CHICAGO MARKETS FLOODED BY FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

By UNITED PRESS
CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—Fruits and vegetables are flooding the produce markets and railroads are curtailing shipments, it was learned tonight.

The Chicago and Northwestern railroad announced today it had placed an embargo on potatoes, tomatoes and cucumbers because the produce is becoming too heavy for the road to handle.

Potatoes are selling for around 25 cents a bushel on the farm and, outside of wholesale houses are unable to get more than $1.50 a hundred weight.

"Potatoes are dirt cheap," said one commission man.

"After the railroads are through with him and his commission has been knocked off, the poor farmer gets little or nothing for raising potatoes."

Other vegetables are glutting the market, according to commission men and railroad agents.

Apples, which brought $1 a barrel at this time last year, are selling now at around $1.

Five thousand cars of fruits and vegetables, the department of agriculture estimates, are being shipped daily. This is 20 per cent more than normal at this time of the year.

WILL NOT FORGET FIFTH AND NINTH INNINGS OF GAME

By MILLER J. HOOVER
Manager of the New York Yankees.
Written for the United Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Long after I am through with baseball, I will not forget two innings of today's game—the fifth and ninth. It was the lucky fifth for the Giants and the unlucky ninth for the Yankees.
With the victory against us, the Giants have three straight to their credit and I will admit that the chances look bad for us but I am not going to give up until the last out. If the law of averages applies to baseball, the Yankees must win the game and if I am not mistaken they can yet win four games and take the series.
The streak of fortune which has favored the Giants all the way through the series gave them the victory again today. The breaks all came in the fifth inning. Snyder knocked one to Everett Scott and the ball bounded over his shoulder. With runners on first and second and one out, Ward was set for Bennett's batter. It was tagged for an easy play when again the ball took a western curve and went to his head. Then that wasn't enough, Melina Groh hit to Mays and the ball took another bound away from him and it was another hit.
Four runs counted when they were entitled to only one.

SAYS ACID STOMACH CAUSES INDIGESTION

Undigested food delayed in the stomach, decays, or rather ferments, the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that indigestion is caused by Hyper-acidity meaning there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten goes in the stomach much like garbage sores in a can, forming acid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest; we belch up gas; we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.
He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink it in afternoon, and thereafter, to continue this for a week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.
Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used for many stomach disorders with excellent results.

100-BARREL WELL IN MANKINS FIELD SHOWS NEW SAND

The test of Dillard and Knight on the Ferguson tract northeast of Mankins was drilled in late Saturday night and from present indications will be good for 100 barrels from an entirely new sand for this part of the country. The top of the sand was hit at 1875 feet and was drilled to 1925 feet when the hole quickly filled up with sand.
Casing was set and the well completed. With the completion of this well drilling will receive an added stimulus in this section of the county and a number of wells now producing from shallower depths will in all probability be drilled deeper.
About one-quarter of a mile northwest on the Ferguson tract, J. Stanley No. 3 is also testing out a rich sand picked up at 1195 feet.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Declaration of stock dividends by the Standard Oil companies of California and New York provided the impetus for a rapid advance in prices in stock market, the average showing a recovery of approximately 75 per cent from the recent reaction.
The course of the market confirmed the prevalent impression that the reaction, while coinciding with disturbing new developments in the near east, was largely a readjustment for a weakened technical position. Trading was largely in professional hands although the behavior of certain stocks attracted an outside following.
While the domestic situation continues to improve, the foreign situation is still a cause for concern in the financial community. This is evident by the special stress placed upon it this week at the convention of the American Bankers association, which drew more than 15,000 persons from all sections of the country. While banking opinion is divided as to the advisability of cancelling all or part of the allied debts to the United States it is largely with the theory that a near solution of the German reparations problem is essential to Europe's economic rehabilitation.
Domestic business is encouraging. Freight car loadings have now reached nearly the highest total in history. Anthracite and bituminous coal production is steadily increasing; steel production is approximately 75 per cent of capacity, or at the high mark of the year reached in June commodity prices are trending upward; the demand for commercial credit is growing; factory operations are on a larger scale and the number of unemployed is constantly growing smaller.

PRISONER SPRINTS TO LIBERTY WHILE GUARD USES GUN

Twenty days on the "rockpile" was too much for a young man who was convicted and fined ten dollars on a charge of vagrancy in the corporation court Saturday morning.

The young man, unable to pay his fine, was taken with the other prisoners to work on the streets.

Shortly after they started work he took advantage of the first opportunity and made a successful escape.

The officer in charge fired three shots at the fleeing man but 20 days is a long time and he lost no time in making good his escape.

Officers believe he is probably on his way to his home on the Pacific slope, where the life of a vagrant is easier.

A. & M. COMMITTEE EXPECTED TO MEET AT FT. WORTH SOON

WILL MAKE RECOMMENDATIONS ON WEST TEXAS SCHOOL.

MUCH DISCUSSION AND DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

Democratic Platform Urges Branch Agricultural School As Proposed.

DALLAS, Oct. 7.—Recommendations concerning a proposed west Texas agricultural and mechanical college are expected from a special committee of educators and members of the legislature. They will meet in Fort Worth soon to consider their program.

The committee was appointed at a recent meeting of residents of east, west and north Texas here. The fundamentals of a statewide program now in line with a plank in the democratic state platform were agreed upon at the meeting. A committee on legislation, composed of N. B. Spencer, president of the west Texas chamber of commerce; Lee J. Rountree, representative from Brazos county; Judge W. C. Davis of Bryan; Col. E. M. Cushing of Houston; W. H. Bledsoe, state senator; and R. M. Chilwood, representative from Nolan county, and Col. R. L. Fenick of Jones county, was appointed.

There has been considerable discussion and difference of opinion about an agricultural and mechanical college for west Texas. The Texas A. and M. college is at College Station, a few miles from Bryan. West Texas has asked that it be given a similar institution. Differences of opinion have developed whether the proposed school for west Texas be strictly an agricultural institution, or teach both agriculture and mechanics, and whether it should be under the control of the present Texas A. and M. authorities or a separate institution. Some west Texans demand an agricultural and mechanical school, free from the present A. and M. college.

The democratic platform on the question said: "Feeling that adequate and essential educational facilities should be provided without discrimination in every section of Texas, therefore, we urge upon the thirty-eighth legislature, a branch agricultural college in west Texas under the direction of the board of directors of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas."

SHOPLIFTERS GET QUANTITY OF HOSE FROM KRESS STORE

Saturday was shop-lifter's day at Kress' silk hose, many jewelry, perfumery and various other articles that are kept to attract the eye, were taken from the shelves. Silk hose seemed to be the most attractive for at least the most conspicuous purloinings.

"I'll pay his fine, mister, offered one of the feminine relations of a young negro who had reported himself with enough silk hose to last the number of the family several years with careful wearing. "His fine will be on the county road, if I have my way" returned the officer who relieved the negro of his supply of hose.

"What made you steal them cheap kind, why didn't you get those good ones" asked the negro girl who she found out that a good fine could not relieve the situation.

Shortly after the negro's arrest, a rooster and unsophisticated appearing white girl was reported by the store detective and turned over to the police. With her arms full of bundles from the day's shopping and her pockets and case full of small bottles of Scott's best, several pairs of silk hose, a variety of hair-pins and ribbon, she was found dead in her room at a hotel in Byers Friday evening, will be forwarded to Oklahoma City by M. L. Underhill, talking company for burial Sunday. He is survived by a nephew living in Oklahoma City.

NOCONA IS NOW PASSING THROUGH REAL OIL BOOM

NOCONA, TEXAS, Oct. 7.—It is no exaggeration to say that the little city of Nocona is now passing through the experience of a real oil boom. The hotels of the city are crowded and already the boarding houses out from the business section are rapidly filling up.

City property is changing hands every day at double the price of a year ago. The familiar scene of men being displaced in oil towns is here. Buying leases in general over a territory of several miles, and the increase in deposits of money in the two Nocona banks is large. The north Montague county oil prospects are exceedingly bright and

WAS A GOOD JUDGE OF LIQUOR

"Since a young man I had a liking for liquor and was considered a pretty good judge of it at one time, but constant drinking gave me stomach trouble, which became chronic. My stomach would have been a valuable addition to a gas factory. Doctors did not seem to relieve me. One day my druggist got me to try Myer's Wonderful Remedy, and I am now as good as now." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—Mack Taylor and druggists everywhere.

WICHITA FALLS HIGH WINS HARD BATTLE FROM HENRIETTA

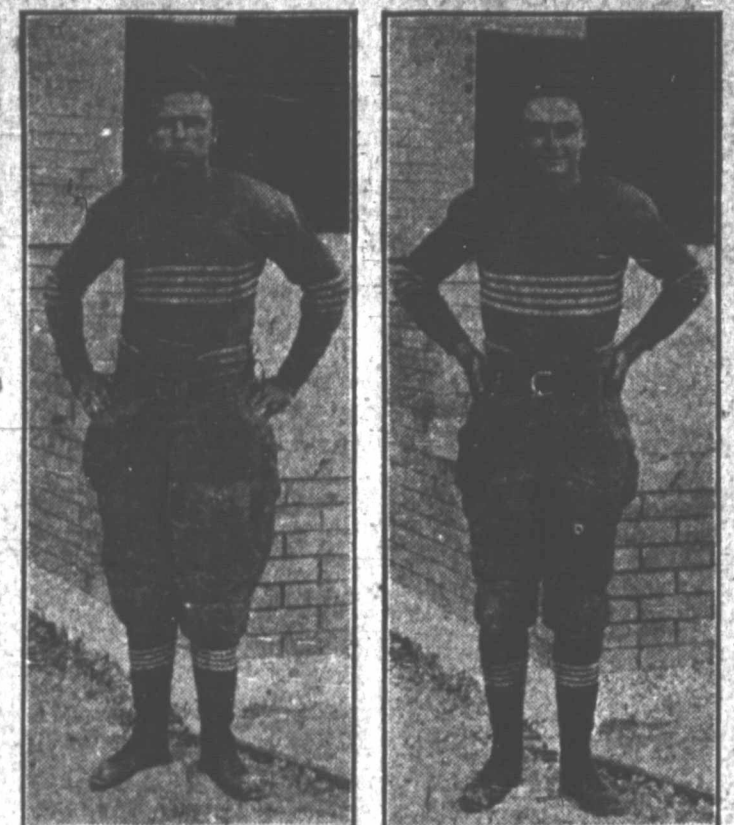

Red and Black Pushed To Limit Before Gaining Decision Over Opponent

By PAUL W. LARKIN

Overconfidence, that important factor which often determines the outcome of sporting events, came within an ace of eliminating the Wichita Falls Red and Black from the intercollegiate league race Saturday afternoon at Athletic park. The Red and Black, who were favored to give the Red and Black an early victory, but if ever a team was underestimated the Henrietians were. The Henrietians, however, victorious to the tune of 12 to 6, but they did so by the skin of their collective teeth and were it not for Coach Ed Deems' astute strategy and Baldwin, they would have been handily beaten or worse.

There is no game in beating the bush and trying to outguess the locals. The Cowboys were outfought and outplayed. They were outplayed by the Henrietians. Kirk Edwards and Frank McQuinn brought a crew to Wichita Falls which completely surprised the Red and Black. The Red and Black would at least have finished with a tie score. The contest, however, was the most closely contested of any in the league. The Red and Black were the first to score, but the Henrietians were the first to score again. The Red and Black were the first to score again, but the Henrietians were the first to score again.

WATCH THESE BOYS GO!

COWBOY OGAN, T. C. U. Center
BLAIR CHERRY, T. C. U. Quarterback

Two members of the Horned Frog eleven who will bear watching here next Saturday in the T. C. U.-Simmons game at Athletic park, are "Cowboy" Ogan, veteran center, and Blair Cherry, who has been most capably filling the vacancy left by Boob Fowler last year at quarter.

Ogan is expected to make a strong bid for all-Southwestern center this year as his defensive and offensive ability is second to none in the conference. Perhaps the highest tribute ever paid him came from the lips of Coach Ed Deems, who said that after that memorable T. C. U.-Centre clash, Ogan is quoted as saying that Ogan was the only member of the T. C. U. squad he would have on his team. Real football form is an unknown quantity as far as Ogan is concerned. He is a fighter from the word "go," and though every move he makes on the gridiron is apparently awkward, he is a player who attempts to do things in a manner that one not used to seeing very few gains have been made through the center of the Bears, and he has been holding down that position.

BEARS OVERWHELM S. M. U. IS STRONGER FOR LOUISIANA GAME

Cowboys Make Only One First Down; Connelly Breaks Collapsions.

Special to The Times. WACO, TEXAS, Oct. 7.—Coach Bridges' Baylor Bears walked roughshod over Simmons' college boys today by a top heavy score of 45 to 6. The Simmons boys could not stop the powerful drive of the plugging Baylor backs. The high wind and the warm weather considerably handicapped both teams, as passing and punting was made very difficult.

Simmons was unable to make his first down through the Bears' heavy forward line, and this came as a result of a five yard penalty in fourth quarter. At intervals during the entire contest was Baylor goal line in danger. Only one game was completed by Baylor. Bradshaw, Pittman, Jones, Blair, and Williamson made long gains through the Simmons eleven time and again. Blair, a new man in the back field, gave a sterling performance.

Blair failed to make a counter against the Bears during the first period, but came back strong in the second period and put over three markers, one each by Bradshaw, Crook, Blair, and Williamson. End runs and tackle around plays being used to make the gains. Bradshaw put over a single in the second period, and in the third quarter. During this period Ralph ran 35 yards through the Simmons line for a touchdown. Long gains by Jones, who substituted for Bradshaw, were also made in this half.

In the fourth quarter Bradshaw ran 30 yards through the Simmons bunch for a counter. Ralph Pittman made the last touchdown as a result of line backs and end runs by Crook, Blair, and Williamson. Goodman, Williamson, and Blair took the game away with the ball in Baylor's possession on Simmons' two yard line.

The crowd, which was the largest of the game, George Kirk at center, and Williamson and Blair at tackle, were especially strong. Goodman, Williamson, and Blair were impressive on the defense.

In the first quarter the Bears started a great run when their star half back, "Super" Connelly, went out of the game with a broken leg. He is expected to star this year in the back field.

