TEN PER CENT REDUCTION IN REAL ESTATE VALUATIONS IS NOT SAVING TO THE PUBLIC

The ten per cent cut in valuations on real estate in Wichita county did not prove to be a money saver for the public last year. In fact it cost the tax payers more money to square their accounts with the state and county than it did the year before.

In 1925 the valuations of the county were placed at $78,690,000 while in 1924 with the ten per cent cut the valuations totaled $74,101,712.

The state tax in 1925 amounted to $478,477 and the county tax, $675,943 while in 1924 these amounts were respectively $522,697 and $691,210. The total amount for 1925 was $954,420 more than during the preceding year.

Both the state and county tax rates were raised last year over that of 1924, which accounts for the greater amount of tax.

It is the plan this year to cut off practically $14,000,000 from the valuations for the entire county. It is argued that the amounts needed for the state and county to operate on will be practically the same. If this be true it will be necessary to raise the rate.

The tax rate as stated for 1925 in Wichita county, was 80 cents which included all funds, counting the special road funds.

A comparison of tax rates of adjoining counties might be of interest to Wichitans. This comparison however is not the best as Wichita Falls is really the only city in this section of the state.

The tax rates in several of the adjoining counties follow: Baylor, $1.65; Montague, $1.60; plus road tax of .60 and $100; Archer, $1.10; Wilbarger, $1.00.

LOCAL COMMANDERY TO CONFER MALTA DEGREE IN FULL FORM FEB. 1

Wichita Falls Commandery, Knights Templar will hold an interesting meeting Thursday evening, February 1, at which time the degree of the Knight of Malta will be conferred for the first time in full form. The com-

But few commanderies throughout the country confer this degree in full form. Work will begin at 8 p. m. at the Red Cross, with supper at 6:30 p. m. after which the Malta degree will be conferred in full form. Significant Commander Establik is hoping for a large attendance upon this occasion.

FIND 13 GALLONS OF CORN WHISKEY IN SINGLE HOUSE

Chief Deputy Jack Miller and a number of other officers, Saturday afternoon shook down six places in the northwest oil fields. In one house 13 gallons of corn whiskey were found and seized.

J. D. King, who resided in the house where the large quantity of liquor was found, was placed under arrest.

In another house which the officers searched 12 gallons of wine were found. All of this was poured out with the exception of a sample which will be tested for alcohol strength. No arrests were made.

The officers in addition to Mr. Miller who participated in the Saturday afternoon raid were Charles Deboer, W. W. Heiber, Frank Watkins and Policeman Turner of Durkburnett.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Duty of Citizenship.

Editor Times:

Press dispatches quote comment from a high official of a secret society to effect "We will throw the entire weight of our membership behind any klansman, regardless of who he is, if he is denied the ordinary rights of citizenship."

"None will find fault with that statement as far as it goes. However, if any organization has for any of its primary purposes the upholding of law, is it not obligatory to uphold rights of citizens? There can be no narrower construction of application of effort in behalf of law enforcement. The point at which distinction is drawn, is the point at which work for law enforcement gives way to other purposes and motives.

Any organization for law enforcement especially where upholding of the law is a loudly proclaimed ideal of an organization, cannot in any wise differentiate between rights of citizens except as they qualify their loyalty to law enforcement.

Plans for calling of the bond election in District No. 2 were considered Saturday afternoon at a meeting of directors of that district.

No date was fixed for the election. A meeting of voters and property owners in the district was called for next Friday afternoon at 2:30, when all landowners who wish their names included from the district will have an opportunity to do so.

In view of varying reports as to the procedure necessary to withdraw land from the district, Judge J. H. Harley stated at Saturday's meeting, that it was necessary merely to present a written request to the district directors, and that anyone wishing his land kept out might do so. It is not believed that that number of withdrawals will be large.

It became known Saturday that a number of deals for land in district No. 2 have been contracted, pending the building of the north side canal. Prospective buyers are anxious to pay $125 per acre and upwards, making the deals contingent upon the building of the canal. Prices for the land vary widely depending upon distance from paved roads, accessibility to main canal and other features. The growing demand for land in the district is undoubtedly being met in the view of some farmers who were at first opposed to the building of the canal.

Judge Starkey, who was active in the project in its earlier stages, and who has been retained in connection with the organization of district No. 2, reported at Saturday's meeting that several bills had been introduced at Austin designed to simplify procedure in irrigation matters; no important changes are involved, it was stated.

JOHN T. YOUNG TO BE CANDIDATE FOR CITY COMMISSIONER

John T. Young has authorized the announcement of his candidacy for police commissioner of the city of Wichita Falls. Responding to requests that he make the race, Mr. Young Saturday gave his decision to be a candidate.

Mr. Young is no stranger to the Wichita Falls public. He has been a resident of Wichita Falls for 19 years and has been identified with many of the progressive movements of the city and section. For eight years, before the adoption of the commission government, he was a member of the city council of Wichita Falls, and there are many who remember his services as honest, faithful and efficient. Before coming to Wichita Falls 19 years ago Mr. Young was a resident of Archer City, so that he is a real pioneer of this section.

Mr. Young's friends know that if elected he will give close and conscientious attention to the duties of his department and believe that he will be a valued member of the city government, sharing its duty and responsibility, standing for openness and for the equal enforcement of the law.

CONSTABLE MORGAN CONFISCATED 27 STILLS LAST YEAR

In checking up his year's activities, Constable Frank Morgan of the Wichita Falls division discovered that during the year 1925 he and his deputies confiscated a total of 27 stills and poured out 84 barrels of souped mash.

Along with the capturing of the stills and the pouring out of the mash, 19 arrests were effected.

For several months Constable Morgan permitted the still equipment to collect in his office but after four months it was found that if he intended to utilize any of the office space for an office that he must get rid of the stills and drums and other paraphernalia.

30TH DISTRICT MAY LOSE ATTORNEY IF 92ND IS CREATED

DISTRICT ATTORNEY SCHENCK SCHEDULED FOR APPOINTMENT TO BENCH.

BILL CREATING NEW DISTRICT WITH GOVERNOR

Bar of Young, Clay and Archer Counties Would Endorse Mr. Schenck.

The 30th district court is scheduled to lose its district attorney if the bill creating the 92nd judicial district, comprising Clay, Archer and Young counties is signed by the governor.

It is understood from reliable sources that District Attorney Walter F. Schenck would receive the appointment to the bench should this bill be made a law by the signature of Governor Pat Neff.

The bill has passed both the house and the senate and is now on the governor's desk awaiting his action.

The information received is that the bar association of all three counties of the new district would practically unanimously endorse Mr. Schenck and recommended his appointment to the bench.

Mr. Schenck, whose home is in Graham, was appointed to the office of district attorney by Governor Pat Neff following the resignation of H. E. Wilson who was elevated to the bench last year.

Since his entry into the office of district attorney, Schenck has endeavored his acquaintanceship throughout the 30th district and has won for himself the esteem of all members of the various bar associations.

WAYNE ADAMS WILL FACE TRIAL; 200 VENTUREMEN CALLED

Wayne Adams, the Burkburnett young man who is charged with the murder of J. D. Turner will face trial Monday morning in the 30th district court. A special venire of 200 men has been summoned to report to Judge H. E. Wilson at that time.

Adams was retained to the custody of the sheriff following a preliminary hearing without being granted bail bond.

It is charged that he shot and killed Turner, an oil lease foreman on a lease near Newtown on the night of November 15, 1922. Adams was arrested the following afternoon after the killing. The body of Turner was found on the morning of November 16 by workmen who passed the man's shack in the field. His body was found lying on the front porch, fully clothed. There was a bullet hole in the man's back.

"OLD MAN" WILL BE GUEST OF "EXES" HERE ON MARCH 2ND

How to Use Vicks Vapo-Rub for Deep Grippy Colds

First, It Is Very Important That a Thorough Rubefacient or Counter-Irritant Effect Be Produced On the Surface of the Skin Around the Lungs.

Deep, grippy colds, frequently leading to pneumonia, have been unusually prevalent this winter. In some sections they are called influenza but are not so virulent as the influenza cases during the first epidemic, though they are worse than ordinary colds.

A "Quick" Rubefacient Needed.

The value of this counter-irritant effect is greatly increased if it is produced quickly. Nearly every family has its favorite method—onion poultices, turpentine stupes, mustard plasters and poultices of various kinds are all good.

How to Produce This Effect

Our experiments have shown that an ordinary mustard plaster is very effective. Use one part of mustard to two parts of flour or flaxseed meal for adults, and one to three parts for children under eight years. The even stimer method, particularly for adults, is to apply towels, wrung out in very hot water—as hot as the patient can stand. What-ever method is used, the application should be applied over the throat and chest until the skin is thoroughly reddened. In very deep colds, the chest should especially be treated from the middle of the shoulder blades to a point just above the waist, should also be treated. For adults, a hot mustard foot-bath—one tablespoon of mustard to a gallon of water—given at this stage of the treatment, will aid in drawing the blood from the congested parts.

Repeat the Entire Treatment

When the vapors begin to lose their strength, fresh Vicks should be applied over the parts. This to keep up the continuous supply of vapors. When the redness of the skin begins to disappear, all the Vicks remaining should be wiped off and the entire treatment repeated. That is, the hot wet towels or mustard poultices should be used until the skin is again thoroughly reddened, then massage with Vicks, spread on thickly and cover with hot flannels, just as previously done.

