. Experiments have proven, he says, that the soil is adapted to anything if irrigated.

"The Beach's latest book, 'Liquid Gold' doesn't do my town justice," said Mr. Ewing. "It portrays the town as being a raw little frontier settlement. As a matter of fact, we have about 40,000 people and several buildings equal to any of Nashville's skyscrapers."

Mr. Ewing left Monday night for the east, where he will confer with brokers who represent his company.

Before Baby Comes

THERE are thousands of expectant mothers who undergo a much useless suffering for months before, as well as at the moment when delivery occurs. These months of suffering, with nerves and vital organs weakened, leave their effect upon the child. An eminent physician found the way to stop much of this unnecessary suffering—the same easy way which thousands of mothers have used for three generations.

Mrs. Walter S. Hadley, Bridgeport, Ind., says: "Before my little boy came I was so paralyzed in my hips and limbs I could hardly walk, and some days after a little extra exertion I couldn't walk a step. I felt it coming on this time; in fact, I could hardly get up when I sat down, but soon, after using one bottle of Mother's Friend, I am so much better. I feel that I almost owe my life to Mother's Friend."

"Mother's Friend" is applied externally to the abdomen, back and hips. It penetrates remarkably, permitting the easier relaxation and distention of the uterus during expectancy and at child-birth. Have no more fear or dread, mother! Start using "Mother's Friend" now—the sooner the better.

Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scammon, Pa., says: "With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse, and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse! We had no time to get a doctor, because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes."

"Mother's Friend" contains no narcotics or harmful drugs. It is safe. For three generations "Mother's Friend" has relieved expectant mothers of all modern suffering. Mother! You must avoid more greens and useless substitutes. Begin using "Mother's Friend" today. It is sold at drug stores everywhere.

FREE BOOKLET ON MOTHERHOOD

Don't let false publicity keep you from this duty to yourself, to your baby and to your home. Mother Going to Stay by Her Boy Who Shot Father KANSAS CITY, Sept. 7.—Efforts to obtain today from Mrs. Helen Groh, stenographer and widow of James W. Garvey, a statement regarding the shooting of her employer yesterday by his son, Roy Garvey, were without avail.

Soon after the shooting, Mrs. Groh, who is the widow of a haberdasher, disappeared and she was not at her home last night. This morning she returned to her home, but steadfastly refused to see reporters.

One version of the shooting told the police yesterday by friends of the Garvey family, involved the elder Garvey's reputed heavy temper and Mrs. Groh. The statement was that Mrs. Groh was whistling or humming as her work and was intimidated by Garvey and then discharged. The younger Garvey entered as she was leaving the office, and learning the cause, went to his father's private office, where the shooting occurred.

Mrs. Groh declared she had heard the angry voices, but did not know the subject under discussion. Shortly after Roy Garvey was arraigned late yesterday and held without bond on a charge of first degree murder, his mother and sister sought an interview with the young man.

With tears streaming down her withered cheeks, Mrs. Garvey walked down the jail corridor and whispered to the marshal: "I want to see my baby boy before I go to sleep tonight."

The interview was brief, for the marshal was a most obstinate by her grief and she was hurried from the building.

"I am going to stand by my boy," she said. "James (referring to her husband) has acted so strangely for the last few months."

J. A. RALEY EMPLOYED BY CITY TO AID IN DELINQUENT COLLECTIONS

Owing to the financial condition of the city and its great need of funds, the council has passed a resolution directing the city attorney to proceed with all possible dispatch with the collection of delinquent taxes and requested that suits be filed at once.

City Attorney Mann has placed J. A. Raley in charge of the collection of delinquent taxes and he is at present busy getting up the information necessary for the filing of suits, which will be filed at an early date. Mr. Raley has been given an office in the city hall.

CHICKEN POISONING CASE RESULTS IN ACQUITTAL VERDICT

L. E. Lamb of North Wichita was found not guilty of poisoning his neighbors' chickens. He was tried before a jury in the county court at law Wednesday evening.

It was charged that he maliciously laid poison so that the chickens would eat it and produce death.

PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL BISHOPS ARE IN SESSION PORTLAND, ORE., Sept. 7.—Actual work of the forty-seventh triennial convention of the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States was faced by the house of bishops and the house of deputies assembling today following the organization and election of officers yesterday.

Consideration of amendments to the constitution adopted at the last convention was the first business. Ratification of such portion of revision of the prayer book as were adopted at the 1915 convention also were on the program for the day.

GIVE NOTICE OF FILING OBJECTION TO MERGER WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The federal trade commission formally advised the senate today of the filing of its complaint against the Middlevale, Republic and Inland Steel companies based on their proposed merger, emphasizing that this action did not express a "final judgment of the commission" as to the legality of the consolidation. If the tentative conclusion against the merger is not supported by testimony produced at the forthcoming hearing, the latter said, the complaint would be dismissed.

DENY RUMORS REGARDING DEATH OF ARTHUR GRIFFITH DUBLIN, Sept. 7.—The accounts of alleged new developments in connection with the death of Arthur Griffith, revising the reports that the late head of the Irish government had been poisoned and that a physician and two nurses had been arrested on suspicion, were characterized today in responsible quarters as pure inventions.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—A tale of being shanghaied by treasure seekers bound on an expedition for the Louisiana's gold was told by three men who jumped into Delaware river yesterday as the vessel was steaming toward. They were picked up by a tug.

The men, John Flynn, Edward Waters and Herman Roth, said they had accepted work offered them by a fireman of the steamship Blakely outfitted here by a salvaging company for the Louisiana project. They understood, they said, the vessel was not to sail until tomorrow, but that while they were at work in the hold the craft got under way. When they remonstrated with the captain, they continued, he refused to pay any attention to them and they jumped.