The lineup: Baylor—Ends, Crook and Williamson; tackles, Williamson and Blair; guards, Goodman and Hartog; center, Kirk; quarter, Bradshaw; halves, Bishop and Connelly; full back, Adams; substitutes, Anderson, Moore, Wheeler, Brown, R. J. Pittman, Moore, Marshall, Dickson, McCullough.

Simmons—Ends, Barfield and Gibson; tackles, Beahar and Jackson; guards, Howerton and Taylor; center, McManey; quarter, Camp; halves, Johnson and Stewart; full back, Adams; substitutes, Thomas, Bradshaw, Yeager, Broadwell, Broadway, Yeager, Moore, Moore, Moore (VanDerbilt), umpire, Braun (S. C. U.), head linesman, Proctor (S. C. U.).

GOTCHER HIGH IN SINGLES AT SHORT

Deatherage Breaks More Targets But Handicap Beats Him Out.

Though Al Deatherage broke out of 50 targets in the regular weekly shoot at the Wichita Falls Gun club, the silver spoon trophy was won by Jack Gooder, who, by breaking 48 targets together with his handicap, finished with a perfect score. Poorer scores than usual were chalked up by the twenty odd strikers who gathered for the shoot. Those who shot clean for the first time were Al Deatherage, who broke 48 targets, and B. J. Tanner, who broke 47. Deatherage's score was 48, and Tanner's was 47. The following scores were made:

DANFORTH TURNS TULSA TO VICTORY IN DECIDING GAME

Texans Vanquish Phillips University

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 7.—Tulsa won the Western-Southern baseball championship by defeating the Mobile club this afternoon at Monroe Park 3 to 2. Due to the effective pitching of Danforth, former member of the St. Louis Browns, Tulsa won four games, Mobile one. The Oilers won two at home from the Bears, and one with them at Dallas, and then came to this city and won two straight.

Henry, who started for Mobile, broke a leg in the first inning when he walked three men and then threw the ball away into the bleachers to catch a play at third. Fulton scored, Danforth on the mound, and was taken out for pinch hitter, Sigman finishing the game.

The third score by Tulsa was due to a triple by Danforth, former member of the St. Louis Browns, who hit a triple in the sixth inning. The Mobile players were continually after the umpire to examine the balls used by Danforth. A number of balls were thrown out by umpire Brennan.

The two teams played a fast, exciting game. Danforth, former member of the St. Louis Browns, and Sigman, who hit a triple in the sixth inning, were the stars of the game. GIANTS MAKE THREE STRAIGHT OVER THE YANKEES

Hugmen Lack Necessary Punch and Breaks All Favor McGraw's Charges

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—With all the punch of McGraw and all the New York Giants men, Fred McHugh swept over the Yankees and won their third victory of the world series. It is the first time since 1905 that the Yankees have been swept over the Giants by the National League champions.

For the first four innings and the last four, the Yankees were the underdogs of the game. The Giants were shined up by the underhand slants of Carl Mays, the world's submarine pitcher of the Yankees.

If all happened in the fifth inning on five of the most breaks that could have been made, the Yankees were swept over the Giants. As a starter, Frank Snyder, the Giant catcher, drove one down to Scott, the pitcher, who then pitched. The ball took a bound in front of him and caromed off his shoulder into the hands of McQuillan, McGraw's latest bargain chase from the Boston Braves counter, then Dave Bancroft sent an easy chance to Aaron Ward. Again the ball took a bound and came away from him, scoring Snyder and McQuillan. Melvin Groh stepped into the parade of Mays, when he bunted down toward first. The ball bounded off Mays' glove, Pipp grabbed it and made a slide for first base, missed by inches.

Frisch scored Bancroft with a sacrifice fly and Groh came in later with a lucky single.

Just as suddenly as it started, the episode of breaks stopped and the Giants were held safe by Mays and Sam Jones, who pitched the ninth inning after Mays had been taken out for a pinch hitter.

Yanks Start Nervy.

Acting as if they had shed the batting slump which has had them almost helpless in the series, the Yankees started swinging. They scored their first run in the first inning and scored two runs.

With Dugan, Pipp and Meusel singled and a couple of runs that looked fine for a starter, McQuillan had made the mistake of serving the American League champions with high balls, on which they feasted. When they came out for the second inning, he started placing them over the bases, and the Yankees started swinging. They continued swinging the rest of the game.

Chasing for victory, as a tie in the sixth were ruined by foolish base running of Wally Schang, the Yankee catcher.

When slugging stopped when the series started, opened the base runners, and the Yankees were run down between second and third on Bob Meusel's infield roller. Schang then hit down the left field foot line and scored.

He was thrown out by a mile. Ward officiously killed the chance by firing to left.

Despite the deflating rain which fell at intervals all morning, the bleachers stood packed with fans with close to a capacity crowd. The haze of autumn, a fog from the Harlem river and the sombre blanket of a gray cloudy sky made it seem almost impossible to play.

Steering the game through the drizzle turned into a steady downpour but the umpires started the game. The Yankees were work all the way through. Considering the heavy footing and the handling of a wet ball, the play was fast and accurate. For a bad throw by Snyder to get Meusel stealing in the first inning, the defense of the Giants was perfect.

The Yanks played errorless ball, as they did in the previous three games, but their attack lacked punch, as it has lacked it all during the series. Their morale seemed to be shattered, and their hearts showed symptoms of weakness.

With three victories to none for the Giants, the Yankees were in the position of being overwhelming favorites to win the championship.

McGraw has his two best pitchers ready to go back and he has only one more game to win.

While no official announcement has been made, it was considered almost certain that McGraw would work behind Arthur Nehf, their southpaw star tomorrow, with Joe Tush going the hurrying for the Yanks.

Overwhelming odds were being offered tonight on the Giants in betting circles, but McGraw will win with the series and generous odds that he will win it with four straight victories.

The Giants started out dangerously when Bancroft led off with a single in the first inning. Mays walked, however, and got the side on two infield outs and a fly. The Yanks started off suspiciously also in the first inning, but they scored two runs on singles by Dugan, Pipp and Meusel. Bill Cunningham, the Giant centerfielder, robbed the Yanks of a home run when he ran clear back to the centerfield wall and made the most sensational catch of the series.

Little action occurred in the second inning. Mays got the first two Giants up, walked Cunningham and then retired the side. The Yanks went out in order.

Mays started to wobble again in the third when he passed Bancroft but Ruth saved him by making a sensational running catch off Frisch for the third out. Ruth got on base in the Yanks' half of the third but the rest of the side retired in order.

With Frisch Meusel out in the fourth inning, Young singled but was forced at second by Kelly. Cunningham finished the side by forcing Kelly at second. The Yanks went out easily in three straight.

Snyder started the big game in the fifth with a single through Scott. McQuillan put him on third with a double. Frisch, the left field foul line. Bancroft scored both of them with a single and Melvin Groh singled off Mays' glove. Frisch reached them both, scoring with a sacrifice. Bancroft scored on Meusel's infield out and Groh moved up to third. Young drove in Groh with a single and was run

CHICAGO WINS FROM GEORGIA ELEVEN IN INTERSECTIONAL TILT

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Alonso Stanger, United Press Staff Correspondent.

Thomas made two Chicago Touchdowns repelled the first invaders of the season today when they defeated the strong Georgia team, 20 to 6, in a work songy football.

Using straight football, the vicious attack on the Maroons broke ill for the battle of the season with the Princeton Tigers three weeks hence.

The wet field and slippery ball made the passing hazardous and the few which were tried went wrong.

Gorn started at full for Chicago in the first half and W. Thomas, who replaced him in the second, was the center of the spotlight.

Thomas made two Chicago touchdowns while Poynt was responsible for one field goal and Heile booted the other.

Neither eleven was able to score in the first quarter. Chicago kicked off to Georgia, but the Maroons covered on a fumble and worked the ball to the 20 yard line when the period ended.

In the second period Chicago backs continued to hammer the southern line. They gained first down on the 10 yard line, but three time plunges gained only five yards. Poynt dropped back and kicked an easy field goal. Chicago worked the ball to the Georgia ten yard line after the kickoff when the half ended.

The third quarter was all Chicago. Georgia kicked off and Chicago worked the ball to Georgia's five yard line where they were again held for downs. Heile who replaced McArthur at quarter, kicked an easy field goal. Georgia kicked off, but failed to gain and was forced to kick. Poynt, J. W. Thomas and Lawson, who were on the field to the four yard line. Thomas carried it over and Heile kicked goal. The period ended with the ball in Georgia territory.

Chicago scored another touchdown in the final period after Georgia punt had been blocked. The southern line, Poynt and Caruso crashed through the Georgia line to the one yard line and Thomas scored on a 15 yard line. Poynt and Caruso kicked goal.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 3.—The atmosphere overcame the hemisphere and horsehide sphere.

The mob was drowned and the Yanks went down for the third time.

An adequate description of the entire performance is found in any book of synonyms under "terrible."

The ball game had been a golf match instead of a rugged carnival. The teams would have led and charity won because both pitchers got into the hole in par.

The Yanks were the visiting team but the Giants lost their etiquette books.

Humor that the Giant pitching team had no spare parts was not verified.

Heroes for the Giants were Meusel and Schang of the Yanks.

Nick Altrock with his slow motion tennis seems to have substituted unobserved several times for the play.

But you can't expect fast swimming in baseball uniforms.

Games by biggest splashes was as follows:

First splash: Sixteen men and one boy saw ten feet water at the Atlanta, water, everywhere and not a ball in sight.

Second splash: First lady's hat is ruined. Seventy men drink water first time in 70 years. Yanks are playing Australian crawl stroke.

Third splash: If one batter was a Tom Kipper, observing an alleged strike would hit him on the nose. Giants start playing Australian crawl stroke. Ruth makes home run but the Polo Field umpire turned the wrong way. Looks around to find who turned it but fails.

Fourth splash: Pipp reaches for liner on bottom of pond but grabs clam instead. Clam says nothing, Pipp says nothing, Pipp says nothing. Ward up and around a little. Ward up and out. It is not raining, rain, to us it is pouring down.

Fifth splash: Meusel enjoys handball against right field fence but Giants play baseball. Poynt tries to catch it. He catches it but fails. Last men in bleachers get soaking wet.

Sixth splash: Schang's hat would be standing on end if he had any. Last lady rains her hat.

Seventh splash: Ward, who was struck for yesterday in the seventh by "Einer" Smith, makes "home" run. Excellent swimmer. Ward is.

Eighth splash: Smith, who struck out for three innings, strikes out Mays today. It is not raining rain to us it has almost quit.

Ninth splash: Raining again. With water in one eye and other eye on dirt we can see nothing. Bubbles rising from pond indicate game continues.

Exit crowd using crawl stroke.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 3.—The atmosphere overcame the hemisphere and horsehide sphere.

ANN ARBOR, MICH., Oct. 3.—Michigan triumphed in the opening of the season in a drizzle of rain at Ferry Field today 48 to 6.

After the first quarter in which both sides pulled a black, Yon's protegee settled down into their regular form.

In the third quarter, Stager put the large crowd of spectators on both sides of a sixty-yard end run for a touchdown.

1922 Baseball Season Remarkable for Records Broken in the Majors

The 1922 baseball season, just closed, stands out as one of the most remarkable in major league history.

The unexpected has happened, records have been broken, thrilling games have been produced.

The American League pennant winner was not decided until a day before the close of the season.

Three places in the American League race, which carries with it a juicy cut in the world series, also hung in the balance until a day before the close of the race.

Some idea of the battle for third place which was won by Detroit can be gleaned from the fact that Detroit finished one game ahead of Cleveland, the fourth-place team, and the Indians were just one game in advance of Chicago.

In the National League, second and third place positions in the race were not decided until the final day of the season.

Records Were Out Front.

Chicago, by winning a double header from Pittsburgh, took second place from that club. An even split would have insured the Pittsburgh club the runner-up position.

By Cobb, as usual, played a prominent part in the unusual happenings of 1922.

Three major league batting records were tied by Cobb.

By batting better than .300, Cobb equaled the record of Hans Wagner, who, for 11 seasons, topped that figure.

Equaled Kessler's Record.

In making more than 300 base hits, he equaled the record of Willie Kessler, who, for eight seasons, beat that mark.

By batting better than .400, Cobb equaled the feat of Jesse Burkett, who, in three seasons, recorded a .400 or better average.

Cobb's record, in a way, is more remarkable than Burkett's, since the season Hornsby made only 21 home runs.

In the American league, Ken Williams of St. Louis and Tilly Walker of Philadelphia need not have been mentioned in the same breath as Cobb.

A late start of eight weeks cut Ruth's figure to 35 for the season. Williams made 25, Walker 21.

See Home Run Record.

Hornsby, in making 43 home runs, set a new National League figure. In 1914 Ed Williamson made 41 home runs. That mark has stood the test of all the great hitters until Hornsby came through.

Ken Williams of the Browns and Walter Heintz of the Phillies, in making three home runs in one game, pulled the unusual.

Walker of the Athletics and Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals, on five occasions during the season, made two home runs in a game.

Connie Mack's team, after holding undisputed possession of last place in the National League, second and third place positions in the race were not decided until the final day of the season.