Use in a "Hot-Kettle"

Sometimes when the patient is badly choked up, the vapors from the application on the chest are not sufficient to make the breathing easier. In these cases drop a tablespoonful of Vicks into a kettle of boiling water and allow the patient to inhale the vapors, steam and perfume combined for about 10 minutes. Do this several times a day if needed. Keep the water boiling and put in additional Vicks whenever the vapors decrease. Put a sheet over the patient and the tea-kettle, making a kind of a tent, so as to confine the vapors. An ordinary steam vaporizer is even more convenient than a tea-kettle.

Scanty Applications Useless

This is a vigorous treatment, but check congestion requires vigorous measures. Vicks must be used freely to be effective. The cost of this treatment is insignificant compared with the results which are frequently obtained.

Does Not Take the Place of the Physician

In all cases a physician should be called. These deep colds are too serious and have too many complications to rely entirely on any home medication. Vicks, however, does not interfere with any treatment that the doctor may prescribe. In addition the formula of Vicks is given on every circular so there is no reason why any doctor should object to its use, except the fact that a few physicians do not care to use anything which is advertised directly to the public.

Another candidate may be put into the field for park and sanitary commissioner this week. It was reported Saturday that a number of leaders among the women voters were planning a meeting which might result in a woman announcing for the place.

The name of Julian Montgomery, former city engineer, has been mentioned recently in connection with his race, in which there are already three entries.

The entry of J. T. Young into the race for police commissioner added to the interest in that contest.

R. E. Shepherd, who has tentatively announced his candidacy for reelection, is so far without opposition.

COLLECTIONS FOR WEEK AMOUNT TO OVER $130,000

A TOTAL OF 1088 VOTERS PAY POLL TAXES DURING PAST WEEK.

THREE DAYS MORE IN WHICH TO PAY ASSESSMENT

Less Than 7500 Out of Possible 18,500 Voters Have Qualified For Year 1923.

Collections by the county tax collector, Guy C. Raley, amounted to over $130,000 during the past week and a total of 1088 voters qualified.

Three more days remain in which to pay property tax before a ten per cent penalty will be attached in order for the county poll taxes must be paid before Wednesday night as Thursday morning poll taxes will be collected but no receipts will be given.

All persons who pay property tax will be forced to pay poll taxes after Wednesday, although no receipts will be given.

Although no announcement has been made it is very likely that the tax collector's office will remain open next Wednesday night, the last day of payment.

The property tax collected during the week amounted to $130,000, and the automobile license taxes collected were $4,017.

All day long a line of tax payers awaited their turn at the windows of the collector's office. As has been the case in past years the lines Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be lengthy ones at all times during the day.

Identification of Deserter at Large Is Not Established

ROODHOUSE, ILL., Jan. 27.—Identification by the war department of Russell Patterson, the "deserter at large" who is stranded penniless in London, as the same person as Thomas S. Passalwood, according to advice from Washington, today received by accepted information regarding the soldier, which he was a resident of Roodhouse.

Examination of the roll of world war soldiers who went from Roodhouse and Green county does not disclose his name. It was said, however, that a man of his name resided here after the war and told of his heroic adventures. Then he disappeared and was last heard of in a manila envelope from Boston which it was reported at the time he had escaped. His only known relative, a grandmother, who resides at Barrow, Ill., is not known here.

Faith in Wisdom Of Wife Is Shown In Unusual Will

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—Faith in the wisdom of his wife was expressed by the late Dr. Emil G. Hirsch, nationally prominent liberal rabbi, in his will executed 43 years ago and unchanged since, which was filed for probate today. The entire estate of $175,000 was left to the widow, Mrs. Mathilda E. Hirsch.

The first clause in the will which was written in the rabbi's own handwriting and was dated December 1, 1883, read: "I give, devise and bequeath unto my beloved wife, Mathilda E. Hirsch, all my estate of whatever kind and nature, forever, discharging all my children present and after-born, being convinced that she will take proper care of them."

AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION WILL PROTEST TAXATION WITHOUT JUSTIFICATION

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—Directors of the National Automobile Dealers association at a meeting today preliminary to the sixth annual convention of the organization next week, voiced a complaint of "taxation without justification."

They took under consideration resolutions to be presented to the convention denouncing their condemnation of the Federal tax on automobiles and trucks; disapproval of a gasoline tax except where the money is used for highway improvement, and objection to the "used car" trade which was declared to be an increasing burden.

W. J. Brace of Kansas City is president of the association, C. E. Vane of St. Louis, general manager, and F. W. Vesper of St. Louis, treasurer.

TIMES' IDEAL HOME BEAUTIFUL

You'll agree that the committee selected the ideal location in the city when you see the site for the Times Ideal Home Beautiful. The site has the highest elevation in the city, and is just across the street from the new Junior College and commands a view across the country, including the Golf Club as well as the residence and skyscraper district of Wichita Falls.

To reach the site of the Times Ideal Home Beautiful; drive out Monroe street to Avenue H, turn to your left on Avenue H and proceed to Bell street where you will notice the large sign on the corner lot at Bell street and Avenue H.

The contract for the construction of the home has been let and the sub-contracts are being rapidly closed. The architect is busy now drawing the plans which we hope to be able to make public in the next few days.

It is the intention of The Times to erect an ideal home, complete in all respects, modern in every detail as to construction, with the latest electrical devices and conveniences known today. Many new and novel features will be incorporated in its construction that ordinarily would be overlooked in the erection of a new home.

Some one will own this Ideal Home Beautiful, it may be you, so we suggest that you keep in touch with all of the publicity in connection with its development from time to time. It has been the desire of everyone to own a home some day patterned after ideal ideas and we feel that this home will be that dream realized.

COLLEGE FOR WEST TEXAS PLANNED AS REAL INSTITUTION

WILL PROVIDE FOR MANY SUBJECTS BESIDES AGRICULTURE. BOARD OF FIVE TO DETERMINE LOCATION

Wichita Falls Not to Be in Contest For Site—Measure Has Passed House.

Vision of a great educational institution in west Texas may be secured from a reading of the bill in the legislature providing for the establishment of the Texas Technological college.

Although Wichita Falls is within the broad area inside of which the school may be built, this city is barred, under a part of gentleman's agreement entered into several years ago, from entering the contest for the school.

Both technical and agricultural subjects, as well as the liberal arts, will be taught in the proposed new state educational institution for west Texas, provided for in the bill which recently passed the house.

Military Training. Although the institution will be known as the Texas Technological college, that tongue-twisting entitlement will not put any limit on its curriculum, which will be broad and all-inclusive.

Government and control of the college is to be vested in a board of nine directors, the terms of three of which are to expire every two years.

AN APPROPRIATION OF $1,000,000 IS provided in the bill; of this, $200,000 is for expenses of the locating board, $100,000 for site, $500,000 for buildings and equipment for the first year and $200,000 for buildings and equipment for the second year.

Talks Made on Number of Pending Problems By High Officials Of Road.

A division meeting of Fort Worth & Denver officials from Wichita Falls, Fort Worth, Childress, Abilene and intermediate points, was held at the local offices Saturday afternoon to consider a number of traffic matters.

Interesting and instructive talks made by E. A. Covington, general superintendent, Wichita Falls; W. F. Starley, general freight and passenger agent, Fort Worth; R. L. May, superintendent of transportation, Fort Worth; W. C. Logan, general auditor, Fort Worth; W. B. Kellett, freight claim agent, Fort Worth; E. G. Walker, chief accountant, Fort Worth; D. C. Haggart, auditor of revenues, Fort Worth; F. E. Ross, chief dispatcher, Wichita Falls.

Those in attendance were: E. A. Covington, general superintendent, Wichita Falls; W. F. Starley, general freight and passenger agent, Fort Worth; R. L. May, superintendent of transportation, Fort Worth; W. C. Logan, general auditor, Fort Worth; W. B. Kellett, freight claim agent, Fort Worth; E. G. Walker, chief accountant, Fort Worth; D. C. Haggart, auditor of revenues, Fort Worth; F. E. Ross, chief dispatcher, Wichita Falls.

At closing hour Saturday afternoon $28,825.83 had been collected in city and school taxes; assessments in both city and school taxes for the year amounted to $28,461.44, leaving uncollected taxes for the current year amounting to $37,818.84.

If the record is to come to last year's standard, 80 per cent of the assessment must be collected before they become delinquent. In order to collect 80 per cent of the taxes, approximately $22,850 a day must be paid in at the tax collector's office for the next three days.

Mr. Anderson in speaking of the collections during the past week said that they had been unusually gratifying. Sufficient funds have been collected to take up all city checks, after Monday the checks will be payable at the Security National bank.

If the city is to remain on a cash basis, the payment must continue at the present rate or better for the next three tax-paying days.

Assessments in the tax collector's office from Monday until Wednesday night. The office will be kept open until 10 o'clock Wednesday night to accommodate the stragglers.

Thursday morning city and school taxes will become delinquent.

FORMER STUDENTS OF T. W. C. GATHER HERE FOR BANQUET

Twenty-two local members of the Texas Woman's College Ex-students' association were present at the annual alumni banquet at the Kamp Saturday.

