WILDCAT TESTS IN 2 FIELDS PROMISE NEW DEVELOPMENTS

SOUTH BEND AND ELECTRA GET OUTSIDE WELLS DURING PAST WEEK.

WATER SITUATION IS SHOWING IMPROVEMENT

Improvement in Activity is Seen at Electric: Good Completions in Archer.

Last week brought forth several new developments in this district, especially in the Wichita and Towson country, ponds. Good completions were reported from the Archer, Electra and Herron ponds and production for the entire district showed an increase of over 2,000 barrels since the figures of the previous week.

The outstanding features were the Hemphill well on the Corbett tract, making 2,000 barrels in the South-Bend field, and the piking up of the 1900 foot sand by the Grayson Oil company at Archer, which may add a big territory to the producing area of the south field. The test is located in the location of the Waggoner tract, about two miles west and the same distance from any other well producing from this depth. The top of the sand was encountered at 1841 feet, showing considerable oil casing. It has been set and the sand will be produced through a 2 1/2 inch well. A thorough test was made one week in this field were three by the Texas company on their Waggoner tract, all in the 1900-foot sand. Nos. 239 and No. 240 are making 50 barrels each and the company also finished No. 237 on the Morris survey with a production of 25 barrels from the sand at 1815.

On the L. F. Douglas land east of town, the Gulf Production company is preparing to drill in its west on the north part of the lease and has set casing on the 1900-foot sand. John O'Neil also finished a good well in his No. 4 on the Rib Bravo tract of the Waggoner and reported good for 250 barrels from the 1900 foot stratum. Many tests which have been forced to shut down drilling operations on account of the water shortage are making arrangements to resume work, a supply of water being furnished in the south field by the completion of the Stephens and new line. Several locations have been made and a number of companies are hauling material to the locations and general preparation of all kinds of work is seen in all parts of the territory south of town.

Two Archer Completions. The county furnished two completions during the week. The Archer No. 1, in the Stephens and line, is producing 250 barrels and completed their No. 1 on the L. F. Gosz tract in the sand at 1800 feet. It is reported to be making 100 barrels. The company has made location for their second test on this tract.

To the south the Texas company completed their No. 4 on the Chance lease last week for 150 barrels, is drilling No. 1 and No. 2. The former is down to 1815 and the latter has reached the depth of 800 feet. The Texoma company also showing a great deal of activity on their properties in this county. The Wilson and Goss leases. Production during the week from the county reached nearly 1,000 barrels. Stephens and Eastland. The Stephens and Eastland. The Stephens and Eastland. The Stephens and Eastland.

Wildcat at South Bend. The week's activity in the south county was furnished by the completion of the No. 1 well of the Hemphill on the Corbett tract. This well is producing 2,000 barrels and one-half mile southeast of the town of South Bend with an estimated production of 2,500 to 3,000 barrels from a sand at 6,000 to 6,100 feet. The well was drilled by the Hemphill Oil company which was accompanied by 15,000,000 feet of gas quickly filled the 500 barrel tank which was all the available storage at hand and the latest reports is flowing in the slush pit. The well is located in the R. J. Scott survey and in the northwest corner of the Corbett ranch.

From present indications the well is the biggest producer brought in from this section of the county since the completion of the big gusher by the North American company on the J. J. Scott land a few months ago which made a spectacular flow of 200 barrels daily.

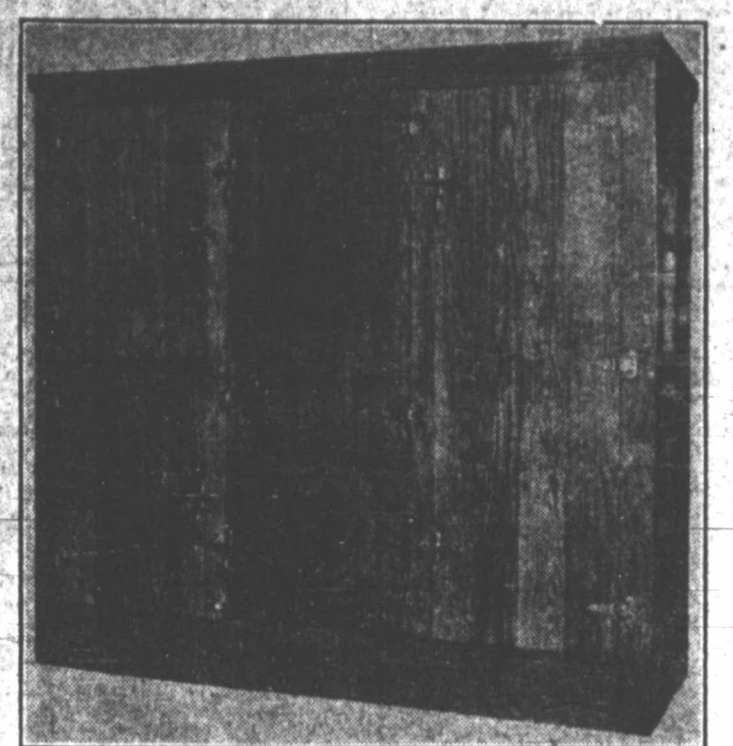

By the finishing of this well the deep pay is extended about one and one-half miles to the south. Many things of interest happened in the Herron City field during the week. Possibly the most important of these was the bringing in of the Tyrrell corporation's river bed well for better than 200 barrels when the sand was topped at 2,226 feet. The well looks good for 600 or 700 barrels when finished. It is in one location east from the original Burton & Hopper river bed well which came in last week. Tyrrell Oil corporation is drilling another river bed well east of this one to the east head of the Brasos river, while the Associated Oil Syndicate is drilling between the two, making in all four river bed wells in the Herron district. It will be recalled that these wells are on state land and that the revenue derived from them in the way of royalties, goes to the state school fund.

REFRIGERATOR BUILT HERE HAS CAPACITY OF 600 POUNDS OF ICE

Above is shown a refrigerator built by the Knutson Vacuum Refrigerator company of this city for good for 100 barrels. Tyrrell Oil on the Williams found the pay at 2,217 feet. The well is now making 150 barrels of oil and 2,000,000 feet of gas from the top of the sand. It has all the ear marks of a good well when completed.

The Associated Oil Syndicate got the sand in their No. 2 Hughes at 2,317 feet. The well is now making 200 barrels of oil. Dudley Miller struck the top of the sand at 2,350 feet in his Hughes No. 1 west of Herron City. The well is spraying oil.

Wells & Spelling are rigging up on their No. 1, at Henry Chapel. This test will be directly north and across the river from the Pitzer & West well in Wild Bend, and since it will mark the trying out of new territory in this direction, it will be watched with special interest by operators in this field. Fultz & Albright are erecting a derrick on Carter No. 3 in Carter Bend, while Shepherd & Ligon are rebuilding rig on old Carter No. 1 (Hodges) in Carter Bend, which burned down some weeks ago when a pocket of gas was unexpectedly encountered at 1,445 feet.

The Texas Company Jake Jones No. 1 was given a thirty-quart shot which increased the flow to 100 barrels. This is the north offset to the big Hales-Moark well. Bond & Company No. 1 Long on the Bunker church lot is making 200 barrels. Fred Foster's Parson's No. 1 has been tubed and is thought to be good for 200 or 400 barrels. The Fred-Foster absorption plant at Bunker, eight miles south of Graham, is nearing completion. The Stephens and Eastland. The Stephens and Eastland.

Lamar Avenue Baptist. Mr. E. C. Gardner, pastor of the U. director, will speak at the morning hour, bringing a special message for the young people of the congregation. In the evening, Dr. E. C. Routh, editor of the Baptist Standard, will bring a special message for the church, making a special appeal for the 75 million campaign drive which is now in progress. The pastor, Rev. A. J. Holt, desires that each member of the church attend these services since they are of such vital importance.

367 Fire Alarms Thus Far in 1922, $195,000.00 Loss; Campaign Planned

October 2 to 9 has been designated by President Harding as national fire prevention week. Owing to the dates conflicting with those of the fair, no plans have been made for local observation of the event. In lieu of this fact the fire boys' popcorn carnival will begin October 9 with a fire prevention parade, including all the equipment of the four stations in the city; the public is asked to participate in this parade. In addition to this the department has secured several prominent speakers to address the citizens on fire prevention on that date. The carnival will be held at the lake and ample amusement will be provided. Proceeds of the festival will go to the firemen's relief fund.

Fire calls and losses this year have been unusually high. The department answered 267 calls during the first nine months of 1922 with losses amounting to $195,000. This number exceeds by over 100 calls the alarms of 1921 or the previous year. The average loss per alarm has been $532.66. In spite of a well equipped department and an efficient force, these losses will occur as long as the public is careless. According to a statement made by Chief McClure, 80 per cent of these fires are the result of carelessness. With the proper cooperation of the citizenry and attention to fire hazards, Mr. McClure believes, these figures can be reduced considerably.

CITY IMPROVEMENT BOND: ISSUES WIN AT SEYMOUR FRIDAY

SEYMOUR, TEXAS, Sept. 30.—City bond issues totaling $19,000 carried here Friday by overwhelming majorities and were apportioned as follows: Sixteen thousand dollars for sewer extension bonds received 246 votes to 49 against. Twenty-five thousand dollars of water bonds carried 224 to 40 against. Eight thousand park improvement bonds 204 to 69 against, and $40,000 for city hall and auditorium carried by 171 to 54 against. These bonds were successfully carried last July, but on account of irregularities in election orders it became necessary to resubmit under Friday's election.

FISHER COUNTY FARMER DIES RESULT INJURIES SUSTAINED WRESTLING

ABELINE, TEXAS, Sept. 30.—Jesse Randolph Cooper, 54, a young farmer of near Boley, Fisher county, died here this morning as a result of injuries received a week ago in a wrestling bout at a carnival at Rotan. He sustained an injury to the spinal column and was brought to a hospital here. He leaves a widow.

Made a Hit With Him

"My wife has taken your medicine and has been wonderfully benefited. For over four years she has had trouble with bloating and could scarcely eat any food because of this condition. Doctor's medicines did not help her and an operation was advised. Her brother, who is a druggist, sent her a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and it helped her at once. I cannot praise your medicine enough." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convalesce or money refunded. Mack Taylor and druggists everywhere.—Adv.

TAX PAYING WILL BEGIN ON MONDAY MORNING, OCT. 2

TAX COLLECTOR ANNOUNCES THAT ALL RECEIPTS ARE WRITTEN. ASSESSOR COMPLETES NEARLY ALL OF ROLLS

Any and All Taxes Will Be Taken and Receipts Issued, M. L. Tittle Announces.

The tax paying season opens Monday morning at 8 o'clock. Tax collector M. L. Tittle announces that he is in position to receive any and all taxes that property owners wish to pay. Practically all of the receipts for property taxes have been written and await the money. The tax assessor's office forces has practically completed the making of all the rolls but is still engaged in working in the 600s and ends that remain after the larger rolls are completed. The rolls this year were made by a combination typewriter and comptometer.

The tax paying season remains in effect until the last day of January and as is usually the case no rush in the payment of the taxes is anticipated until after the first of the new year.

However there is usually a scramble each year for the receipt of poll tax No. 1, a large number of local citizens making a bid for it. As has been the case heretofore, property tax payers can pay poll taxes without paying the property tax but this rule does not work reversed. It is an iron bound rule that when property tax is paid that the poll tax must be paid.

As was the case last year, two poll taxes are charged against each married man who pays a property tax and both of these must be paid. The rule that a husband can pay his wife's poll tax is vice versa is still in effect.

OLDEST DRUG STORE IN CITY BOUGHT BY A WELLINGTON MAN

H. T. THORNBERRY
Sale of the Miller Drug store, at Eighth and Ohio, by Harry T. Thornberry, who has been its proprietor for about 13 years, to J. O. Fisher of Wellington, Texas, was announced Saturday. Mr. Fisher will take charge of the store today. The consideration was $31,000. The deal involves the oldest drug store in Wichita Falls in point of continuous ownership. Mr. Thornberry having been proprietor of the store, in its present location, since 1910. Prior to becoming owner, he was employed in the store by the late Dr. H. L. Miller, who had established the store some years previous. Mr. Thornberry will continue a resident of Wichita Falls, having other interests here which will occupy his time. The new proprietor is no stranger to the drug business, having been owner of the Palace Drug store at Wellington for the past nine years. He recently disposed of his Wellin-

CANCELLATION OF JITNEY PERMITS IS FOUND NECESSARY

At a joint meeting of the city council, representatives of the chamber of commerce, fair association and service car drivers association Saturday it was decided that under the present ordinance the fair association had no authority to issue permits to drivers other than those bonded and licensed by the city.

