DALLAS, TEXAS, Nov. 8.—Earle Mayfield's majority over George Paddy for United States senator passed the 100,000 mark when 250,000 votes had been tabulated today. Returns indicate that the total vote was 490,000. Governor Neff's majority over W. H. Atwell in 200,000 votes tabulated in this race was 135,237. Senator Mayfield 151,277. Paddy 77,510. Governor Neff 171,620. Atwell 33,418. Returns from seven out of 15 counties in the sixth congressional district show: Mayfield 5,012; Wilson 1,796. Mayfield carried all seven counties reported.

DALLAS, Nov. 8.—Victory by more than 100,000 majority yesterday for Earle B. Mayfield, who will be one of the youngest members of the United States senate, followed one of the most bitterly contested political campaigns in Texas. He is 41 years of age. His opponent, immediately following the August primary, started a hectic campaign to keep his name off the ballot, charging erroneous expense returns. There followed a multitude of court proceedings, injunctions and appeals taking the leading roles. The proceedings included a ten days trial at Corsicana when Mr. Mayfield admitted that he had been a member of the Ku Klux Klan but resigned, announcing the resignation to the senate. The affair cleared only Monday afternoon, one day before the general election, when the state supreme court ruled in favor of Mayfield. But in some counties it was too late and his name did not appear on the ballot in numerous instances. The name of his opponent, George E. B. Paddy, independent democrat, anti-klan and republican endorsed, also was not on the ballot, the attorney general having ruled early in the campaign that his nomination was not in compliance with state law. For congress democrats were elected in all the districts except the fourteenth, where Harry Wurzbach, republican, was re-elected over Harry Herzbart, his democratic opponent. The state ticket rolled up the usual democratic majority.

WIN AND LOSE IN SENATORIAL CAMPAIGN

Upper row, Democrats who were successful; and, below, Republicans who were defeated.

LATE GENERAL ELECTION BULLETINS

Missouri. The republican ticket was leading for offices below that of governor. The soldiers bonus referendum carried nearly three to one, the returns indicate. Governor Harris an industrial court platform while Davis subordinated that issue, declaring himself in favor of modification of the court law. The Ku Klux Klan became an issue late in the campaign during which Governor Henry J. Allen, opposing the interest of that organization's candidate, took issue with the organization's activities. DEER MOINES, IOWA, Nov. 8.—Smith W. Brookhart, republican, is elected U. S. senator from Iowa over Charles E. Townsend, republican, from 1,082 precincts out of 1,248 in the state make it appear that he will be elected by a majority of about 17,000. The vote in 1918 precincts: Brookhart 193,510; Tiering 120,050. Massachusetts. BOSTON, Nov. 8.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge was re-elected over William C. Coker, democrat, by a plurality of 1948. The vote of the state complete was: Lodge, 417,790; Lodge, 416,672. Washington. SEATTLE, WASH., Nov. 8.—Returns from the United States senatorial contest, tabulated at 7:10 o'clock this morning, gave: Poindexter, republican, incumbent, 62,984; Dahl, democrat, 61,563. Michigan. DETROIT, Nov. 8.—With but 641 precincts of the 2,100 in the state missing this morning, Governor Woodbridge W. Ferris, democrat, apparently had been elected to the United States senate over Senator Charles E. Townsend, republican. Ferris steadily was increasing his lead as additional returns were received from Wayne county where he was defeated. Ferris, 225,525; Townsend, 220,450. DETROIT, Nov. 8.—Former governor Woodbridge W. Ferris, democrat, was elected to the Michigan senate over Lynn J. Frazier, republican and non-partisan recalled governor, continued to increase, but his percentage of majority was receding. He had 48,938 as compared with 32,357 for Frazier, a majority of 16,581. It was a question of whether rural returns would overcome this anti-nonpartisan lead. FARGO, N. D., Nov. 8.—Inability to secure returns due to the bad roads in North Dakota today left the senatorial contest between Lynn Frazier, republican, nonpartisan, recalled governor, and J. F. T. O'Connor, democrat, in doubt. Returns from 305 precincts almost all urban, gave O'Connor 38,518 as compared to 18,884 for Frazier—a lead of more than 19,000. It is considered certain that rural returns will cut this down materially if not wipe it out. West Virginia. CHARLESTON, W. VA., Nov. 8.—M. M. Neely, democrat, was leading Senator Howard Sutherland by 12,167 in the fight for the senatorship. The vote from 1,458 precincts out of 2,082 in the state gave Neely 147,364; Sutherland 125,297. New Hampshire. MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 8.—According to nearly complete returns from yesterday's election, Mayor Fred H. Brown of Somersworth, democrat, has been elected governor of New Hampshire to suc-

FOUR STATES FAVOR RELAXING PRESENT DRY ENFORCEMENT

ILLINOIS VOTE APPROXIMATELY THREE TO ONE FOR CHANGE. CALIFORNIA DEFEATS STATE ENFORCEMENT ACT. Wisconsin Delegation in "Wet" and Ohio Vote Favors Modification. CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Proponents of relaxing the present prohibition laws scored heavily in at least four states yesterday, according to computations today from the nationwide election. In Illinois an expression of sentiment on the Volstead act favored modification by approximately 600,000 votes to a negative 200,000 with one-half the state reported; California defeated the state enforcement act by an indicated vote of more than 2 to 1; Missouri rejected United States Senator James A. Reed, an avowed opponent of prohibition, and New Jersey, it was indicated, sent Governor Edward I. Edwards, also avowedly against prohibition, to the United States senate over Senator Frelinghuysen.