A number of out of town ex-students were here for the banquet.

Mrs. Clarence Roberts as toastmistress called on Bernard Martin and Rev. B. A. Barnes to introduce the principal speaker, Dr. H. E. Scott, of Fort Worth.

Dr. Scott spoke briefly on college activities and the strides made by the institution in recent years.

Following the address of Dr. Scott toasts were given to "Our College," "Daddy—Dr. Scott," by Miss Minnie Wilson of Electric; and to "T. W. C. Girls—Old and New," by Miss Lortia Simmons.

The meeting was sanctioned by reminiscence talks and college songs by a number of the ex-students.

William Jennings Bryan's Weekly Bible Talk

THE GRACE OF GRATITUDE

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN

When about Jesus in Luke, recording Christ's healing of the ten lepers, who by the way to Jerusalem for His crucifixion, deal with the very prevalent sin of ingratitude, and bring to us a practical lesson, with a searching inquiry. Ingratitude has been characterized as a meaner sin than revenge because, while revenge is the repayment of evil with evil, ingratitude is the repayment of good with evil.

A LESSON IN GRATITUDE—TEXT OF TODAY'S BIBLE TALK BY

And it came to pass, as He went to Jerusalem, that He passed through the midst of Samaria and Galilee. And as He entered into a certain village, there met Him ten men that were lepers, which stood afar off: and they lifted up their voices, and said, Jesus, Master, have mercy on us. And when He saw them, He said unto them, Go show yourselves unto the priests. And it came to pass, that as they went, they were cleansed. And one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, and with a low voice glorified God. And he fell down on his face at His feet, giving Him thanks; and he was a Samaritan. And Jesus answering said, Were there not ten cleansed? but where are the nine? There are not found that returned to give glory to God, save this Samaritan. And He said unto him, Arise, go thy way; thy faith hath made thee whole.

His question, "Where were the nine?" But where are the nine? It is even today one of the most stinging rebukes ever administered to ingratitude.

his face, poured out his heart in thankfulness to the Master. (Copyright, 1923, by the Republic Syndicate.)

One cannot read the account of the nine ungrateful lepers without examining himself and who can examine himself without being conscious of his ingratitude?

IF BILIOUS, SICK, TAKE NO CALOMEL

"Dodson's Liver Tone" Straightens You Up Better Than Salivating, Dangerous Calomel and Doesn't Upset You—Don't Lose a Day's Work—Read Guarantee

You're bilious! Your liver is sluggish! You feel lazy, dizzy and all knocked out. Your head is full, your tongue is coated; breath bad; stomach sour and bowels constipated. But don't take salivating calomel. It makes you sick, you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel crashes into sour bile like dynamite, breaking it up. That's when you feel that awful nausea and cramping.

If you want to enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight. Your druggist or dealer sells you a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents under my personal money-back guarantee that each spoonful will clean your sluggish liver better than a dose of nasty calomel and that it won't make you sick.

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and your bowels regular. You will feel like working; you'll be cheerful and full of vigor.

Dodson's Liver Tone is entirely vegetable, therefore harmless and can not salivate. Give it to your children.

Have You Ever Thought of This?

Every time you withhold a dollar from circulation, you are not only in danger of losing it, but you remove it from circulation; you make an idle dollar of it; you thereby reduce the working capital of your community; you withhold bank credit from someone—and you gain nothing whatever for yourself.

There is no argument in favor of withholding your money from the bank.

We offer you the full facilities of this modern institution.

AMUSEMENT CALENDAR FOR WEEK AT LOCAL THEATERS

"Trifling Women" Empress Feature; Starts Wednesday

Discriminating motion picture patrons will soon have an opportunity to witness one of the season's most notable screen successes, the latest production by Rex Ingram, the brilliant director who made "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "Turn of the Mind," "The Conquering Power," and "The Prisoner of Zenda." The new Ingram opus is entitled "Trifling Women," and the name of the director is associated with it in several capacities. This photoplay is based on an original story by Mr. Ingram, and it was he who provided the screen adaptation. It comes to the Empress theatre on Wednesday for the remainder of the week.

Those who saw "Trifling Women" during its engagement at the Astor theatre in New York were impressed with the success of the versatile director when working in an unusual genre. His new photoplay is like anything he has done; yet it combines the elements of excellence that have stamped him as one of the hopefuls of the screen. It has the dramatic thrill of "The Four Horsemen"; the romantic beauty of "The Prisoner of Zenda," and the suspense of "The Conquering Power." It has, too, what each of these photoplays had; remarkable attention to details, supreme good taste and intelligence, and an unusual gift for pungent characterization.

"Trifling Women" is a story with a story. In order to point a moral to his pleasure-loving and frivolous daughter, who ignores a devoted lover, her author-father sends her the manuscript of his new novel, the story of Zareda, the crystal gazer. He recounts the woman's terrific fascination, which leads her to her own destruction, and her father's investigation. He tells of Zareda's hold on an old baron, whose son Ivan, too, shares her favor; of the young man's departure to war; of the baron's death at Zareda's instigation; of Ivan's return and his discovery that she has married a wealthy Marquis for his money; and, finally, of the illicit love of Ivan and Zareda, costing them their lives in the Sorcerer's Tower.

A perfect cast has been assembled by Mr. Ingram to enact the scene of the photoplay. Among them are a quartet who appeared in "The Prisoner of Zenda"; Lewis Stone, Barbara La Marr, Edward Connelly and Ramon Novarro. The wise acting is contributed by Mr. Stone, in the role of the wronged Marquis; by the beautiful Barbara La Marr, one of the most brilliant of the newer screen celebrities as Zareda; by Mr. Novarro, whose portrayal of young Ivan is certain to establish him as a famous name; and by Edward Connelly, the veteran character actor, whose impersonation of Ivan's father, the baron de Marquis, is through and masterly. Others in the cast are Pomeroy Cannon, Hughie Mack, Gene Fayet, John George, John F. Sells, contributing to the picture beautiful photography. Starratt Ford was producing manager.

The Woman Who Fooled Herself at Strand on Monday

"You've made me want you—and what I want I take! I'm coming back for you at midnight, and you're going with me!" Thus spoke the man to the beautiful woman who had played with his heart, who had laughed in his face, and had taken his love and then spurned it. Then the hour of midnight found him waiting at the Cafe Real for the appearance of the beautiful golden-haired dancer, and those who saw Pennington so daringly and spectacularly kidnap the cabaret's brightest star are still talking about it, as you'll do after you've seen it enacted in "The Woman Who Fooled Herself," showing at the Strand theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

May Allison and Robert Ellis are co-featured in "The Woman Who Fooled Herself," which is an Associated Exhibitors feature, produced by Edward A. MacManus.

Gem to Feature Popular Drama On Next Friday

Paul M. Potter's sensational drama, "Queen of the Moulin Rouge," a play that thrilled Broadway for over a year at Ciro's theatre, and was taken on tour from coast to coast by ten road companies, five of which later played it through Europe, is the vehicle for the second Ray C. Smallwood-Pyramid picture. A star cast of players especially fitted for the portrayal of its roles; absolutely authentic reproductions of the interior of the once famous Moulin Rouge in the notorious Montmartre district of Paris; all of the elements that would insure realism and true local color—were undertaken by Ray C. Smallwood, with the result that he scores again with a powerful story given exemplary production.

"Queen of the Moulin Rouge" will be shown at the Gem theatre next Friday.

D. F. & R. Houses Will Not Exhibit Arbuckle Films

Arbuckle pictures will not be exhibited by theatres under the supervision of D. F. & R. Enterprises, Inc., according to the statement issued here Saturday by H. E. Ford of the company.

This decision, it is thought, will meet the unanimous approval of the various welfare organizations of the city. The official statement follows:

"Theatres under the supervision of D. F. & R. will not exhibit Arbuckle pictures. This company believes that its decision in this matter is in harmony with, and is an interpretation of the recent statement of Mr. Will Hays, president of the motion picture producers and distributors of America. It will be recalled that Mr. Hays said: 'This is the kind of question that must be finally left to the judgment of the public.' The company feels that this judgement of the public has been expressed.

"Hither through the press or by direct correspondence, spokesmen for many churches, religious and educational organizations, civic clubs and public welfare committees, have represented public sentiment as opposed to the exhibition of pictures in which Arbuckle appears or may appear in the future, and on this evidence the D. F. & R. Enterprises, Inc., bases its decision.

"This company has always cooperated with those individuals and organizations who are sincerely interested in the welfare of the community and the advancement of the amusement business throughout the southern states, realizing that the theatre is a public service institution, and that it can render an entertainment service in accord with the best tastes of the community only by maintaining the most vital contact with the public.

"D. F. & R. aims to make the motion picture theatre a community center, which will afford a thoroughly wholesome contribution to the life of the community, and to guard against any tendency in the motion picture industry which may jeopardize any phase of that life.

On the High Seas Comes to Olympic On Next Thursday

The fruits of Jess L. Lasky's efforts to persuade the world's leading authors and dramatists to write original stories for the screen are gradually being harvested. W. Somerset Maugham, Elinor Glyn and George Ade have recently created screen material for Mr. Lasky's stars. Not only have they written their stories with the screen actually in view; they went to Hollywood, Calif., and spent profitable weeks at the Lasky studio studying motion picture technique and procedure.