The plan of allowing drivers to operate between the city and the fair grounds with only a fair association permit was seized to remedy an awkward situation, without question as to its legality, it was stated.

The bonded and licensed drivers brought the matter before the city officials and asked for a change in the plan. No agreement as to the fare for taxis running between the city and exposition grounds was reached.

WEATHERFORD, TEXAS, Sept. 28.—A contract for the shipment of 500 bales of cotton to Yokohama, Japan, direct from Weatherford, was recently signed by an agent of a Japanese firm with headquarters at Dallas, in this city. The deal will involve something over $10,000, it is said, and will also do much to open the local market. The cotton, according to present plans, will be shipped to Galveston from here, where it will be loaded on a steamer bound for Japan.

ODD FELLOWS AND REBEKAHS OF WEST TEXAS DISTRICT HOLD TWO DAY CONVENTION AT HENRIETTA

HENRIETTA, TEXAS, Sept. 28.—About 200 delegates from L. O. O. F. and Rebekah lodges in nearby counties held the second annual meeting of the District L. O. O. F. and Rebekah association of west Texas in Henrietta Thursday and Friday. Delegates were met at trains Thursday and taken to the lodge room, where lunch was served from 12 till 1:30, and dinner was served again Friday at the lodge room.

Miss Frances L. Holiday, president of the association, called the convention to order at 2 o'clock Thursday and introduced Rev. J. M. Hunt, who presided over the convention. Following this there was the address of welcome on behalf of the Odd Fellows by Judge J. B. Dickey, and on behalf of the city by Hon. W. J. O'Connell, city attorney. After musical numbers by Mrs. Willie C. Smith, Mrs. Vessie Maxwell, and a reading by Miss Orlin Payne, the annual address of President Holiday was delivered. Reading of the minutes of last meeting, communications and receiving reports of committees brought the Thursday evening session to a close, and the night session was devoted to music and a radio concert.

Friday morning after an invocation by Rev. G. P. Jones and a musical number by Miss Jeanette Norman, there was an address by Hon. J. W. Chancellor of Bowie. Strictly business matters were then taken up and continued until the hour of adjournment.

Thursday night O. T. Liles broadcast an Odd Fellow address to the convention from the W. E. Radio Supply's broadcasting station in Wichita Falls. This feature supplied an interesting number on the convention's program. Many musical numbers were rendered by local musicians in connection with the radio concert.

TODAY'S TALK
BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
EXPRESSING THE UNEXPRESSED
Every once in a while somebody steps out of the crowd of men and women and says something very much to the point—something that nearly everyone has felt at some time or other, but was too timid to express.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY
Council in the heart of man is like deep water; but a man of understanding will draw it out.—Proverbs 20:6.
Wise men are instructed by reason; men of less understanding by experience; the most ignorant by necessity; and beasts by nature.—Cicero.

TEXAS-OKLAHOMA FAIR, SEPTEMBER 30 TO OCTOBER 4, WICHITA FALLS
PUBLIC SENTIMENT WILL BE AROUSED.
The Dallas News Saturday devoted a column and a half of space to an editorial discussion of the ruling of the attorney general that the name of Mr. Peady could not appear on the republican ticket as a candidate for senator nor on any other ticket—not on the republican ticket because that party had not followed the election in holding a primary and not on an independent ticket because Mr. Peady had participated in the democratic primary and stood pledged to support the nominees of the primary.

EARLY GATHERING OF COTTON CROP.
From reports gathered from every section of the state, W. C. Barrickman, secretary of the Texas Industrial Association, estimates that more than sixty-five percent of the Texas cotton crop is out of the fields.
This is a fine record, the more so because there has been little rain or high winds in any section of the state to cause damage to the crop. In this dry, hot weather has had some compensation at least. The crop has been gathered at a minimum cost and without damage and while considerable distress cotton has been forced upon the market credit has been so organized and made available to the farmers of Texas that this kind of marketing has been greatly reduced.

COOPERATION HAS MADE TEXAS-OKLAHOMA FAIR A SUCCESS.
The Texas-Oklahoma Fair is a success. It may or may not take in enough money to pay expenses, but from the standpoint of exhibits and attractions it is a Fair that reflects credit upon the community and the men who have given of their time, their thought, their efforts and money to bring it into being.

Texas Viewpoints
Duty Well Performed.
Denton Herald: The Williamson county (Illinois) grand jury, empaneled and directed to investigate the Harris massacre in which numerous nonunion workers were slaughtered a few months ago, seems to have performed its duty well. In a comparatively short session of investigation it returned into court indictments charging more than two hundred witnesses of the community with the crime resulting from assault and conspiracy to commit a premeditated murder. In addition to presenting true bills against the defendants it reported to the court and dealt unsparringly with all who were connected with it, directly or indirectly, at the door of the sheriff's office, the police, the coroner, it is alleged that instead of using the powers of his office to prevent the commission of the crime of which he had found evidence, he himself absented himself from the vicinity in order that the slaughter might be made complete without official molestation. This official, it appears, is a candidate for county treasurer and the obvious inference deduced from the jury's report is that the sheriff, who has a long record to curb mob violence and prevent crime, made it convenient to be in another section of the county when the riot broke out, thus preserving peace and protecting himself through fear of injury to his candidacy. It also appears that the official in question is a public official, and by his failure to discharge his duty as the law imposes, he placed loyalty to the organization ahead of his obligation to the public official. Likewise are officials of the state, and particularly the adjutant general, scored unmercifully by the report. Without question, the report says, state officials know and reason to know that trouble was impending of such a nature as to call for protective and preventive measures. The adjutant general he sought to excuse himself on the plea that he was not authorized to dispatch troops to Williamson county without a request so to do from the sheriff. This is proven untrue, and it stands as an illustration of "passing the buck"—a shifting of responsibility to someone else, common with a great many officials when confronted with proof of their own remissness in the performance of duty. A report of the nature of the Williamson county grand jury's action in returning indictments against such a large number of the sheriff's men is a disgraceful display in identifying the guilty. In other states, and particularly in Texas, grand juries have found it impossible to take into account where the most serious offenses have been committed, where the law has been violated, where the most serious offenses have been committed, where the law has been violated, where the most serious offenses have been committed, where the law has been violated.

WHEN OCTOBER COMES.
When old October comes along
And sees the work all done,
The children gathered in a throng,
The old folks in the sun
Just resting up a little while
And dozing in their chairs,
The mother with a patient smile,
Forgetting all her cares
And grateful to the God above
That she has lived them through.
Perhaps he sees a little of
The tasks we've had to do.

REMOVE THE CAUSE
BY DR. R. H. BISHOP
When one's blood contains less than the normal amount of red corpuscles or lacks the normal amount of coloring matter in the red cells, we say he is anemic. The common symptoms of anemia are general weakness, shortness of breath on exertion, tendency to dizzy or faint spells, dull and weary or headache, dizziness, fluttering or palpitation or dashing pains about the heart, nervous irritation, unsatisfying sleep, finicky appetite, periodic loss of normal color, paleness of the skin together with "that tired feeling."
The causes are well known inasmuch as the normal amount of red blood cells is a direct result of the food we eat, the air we breathe, the sunshine, digestive disturbances, improper food or small unmetabolized masses are a few of the causes. The treatment of anemia is, naturally, the removal of the cause. Fresh fruits and green vegetables offer the best or most assimilable iron for the building of new blood. We all know the necessity of sunlight for plant life. If you have ever picked up a board that has lain on the grass for some time you have undoubtedly noticed that the grass beneath the board is yellow or a very sickly green. So it is with human life. Sunshine is a powerful stimulant to the manufacture of blood corpuscles.
Don't depend too much on blood tonics. Iron in the blood must come from natural foods, not from medicine. True, medicinal iron stimulates digestion, perhaps, and thus stimulates blood-making organs to activity, but it can hardly be counted on as an aid in the actual making of the corpuscles themselves.

Will Day's museum exhibition in London shows one of the early attempts at moving pictures. Sir John Herschel's "Thaumatrope," or spinning top, a dog's head on one side of the disk, an empty kennel on the other. Hold it to the light. Revolve it. The dog appears to jump out of the kennel.

SKYSCRAPERS.
London makes a concession to its merchants and permits the erection of buildings 140 feet high. The tallest building ever there is Whitehall Court, a club house, 117 feet high.
"Who American would have anything taller if high land" always didn't force us up into the air.

DIGESTION.
A "glass stomach that digests foods" is perfected by chemists of the department of agriculture. Food is put into it, peptic acid, also hydrochloric acid to the amount existing normally in the real stomach. An incubator keeps the mixture at stomach temperature, 37 degrees centigrade.
By experiments the glass stomach is expected to teach us a lot about what to eat and how to cook it to make it digest.

RESPONSIBILITY.
A mother in an eastern city sued neighbors for $5,000 damages, claiming that they taught her child to swear.
Rare cases like this are attempts to fix responsibility at its source. The idea could be applied many ways. It should be.
The man who, crazed by bootleg liquor, commits a murder, usually is not as guilty as the man who sold the liquor. The drug vender, by all rules of common sense, is responsible for most of the crimes committed by drug addicts. Inciting to crime is on a par with inciting to riot.

Uncle Gus was bustled darning the shelves and hastened to explain the phenomenon. "I've been reading a book wrote by a radical," said he, "an 'I'm workin' a little to git the bad taste out o' my mouth.'
"These radicals is all alike—I mean a radical is a kind what goes off half a cocked an' is always dreamin' about the world by hangin' the rich folks 'n' givin' the goods to the poor."
"it's a law of nature that folks who are born rich they git. Even the animals run'n' in the world has to rustle up for the grub 'n' take the chances of git'ing it up. I don't know as you ever noticed it, but when a houn' dawg gits to suckle agin' soon gits fat 'n' all kinds' meanness.

THE GIRL AND THE BUTCHER BOY
The ladies—God bless them—are for the most part true to the mates they have chosen and captured, come better, come worse; but deep in their hearts remains a little spirit of adventure that causes them to hope and mayhap to believe that other men who stand at a respectful distance are unhappy by reason of a love they dare not express.

Concerning Liberty.
Liberty, like the kingdom of heaven, is within you. Where the king is a tyrant the subject may be a free man, and where the people are the government the craven will be a slave. This is a land of free men; and yet few are free, for few are willing to pay the price. A man is not free while he follows any course against his will.
Smith is employed by a man who is an ill-bred and discourteous tyrant—a little man whom authority has transformed into an ass. Smith yearns to resign—to loosen the eye of the boss—and leaves him flat on his back. He keeps his temper, however, and submits to abuse and insult for the sake of a salary. Smith is no free man. Chains could not make him more a slave than he now is.

Friendship.
Many of the imperfections of our civilization are occasioned by our failure to solve the problem of distribution. And it is an unfortunate distribution of the material of which friends are made that causes the greater part of man's unhappiness. Philosophers get their happiness out of their own cosmos; creatures bound hard and fast by habit get their happiness from their work; but the average animal gets his happiness from his friends or he will never know what happiness is. To say that a man has no friends is not to condemn him. It is but to say that he is out of harmony with his environment.

Our present friends are not a fair test of our ability to choose friends. We did not choose them from the very best of an environment. They were the best available. Given opportunity, we might look about the world and find a thousand friends more worthy than these we have; and doubtless some among the thousand would be persons who, like ourselves, have been making the best of bad bargains and coveting nothing but complete happiness because circumstance has denied them opportunity to meet kindred spirits.

Dredge Working at a Rate That Will Finish Big Storage Dam Embankment by Next May

Second picture—A more distant view of the discharge pipe. The pipe circles around through the embankment for a distance of several hundred yards to the dredge, which is now in progress.

Third picture—Looking upstream from below the dam site toward the concrete mixer which supplies material to the dam. In the background appears the dam which will eventually be buried beneath the earth that will form the permanent dam.

