A regular daily schedule followed which will allow the Scouts to get a proper amount of sleep, rest, exercise and enjoyment. Reville is sounded at 6 o'clock and the boys turn out to get ready for a hearty breakfast of ham and eggs, coffee and toast at the cook tent several hundred yards from the camp quarters.

Following the hike or whatever diversion has been planned for the morning, the Scouts return to the cook tent for dinner at 12 o'clock. The menu usually includes a balanced meal of roast beef, a vegetable, pickles, bread and a dessert. The afternoons in camp are devoted to baseball, swimming, fishing, and other sports.

At camp fire time, all the boys gather around in a circle to relate their experiences of the day, sing Scout songs, to make and read instructions as to ways of improving the camp and making it more profitable. Some entertain a portion of the camp fire hour is devoted to boxing, wrestling and athletic contests.

Wednesday, even before the necessity of camp life had worn off, the Scouts were not too busy to remember the "Decorate-a-Scout Day." Early Wednesday morning they started on a 15 mile hike to the "high out" in the woods and mountains. After lunch, every Scout was asked to pick wild flowers on the mountain side and when each one was well loaded with mountain daisies, Indian heads and other "wild blossoms," they halted for a brief but impressive memorial service.

RESPECTING THE MOVIES FOR PRESIDENTIAL TIMBER

By WILL ROGERS

New York is trying to lead the Democratic Convention. But it's too late now. I have already launched the Candidate right here in New York in open Convention. Mr. Wm. G. McAdoo was in to look our show over the other night. I introduced him to the Audience and had the distinction of nominating him for President.

I thought it was hard. I had read a lot about these Conventions where someone would get up and make the nominating speech and get a lot of credit for it. Why, it's a cinch; I wasn't scared a bit. We had Delegates from every State, too, and they all seemed to agree. But I just pulled one of those old-fashioned Penrose things and rode rough shod right over everything and put my man over.

He was accompanied by the financial Department of the Democratic Party. Mr. Barney Baruch. Any likely Candidate does well to be so accompanied by Mr. Baruch. That's what makes of his being the Party's only rich man. Of course, if he was a Republican, he would be no novelty. They are all mangey with Dough.

Well, any way, after the show they came back to my dressing room which showed they were not displeased with my excellent selection. But Mr. McAdoo has a pretty good sense of humor founded on facts; he said, "Why did you launch me so soon, WILL? It gives People time to look up my record." You see he remembers what the Republicans did the last time they nominated me unexpectedly, and fast, and late that people had no chance to investigate the candidate.

The more people study about you, nowadays, the less they think of you.

Mr. Baruch came back stage to make me apologize as one time I called him the Freylinghausen of the Democratic Party. So I did apologize. I told him it was said in the heat of Political battle.

There have been lots of Presidents and prospective Presidents in to see the Polities but Mr. McAdoo is the only one ever nominated there. Now, who he was and what he has done in the past; You remember during the war, he practically took charge of the home end of the encounter. If there was some important position and you didn't know what was occupying it, that was him. His name was embroidered on every Railroad towel and dolly from the rum running coast of Maine to the Iowa settled shores of sunny California, and each job had a private secretary for him. Well, he had to speak to them in a strange way, Prohibition was coming on, and he was digging them all. Why, a little job like being President and having nothing to run but the United States; that would be a vacation for him. We would have to dig him up something for his spare time—fix him up some wide line.

When I played in Washington last year, I met the 10 men who took his place. When the Democrats were let out on account of a short Circuit of votes, why, he got a job in the Movies where we all go when we want to recuperate our finances.

He was Lawyer for Uncle Dug and Aunt Mary. But nobody sued them, and they didn't have a divorce, so they let him go. A Film Star can't afford to keep a Lawyer if he is having no Breach of Promise Cases or Divorces.

He first started into Politics by digging the McAdoo Tunnel from New York under the Hudson River to Jersey. That came about in rather a strange way. Prohibition was coming on, and he was digging a Cellar and accidentally come up in Jersey. Since then they have all dug straight down to save each another calamity.

He made a race of Ground Hogs out of New Yorkers. It's only during certain hours that they ever come up for air.

Now some of you might think that my Convention was not bona-fide because I did not nominate a Vice President. Well, that is generally done through malice, and I hold no Vice Presidential malice to wari no one.

Now, of course at various times, I may nominate another Presidential Candidate either on one side or the other, as the Presidential Market fluctuates. I might nominate a Vice President. Well, that is generally done through malice, and I hold no Vice Presidential malice to wari no one.