Edward Shelton is the latest pupil in Mr. Lasky's school. The well known author of such successful plays as "Salvation Nell," "The Sorcerer's Tower" and "The Carina" moved his typewriter into movieland and, after serving as an interested observer for a short period, produced a story called "On the High Seas," which so delighted the heart of Mr. Lasky that he purchased it on the spot. He not only bought the yarn, but selected two of the leading Paramount stars—Dorothy Dalton and Jack Holt—to play the chief roles in the screen version.

Mr. Shelton's screen effort is something quite different from "Salvation Nell" and "The Carina," though it exhibits evidences of the same shrewd observation of human nature under stress of emotion that marks those successful stage pieces. "On the High Seas" is a roiling love story of the sea, of shipwreck and storm, and of the things the sea does to the souls of men and women. Both Miss Dalton and Mr. Holt are famous for the excellent work they do in outdoor pictures, and this one is said to afford them both their greatest opportunities to date.

"On the High Seas" will be the attraction at the Olympic theatre for three days beginning next Thursday. The support is excellent.

Bebe Daniels and Conrad Nagel Star In 'Singed Wings'

Another of those splendid casts that the characteristic of Paramount pictures, has been assembled for "Singed Wings." Penryna Strawn has Paramount production in which Bebe Daniels and Conrad Nagel are featured, and which comes to the Empress theatre Monday and Tuesday. Miss Daniels has the role of Bonita della Guardia, a beautiful Spanish cafe dancer, while Mr. Nagel plays the leading masculine part, that of Peter Gordon. Mr. Nagel is regarded as one of the screen's best young actors and his role in "Singed Wings" gives him ample opportunity to display his talent to the best advantage.

The heavy role is played by Adolphe Menjou, one of the best players of ballroom and polished Milton roles. Don Jose della Guardia, grandfather of Bonita, is played by Robert Brower. An old man, hardly able to walk with the aid of his cane and teared to exasperation by Emilio, a simple minded actor of great strength.

Ernest Torrence has the part of Emilio, one of the strongest characterizations in the picture. Emilio is a clown in the cafe at which Bonita dances. He is simple minded but cunning nevertheless. He loves Bonita, who treats him kindly and thereby provokes a tragedy. The remaining role, that of Eve Gordon, the neglected wife of Blise Gordon, is played by Mabel Trunnelle. Finding herself losing the love of her husband, she faces death, and is killed, in an effort to regain that love.

REX INGRAM'S Sensational Drama of Three Kinds of Love

"Trifling Women"

It is said to be the most lavish thing the screen has ever had.

THE CAST CONSISTS OF

RAMON NOVARRO
Who is considered by many, superior to Valentino in acting and looks

BARBARA LA MARR
Another Rex Ingram find who is beautiful and enticing.

LEWIS STONE
Who played a dual role in the prisoners of Zenda.

The picture is much finer than the title implies its settings are gorgeous and the action rivals comparison. The scenes are laid in and near Paris and the story tells of a flirt who trifles with the affection of her suitors and the tragic ending of her career.

This picture broke all records last Sunday at the Palace, Dallas' Million Dollar Theatre.

DOUBLING FOR PRESIDENT HARDING

By WILL ROGERS.

Well, this last week has been quite a week, oratorically, around New York. The Ohio Society of New York had their annual Bouquet-throwing at the Waldorf. This is the biggest State Society in this city, which is certainly a compliment to New York.

That born New Yorker who lives in Ohio has been trying to get a Society of New Yorkers out there, but you can't incorporate with only one member. I, myself, belong to the Oklahoma Society in New York. We meet every year in a member's single-room at the Mills Hotel all four of us. Now judge for yourself which is the best State.

Besides, the people from my State don't have to come to N. Y. to have a big feed. We have a Governor down there that feeds everybody on his inauguration and will do so as long as he is inaugurated. He fed Three hundred Thousand at a big three day Barbecue, where they killed hundreds of beef.

Of course, I know you read where lots of them ate too much and got sick. But you must remember that here was a bunch of people who had been living, or rather existing, under a Republican Administration for two years, in a Democratic State. So you can forgive any undue haste in storing away their first rest meal.

The Slogan of the Feast was "FEED THE CHILDREN AND THE DEMOCRATS FIRST." For the Children of today are the Voters of tomorrow.

Of course, I will admit that this generosity on the part of our Governor, was not as liberal as it might look on paper. He cunningly waited until after the Republicans had been in for two years and Calme was hardly worth killing, so the outlay for foodstuffs was practically nil, as the Farmers couldn't sell it anyway.

Being a Dry Governor and not wanting to handle it himself, he sold the bootlegging-privilege for enough to carry through any lean years in case the Democrats should run into another lay off.

Of course, everybody brought their own as they always do in States where they vote dry. But an Oklahoman can only carry enough to last him for one day, so they had to erect emergency stills right on the ground to take care of extra prohibitionists.

It was the biggest success ever pulled off in any state, both Beveragically and Gastronomically.

Now, as I said, I was asked to speak at this Ohio barbecue-burning, they figuring, on account of me not knowing anything about the State, I might accidentally say something good about it.

But in reality I was doubling for President Harding, who they expected to have but couldn't come, so I was chosen to take his place. I said about what I figured he would have said if he had been there. They sent me a Book of the Society and it had the speeches of the last two years in it, including one Mr. Harding made there two years ago. So I told them in case they were disappointed in me substituting for him I would read this previous speech of his. Well, nobody said read it so I guess they were pleased. It don't take much after all to please an Oklahoman.

The Galleries were packed with Beautifully Gowned Ladies, and what jokes the man missed the Ladies got. I met, by the way, Mrs. Pomerene and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid who were very gracious and could make even a Cowboy feel at ease.

Mr. Pomerene, Mr. Gillette, Speaker of the House, Admiral Plunkett, and I were the annoyances of the occasion. Mr. Pomerene spoke on Ship Subsidy, which of course we should have. If you don't think so, just go around the Docks here and see how few American Flags you see on all the Ships that are here. But, of course, Mr. Harding has not been able to put it through. It's too sensible to ever get by.

Mr. Gillette, Speaker of the House of Representatives, spoke. I thought Upshaw was speaker of the House. Upshaw wants Congress to dry up. And Congress wants him to dry up.

I told the Oklahoms that I was a little disappointed at Mr. Gillette's speech. I thought he would have something funny to tell, after sitting there day after day listening to go Congress. I know I only got there one year and sit in the Balcony but I get enough stuff to last me a year.

Now I heard a Mr. Snyder, who is keeper of the Big New York Zoo, make a very funny speech relating little Anecdotes of the various Animals that he ruled over. So I knew, if he would do it, Gillette is the only man in the World that could improve on Snyder's speech. Unless it might be Mr. Coolidge, (of course that's a separate and distinct thing—that Senate—it's not fair to compare anything with that).

Just today as I am writing this (as I have to get it away early as they make up these Sunday Sections, some of them, ahead) the sad death of a fellow Movie Actor is reported. Now I want to say my little of good, for you will no doubt hear people say things who can only see the bad in anything.

Four years ago when I was going to the Coast to make my first Pictures, I was booked to stop off for one Night in Kansas City and speak at the opening of a New Beautiful Theater. Now there that night was Wallace Reid who had come from the Coast to appear also. I met him for the first time. He was one of the most likable Chaps I ever met. He took an unusual interest in me on the way back to California. I am sure I meant nothing to him, still he knew I was new in the Business and he wanted to be of any help to me he could.

Now, mind you, while he was paying me every attention he was the Admiration of everybody. You can't imagine his popularity. He was a King to a lot of them. On account of being able to do an Act on the Stage I was asked to appear at a great many Benefits in Los Angeles and Adjoining Towns. Now, out of all the Movie people out there, Wallace Reid was the one I met at all.

He was a very good Musician. He could play any Instrument in an Orchestra. He had a very pleasing Stage Personality and could tell Stories well. Now, mind you, lots of these affairs were away at little Towns where it took up your whole evening, so he couldn't have been so wild for Parties always.

Now he falls into bad Company, through being a good fellow. He aimed. He has paid the highest penalty you can pay. He gave his life. He has left a Mother, Wife and Children—one of them an adopted child. Now a Bad fellow don't adopt Children. He don't even want Children.

Now don't you let a living Soul say an unkind word about Wallie Reid. He was just a big overgrown Kid, who never knowingly harmed a living soul. So let God judge him, not us. I'll bet he will be judged to be away above the average.

BILL COUSINS, PILL ROLLER AND PHILOSOPHER, HAS WRITTEN BOOK THAT DEALS WITH BOTH

Nine or ten years ago, Times subscribers were wont to turn first, on receiving the paper, to the back page. A corner of that page was used by the Palace Drug store for its ad, and that ad was the first thing readers looked for, because the chances were that it contained something snappy and entertaining. Bill Cousins was proprietor of the Palace then. The Palace was advertised by Bill as being "between the Mike club and the earth," as the R. P. O. E. then occupied the rooms upstairs; the store was also known as "That fussy pill plant on Eighth street."