Fourth picture—A general view of the dam at the river crossing. The foreground is shown the upstream side of the dam, paved with rip-rap; back of it and to the left, the discharge pipe of the dredge is in operation. On the right are the upstream openings of the dam. The wall-like structure leading across the river is the sheet piling which forms the backbone of the embankment. The channel between it and the rip-rapped embankment is now being filled up with the dredge. Between the piling the bridge appears the embankment that marks the upstream months, would be required for the task. In other words, May, 1923, should see the big task completed. If the percentage of solid matter is higher than eight, the time would be proportionately shortened. While the dredge plugs away at its herculean task, preliminary work is well under way on another important feature of the storage dam, the concrete spillway. This will be several hundred yards west of the main channel, and will open into a ravine. The top of the spillway will be 15 feet below the top of the dam, so that it would take an unprecedented rise to endanger the top of the big structure.

DAY OF ATONEMENT WILL BE OBSERVED AT TEMPLE ISRAEL

Yom Kippur, or Day of Atonement, services will be held today and Monday by members of the local Jewish congregation. The observance of the occasion will open with the Kol Nidre service at 7:30 p. m. this evening at Temple Israel; Dr. David Goldberg's sermon subject will be "The Thing That Renders High Moral Conceptions Fruitless."

On Monday at 10 a. m. there will be another service, and Dr. Goldberg's subject will be "The Testament of a Sage." Services will be held at 3 p. m., a memorial service at 4 p. m. and the concluding service at 5 p. m. The Kol Nidre and the morning service will be repeated with traditional musical numbers.

Following is a statement on the significance of Yom Kippur: "On that evening and again on Monday, from morning till evening, the Jewish people will foregather for worship in their several synagogues in all parts of the world. Those removed from their families will endeavor to be among the family circle on this solemn occasion. Soldiers and sailors of Jewish faith are granted furloughs in order to observe appropriately this holiday. Wherever the Jewish people happen to be, whether few or many, they will cease from worldly concerns and give themselves wholly to thoughts of repentance."

More than any other holiday of the Synagogue, Yom Kippur revives the confidence of the Jew in the ultimate triumph of God's love and justice. However sadly he has fared, despite misfortune and untold affliction, he repairs to his synagogue on the Day of Atonement hopeful of God's way and trusting that in the later days none of earth's children shall hurt nor destroy in all His mountain, for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord as the waters cover the sea."

TENOR SOLOIST ARRIVES TO ASSIST IN REVIVAL

Herman Hay, tenor soloist and song leader who will assist Dr. Grosz in the eight day pre-conference revival beginning Sunday at the morning service at the Floral Heights Methodist church, arrived Saturday.

Mr. Hay is said to be one of the best gospel soloists in the Methodist denomination, and is well known throughout the state. He will sing at each service—at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and at 7:45 each evening.

HOPES MANY FROM HERE WILL ATTEND VETERANS REUNION

Judge Edgar Scurry, former commander in chief of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, and for years an active figure in that organization, is hopeful that a large number of veterans and sons from this city and section will attend the state reunion to be held at Hillsboro next Thursday and Friday. The veterans' reunion will extend over both days; that of the sons will be held on Friday and the following program is announced:

10:00 a. m.—Meeting called to order by Capt. Wm. A. Fields, Hillsboro, Texas. Invocation, Rev. Miles B. Hay, Hillsboro, Texas. Music, "America," by convention.

11:00 a. m.—Convention turned over to Hon. Lon A. Smith of Austin, commander of Sons of Confederate Veterans of Texas. Music.

11:30 a. m.—Address of welcome, Hon. Earl Carter of Hillsboro.

11:50 a. m.—Response, Hon. Luther A. Johnson, Corsicana, Texas.

12:00—Principal address, Carl Hinton of Denver, Colo., adjutant in chief and chief of staff of S. C. V. Music.

12:00—Lunch.

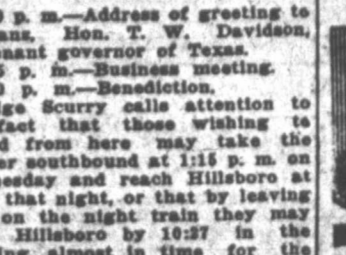

1:00 p. m.—Address of greeting to veterans, Hon. T. W. Davidson, lieutenant governor of Texas.

2:45 p. m.—Business meeting.

5:00 p. m.—Benediction.

Judge Scurry calls attention to the fact that those wishing to attend from here may take the Denver southbound at 1:15 p. m. on Wednesday and reach Hillsboro at 10:37 that night, or that by leaving here on the night train they may reach Hillsboro by 10:37 in the morning, almost in time for the opening session.

More than 25,000 murders were committed in this country in the last ten years and the number of burglaries has increased 1500 per cent in that time.

BURKBURNETT GETS REPORT FROM STATE HEALTH DEPARTMENT

ASSISTANT STATE HEALTH OFFICER SUBMITS RECOMMENDATIONS.

RECENTLY VISITED CITY ON AN INSPECTION TOUR

Suggests Employment of Thoroughly Qualified and Efficient Health Officer.

BURKBURNETT, Sept. 29.—Assistant State Health Officer Dr. W. H. Hensley, of Austin, made an inspection of sanitary conditions in Burk Burnett several weeks ago and has furnished The Times correspondent with a copy of his report made to the state health officer of the conditions as he found them to exist and his recommendations which should be put into effect for a better, cleaner and healthier city.

Conditions found in Burk Burnett:

"One long well paved street, well kept in business center. Along the alleys, one-half block parallel to above street, I found hog pens, open back toilets, cess pools, sourd waste and material from drug stores, soap barrels, chickens heads and other animal flesh in putrid state, also many tin cans and trash of various character.

"Found many toilets and cess pools within 10 feet of sewer line, not connected. Found sewer mains and disposal plant adequate for the surface sewage basing from 18 to 20 feet deep, near Red river, about two miles from the town. Was informed by the city health officer that this water received no treatment, but was used for human consumption in its natural state. Dr. Hensley and Dr. Adams advised that there was an outbreak of typhoid or four cases of typhoid fever every month.

Recommendations:

1. Rigid enforcement open toilet ordinances.
2. Standardization of garbage pails and reorganization of collection system.
3. Condemnation of all cess pools and contaminated wells.
4. Adequate protection of all food supplies.
5. Enforcement of food handlers law, with special reference to medicinal examination.
6. Enforcement of sterilization law.
7. Treatment of drinking water supply.
8. Thoroughly qualified and efficient local health officer.

Good Well Expected.

Casing has been set in the Lansing & Moninger well, which is located on the W. J. Hines farm just southeast of Burk Burnett and a good well is expected when it is drilled in. The bit in this well struck the same sand as was encountered further south and which is making good production. T. F. Hunter has started an adjacent well on his lease adjoining the well being spudded in yesterday.

Head Year Completion.

The Burk Burnett-Clark Highway, the last of the road building projects to be completed in this project will be finished by the middle of the coming week. ### Blemishes are generally caused by infection from dust and dirt

You can free your skin from blemishes by using this simple treatment:

Just before you go to bed, wash in the usual way with Woodbury's Facial Soap and warm water, finishing with a dash of cold water.

Now dip the tips of your fingers in warm water and rub them on the cake of Woodbury's until they are covered with a heavy cream-like lather.

Cover each blemish with a thick coat of this and leave it on for ten minutes. Then rinse very carefully, first with clear hot water, then with cold.

JUDGE SCORES KLAN IN CONNECTION WITH GRAND JURY CHARGE

BITTERLY CONDEMNS ALLEGED PRACTICES OF MASKED ORDERS

DECLARES ACCUSED SHOULD BE GIVEN A LEGAL TRIAL

Says Man With Masked and Padded Foot in Jury Box is Great-est Menace.

PANHANDLE, TEXAS, Sept. 28.—Judge W. H. Ewing of Miami, judge of the first judicial district, yesterday condemned the alleged practices of masked secret orders in his charge to the grand jury when that body met for deliberation at the district court here.

The judge stated that he had read and heard of organizations or groups of men which had been charged with taking the law into their own hands by intimidation, application of the eye rope and tar and feathers. He stated that two or more men conspired to do justice other than through the proper course of law, that such practices constituted a violation of the law. The body was especially instructed to investigate matters of this kind, since they are destructive of our government, if true.

The district judge made it very plain to the grand jury that he was unalterably opposed to any group or clan which stands for, endorses or countenances mob violence and lawlessness, or in any way taking the law into their own hands and acting as judge, jury and executioner, by summarily meting out punishment to supposed violators of the law. He condemned such organizations collectively and individually as being a menace to society and destructive of our form of government.

The judge told the grand jury that every law violator, regardless of the nature of the crime, is entitled to a trial and should have a legal trial. The court further stated to the grand jury that the greatest enemy for good or evil lies in the very box that here the law is upheld or trampled in the dust; that the majority of people who complain of the non-enforcement of law would be found to be people who shirked jury service.

He stated that the greatest enemy to law enforcement is the juror who with masked face and padded foot, slips into the jury box for the purpose of perpetrating a fraud upon the law.

Judge Ewing stated that the present suspended sentence law was in his opinion an excellent law and should not be limited to any particular age of criminal, but as it is generally applied at present, is a breeder of crime.

REPORT 28,612 AT OPENING OF FAIR

Stars and Stripes and the lettering "Good Night" appeared. The feature ended as the band played the national anthem.

Acrobats Thrill Crowd.—One of the most daring of acrobatic stunts ever witnessed in this city is included in the vaudeville acts given before the large grand stand. A young man donning the uniform of a sailor climbed to the top of an 80-foot pole and while it swayed to and fro he "galloped" his hair raising and breath taking stunts.

The entertainment as provided Saturday night was worth three times the price of admission and was so declared by practically everyone who witnessed it. The fair grounds themselves presented a most picturesque scene Saturday night. The thousands of electric lights that mark the roads and the pathways and outline the exhibit halls as well as the light shed through the windows of the various buildings was a scene beautiful.

TROOP 1 IS WINNER IN TRACK MEET AT T-O FAIR GROUNDS

The silver loving cup, given to the troop of the Boy Scouts of America winning the greatest number of points in the quarterly field day, is still retained by Troop 1, who took 270 points over its nearest adversary at the fair ground Saturday morning. This is the second consecutive time Troop 1 has held the cup.

Allowing for the fact that there was no competition, the meet was well carried out, and the contestants who took part in the games and scout craft, rivaled the ability of soldiers, as it was remarked by several of the judges. The standing of the troops is as follows: Troop 1, 288 points; Troop 2, 20 points; Troop 4, 19 points. Troop 1 took first place in all events with the exception of the dressing race, won by Troop 2.

The features of the morning were the wig signaling contest and the wall scaling contest. The rate in signaling was far above the required rate, and George Boim, sending with Edgar Ellis on the receiving end, did credit to any army man. The wall scaling contest, with a team of eight boys, also drew an applause.

The counting for the meet were first place, count 20 points, second out the structure, attracting large crowds. However, the fire was held to the Elsenman building and the rear end of the L. F. M. store, adjoining. Losses to the Elsenman company were estimated at $150,000 on the building and $175,000 on the stock and fixtures.

LARGE MERCANTILE FIRM IN ATLANTA DAMAGED BY FIRE

FINANCIAL AGREEMENT IS NOW MEXICAN LAW

ATLANTA, Sept. 28.—Fire broke out again tonight in the Elsenman Clothing company building on Whitehall street, which suffered heavily in the blaze a week ago, causing additional losses estimated tonight at about $300,000.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 28.—Publication today in the Diario Oficial of the presidential decree promulgating the agreement signed recently at New York between Fee Minister De la Huerta and international bankers, makes it effective as a law of the land. The agreement, which was ratified without opposition by both houses of congress, provides for the liquidation of Mexican debts.

COURT HOLDS TIERNAN IS FATHER OF CHILD WHOSE PATERNITY THE MOTHER ATTRIBUTES TO POULIN

SOUTH BEND, IND., Sept. 28.—The John Tiernan home here was a house of heart aches and forebodings tonight while shadow of hatred lurked near by. Across the town in the residence of Harry Poulin, who won today in his fight to prove that he was not the father of Mrs. Augusta Tiernan's baby, there was no sign of celebration.

For, although Mrs. Tiernan lost and Harry Poulin won, there was little to pick between the victor and the vanquished. Practically forgotten during the long court battle, looked upon at the best as evidence only, William John Tiernan, 18 months old, was the real winner. His parentage has been established. He is legally the son of Prof. Tiernan, not of Harry Poulin as his mother tried to convince the court. William John gurgled in his crib as the Tiernans planned to break up their home.

The verdict ended all hopes of reconciliation. Mrs. Tiernan is going to her mother in Bronson, Mich., next week. Professor Tiernan is to remain at Notre Dame. They haven't even hinted that I should do so, so I will continue my work at the law school," he said. Mrs. Tiernan will be back for the next trial," the professor said. "We will fight this out until we prove that Poulin is the father."