The tug which picked them up reported the Blakely had signalled that three men listed neither as passengers nor crew had been discovered aboard and had dived overboard.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

FLYING SAILBOATS.

Flying bicycles—motorless airplanes propelled by pedal—may be the next sensation in aviation. This is predicted by Glenn Curtiss, who, with the Wright brothers, pioneered the airplane.

Curtiss says that the whole science of flying may be revolutionized by the recent gliding contests in Berlin. A glider is a flying machine without a motor. Most of the German gliders are motoplanes. In the Berlin contest, one glider remained in the air more than three hours.

Curtiss attaches great importance to the Berlin gliding successes because the real goal of aviators is to be able to fly like birds. The pilot of a glider is the closest approach yet to a "bird-man."

Everyone is asking: "What keeps the darned things aloft and what prevents their falling?" In a general way, a glider is a lot like a box-kite. The gliding machine, in leaving the ground and soaring into the air, takes off from a high place. A hillside is best, for air currents rising from the ground roll up a hillside like ocean waves up a cliff. Not as powerfully, but sufficient to lift the machine.

The glider travels ahead on air currents. It is like a sailboat on water. At first thought, it would seem that a gliding machine would have to flap its wings. Not so: It is like a gull, which glides in the air for hours with its wings practically motionless.

The German glider pilots are really air-sailors, adjusting the wings of their machines like changing the sails of a ship.

The big difficulty in air-gliding is that air currents change and as yet there is no way a flier can detect an air current until he is in it. Before man can fly like the bird he must develop an artificial substitute for the "air sense" that is part of the natural equipment of a bird.

Flying without a motor, however, will always depend more on the skill of the pilot than on the machine itself.

For practical purposes, the gliding principle may be best used in combination with motor airplanes, conserving power at intervals by shutting down the motor and letting the air currents do the work.

A TEST THAT WILL BE WELCOMED.

Home-owners generally will rejoice that a prompt test is to be made of the zoning ordinance recently enacted by the city council. If that ordinance will withstand the tests that the previous measure could not withstand, well and good; if it will not withstand them, and is held unconstitutional, the sooner a start is made toward re-shaping the constitution so that such laws can be passed, the better. It probably will not be necessary to amend the constitution, but if it is necessary in order to obtain protection for residential districts, it can be done.

"The most intelligent American no longer believes that the salvation of the country lies on an untrained democracy, and more and more the whole idea is gaining ground that the interest of the whole population rather than the 'rights' of individuals is the consideration that should govern public policy."

That is quoted from a recent issue of "World's Work" because it draws the line rather more clearly than any language of ours could draw it.

There must, of course, be some retail establishments in the residence areas; but to allow them to be placed indiscriminately and without any regard for the good of the city as a whole is to sacrifice every other consideration to the one consideration of an individual's supposed rights.

CITY BOOBS IN THE COUNTRY.

Material damage was suffered last week by ranchmen of Archer county, due to grass fires started by careless campers. Some antelopes, through ignorance or indifference, perhaps, left a few live coals in the breakfast fire, a puff of wind blew some sparks into dry grass, and the damage was started.

The city man who grins at the rural aspect and manners of the farmer who comes to town can, in his turn, act ten times as much of a damned fool when he himself gets out into the country; the worst of it is, he's not only a damned fool, but a damaging fool, and somebody has a bill to pay after he has given full rein to his ignorance, his thoughtlessness and his childishness.

He will indulge in soul-satisfying abuse of the farmer who permits the roads to become rough and rutty, and then, ere the day is over, will cause that farmer an actual monetary loss many times larger enough to repair the road damage.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

IT SHALL BE DONE.

I know of a man whose favorite phrase, when a request was made of him, was: "It shall be done." And it was usually done, too. His mind and make-up were schooled toward getting things done.

Your accomplishments take upon themselves a color—the color of your thoughts!

The very first process in getting things done is to think that you can do them. The next step is to put legs and arms and eyes and fingers to work to back this thought of yours.

The inspiring figures of the world are those who believe that the things they want can be done. Then they say to themselves: It shall be done.

Lieut. Rowan, who took the message to Garcia, merely listened to instructions, saluted and then delivered the message. He didn't ask where he might find General Garcia; or whether it would be a long journey—or one filled with difficulties or dangers. He didn't ask for "expense money" or an "advance in salary." He said nothing of the sort. But in his heart he told himself that it should be done. And it was!

Only the other day, the congress of the United States rewarded this brave officer with a promotion that he should have had years ago. But this is in line with history. The world's great men are not taken care of very well—until they are no more in flesh and blood.

Men's honors, however, are of little moment, whereas the living satisfaction of service well performed is a well of water springing up through the walls of one's heart to keep one's spirit fresh and vital so long as he shall breathe.

I like the spirit in a boy's camp which I am in the habit of visiting. The "Chief" asks a boy to do a certain thing. There is no questioning. The boy simply replies, "Check"—and then goes and does the thing he is told to do.

And he takes particular pride in being asked to render this service.

The next time you are asked to do anything do not question, do not whine, do not back-step—but in your heart, at least, reply: It shall be done!

JUST FOLKS

By Edgar A. Guest

LIFE TRIES OUT A LAD.

"He's handsome and he's clever, and his hand is touched with skill. His brain is quick in learning, but I've doubts about him still."

Said Life, "and so I'll test him," and he summoned Fortune grim.

And pointed out this eager and ambitious youth to him.