Now, take the case of W. J. Bryan; he would make an ideal Sunday President. But would be an absolute liability on week days.

Some men, they might be good Presidents. They might have a dress Suit and look well behind a Baquet Table. Some men are congenial, can tell a good story, play a fair game of Golf and consequently make ideal Week end Presidents.

Now the same thing applies to Governors. Look at the case of Al Smith of New York State. He was a dandy Governor till he had a decision to make.

Then again, perhaps in a few months our Politicians will change. They will have forgotten about Europe and how we are needed there and commence to think of home here. You know Politicians; after all, are not over a year behind Public opinion.

"I may pick out just the type for president in the movies."

Now I am going out in the Movies and I may pick up just the Type for President as you know everything comes to Movies sooner or later. I may pick up a couple and cast one for each Party. I understand just the type of man you all want. We want a man in there who can handle men, a man who when his Hired Help gets to acting up, down at the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue, can hop in his car, go down there and tell 'em who is Boss and where to head in. Don't confer with them—just soak 'em.

You see the class of help a President gets in the Senate and Congress since immigration has been restricted, you can't treat them with kindness. A Congressman or Senator is not used to kind treatment, even at home, so you have got to be rough with those Birds. Use a little Florida methods on them. (I'll find the fellow for you. It may take a little time but I will find the type yet.)

Well, to get our mind off Politics, our old Headliner, Mr. Stillman, bobbed up across the front page this week. He has walked out on another one.

He ought to grow a long Beard and take King Benjamin's place in the House of David. Flo says she wants him to continue her allowance of 1500 Berries monthly. If she can get him to do it, and she can do as well on it as she has on just that much in the past, she will own New York—if she can get him to keep it up for another year.

She says she didn't get even as much as a man would allow his own wife. That's a very poor comparison, 'cause a Wife is the cheapest thing you can get in the long run in the Female line. Why, if 90 percent of the Wives in this Country ever got an allowance of 1500 in their lifetime they would have their Husbands examined by a lunacy commission.

She says she didn't know how she is going to educate little Sturdie on an $5 thousand dollar Apartment House and 50 thousand dollars worth of Diamonds. I would advise her not to raise him on Diamonds. That is what is the Matter with part of this Country now.

Why, $5 thousand, where I was born in the old Indian Territory. There wasn't that much money in the whole Cherokee Nation. For a Hundred thousand you could have bought the whole State of Oklahoma. And after you bought it, if you happened to have 14 dollars over, you could have bought Kansas.

'Course I guess it has advanced now; I haven't been there in years. Chances are it has doubled since then. Still, both States managed to turn out some pretty good Sturdies.

FRANCIS SPEAKER AT COMMENCEMENT OF OLNEY SCHOOLS

GRADUATING CLASS PROGRAM WAS PRESENTED ON FRIDAY EVENING.

GRAIN HARVEST LIGHT IN OLNEY TERRITORY

Complaint Made That Grasshoppers Are Infesting Cotton Fields.

OLNEY, TEXAS, June 3.—Commencement week in the Olney high school has furnished a variety of entertainment during the past week. The schools have finished one of the most successful commencement history, and the graduating class this year is unusual in that it is composed of five boys and only four girls.

The baccalaureate sermon was delivered Sunday morning at the Methodist church by Rev. W. H. Ward, president of the Methodist Baptist College. Monday and Tuesday nights were given over to recitals of the school adulation. Friday night the commencement exercises for the graduating class were held at the First Baptist Church, and the house was filled to overflowing. An able address to the graduates was made by Hon. Chas. L. Francis.

Cutting the grain crop in this section has progressed very rapidly during the past week, and at this writing is about 50 per cent harvested. Thrashers will start in some parts of the country Monday. The grain crop is going to be somewhat lighter than average, but there will be quite a bit marketed here. From 15 to 18 bushels per acre is the expected wheat yield.

Grasshoppers Appearing Complaints are getting more frequent daily that grasshoppers are infesting the cotton fields, and though as yet they have done no material damage, it is feared that unless proper control is taken they will become a menace. Counties further west and south report serious damage already.

Scouts Erect Log Cabin The Olney Boy Scouts have just about finished the log cabin at the municipal lake. Now that school is out they will have more time to devote to their work. The cabin is planned for a two-story log and is to be situated on the Clear Fork of the Brazos or to some point in Oklahoma.