The court room sat silent today as Judge Ducomb read his decision. He read slowly as though weighing the words he had written, before uttering them.

It was plainly apparent that his summing up of the case solved the riddle for many of the listeners. Those who during the trial had blamed as Poulin and his wife entered the court room.

Today there was no demonstration. They heard him charge Mrs. Tiernan with acts "unbelievable in a mother"; they heard him flay Poulin and declare there was no doubt but that he was intimate with Mrs. Poulin and then they heard him declare in a raised voice: "None of the parties involved could be further injured unless it is this innocent child, which the court might label with the brand of illegitimacy."

TWO HORSE SHOWS SCHEDULED TODAY AT FAIR STADIUM

Two horse shows will be staged today in the stadium. It was announced Saturday night, the first being scheduled for 3 p. m., the second for 8 p. m.

The horse department of the fair was viewed by thousands Saturday, and the equine aristocrats were the object of much admiring comment. This feature of the fair is said to out-rank anything of the kind ever staged in Texas.

W. F. Weeks, department chairman, announced the following program for this afternoon's show: 1.—Walk, trot, canter class. Entries: Fashion, Hunt, Miss Prim, Astral K. All owned by E. C. Wells, of Mineral Wells. Gretia Times, owned by W. F. Weeks; Ray Denmark, owned by T. H. Boone.

2.—Five harness class. Entries: Who's Who, owned by E. C. Wells; Brilliant Boy, owned by Walter F. Weeks; Forrest Lee, owned by Lewis & Crawford.

3.—Five gait, for stallion, mare or gelding. Entries: Susan Francis and Silver Dars, owned by W. F. Weeks; Joe Bailey, owned by Walter F. Weeks; Brilliant Boy, owned by Miss Logan; Forrest Lee, owned by Lewis & Crawford; Easter Cloud, owned by W. F. Weeks.

SON OF A PROMINENT FAMILY OF ATLANTA IS CHARGED WITH LARCENY. NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—William Hurd Hillier, son of a prominent Atlanta family, was held in $15,000 bail here today on a charge of larceny in the first degree preferred by New York brokers who alleged he "piddled them out of $20,000."

HILLSBORO, TEXAS, Sept. 28.—Before a crowd estimated at 20,000 people, the Ku Klux Klan staged a mammoth parade and ceremonial on the field in front of the grand stand tonight at the Hill county fair and exposition.

Approximately 3,000 Klansmen participated in the parade, and it was said to have been one of the biggest demonstrations of any kind ever held here. About 500 candidates were initiated before the immense crowd.

STRIKING SHOPMEN ARE FREE ON $10,000 BOND. HOUSTON, Sept. 28.—C. C. Handley, chairman of the executive board for striking shopmen on the Southern Pacific, and Charles Toe, grand lodge representative of the machinists' union, made bonds of $10,000 each today to appear in El Paso and answer a federal indictment.

REPORT ON CONDITION OF CLEARING HOUSE BANKS. NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The actual condition of the clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they hold $28,524,710 in excess of legal requirements. This is an increase of $18,932,900 from last week.

REPORT REVOLUTIONARY OUTBREAK AT LISBON. VIGO, SPAIN, Sept. 25.—Reports have been received from Lisbon of the outbreak there of a revolutionary military movement.

A Three-Number Artists' Course, Morning and Twilight Musicales, And Monthly Concerts Are Planned

"Of all the arts beneath the heaven— Old and true and threadbare, perhaps, unless it is so that truth can never become threadbare. For, true and old as it may be, the saying is as true today, in the autumn of 1922 as it would have been said in the days of olden times, when young David swept the music of his harp into the tempestuous heart of the King.

Nothing draws the soul so surely into beautiful avenues of reflection as the gracious harmony of sound. Whether it is the tender note of a crooning little lullaby or the magnificent theme of the world's greatest symphony, the heart yields its swift response.

"Make the music sing," said a little three year old, admonished to be quiet, "then I'll be good!"—a quiet, unobtainable by rebuke or punishment, claimed the restless little body, as it settled on the floor in front of the big mahogany box.

"I don't s'pose there's much real music to it," said a young clerk in a department store, "but I feel myself all smoothin' out inside, just listenin' to that piano."

So the Wichita Falls Musicians' club members, entering on their thirteenth year's work this month, are bringing to the winter's task a greater zeal and ambition than they have ever put into it before. The club's memory contest, which they gradually aided last year, led the executive board to plan a series of three or four ambitious programs.

The season's program is ambitious. But last year a lot of impetus was lent the club through a great many avenues, not the least of which was the addition to its membership of several exceptionally talented artists. Among these latter additions, Mrs. O. E. Nicholls, formerly of Georgia, was selected president. Mrs. Nicholls brought to the

WICHITA FALLS CHORAL CLUB HAS GET-TOGETHER MEET; 13 NEW MEMBERS

Members of the executive board of the organization, and what would be expected of the members. Mrs. W. S. Robertson, who presided, extended greetings to the honor guests and told of the work of other similar organizations in this part of the state, urging the members to set their standards of excellence work at a point which would enable them to appear on programs with visiting artists, when the opportunity presents itself.

After the business session there was a reception honoring the new members, with Mesdames Louella B. Thompson, C. W. Beavers, C. T. Tully, George Thorburn, Fred Barron, Jerry Schaefer, W. S. Robertson, O. E. Nicholls and W. W. Anderson and Miss Annette Walsh hostesses. Later, announcement of the first regular rehearsal for Thursday night, 1:30-4:15, the parish house was made.

HOLLYWOOD MOVIE WRITER SAYS LOCAL ACTRESS IS COMING FILM STAR

Miss Dorothy Manners, daughter of Mrs. M. H. Green of the Burnford hotel here, is one of the coming screen stars, according to an enthusiastic writer in the "Defender," Hollywood's movie magazine for movie artists.

Miss Manners, who has a leading part with Douglas Fairbanks in "Robin Hood," scheduled for Wichita Falls this month, and who plays the lead with Jack Pickford, in "Garrison's finish," to be shown here soon, is featured on the cover page of the "Defender," and Mr. Lawrence, the writer, devoted half a page of the magazine to an unusually interesting talk about the young cinema actress. Among other highly complimentary things concerning Miss Manners' beauty and intelligence, the writer says, "Miss Manners' whole character seems strengthened by the fact that she is utterly devoid of the traits, attitudes, or affections of the 'flapper.' She had not been moving around in Hollywood society long before she was recognized as a very generally, and when it was ascertained that she also possessed intelligence, ambition, and unalloyed industry, an augmented interest was taken in her."

Miss Manners has been in the movie work less than a year, having had a season or two on the stage before that.

Little Children Brighten Homes

EVERY young couple starting out in life has visions of joyful hours spent before the fireside with healthy, happy children; but, alas, how often young women who long for children are denied that happiness because of some functional derangement which may be corrected by proper treatment.

HOOKIE STOPS NOW SAYS LITTLE GIRL WITH FLAXEN CURLS

Juvenile Officer R. L. Yates in chasing down truants from school has many interesting experiences chief among which was that of a little 12-year-old girl who made an absolute promise last week never to play hookie again.

Mr. Yates received reports each morning from all the schools as to absentees and immediately starts checking up. This particular little girl didn't show up at school one morning, and the next morning her name was again on the list of absentees.

In the afternoon the officer went to the young lady's house and found that her mother worked all day long. A short time after school was dismissed the little girl came tripping home.

The little old Ford was driven along the street and stopped right by the trunk.

"Hello there, Miss ——" "Hello" was the rather shy remark as the girl with flaxen curls attempted to fish out who it was that addressed her by name.

After studying a few seconds she said "I don't believe I know you."

Mr. Yates informed her that he was the county juvenile officer. Without any further explanation the trunk said: "Mr. Yates if you will promise not to bother me this time, I'll promise never to play hookie from school again."

TEAM OF MASONIC NOTABLES TO VISIT THIS CITY OCT. 25

October 25 has been designated as the date when the third-third degree team of Dallas, Texas, will confer the third degree for Wichita Falls lodge No. 645, A. F. & A. M. The team is composed entirely of 34-degree Masons, and past masters of lodges. It is very likely that Sam F. Cochran, inspector general of Texas for the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of the southern jurisdiction, will officiate as worshipful master. The full list of officers and the stations they fill will be announced at a later date.

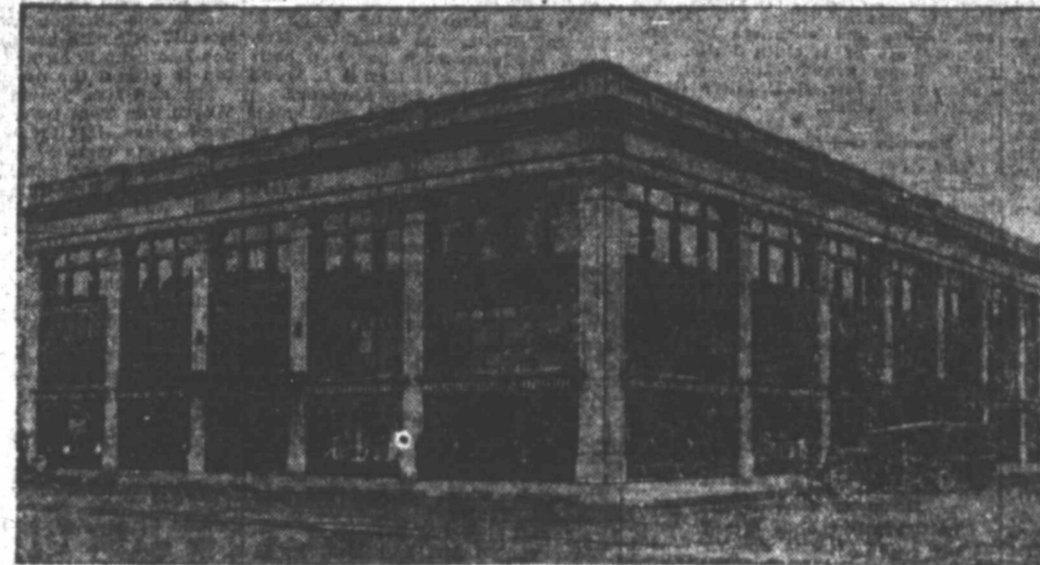

This meeting is planned to be one of the big events of the Masonic season and all Masons from both lodges will be invited to witness the impressive and sublime ceremonies. It is not often that Masons residing in this section have the opportunity to see so many distinguished Masons in a degree team at one time.

Worshipful Master John A. Elder has extended an unusual invitation to the team, as it carried the signatures of all the past masters of Wichita Falls.

NOT MUCH DOUBT BIG LAKE WILL BE ONE OF CLEAN WATER

There is not much doubt that the big lake will be a body of clear water, and that the muddy color of other bodies in this vicinity and of the river itself will be absent," said Dr. L. H. Hilderger of Memphis, consulting engineer for the project, Saturday.

Those in touch with the project had previously taken the same view, basing their hope on the fact that the city and state had the water were plentifully and that the water in the small lake already created is clean. While a muddy color would not affect the usefulness of the water for irrigation purposes, it has been felt that it would make the lake much less of an attraction and a beauty spot, and the prospect of clear water is causing much satisfaction.

Dr. Hilderger, whose home is in Memphis, has been here since Thursday to study the working of the project. He expressed himself as well pleased with the compact, impervious nature of the material that the bridge is putting into the dam.

MOVIE CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK AT LOCAL THEATRES

"MILESTONES" MONDAY AT EMPRESS THEATER TOM MIX THURSDAY

"Milestones," which comes to the Empress Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, is a masterful picture-ization of the phenomenal stage success by Arnold Bennett and Edward Knoblock. It is one of those infrequent plays that mark an epoch in theatrical achievement. Few productions have exerted such a wide influence and gained such a firm and lasting hold on the public.

The charming story is told in three episodes, showing the characters first in the year 1864, then in 1885, and finally in 1914. The picture traces the family fortunes of the Rhoads and Sibleys through three generations, depicting the moods and manners of the different periods with indescribable charm.

"Milestones" has romance, sweet as the odor of lilacs. It has humor, pathos, drama—and above all, it has a story that will appeal to all the people, of all ages, anywhere.