He winked his eye and whispered: "There's a boy I know is bright, But I wonder if he's manly and is brave enough to fight?"

Just knock down the thing he's building, wreck his youthful dream, and then

We'll see tomorrow morning if he starts it up again.

"I've let him be untroubled, for I rather like the boy. But the notion that I'm easy is a thought I must destroy. So block his way with danger, do the worst that you can do.

And I'll see if he is willing to stand up and fight with you."

Then Fortune came and tried him and he knocked his castle down, And he spilled his hopes in ruins and he mocked him in the town;

He sneered at him and peered him, but he found the younger game, For he answered each disaster with "I'll get there, just the same!"

Then Life called smiling Glory, and he said: "It's time to crown A man I have discovered, with the jewels of renown.

He has fought his way through failure, to his best he has been true— Now I know the stuff he's made of, and I know what he can do."

YOU AND I

FRIGOR.

Senator Capper tells about a certain make of bran, which wholesaler at $22 a ton and costs consumer $40 a ton when it reaches them in package form.

The manufacturer would tell you that he has to get the price to cover the high costs of marketing.

On a tonnage basis, steamships lost at sea are about 1 in 250 a year. The "dangerous" airplane!

The regular army has been out on an enlisted strength of 158,000. This is about 160,000 fewer than a year ago.

Until Europe gets the same idea through its congest head, it will continue sinking deeper in the mire.

Keg manufacturers say a great change is taking place in their industry. The popularity of the five-gallon keg seems to be on the wane.

Apparently last year's sample batch was satisfactory for the demand now for 10-gallon kegs, with 15 and 25-gallon sizes crowding Brother Tom.

The current sensation among home brewers is the use of whiskey barrel direct from bonded warehouses. Some experts say a whiff at the bung is worth the price of the barrel.

The home brewer, making beer and wine in his cellar, is technically as much a violator of the Volstead act as the bootlegger peddling "white milk."

The home brewer, of course, chloroforms his conscience by imagining that he operates under the wing of an unwritten law.

Wages of factory workers in New York state average $24.57 a week against $21.50 a week in Europe. Economists say that New York factory workers are better off than their counterparts in Europe. Are they right?

Manuel Herrick, one of the brainiest men in congress, changes his act. He attends a sale of surplus army supplies and buys 11 old airplanes at $160 apiece.

Recently he was defeated for re-nomination. As he retires to his Oklahoma farm, with his flying craft the country suffers an irreparable loss—something really interesting in congress. It takes personality to attract attention in a dull environment.

Some big national movements go doggedly ahead, indifferent to temporary industrial setbacks. For instance, the good roads program.

Around 600 miles of highway a month are being built with the aid of the national government.

Good roads, however, involve something more than mileage. The biggest good roads problem is the motor truck as large as a box car, destroyer of pavements.

Dust and Disease

By DR. R. H. BISHOP

If you have ever looked at dust through a microscope you undoubtedly realize its danger as a disease carrier.

In addition to germs, it may contain tiny solids that scratch and tear the lungs and respiratory tract, as well as other substances that may poison and produce disease in the system.

The analysis of dust discloses such things as bits of hair, parts of dead flies, grains of sand, fragments of wood and paper, pieces of string and of finger nails, shreds of leather and rags, horsehair, straw and tufts of fur.

Imagine breathing all this into your lungs!

Dust is held responsible for many cases of tuberculosis. Drying kills the germs but not those of tuberculosis.

Sunlight is a cure for some germs but it cannot be depended upon always.

The shaking of carpets is a great menace to health. The rug is gradually replacing the tacked down carpet but some people still stick to the latter. In such cases, the carpet is taken up and shaken once or twice a year at house cleaning time. Nevertheless, they retain quantities of dirt and, incidentally, many germs. Even in homes where the most cleanly habits prevail, sneezing and coughing may infect the carpets, or dirt from the street or back yard may be tracked into the house on shoes.

Bacteria in the air are not necessarily harmful, yet great accumulations of them on fruit or foods are liable to prove a serious menace to health, and it is here the danger lies. Care should be taken to guard foods from dust and street filth.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY.

Today's word is—Incommunicado.

It's pronounced—sen-to-moon-ikah-doo, with accent on the fifth syllable.

It means—out off from communication, and a adopted recently into newspaper English, invariably applies to police detention of a prisoner who has denied the privilege of communication with friends, counsel or others except those interested in the case against him.

It was "lited" bodily from the Spanish, "incomunicado," meaning "isolated," or "without communication."

It's used like this—"The holding by the police of unconvicted prisoners incommunicado (often incorrectly spelled 'incommunicado'), while long practiced in Latin countries, is in gross violation of the captives' rights in all lands where Anglo-Saxon law prevails."

MRS. MINERVA BASKERVILLE DIES AT HOME IN VERNON

VERNON, TEXAS, Sept. 7.—Mrs. Minerva Baskerville, 83, wife of R. H. Baskerville of this city, died at the family residence Sunday morning following a brief illness. Funeral services were held at the local church of Christ Monday morning and were conducted by Thomas E. Millholland, pastor. Burial was in East View cemetery.

Mrs. Baskerville was a resident of Vernon for nearly 40 years, having come here in 1885. She was the mother of ten children, six of whom are living. Three sons were killed in 1918 when in company with three other boys, they were suffocated when a cave which they had dug on the bank of Peace river collapsed and buried them alive.

WELL, HERE WE ARE AT THE THREE-QUARTER POST

RESURRECTION ROCK

By Edwin Palmer

(Continued from Wednesday.) "He had a bear," he wanted to say. "I was a humble man; I took fish on books and in nets."