School Term Dishes Out The Newport school district, a rural school located seven miles northwest of Olney, has just closed its term Saturday for a raise in the school tax to the maximum dollar on the $100 valuation. This is extraordinary, we believe, especially for a country district.

Dr. and Mrs. H. Hamilton entertained with a 6:00 o'clock dinner Wednesday evening honoring Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Davis of Seattle, Wash.

Dinner was served in six courses and covers were laid for eight: the hostess, Mrs. H. H. Davis, Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harris, Dr. and Mrs. Hamilton.

Picnic at Swastika A crowd of picnickers enjoyed a picnic at the Swastika wells last Thursday evening in honor of the birthday of the Swastika No. 3. All of the good things going with a picnic lunch were enjoyed.

Afternoon Club Mrs. Claudia Walker was hostess to the Afternoon Club at her home last Thursday afternoon in a social meeting.

After a lengthy business session in which some unfinished business was transacted and officers for the coming year elected, the hostess served delicious refreshments.

Two visitors were present, Mrs. Dorena Sells of Magdalen, N. M., and Mrs. T. J. Gardner of Newmarket.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Mrs. O. T. Anderson, president; Mrs. Marvin Smith, first vice president; Mrs. A. A. Cooper, second vice president; Mrs. W. C. Marshall, treasurer; Mrs. D. W. Walton, parliamentary; Mrs. Claud Wallace, critic; Mrs. J. B. Morris, press reporter.

Pipe Line Started The pipe line to be built by Wichita Falls & Southern Railroad interests from Swastika to heading near one mile north of Olney is now under construction. A siding is being moved here from north of Olney City and the work will be pushed to completion as early as possible. It will be 1,000 to 1,200 feet long, and will be laid on a foundation of concrete.

Work Stopped on City Hall The foundation is completed and materials are being placed for the city hall and fire station which are being built on the south side of West State street. It is to be a three-story brick building with room for the fire truck and a meeting place for the city council and the office of the city secretary. It is to be of brick and concrete, and will be a handsome and modern structure.

Business Men Completion The business men, including the meeting place and will be completed within a few more days. They are the two-story brick building on West State street. One is a 5,000-foot square building the other is the largest building in the city, a 10-story brick building. Both are the finest buildings in town.

City Council Meeting The city council met Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the city hall. The meeting was held in the city hall. It is the first meeting of the council since the new city hall was opened.

High in Quality But not high in price. We can clean and replait your fancy gowns.

WICHITA CLUB HAS CHARGE OF PROGRAM GIVEN AT THAT PLACE.

SHEPHERD AND DANIELS FAVOR GUESTS WITH DUST

Electric Club to Visit Wichita Falls Sometime During the Present Month.

WICHITA, TEXAS, June 3.—That people will be entertained in town and cities within a few days is the hope of the members of the country who go back and forth in automobiles or airplanes in the vicinity of Wichita Falls. The Rotary club who addressed the local club Friday when Wichita Rotary had charge of the program here.

Mr. McDonald called attention to the changing standards of business, saying that a few years ago when the Rotary club of Wichita Falls was organized, they felt that they would profit with some of their fellows and by the speaker continued, "that when there is a failure money hides out in the school auditorium. An able address to the graduates was made by Hon. Chas. L. Francis.

Mr. Daniels was in charge of the program. There were 22 Wichita Rotarians with him. Mrs. R. E. (Sheep) Shepherd was a guest and accompanied by the speaker, which was the most enthusiastic ever heard at a local gathering. A dust storm from the west was blowing wildly.

Community Meeting. Wichita business men to the number of 100 went with their families to Elliott Thursday night at the home of the latter at a celebration marking the completion of their community house. Home talent staged the "Arizona Cowboy" in an open air theater. Local singers sang a number of popular songs, and the electric band furnished instrumental music. Everything was free in the way of entertainment. Funds were secured through the sale of edibles, ice cream and cold drinks.

Streets Are Flooded. Streets were flooded here when more than half an inch of rain fell in a few minutes. It was accompanied by a high wind and an electrical display of intense brilliancy. However, no damage was done.

This will provide water for drilling purposes, but will add little to the depleted supply in the city reservoir. More than 300,000 gallons is being pumped now from the auxiliary plant near East First and it is expected that twice that much will be available within a week. So that the local crisis insofar as water is concerned has been weathered.

Will Close Revival. The Christian church will close its tabernacle revival Sunday with an all-day meeting. This has been conducted by Evangelical Revivalists and Arthur Hamilton. Nearly 500 have signed pledge cards for a better life since the revival campaign started April 1.