"The Fighting Struck," Tom Mix, the dynamic Fox star, believes in giving his large and loyal public change as well as sensation in his photoplay. While each Mix picture has its distinctive tang of adventure, thrills and outdoor stuff, there is always a pleasant change of locale, an interesting angle or interesting twist to the story. Even Mix himself endeavors to make each succeeding photoplay fresh and new by varying his role and character each time.

In his latest production, "The Fighting Struck," which comes to the Empress theatre Thursday for the remainder of the week, Mix will be seen in a part such as he never has played before—that of a brave young blacksmith in a little western town. Through the medium of this character the story takes on novel color and interest, and it starts Mix off on a series of adventures that provide action every minute and give the famous Fox star another photoplay that is fairly packed with thrills and entertainment.

STRAND, STARTING MONDAY

MOULIN ROUGE DANCE SCENES A MAGNIFICENT TERPSICHOEANT SHOW

Dance devotees throughout the country will find an especial delight in the big scene of "Queen of the Moulin Rouge," a Ray C. Smallwood-Pyramid picture which is the current attraction at the Strand theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Martha Mansfield, the star of this production, was one of the dancing beauties of the famous Edgfield "Follies," which fact alone gave promise when it was announced that she was to play the title role; but the producers did not content themselves with having a Follies star feature in the great review, but engaged the finest talent from the various spectacular girl shows on Broadway, among them a sextet from the colorful "Rose of Stamboul" production—one of the most magnificent spectacles of the 1922 season in New York.

These girls are used in an especially elaborate dance which gives a high artistic tone to the production. The scenes in which they appear are those representing the interior of the Moulin Rouge, most notorious of the flamboyant, tinsel palaces of extravagance in the night life district of Paris. The background for their dance is a replica of the interior of the original Moulin Rouge (which was burned to the ground in the recent past) reproduced from photographs and personal knowledge of the resort by Ren. Carré, French technical director of the production. It is authentic.

"Queen of the Moulin Rouge" tells the sensational story of a young girl of Normandy who, after being battered by an old music master to awaken genius in a youth who loved her, a prize which she had not been touched by the tragedies of life. Martha Mansfield plays the title role; Joseph Striker, Harry Harmon, Fred Jones, Jane Thomas, Tom Blake and Count Carlillo appear in important roles in the production.

Standing alone as one of the funniest screen comedies of years, "His Nibs," the Exceptional Pictures feature novelty comedy which comes to the Strand theatre for a run of three days on Thursday, is no mere freak novelty, it is true that "His Nibs" is vastly different than anything yet created for film laugh purposes but, at the same time, the element of humor has not been overlooked in the quest for something different.

"His Nibs" establishes a record for the films in that Charles (Chic) Sale, the vaudeville headliner who makes his debut as a screen star in the comedy, actually plays seven roles in the one offering. Sale's remarkable success in the variety theater was due to his humor and skill in painting rural characters. For his vaudeville turn, consisted of a whole gallery of widely different types. In "His Nibs" Sale's skill as a protean comedian has been cleverly made use of.

The action of "His Nibs" revolves around a picturesque little village motion picture theater "The Slippery Elm Picture Palace" and Mr. Sale plays many of the odd and amusing characters of the locality, ranging from the quaint old proprietor of the o'pry house to the village sleuth and the editor of "The Weekly Bee." Not merely satisfied in producing a novelty, Exceptional Pictures selected an unusual all round cast to support Mr. Sale, including Colleen Moore, featured player of "Dinty," and other Marshall Neilan productions. Joseph Dowling, famous as the Miracle Man of "The Miracle Man," Walt Whitman, the well known character actor and former Triangle star, Lydia Yeaman, Titus and Harry Edwards.

"THE DUST FLOWER" IS COMING TO OLYMPIC STARTING ON MONDAY

A new photoplay by Basil King, author of "Earthbound," one of the greatest motion pictures ever made, is coming to the Olympic theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. It is called "The Dust Flower" and has been made by Goldwyn from the famous writer's new novel of the same name, under the direction of Rowland V. Lee. It is a simple yet powerful love story, detailing how Letty, abused and ill treated by her stepfather, Judson Finck, rises from being a lowly flower along the roadside covered with dust to a noble and happy woman. The transformation is brought about through her unusual love story. To escape her stepfather's abuse, she is thrown over by the woman he loves, rescue her and proposes marriage to her. He had sworn to marry the first girl who would have him that he met after being jilted by Barbara Wallbrook. Under the guidance of Alletton's butler, the queen that she is, she blossoms into new womanhood and awakens in Alletton the love that will lead her to marry her. There is some magnificent photography in the film. Picture patrons should not miss this photoplay; it is far from the beaten path in theme and treatment.

"Fools First," the popular Marshall Neilan, the motion picture producer, and the invariable success of all the pictures made by this wizard of the screen are responsible for the extensive preparations being made by the manager of the Olympic theatre for the opening there Thursday of a three day engagement of "Fools First," the latest Neilan production. It is an Associated First National release.

There is a novelty about Neilan productions which endear them to the hearts of picture lovers. No two are alike; each succeeding one strikes a new note in story, direction or acting, imparting a flavor of originality that makes a distinct hit with the fans.

The cast is an exceptionally capable one, including Richard Dix, Claire Windsor, Claude Gillingwater, Raymond Griffith, George Seligman, Helen Lynch, Shannon Day, George Drouot, Leo White.

DALLAS, Sept. 30.—A guessing contest at the total age of the members of the Bonehead club was held at one of the recent meetings of the club. # New Filter Plant Insures City Plentiful Supply of Water For All Present Needs

The recently completed addition to the filter plant at the city water works, gives a total capacity of 5,000,000 gallons each 24 hours, an amount of water somewhat in excess of the city's present consumption.

and passes into one of the two circular settling basins shown in the background. Then it passes out into the main supply tank, from which it is taken for passage through the filter; one end of the filter plant building is seen at the right of the picture. After being filtered the water is stored in the square basin into which a pipe is seen discharging.

The lower picture shows the building in which the plant is housed. The filter itself comprises three beds of sand and gravel, each bed being 12x25 feet in size, furnishing 300 square feet of filtering surface. The gravel is 18 inches thick and the sand 10 inches. Water flows through these beds at the rate of three gallons per square foot. Under test, the new filter has furnished filtered water at the rate of 4,000,000 gallons per day. The beds themselves are made of concrete. The building is finished in brick to match the older structure.

Most of the work was done by the water department's staff. The plant was designed by F. N. Lawton, and the plans and specifications were approved by Utilities Commissioner Burton Staylor. E. L. Williams supervised the construction work. The plant was installed at a cost of $20,000 and is declared to be modern in every respect and one of the finest plants in the state.

Mr. Fultner made a thorough investigation of the methods carried out in the election and after reviewing the plaintiff's petition conceded the illegality of the vote. This action will be followed Monday morning by the presentation of a petition to the commissioners.

IMMEDIATE STEPS WILL BE TAKEN FOR NEW HOSPITAL VOTE

PREVIOUS ELECTION IS ADMITTED TO HAVE BEEN AN ILLEGAL ONE.

TO PRESENT PETITION TO COMMISSIONERS MONDAY

Will Ask That Another Election For $150,000 Bonds Be Called Promptly.

Immediate steps will be taken for the calling of another $150,000 bond election for three branch county hospitals, following the admission Saturday that the first election, in which the bonds were defeated, 413 to 415, was illegal.

The order declaring the election illegal will be entered on the minutes of the court following an announcement made Saturday morning by County Attorney E. L. Fultner, conceding that the election was an illegal one.

The law firm of Weeks, Morrow, Francis and King filed a petition contesting the election last Wednesday evening in which they set forth various allegations declaring the election was illegal and therefore void.

Mr. Fultner made a thorough investigation of the methods carried out in the election and after reviewing the plaintiff's petition conceded the illegality of the vote. This action will be followed Monday morning by the presentation of a petition to the commissioners.

court asking that a new election date be set and that the proposition again be submitted to the property tax paying voters of the county. The bond election is for the purpose of issuing bonds for the erection of a branch county hospital in each of the towns of Iowa Park, Electra and Burkburnett.

CONTRACT FOR MEXICAN AND NEGRO SCHOOLS

SAN ANGELO, Sept. 30.—The board of education has awarded a contract for the building of the new Mexican and negro schools, the cost to be $16,584, not including wiring, roofing and painting. The two buildings will be alike.

RENTED QUARTERS NOW NECESSARY AT SEVERAL SCHOOLS

Crowded conditions at the San Houston school have made it necessary for the school board to rent a cottage near the school building to provide additional accommodations. The quarters were rented in the American Society of Inventors' building.

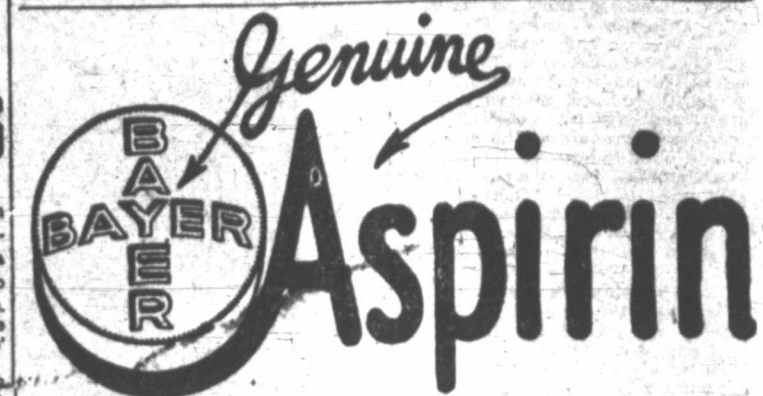

This is the fourth school which rented quarters, are being used. With the completion of the ward school building program, however, it will no longer be necessary to use such quarters.

Work is progressing steadily on the two new ward schools, and on the addition to the San Houston school. Work on the new high school still awaits final approval of the plans, which are now in the hands of the chief architect, W. H. Litterer of St. Louis.

Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost 75 cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monocristallinester of Salicylicacid.

EFFORT TO START STORE NEAR SCHOOL IS NOW ABANDONED

The effort to establish a grocery store near the corner of Thirteenth and Burnett schools, which resulted in an injunction suit against enforcement of the new zoning ordinance, has been abandoned for the present, and the stock of goods removed from the store building, it was reported Saturday.

Judge Napier, before whom the injunction suit was tried, rendered his decision Saturday, holding that the ordinance could not be operative against this grocery because it was completed and doing business prior to the passage of the ordinance. The decision did not pass upon the constitutionality or validity of the ordinance.

As a result of the abandonment of the store property, any further effort to operate a store there comes under the provisions of the ordinance, City Attorney M. A. said Saturday. This means that petition would have to be submitted, and a public hearing held, before the store could begin business. Residents of that vicinity, and members of the school board, were vigorously opposed to the establishment of the store.

The first public hearing under the zoning ordinance is scheduled for Monday night, at the city council meeting in another petition.

CAMPAIGN OF 19 2 IS NOW FULLY LAUNCHED

PRELIMINARY SURVEY OF ISSUES CONDITIONS AND PERSONALITIES INVOLVED IN POLITICAL BATTLE

By MARK SULLIVAN, National Political Correspondent of the New York Evening Post and Wichita Daily Times. (Copyright, 1932, by the New York Evening Post.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—With the one exception of Rhode Island, all the party primaries and party conventions have been held; all the candidates for senator—in the 23 states in which there will be senatorial elections—have been made; and all the nominations for congress in all the states have been completed.

We are therefore fully launched on the campaign, and it is possible to make a preliminary survey of the conditions and personalities involved, the issues which will figure in the campaign and the states of public feeling, partly local and partly general, more than anything else, will determine the election.

First of all, the state of business. For the moment, with some exceptions to be mentioned later, this is favorable to the republicans. Labor is generally employed, and at rising wages. Some months ago, when the republican party managers first surveyed the situation in the light of conditions, they said among themselves that by election day there would not be an unemployed man in the country who was willing to work. A little later on, when the two strikes threatened to affect fuel and transportation in such a way as to throw industry out of joint on a large scale, these same republican managers had some fears that this prediction might not be fulfilled. Now, however, the strikes are out of the way, and labor is as fully employed as it wants to be. In fact, many employers are finding it necessary to raise wages in order to keep their men. Just last week, indeed, some of us in Washington observed one of those fugitive but pregnant incidents—indexes of industrial conditions—which we had not formerly noticed since the war; namely, the agent of a northern corporation, passing through Washington on his way to Alabama, observed a black away some negro labor and take it north.