AIRPLANE VIEWS OF OPENING GAME OF THE WORLD SERIES

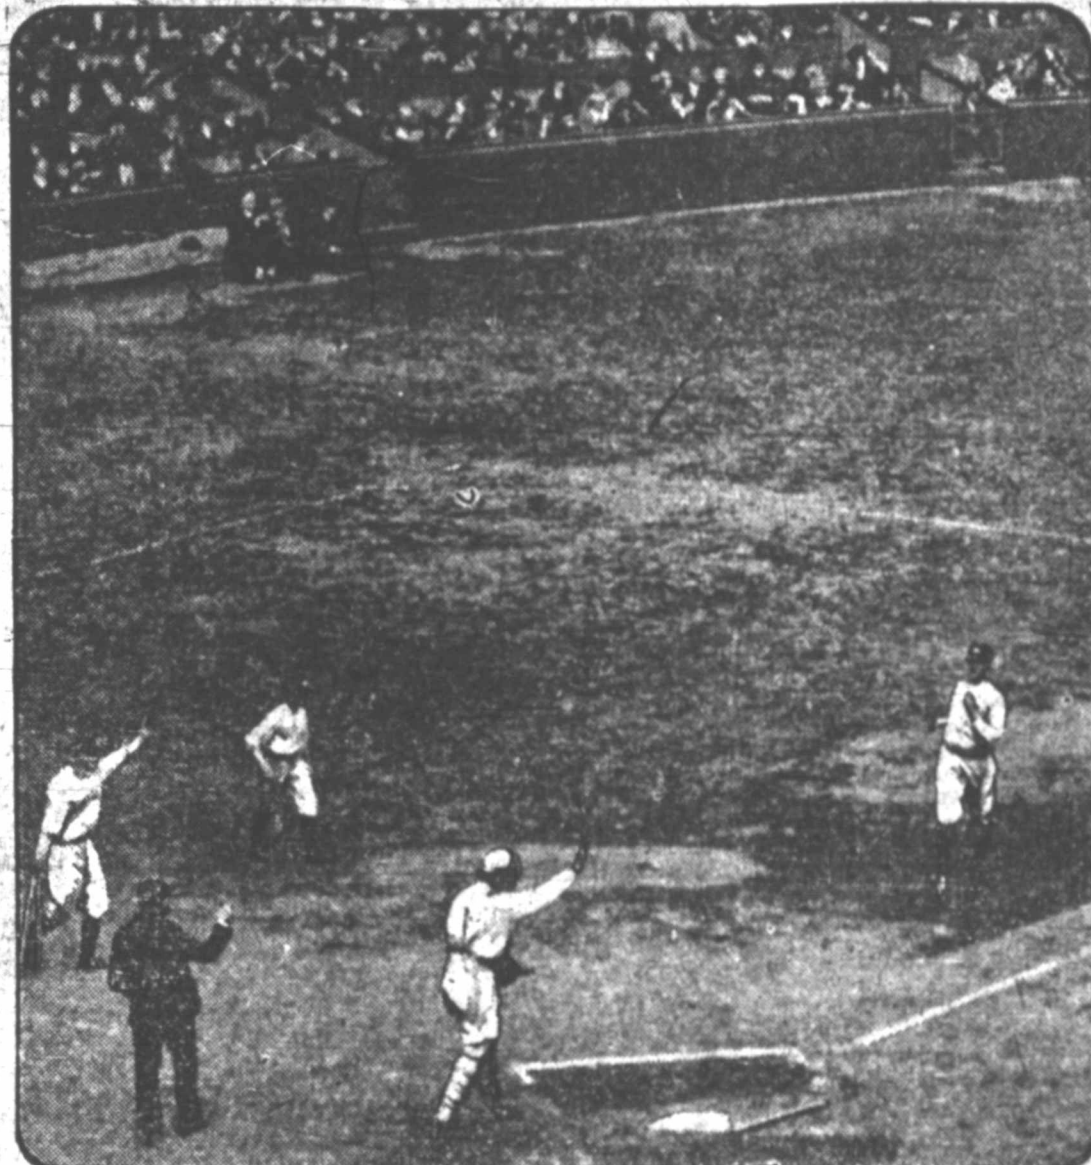

STRIKE ONE—The first ball "Dullet Joe" Bush served up to the Giants was called a strike, with shortstop Dave Bancroft at bat. Picture shows Catcher Schang squeezing the ball, while Umpire Klein is announcing his decision.

Picture shows the high point of excitement in the sixth inning when Dugan of the Yankees crossed the plate with the first run of the 1922 world's series on Babe Ruth's double. Dugan, at extreme right, scoring; Catcher Sarge of the Giants at his left. At extreme left is Umpire Klein, and behind him is Fipp of the Yankees, next to bat. In the back ground is Eddie Bennett, mascot of the Yankees.

BABE RUTH PANSY—A strikeout was Babe Ruth's first contribution to 1922 world series history. On his first trip to the plate in the opening game, the big Home-Run King took three lusty swings at Pitcher Neff's first three offerings, without even getting a foul tip. This picture shows Ruth's third fruitless swing, with the ball safely in the mitt of Frank Snyder, Giant catcher. Umpire Klein is shown behind Snyder.

FIRST WORLD SERIES RUN—Dugan, Yankee third baseman, is shown scoring the first run of the series in the sixth inning of the opening game. He scored from second on Babe Ruth's pretty single to right center, and Stengel's fumble let Ruth reach second. Snyder, Giant catcher, is signaling Stengel not to throw home, while Wally Fipp, just going to bat, is wigwagging Ruth to hold second.

The photographs shown on this page, snapped during the first game of the world's series at the Polo Grounds, were rushed by rail to Van Courtland park, New York, and placed aboard a special plane piloted by W. L. Smith, famous "picture scoop" flyer, who made a landing there by special permission of the New York police.

HIS JOB'S SURE

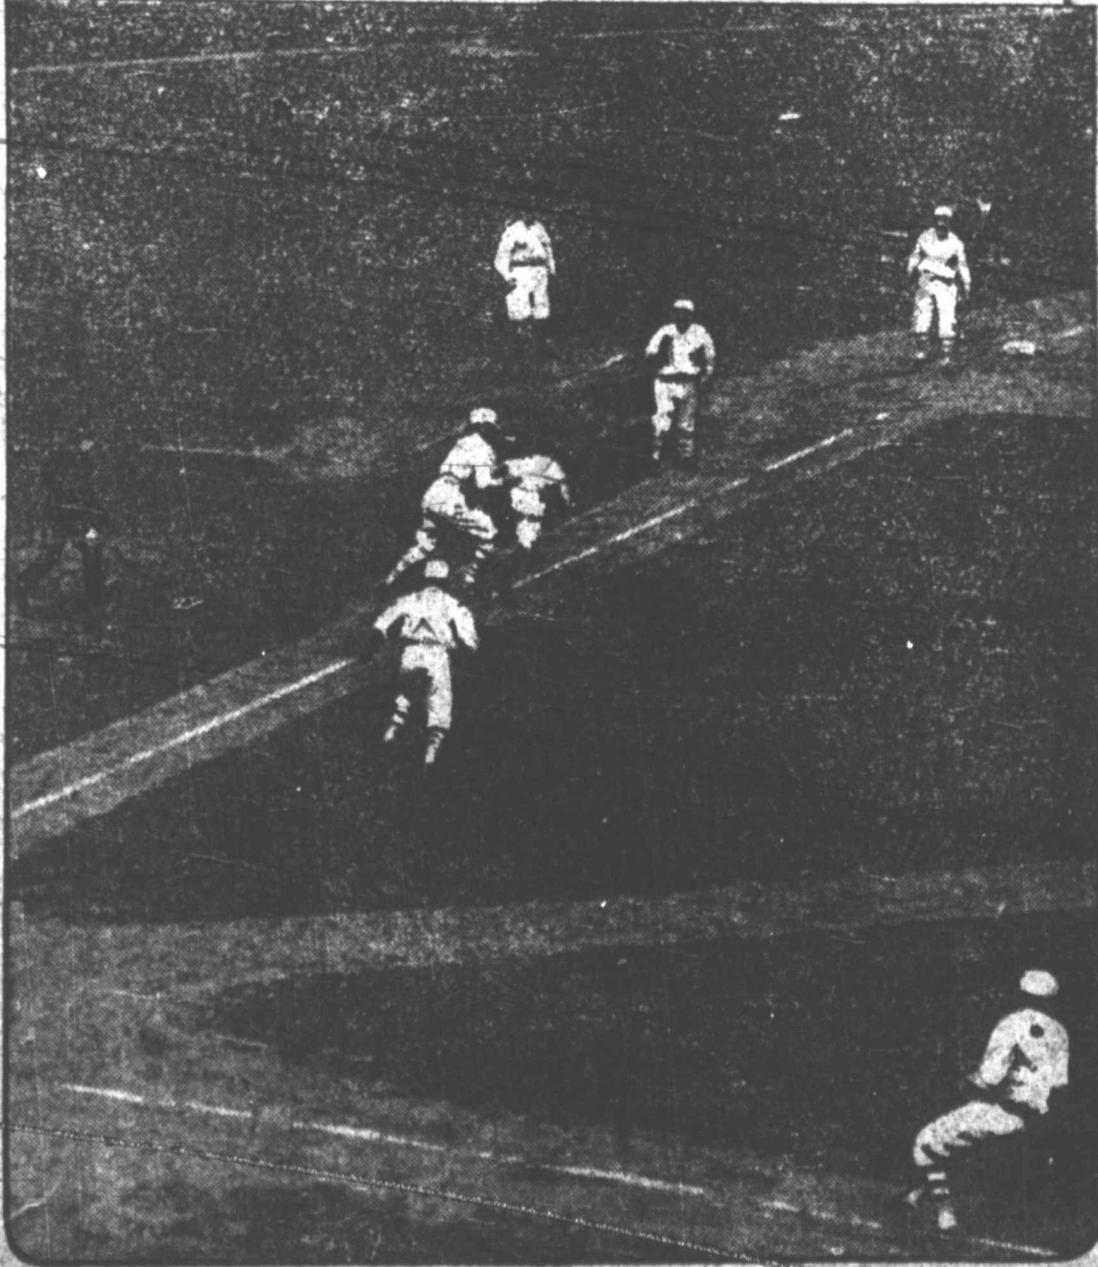

The Boston Braves' showing in the National league was one of the distinct disappointments of the season. Owner Grant says he intends to give Boston a winner and will make a clean sweep, if necessary. "On only one position have I definitely made up my mind, first base. Holke will play that position." So says Grant. Which means that Holke is the only one of the Braves who is sure of his job. Holke came to the Braves from the New York Giants. It is said McGraw always resented making the trade. Holke swings from either side of the plate. He is a left handed thrower. It is said that Pittsburgh stands on ground once given in exchange for a victim. Fifteen thousand persons lost their lives in fires in the United States last year.

Centre 55, Mississippi 0. DANVILLE, KY, Oct. 7.—Centre college marched through the University of Mississippi eleven here today, running up a score of 55 to 0. Two minutes after the whistle blew the "Fraxino Colonies" had scored a touchdown. About three minutes after play had resumed Hudnige broke away for an 80 yard run, resulting in the second score. Captain Red Roberts seemed to give the team renewed life. In the second half the game was played mainly by substitutions, the regulars being reserved for Harvard. Covington again proved he was capable of filling the famous "Bo" McMillian's shoes by tearing off several long runs and kicking a field goal. Mississippi depended largely on punting.

Penn 27, 17, of South 8. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—The University of Pennsylvania today defeated the University of the South 27 to 8 on a rain soaked field in the first local inter-sectional game. Neither team showed to great advantage, although Captain Penn Miller and Tex Hammer made repeated gains through the Sewanee line. Frequent fumbles on the part of the southerners in the early periods of the game made possible the two first Pennsylvania touchdowns.

ROCK ISLAND RENEWS AGREEMENT FOR YEAR WITH ITS ENGINEERS

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—The Chicago Rock Island and Pacific railway company today renewed for one year its wage, working rules and conditions agreement with its engineers, the first road in the west to do so. It was learned the brotherhoods must sign such agreements individually with the railroads inasmuch as the committee representing the western managers' association has disbanded. Baking—shades, the largest known variety, grow to 22 feet.

HERE'S WHERE YANKS LOST A RUN—The Yankees might have scored two runs had Oscar Witt taken too long a chance. With one down Witt pulled a triple then dashed for the plate on Dugan's easy grounder so short and was trapped. Picture shows Hank Snyder, Giant catcher, touching Witt out; and Noah, Giant pitcher, is running to back up Snyder. Behind them are Dave Bancroft, McGraw third baseman and shortstop, respectively, are shown between Witt and third base right after Noah's out. Babe Ruth hit a long single and Dugan scored the first world-series run from second base.

Here's the boss of the United States army and the boss of baseball watching the first game of the world's series from a box at the Polo Grounds. General John J. Pershing at left. At right is Kenosaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, and Mrs. Landis.

Picture shows Whitney Witt, Yankee center fielder, kicking up a cloud of dust as he slid into third base on a triple in the sixth inning of the first game of the world's series. In front of the bag is Heinie Groh, Giant third baseman. Umpire Owens at left, calling Witt safe. In the foreground is Coach O'Leary of the Yankees.

Your Hands Always Know More About Some Things Than You Do

THE movie show is modernized pantomime. It represents therefore a kind of theatrical art quite different from that of the speaking stage; and the players, being voiceless (save in so far as fragmentary sentences thrown at intervals upon the screen can give an idea of what they say), are obliged to rely largely upon gesture.

For this reason many players of established stage reputation have been wholly unsuccessful in the moving pictures. Without the spoken word their acting was ineffective.

On the other hand, many of the foremost stars of the present-day movies would doubtless fail to achieve any measure of distinction on the speaking stage. There is an art essentially pantomimic.

In the movies much of the player's effectiveness depends upon the hands. Gesture is of utmost importance. But the forms should be understood as including all attitudes of the hands which are expressive of thoughts and emotions. Taking it in this comprehensive sense, gesture assumes to a great extent, for the screen, a function equivalent to vocal speech.

Gesture, needless to say, is fundamental to pantomime; and thus it is observable that the most successful movie actors and actresses today are exceedingly clever in the use of their hands.

It was said long ago of Sarah Bernhardt that her hands were as expressive as her features. Her skill in the use of them was an important part of her dramatic equipment. Hands, like faces, have their expressions, which may be so varied as to display a great variety of emotions.

If people had no faces, we should be able to recognize one another by the physiognomy of the hands. By observation of a person's hands it is possible to form a notion of his character and individual peculiarities; to some extent, that is to say, if the subject be studied. This has nothing to do with palmistry, which is pure humbug, the "lines" of the hand being mere folds between the muscles. But if it be admitted that hands have a physiognomy of their own, why should it not be indicative of character, like that of the face?

IT IS surmised that the emotional expressions of the hands are derived from gestures anciently useful for self-preservation or other purposes. Thus the fist is an instrument of defense, held ready in case of danger or alarm.

Any strong excitement will cause the fists to clench.

If, however, the emotion be one of horror or fright, the palms of both hands are extended forward, the fingers drawn strongly back, as if to repel the object of dread.

Dread is expressed by a curved and claw-like extension of the fingers. The miser in a play, somewhat conventionalized as a type, invariably emphasizes this attitude of the fingers to denote avarice and grasping cupidity.

In supplication the hands are extended with palms upward, to show that they hold no weapons. The posture therefore is expressive of helpless appeal. Another mode of conveying the same idea is to hold out the hands with the palms clasped together—the conventional attitude of prayer.

The hands express mental agony by clutching one of them and passing it through the other, with a convulsive twist as the ends of the fingers are reached. We call this "wringing" the hands, and to explain it is not so easy.

A hand hanging limp and motionless suggests repose of mind and body.