Removal Services. The American Legion and Commercial veterans united in memorial services for the late Mrs. J. C. Wilson. The services were held at the home of the former, and Col. Ed C. ## HALL CO. LIVESTOCK ASSOCIATION WILL CONVENE MONDAY

TO DISTRIBUTE TEN REGISTERED PIGS TO CLUB MEMBERS.

ENCOURAGE BREEDING OF BETTER LIVESTOCK

Go to Boys and Girls Having Made Highest Grades in Stock Judging.

MEMPHIS, TEXAS, June 2.—The Hall County Livestock Association will hold its regular monthly meeting Monday, June 4, at the Hall County Chamber of Commerce rooms at 2 p. m.

A feature of this meeting will be the distribution of 10 registered pigs to Hall county boy and girl club members. The 10 pigs are contributed by breeders who are members of the association for the purpose of encouraging the breeding of better livestock in the county and to demonstrate the value of a properly balanced ration in developing growing swine. Incidentally, of course, each breeder will receive valuable advertising through the experiment.

The conditions upon which the pigs are given to the young breeders are: Each boy or girl who receives a pig shall enter an obligation to care for and feed the pig as directed by the association and to exhibit the pig this fall at the Hall county fair with the contributor's name prominently displayed upon the pen. When these conditions are complied with the pig becomes the property of the exhibitor.

The distribution will be made to the 10 boys and girls, members of the Hall County Boys' and Girls' Agriculture Club, who have made the highest grades in stock judging.

The names of the 10 club members who stand highest in stock judging, and who will receive the pigs, are as follows: Homer Grant, Lodge; Sam Paschall, Indian Creek; Glenn Williams, Mt. Pleasant; W. H. Benson, Buffalo Flat; Claude Whitten, Friendship; Juanita Harlan, Bridge City; Opal Smith, Pleasant Valley; Margaret McCallister, Cheatham.

The Hall County Livestock Association, organized last year, has grown rapidly and now has practically every breeder of registered livestock in this section as a member. The primary purpose of the association is to arouse interest and promote the breeding of better livestock, and its work is meeting with marked success.

Court to Convene. The mid-summer term of district court convenes here next Monday, June 4. Full dockets, both civil and criminal, are to be tried. This will be the last term of the present court in Hall county; this county, children, Collingsworth and Donley comprising the new district created by the present legislature.

Injured Man Improving. A report from the Clarendon hospital stated that Bryce Webster, who was seriously hurt in a run-away last Tuesday morning, is doing well and that it is now thought that it will be unnecessary to amputate his arm. Mr. Webster was hurt while driving a car in his field just north of town. His right forearm was broken in two places and the arm badly lacerated by coming in contact with the knives with which the implement was equipped.

An arrest was made of a supposed confederate who was later released.

I Still Look 20 after 32 years as a star

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Some of you remember me as a famous stage beauty over 30 years ago. Perhaps in "The Girl I Left Behind Me," in "La Belle Helene," in "Wings," or "Theodora."

Now I am persuaded that I owe this information to all womankind. I have obtained by world-wide search, the best beauty helps in existence. I know they could bring to millions what they brought to me.

So I have arranged to supply these helps to all who want them—as a duty to my sex. I have had them prepared with the utmost skill, without regard to cost. And they are sold at modest prices, with small regard to profit.

Thus I hope to bring to girls and matrons everywhere the benefits I got. And no woman could ask for more.

My Beautiful Mother. My mother died a girlish beauty at the age of 37. From my earliest years she taught me her secrets. Then together we traveled the beauty-loving world in search of better methods.

We consulted able scientists, beauty specialists and famous beauties every where. The search cost us a fortune. But it brought to me and mine, and friends of mine, decades of added youth.

Now those helps are yours if you desire—the best that science knows. And I hope that my results will lead you to employ them.

White Youth Clay. I owe my debutante complexion largely to a superclay. Not like the crude and muddy clays so many use today, but a clean, refined clay which dries white. It is based on 20 years of scientific study by the ablest of clay experts.

One who applies it feels the impurities fatty drawn from the skin. All that clogs the skin comes out—the causes of blackheads and blemishes. The bloods brought to the surface. Large pores, lines and wrinkles yield.

Wash it off when it dries, then behold a new complexion, soft and rosy, clear and firm. The results will amaze and delight you. Many women in those 30 minutes seem to drop ten years.