"Barney wrote out his next question before saying it aloud: 'What do you think of my noggan?' but the certainty that he was not was never clearer to her than now.

"I know now why grandfather feared the Rock all these years, Barney; it was for fear you'd come back! That's why the house was built and left to wait; for you!"

"But this which we learned to-night, Barney, helps a lot; your mother came—with you," she added gently, as she showed them beyond St. Florentin. In April—the moon of the breaking snows—she repeated the poetry of the Indian phrase, 'Come you may as well call him that-took her in his boat across the channel to Resurrection Rock where he and his wife took care of her. They were born there; in September your

"When she went away, he meant?" "Then when did she come?" "In the moon of the breaking snows."

"What year?" "The medium made no direct answer; but after a pause the voice continued: 'He says that all summer she fed the at her breast till she went sick again. He says that you that she said when she went away, she surely would return. He says, 'There I lived until water from again. He says, 'But no 'Where did you go?' Barney cried quickly, as the medium's picture changed from her, as surprisingly as they had come, were the slight motions of her hands, the jerks and mannerisms which had characterized the absence of 'control.' Mrs. Davol slowly sat upright and gazed dully about like an ordinary, over-fed woman making an attempt at the presence of a recognized her callers.

"Well, dearie," she said at last to Ethel. "Did you get satisfied? Was that good result?" Ethel realized, with a gasp, that the seance was over.

"You think we'd better have Kinchelo arrested," Ethel asked Barney when she returned home.

"I'd like to know what he's doing now," Barney said.

"Oh, Bennett's told me. He's having his sort of a fast time. That part of Chicago's called, by people who go there, 'Little Paris.' But no one came back to me then that I—"

"What, Barney?" "That I might have been born on the Rock, Miss Carew."

"Barney," Ethel rebuked him by his own name gently. "Barney," "You can't want me to call you—"

"Ethel!" he said, hardly whispering it; but she heard. "Ethel!" he clenched his hands behind him, and she stepped further back. "That's the way I was born, I believe!"

"Let's believe it, Barney!" "Miss Carew!"

"I don't mind believing it, Barney! It doesn't change you! Except to make you finer!"

"Because you've had to do it all yourself! Don't you see how I—"

"How do you mean?" he asked quickly.

"You must be. We both of us know together that my people—my grandfather and my uncle, at least—tried to burn you. Not to burn you; perhaps; but they saw that Quinlan was killed before he could find you. Why? You hadn't done anything to any of my family; you hadn't even heard of them before you met me. It was what you were—because you were that baby born on the Rock; and they knew it."

"I said you might be—any one!" she recalled, gazing up at him with eyes sufficed wet. "You are not just not just an outcast born in an Indian their rapture. She wanted him near now; she wanted his arms about her, his strength soothing her, overpowering and holding her; and what she delighted too in his courtly awe of her when he had kissed her hands and released her, catching his breath, afeared more than that.

"I've never—," he said, "I've never had anything like that before."

"Nor I, Nor I," Ethel cried; she caught his hands now and held him before her.

"You'd not? All the men in the world must have loved you, Ethel, the moment they caught sight of you."

"And the women, you! Yet you didn't care until you saw me! Not even abroad, Barney, in England and France were girls—"

"He gazed steadily into her eyes, knowing what she would not, and yet wished to ask. Had he been, even without love, another girl's?"

"There are some advantages in being brought up in an Indian shack, Ethel," he said. "They've only one room often, you know; with sometimes two families or three; and lots of human kind, but when you learn to turn you straight either one way or the other; it turned me to look for you; and to wait till I'd found you."

She bent down and kissed his fingers; so he arose and drew her up with him. For a few moments he held her against him with her bosom trembling on his throbbing breast; then, slipping his arms lower, he lifted her and, laughing at her quiver under his strength, he strode with her a few steps and catching her higher, he brought his lips to her.

Bennet, having gone directly home from Scott street, had found his grandfather still up and reading.

"Well! Look down at that! Trusting his fingers through his thick hair, as he looked up when Bennet entered, "Where have you been this fine evening?"

Bennet proceeded to relate all incidents in order except for the mention of his grandfather's name. He mentioned "J. Q." Being aware that any reference to Quinlan was unpleasant to his grandfather, Bennet made the most of his grandfather's description of the other "acts" before he told about the spook who had displayed a capital J. and Q.

This evoked from his grandfather a different quality of attention, but there was no distinct alteration in Lucas' attitude until Bennet related how the medium had said that the spirit had raised a flaming torch and associated the torch with the word Gallies.

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTE BOOK

By LEE PAPE

This afternoon my tooth started to hurt fierce again and I quick went around to the dentist and sat down in the waiting room and the dentist went back out between the curtains saying, 'All right, Benny. III see you as soon as I get throo with this lady, does it hurt much?'

"Wuf! I sat there holding it and wishing he would hurry up and get throo with the lady, and another lady came in and she went in and the dentist and I started to feel a little better, and the dentist came out with a little red hotted lady saying, 'All right, Benny, I'll see you afternoo at 3, now Benny step right in.'

This lady can go in first if she wants to, I see.

Well what a perfect little gentleman, I am rather in a hurry as a matter of fact, the lady sed. ## Sam Patch's Fatal Whistle

"Every time he'd draw back to whistle, his lips would stretch so's he couldn't pucker."

By MAURICE MORRIS.

"NOW, don't misunderstand me," said the man from Longeddy.

"Not with that voice, unless a body's deaf," said old man Ketchum, reaching back under the counter for another walnut and breaking it with his bootheel.