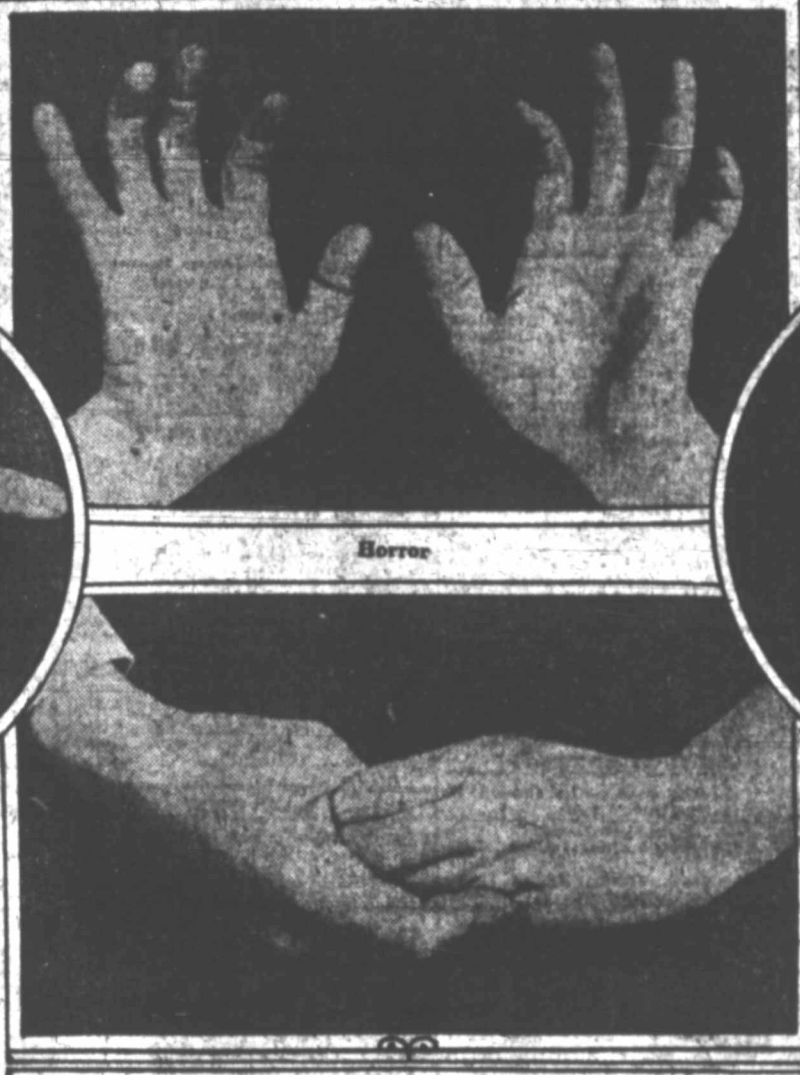

Supplication

Greed

Anxiety

Horror

Distress

Anger

Anxiety is denoted by a strained and nervous backward flexing of the fingers.

These points are merely elementary. They offer no more than a suggestion of the many ways in which the hands may be used by a clever pantomimist for expressing ideas and emotions.

Your hands are trained automata, and most remarkable it is that they seem to know a great deal more than you do about ever so many things.

Your fingers know how to tie your necktie much better than you do. If you fix your conscious mind upon the turns and twists, they are likely to go wrong. But think of something else while you perform the process, and it comes out all right. It seems to do itself.

Unlike mechanical automata, they seem to possess a sort of intelligence of their own. Not that they actually do any thinking, of course, which is the brain's business; but they learn things and remember them in a wonderful way.

Many years of practice have taught them how to dress you, to feed you, and to perform a great variety of other tasks. But their purely automatic function may be illustrated by an amusing sort of happening that has occurred doubtless to every one of us.

You have gone to your bedroom to change your shoes or some garment. Your mind is busy with other matters, and suddenly you discover, to your great surprise, that you are half undressed. Your hands, without your knowing it, have been putting you to bed.

Perhaps you are accustomed to write on the typewriter. But, even though you may be a skilled operator, it will puzzle you to be asked, when there is no machine at hand, where certain letters—say, S and N—are located on the keyboard. Yet your fingers find them instantly and without hesitation. They know the keyboard.

Much more remarkable is the illustration afforded by the piano. A skilled performer will play with perfect accuracy a long and complicated piece of music while keeping up a lively conversation with another person standing by. The player is giving no conscious attention to the movements of her fingers; they act automatically in response to a subconscious direction, themselves, as it would appear, attending to the purely mechanical part of the business.

Your hands attend to the whole business of dressing you every day. While you put on your clothes you are thinking of something else. But your hands do not hesitate or bungle the job; they just go ahead and do it as it ought to be done, with a minimum number of movements, because they have had long experience. When they are finished, you take a look at yourself in the glass and find that everything is all right, with perhaps one or two final corrective touches.

They put on your shirt, button your collar and comb your hair while your mind is on other things. A woman does not have to think about what she is doing while she arranges her hair, even though her attitude be somewhat elaborate. Her hands, unaided in the art, know how. When it is done she takes a critical look at the back of her head with the help of a hand-mirror, bestows a few judicious parts here and there and approves the result.

At the table, while eating, your mind is usually occupied with conversation, and you are hardly conscious of the processes by which your food is conveyed to your mouth. Your hands attend to all that business, and they do not pick up a fork and try to use it as a knife, or commit any other such absurdity. Observe a woman while she knits. Is she thinking about what she is doing? Not at all. Her mind is busy with something else; perhaps she is talking to a neighbor. She may even be reading a book. But if she drops a stitch, her hand tells her. She looks, sees the mistake and corrects it.

Ask any woman how in sewing on a button she is always able to hit the holes with her needle. She never fails, but she cannot tell you why. Her fingers, if they were able to talk, could tell you. They know.

A card player while dealing is thinking of something else. The process is purely automatic. But if two of the cards happen to stick together, the fingers give instant notice.

It is a matter of everyday observation that some people's hands are much cleverer than other people's. Thus we speak of one person as possessing exceptional manual dexterity, while another person is "clumsy" in handling things.

What a wonderful deal of knowledge must be stored in the thumb of the right hand to enable it to perform skillfully so great a variety of tasks!

The finger next in importance to the thumb for the purpose of manipulation is the middle finger. But that finger, though larger and stronger than the forefinger, is shorter than the latter. The case seems to be just the opposite if you look at your hand, but examination of a skeleton's hand will prove the fact; for the forefinger starts from a point further back in the hand.

The selection of the fourth finger as the ring finger—its use for which purpose dates back to prehistoric times—was in all likelihood due originally to the fact that it is the least free in its movements of all the fingers. Accordingly, a ring encircling it interferes less with the use of the hand than if placed on any other digit.

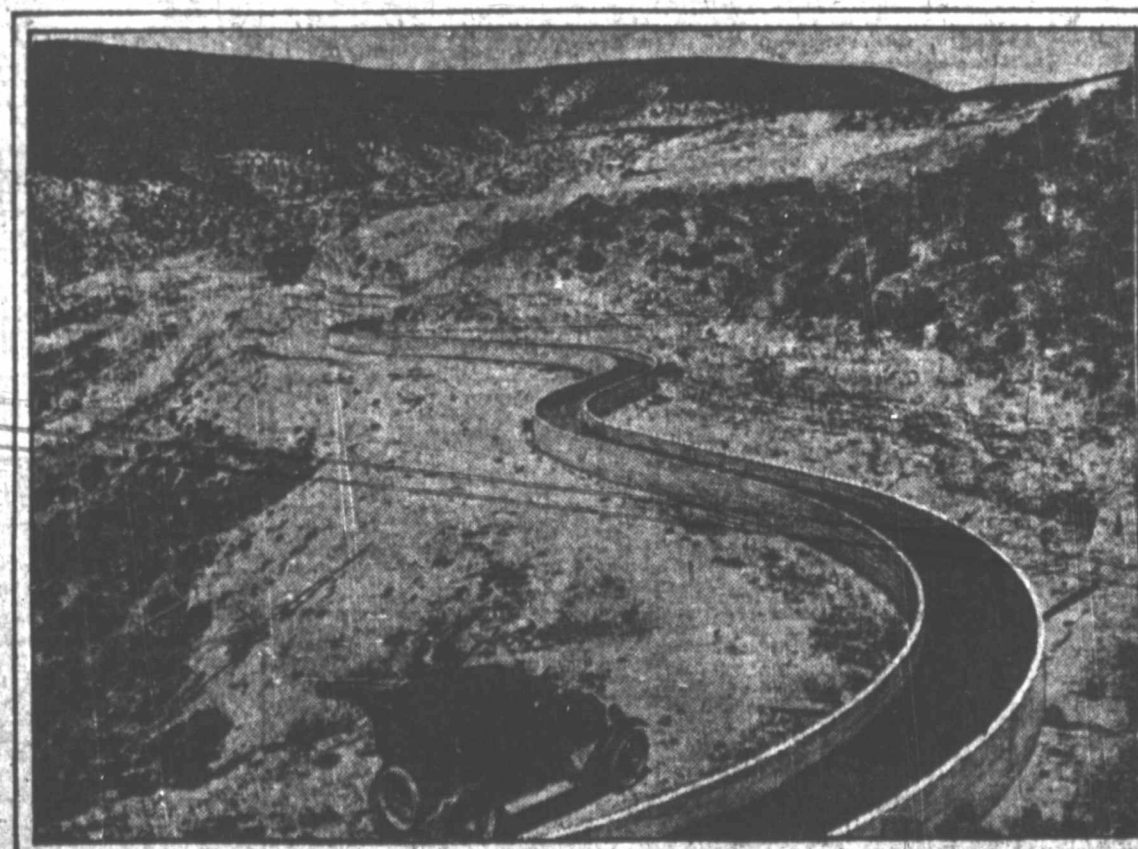

It happens that the extensor tendon of the fourth finger is attached to those of the third and fifth fingers by cross-bands, which restrict the movements of the ring finger considerably. Anybody may test this for himself by holding the third and fifth fingers forcibly bent and trying at the same time to extend the ring finger.

The upper bones of the arm is twisted in a peculiar way to make the hand a better tool by bringing the thumb into a more favorable position.

THE real wrist is the elbow joint. All in hand from that point to the tips of the fingers. When you turn your wrist, it is the whole forearm that makes the twist and every movement of the fingers is controlled by the muscles of the forearm. In making the twist at the elbow joint the great "biceps" muscle in the upper arm is important concerned, its powerful action in turning the forearm outward being accounted for the fact that we are able to put so much more strength into a twist in that direction than the opposite way. Many of our most familiar tools, such as the screwdriver, are made with reference to this anatomical arrangement. It is for this reason and no other that all screws turn to the right.

The hands of an ape have no expression. But those of a human being can talk with a language of their own as plainly to be understood as vocal speech; and it is a fact worth noting that clever people use their hands cleverly in gesture, whereas it is quite otherwise with dull and stupid folk. Facility in expression with the hands can be cultivated, like facility in the use of spoken words. Players in the moving pictures are obliged to cultivate it, for upon this silent language they must largely depend for the effectiveness of their pantomimic art.

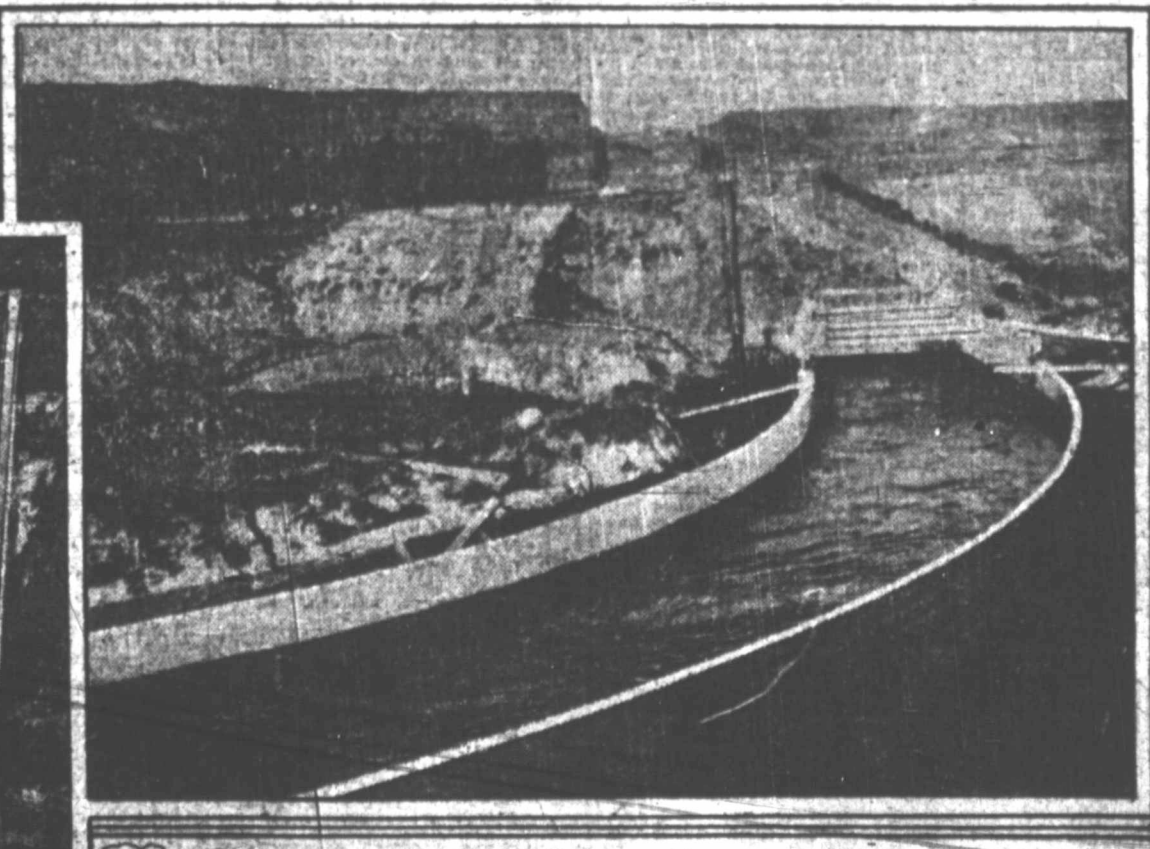

How They Have Moved a Whole River and Put It to Work

This canal carries the Malad River thirteen miles

Siphons carry the river from one valley to another

Where one of the siphons crosses Snake River Canyon

IN SOUTHERN IDAHO there is a mysterious river called the Malad. Its source is a single spring which bursts forth from a precipitous cliff of lava.