Proprietor of Busy Bee Shows Some Busy Bees

Did you see the busy bee? We mean the busy bee at the Busy Bee. The Busy Bee man got a whole bunch of busy bees and put them on exhibition at the Busy Bee.

Properly business men and busy bodies in all sorts of business stopped at the Busy Bee during the past week and watched the swarm of busy bees go about their business in a most businesslike manner.

M. Marantz, proprietor and owner of the Busy Bee fruit store, secured the hive of bees from south Texas. They were of the Three Bander Italian variety. Mr. Marantz placed them in the show window of his piece of business, keeping them confined close to the hive by a close mesh wire netting.

A square of honey, flowers and brown sugar were placed in the cage with the bees and the workers kept right on working despite the fact that they were confined.

Hundreds of dead workers appeared on the floor within the confined space and many people arrived at the conclusion that the confinement was causing them to die. This, however, was not the case as the average life of a working bee is only 30 days and the dead specimens were only the bodies of those workers who had outlived their usefulness.

It might be surmised that at this rate a swarm of bees would soon pass into oblivion. However, this apparent loss is offset in the knowledge that the queen bee lays more than a thousand eggs every day of her life.

It is conjectured that fully 50 per cent of the people residing in a city have never seen a swarm of bees at close range, and with this in mind Mr. Marantz decided to put the swarm on exhibition. The second thought that also came into his mind in assisting him to arrive at this conclusion was the fact that he had selected a name for his business which could be best exemplified by the bee itself.

A specially constructed glass hive permitted spectators who stopped at the Busy Bee to see just what was going on inside the hive. A careful observer could easily perceive the manner in which honey is deposited in the small cells of the comb and then sealed up.

The swarm of bees was scheduled to be taken out into the open Sunday where the busy workers would have the privilege of roaming about in search of honey from flowers and sweet clover.

The average person is more or less frightened at the sight of a bee, but their harmlessness was illustrated when an experienced bee man Saturday pushed his hand into the enclosure and picked up a handful of the creatures. He explained that a bee is harmless as long as honey is coming in, but that there is some danger attached to handling them during that period of the year when honey is being consumed and none is coming in.

Facial Youth

This is a liquid cleansing cream which I learned about in France. It contains no animal, no vegetable oils, so it cannot assimilate with the skin. It simply cleans to the depths, then departs. All the grime, all that clogs the skin goes with it. I use it at night and morning, and whenever else my face needs cleansing.

Compare it with any cleansing cream and any cleansing method. You will be surprised at the extra dirt my Facial Youth removes. And a clean skin is essential to beauty.

The greatest beauty experts in the world now advise this formula for cleansing. But they charge a very high price. Edna Wallace Hopper's Facial Youth sells for 50c per bottle.

Youth Cream

This is my cold cream which I apply at night. Also in day times as a powder base. Also after every application of my Youth Clay or Facial Youth.

Youth Cream contains both lemon and strawberry. It is the only cream, I believe, which combines these fruit effects.

It softens, whitens, feeds and firms the skin. After its use I awake in the morning blooming like a girl in her teens.

In all my many years of searching, I have never found a cold cream to compare with this. Nor has any woman whom I know. Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Cream costs 50c per jar.

Clara Phillips Reveals How She Hid In Underground Dungeon For Month After Her Escape From Jail

By Universal Service. LOS ANGELES, June 2.—Clara Phillips, in her own version of the story of her escape from the Los Angeles County Jail, today in the third chapter of her narrative, reveals how she hid in an underground dungeon for a month after her escape from the Los Angeles County Jail, where she had been committed following the conviction of the crime.

By CLARA PHILLIPS. Copyright, 1923, by Los Angeles Examiner and Universal Service. (All rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or in part is prohibited.)

I had been kidnaped by Carson out of my home in Los Angeles without kidnapping pay. What was his intention? Why was he doing it? He got me out of my home and I was connected with it. He did not know me except by newspaper pictures and one view as I was going to court.

It is true that Carson was very well acquainted with a woman philanthropist with whom he communicated frequently and who learned later that I was in Mexico City, and that Carson was with me. But I cannot say of my own knowledge that any one paid Carson money to take me from the jail with a view to helping Sheriff Traeger or any of the new jail officials.

Free Air Seemed Good. To return to our trip after I was kidnaped, I was spirited away to a house outside Los Angeles. The free air seemed good to me. I remember passing through Pomona and then a short distance from there I was led into a house and down through a trap door in the floor to a hole in the wall, six feet by five in size.