"Don't misunderstand me when I say Sam Patch was a tree-climbin' dog. I don't mean he clumb a tree like a bear would. Tree climbin' is a gift, just like—"

"Gah," said old man Ketchum. "Just like political speakin', or, say, hog raisin'." said the man from Longeddy. "Now, for instance, you take a couple o' Poland China girls from the same litter, and at the end of a couple of years one of 'em, the one that belongs to the man with the gift, will be farrowin' the best and biggest litters in the township, while the other won't even—

"I kin prove by a dozen witnesses," yelled old man Ketchum, "that the hawg I got from Obed Miles had a vice from the very beginnin'." "No, it was gift, as I say," continued the man from Longeddy, "and what Sam Patch was able to do in the tree climbin' line he learned by hard work and trainin'."

"Chazy Smoot, who owned the dog when I used to live up in Ulster county, used to say he never would of warts stickin' out, and the first crotch only maybe six foot, or to be strictly ackrit—

"Huh," said old man Ketchum. "Six foot six from the ground. This Sam Patch was almighty fond of walnuts. Queer taste, maybe, but he was, and in the fall he'd spend most of his spare time hangin' round under that tree. One day Chazy was coming round the corner of the barn when he saw the dog scramblin' down from the crotch with a walnut in his teeth, which he crunched and et soon as he was on the ground. Chazy didn't think no more about it at the time, so he afterwards told me, but when the same thing happened again he began to take notice, and one day just thing he knew, he caught Sam Patch scramblin' up the trunk to get at a walnut that had lodged in the crotch. Held on to the knob on the trunk, he did, and aided by the angle of it, he managed after some slippin' and aildin' to get up and get the nut."

"Well, after that Chaz spent most of his noonings tossin' walnuts into the crotch for the dog to climb for, and Sam Patch got better and better at the game. Chazy used to time him in the beginnin', but Sam Patch got so he beat the watch. Claws got longer and I reckon the muscles in the toes and forelegs got so developed he didn't need the knob on the trunk to help. Then Chazy began tryin' him on other trees not so easy, and well, to make a long story short—

"Huh!" grunted old man Ketchum. "By next spring Sam Patch could climb the tallest and straightest tree on the place—it you'd give him time to do it. He had to have a walnut every time before he'd start though. Seemed to get fonder and fonder of them the more he et of 'em. His teeth got wore down almost to the quick from scrunchin' the shells, all except two front teeth, an upper and a lower, that got kind of pushed out of place when he first began. Reckon they must have come down on a stone or sompthin'. Anyway, they was never any good after that. Well, I oughtn't hardly to say that, either. In fact, far from it, because—"

"What breed of dog was he?" said Lufe Uphaw.

"Pug mostly," said the man from Longeddy. "One of them brownish bunchy dogs with a mashed nose and a pig tail that used to be so common, but you don't hardly ever see now-a-days. Sam Patch was pretty big for a pug though, and I always thought he must have had some bull in him, too."

"Guess he did," said old man Ketchum. "Fish, hen, beh!"

"Well, people used to come from all over that end of Ulster county to see

"Finally Chazy's wife had to take to feedin' him soft stuff with a spoon."

"Whistlin'!" snorted old man Ketchum.

"Whistlin' away like a 10-year-old boy with his hands in his pockets. Only more solemn, though. Seemed to know it was Sunday. Well, I rushed out to the gate, nat'rally—"

"Huh!" said old man Ketchum. "To see if there wasn't no some mistake; but there wasn't. Chazy said he first noticed the trait after a night that dog climb trees, and set got to be a regular nuisance. Finally when the summer boarders began to flock in crowds got so thick Chazy said they interfered with the work to such an extent wain't no use tryin' to keep on, so he closed up the house for the summer and him and his wife and Sam Patch went on an automobile trip to the far West. Plenty of money he had, and could well afford it.

"They didn't get back till late summer. Come drivin' along past my place late one Sunday afternoon with this dog I'm tellin' you about sittin' on the back seat whistlin'—"

In the foothills of the Rocky Mountains. Got caught in the open, him and his wife, and spent the night at the foot of a curus mound that was there. Well, Mrs. in the morning, Chazy said, that mound was alive with little fat animals making a noise like a hundred peanut roasters in the city, and Sam Patch frolickin' round in the midst of 'em. Whistlin' marmots, they call them, or some such name. Anyway, they'd taught that dog to whistle through them 'two proctin' front teeth of his, and bein' a persistent critter, he practiced so that when he got back home he sounded like the circus steam plunger a piece down the road.

"You can get to be too all-fired smart, though, as that dog found out to his sorrow."

"How was that?" said Lufe Whalley.

"Well, Chazy Smoot's next neighbor was Ernestout Finch, that I guess I've mentioned before, and Ernie's house was close to the line fence. This Sam Patch took to whistlin' solo under their windows in the early mornin' (that's when he'd gen'rally do his whistlin') till the Finches couldn't sleep any more. Didn't do no good to kick. Chazy was too proud of Sam Patch to step him, and he never ventured over the fence."

"Well, it wasn't ever easy to get ahead of Ernie. He thought and thought—and finally some bundles come to him from Washington—the Agricultural Department, I guess—and he holds him a greenhouse on a small scale. First thing you know, next spring Ernie had a row of dwarf lemon trees in full bloom set out along his line."

"Lemons git handed out in this State, but none grow on trees," said old man Ketchum.