But whence comes the spring? There lies the mystery. For the cliff is the edge of a vast volcanic plain, 100 miles wide, in all the expanse of which there is no living stream.

A theory held by geologists is that the waters have their original source in a range of mountains far to the North, and that they flow beneath the lava bed, through subterranean caverns, coming out at length in a gushing stream that emerges from the cliff-wall.

It reminds one of the poem: In Kansas dwell Kaleb Khan, Where Alpa, the sacred river, ran Through caverns measureless to man Down to a sunless sea.

But it may be supposed that the river Alpa, in its subterranean course, ran through limestone caverns such as are often hollowed out of that easily-disintegrated kind of rock by flowing water. The formation in Idaho is a volcanic sheet poured out over the land two bygone ages by a tremendous eruption of molten stuff from the bowels of the earth.

There is a tract of about twenty-six square miles in the Snake River Valley which has offered great possibilities of productivity if only it could be supplied with enough water. But the land is so high that it could not be irrigated by water from the Snake at a cost low enough to make the project feasible economically. The situation presented a problem that seemed to defy solution until the engineers of the Government Reclamation Service hit upon the idea of taking the Malad River and fetching it over from its own valley into the valley of the Snake.

This remarkable engineering achievement has been accomplished with perfect success, the water being brought across by a number of huge siphon pipes, supplemented by thirteen miles of cement-lined canal, the latter for much of its length running along the abrupt canyon walls of the Snake River.

Compare Cars by standardized tests As Experts Do

There are 12 vital tests used by automotive engineers in judging different makes of cars. Their method is now available to the public.

Three years ago we gave to the public the accepted standards of comparison used by the leading automotive engineers. Previously their method had been a trade secret because it was so technical.

So welcome and so successful was this plan that we have continued it and now announce the Third Annual Marmon Demonstration Week, October 9 to 14.

Men and women of wide acquaintance and pleasant personality who are known to be high class honest folks may make a very profitable arrangement with us to devote a portion of their time introducing our representatives to possible customers.

KLAN IS REFUSED STATE FAIR PARK FOR AN INITIATION

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 7.—An apparent effort on the part of the Ku Klux Klan to use the state fair park for an initiation ceremony was blocked tonight by state officials. The first intimation of the plans of the Klan came during the afternoon when several men visited the grounds and informed the caretaker that they intended to hold a meeting there at night, but refusing to say for what purpose.

R. J. White, a member of the state fair advisory committee, was informed and getting into touch with Klan representatives who had announced a meeting would be held tonight told them that no meeting could be conducted at the park without written permission of either Governor John J. Blaine, present with five deputies, no attempt was made to enter the grounds.

TARRED AND FEATHERED BY MEMBERS OF KLAN

FICHER, OKLA., Oct. 7.—Jack Anderson, 49 years old, local barber, today related a story of being taken from his home early last night to a point on the banks of Lytle creek, southeast of Douthat, where 15 persons attired in robes of the Ku Klux Klan stripped him of his clothing, applied the lash to his back and legs, gave him a coat of tar and then returned him to Ficher, where he was put off a car on the main street.

Anderson said his abductors accused him of having intimate relations with a married woman and refused to heed his expostulations of innocence.

The barber said his hands were tied behind his back after his clothing was removed. Two of the men then stepped forward, one with a blacksnake whip.

"The lash was then applied and I was given another chance to make a statement," Anderson said. "Again refusing, I was subjected to several more strokes from the whip. After a brief pause, I was administered a third whipping, the whip bringing the blood with every stroke." Anderson said other members of the party then moved to a jar of molten tar from which he was covered from head to foot with a thick application.

The barber said he was then returned to Ficher.

Until the petition is received the course to be followed will not be determined, state officials said tonight.

Attorney General Keeling or one of his assistants will probably represent the state at the hearing at New Orleans on October 16 it was said tonight, while part of the state's legal force will be concerned on the same day to plead the state's case in the temporary injunction against certifying Earle B. Mayfield's name as democratic nominee.

TIMES' MAGAZINE AND WOMAN'S PAGE

Club Dinners, Golf Tournament, Marriage Announcement, and Bridge Parties Feature Week's Social News

October has picked up the threads of late September and opened with a busy week of club dinners and first meetings, a golf tournament, another engagement announcement, bridge and social clubs, and the busy Parent-Teacher councils. The splendid woman's work done at the Texas-Oklahoma fair, to make a success of which practically every interested woman and girl citizen in Wichita Falls contributed something, seems to have lent an impetus to the fall organization plans, and the month has started off with a swing of real energy and interest.

Alamo Mothers Busy Equipping New Cafeteria

The Alamo parent-teacher council meeting Friday afternoon at the school auditorium passed every other meeting the council has ever held in point of attendance, with so many mothers, fathers and teachers present that the halls overflowed into the campus. Mrs. L. R. Buchanan, president of the council, was in the chair.

The feature of the meeting, beside the pep and enthusiasm of the workers, was the reports on the equipping of the new cafeteria which the school board has recently built for the Alamo children. The following episode donations were named: An $84 Hoosier cabinet from Mr. and Mrs. Saul Lebnson; a big $12 Leonard refrigerator from the Frear Furniture company; a $68 Detroit Jewels range from the Noble-Little Hardware company; a complete hot water heating system, installed by the Kruger-Pois company, at a cost of $40; $225 worth of dishes from the Scott-Hower company; $13 worth of forks from T. During Friday's meeting, Miss Cammack was elected secretary to succeed Miss Ruth Skayton, resigned, and Mrs. G. W. Reid, chief of the club, was elected president and chairman of the entertainment committee. The council voted to hold a banquet the first week in December, and Mrs. D. J. A splendid program was enjoyed during the afternoon, with a talk by Judge Townsend which was very much appreciated. Several excellent musical numbers were given.

"The Cameo Girl"; Successor to "Springtime", Will Be Presented By Business Women Nov. 3 and 4

"The Cameo Girl," a musical comedy which will employ the talent of the Business and Professional Women's club augmented by the best musical talent among the younger people in the city, will be presented by the Business Women's club Friday and Saturday, Nov. 3 and 4, at the Wichita theater, according to announcement made by the board of directors of the club Saturday.

The 2500 theater goers who attended the three performances of "Springtime," staged by the Business Women's club in October last year, will recall that "Springtime" was declared to be the best local talent play ever produced in Wichita Falls. The young people and children took part in "Springtime" and the play was splendidly staged, with a delightful blend of old southern romance blending together two hours of music, dancing and exceptionally dramatic work.

Of interest to all of those who saw "Springtime" and advertised it among their friends is the announcement that Torrey T. McKinney, who directed the play last year, will stage "The Cameo Girl" with the assistance on both nights of presentation of a professional stage manager.

The business women announce that their intention is not only to make money but to build on the foundation already laid for an annual first class local talent musical comedy for Wichita Falls, in which every citizen may have an interest in the play, and the beauty of its staging, costumes, dancing and music.

NEW CLOTHES FOR SCHOOL

When the regulation Peter Tom begins to pull on the spirits and all small clothes become a snare and a delusion, it is time for the modest young woman to speak to her mother seriously about new dresses. Unity Dinner At Wichita Club Beautiful Affair

The Unity club dinner at the Wichita club Friday, when Mrs. Carrie Jolins, president of the club, complimented the charter members of the organization, was an enjoyable occasion the club has ever attended.

A happy feature of the dinner was the toast when charter members who started the little circle on its cruise 26 years ago recalled the history and happenings of the first few years, and incidents concerning the 10 members who laid the foundation for the present circle of 125 active and associate members. Mrs. J. A. Kemp acted as toastmaster and inspired an interesting session of talks and songs.

Another feature was the presence of a charter member who has moved from the city, Mrs. Charles Nicholson of Tulsa, Okla., who was one of the specially honored guests at the dinner. The others, among the charter members, honored included Mesdames Kemp, Darrell, Goring and Carrigan.

The tables were very lovely with its snowy linen and silver appointments, and the delicate pink and white flowers, and the program of the evening was most enjoyable. Responding to Mrs. Kemp's suggestion, Mrs. E. B. Goring told about the club "The Beginning—Twenty-six Years Ago" and how it originated in the minds of Mrs. Joline and Mrs. Kemp. Mrs. M. B. Darrell, chronicler of the club, gave "A Chronicle" with a witty characterization of the first members. Mrs. Carrigan, toastmaster, "Our Daughters" reminding the members of the heritage that they are passing on to their daughters and their daughters' daughters.

The interesting program was given, opening with a song by Mrs. Young, a piano number by Mrs. F. R. Collier, a piano number by Miss Katherine Klauer, and closing with a general discussion on "Service" led by Misses Elizabeth Carrigan and Bellars.

41 VOTERS HAVE PAID POLL TAXES FOR COMING YEAR

THIS NUMBER INCLUDES 12 WHO RECEIVED CERTIFICATES OF EXEMPTION.

PETITION MAY BE PRESENTED MONDAY TO COMMISSIONERS

The petition asking for another election on the 115,000 branch hospital bonds may be presented to the county commissioners when they meet in regular session Monday. It was reported that the petition was to have been presented in regular session last week but for some unknown reason the matter was held up. The petition for another election on the issue follows on the heels of the announcement of the county attorney that the election in his opinion was illegal. This statement was made after a careful investigation was made of the charges brought by the contestant in the form of an election contest suit. At the former election the bond payers paid a total of $2,581.53 in redemption of delinquent taxes. The branch hospitals for which the bonds are asked will be established in Iowa Park, Burkburnett and Electra.

LAND BANK PLANS TO BE PUSHED AT MEETING THIS WEEK

Further steps for organization of the joint stock land bank are expected to be taken this week, when a meeting of those interested will be called by C. H. Clark, chairman of the organization committee. It is the plan to capitalize the bank for $250,000, and those interested in the movement believe a large part of the stock will be subscribed in this city.

Peach Tree Yields Four Bushels of October Peaches

Four bushels of October peaches have been gathered from a tree at the home of Dr. R. C. Smith, 1410 Tenth street. This is believed to be a record yield in this section for this time of the year. The tree was planted three years ago and bears some splendid specimens of the fruit.

LACK OF STONE HOLDS UP WORK ON CLARA ROAD

Lack of an adequate supply of stone is holding up the completion of the paving of the Burkburnett-Clara highway. During the past week only one mixer was able to operate four days and a total of 1750 lineal feet of concrete were laid. This mixer finished up the gap near the Burkburnett end of the road while the other mixer has approximately 3500 feet to place before the road is finished. According to advices received here from the stone quarry which is furnishing the rock no relief from the situation is in sight as the railroad company is unable to provide open cars for the shipment of the material. It is probable that very little work will be done during the coming week on this account and the completion of the road may be several weeks away.

TRAILING ON THE OLD FRONTIERS

Wealth of Romance and Adventure Crowds History of Old Fort Benton, Which Grew from Lone Outpost of Fur Trade to Important Port for River Steamboats.

On the banks of the Missouri river, more than 200 miles from where the waters of that stream flow with those of the Mississippi into the Gulf of Mexico, stand a square bastion and fragments of the walls of old Fort Benton. The ruins of this old trading post of the American Fur company forms one of the points of greatest historic interest to be found between the Mississippi river and the Pacific coast. Before the ruins of the old fort the turbid waters of the Missouri flow calmly past a mile of embankment that forms one of the most historic water fronts in America and the most remote docking place for the sea for steamboats on any water way in the world.

Half a century ago the levee along the river bank here, which for 20 years from 1825 to 1845 was the terminal port for steam craft plying between St. Louis and Fort Benton, was the scene of the greatest activity, with steamboats arriving and departing amid much bustle of loading and unloading cargoes. Today the river bank is grass grown, with not a trace of its old uses being evident, and it forms a small river bank for the sleepy little town that lives much in the past and takes great pride in its traditions and history. During the three decades that it formed an inland port of real importance, hundreds of river steamers from down river unloading during the summer months each season vast stores of merchandise for the gold camps, army forts and trading posts in the Upper Missouri country, while millions upon millions of dollars of gold dust were taken aboard for transportation down stream to the seaports. It was on this strip of river front stepped ashore many of the pioneers and soldiers who were to become outstanding figures in the history of the west. It was here, too, that the illustrious General Thomas Francis Meagher, illustrious civil war cavalry leader, was drowned one night while serving as governor of Montana.

Before these days, however, the old trading post whose crumbling ruins now attract the interest of the tourist had a history of thrilling interest. For in the 40's and 50's Fort Benton was created only a temporary station among Indian trading centers by Bent's Fort in Colorado, and one of two other of the southwestern posts, it was the greatest American rival of the Hudson's Bay company's trading outpost, and before the day of the steamboat on the upper river, shipped annually great quantities of furs down the Missouri to St. Louis in mackinaw boats manned by French and American Indians, and the earliest pioneer type.