PROMINENT MEN OF REPUBLICAN PARTY SWEEPED FROM POWER

Senators Frelinghausen, France, Calder, Townsend and Poindexter Are Apparently Relegated to Private Life. Senator Lodge Has Narrow Escape. Victory Is Notable One for the Democrats. NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—At noon eastern time today, 25 states had completed their congressional returns but neither republicans nor democrats had progressed much further toward control of the house of representatives. The vote at that hour stood: Republicans 155; democrats 151; socialists 1. A majority to control is 218. Iowa was the only state which has returned a solid republican delegation. Swept before a rising tide of democratic victories in many states the tremendous republican majorities piled up in the hardening landscape of two years ago, were being knocked right and left. The republican majorities in the senate and house were being sharply reduced but republican managers declared they could not be wiped out. It became plain that the deciding votes were yet to come from the west and middle west. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, republican administration leader in the senate, pulled through in Massachusetts with a plurality of 943 votes in nearly a million votes cast, the friends of Colonel Gaston, his democratic opponent, were talking of a fight for a recount. In Indiana, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Michigan and West Virginia democratic senators replacing republicans had either been elected or were indicated on the face of the returns. The republicans had an assured senatorial victory to their credit, however, in Nebraska where H. B. Howell displaced Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, a democratic leader, and prospects of another in Ohio, although today's returns showed Senator Pommeroy, democrat, cutting down the lead of his republican opponent, Representative Fess. No single republican gain in the house of representatives had appeared today to count against the broads the democrats made in every state where returns ranging from prohibition to the tariff were being brought forward as responsible for the results. DEMOCRATS MAKE GAINS THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY

LANDSLIDE FOR BONUS BONDS IN STATE OF IOWA

DES MOINES, IOWA, Nov. 8.—The proposal to issue $12,000,000 state bonds to finance a state soldier bond was adopted by an affirmative vote of landslide proportions. CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Soldiers of the world war won in every state where the bonus was an issue in the election yesterday. In four states bonus propositions were on the ballots and all won overwhelmingly. In Illinois and Kansas the vote was nearly three to one in favor of the propositions and it was two to one in California and better than two to one in Iowa. SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 8.—Unofficial returns tabulated 1 p. m. today give William H. King, democrat, incumbent, a surprising, in the Utah race for the United States senatorship. KING is estimated to lead Hamberger by 1,500 votes with about half of the state reported. No accurate figures on the congressional contests were available, but those compiled showed the incumbent republicans leading by small margins.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK AT LAWTON CLOSES ITS DOORS

LAWTON, OKLA., Nov. 8.—The First National Bank of Lawton failed to open its doors today, the second time within a year. A posted notice stated the bank had been closed by the state board of directors. A federal bank examiner is understood to have taken charge of the bank yesterday but because it was closed for election day the public did not learn of the situation until today. TEXAS RANGER IS KILLED IN PALESTINE ACCIDENT. PALESTINE, TEXAS, Nov. 8.—P. S. Shivers, 65 years old, ranger, was struck and killed by a switch engine while on duty in the railroad yards here last night. His home is at Willsboro, La., where he is visiting in Shreveport, La., was notified.

DECEMBER COTTON SELLS FOR 26.15 ON NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—December cotton sold this morning at 26.15, representing a new high level for the season and an advance of about 1/4 per cent over Monday's close. The whole market was strong on early trade buying and small ginning figures. The buying moving tapered off around 26.15 for December and 26.15 for January or about 100 to 105 points net higher, and prices showed reactions of some 20 to 25 points from the best. GO-GETTERS. BEGIN TRIALS OF 48 INDICTED IN THE HERRIN CASE

MARION, ILL., Nov. 8.—The trials of persons indicted in connection with the Herring mine killings last June began here today in the Williamson county circuit court with the arraignment of 48 men charged with murder. Judge D. T. Hartwell, county prosecutor, who overruled the court room that quiet must be maintained. MARION, ILL., Nov. 8.—A legal contest for the release of at least 40 of the 48 men charged with murder in connection with the Herring mine killings last June, was expected to develop when the trial of the 48 accused of causing the death of Howard Hoffman, an employe of the Southern Illinois Mining company, started before Circuit Judge D. T. Hartwell here today. While no official concession has been made by the state's representatives, it is generally believed that not more than six will be placed on trial for the killing of Hoffman, while the other cases will probably be nolle prosequed for lack of evidence. It is believed that only those accused of the killing of Hoffman will be placed on trial. The selection of the jury, it is expected, will require at least two weeks. A venire of 150 men has been summoned.

MAYOR WALTON HAS LEAD OF 37,369 IN VOTE IN OKLAHOMA

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 8.—Mayor C. C. Walton of Oklahoma City, endorsed by the farmer-labor reconstruction league, continued to increase his lead over his republican opponent, John Field, as additional returns from yesterday's election were tabulated. More than half the precincts in the state gave the democratic nominee a plurality of 27,369. The count from 1,715 out of 2,527 precincts gave Walton 163,469; Field 125,098. Mayor Walton was understood to have received the support of the anti-Ku Klux Klan faction in the primary but this factor was not brought to the surface yesterday, the only apparent issue being the farmer-labor platform on which he ran.

PLAN FOR EFFORT TO PREVENT SEATING OF MAYFIELD IN SENATE

DALLAS, Nov. 8.—Efforts to keep Earle B. Mayfield from taking his seat as United States senator from Texas will be made, according to intimations in a statement made today by R. B. Creager, republican state chairman. He said the republicans never will permit Mayfield to be seated and that the contest of his party will not end regardless of the result of the election, but would be continued so long as the "Ku Klux Klan" appears as an influence in politics. The statement indicated that the fight against Mr. Mayfield will charge that his campaign expenditures exceeded the amount allowed by law. APPLICATION FOR WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS RECEIVED. of the Dallas court of civil appeals in the Groesbeck injunction suit which sought to keep the name of Earle B. Mayfield off the general election ballot as democratic nominee for United States senator, was received by the supreme court today. The application, which was taken under adjournment by the court. Chief allegations of the application are that the Dallas court erred in reversing the Groesbeck county injunction order because of lack of time to prosecute, because the record was insufficient to show the district judge to have used his discretion in entering the order, because section nine, chapter 83 of the laws of 1919 permit the prosecution of such a writ, upon grounds that the plaintiffs were guilty of laches (neglect), and the reversal was improvidently granted and entered.

DEMOCRATS GAIN BACK THE SUPPORT OF 'SOLID SOUTH'

TENNESSEE LEADS IN THE ELIMINATION OF REPUBLICAN PARTY

GOVERNOR ALF AYLOER IS DEFEATED BY AUSTIN PEAY

Cordell Hull Regains Seat Lost to Opponent in Landslide of Two Years Ago

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 8.—The democratic "solid south" once again is a reality as a result of ballots cast in yesterday's general election, according to returns early today.

led by Governor Ayloer, a republican leader of his state, apparently has been defeated by Austin Peay, a democrat. Peay, chairman of the democratic national committee, has regained his seat in congress, the democrats drove the republicans from the foothold the latter gained in 1920. The democrats increased their congressional representation from the foothold in the state, reducing their opponents from five to two.