"Special hardy variety they was," said the man from Longeddy, "and I did hear Burbank was mighty proud of 'em. Ernie give 'em southern exposure and built wind breaks of poplars, but I must say the fruit didn't amount to much. All wrinkled up and meechy lookin', it was, but it did the trick. Whist you could see that dog in front of 'em. Seemed to start of fascinate him so he couldn't stay away. Every time he'd draw back to whistle his lips would sort of fold up and stretch back so's he couldn't pucker. Why, after a while it got so they held his teeth from comin' together even—dissee they call lockjaw reverse. I think it is. He couldn't do his walnut crackin' stunt, couldn't eat meat even. Finally Chazy's wife had to take to feedin' him soft stuff with a spoon. Well, Sam Patch kept gettin' weaker and weaker, so's he couldn't get so far as the line fence, and he lay most of the time under the old walnut tree. They found him there dead one mornin'."

"Killed?" asked Lufe Uphaw.

"Yup," said the man from Longeddy. "He'd found an old maul an' contrived to get it in his mouth an' then couldn't manage it. It had choked him to death."

"I wish," said old man Ketchum, scrapping his chair, "I wish there was something that would choke a body that had vice vandy lockjaw."

Art and Other Things

By JOHN K. MUMFORD.

THE strange part of it was that the little mouse-like woman who was examining the Chippendale armchair with such patient care, came from Chicago. At last she restored the Chippendale to its four legs and came over to where the dealer, in his best and sincerest manner, was discoursing on the temptation so many people felt to imitate Botticelli. In her smile there was the unmistakable glint of triumph.

"Well," she said, "that's almost good enough to deceive anybody, isn't it?"

To be a dealer in antiques a man must have not only a deal of knowledge—and perhaps a monodie—but a hair-trigger sense of when to abandon the "mental reservation." It didn't take this Parisian a decimal of a second. He grinned and shook his head.

"It even deceived me. I picked it up in a little shop in the East End of London and brought it home, bruisin' and all, for a model. I didn't know till we began to take it apart in the shop that it was made in a London factory and wasn't more than ten years old."

A stupid man would have sworn the thing was genuine and with ninety-nine Americans out of a hundred would have got away with it, for in the complex American psychology nothing is more conspicuous than the national inability to detect the spurious in art. The captain of industry who can dissect a financing proposition and in fifteen minutes put his finger on the flaw in it will fill his living room with Jacobean furniture and tell his neighbors with honest and business pride what English castle it came from.

This racial faculty for being bunched when it comes to art has given rise to a colossal industry of imitation abroad and kept a stupendous burden of "fake" art pouring into American ports for many years. The average American who gets bitten on agriculture or horse racing or yachting or some other costly hobby, writes it off and quits. Thereafter he is a burnt child. But to buy a bogus Merillio—and find it out—only spurs him to new enterprises in art.

Corsets Made for $15.

Every little while some bad loser makes a fuss about a shan picture or a doctored rug or an ingenious imitation of some old enamel—and the fat is in the fire. The noise of his doing echoes around the world. The iniquities of art faking Europe are thereby known of all men—and promptly forgotten. They never will learn. When Madame Choubler a little while ago protested the flooding of the Paris market with forged pictures bearing the name of her father, the famous Eugene Carriere, there was some excuse. Paris admitted that. But when Mr. Thomas Knock—an American whose name is almost inspirationally apt—turns France upside down because forty-three of his collection of 107 paintings are pronounced spurious the French think he is one bete Americain, some d'us pipe, and is not playing the game.

Nevertheless that beautiful Paris, with the American tourist business shrinking anyway, puts on a face of righteousness and raids a lot of studios in the Montparnasse quarter. Oh, la-la! What a discovery! The "faking" of antiques is actually an industry. Penniless painters hired by a sinful syndicate are painting Corots and Daubignys and Van Dycks at from $15 to $50 apiece, to be sold to the American tourists. Quel horreur! This discovery is made not much oftener than once in five years, but the intervals are filled with thriving industry. It is easily smoothed over. The maker of picture, table, vase or whatever it be denies any intent to deceive, and passes the "buck" to the dealer, who simply retires behind his smoke screen till the rumpus is over. The whole brotherhood knows that the American will come back. There is a new millionaire born every minute, and they all must learn. What the antique manufacturers of Europe depend on is that vanity is the greatest American trait and that the victim will pocket his loss rather than let Main Street find out that Paris or Florence or London beat him at getting up in the morning.

Until now they have guessed right. Witness the figures in the Government reports of imports. They show that in 1913 over $21,000,000 worth of "art" works over one hundred years of age were admitted from France free of duty and more than $24,000,000 from England. When you stop to think that this importation has been going on for a lifetime and that all these things—if genuine—were the product of hand labor—the light begins to filter in. Since 1913 from these two countries alone $20,000,000 more has come in, and America has gobbled it up and been proud of it. Altogether the world has sold us $100,000,000 of these pretty things in six years, and had been at it for forty years before that.

Aided by the Tariff.

But that isn't the funny part. It is far more amusing and instructive to know that in this same period France shipped to us just $20,446 of art works that were admitted to be less than a hundred years old and that, therefore, paid duty to Uncle Sam; and England shipped $350,515 worth. In the face of such figures you simply have to take off your hat to the patient and meticulous artist of bygone days, whose work survives after a steady outflow for fifty years and in spite of war, fire, flood, earthquake and the tooth of time in such a measure that you can't help but be proud of the modern workman who, machinery and all, can only dispose to the best customer in the world of such a piddling bill of goods. The Payne-Aldrich tariff, inspired by a desire to foster the spirit of art in this land of the free, has been the best friend the artists and artisans of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries ever had. It has saved them 60 per cent, right straight along.