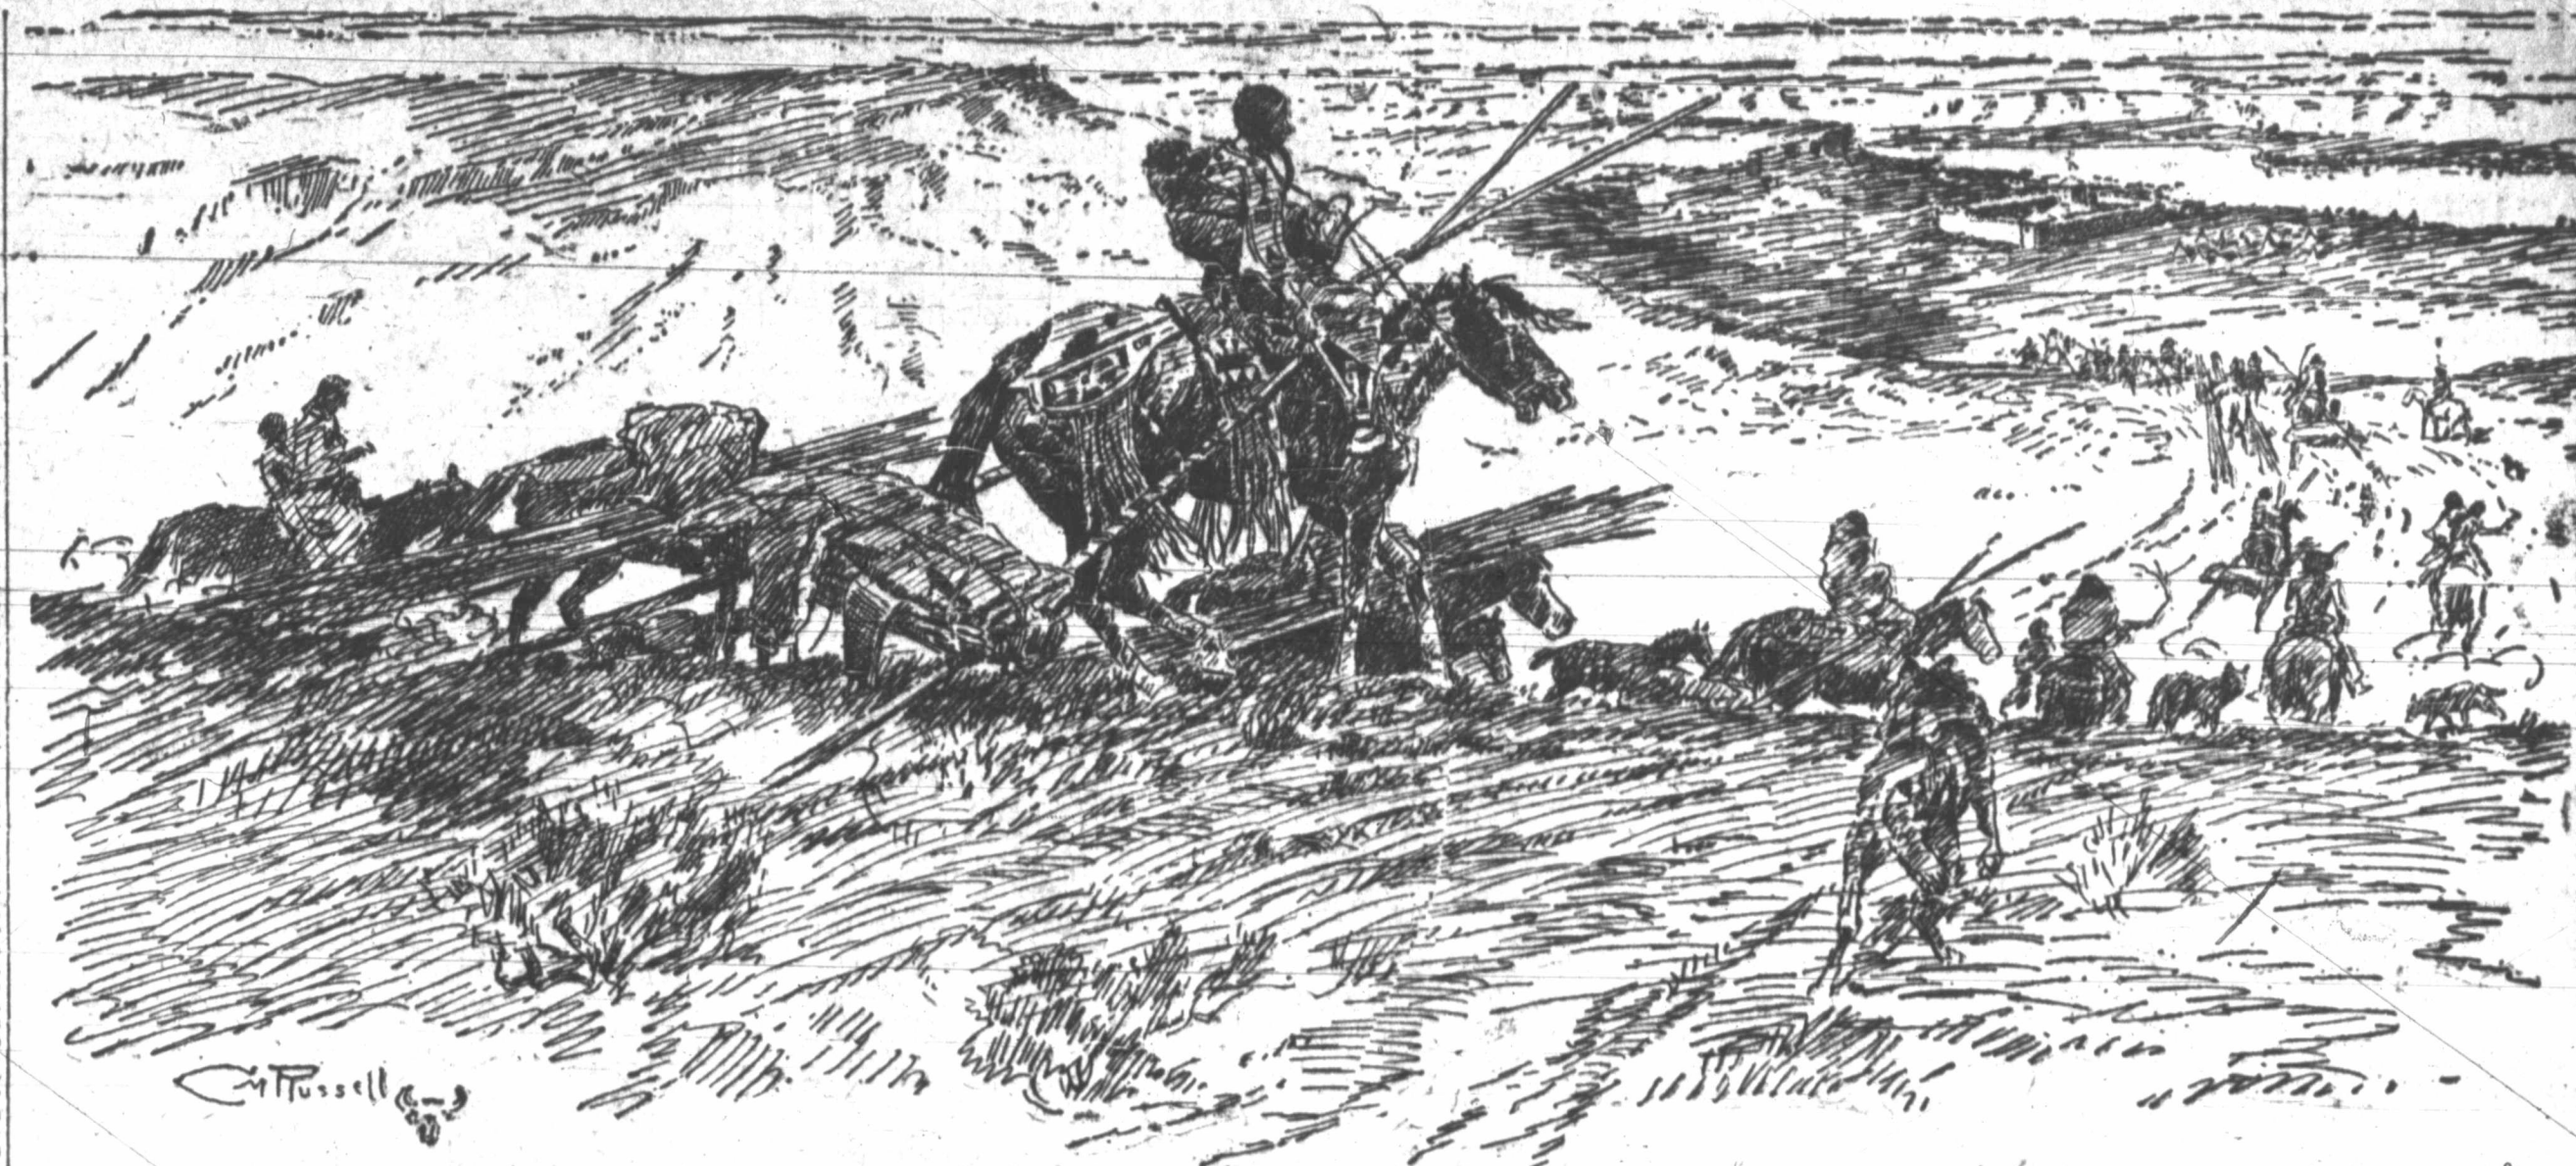

Fort Benton as Fur Trading Post Fur trading on the Upper Missouri river, which had its beginning as early as 1807 at Fort Manuel on the Yellowstone, which became the headquarters of the great American Fur company. Various other trading posts were built on the river above Fort Union in the Blackfoot country, and most of these had short-lived, tragic histories. Then, in 1811, it was decided to build an important fortified post as far up the river as practicable, and Fort Lewis was erected five miles above the site chosen later for Fort Benton, on the south side of the Missouri. This proving an unfavorable point for trading, Major General Clark, then chief factor for the American Fur company, began the construction of Fort Benton in 1813.

Fort Benton, which for 20 years was a leading figure in Upper Missouri history, entered the service of the American Fur company in 1823, succeeding from St. Louis to the Union on the steamer Assiniboine in company with Prince Maximilian of Wied, who was a guest of the post for some time. Exploiting the influence over the Blackfoot country in trade relations with the hostile tribes, Culbertson soon succeeded in making the factor of the company, Kenneth McKenzie, in supreme command in the Blackfoot trade. It became necessary to remove headquarters higher up the river than Fort Union, and Fort Benton gradually grew into chief importance.

This fort had an enclosing wall 250 feet square. It was built of adobe bricks or sun-dried bricks, for the manufacture of which Mexican labor was imported from the southwest. The walls of the fort were 22 inches in thickness, and at two corners of the enclosure, diagonally opposite from each other, were two bastions, in which were mounted cannons which commanded the walls outside the fort.

Between 1846 and 1860 Indian trade at Fort Benton was carried on profitably to the American company, and until about this time the post continued to grow in importance as a trading point for furs and robes, but in 1856 there was an incident outside of the usual routine of the garrison's experience that was destined to mark the beginning of a new period in the development of the west. This was the arrival of a mountaineer, one Silverton, at the post with a buckskin sack filled with gold dust, which he wished to exchange for goods. He said he had been prospecting in the mountains to the southwest and had made a rich strike. He demanded trade articles to the value of $1,000 for the gold dust, and being finally given the goods, departed. The next spring the gold dust was sent to the mint and the return realized was $125. This was the earliest exchange of gold dust in the northwestern Rocky Mountain area, and no more was received at Fort Benton until 1860.

Arrival of First Steamboat In 1853 the first steamboat arrived at Fort Benton, from St. Louis. This was the Chippewa, and its coming signalled the coming of a new chapter in the history of the post, and it also marked the high point of the fur trading period. The late 50's and early 60's were the halcyon days of that era at the fort. The Indians came from far and near. There were not only the Blackfoot, Flatheads and Pend d'Oreilles. In those days a "trade" was the occasion of no little ceremony. A band of Indians, having been out on a hunt for a sufficient period to have made a good catch of skins, would return to the fort. The morning following their arrival the warriors, and even the women and hauling freight as far north as the Hudson Bay posts in Canada and as far south as Utah. Contracts for hauling all freight to Indian agencies and army posts in the northern Rocky Mountain region were let at Fort Benton. One firm of traders there supplied the Royal Northwest Mounted Police of Canada with equipment and provisions and even acted as paymaster to the force.

In those days Fort Benton was a booming and colorful frontier town. Its population included Mexicans and Spaniards from the south, French voyageurs from Canada, Indians and halfbreeds of every western tribe. Yankees from the Atlantic seaboard, Missourians and gold miners from California. Fortunes were made here and merchant princes gathered for fortunes. It earned the reputation of being the richest town per capita in the world.

Then came the railroads and the end of river traffic. During the 80's the town began to lose ground. Gradually its population has diminished. But today, three-quarters of a century after the fort was built there, it remains the most interesting spot from a historic standpoint in the northwestern west, with a wealth of romance and tradition behind it that is equalled by few towns in America.

FRANKLIN COMPANY CLAIMS TO HAVE INTRODUCED SEDAN

The present vogue for the enclosed car, and particularly that type known as the sedan, brings to mind some interesting sidelights bearing on the history and development of that now popular vehicle. In New York City (which sets the pace and styles for the rest of the country), the only attempt in the early days to secure enclosed cars consisted of importing from Europe the heavy, ponderous, foreign-made limousines, which were nothing but the ordinary type of touring car with top and side curtains up.

Now, Yankees have never taken kindly to the chauffeur-driven car, except for city driving. Hence it is not difficult to understand the demand in America for an enclosed family car with an inside driver that could be successfully used for touring. To meet that demand the Franklin Automobile company exhibited in 1913 at the New York, Boston and Chicago shows the first vehicle of the kind ever made in regularly scheduled production.

The Franklin company went to work with the definite idea in mind of designing not simply a body which could be superimposed on the Franklin chassis, but which would in every detail represent a distinct innovation in body design. It must be strong, simple, conducive to riding and touring comfort, and above all, it must be appropriate to the Franklin fundamentals of light weight and roadability. That was the problem, and the Franklin sedan shown in 1913 was the answer. This car, by the way, was personally designed by H. H. Franklin.

Before the car was exhibited at all, a number of long road trips were taken in it by the chief engineer and the head body designer of the Franklin company. Trips from Syracuse to Boston and New York demonstrated that faster time by one hour could be made with the sedan than with the stock touring body mounted on the same chassis.

This, the first sedan made, embodied many of the features of its present day successor. While it did not have the new well-known V-front (first introduced into America by the Franklin company in 1916), it did give the driver the advantages of "oblique vision," something that had never before been attempted here or abroad. This was accomplished by the use of a bent glass extension front.

The 1913 sedan had one other feature that was distinctly noteworthy—the single center door. This was a wide departing front and side door entrance on each side, a style which even now is rather common. With the subsequent elimination of the column pillars came also the present-day wide door, which comes considerably further forward than did its predecessor, and which allows free and easy access between the two front seats. The 1913 sedan possessed, too, still one other characteristic which was quite remarkable, viz., the large observation windows. The windows of today's sedan are considerably wider, better shaped and afford a more commodious outlook.

Like every innovation, the new car (the 1913 sedan) had to face a storm of protests on the part of the conservative public, which, as always, is only willing to receive a product after it has "arrived" and in fairly wide spread use. Experts—body designers and coach builders, however, were enthusiastic over the car and set to work to produce something along the same lines if possible, but for two

ALTITUDE EFFECTS PEP OF ENGINE; DUE TO PRESSURE

Motorists who have returned from a summer touring trip to the mountains are still wondering over the queer performance of their cars. The boat was running well as the motor party left home. But somehow the lost pep when touring the heights. The engine overhauled more easily. And the car was not so good on hill work.