H. C. Reese, first district, and J. W. Taylor, second district, both opposed, were the only two republican congressmen to pass through the voting. Hull defeated W. P. Cleave, who won over him two years ago, in the fourth district.

So complete was the democratic landslide in the south that the republican party in the fifth district of Virginia, 22 years represented by republicans, was carried by George W. Peck, a democrat. Peck, a republican nominee. This victory placed Virginia with Georgia, Alabama, Florida, South Carolina, North Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas as states sending solid democratic delegations to the national lower house.

Mrs. Lucy R. Patigson, republican, who opposed Congressman Charles M. Stedman in the fifth North Carolina district, was defeated by a large vote.

Democrats were victorious in each of the southern states electing senators. They follow: Park Trammell, Florida; H. D. Stephens, Mississippi; Kenneth B. McKellar, Tennessee; Claude A. Swanson, Virginia, and W. B. George, Georgia.

PROMINENT MEN ARE SWEEPED FROM POWER

lost in the primaries by Senator McCumber, another republican veteran.

In Ohio, Representative Fees, republican, was running a close race with leading Senator Pomerene, democrat, who had been counted as a possibility for the democratic presidential nomination in the event of his success this year. Labor votes, it was said, were cast against Senator Pomerene because of his stand on the railroad question.

Pennsylvania going republican as the republicans in a single congressional district. The great majority rolled up for the republicans in the Harding landslide of two years ago was gnawed into by the democrats in districts in all debate states until there seemed a chance that it might virtually be wiped out or at least reduced to a slender working force for the administration.

Some important figures in the republican administration went down to defeat and some members of the senate and house personally close to President Harding will return to private life with the rising democratic tide.

The republican forces failed to break into the democratic ranks in the south and lost one congressional district which they have held since the late William F. Virginia. Speaker Gillett was re-elected; Uncle Joe Cannon passed on his seat from Illinois to a republican, Miss Alice Robertson, republican of Oklahoma, the only woman in congress, was beaten by a democrat—the man whom she defeated last election, and the present house got an additional woman member—a republican—in Mrs. Winifred Huck, a daughter of the late William F. Mason of Illinois, who had served in both senate and house. She was elected to fill out her father's unexpired term and will only serve until March next.

Democrats Sweep New York. With the defeat of Governor Miller of New York by Alfred E. Smith the republicans also lost 13 seats of the Empire state in the house of representatives and a senator, William Calder, who was beaten by Dr. Royal S. Copeland, democrat health commissioner of New York.

With democratic victories in other states some national figures who to the republican administration and President Harding personally went down to defeat. Senator Lodge of Massachusetts apparently was elected, but ran far behind the ticket in his state. Senator Trammell of New Jersey, one of the president's intimates, who ran on a dry platform in New Jersey, was beaten by Governor Edwards, democrat, who ran on an openly acknowledged wet platform.

Senator Johnson, republican of California, came back, as did Senator McClellan of Connecticut, one of the administration's leaders in the tariff fight. In Delaware, Senator duPont was having a close run for both the long and short terms.

Holston Leads Beveridge. In Indiana, former Governor Holston, democrat, was running ahead of former Senator Albert J. Beveridge and thus threatened to remove from the republican field one who had been counted on as an aspirant for the republican presidential nomination in 1924 in case President Harding should decline.

In Iowa, Colonel Smith W. Brookhart came through to victory on the republican ticket although he was openly frowned upon by some of the republican leaders and the platform of the state convention repudiated many of the so-called "radical" principles for which he advocated. On the other hand, Senator France, republican of Maryland, charged with radical tendencies, was beaten by the democratic candidate, William Cabell Bruce, prominent Baltimore lawyer.

In Michigan, Senator Townsend, the republican incumbent, who had a fight on his hands over the Newberry issue, was running behind, while in Minnesota where first returns favored Senator Frank E. Kellogg, one of the republican war horses and a close friend of the president, late returns showed him running second to Henrik Shipstead who ran on the farmer-labor ticket.

Mrs. Annie Olsen, the democratic nominee, ran third.

Head is Elected. Senator Reed, democrat of Missouri, a veteran of many disputes with the Wilson administration, was leading his republican opponent and seemed assured of return.

In Montana, Burton K. Wheeler, the democrat candidate, was running ahead of his republican opponent, Carl Riddick, for the seat of Senator Myers, democrat.

Senator Hitchcock, democrat, of Nebraska, floor leader for the Wilson administration forces in the peace treaty fight, was beaten by R. B. Howell, republican national committeeman from the state, counted among the progressive republicans.

In North Dakota where the non-partisan floor leader for the Wilson administration was a great favorite, J. F. T. O'Connor, democrat, was leading former Governor Frazier, who had the republican nomination.

Does Your Food Digest? M-I-O-No, that's the name of the best prescription ever written for indigestion or stomach distress. Guaranteed by our druggists.

usual, sent Clifford Finchot to the governor's chair and a republican administration, and reelected Senators Pepper and Reed, the latter for both a long and a short term.

Senator Gerry, democrat, Rhode Island, beat the former republican governor, R. Livingstone Beckman.

In Texas where a democratic nomination is equivalent to an election, Earle B. Mayfield won the selection to the senate. Support of Mayfield by the Ku Klux Klan was an issue.

Senator Poindexter of Washington had a fight on his hands.

In West Virginia the democratic senatorial candidate, M. M. Neely, was leading Senator Buthardland, republican incumbent. Wisconsin returned Senator La Follette to the senate with a large plurality.

In Wyoming where Representative Mondell, republican leader in the house of representatives, was running for the senate, the late returns indicated a close race with Senator Kendrick, democrat, who was said to have some republican support.

The returns showed the democrats making all the gains and the republicans suffering all the losses in the house of representatives and the republicans taking severe defeats in some places where they had not been expected.

Victor L. Berger, the socialist, was returned to the house from the fifth district of Wisconsin, and thus offset the socialist loss occasioned by the defeat of Representative Meyer London in New York. Berger was convicted of violation of the espionage law during the war and expelled from the house but his conviction was reversed by the supreme court of the United States.