But something or other—perhaps it is the soldier bonus casting its shadow before—has of late given birth to a spirit of unbelief in the custom houses. In Philadelphia the examiner of "antique art" comes out flat footed with the statement that from 50 to 75 per cent. of these ancient masterpieces are "fakes." The New York Custom House people are more credulous. The best guess they can make at the proportion of "antiques" that they insist were made within a century is 30 per cent, which means that of the endless stream of hopeful and tremulous importers who file in at the doors of the Appraiser's Stores in Washington street 30 per cent. come out again looking as if they'd lost their grandmothers.

And they "point with pride," these censors of the modern, to the fragmentary remains of a huge prismatic chandelier brought over by a very rich New York woman and invoiced as "over one hundred years old." There is a lean philosopher in the Appraiser's Stores who knows glass. He said it was new and assessed $1,750 duty on it. The fur flew, but the appraisers were obdurate. Experts were brought to overwhelm them and every man jack of them said the chandelier was made day before yesterday. The expertization cost the owner $400 and all the fun she got out of it was in smashing the "antique" into a million pieces. That was part of the 30 per cent.

Safety Is Easy.

But how is the buyer to know? Let him ask any of our reputable dealers and he'll get the answer:

"If you don't know hire your expert before you buy."

I found a Fifth Avenue dealer who had this to say:

"Who's to blame? The people of the United States for the last thirty years at least have been antique mad. As soon as they get money they wanted atmosphere—a perfectly fine and legitimate craving—what? They insisted on antiques, and they simply wouldn't believe you when you told them the things they wanted didn't exist outside of a few museums or old palaces and churches in Europe. Good Lord, every place that harbored an old work of art was combed years ago. The real things are almost all located. But new money couldn't believe there was anything out of its reach. If somebody wants the moon and there aren't moons enough to go round what are you going to do? If you've got any sense at all you'll start a moon factory and you'll turn out a line of moons made of the best green cheese you can find."

"A man whose domestic affairs had slivered sent me all his house furnishings to sell, and he had real ones. He wanted a quick clean up. I had a customer for a big Spanish sixteenth century rug. I showed him a perfect marvel of a piece that had come from this house. He raved over it for half an hour and asked me the price. The greatest bargain I ever sold, says I, $2,000.

"I'm sorry," says he; "it's beautiful but I'm afraid it isn't good enough." He went up the street and paid $25,000 for one that didn't compare with it. He was happy. He wanted to impress his friends. Look at the 'old' English interiors. There was a firm in England that made no end of 'em. A lot of their work was shipped over here—old castles, what?

"To get the scars of age on that stair they had a lot of Johnnies marching up and down it for days in hobnailed boots and with big swords to bang the banisters."

3200-BARREL DROP IN OIL PRODUCTION SHOWN BY REPORT

The week's runs from the north and central Texas district total 136,000 barrels, a drop of 3,200 barrels from the previous week. All the bigger production centers showed a decrease with the exception of the Ranger and Midland counties. Ranger's drop of 1,000 barrels daily, lack of water and the shutting down of many leases being the major causes for the week's decline. Following is the production by field:

Fort Worth district: 136,000 barrels. Ranger: 15,000. Midland: 12,000. Young county: 10,000. Stephens county: 8,000. Ranger-Midland: 11,000. Pioneer, Eastland county: 11,000. Murray: 9,000. Moran - Brown - Coleman: 1,100. Total for week, bbls.: 136,000

RINGLING BROTHERS BARNUM AND BAILEY CIRCUS ON SEPT. 26

Advertising car No. 1 arrived in the city today with a corps of 25 men in charge of George Goodheart, well known outdoor publicity specialist.

W. L. Wilkin, the first arrival of the circus agents, is calling on the newspapers, and once again the glad tidings are being spread broadcast telling of the coming of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus. The circus, it is announced, will positively be exhibited here on Tuesday, September 26.

It is promised that nothing to compare with the present Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey performance has ever before been seen under canvas. Exhibited in the circus, it is announced, will positively be exhibited here on Tuesday, September 26.

Europe has contributed its best circus features. More than 200 marvellously trained Hungarian stables, groups of performing wild animals, including African lions, the largest Bengal tigers ever exhibited in America, black panthers, trained polar bears and edentate leopards are among the new features. Thirty-two distinct acts were imported for this year's show, and each is a feature in itself. Rudolph Matheis, Mable Stark, Olga Calista, Christian Schroder and others enter steel-headed arenas and twice daily defy death at the claws and fangs of jungle beasts. For the lovers of horseflesh the circus is a continued inspiration and delight. Famous trainers and riders such as Adolph Hess, Mannel Herzog, the Helfenrath, Mrs. Bradna, the Rooney-More troupe, the Torvelles, the Tarneffe, the Braasies, the Sevillas, Joe Dagombi, Rudolph Meyer, Miss Lillian Compton and others exhibit the finest trained horses ever seen in America.

The aerial and acrobatic section of the program is not slighted, for deputy Lillian Leiton, who turns her acrobatics from the end of a rope while suspended far above the heads of spectators; the Clarksons, the Negrist-Silbon troupe, the Dakotas, the "Yahar" troupe; head balancers from Spain, acrobats from Italy, tumblers from Arabia lead a list that completely fills the three rings and elevated stages, together with the myriad of mid-air contrivances. Trained dogs, bears that shake, educated apes and pigeons, battalions of elephants, some with pretty girl trainees, acrobats and high school pigs never fail to delight the youngsters.

The clown contingent is larger than ever before, with new stunts, quips and jests. In the menagerie department it is said that the first born in captivity: litters of young lions and tiger whelps in all the finest display under the Ringling banner.