On returning home, however, the old pep came back. The engine performed as well as ever and the car climbed the hills with ease. The answer to this mystery is altitude. The higher the car climbs the rarer is the atmosphere and the more difficult becomes the engine's ability to perform.

As the car goes higher, the pressure of air is reduced. Normal air pressure at sea level is 15 pounds to the square inch. But at Denver, for example, which is a mile above sea level, the air pressure is only 13 pounds.

This reduction in air pressure has a material effect on the power produced by the gasoline engine. The compression of the engine is reduced, and this directly affects the power behind the piston stroke.

The reduced weight of the air also affects the combustion in the cylinders. Besides lower compression, therefore, there is also a reduction in the amount of air needed for complete combustion of the fuel. This means that the supply of fuel must be cut down proportionately

DO YOU KNOW HOW TO SHIFT GEARS?

The average motorist does not know how to shift gears! This is the conclusion reached after a series of tests recently conducted by the Iowa State college in cooperation with the National Research Council. Especially when he takes a hill the average motorist shifts his gears improperly, find these experts.

The motorist waits too long to shift from high to second on a hill, say the observers. Thus they lose speed, overtax their engines and consume more gasoline. The general admonition, not to slow down to less than 15 miles an hour, they found, is rarely followed.

The tests also showed that in descending a hill it is cheaper to retard the speed with the brake than by leaving the clutch in.

SEDAN WEEK TO BE OBSERVED BY FRANKLIN DEALERS

SYRACUSE, Oct. 7.—During the week of October 8, according to notice issued today by the Franklin factory, the Franklin sales organization throughout the United States will devote its entire efforts to the showing and demonstrating of the Sedan, the ace of the Franklin line.

When, in 1913, Franklin introduced to motoring America the first sedan on regularly scheduled production, there were many who predicted that such a car would never be popular. They belonged, it has proved out, in the class with those who, in the earlier days, dubbed the automobile a plaything. Because, from that first year when Franklin built and sold 13 sedans, the demand for this model has grown remarkably with each passing season. Today over 50 per cent of the entire production of the Franklin factory, which covers over 24 acres of floor space, is sedans.

In some of the large cities the sale of Franklin sedans has risen to a point where it is almost 90 per cent of the total sales. Of late years, country territories and especially the south have shown considerable increase in sedan sales. In the opinion of Sales Manager Ackerman, this latter increase is due to the growing realization that this type of car, as produced by the Franklin company, while affording both winter and summer protection against the elements also removes any limitations to road-

ABILITY, THEREBY MAKING THE CAR THE MEANS OF ALL-YEAR-AROUND TRANSPORTATION.

When brake bands lose gripping power smear a little valve grinding compound on the drum.

Why Spark Plugs Miss. Missing of the engine is due often to faulty spark plugs. Here are three chief causes for missing: First, the spark may jump from shell to terminal because of a short loose from terminal. Keep emergency brake adjusted.

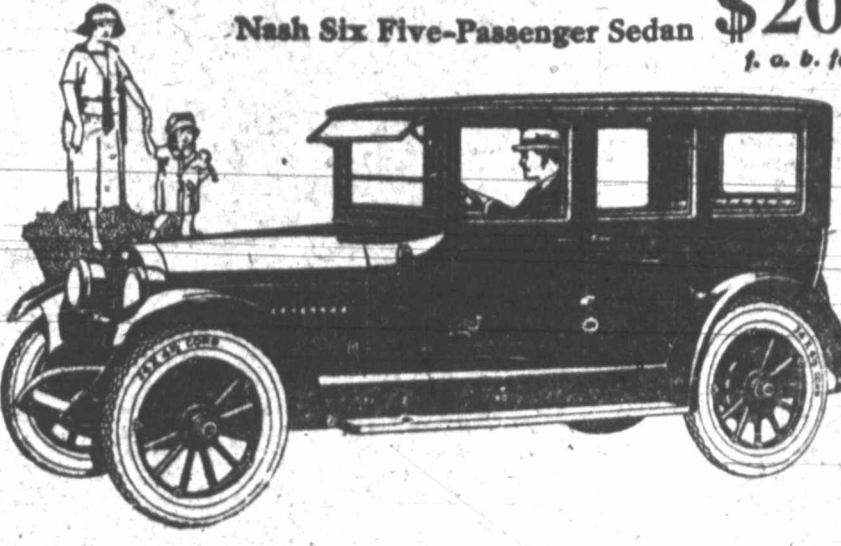

Second, the shank and a wide gap. Second, the points may touch, due to screwing the plug too tightly into the cylinder.

LOCAL CONCERN GIVEN MENTION IN PUBLICATION

The Bosch Magneto corporation of Springfield, Mass., recognized as the largest manufacturing engineers in the world, have recently published a magnificent booklet going into details as to their manufacturing plant and equipment and also their distributors.

This book is completely filled with a number of excellent cuts. On one page appears a group of five of the best equipped and finest arranged stations which the Bosch magneto people recognize, and in this group appears the picture of the plant of the Electric Service station, L. M. Forcier, proprietor, of Wichita Falls, Texas. The other four stations mentioned in this group are Shanghai, China; Oakland, Calif.; Long Island, N. Y.; and Long Beach, Calif. The arrangement of the local plant and its facilities are shown in the booklet.

Motorcycle output in the last five years has fallen off 4 per cent.

DODGE BROTHERS BUSINESS SEDAN

With this car, Dodge Brothers have literally created a new type of sedan. They have combined open car ruggedness with closed car protection and smartness.

They have demonstrated, once for all, that a sedan can be as practical and almost as inexpensive as an open touring car.

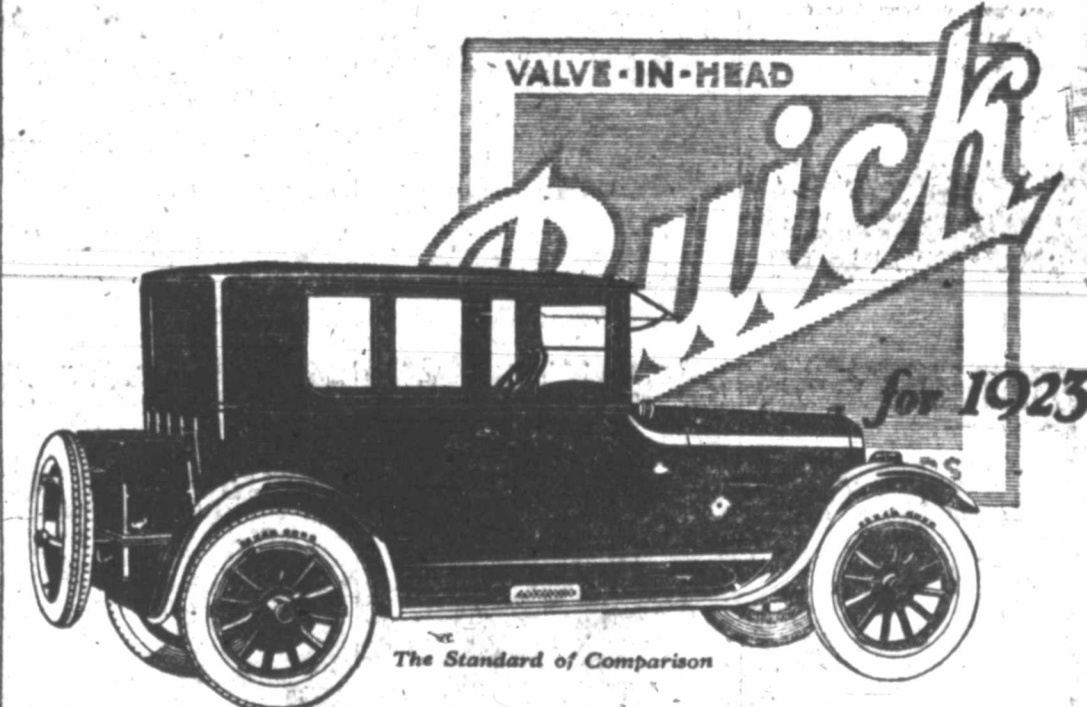

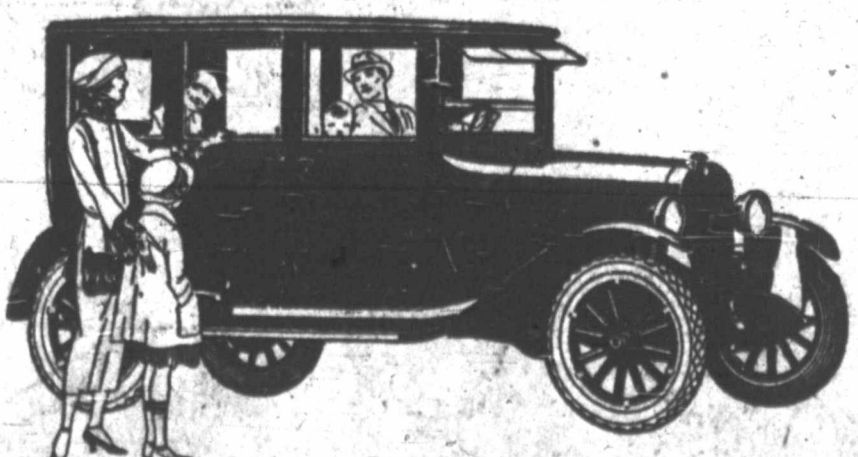

The body is built of hand-welded steel because steel is sturdy, and will take a permanent, oven-baked finish, eliminating forever the cost of repainting.

The seats are upholstered in attractive, genuine Spanish blue leather, because leather will wash and wear.

To further enlarge the car's usefulness, the rear seat, back and side cushions, seat frame and foot rest are quickly removable, giving sixty-four cubic feet of flat loading space in the rear compartment. The manifold uses made possible by this unique feature are readily imagined.

The top and rear quarters are of non-rumble, fabric construction, conforming with the present attractive vogue. From cord tires to curtain cords, the fittings, inside and out, are distinctive and complete.

In fact, every detail of the car emphasizes its striking adaptability to business as well as social use.

Perfect Comfort on the Longest Tour The 1923 Buick Six Touring Sedan—$1935

For touring to the "Big Game" this fall, driving on the boulevard, or slipping along a country road in the hazy sunshine of Indian Summer, this smart new Buick six-cylinder touring sedan offers a degree of comfort that cannot be surpassed.

Long and low in appearance, it affords perfect riding ease and comfort for five passengers. Its well-knit chassis, new cantilever springs and strong frame take up the jars and jolts of the country road.

Broad plate glass windows give a wide vision to all occupants, while protecting them from chilling winds. Added warmth is provided by a heater. The interior of the Fisher built body is finished in handoms plush with individual seats in front. Driving convenience is assured by a longer steering column at a lower angle, complete instrument panel and longer gear shift lever.

Large Luggage Trunk
The handsome luggage trunk carried on the rear of the touring sedan models is as practical as it is striking. It will carry a suitcase or small luggage so that the passengers need not be inconvenienced.

The Buick Line for 1923 comprises fourteen models: Four—1 Pass. Roadster, $850; 5 Pass. Touring, $850; 5 Pass. Coupe, $1175; 5 Pass. Sedan, $1295; 5 Pass. Touring Sedan, $1325; Six—3 Pass. OVER 2000 KINDS OF MATERIAL ARE REQUIRED IN NASH

When the daintily roamed woman gives her sedan or coupe through crowded traffic and chats with friends as her car trends its way about the tangled vehicles, she is possessed of a sub-conscious sense of security. She is aware that the high grade enclosed car of today is built to withstand damage from anything but the severest kind of collision.

Ask the average woman, or man, who owns a Nash, just what she or he thinks of the body manufacturer who has done to insure safety to occupants, and explanations for the most part, will be vague. Some will mention steel body panels and other exterior parts that go to make up the car; others will point to the safety of the chassis and the strength of Nash enclosed cars, for instance, has far beyond the reach of the eye, beneath the alloy body, beneath the lustrous of the paint, down in the construction of the body frame; at points which the owner seldom sees in the lifetime of the car; joints where two pieces of choice lumber are not lapped, but held together by mortises, then glued and screwed; the use of steel, steel, angle irons that are forged. These and countless other precautionary measures are taken by the Nash Motors company to insure permanent safety for the owner to provide definitely against body loosening always distinguishable by rattles and squeaks.

The great Nash enclosed body plant is a revelation to those who never before have seen a closed car in process of construction. At every turn the visitor is impressed with the studied plans of the maker to provide for the safety of the occupant, and to insure for the body long life and freedom from squeaks. That is the fixed object from the drafting room where the body is designed straight on through the various departments that have to do with actual construction.

When the visitor learns that in the building of a Nash enclosed body two hundred separate and distinct kinds of material are required, he is amazed. The two most important of these elements, however, are lumber and steel. Provision for strength and durability of lumber is made at the very outset. The company requires that all lumber shipped for use in its closed cars must be thoroughly seasoned. On its arrival at the factory the lumber is dry kilned by the vapor method the process being carried by a closed car in which an exact percentage of moisture is removed. The process is painstaking; it must be exact. It takes from two to four weeks to season the dry lumber, depending on course of the kind of lumber and for what purpose. It is to be used in the building of a car, and is systematically checked.

As the lumber reaches the body plant it is placed in a dry kiln which is equipped with slides on tracks to the kiln. Later after passing through the dry storage department it slides on the tracks into the factory directly to the saws. Here skilled artisans carefully choose the lumber required for given parts and it is seasoned by them carefully.

These follow a mass of operations of various forms and descriptions, many of the machines employed are almost human; jigs, complicated to the untrained eye of the layman, provide uniformity of the various forms and which the pieces of lumber are cut and sawed.

In the building of the high grade Nash enclosed bodies no detail that makes for durability and strength is overlooked. The owner may never know, and perhaps never does know, no pains and no precision that are always to insure rigidity and strength. Every joint must fit perfectly; it must be mortised if the body is to withstand the wear and rack of the road; no lapping of joints here, no makeshifts. The mortised joints are held hand tight, screwed together.

The painting of Nash enclosed bodies is a process that requires days. There is priming, rubbing, painting and drying, twenty-one operations in all. Thus it takes exactly three months to complete a Nash enclosed body—three months from the day the lumber goes into the kilns until the paint department finally agrees that the body may go out into the world a finished product.