He then announced his intention of running for congress again.

MASHING CASES SENT TO COUNTY AUTHORITIES

The cases of two young men charged in the city court with disturbing the peace or "mashing" were dismissed and the charges filed in the county court. Prosecuting Attorney Hatchett said the evidence in the case showed plainly that it was a case of aggravated assault and not a case of disturbing the peace. It is alleged that the defendants took two young women into the country in an automobile without their consent. The cases were transferred and charges of assault were filed in the county court.

DR. BASSETT SPEAKS BEFORE LIONS CLUB AT WEEKLY LUNCH

"Is life worth living?" Dr. Wallace Bassett propounded the question and answered it in a brief and interesting manner at the Lions club luncheon Wednesday. "It is worth while and it isn't worth while," Dr. Bassett said. "It depends on how it is spent. On one hand we have such geniuses as Pope, Schopenhauer, and Byron telling us that it is not and we have some equally as brilliant men urging that it is."

"If every individual will remember that he is given only one body during this stay on earth, remember that he is blessed with a mind and that it is the measure of man and his mental strength gives him control over all things; and remember that he is an immortal soul, stamped in the image of his Maker," Dr. Bassett said, "life will pay and he can face the sunset of life with a smile."

Mr. Sousa, who is here for the vaudeville performance at the Wichita theatre this week, entertained the club with slight of hand and card tricks. Mr. Sousa proved himself an accomplished magician. Mrs. J. W. King, with Miss Annette Walsh at the piano, sang "Ships that Pass in the Night" she responded to continued applause with "In the Time of Roses."

Representatives of the Musicians club and of the Philharmonic announced the coming of Louise Homer and Percy Thomas to this city and asked the cooperation of the club. It was suggested that a committee be appointed to urge that next week be designated as "music week" in this city in honor of the two splendid artists who will appear at local theatres.

1900 FOOT SAND IN SOUTH ELECTRA IS EXTENDED TUESDAY

An important extension was added to the 1900 foot sand in the south Electra field by the bringing in Tuesday of the Houston Oil company's No. 3 well on the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 23, Wagoner tract. According to reports from the field the well is flowing through the mud at the rate of 200 barrels a day, and when thoroughly cleaned out is expected to increase its flow to 300 barrels or more.

This new well is located two miles south of the Magnolia company's tract, (formerly Harvey-Cullum) and about one and one-quarter miles west of the Planet Petroleum company's lease on the Burnett which contain the closest wells to produce from this depth. The lease company yesterday completed their No. 312 well on the Wagoner tract in the triangular survey abstract 784 in the south Electra pool, making the best completion so far for the week in that field. The top of the sand was reached at 1920 feet which was penetrated a short distance when the well started flowing and from latest reports is flowing and swabbing at the rate of 275 barrels.

PAYMENT OF CITY TAXES NEEDED TO AVERT OVERDRAFT

City Clerk W. E. McBroom has compiled a statement showing the condition of the city funds on November 1. According to the figures and an estimate on city expenses until the end of the fiscal year April 1, 1923, the approximate cash balance in the city treasury at that time will be $63,051, or operating expenses for three months. The unpaid warrants outstanding amount to $113,391.94; the treasurer's balance is $5,526.31. This leaves an overdraft in the city operating expenses of $52,864.65 on November 1. The statement follows:

General	Treasurer's Balance	Unpaid Warrants Outstanding	Actual Balance
General	$12,793.57	$70,168.11	$86,391.54
Street	24,159.47	17,798.55	16,394.95
Street Improvement	23,232.32	23,232.32	37,194.23
Sewer	1,818.14	8,993.78	7,087.64
Park	2,231.63	7,513.53	4,964.34
Hospital	201.87	428.31	428.31
Library	1,018.17	2,550.19	1,537.02
Warrant notes	478.32		478.03
Fire station	23,478.43		23,478.43
Total	$65,026.31	$113,391.94	$10,566.65

In addition to the actual overdraft at present on April 1, 1923, the city will pay out in interest and principal on the $275,000 warrant notes, $41,250, making the actual overdraft $101,116.65. To this must be added the running expenses for the five months until the end of the fiscal year; an average of $2,000 per month will bring the operating expense to $125,000. This amount will bring the city's estimated overdraft on April 1, 1923, to $254,116.65.

If only 50 per cent of the amount on the tax roll is collected it is estimated that $249,147 will be collected from this source. Miscellaneous revenues from police court and other sources will total approximately $40,000; this will place funds to the amount of $249,147 at the disposal of the city. A deduction of the $224,116.65 overdraft will leave $25,030.35 cash balance in city treasury at the end of the fiscal year.

NIGHT SCHOOL TO FORM CLASSES IN INDUSTRIAL WORK

The night school that meets at the high school building every other evening in the week under the leadership of Prof. A. K. Freeman is rapidly progressing. Freeman states that the enrollment of the school is now 167, and two new classes, commercial law and psychology, have been added.

Mr. Martin of A. & M. college is in the city and is preparing to organize an industrial department. Anyone interested in this work is asked to meet at the high school Friday evening.

The industrial department will be something on the order of the department of last year, and will probably have classes in oil chemistry and auto mechanics.

REPORTS INDICATE POSSIBLE CHANGE IN WEATHER SOON

Reports received at the offices of chief dispatchers on local railroads Wednesday morning indicated that a change in weather was apparent within the next day or two.

The agents on the Northwestern near the northern end reported that the wind had switched Wednesday morning from the south to the west—but that it had not made much change in temperature.

The change in wind direction, however, brought with it partly clouded skies and late Wednesday morning these clouds appeared in the northern horizon locally.

The minimum temperatures reached during the night in this city was 50 degrees.

NO RESTORATION OF NIGHT TRAIN OVER VALLEY PLANNED

Restoration of the night train over the Valley to Alliance is apparently not included by the company at present. The new schedule, effective Thursday, makes no provision for it, although other trains cancelled during the strike are restored.

It is expected that in the event the railroad company takes no steps to restore the Valley night train, efforts will be made in Wichita Falls and other communities affected to obtain action by the railroad commission.