Bill Cousins' interest in the Palace after a time, and moved to Dallas to become editor and publisher of the Southern Pharmaceutical Journal. He kept on writing snappy and entertaining stuff, and most of his writings have lately been published in book form under the title "One—I Am, Poems and Papers." The Times was favored with a copy of the volume, with a request for a frank criticism of it. The "I Am's" are clever and witty, and the prose writings are chuck-full of entertainment and sound philosophy. As for the verses—well, Cms used to cheerfully hold up his scraps of paper until they attained negotiability, and extended other favors. William Henry Cousins came to Wichita Falls about 1913 from Mendocino, Cal., which his book describes as a community "60 miles from the terminus of the Wichita Valley, an alleged railroad." Previously he had worked in a drug store at Haskell and still more previously had punched cattle; all of which, of course took place subsequent to his birth, which happened August 18, 1879, near Waco. Cms did not start getting famous until he left Wichita Falls and began to acquire a rep as a writer for the druggists' publication. His drug store ads in "The Times" were the forerunner of such a career.

Most of the material in the volume was taken verbatim from the columns of the Southern Pharmaceutical Journal, in the main, it deals with the business philosophy of the drug trade, but much of it is applicable to business and human affairs in general.

Out of the richness of his experience, Cms writes of the changes that the drug store has witnessed in the past few decades, and this article is one of the most entertaining he has written. Some selections from it follow:

"Back when Christy Mathewson was learning to fling an 18-inch curve and make it split the plate, and Remington was wondering if there was anybody on earth or elsewhere who knew for sure whether there was a single virtue to sarsaparilla, the store known as an apothecary shop looked more like the sample room of a glass factory. There was a huge array of fancy gilt labelled bottles and squatly wide-mouthed jars with queer names written in old English characters. The shelves were filled with huge globes filled with water in which various anilins products had been dissolved. Recently I mentioned aniline to a drug clerk and he thought I was talking about a movie actress. "Back" of the scene was the laboratory with its exhibit of filter stands, percolators, retorts, suppository moulds, etc., where the alchemists made fluid extracts, elixirs, in fact everything used in the prescription department. Today, this space is occupied by a battery of gas ranges presided over by white-capped chefs of Ethiopian lineage who do not know whether atropine is the name of the queen of Belgium or a new brand of rubber boots.

"If the trend of 40 years in American pharmacy should continue for 10 years more, we believe the next revision committee will be asked to furnish a standard for ham sandwiches, chili con carne and Hungarian goulash."

PLENTY ENTERTAINMENT LEGISLATIVE MEMORANDUM AUSTIN, Jan. 27.—Indications are not lacking in entertainment during the present session. Already a number of entertainments have been given in honor of the session including a reception at the new Scottish Rite dormitory.

Plans have been completed for entertaining the legislators by the state department and board of health. The affair was postponed indefinitely from Thursday night and will be held at some future date. Features of the entertainment will be an address by Lee J. Rountree, representative from Bryan; a health film; a health dialogue, musical numbers, and a comedy film. The program for the entertainment is in charge of Dr. W. H. Beasley, acting state health officer.

1923 FAIR PLANS TO GO FORWARD RAPIDLY MANY ATTRACTIONS

Group of men in suits, likely the fair's board of directors.

Plans for the 1923 Texas-Oklahoma fair are expected to move forward rapidly, following the election of officers and directors for the year, and six-day assortment of events is being arranged that will far surpass the 1922 entertainment, officials believe. Although it is more than eight months until the fair, plans are already shaping up. A list of attractions in sight for the fair was compiled Saturday, and includes the following: Intercollegiate football game, Austin college vs. Simmons college. Horse racing. Immense exhibit of farm power machinery under auspices of Progressive Farming Institute. Automobile racing. Theatrical-Duffield fireworks depicting the burning of Smyrna; two other fireworks attractions are also offered. Lillian Boyer's airplane and automobile stunt, described as a real thriller. The diving horse. A carnival company, probably that of Morris & Casey, formerly the C. W. Corham Show No. 1. Most of these events are tentative, and contracts will not be made until

THE MOTORISTS' PROBLEMS'

By WILLIAM M. STEWART, JR.

Motor Department—My car is clutch refuses to work properly. When I press on clutch pedal it keeps on spinning, so that I cannot mesh gears without growling. The foreman of the service station does not seem to be able to remedy the trouble.—N. S.

Your trouble is either a spinning clutch or a set bearing, although stiff transmission gears in winter will cause the trouble. If the trouble persists after the gears have been warmed by staying in a warm garage over night then it is one of the first two mentioned. Due to its weight a clutch keeps on spinning after it is released. The explanation is a novel one. There are so many causes for knocking that the average repair man cannot be expected to know all of them. New pistons would not help much unless the cylinders are perfectly true. Re-grinding of the cylinders with new pistons and rings would make a good job.

Motor Department—Please tell me why the connecting rods on automobiles engines are slightly bent play on the wrist pin? This is not done on steam engines.—C. N.

This is to allow the connecting rod to find its proper position in case of any slight misalignment. After wear the crank shaft acquires a slight play, due to wear of the bearings. This would be enough to cause the connecting rods to bind if they could not adjust themselves to it.

Motor Department—While grinding in the exhaust valve recently, I noticed that it rested on the downward stroke of the piston, kept open during the upstroke, but did not close until the next stroke had commenced. Why doesn't it open at the bottom and close at top center?—Owner.

On slow moving engines the valve will work as you say, but on high speed engines there would not be time enough for the exhaust gas to escape. The valve opens before the end of the lower stroke and closes a little before the end of the upper stroke. The valve remains, but the piston goes so fast the gas is slightly compressed in the combustion space. By holding the valve open a few degrees the gas escapes by the above arrangement and the power of the cylinder is increased.

Motor Department—I have a dual ignition system on my car. I can start engine on spark or on battery, but it refuses to start on battery. However, after engine is warmed up I can keep it running on battery. How do I stop when I stop? How can I locate the trouble, and is it anything serious?—R. O.

The trouble is probably in the battery circuit-breaker. Remove cover and inspect carefully to see if any parts are loose. Draw a piece of fine sandpaper through the breaker points several times to clean them. See if breaker moves freely. If not, spring is loose, broken, or a drop of oil is needed on pin on which breaker turns. Also test size of gap by means of gauge on the wrench supplied by the manufacturer. Also make sure that your battery is good.

Motor Department—Please explain the method of cleaning the positive and negative terminals of a battery by means of a glass of water.—Reader.

The water should have some salt or electrolyte in it to make it a better conductor. The wires are placed in the solution, being careful not to let the ends touch. Hydrogen bubbles will form on the negative wire.

Motor Department—I have just overhauled my machine and put new pistons and connecting rod bearings in. I think I got it too tight and it is hard pulling up with one hand. Do you think by sewing it in gear and starting the engine and running it slow she will work in all-right?—W. H.

Put plenty of oil in the crank case and then tow the car with gears in mesh in order to start the engine. After engine is started let it run slowly to allow the bearings to work in. Do not drive the car over twenty miles per hour for the first hundred miles or so.

Motor Department—Does a brake equalizer wear both brakes held the same?—F.

Not unless the brakes have the same breaking effect on each wheel. The equalizer balances the foot or hand effort between the two wheels, and the brakes must be adjusted so that the pressure on one side will have the same effect as on the other.

Motor Department—I have a four-cylinder engine and it running less than ten miles an hour one cylinder seems. While running at fifteen miles to say speed they all fire. Ignition and compression good, also new spark plugs. What is the cause?—C. N.

Information given is hardly sufficient for a correct diagnosis, but trouble may be due to too wide a spark gap, faulty air adjustment of carburetor or a leaky manifold.

Motor Department—Recently I purchased from an automobile supply house a set of six dry cells. I used these cells in my car, and they lasted only three days. I was told they were new and would last for several weeks. Everything in the wiring seems to be all right, and they are kept in a dry place. How can you account for this? Do you suggest there is some short circuit somewhere? The engine seemed to run alright on the batteries when the cells were new.—Reader.

There may be trouble with the wiring. It is possible that you were given stale cells. Purchasers should insist upon having these cells tested at the time of purchase. The store supply of dry cells is not always fresh, and then, too, they depreciate very rapidly even though not in use. Without doubt the cells you purchased were practically dead when you obtained them.

AUTOS BENEFIT LAND OWNERS MUST PAY FOR IT

By NEA Service, CLEVELAND, Jan. 27.—Automobile owners are paying for the increased value of land they do not own.

This is the contention of David Gibson, publisher and single taxer of this city. In an article published in the Ohio Motorist for February, "The minute an automobile goes into the service of its purchaser," he points out, "it adds to the value of every foot of land it might pass through its life. It renders all land more available—more accessible.

"In other words, the automobile owner is fined (taxed) annually for making someone else's property more valuable.

"The state carefully files (taxes) every automobile that comes into service and accepts the increase in the land value that it creates.

"It fines (taxes) the automobile owner for the value that he creates and rewards the recipient of this value, the land owner, who had no part in its creation.

"The automobile has made more profit for the land owners along the way of its passage than the automobile manufacturer, dealer and owner combined.

"It is a matter of thoughtless conclusion that the automobile uses the roads and it should be taxed as a matter of construction cost and upkeep.

"But good roads add far more to the land value along their sides than the cost of construction, and this last was true back in the horse and buggy days."