Different With Employer. So far as labor is concerned, its condition is such as to make altogether unlikely that kind of unemployment and discontent which would cause it to vote against the party in power. But it is chiefly of labor alone that this is so. The employer of labor has a different story to tell. His mines, and factories, and railroads are for the past part busy; but they are busy at rising wages. Employers and heads of big corporations are not confident that they are making money, and are apprehensive about the final net results of the current operations. The dislocation caused by the interruption of fuel and transportation has shown its effects on the books of corporation for many months to come. The employers and corporation heads are, in fact, rather definitely discontent with the administration. Among other ways, this has expressed itself in campaign contributions—or rather a lack of them; and the disuse of the party funds for the management of the campaign. When the republican managers were soliciting contributions, they had frequent experiences of pointed refusal. At one time, a solicitor of funds for the republicans, who had gone to New York, was told that he "could not get a dollar for the republican party on Manhattan Island." Another was told that he could not get any money out of New England. Neither of these combinations of threat and prediction turned out to be wholly correct. But in general it is undoubtedly true that the class of business men who in the past have been relied on for republican campaign funds, are dissatisfied with many things the administration has done, and have shown the measure of that dissatisfaction by the smallness of their contributions, or their unwillingness to contribute at all. As an incidental result of the feeling among business men, republican campaign funds are low. The amount of money sent into Maine by the republicans this year was smaller than in any previous year that anybody can remember.

Farmer An Element. Another element in the industrial situation is the farmer. The farmer is unhappy. He has rather more tangible reasons for his unhappiness than the business man. The prices which the farmer is getting for wheat, oats, and other commodities is below what he calculates to be the cost of producing them. Whatever is the cause of this does not matter. In politics the blame is put on the party in power. In some sections of the country, notably California, the producers of certain commodities, like fruits, have been injured by the interruption of freight service, that the results have been

S. S. S. Fills Out Hollow Cheeks, Thin Limbs!

Men and women—whether you will build yourself up to your normal, just-right weight depends on the amount of blood-cells in your blood. If your blood-cell factory isn't working right, you will be run-down, thin, and your blood will be in disorder, and perhaps your face will be broken out with pimples. S. S. S. keeps your blood-cell factory working full time. It helps build new blood cells. That's why S. S. S. builds up thin, run-down people. It puts firm flesh on your bones, it makes out your face, firm, healthy, and it puts the "chink" in your cheeks. It takes the hollowness from the eyes, and it fools Father Time by smoothing out wrinkles in men and women. It does this by building up S. S. S. is a remarkable blood-purifier. While you are getting S. S. S. your skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, acne, rheumatism, rash, tinea, blotches are being removed. The medicinal ingredients of S. S. S. are guaranteed purely vegetable. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The large size is the two-dollar bottle.

Industrial situation that is certain to affect the republicans adversely, in one degree or another, everywhere. A competent judge of Massachusetts politics said the other day that Senator Lodge will be safely re-elected barring one possible condition. That condition would be a cold day on November 7. He said that Massachusetts is apprehensive about its coal supply, and if November 7 should be a frigid day, a voter with a cold furnace and an empty coal cellar would express his reaction to the combination of weather and coal scarcity by voting against the republicans. What is true of Massachusetts is true of the country generally. Just how severely the scarcity of coal will be felt on November 7 is a matter of dispute. Those who have charge of the distribution of coal say it is now wholly a case of transportation; that if the railroads can stand up to the increased burden no severe shortage or apprehension about shortage will exist on election day.

Change in Sentiment. During June and July this state of public feeling began to change and by the time August and early September had come, it was convincingly evident that Harding had fallen off in popular favor. One of the republican apollinizers who went into Maine to whom up republicans suggested in the election on September 11, said that in three different places where he spoke, the local republican committee suggested to him that it might be better not to lay emphasis on the president and his record in connection with the strikes, on the theory that this was a handicap rather than an advantage to the republicans.

It is commonly said that this decline in popular approval of the president began about the time of the strikes, and was caused by what the president did—or failed to do—about them. I suspect a more accurate examination would show that the first jolt to the popular esteem of the president occurred before the strikes began, and was occasioned by the sensational disclosure of the selling of liquor on the ships operated by the government. Harding may not have even known that this was being done, but his failure to stop it promptly as soon as it was exposed, caused widespread criticism. In any event, so far as the decline in Harding's popularity was caused by his management of the strikes, it was restored by his veto of the soldiers' bonus. The same class of persons who were critical during the strikes were appeased by the veto of the bonus. As soon as this veto was made public, it was instantly reported back to Washington, through messages from party leaders, through newspaper editorials and through other avenues. That public feeling about the president had begun to change overnight. It was said that whereas Harding had been charged with vacillation and weakness for his course in relation to the strikes, his veto of the bonus bill had restored an impression of firmness and strength.

More Specific Issues. There remain a number of specific issues. But it is the unprecedented anomaly of this year's politics that of all the issues current, there is only one, namely, the tariff, on which the parties are lined up squarely on opposite sides. On the soldiers' bonus had a republican president opposed to it, while it was advocated as supported by the republican leader of the house, the republican leader of the senate and a republican majority in each chamber. Also, in each chamber, the democrats supported the bonus as generally as the republicans did. So far therefore, as the soldiers' bonus figures in the campaign, it will be wholly an issue attaching locally to individual senators and congressmen. In the same way the "wet" and "dry" issue will be, not one between the parties, but one between individuals. For example, in Minnesota, the democratic candidate for the senate is "dry," while in New Jersey he is "wet." In Maryland, the republican candidate for the senate is "wet," while in Ohio he is "dry." And it is the same with practically every other issue of the campaign except the tariff.

THE MOTORISTS' PROBLEMS

By WILLIAM M. STEWART, JR.

Motor Department: My oil gauge used to float freely in the oil, so that when I used to push it down it came immediately back up. Now it stays down. What should I do to correct this?—S. N.

The oil is becoming foul and should be replaced. Oil can cause to remove dirt and sediment. You may find it advisable to install a new float.

Motor Department: A cotton pin in the clutch finger on my Ford broke and lodged in the magnetos. It has stopped motor once by becoming lodged against the magnetos point, but I did not have the necessary tools with me to reach it. Will it cause trouble at any place except magnetos point? I removed transmission cover, but was unable to find it.—C. N.

It might get into the oil pipe and clog that. The chance is very remote, however. Remove drain plug at bottom of oil pump and run engine a few minutes and the pin will probably drop out.

Motor Department: In refilling my storage battery I accidentally filled it with very dirty water. Kindly let me know what I should do with it. Will it affect the battery in any way or not? Thanking you in advance, I am, C. S.

The sediment which will collect at the bottom of the jars may reach the plates and cause a possible short circuit between the plates. The battery should be taken to a battery service station for their attention, as it will require a thorough cleaning.

Motor Department: Kindly explain the use of the word "cycle" as applied to an automobile and how to figure out in any particular case.—S. W.

An usually understood cycle is a series of events which take place in regular order and may be repeated. In the automobile engine the cycle consists of the following events or strokes: Suction, compression, power and exhaust. All automobile engines are called four cycle engines meaning that they complete the cycle in the four strokes mentioned.

Motor Department: With type of clutch do you consider better, the cone or the multiple disk? I mean which gives best results and which is best on rear wheel.—OWNER.

The best clutch is the one that gives smoothest action, as this gives less strain to all the mechanism, including the rear tires. A gripping clutch has a tendency to spin the rear wheels and to wear the tread. The multiple disk clutch has less tendency to grip, but a cone clutch properly cared for will give every satisfaction.

Motor Department: The other day I noticed a bad squeak under the car, and upon investigation I found that the front universal joint was very hot. After packing same with grease the noise disappeared. How often do you think it necessary to grease joint to avoid having this trouble?—S. W.

Universal joints should be packed with grease about every 1,000 miles. The modern universal joint does not need greasing as often as the old fashioned type, such as was used in cars three or four years ago. Plenty of lubricant will do no harm.

Motor Department: My car, nearly new, responded to the wheel exactly until this morning when it suddenly refused to turn in either direction as I wish. It was frozen in the collar, below the steering wheel, and after much work it was made to turn, but much too stiff. Can you advise me as to the cause and a possible remedy without getting the car fixed again, for it would be a source of some danger. Thanking you in advance.—READER.

The steering gear needs careful attention at frequent intervals. It must be kept well lubricated. The bushing in question seized, due to the lack of proper lubrication. This is very apt to happen with any bearing where there is any amount of friction. Under the circumstances it would be advisable to remove the bushing or bearing and refit it. You may be able to ease it up by applying oil freely and working it considerably. If it is worked free and kept lubricated, there will be no danger of its seizing again. It might be well to install an oil cup at this point.

Motor Department: Having purchased a second hand machine and being inexperienced in the driving rules, etc., I wish to know if there is not a book on these principles, and where it may be obtained. I experienced trouble of engine missing when running slowly in high gear, but when switched to intermediate, or slow, engine works O. K. Do you think there might be trouble in the magnetos being weak, and causing same to generate too slowly in high gear? I also think the engine runs too fast when in neutral, but do not know how to correct it.—READER.

Any large book store in your neighborhood can supply you with automobile books. There are a large number of good ones on the market. If engine runs well on battery and misses explosions on the magnetos it indicates weak magnetos. These may be remagnetized at a magnetos service station. If engine runs too fast when idling, retard the spark. If it still runs too fast, adjust the throttle by the adjustment screws on the carburetor so that the engine runs very slowly but does not stall when the throttle lever on the steering wheel is in the closed position.

Motor Department: Please advise me as to what is the narrowest space or driveway through which a medium sized touring car can be conveniently driven, say a car measuring five feet six inches across fenders. I have an acreage just over seven feet wide. Do you think this would be sufficient?—P. C.

Your driveway should be quite wide enough if you exercise reasonable care. Watch the fenders carefully on the driver's side, running as close as necessary without touching. This will give you more than a foot clearance on the other side. It will be a little difficult to back out at first, but it can be accomplished easily after a few trials.

Motor Department: Occasionally hear a popping noise at my carburetor. Is it dangerous? Please give cause.—N. K.

Popping back or back firing at carburetor is exceedingly dangerous if carburetor has just been primed or there is much of a leak. It is caused by lean mixture, leaky inlet valve, or electrical troubles at times in distributor, which cause an explosion in cylinder when inlet valve is open. Look over these parts carefully as occasionally a car burns and is totally wrecked from just this cause.

If engine slows down it is a live plug. If it does not, the cylinder is not firing.

Disconnect the wire from the plug and run engine. If a good spark jumps, the trouble is in the plug or in the cylinder. If no spark jumps the trouble is in some other part of the ignition system.

If a good spark is shown remove plug and lay on its side on cylinder attached to the same wire. If plug shows no spark it needs cleaning or a new insulator. To determine this take it apart.

Clean off carbon with a cloth dipped in gasoline or a brush may be used. Touch up the points of plug with emery cloth, but do not touch emery to glazed porcelain as it scratches and makes it root up all the more readily. A cracked core must be replaced.

Put the parts together and adjust the gap to approximately 25-1000 inch. Try in cylinder. If engine misfires the trouble may be loss of compression, or faulty carburetion. Do not be in a hurry to condemn a plug because the fault is frequently elsewhere.

Canada has one car to about every 15 people.

FULL SPEED AHEAD AS FRANKLIN IS WATCHWORD SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Production of Franklin cars will continue at full speed during the fall and winter months, according to H. H. INVENTION SAID TO AVOID GAS FUMES

By NEA Service.

WILMINGTON, DEL., Sept. 25.—Part of carbon-monoxide gas poisoning will be eliminated with use of a machine invented by J. E. Taylor, chemist of the duPont company, and H. S. Taylor, associate professor of chemistry at Princeton University. Announcement of this invention has been made by the American Chemical society. The machine is designed for the detection of deadly gases. It is applicable, especially to automobile exhausts.

Carbon-monoxide gas has been the cause of death to many a motorist. Working on the engine, with garage shut against fresh air, the motorist would be instantly overcome by the fumes. The gas is especially dangerous in that it cannot be detected by the senses.

The new machine, it is said, not only detects the gas, but removes it continuously while there is the faintest sign of it in the air.

At least 2,000,000 automobiles have been scrapped in the last 25 years.

Los Angeles county, California, has almost as many automobiles as the whole of France.

JORDAN Smashes Prices on Quality Closed Cars

(Effective Today)

Now you can buy the fascinating Jordan enclosed models at the same price as other open cars in the Jordan class.