Under the schedule effective Thursday there will be three trains each way on the Denver, as follows:

North bound—No. 2, leave Fort Worth 10:45 p. m., arrive Wichita Falls 2 a. m., leave 2:30 a. m.; No. 5, leave Fort Worth 4:15 p. m., arrive Wichita Falls 10:30 p. m., leave 11:45 a. m., arrive Wichita Falls 2 p. m., leave 2:30 p. m.

South bound—No. 2, leave Wichita Falls 2:50 p. m., reach Fort Worth 7 p. m.; No. 6, leave Wichita Falls 7 a. m., reach Fort Worth 12:15 p. m.; No. 8, leave Wichita Falls 3 a. m., reach Fort Worth 7 a. m.

"WHO IS JESUS?" SUBJECT OF SERMON ON TUESDAY

"Who is Jesus?" was the subject of one of the most stirring messages we have ever been permitted to hear and this message was given at the Evangelical church at the corner of Fifteenth and Broad streets Tuesday night.

Rev. Aaron said in substance: "We will not take any regular text, but in the form of a Bible lesson we will study God's word. And I pray God each of us may become better acquainted with our blessed Saviour."

Reading from the 33rd chapter of the prophecies of Isaiah, he showed us how Christ was born of a woman as other men, and that He had a real human body the same as ours and just as liable to hunger, cold and the other desires of the flesh as our body and in fact was a man like unto us, but without sin. He also took the special care to show that Christ was born without a place in which to be born and that He had to make His bed with the beasts in the very first stable into this world, and showed by this that our savior knew just how to sympathize with every condition in this life as there was no condition which He did not enter into and yet without sin, showing the lesson taught by the Master that the forces have holes, and the forces the air have nests, but the Son of Man hath not where to lay His head. He showed that He was a real man in fact and had all the desires and aspirations of any man and yet without sin. How He had sorrow and grief as we and how He took upon Himself our sorrow and our grief and even went further than that in taking our sins upon Himself even though He had not committed any sin. Also how Jesus wept with those who wept and how He went long journeys to help those in distress and in grief, as Mary and Martha.

In his closing appeal the evangelist showed how our Saviour went through Gethsemane in deep sorrow and also through the trial before Pilate with His closest friends deserting Him, and last but not the least by any means His death on the cross when He was there deserted by even His father, and in trying to bring the truth home He said: "This was all for you, O my friend! Can't you see this and accept Him as your savior? May God send this message home to your hearts for I cannot."

Come and hear these messages. They will do you good. The crowd was deeply interested in the message and many resolved to become better acquainted with Jesus.

Every one who professes to know Christ come out and help us as this is the Lord's work and His house; we cannot keep you away.

Geo. L. Thabant, Pastor.

Ware's Black Powder Relieves Indigestion, Gas, Bad Taste and Other Stomach and Bowel Troubles

Do you have that uncomfortable "full" feeling after eating? Are you troubled with bad taste in your mouth or "sour mouth"? Have you dyspepsia, "heartburn", or plain old-fashioned stomach ache? Are you constipated or bothered with dysentery, colic, diarrhoea and sometimes headache, nausea and other ailments that come from stomach trouble? If so, use Ware's Black Powder. It is a scientific preparation formulated by the celebrated Dr. James Ware, one of the South's best known physicians. Ware's Black Powder neutralizes the acids of the stomach, overcomes the poison of auto-intoxication in the bowels and keeps the alimentary canal in good condition.

Ware's Black Powder is often prescribed by physicians. Besides helping ordinary cases of indigestion, it often is of benefit in serious cases. Read this unsolicited testimonial recently received from a minister of the Gospel (name on request):

"About five weeks ago, I began using Ware's Black Powder for indigestion, with which I had been troubled for about three years and six months, having taken treatment of seven doctors in three states but was no better. After taking about 14 bottles of the family size, I feel quite well and suffer no more as I did so long. Several who have seen the good it has done me have inquired where they can get it."

Ware's Black Powder contains no harmful drugs. It does not purge. The same ingredients used in Ware's Black Powder are also combined in convenient tablet form called Ware's Black Powder Tablets. The Tablets are especially recommended when only one or two doses are required to check a case of indigestion coming on to relieve a slight heartburn or to prevent the breath. Used for 30 years. Sold at drug stores. Be sure to get the package. Send for a booklet on the care of the stomach—The Ware Chemical Co., Dallas, Texas. Adv-1

Wright of Fort Worth spoke to the men in the hut upon the theme, "World's Needs," and he brought out many points that were beneficial toward a better life. In the church the women were addressed by Mrs. E. M. Francis of Elector, wife of the Baptist minister. Afterward a missionary playlet was put on that was appreciated. Following this was served light refreshments and general good times and got acquainted reception held.

Wichita Men Interested.
Word came Monday evening that a 10,000-gallon gasser was brought in on the Nichols pool, 14 miles southwest of Chickasha, Okla., and three men in Wichita county are very much elated over the news. W. B. Daniels and Sam Sutherland of Wichita Falls, and C. O. Walling of Burkburnett, have a claim within one mile of this gasser and there is another well being drilled within a half mile of their holdings that was blown out, the casing-tube right recently. Naturally these men are watching the turn of events around there very closely.

Rotary Luncheon Tuesday.
Notwithstanding that Tuesday was election day, about 30 attended the Rotary luncheon at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Tuesday, eight being present from Wichita Falls and one member from Dallas. Misses Zora Williams, teacher in the primary department, and Mary Kennedy, teacher in the grammar department of the Burkburnett schools, spent several days at the Cotton Palace and fair in Waco last week. They also rode for the Baylor team as it won over the A. and M. football team last Saturday. Baylor is their alma mater.

Those listening to the Burkburnett band Monday evening at the Mayfield rally enjoyed the program very much. They proved that there was considerable effort being put forth to have a band here that everyone would be proud of. The first front of the season appeared Tuesday morning, but it soon warmed up.

Mr. Talbert is the originator of the extempore speaking contest in the high school and each year has given a $50 gold medal to the winner. A standing vote of thanks was made for Mr. Talbert's interest in the speakers' club.

Animals That Talk Now and Some Day May Even Sing

ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL at the time of his recent death had not published the results of certain interesting experiments with monkeys to which he gave some attention during the last few years. The object of these experiments was to teach them to talk.

Nature has provided monkeys with all the equipment requisite for articulate speech. Their vocal organs, their throat and mouth structures are exactly like ours. They could talk perfectly well if they had the necessary wits.