"As an instance, Gibson cites the construction of the Chicago boulevard system, which cost $16,000,000, but which, he says, added $150,000,000 to the value of the abutting land.

"If the automobile adds so materially to the land value along which it passes, he concludes, "why should there not be an assessment against this land value to pay what is now being assessed, in the form of a tax and license fee, against the automobile owner?"

OPEN NEW BRANCH IN ELECTRA ON FEB. 1

The Overland Motor company, dealers in Overland and Willys-Knight will open its new branch in Electra on February 1. Burk Davenport, who has been connected with the organization for some time will assume the duties of manager. The new branch will be in position to render service not only to the owners of Overland and Willys-Knight but to owners of all makes of cars.

Big Dealers Convention

Subjects reported by dealers as their most troublesome problems will comprise the largest part of the program prepared for the sixth annual convention of the National Automobile Dealers' Association in Chicago, Jan. 27 to 30, inclusive. Most of these topics will deal with various merchandising principles. It is said that the automobile business in its first ten-year period was in the engineering and mechanical period; the second ten year period was the production period in which the manufacturers steadily applied themselves to expanding factory capacities and quantity production; the third ten-year period began about 1920 and is the merchandising period. Two years of merchandising era have passed and leading manufacturers are beginning to place merchandising men in charge of factory distribution.

Fewer Trucks in Italy

Railway transportation in Italy was so bad after the armistice that the use of motor trucks increased rapidly. A large number were sold from Italian war stocks to private firms, and the manufacture of new vehicles practically stopped. The railroad situation has recently so improved that the use of motor trucks is being discontinued, as the result of the high cost of gasoline and the fact that railway transportation is cheaper. It is estimated by a large tire manufacturer that the number of passenger cars in use at the present time totals about 46,000, while the number of trucks is less than 15,000.

number of sales were made as prospective purchasers of trucks found exactly the type of body they were looking for.

This plan of traveling through the state exhibiting the various models of body was conceived and inaugurated by the Dallas branch and it has been labeled as one of the best plans thus far produced. The touring stunt promises to spread over the entire country. The Dallas branch has termed the week when this touring is done as Commercial Ford Week.

NASH PROMISES TO ECLIPSE 1922 RECORD ON SALES

Undoubtedly, this will be a big Nash year, says Hugh Weaver of the King & Weaver Automobile company, Nash motors, on January 9, had on hand more orders for delivery than were booked in any previous month in the history of the company. The year just closed was the greatest twelve months period in the history of the Nash organization. The total sales for the year 1922 was more than double any previous year.

One interesting phase of the 1922 record is that the last six months of the year eclipsed the first half period in point of sales. In other words, 1,800 more cars were shipped by the factory from July 1 to December 31, than were shipped between January 1 and June 30, which period included of course, the natural spring demand.

Nash is now eighth in production of automobiles in America and there is no question but what Nash sales in the year 1923 will double the 1922 sales. We have been requested by Mr. Nash to take orders now for April, May and June deliveries due to the fact that the factory is now in an overwork condition.

COST OF THE AVERAGE AUTOMOBILE IS $770

The average automobile bought in 1922 cost $770. This was 16 per cent below the price of 1921, when the average car sold for $906.

What causes this low average in auto prices is the overwhelming supply of low-priced cars on the market. More than half the cars in the country today are Fords, highest price for which in 1922 was $395. This year, the new style sedan will raise that maximum to $425, but this last has not yet affected the average of last year.

At the same time, 54 per cent of all autos and motor trucks were produced by only six big manufacturers, producing about a dozen different cars. And nearly all these were cars of moderate price.

Multiple Carburetor

A new form of carburetor, with 15 gasoline jets, has been invented. It is said this instrument maintains exact proportions of fuel and air at all speeds and conditions, so that perfect vaporization results. As the throttle opens wider, the number of jets allowing the fuel to pass increases, until with a wide open throttle, all 15 jets are going.

Batteries not used during the winter months should be stored.

Studebaker

New York's Choice!

New York City, the richest, most discriminating and most competitive automobile market on earth again in 1922 bought more Studebaker cars than any other make, except Ford.

More Studebaker cars were sold in the Metropolitan District, which includes five counties adjoining New York City, than any other make except Ford.

A comparison between 1922 and 1921 shows a remarkable increase in retail sales of Studebaker cars in Greater New York. Here are the figures:

1922	5686 cars valued at	$8,860,000
1921	3275 cars valued at	5,800,000
Increase	2411 cars valued at	$3,060,000
	Per Cent of Increase	73.6% 52.8%

Studebaker's grand total sales in 1922 were 110,000 cars as compared with 66,000 in 1921—an increase of 66% in 1922 over 1921.

Studebaker is the world's largest manufacturer of six-cylinder cars.

The broad principle upon which Studebaker business has prospered for seventy-one years, now grounded upon tradition, insures satisfaction to everyone who deals with the House of Studebaker.

RABBIT-BREEDERS DEPARTMENT

Consolidated from The Times by Wm. L. Smith, 100 West Street, Under auspices of Wichita County Rabbit Breeders Association.

The Belgian Hare. Very early in the nineteenth century, a group of "keen nature students" in Belgium did some "mild" breeding with the wild hare of that country, and by skillful crossing, using the desirable characteristics of each type for purpose, and eliminating the undesirable traits of all, originated the most economic producer of meat known to man.

By the English the improved meat producer was called the Belgian hare. The advent of the Belgian hare in England, so revolutionized the meat industry that it quickly displaced itself on the farthest reaches of the typical English fancier, who has long been awake to the opportunities offered for the improvement of any kind of livestock.

In 1852 the "National Belgian Hare Club of England" was established and Mr. Lamb was made the secretary, and in the same year the English standard for Belgian hares was formulated by W. Lamb, of Cleveley, England, and unanimously adopted. Real stock fanciers ever being alert for advancement, the English Standard was revised in 1881, by Mr. Lamb, later on Ernest Wilkins of Wantage, England, became the author of a text book "The Book of the Belgian Hare."

In 1885 the Belgian Hare was introduced into America by E. M. Hughes of Albany, N. Y. The gentleman, Mr. Hughes made frequent importations, exhibited his stock at poultry shows and organized a club in their interest, called the "American Belgian Hare Association." The English standard was adopted, in the month of Mr. Hughes in 1885, America lost a real rabbit man and a real benefactor to the breed.

In 1897, P. E. Crabtree, then of Denver, Colorado, organized the National Belgian Hare club of America. At this time the English Standard was modified, by sending thereto the necessary list of disqualifications to make it clearly applicable for show work, and was originated a score card to be used in conjunction therewith. Mr. Crabtree was made secretary of the club, and the score card and standard were unanimously adopted. The standard was called the "American Standard of Excellence for Belgian Hares."

Frugal people were so impressed with the utility of the little animal in the home production of meat from weeds and waste from garden, lawn and kitchen that its popularity quickly spread over the United States, and there was an unprecedented scramble for breeding stock that could only be supplied by numerous large importations from England.

In the year 1900, the interest in strictly high class breeding stock became so intense that the secretary of the National Belgian Hare club of America was sent to England to personally select the best animal procurable and to accompany them on their return voyage. He attended the shows throughout England, secured the mammoth shipment, assembled it at Glasgow, Scotland, procured the necessary transportation of them by the Anchor Line Steamship "Anchor," passed them through the custom house at New York City and delivered them to the

KNOWLEDGE FOR CAR OWNERS

Interesting and important facts that every motorist should know.

The motor is almost certain to knock when the ignition is set too early. Extreme care should be taken to see that nothing on the machine scrapes the tires, as they revolve. By rubbing a little graphite and shellac over the rim, tire changing will be made much easier. An excellent varnish for terminals can be made by dissolving sealing wax in gasoline, mixed with linned oil.

By advancing the spark as the speed of the car is increased maximum power is obtained from each explosion and with minimum fuel. It is essential to the good working of a car that a light grade of gasoline be used during the winter months.

To get lights without using a storage battery, connect a switch into the generator field circuit and mount on the cowl board. Clutch spinning is often due to excessive friction in the spring throat bearings, though some faulty alignment of the flywheel and clutch cone prevents the engaging surface from entirely clearing each other.

To keep the glass of the windshield clear during a rain, mix five cents worth of camphor and turpentine with a piece of paraffine about as big as a marble. Mix all well in a bottle and apply with a rag. An auto top which has a tendency to sag in the middle can be strengthened up by tightening the nuts by which the windshield is fastened to the cowl. Also tighten the connection between the top and the windshield.

Be careful of faults in the ball-valve mechanism of the "hidden" oil pump. A weak bit of grit in the valve may lead to a seized machine, for it is not altogether easy to spot whether you are getting a warning or only a quarter charge of oil into the engine at every stroke of the pump. It is also advisable to strain the oil as it is poured into the tank, first thinking it down by placing the can in front of the fire.

Wheels of pre-war models of motorcycles should always carry spare valves—valves made for their own particular model. Neglect of this matter may cause a great deal of trouble on a trip where garages are few and far between and then they may not be able to find one to fit. The less equipment on the handlebars, the better, a mirror being the only thing needed, as a horn may be arranged so as to be operated by the foot.