Miss Anna Belle Parquhar will open her kindergarten and primary school Monday, September 11, at 11th and Heights. Baptist. Phone 5129-Ady.

NEGRESS DIDN'T WANT HUSBAND TO LEAVE, KILLS HIM

"If you starts for town any mo', you shud an goin' to stay put," "These were the words Willie Anderson, negro, said she told her husband, Arthur Anderson, Wednesday night just before he made his third attempt to leave the house to go to town.

She told officers that he disregarded her threat of being made to "stay put" and as he started out the door she shot him. Neighbors who heard the shot ran to the servant's house to find the negro dead.

City officers arrived on the scene within a few minutes after the shooting which occurred at 9 o'clock. The negro was walking for them. She turned over the .33 caliber revolver and surrendered. She was placed in the county jail and Thursday morning she appeared before the assistant district attorney.

She told the officers that when her husband started to leave the house at the rear of 1665 Eleventh street earlier in the evening she asked him not to leave. This led to words, she said, and later when he made the second attempt he struck her in the face. Thursday morning she showed evidence that her face had come in contact with something as it was bruised and badly swollen.

When her husband made the third attempt she said she carried out her threat and shot Negro state that the four shots were fired at 8:45. According to the officers, the bullets used were loaded ones.

MERCURY ASCENDS TO THREE POINTS ABOVE 100 LEVEL

Cooler weather is not in sight yet. Wednesday afternoon the mercury ascended to the 103 degree point, reaching that level at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. It receded slowly throughout the evening and night and at the close of the day it stood at 86 degrees just before sunrise Thursday morning.

Agents north and west on the North plains reported partly cloudy skies Friday Thursday morning. Locally cloudy were visible on the horizon but not so sufficient as to indicate the correct hue to indicate that rain could be expected.

A light wind from the south was blowing early in the morning but the effect was in the minority when the sun came out in full way.

SCHOOL CHAIRMAN STARTS PLANS FOR EXHIBIT AT FAIR

Plans for a large and representative school exhibit at the Texas-Oklahoma fair were set on foot Wednesday afternoon when R. H. Johnson, chairman of the educational department, met with a number of superintendents and principals attending the institute here.

Mr. Henry has appointed Superintendent Clark, County Superintendent Bryant and Superintendent Woodward of Burk Burnett as a committee to help him in arranging the exhibit. This committee will meet at the Wichita club at 1 p. m. Friday to get its plans under way.

FATHER OF JUDGE FELDER AND DR. W. H. FELDER IS DEAD AT GALVESTON

Judge C. B. Felder and Dr. W. H. Felder, left Wednesday afternoon for Galveston at 1:30. Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Felder was 82 years of age on September 2, and had been a resident of Washington county, Texas, since he was a young man. He left surviving a wife and several children and grandchildren.

Mr. Felder made investments in both city and rural property, only disposing of his interests a few years ago after his sons had moved to this city and become identified with its institutions.

FRANK KELL TO BE CHIEF SPEAKER AT "REVIVAL" LUNCH

Frank Kell will be the principal speaker at the "revival" luncheon to be held September 16, it was announced Thursday at chamber of commerce offices.

In view of the fact that only 250 of the members of the chamber of commerce can be accommodated at the luncheon, it is requested that all who expect to attend make their reservations before next Thursday at noon. The price will be one dollar the plate.

The meeting is expected to result in the outlining of a definite civic program for the fall and winter months.

BUSINESS COUNCIL WILL PERFECT ARRANGEMENTS FOR COUNTY FAIR VISITS

Perfecting of arrangements for automobile trips to take the northward Texas and south west Oklahoma will be the principal business before the weekly luncheon of the chamber of commerce business council at the Kemp at noon Friday.

Indications are that this city will be well represented at practically all the fairs within reasonable touring distance. The West Texas fair at Abilene will be visited via train, it being planned to send a special Pullman load from here.

THE SCIENTIFICALLY BUILT WATCH

Waltham Ten Lines
14K green or yellow gold case. Cal. No. 1053
Price $17.00

Much in Little

LADIES love a small watch, but there are many thousands of small watches that should be called bracelets. They look like watches, but are strangers to ticking time.

It costs a lot more to make a small watch than a large one. And Waltham Watches are made to tell the time for a life-time.

Therefore, this little lady's wrist watch at $17.00 is an investment in beauty and service that is unequalled.

It comes in a green or yellow gold case. It is made with that care for which Waltham is famous. It is a lovely little gift to give your dear ones or to give to yourself.

Ask your jeweler to show it to you. He knows what a dependable watch it is. You will be charmed with it.

Write for a valuable booklet that is a liberal "Watch" education. Send free upon request: The Waltham Watch Company, Crescent Street, Waltham, Mass.

SPECIAL SIX TOURING

WHEREVER you look, you will find protection against hard wear built into the Studebaker Special-Six and this quality of construction is just as exacting down under the surface as it is where you can see every detail.

The skillful workmanship and the fine materials of these hidden values are largely responsible for its long-lived dependable service.

Two important elements that make the Special-Six notable for fine performance and comparative freedom from repair, are the four-bearing crankshaft and the seven-inch frame with its five cross-members and sub-frame supporting the motor and the separate transmission.

The new price, $1275, is the lowest for which the Special-Six Touring Car ever sold—and the quality is better than ever. Price does not always determine value, but in the case of Studebaker it establishes the finest values in the market. The name Studebaker on your car insures satisfaction.

Come in or phone and let us give you a demonstration in the Special-Six. Drive it yourself. A ride will help you make up your mind. In public confidence and respect, the name Studebaker stands higher than ever.