There lies the only difficulty. Monkeys are far ahead of any other animals in point of intelligence, but their mental outfit does not suffice for the development of anything that can properly be called language.

Nevertheless, Prof. Bell thought that they might be taught to say at least a few words, even though unable to understand their meaning. If so, it would be very interesting. A monkey that could talk even a little would never be at loss for an audience.

If persons born totally deaf can be taught to talk, argued the professor, why might it not be possible to teach monkeys to talk? Granting its relative lack of brains, the monkey, on the other hand, is able to hear. Nobody ever heard of a deaf monkey. One advantage ought, to some extent, to offset the other disadvantage.

THERE are several species of animals that talk, the most notable among them being the parrot. Yet the parrot has no mechanism for articulate speech resembling that with which human beings are provided. Apparently it does not use its tongue at all for speaking. The sounds it utters, imitations of our spoken words, are produced by an organ peculiar to birds, called the "syrinx," far back and down in the throat.

The same is true of crows and magpies, which, if taken half-fledged from the nest, can in many instances be developed into fine talkers. They do not talk as much as parrots, but what they do say is plainer and more human-like. The remarks of a crow in the next room are easily mistaken for those of a person. Most people, by the way, suppose that magpies are exclusively European, but there are plenty of them in the western part of the United States.

As regards the parrot, it is a curious fact that in a state of nature this most conversational of birds is not even imitative. Though the tropical forests it inhabits are vocal from the sunrise to sunset, it mimics nothing, its sole notes being the harsh croaking and screaming. On the other hand, the remarks of the educated parrots are not always mere senseless gabble. Such at least was the opinion of Prof. Bell, who expressed the belief that parrots understand the meaning of some of the words they utter.

Why should the parrot talk, while the monkey says nothing intelligible? It is certainly not a question of brains. The parrot, in the opinion of naturalists, is better equipped mentally than any other kind of bird, with the possible exception of the crow, but in point of cleverness it is vastly inferior to the monkey, which has in addition the great advantage of human-like voice organs.

Prof. Bell's method in dealing with his monkey pupils was to subject their jaws and mouths to gentle manipulation while they uttered a whining noise, which expectation of reward in the way of food rendered them willing to produce. In a word, they had first to be taught to whine, and, by the means described, the utterance was made to simulate word sounds.

This, however, was only to start with. Prof. Bell thought it possible that his pupils might in time learn, for the sake of appetizing bits, to produce the sounds of their own accord. If that could be accomplished, the phenomenon of a talking monkey would become an accomplished fact, interesting to science as well as to the public—though it was hardly to be imagined that the animal would acquire any notion of the meaning of the words it spoke.

THE method of primary teaching above outlined was applied by Prof. Bell more than fifty years ago to the instruction of a little dog. Telling the story, not long before his death, he said:

"When I was a young man, about twenty years of age, my father had several pupils who came to him to be cured of stammering. I became much interested in the shape and shape of the mouths of the stammerers, and was thereby led to wonder whether the mouth of a dog would be capable of producing articulate sounds.

"We had a very intelligent Skye terrier, and I found little difficulty in teaching him to growl at command. Before long he acquired the habit of growling for food, and would sit up on his hind legs and growl continuously until I gave the order to stop. Then I would reward him with a morsel of food.

"Next, I attempted to manipulate his mouth. Taking his muzzle in my hand, I caused his lips to close and open a number of times in succession while he growled. In this way he gave utterance to the syllables 'ma-ma-ma.' After some practice I was able to make him say, with perfect distinctness, the word 'mamma,' pronounced with the accent on the second syllable.

"I then placed my thumb under his lower jaw, between the bones, and, pushing up a number of times in succession, I caused him to pronounce the syllables 'ga-ga-ga.' By pushing up with my thumb once and then constricting the dog's muzzle twice in succession, I made him say 'ga-mamma'; and by practice this came in a ludicrous degree to sound like 'grandmamma.'

"The dog, rewarded for each successful performance, became proud of his articulate lessons. By careful manipulation of his muzzle I obtained a sound that passed for 'ah'; and by finishing off the 'ah' with a final 'oo' I got 'aw.' The culmination of the dog's linguistic education was reached when he was able to say in an intelligible manner 'How are you, grandmamma?'—pronounced 'Ow-ah-oo, ga-ma-ma.'

"The fame of the talking dog rapidly spread, and many people came to our house to see the little animal sit up on its hind legs and growl 'How are you, grandmamma?'

If so much could be done with a dog, what, argued Prof. Bell, might not be accomplished with a monkey—the only creature on earth, except man, that possesses a complete equipment for articulate speech. The monkey does not talk because it has never learned how. Can it learn how? That is the question for which the professor sought an answer.

Prof. Bell's experiments were made at different times with three macaque monkeys. They were young ones; for a monkey, to be teachable, must be taken in hand

The chimpanzee is very nearly human early in life. A parrot, if it is to become a good talker, must be taken from the nest. Macaque was chosen because they are all intelligent species.

In point of intelligence monkeys vary very much. Our tropical American monkeys are in this respect third-rate. Long-tailed and flat-nosed, they are an inferior race, as compared with the monkey of the Old World, which, most of them at all events, have long noses and short tails. The macaques are of many varieties, ranging in size from the bigness of a collie dog to quite small. They are found all the way from Southern India, where they are exceedingly numerous, through Northern Africa to Gibraltar. The so-called Barbary apes, numbers of which inhabit the famous rock at the entrance to the Mediterranean, are macaques.

THE late Dr. R. L. Garner devoted more than twenty years of his life to the study of monkey talk—the natural language of monkeys, that is to say. He visited zoological gardens in this country and abroad, and, equipped with a phonograph, made records of the chattering of the simian captives, undisturbed by a contempt which they frequently evinced by throwing sawdust into the ears of his machine.

The climax of his investigations in this line was a trip he made to visit the gorillas in the African forest of the Gaboon. In the midst of the jungle he set up an aluminum cage, at each outer corner of which was placed a large mirror. He also took with him a phonograph, the music of which was expected to attract the gorillas, while the latter, being human-like, could hardly do otherwise—particularly the females—than pose and admire themselves in the mirrors, while uttering excited remarks. In the meantime the doctor, safely ensconced inside the cage, could make records of their talk on his machine.