QUIT TOBACCO

So easy to drop Cigarette, Cigar or Chewing habit

No-To-Bac has helped thousands to break the costly, nerve-shattering tobacco habit. Whenever you have a longing for a cigarette or cigar, just place a harmless No-To-Bac tablet in your mouth instead. All desire stops. Shortly the habit is completely broken, and you are better off mentally, physically, financially. It's so easy, so simple. Get a box of No-To-Bac and if it doesn't release you from all craving for tobacco in any form, your druggist will refund your money without question.

Specialty judges have been secured to conduct the awarding of the prizes in a capable and systematic way; that the work may be constructive and permanent. The big state fairs have been asked to allot to this most worthy industry their large buildings. At Hutchinson, Kan., for example, the building was liberally filled with choice animals and fur products manufactured from the pelts of their relatives. An intensively interested audience thronged the building and admired the stock and furs throughout the entire week. A graduate judge, Next Year, was secured for the occasion, both at Topeka and Hutchinson, Kan. Especially strong interest in the exhibits has been shown in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado, California, Missouri, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, New York and Massachusetts. Description: The color should be a rich, brownish red, or "russet red" over the head, ears, chest, feet and most of the body. The hindquarters should be of this color and not grayish. Good specimens have the belly cream colored. There should be little or no white and no ticking on under jaw. Black ticking, making wavy or rippling lines on the back, should always be present, and black markings (ticking) on the tips of the ears. The ears should be five inches long, thin, erect and well set on head, inclining slightly backward. Both front and hind feet should be of a uniform russet color, free from ticking, lars or white hairs. The eyes should be large, bold, prominent, bright, intelligent and hased in color. Does are without dewlap. The body should be long and slender, back slightly arched, chest prominent, neck good length and tall straight, flesh firm, feet small, weight eight pounds or less.

While cheap meat production is the prime and economic consideration in the breeding of Belgian Hares, yet a common unity of purpose required that there be a nationwide system in the application of the standard. The National Association of Belgian Hare Judges, whose membership consisted of the graduates of institutes conducted expressly for the purpose of schooling these judges in modern hare requirements and in the conducting of large Belgian Hare shows.

The use of the Belgian Hare for meat production became so general that by the year 1911, there was a great demand for an American text book on all phases of the Belgian Hare industry, particularly the subjects of breeding, feeding, housing, dressing, marketing, and the recipes for fancy cooking. Elmer C. Rice of Boston, Mass., of the Boston Times, came to the rescue in that instance, and by securing the services of the secretary of the National Belgian Hare club of America, to edit the book and take the photos for its illustrations he published a book of 144 pages, which sold at a price of $4 per copy. It was entitled "Belgian Hares," by P. E. Crabtree. From this date the successful meat production with Belgian Hares followed. In 1917, a keen interest was shown in the exhibition of the United States. One of the most interesting exhibits that year was at the Topeka, Kansas, state fair. In 1918, the interest in the same places had fully doubled. In 1919 immense exhibits of hares graced the show rooms from Massachusetts to California and from Michigan to Texas, inclusive in all directions.

MOTOR DUST

Of Personal Interest to the Motoring Public and Dealers

Two sales reported on Durants by the Farmster Motor Company, last week, being made to W. J. Hancock and E. A. Duran. Mr. Hancock of this organization stated that it is nearly impossible to get deliveries on either the Durant or Stutz, as the demand is much larger than the factory output. It is reported by Mr. Welsch, secretary of the Automotive Dealers Association, that there will be no automobile show this spring, but that every effort will be made to make the show at the T-O fair a big one.

High Weaver returned Saturday from Dallas and Fort Worth on a business trip, in a Buick car and states that the roads are very rough. The following list is the sales made by the King & Weaver Motor company from Jan. 1 to Jan. 20: D. J. McClure, Electric, 6 cylinder touring; Ames Morris, city, 6 cylinder

HEAVEN'S WELCOME TO STRAY IS LESSON OF PRODIGAL SON JUDGE KAY TELLS HIS CLASS

The real lesson of the story of the prodigal son, Judge John C. Kay told his Bible class last Sunday, is that Heaven waits and waits with open arms for "any and all who will come back." Judge Kay's lecture to his class at the Olympic follows:

The lesson this morning is a great epic; that is, if we could call the story of one man an epic, although it is a term that is usually applied to a people. It is a very common story, both in life and literature. Many great writers attempted it in many forms.

Now, what was the matter with this old boy that went down to Babylon? Although the story is old, and has been preached on many times we are liable, and likely some of us—to get the wrong impression of the lesson.

It wasn't because he went down to Babylon. It wasn't Babylon that hurt him, but it was because he took that money with him, an unsafe thing for a young man.

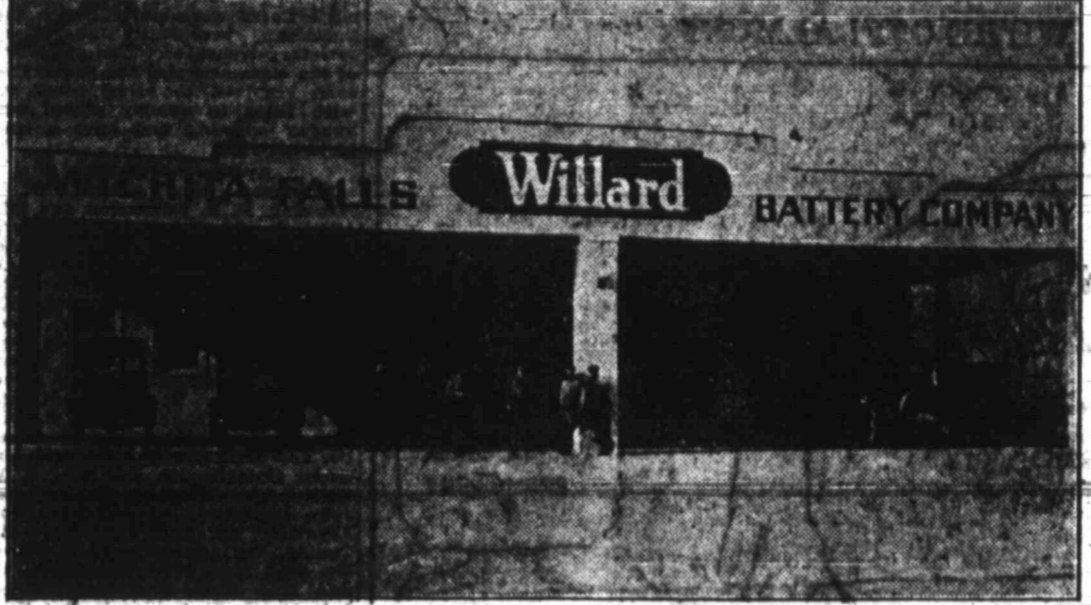

When Joseph went down to Egypt as a slave, without money, around the court of great Pharaoh, he came right up, and up, and up. And, if this boy in this lesson had gone down there and got this job chaperoning these hogs when he first got there, he would have probably been secretary of state after a while.

So, it wasn't Babylon, and it wasn't the boy, but it was the money he took with him. It wasn't safe for him to have it or handle it.

Now, Mr. Tennison said, he believed that the sowing of wild-oats might be a good thing, but he said it was unwise to teach it or preach it, because philosophy setting upon such a doctrine "might push beyond her mark and become precocious to the lords of Hell."

This fellow has some things in him that would appeal mightily to a Texas man. You know, when we came out here to Texas, it took an adventurer to do it. We had to

NEW HOME OF WICHITA BATTERY COMPANY

The Wichita Battery company moved into its new home the first part of the new year. The new service station, not only presents a beautiful picture but was built in such a manner as to offer the best accommodations possible. The new building affords a most convenient place for customers and is located on one of the principal outlet streets from the business section. W. L. Hawkins and J. W. Maxipin, manager and owner, are pleased with their new home and are seen in the picture above. The station is located at 288 Eighth street.

he thinks of his father's house. Now, the real hero of that story is that big-hearted, old father. He is the one that's worth while in the story, because he had a great heart for forgiveness. He didn't even think about forgiveness. When he looked down the dusty road and saw that boy coming back from Babylon, he never thought about his sins, he didn't even think about forgiveness. He said: "That's my boy coming back," and that's the only thing he thought about. Ah, how glad he was, and he dressed him up and made him somebody back in his home.

Now, it is not necessary that every man go out and sow wild oats. I don't agree with Mr. Tennison's view about it, but there is one thing I want to say to you. That is, regardless of the front, and the wind, and the rain, and the heat, and the cold, there is one group that never fails to come up and to bear fruit. That's one of the sure crops that we have got in this country, and in every country. Who ever plants it, may be sure of his harvest and a hard harvest it is.

Now, what did this old boy think about when he started back? He wasn't like some of us fellows and said, "I have lost all my money." He was a better sport than some of us. But, he says, "Up yonder, at my father's house, there is bread." He had got down to where the great basic necessities of life were in his thoughts. That might do some of you, as it has, in time, you some good some time to reach that far place where you wouldn't be thinking about stocks, and bonds, and fame, and fortune, but "Where can I get bread?"

Ah, that kind of thing makes a man of a man, if he has got anything to start on to make one.

don't know—I like to see a boy go to town. I like to see him struggle in competition with the best, and the brightest. There is no harm in that, if he is decent when he goes there, and remains decent as he stays there.