It is easy enough to reduce prices if you cut the quality as well.

Cheap car builders have attempted that in the quantity field.

It is something vastly different to improve quality and reduce prices at the same time. But that is exactly what Jordan has done.

Open Car a Luxury

Jordan knew that the open car was becoming more and more of a luxury—because it could be used with satisfaction for only a part of the year.

The enclosed car is now a necessity—because it affords comfort and satisfaction all the year around.

Five years ago Jordan predicted the present tremendous output of cheap closed cars—adding that he would never build one in that class.

Jordan knew that women would not long endure lack of ventilation-control and good vision.

Enclosed body production was at that time limited.

Eventually a Jordan

And the mass of cheaper car owners had not been educated to the use of closed cars.

Then something happened.

Quantity producers began to build enclosed cars in volume. The public bought in volume.

The process of education began.

Today nearly everyone wants an enclosed car.

Some will be satisfied temporarily with the cheaper kind.

Some may continue to use the old fashioned high priced and bulky type.

But those admirable people who prefer less bulk with equal quality, ease of handling, real gas and tire mileage, rare beauty—in short economy with distinction—will choose the Jordan.

How Jordan Does It

Jordan closed car prices are astounding—of course—when you consider Jordan quality.

But it's just as easy to attain volume on a quality car as on a cheap one.

And volume makes low overhead—low overhead makes price.

That's the story.

A Shortage—of Course

We cannot hope to deliver the new enclosed models at the new prices as fast as they can be sold.

There will be some irritating delays—no doubt.

That is the little payment we must make for success and satisfaction.

But just do this—

Go into any Jordan salesroom. Compare the Jordan enclosed models with only the finest closed cars built.

Then ask the price.

AUTO SALESMAN AND A FORMER OIL INVESTOR LOST ALL IN WILDCAT

An automobile salesman of the Overland Motor company of this city has written a letter to Mr. Overland in which he told of his great financial loss while speculating in oil. The letter follows:

"Dear Mr. Overland: Sure it funny how I got my job selling Overlands. You see I always was a great feller to take a chance on. I up and shot all of them seventeen dollars I had last year on a wildcat out in Archer county and we got a duster. Well you couldn't hardly say we got a duster but we run out of money and had to stop before we got to the oil. The being the case I could do either of two things: I could either go to work or starve, see starvin' being such a slow death I decided it would be easier to go to work and die hard, but I says to myself there ain't no use of you raisin' your 'spirits' nothin' hard so let's find something easy and so I decided to sell Overlands.

"Well I went up to the Overland place and after walkin' by four or five times and lookin' in I saw a empty chair and I walked in and poked down in it. Well after a while I had set there about a hour a feller come around and said his name was Roseberry and wanted to know could he do anything for me or was I waiting for someone. I said I noticed he had a lot of cars settin' around there and didn't he want to sell a feller like me for him. He said he was always lookin' for a good 'near' and I says 'I'm your huckleberry.' He said he asked me a lot of unimportant questions. Wanted to know did I ever have any experience and I told him yes I had sold soda pop and he wanted to know did I know the difference between a salesman and a order taker and I says yes I was a feller that peddled Overlands and Ford's but a salesman has something to sell.

"Then he wanted to know did I ever drink anything and I says yes anything. Then he wanted to know could I drive a automobile and I said he could. He says we got to allow any speedin' and wanted to know was I ever pinched for going fast and I says no but I was slipshod and besides I says I don't think your cars will go fast because they ain't seem to be tired. He didn't even laugh but he ain't got no humor now. Well after a few more important questions he said he guessed I would do anyhow as about all that was necessary was to let the people see the car and they would buy them so he took me in and introduced me to Mr. Elmer the big boss and after a few minutes of talk he called Mr. Roseberry aside and I heard him say, 'sure is a simple deal, feller' such an even countenance: you can see right through him; nothin' to stop you, keep your eye on him.' Well the minute I heard him say keep your eye on him I see right away what he thinks I am a good man.

"Well I understood another button and we went back into the shop and he introduced me to Dad Proctor who is king of the service gang and Dad give me a few dollars for that stuff which you ain't supposed to find around a garage and then he asked me if I knew anything about a Overland and I said some I know which is the front and which is the back because I got bumped in the back by the front of an Overland and I know it was the front because it wasn't the back.

"Well then he wanted to know did I know where the gimlin' tin was located on a car and I says yes the gimlin' tin is that which fastens the undeveloped horsepower to the wheel base. So Dad said he guessed I was right only he would put it different. Well I overheard him tell Mr. Roseberry that I was harmless, meanin' I guess that I understood a car pretty well and wouldn't do no damage to them; so I went to work settin' around the office waitin' for some feller to come in and buy a car which wouldn't be so bad if the chairs didn't have such hard bottoms and I would suggest that they buy some cushions but they are all the time talkin' about cuttin' corners the overhead but I ain't just fixin' out whether chair cushions would be overhead or not. What do you think about it?"

"Well since I been workin' several fellers have come in and bought Overlands and some of them I have tried to discourage, knowin' that they might need the money to go to shows or etc. but they would buy them so there ain't no dark stain on my conscience. The day after that to me so I have decided to steel my heart against them and let them go the limit so if you want to, you can just ship down them Overlands as fast as you get them made and I will pass them out for you.

"And so, I think you.

"CRUE DOIL."

MORE GASOLINE BOOTLEGGERS ARE EXPOSED IN OHIO

Exposures of short-measure gasoline continue to be made throughout the country. In twenty-four test purchases made under the auspices of the Columbus, Ohio, Automobile club, assisted by representatives of the office of City Sealer J. M. Shields, the investigating committee found that short measure was received in connection with nineteen of the purchases made.

In some instances, the shortage amounted to as much as one quart. The purchase made in each instance was in five-gallon lots. The dummy-tank method was used to get evidence, and as a result affidavits were filed in the police court by City Sealer Shields against the attendants or owners of seven stations or garages.

The Columbus, Ohio, Automobile club is affiliated with the N. M. A., which is cooperating in the effort being made throughout the country to see that all motorists get full measure when purchasing gasoline. A Columbus newspaper estimates, based on the investigation made there, that short-measure sales are costing Columbus and Franklin county motorists $384 a day.

BACK-TRAILING ON THE OLD FRONTIERS

"Wild Bill" Hickok, Greatest Gunman West Ever Knew, Helped Bring Law and Order to Border Towns of the West Where Bad Men of the Seventies Held Sway.

The fact that the great western plains country of America saw its first settlements of white men spring into existence during the years following the civil war had not a little to do with the long period of border lawlessness that forms one of the picturesque chapters of the western history. Men who had fought in the Union and Confederate armies and who had developed a lust for killing naturally turned westward to the new camps where law and order had not penetrated. For a time, in each new community, there were "bad men" who robbed and killed almost at will until the better class of frontiersmen, wearying of the reign of terror, finally took the law into their own hands and made the district a safe one in which to live and travel. In some of the bigger mining camps the task of punishing criminals was undertaken by vigilance committees, consisting, in some instances, of several hundred men. But for some reason the dangerous work of putting down lawlessness in the "cow towns" on the northern end of the Texas trail and at the various temporary terminals of the railroads following westward was more often done by a border town marshal with a reputation for being first on the draw. Wichita, Fort Dodge, Ellsworth, Hays City and similar towns in Kansas and other western states had peace officers who were noted for their fearlessness and for the swiftness of their guns. By far the most notable of these was James Butler Hickok, better known as "Wild Bill" Hickok, and still more familiarly in the west as "Wild Bill".

He was born in Deadwood, S. D., August 8, 1838, at the age of 23 years. He was credited with having killed 35 men in fair and open combat, according to the more often man's lights, most of his victims having been shot down in the line of his duty as marshal of one or other of the border towns. He was also credited with having killed several others while serving as a sharpshooter in the Union army and scores of Indians in fights with hostile tribesmen. Never was there a killing of a man excepting while performing his duty as a peace officer or in self-defense. No charge of murder or manslaughter ever was brought against him in court. Chivalric, daring and generous, he was the best ideal of the western "bad man," but his "badness" was directed only against the evil forces and with him the term is a misnomer.

Hickok has been accorded an honorable place among the men of the frontier and the western American history. He was born in the same system among army officers of the west who knew him, being a noted scout and never regarded in any manner as a tough. General Custer, shortly before his death in battle said of Wild Bill:

"He was a plainsman in every sense of the word, yet unlike any other of his class. Whether on foot or on horseback he was one of the most perfect types of physical manhood I ever saw. His manner was entirely free from bluster or bravado. He never spoke of himself unless requested to do so. His influence among frontiersmen was unbounded; his word was law. He was a soldier anything but a quarrelsome man, yet none but himself could enumerate the many conflicts in which he had been engaged."