Upon his return, he claimed to have carried out the scheme above outlined very successfully, and even exhibited the result in the shape of records that uttered through a horn most interesting howls and gibberings, all of which doubtless had meanings of their own. To scientists they were not altogether convincing.

It will be remembered that one of the voyages of the adventurous traveler Gulliver landed him in a country which was "peopled" by horses—an equine race extraordinarily intelligent and highly civilized. They had a language of their own, and a culture not inferior to that of the most advanced human beings.

Inhabiting out-of-the-way parts of that strange country were scattered tribes, presumably aboriginal, of creatures undeniably human but of so degraded a type that Gulliver was ashamed to be recognized by the Houyhnhnms (as the horse-folks called themselves) as resembling these half-wild speechless savages. The Houyhnhnms called them Yahoos, because of a peculiar cry they uttered.

For this picturesque description the author

Macaque monkey and baby. All of this species are intelligent

A parrot

A macaw, a South American parrot whose loose tongue gives him the power of speech

An Arabian baboon. He is ferocious, but very intelligent of 'Gulliver's Travels' evidently got his idea from accounts he had read of African baboons. The latter, wandering about in predatory packs of forty or fifty, usually "encamp" at night on the summit of a small hill or knoll, and, as a precaution against attack, station sentinels. If danger seems to threaten, the sentinels utter a warning cry of 'yah-hoo, yah-hoo!'

There are perhaps a dozen species of baboons, the biggest of them nearly as large as a St. Bernard dog. They are ferocious, untamable and exceedingly intelligent. In South Africa they are a serious nuisance, raiding fruit orchards and sometimes killing sheep and cattle just for devilment. No dog has a chance in a fight with a baboon; the creature is too clever to be trapped; it will not touch poisoned food; and the only effective method of destroying it is by a "surround." A number of settlers, on horseback and armed with rifles, surround a baboon "camp" quietly at night, and at daybreak a massacre begins, few being lucky enough to escape.

We are accustomed to refer to the lower animals as "dumb" merely because we are unable to understand what they say. There is no question of the fact that they have their own languages. But we do not take the trouble to learn those languages. The dog, for instance, understands our language much better than we understand his. Chickens have quite an extensive vocabulary. A favorite remark of the rooster is, "Here's a worm! Come and get it." Who is there that is not familiar with the manner and intonation of that barnyard observation? The double-yellowheads come mostly from acquainted with Crocky when she was a little girl. Parrots are said to live more than a century.

The cockatoo is a kind of parrot, peculiar to Australia and New Zealand. Crocky was a remarkably good talker and drew a good deal of trade to the cutlery shop. Many people dropped in there at frequent intervals to see him and listen to his quaint remarks. But cockatoos as a rule are inferior conversationalists. So likewise are those gaudy-headed giant parrots of tropical America which we call macaws.

To go back to the monkeys. Prof. Herbert J. Webber has expressed the opinion that monkeys of the most intelligent species could be so improved and developed by selective breeding as to render them useful as workers. They might be taught to pick cotton; or it is even conceivable that, properly trained, they might help to solve the servant problem.

Said Prof. Webber: "Has it ever occurred to you to wonder at the fact that, out of all the multitudes of animals on the earth, we should have trained so few to serve us? It is certainly surprising when you come to think of it. The domestic animals we possess have come down to us from before the days of Methuselah, and the action of trying to add to their number has hardly entered our minds.

"Hitherto we have persisted in overlooking certain animals which offer themselves to us in an obvious way as suitable for domestication. I refer to the monkeys. As we find them at present, they are not in a condition to be serviceable; but neither was the wolf of value until developed into the dog by breeding.

"Any thoughtful person who will observe an organ-grinder's monkey, clad in jacket and trousers, doffing his little cap and collecting pennies from a crowd, will discover in the spectacle an interesting lesson. It represents a crude attempt to utilize the brute in the capacity of a servant, and he does the work most capably, notwithstanding the fact that he is a mere captive out of the forest, and not in any proper sense a domesticated animal.

"If the monkey were improved as much as the dog has been, relatively to its intelligence, it would be semi-human, and might become extremely valuable as a servant to man. Just as the ferocity of the wolf has been eliminated by breeding, so mischievousness and destructiveness would no longer be conspicuous traits in the modified simian character. We may have, in the well-trained ape of the twenty-first century, a gentlemanly and orderly household attendant, willing to serve, incapable of impudence and content to work without wages or 'evenings out.'

By reason of their superior intelligence and tractability, chimpanzees seem better adapted for domestication than any other monkeys. Within recent years several of them have been exhibited on the stage and in the movies, and from their actions it is difficult to realize that they are not at least part human.

Dr. Ludwig Buchner says that chimpanzees and orang-utans soon become accustomed to wearing clothes, drink out of glasses, uncork bottles, clean boots, brush floors and make beds. The female orang carries her baby astride of her hip, precisely as do the women in the part of the world (Sumatra and Borneo) to which that great ape is native.

As for speech, it is not to be imagined that the most improved monkey would ever be able to converse rationally; but it is entirely conceivable that the animal might learn how to express its wants and rudimentary ideas by the utterance of English words, a dozen or a score of which would perhaps comprise its entire vocabulary.

Prof. Shepherd I. Fyans, who has made an elaborate study of the subject, with many interesting experiments, says that the monkey is the only animal that has a mind like that of a man. The difference between the two in respect to mind is that the monkey has less of it.

"We may yet live," said Prof. Bell, "to hear a chimpanzee talk, and with some degree of understanding of what it says."

A Freak of Inheritance

THE Journal of Heredity has recently published an account of a family in which, through a series of generations, there has appeared now and then a most curious freak of inheritance. It is a big hole in the back of the skull, which later on is divided into two holes by the growth of a bridge of bone across the middle.

At the beginning, that is to say, there is one large elongated opening, which, in adult life, is converted into two holes almost perfectly round, each of them about the size of a twenty-five-cent piece. In the living person they are shown up clearly by the X-ray.

Being covered by the scalp, the holes, of course, are not in any way disfiguring. But they expose the brain to possible accidental injury; pressure on that part of the head causes headache; and women members of the family who have holes in their skulls find it necessary on this account to avoid arranging their hair in certain ways.