It wasn't Babylon, I say, that ruined him. Some of the shabbiest fellows I ever saw lived away up the creek and never saw anybody, hardly. They are everywhere.

Now, what are we to get out of the lesson? We have talked enough about it. That that father was but typical of our great Father, who, although we have wasted our inheritance, wasted our lives, wasted our bodies, wasted our opportunities, and sinned against our better knowledge, yet, He is ready to put a robe on us and to proclaim that we, as such we are, are His sons.

It teaches not the big-heartedness of the boy, or of his father, nor of the repentance of the boy, but the lesson is intended to teach that Heaven waits and waits with open arms, for any and for all who will come back to the great arms of the Father, where He is glad to proclaim his fatherhood and the sonship of the wanderer.

SULLIVAN DISCUSSES PROBABLE DEMOCRATIC LINEUP IN 1924

Reviews Last Campaign and Outlines Relative Strength of Prominent Men Mentioned

By MARK SULLIVAN.

(Copyright, 1923, New York Tribune, Inc.)

In the opening moves for the next democratic presidential nomination that have been taking place the last few days it has been assumed, possibly too freely, that ex-Governor Cox of Ohio will not be a formidable figure in the situation next year.

Among other reasons it is noticed that some of those party leaders who were most responsible for nominating Cox in 1920 now seem to have a grievance against him. Several of those who brought about the nomination of Cox were old-school politicians of the sort that had not got along very well with President Wilson. Also, several of them were "wet." After Cox was nominated, they followed in both respects a course acutely disappointing to those who felt he was the beneficiary of their efforts and that in gratitude he ought to have accepted their guidance as to policy. This was exactly what Cox did not do. Cox, as soon as he got the nomination, came to see Wilson at the White House and accepted Wilson's league of nations and made it his leading issue of the campaign. This was regarded by the leaders who had nominated him both as a grievance—because it was their wish to ignore Wilson—and also as bad policy, because they thought other issues would be more successful. Finally, Cox refused to accept the nomination, possibly too freely, that ex-Governor Cox of Ohio will not be a formidable figure in the situation next year.

For these reasons some of the most important of the men who were most responsible for nominating Cox in 1920 do not now take any interest in getting him re-nominated. This statement is believed to apply even to certain leaders in Cox's own state of Ohio who had most to do with launching him in 1920.

All this naturally raises an interesting question about Cox's personal attitude. As some one expressed it, "Cox's old backers may think he is out of it for 1924, but Cox himself thinks he is in." Cox is an able and resourceful person and tenacity is among the most conspicuous of his qualities. No man would have made the way that Cox has made from a little Ohio hill-top farm up to material wealth and political power, if he were the sort of man who gives up with the first defeat. Even if his former backers should not now be interested in him, Cox is better able to make his own way than he was three years ago. As regards Ohio, even if some of Cox's old friends among the leaders are now said to regard him as out of it, it must be remembered that in Ohio Cox is a good deal of a leader in himself. Ohio is one of the direct primary states and if Cox wants the Ohio delegation for himself in the democratic convention next year there is nothing to prevent his getting it. The possession of the Ohio delegation—if he should go after it and get it—would at least give him a leverage in the convention out of which a resourceful man might be able to make much.

When this has been said, it is about all that can be said for Cox's chances. The undeniable fact necessary to be included in any statement of the situation as it exists today is that most of the party leaders take it for granted that Cox is out of it.

In which one respect, however, in there is one respect, however, in which there is just a possibility that Cox may feel them all. When Cox adopted the Wilson issue he did so not merely as a matter of expediency—as a matter of comparing two paths and choosing the one that seemed to him more promising for the purpose of the campaign. Cox's adoption of the Wilson policy of international cooperation was no such thing as this. It was a genuine conversion. He took on an almost evangelistic fever. Cox really became incouquered with the fundamental idea that we cannot have a happy and prosperous world until we have international cooperation and until the United States does its part in it. Having this deep conviction, Cox was not disturbed in it by the disastrous effect it had on his own political fortunes. He clung to it and during the intervening times his devotion to it has become steadily stronger. Regardless of how his personal political fortunes may be affected by his relation to this issue, Cox regards international cooperation as a sacred cause. Because of his absorption in it he is probably a little more able and a little more willing to be the spokesman and leader of this issue than almost any of the other men mentioned in connection with the democratic nomination. Cox can talk international cooperation with more enthusiasm and lead a crusade in that interest with more energy than almost anybody else except Wilson himself when he was in good health. If it should happen that Cox's intention in connection with the leading issue in 1924 might turn out that Cox's inner line on this subject would be such as a possibility for the democratic nomination next year than it is realized by even many of those among the politicians who are distant from Washington and not fully aware of what is going on.

McAdoo is in an incomparably stronger position with respect to the next national convention than he was to the 1920 one. In 1920 he was under severe handicaps, some of which do not now exist, and some others of which he can readily prevent from existing if he cares to. In 1920 McAdoo kept refusing to authorize his friends to do anything in his behalf, and maintained this attitude right up to the deciding ballot of the convention. If McAdoo had felt free to add the weight of even a faint personal effort on his own part, or if some of his powerful friends had felt justified in throwing their strength into the struggle without his consent, the addition of these elements to the rather remarkable number of delegates who voted for McAdoo anyhow might readily have given him the nomination.

At the time it was commonly understood that McAdoo's meticulous refraining from even the shadow of a motion in his own behalf was due to "concern about the fact that his father-in-law was then president. The malicious chime to say that McAdoo was holding himself in because he feared that Mr. Wilson might have hopes of getting the nomination himself, and he did not want to be in the position of being an impediment to his own father-in-law. But the more detached preferred to see more obvious reasons for Mr. McAdoo's restraint. He knew, as many of us know—in spite of the wild charges of the republicans—that Wilson regarded it as an imperious propriety of his position in the white house that he should not so much as lift a finger to affect the choice of his successor in the nomination; and, of course, it could not have been possible for a member of his family to take part in the race at all without by that act depriving Mr. Wilson of some of the dignity and good faith of the position he took.

The reason for Mr. McAdoo's self-restraint and for the restraint which he imposed upon some of his most powerful friends in 1920 does not now exist. So far as he might come to want the nomination, or so far as his friends might want it for him, they will not be deterred by the mere fact that he is Wilson's son-in-law. True, they will be obliged to anticipate that if Mr. McAdoo should get the nomination the republicans will probably renew the jibes of "Synastry" and "Crown Prince" which the used to fling at Mr. McAdoo even during his merely passive candidacy of 1920. But these jibes in 1924 will have no such relevancy as the republicans believed they had in 1920. And with ing officers were elected: Mr. Liel Buchanan, president; Jake Reed, secretary-treasurer. Ten members of the class attended the party. They each received to bring some one with them to Sunday school next Sunday morning and have a class of twenty.

Avalon Bridge Club.
Meadam Roy Abbott, W. J. Stuckler, F. E. Edmondson and Miss Lillie Castibury were hostesses to gentlemen's evening of the Avalon bridge club Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Abbott. Nine tables were arranged for the game. The house was decorated with sweet peas and ferns. Sweet peas were also used as favors for the guests. A two course dinner was served to the guests. Those present were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Hendrix, Mr. and Mrs. Chancy Green, Dr. and Mrs. Gorbach, Mrs. and Mrs. Oscar Holman, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Bailey, Miss Margaret Edwards and John Lanford, Mr. and Mrs. Moss Lovelace, Mr. and Mrs. Roy McConkie, Dr. and Mrs. M. J. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thompson, Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph King, Miss Minnie King, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Avie White, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stuckler, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Edmondson, Miss Lillie Castibury and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Abbott.

Hill Crest Country Club.
The members of Hill Crest Country club and some friends enjoyed a dance on Friday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Martin and Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Haney were hosts and hostesses. On next Friday evening at the club there will be given a bridge party. Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Farrell and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. McCarter will be hosts and hostesses. Women's Club Meeting. The Women's club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. A. Williams in special session authorized by the state federation. Officers for the club for the ensuing two years were elected: President, Mrs. J. E. Collins; first vice president, Mrs. J. A. Lusk; second vice president, Miss Mary Blackman; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. C. V. King; parliamentarian, Mrs. Y. H. Babash.

It was also voted that the following resolution be published in the local newspapers:

"We, the ladies of the Woman's club wish to go on record as being bitterly opposed to the reinstatement of Roscoe Arbuckle in film-dom. We believe that his reinstatement would result in no good to the younger generation, whom we feel it our duty to safeguard. Therefore, be it resolved, that the managers of our local picture shows be asked not to show pictures staged by Arbuckle as director or in which he appears as an actor." After the business was transacted an interesting study program was rendered. Mrs. Y. H. Babash and Mrs. R. L. Rouse favored the club with two beautiful piano solos, after which delicious refreshments were served. Clever valentine favors were used.

PROHIBITION NAVY FOR THE PACIFIC COAST

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27.—Another navy is to be added to the Pacific coast, Samuel F. Rutter, federal prohibition director of California, announced today. It will be officially known as the United States Pacific dry navy. Just when it is to begin operations, the number of vessels, the commanders and other details are known only to Rutter and his close lieutenants.

An aeronautical museum containing an unusual collection of various types of airplanes and aircraft engines, is to be opened at McCook field, Dayton, Ohio, in a few months.