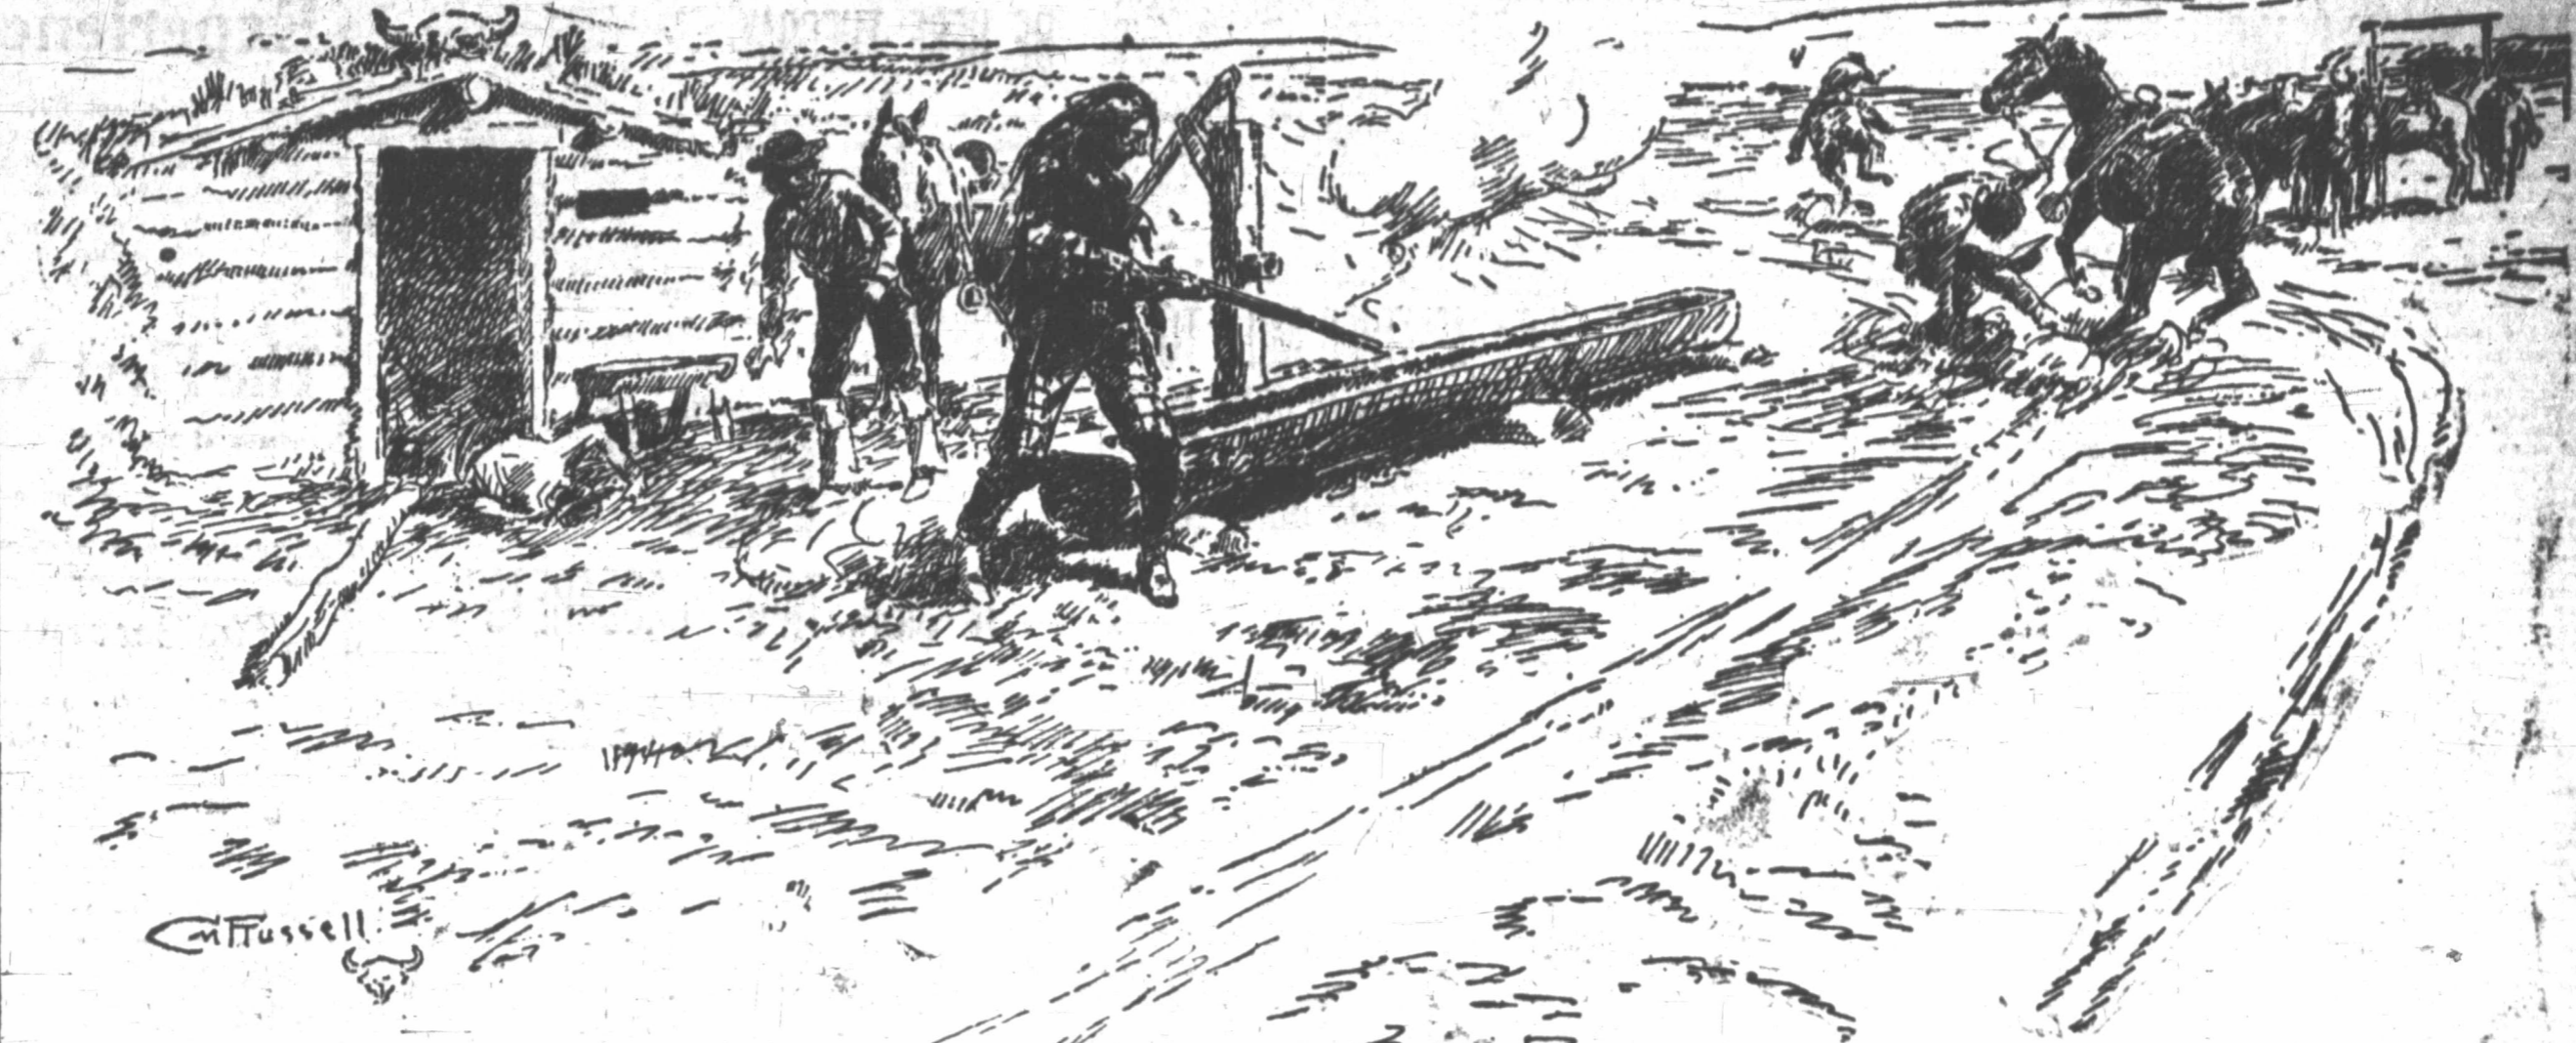

This tribute from one fighter to another was sincerely given out of respect born of long personal acquaintance, and it sums up the opinion generally held concerning Wild Bill by those who knew him best.

Hickok was born in La Salle county, Illinois, in May, 1837, and from his earliest years he heard of Kit Carson, Fremont, Bridger and other famous frontiersmen. These tales turned his thoughts toward a life of adventure, and while still in his teens he enlisted in 1855 under Jim Lane in the guerrilla warfare of Kansas preceding the civil war, which sprang from the "free soil" dispute. His soon gained a reputation for fearlessness and coolness in any crisis, and in a country where bitter factional feeling ran high and life was held cheaply, he was elected constable at the age of 19. He is described then as a "tall, gangling youth, six feet in height, with yellow hair and blue eyes." Later he grew into a man who answered the description of Custer, muscular, agile and graceful—the embodiment of physical power. His features were regular, clean-cut and expressive. His bearing was erect and dignified. His voice was always low and even, and while the most dangerous man in an encounter who ever trod in shoe leather, his temper was even and in no circumstances was he quarrelsome. He was a master of the six-shooter and the rifle. His aim was colossally good and he was so quick on the draw that a shot invariably meant death to his opponent. He killed more men in single combat than any other man known to American history.

In Kansas in his earlier years Hickok was known for some reason not recorded as "Shanghai Bill," and the name clung to him for many years. In 1861 he was a stage driver on the Overland, during which service he gained renown as an Indian fighter. That year he was placed in charge of the horse band at Rock Creek station, in the midst of a territory infested with gangs of horse-thieves. There was not a more dangerous region in America in those days, and there took place the greatest fight in Wild Bill's history. Emerson Hough, the western historian, declares this to have been the greatest fight of one man against odds at close range that is mentioned in any history in any part of the world.

The story of this fight that is considered the most authentic is told by Hough as follows:

"The borderland of Kansas was at this time, as may be remembered, ground debated by the anti-slavery and pro-slavery factions, who still waged bitter war against one another, killing, burning and plugging without mercy. The civil war was then raging, and confederates from Missouri were frequent visitors in eastern Kansas under one pretext or another. The most common of these was the most common, it being held legitimate to prey upon the enemy as opportunity offered. Two border outlaws by the name of the McCandlases had a gang of hard men in enterprises of this nature, and these intended to run off the stage company's horses when they found they could not seduce Wild Bill to join their number. He told them to come and take the horses if they could; and on the afternoon of December 16, 1861, ten of them led by the McCandlases Brothers, rode up to his dugout to do so. Bill was alone, his tablemen being away hunting. He retreated to the dark interior of his dugout and got ready his weapons, a rifle, two six-shooters and a knife.

"The assassins proceeded to batter in the door with a log, and as it fell, Jim McCandlase, who must have been a brave man to undertake so foolhardy a thing against a man already known as a killer, sprang in the opening. He, of course, was killed at once. This exhausted the rifle, and Bill picked up the six-shooters from the table and in three quick shots killed three more of the gang as they rushed in the door. Four men were killed in less than than many seconds; but there were still six others left, all inside the dugout now, and all firing at him at a range of three feet. It was almost a miracle that he was not killed. Bill now was crowded too much to use firearms, and took to the bowie, thrusting at one man and another as best he might.

"In this chance medley the knife wounds inflicted by Bill and his swarming foes did not at first drop their men; so that it must have been several minutes that all seven of them were mixed in a mass of shooting, panting and gasping humanity. Then Jack McCandlase swung his rifle barrel and struck Bill over the head, springing upon him with his knife as well. Bill got his hand on a six-shooter and killed him just as he would have struck. After that no one knew what happened, not even Bill himself, who got his name then and there. 'I just got sort of wild,' he said, describing it. 'I thought my heart was on fire. I went out to the pump to get a drink, and I was all cut and shot-to pieces.'

"They called him Wild Bill after that, and he had earned the name. There were six dead men on the floor of the dugout. He had fairly whipped the ten of them, and the four remaining had enough and fled from that awful hole in the ground. Two of these were badly wounded. Bill followed them to the door. His own weapons were exhausted or not at hand by this time, but his stablesman came up just then with a rifle in his hands. Bill caught it up from him and, cut as he was, fired and killed one of the desperadoes as he tried to mount his horse. The other wounded man later died. Eight men were killed by one."

After a year he had recovered sufficiently from his injuries to take service as a wagon master under General Fremont, and while near Sedalia to join the confederate forces. In getting the information he fought a knife duel with a Sioux Chief, Conquering Bear, killed his man, but emerging from the fight badly cut up.

One day after the war Wild Bill found himself in Springfield, Mo., where he was insulted by a noted pistol shot, Dave Tutt. Bill tried to avoid trouble, but the Missourians not only called him a coward, but threatened to kill him on sight. Bill offered to meet Tutt in the town square by appointment, and in a fair fight killed his man at the first shot.

Another notable fight took place in Nebraska, where four men started to make a joint attack on him. He dared the four to go into the street and fight him with pistols—the four in line, at the word and he to do the same. His first shot killed one man, but he was shot through the right shoulder and disabled in his right arm. He killed two more with his left hand and wounded the fourth so badly that he was unable to continue the fight.

Wild Bill's next experience was as a scout with Buffalo Bill in the campaign against Black Kettle. In the fight in which Black Kettle was killed, possibly by Wild Bill's rifle, the latter was wounded, and it took months for this wound to heal.

One of the toughest towns on the border then was Hays City, and the better element of the place employed Wild Bill as town marshal, and there he killed three men in a single combat. He joined Buffalo Bill in the latter's Wild West show for a time in the 70's, but not liking this life he became marshal of Abilene and two days later killed a desperado who was shooting up the town. Enemies on the cattle range offered a reward of $5,000 to the men who would kill Wild Bill, and eight men started for Abilene on a train to "get his head." Bill heard of it and met the train, killing one of the eight as they leaped from the train to escape from him. He established respect for the law in Hays City and Abilene after killing all who opposed his authority.

The rest of his life was spent at Deadwood, in the Black Hills, where he married after a few more battles in which he added to the toll of his victims—all killed in fair fight and either in enforcement of the law or self-defense. He now determined to settle down to a peaceful life after having become a popular national character. He had, however, little time to enjoy a life of quiet, for on the 2nd day of August, 1876, while sitting at a game of cards a gambler, Jack McCall, shot him dead from behind for no other reason than that he had a grudge against Bill. McCall was turned loose by a miners' court, but on being arrested by state officers a few days later was tried, convicted of murder and hanged.

Wild Bill was buried at Deadwood and a handsome monument erected over his grave, which has since attracted the attention of tourists to the story of the greatest gunman the west ever knew.

ONE of the problems faced by the natural gas industry of Texas is peculiar to this state—the sudden drop of temperature, almost without warning, known as a "norther."

When that happens, everybody in our whole territory wants gas, wants lots of it, and wants it quickly. As it takes many hours for the gas to move from the wells to this community, this sudden demand makes it extremely difficult to keep the supply up to the city gates.

Higher Pressure

For this reason our pipe lines carry a high pressure always—much higher than in many other gas fields, as high as good operating practice allows. But this might not always be sufficient to meet the universally increased use.

Therefore, when the weather man gives us warning, all wells are turned on to their full capacity. For this purpose men visit the wells at any hour of the day or night, through any kind of country.

Quadruple the Supply

Then the gigantic compressors pick up this gas and force it in ever increasing quantity on to the consumers. One by one the job, and when all are working the pipe lines is quadrupled over the ordinary amount in summer weather, and your home piping and appliances use, consumers may never notice the tivity called out by cold weather.