CLOSED CAR IS NOT RECOGNIZED AS LUXURY CAR

Production schedules prepared by the motor car manufacturers for the coming year reflect accurately the constantly increasing desire of the public for closed car comfort.

The strength of the closed car demand is illustrated by the fact that Dodge Brothers, Detroit manufacturers, are planning to devote approximately 35 per cent of their large production for the latter half of 1922 to construction of closed cars. The importance of this figure is emphasized by comparison with last year's closed car percentage, which was approximately 15 per cent.

The production schedule shows that the closed car of today is distinctly not a "luxury" car. It is in great demand because it will stand up under hard driving and pounding on bad roads just as sturdily as the open car, and at the same time offer closed car protection and comfort.

The steel body construction which Dodge Brothers recently introduced in their business coupe and business sedan provides strength and resistance to strain which is not possible where the construction throughout is of steel. And prices of closed cars are being lowered just as sturdily as the open car, and at the same time offer closed car protection and comfort.

KNOWLEDGE FOR CAR OWNERS

Large sized battery cells are more economical than the smaller sizes.

Timing gears, worn too tight will cause a humming sound.

If your engine only fires every other revolution you have too much gasoline.

Flooding of a carburetor while running is indicated by black smoke through the muffler.

Give all the grease cups a turn periodically on the entire steering assembly.

Many distressing squeaks and rattles can be traced to the improper lubrication of spring shackles bolts.

The rocker arms on overhead valve motors should be oiled religiously unless provision is made for oiling automatically.

A little powdered, dry rouge applied with a chamois is the most effective and safest way to clean reflectors.

A good grade of grease should be packed in the universal every thousand miles.

Make sure you have leather washers and nuts on every wheel and keep screwed down tight.

The action of sulphuric acid in storage batteries often corrodes the terminal points so that many times it is impossible to remove them.

In high tension magnetos mistiming may be due to wear of the roller on the contact arm of the interrupter.

Water, to which a little ammonia has been added, is a good remedy for removing dirt from leather upholstery.

Never wash a car in a strong sunlight as it will not be possible to wipe the water off before it dries itself and the result will be a streaky and spotty finish.

With the throttle wide open and spark retarded, unless needed power for hill climbing, the motor will pop back through the carburetor and heat up, and the gas does not have time to burn completely and the hot gas ignites the next charge coming in.

The gum and grease that accumulate on the rear axle may be easily removed with a cloth wet with kerosene. A stiff brush will reach the grooves and corners. The cleaning will be easier if the kerosene is warmed.

MOTORCYCLE NOTES

The use of an adjustable belt fastener reduces belt shortening operations by at least 50 per cent.

The only way to join a driving chain without covering the hands with dirt is to slip a length of string through the last link but one at each end and pull it in until both ends meet. It is then a simple enough matter to fit in the coupling link.

You can change gear on most machines without decoupling by merely lifting the exhaust valve, but you throw far too much strain on the gears by doing so. If you have a clutch, use it every time you change up or down, whatever the directions supplied with your machine may say to the contrary.

NEW MOTOR GAS IS STILL BAIT FOR MANY

By NEA Service.

NEW YORK, October 7.—Substitutes for gasoline are still being used to relieve millions of the guilt of their life earnings.

That the number of victims has not been reduced, in spite of recent disclosures, is maintained by Dr. Raymond F. Bacon, formerly head of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research at Pittsburgh.

"In investigations of methods of Christians and crack-brained inventors in the petroleum field," said Dr. Bacon, "it has been generally found that whatever motor fuel there was produced was put into the apparatus by some sleight-of-hand process."

Motor fuel from peat has been the most popular goal of inventors. A useful oil can undoubtedly be obtained from peat, in Dr. Bacon's view, but it would cost several dollars a gallon. This has been the chief bait for the gullible and many have been caught in the net. Other kinds of fuel also have been "discovered," but they have all turned out to be impracticable or sheer fraud.

"Some of the inventors of gasoline processes insist upon the public a mixture of kerosene to which is added a little ether. The effect of the ether is to give a quicker ignition, but as this fluid is very costly, motor fuel of this kind really costs more than gasoline."

Change For Change

"Undoubtedly, cheaper substitutes for gasoline will be made eventually. At the present time there are mixtures of alcohol and tar oils which, although more expensive than gasoline, have many good qualities.

"It should be borne in mind that all the large petroleum refining companies are spending many thousands of dollars in research work to find a lower priced motor fuel. Any inventor could undercut the large corporations and reap a rich reward in royalties if he could convince them that his process would make gasoline at 15 or 20 cents a gallon.

"Any person who is considering the purchase of the patent rights of a process for making cheap gasoline would do well to consult a petroleum chemist."

RECORD SET BY TWO ESSEX CARS TWO YEARS AGO STAND

Two years ago this month two Essex stock cars carrying United States mail started out at midnight, one from New York and the other from San Francisco, into the night on their way across the continent. They passed each other near Council Bluffs, Mo., and four days, 14 hours and 43 minutes they left San Francisco for eastbound car deposited its mail in the New York postoffice.

This was a new transcontinental record made. And this record still stands.

Four Essex cars in all made this transcontinental trip in August, 1920, in an average time of 4 days, 21 hours and 33 minutes, a mark which likewise has never been equaled by any other car.

Attention was turned to these transcontinental performers the other day by Essex motors, when the question was raised as to whether or not automobiles could be pressed into use as fast transportation vehicles, in case the nation-wide railroad strike should ever become a complete tie-up of railroad transportation.

The run these Essex cars made carrying mail brings out forcibly the possibilities of passenger automobiles as fast transportation vehicles. Because of the performance of these cars and the lessons learned by the automobile industry during this trip, several improvements in motor car design have been possible. The performance was a striking illustration of the durability of today's automobiles, especially so in view of the announcement that all four of these Essex cars are still in daily service. They have been run an aggregate distance of more than 200,000 miles.

Too late a spark and open throttle will cause backfiring.

What Is a Gas "Peak Load?"

When you want natural gas for heating, everybody over the territory wants it. In a spell of cold weather, which may last for only a day or two, everybody wants ALL the gas he can get.

This tremendous demand is our "peak load."

Only Once a Year

It may occur only once each winter, or it may happen several times. Last winter it was reached only once.

That "peak load" calls for an enormous amount of gas—four or five times the usual quantity. Hence, to render the best service to you, our supply of gas and our transporting facilities, for three or four days each winter, must be at least four times the capacity called for in normal use.

Cannot Pay for Itself

That again calls for a great investment on which there can be no immediate return—for the combined "peak load" sales do not pay enough to return interest on the required investment.

Therein the gas business differs from any other. There are times when the more we deliver the more we lose.

Our great equipment is necessary for your high quality of our service when you know these facts.

PART TWO MONTAGUE GASSER CHIEF FEATURE OF WEEK'S OPERATIONS

YOUNG, EASTLAND AND ELECTRA FIELDS GET SEVERAL COMPLETIONS.

TESTS IN ARCHER ARE LOOKING PROMISING

Criswell's No. 27 Burnett is Best Completion of Well in South Electra.

The completion of a number of good wells in Young, Eastland, and Wichita counties coupled with the bringing in of a big gasser by the Texas company on the Lemons farm in Montague county with a capacity of 20,000,000 cubic feet from a sand at 154 feet and going on record as the largest gas well in the world from this depth, were the important developments of any importance in north and central Texas for the week.

In the Electra field activity has been confined to the proven areas in the south field where several wells were finished, the best reported being No. 27 of the Criswell Oil company on the Burnett tract, good for 500 barrels from the 1500 foot sand.

On the west side of this lease the Empire-Planet company's No. 47 Burnett was drilled into the sand at 1248 feet and looks good for a 100 barrel producer. This company has three other tests drilling on other sections of this valuable lease at various depths. The No. 1 test of Stanley McGregor on the John and Jeff Waggoner land further to the east was completed in the 1000 foot sand and will make from 60 to 75 barrels on the pump.

The Texoma Refining company's No. 1 R. lease in section 24 of the Wagner lands has encountered the 1500 foot sand and has set casing to test; from present indications it will be a commercial producer of 100 barrels, this company has rigs up for No. 7 and 8 on this tract.

The operators in the fields south and west of Electra are elated over the announcement from the office of the Texas Pipeline company to the effect that this company will begin at once to double the capacity of their dam at the Beaver Creek station which at present is 4,000,000 gallons, doing so in the future with the standing menace of an insufficient amount of water for drilling operation. New water lines will be laid with all necessary connections to supply in commercial quantities to tests to the more remote sections.

Two other completions. Operations in the Archer pools consisted of two completions during the week, one by the Sunshine Refining company which entered a rich sand at 1440 feet in No. 1 test on the Ferguson land northeast of Hankins. The top of a rich sand was encountered at 1567 feet showing considerable oil. Casing has been set and it will be thoroughly tested out.

Extensions in Eastland. Production in Eastland county fell off slightly over two hundred barrels but maintained a daily average of nearly 25,000 barrels for the entire county. Several good producers were brought in from the Pioneer and Eastland sections whose production was not added to the week's run. Activity is increasing and is especially noticeable in the district adjacent to the Stephens county line where several tests are drilling at various depths.

The most important test for the week was finished by W. L. Southern and others on the Robinson tract about three and one-half miles southwest of Eastland, which came in Wednesday making 5,000,000 feet of gas and spraying 25 barrels of oil. The gas sand was encountered at 3200 feet and the oil stratum after drilling 100 feet deeper. The important feature of this test lies in the fact that this tract was practically condemned and this showing will bring confidence to encourage more drilling in this section.

The well of Root, Rhodes & Sykes which came in last week on the Bond farm about five miles north of Eastland with an initial production of 700 barrels is reported to have increased the flow and is good for 500 barrels from the lime at 2585 feet. The well also was making 15,000,000 feet of wet gas. This is their No. 2 which was formerly a shallow producer drilled in a year ago as a 100 barrel producer from the 1500 foot pay, but gradually increased until the owners decided to drill it deeper to the Ranger lime with the above result. Another oil producer added to the Eastland section was completed by the Eureka syndicate in the 2500 foot sand and it is making 100 barrels daily from the top of the sand at 3240 feet. The well came in making 50 barrels of oil accompanied by a heavy gas pressure which has since increased to 200 barrels. The well is located a short distance north of the famous Martin tract with a tract of 677 territory between making an important addition to the Eastland productive area.

What is thought likely to become an extension to the east of the Pioneer field is the showing made by the Revere Oil company's No. 1 test on the Cunningham tract two miles east of that town. At a depth of 2445 the test encountered a stratum of wet gas sand which was drilled three feet deeper when it began flowing and spraying considerable oil with 5,000,000 feet of gas, with all the indications of being a good well. In the event of this test becoming a good producer it will open up a large block of acreage for drilling, and preparatory activities are being carried on in several wells in the immediate territory surrounding the well.

Two other wells were finished during the week, both in the 2500 foot sand. On the Moore tract the Pathfinder syndicate brought in a 200 barrel well and completed their townsite well in block 23, good for 100 barrels. Despite the unsettled conditions in transportation facilities and the price of crude, drilling activities are being carried on as usual in all sections of the county.

Activities in Young. Considerable activity is shown this week over the entire Young county oil field. The drilling report for September 20 showed 170 drilling wells scattered from Beach Bend to Oil City, Burger, Herron City and continuing on to the east. This is possibly the greatest number of drilling wells ever shown in one report at one time in Young county.

On the other hand, the August production report shows that Young county has 270 producing wells scattered in a general way over the same area covered by this drilling report, differing only in that there are more producing and less drilling wells in the older south field while just the reverse is true in the new Herron City district. The Hampshire well which came in just west in the south field continues to hold the lead as a big producer, while the Sun company's Wittenburg just south of Oil City and a little west of the Gulf-Car track is holding up for a good producer.

The Leader Oil company's Sargasin No. 1 at Henry Chapel, ten miles southeast of Graham, and some three miles north of the Herron City field, was shot yesterday with fifty barrels at 2300 feet. Initial reports are very favorable, however, it is not definitely known just yet what the well will make. This well is of special interest since it marks a wide extension from Herron City to the north and east. On the Hughes tract about one-half mile west of Herron City the D. A. Miller well which came in last week as a gasser with 10,000,000 feet of gas is reported spraying oil at the rate of 75 barrels. It is thought by the owners the well will settle down and become a good oil producer. Carters Bend, McGuire and others have built a rig and are installing machinery for a test on the Tom Carter tract and will begin drilling the next day or two. This well is located about 100 yards to the northwest of the drilling well of Ligon and others which has encountered a flow of gas that became ignited and burned down the rig about three weeks ago. The gas was picked up at 1445 feet, establishing a new depth.

This bend in the river as has others along the stream, is looked upon favorably by geologists as promising sections and it will not come as a surprise if these territories are the scenes of drilling activities within the next month or so. Not only along the banks of the Brazos but the river bed itself is producing oil in every instance when tested. With the completion of new wells almost daily from the numerous sands in the county, production has increased from week to week and at the present time the county is producing in the neighborhood of 12,000 barrels of highest grade oil daily.

Burger and Rogers of Wichita Falls, contracting drillers on the Tipton No. 1 McConnell section 25, block 2, Cannon county, have received a new drilling line and resumed drilling after a shutdown lasting two weeks. This is the well which reached 5340 feet and a comparison of the log of this well with the producing well-15 miles west indicates an extension of the Canyon field to the east. This theory is given much credence as indicated by the large number of leases which have changed hands during the last two weeks. Gulf purchased 3,500 acres eight miles northwest, Gulf and Texas company as well as a number of individuals have purchased small tracts ranging in size from 50 to 100 acres, principally south-southwest, and were prospecting for oil.

SEE EUROPE THROUGH AN AMERICAN EDITOR'S EYES. TRAVEL the OLD WORLD with JAMES M. COX

Ever since the war, Europe's unsettled financial, economical and industrial conditions have affected America. But so many plans for curing these ills have been put forth, so much selfish propaganda has been broadcasted, that the American people have almost given up trying to figure what it is all about.

The Daily Times will give its readers the story of Europe today from an American viewpoint, written by an American newspaper man.

James M. Cox, democratic presidential candidate in 1920, ex-governor of Ohio and editor of The Dayton News, spent several months studying conditions in Europe, not as a diplomat or a peacemaker but as an American newspaper editor, getting first hand the true state of affairs in the old world.

Cox's series of articles, "Europe Through An Editor's Eyes," will appear exclusively in the Wichita Daily Times, beginning Monday, October 9.