One anatomist has suggested (though the suggestion seems unlikely) that possibly some of the holes found in the skulls of prehistoric Peruvian mummies may likewise be of natural origin, and not attributable to trephining.

Quite a number of ancient Peruvian skulls have been found with holes in them which unquestionably represent the work of prehistoric surgeons. The operations were performed to remove pieces of bone pressing upon the brain as a result of fracture, or to cure disorders arising from such injuries. Some of the patients survived; others died under the knife.

The market value of a parrot that can talk may be ten or twenty times that of a bird, otherwise exactly equivalent, which is speechless. Accordingly, much attention is given to the business of instructing the feathered captives, after their arrival in this country from Mexico or Africa. For such work the phonograph has proved a most efficient instrument, reciting the same words or phrases with tireless reiteration hour after hour. Driven by an electric motor, one machine of the kind will serve to convey a rudimentary knowledge of English to fifty or a hundred parrots at the same time.

MANY years ago there was in Philadelphia, at a cutlery shop on Tenth street near Walnut, a famous cockatoo whose name was Crocky. He was brought as a young bird from Australia by a sailor, who died in a Quaker City hospital. At the time referred to he must have been pretty old, for the writer's grandmother was well ac-

Three of these skulls, preserved in our own National Museum, are particularly interesting. One of them is that of a man who seems to have been struck on the forehead by a missile—perhaps a pebble from a sling. A fracture resulted, and a piece of bone so pressed on the brain as to cause paralysis of the face muscles. The mummified head, still preserving much of the original flesh, shows this plainly. An attempt was made to saw out the fractured part with a sharp-edged flint, but the operation was not completed, evidently because the patient died under it.

Skull No. 2 is that of an ancient Peruvian who had three trephining operations performed on him at different times. From two of them he recovered, but the third killed him. The fact that he recovered from the first two is proved by little points of bone which, in nature's efforts to repair the damage, have started to grow from the edges of two of the openings.

The third skull, small, thin and of delicate structure, is evidently that of a woman. On the right side is a hole four inches long and an inch wide, which was covered with a silver plate, held close to the bone by the scalp. Presumably she was a princess, or at least a lady of wealth. She was afflicted by a facial paralysis, which is indicated by a distortion of the bones of the jaw. Unfortunately, in trying to cure the trouble, the surgeon chose the wrong side of the head for his operation, and his treatment failing, he operated again and again, each time enlarging the opening. After lingering for years the woman succumbed.

MAYFIELD WINS IN WICHITA COUNTY BY MORE THAN 2 TO 1

RUNS CONSIDERABLY BEHIND TICKET; PEDDY CHALLENGES ALL VOTES

WEAK SHOWING MADE BY REPUBLICAN TICKET

Complete Returns Will Probably Show It to Have Less Than Ten Per Cent of Vote

With three-fourths of Wichita county's vote accounted for, Earle R. Mayfield carried the county by more than two to one over George E. R. Peddy. Peddy's proportionate strength in this county is rather greater than in the state at large.

The only incident of election day here was the presentation, by the Peddy forces, of a blanket challenge of all votes in which a ballot with Mayfield's name printed thereon, was used. The Peddy forces contended that the injunction issued by Judge Blackmon at Groesbeck is still in force, and that any ballot with Mayfield's name printed on it was an illegal ballot. The challenge was presented with a view to "saving the record" in the event of a contest.

Judging from figures on both senatorial and gubernatorial races, Mayfield ran decidedly behind the democratic ticket here. If the county's total vote was 2,500, as estimated, the straight republican vote will hardly exceed 10 per cent of that figure.

Woman Identifies Corn As Hers By Tasting It While Court Looks On

"Was this liquor found in your home?" a woman was asked in police court Wednesday morning. "I'm not sure. Let me see," she replied. She took the fruit jar, removed the top, and then took a generous swallow of the contents. "I guess it was. It tastes like mine," she announced. The woman was a witness in a case in which four families were involved and which turned the police court into a court of domestic relations Wednesday morning. The trouble originated, it seemed, when a woman who had become alarmed over the absence of her husband, began a search for him. Unfortunately for him, she located him just as he was leaving the home of a neighbor lady who on that particular night, it was testified in

APPOINTMENTS OF DEPUTIES MADE BY 2 COUNTY OFFICERS

Guy C. Raley, newly elected county tax collector, and W. W. Murphy, sheriff elect of Wichita county, have both announced the list of deputies who will take seat of office with their superiors on January 1, 1923.

W. R. Anderson, at present chief deputy in the county tax assessor's office, will be chief deputy under Mr. Raley, while Jack Miller, head of the city detective force, will be Mr. Murphy's chief riding deputy.

Mr. Raley announced Tuesday his list of deputies: Wednesday morning and stated that he was retaining two of the deputies now in the collector's office. They are Mrs. Josephine Jackson and Miss Mary Hanks. Miss Minnie Young and Charlie Parker are Mr. Raley's other two deputies.

It is the intention of Mr. Raley to be actively engaged in his office at all times and expects to conduct the business of his office in a most efficient manner with the five deputies whom he has named.

DALLAS MAN TELLS TECHNICAL CLUB OF ITS COMING DUTIES

Members of the newly organized technical club were told Tuesday night how that body could be of real service to its members and to the community. The speaker was J. R. Thomas, a member of the Technical club of Dallas, who based his talk upon the experiences of the Dallas organization.

The meeting, which was held at the Wichita club and which was attended by about 75 members, adopted a constitution and by-laws and effected permanent organization.

Mr. Thomas, who is chief engineer of the Texas Power and Light company, addressed the club on "The Relation of the Technical Club to the Community." Mr. Thomas commended the club on its enthusiastic membership and said that in spite of its recent organization, the club here was apparently the most progressive of any similar organization that he had visited.

brought out the purpose of the club and the service which it intends to render the city. The club will affiliate with the national society of engineers and will be in touch not only with local matters but with technical projects being fostered and carried on in other cities where there is a chapter of the club. They expect to take up various engineering problems immediately ahead of the city and offer any suggestions or assist in any way with community problems. The building code which has been discussed recently was taken up and the club will offer its services to the city council in securing and adopting a building code for this city.

The club will also do some work in connection with the other clubs of the state on the matter of flood control and irrigation as discussed by the 200 engineers recently called to Austin for a conference with Governor Neff.