PEACE HANGS ON RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA—LLOYD GEORGE

SAYS SOVIET IS HERE TO STAY AND COUNTRY WILL BE RULED BY ORGANIZATION FOR SOME TIME

(Copyright, 1923, by Carpenter's World Traveler) BY THE RIGHT HONORABLE DAVID LLOYD GEORGE, O. M., M. P.

LONDON, June 2.—I am frankly delighted that the negotiations between Lord Curzon and the Soviet government seem to indicate a genuine desire on the part of both parties to establish a more satisfactory understanding between Great Britain and Russia.

The Bolshevik episode, like all revolutionary terrors, has been at times a striking nightmare to civilization—it terrified democracy back into sanity just at a time when the nervous excitability that followed the war was bordering on mental instability.

In our attitude towards the Soviet government we must, however, constantly bear in mind one consideration—What matters to us is not so much the Russian government as the people of Russia, and for the moment the Bolshevik administration constitutes the only medium for dealing with that mighty nation.

As we discovered in 1919, you cannot wage war against the government for the time being of a country without devastating land and silencing its people. You cannot refuse to trade with it now without depriving its people of commodities—and especially of equipments—essential to their well-being.

Those who denounce any dealings with the existing order seem to have persuaded themselves that pre-revolutionary Russia was governed by a gentle and beneficent despotism which conferred the blessing of tolerant fatherhood upon a well ruled household.

Complete Explanation: Anyone who has read "Memoirs of an Agent" by M. Fajolov will find a complete explanation in its pages of the savage brutality with which the Russian revolutionaries viewed all those who associated in any degree with the old order.

TYPICALLY AMERICAN BOTH INSIDE AND OUT

House and Its Furniture Reflect Spirit of the Country.

By HENRY WESTON

When a home is built along lines as simple and unadorned as the house pictured, we can safely refer to it as a "typical American home."

The interior of such a home should reflect the atmosphere of comfort, space and beautiful simplicity, as does the exterior. For that purpose, there is no better furnishing than Colonial furniture, combined with the early English periods which inspired our Colonial designers, and a few Italian period pieces, to add variety.

The atmosphere of a restful, comfortable home should be established from the front door to the most remote corner. The reception hall is as important as any other portion.

The library, with its rows of books lining the walls, should have only a library table, with an armchair on each side, in the glow of the amber table lamp, and two deep English club chairs, upholstered with leather.

The long living room, with its fireplace in the corner, will ever be the joy to the family, and should be furnished in a formal, inviting manner. The fireplace grouping should include a davenport of mahogany and cane, showing the Adam design, with end tables having the fluted legs of the Sheraton period.

Innocent Suffer Most: In these cases the innocent suffer most. A refusal to trade with Russia would not deprive the Soviet commissaries of a single necessity or comfort of life.

It is not pleasant to recall these dreadful episodes which reveal the betrayal of a devotion faithful unto death. But this story is essential to a right appreciation of events.

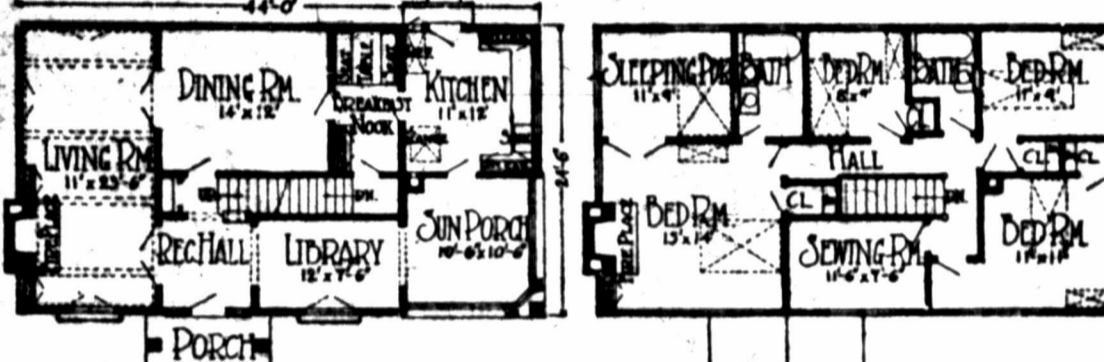

There is no savagery like that of a traitor people which finds its trust being imposed upon the white flag. Here the traitor has been hidden in all its aspects.

Mr. Pitt, in a famous passage, declared his assent to the general principle when he was attacked for trying to open negotiations with the "assassins" of the French revolution.

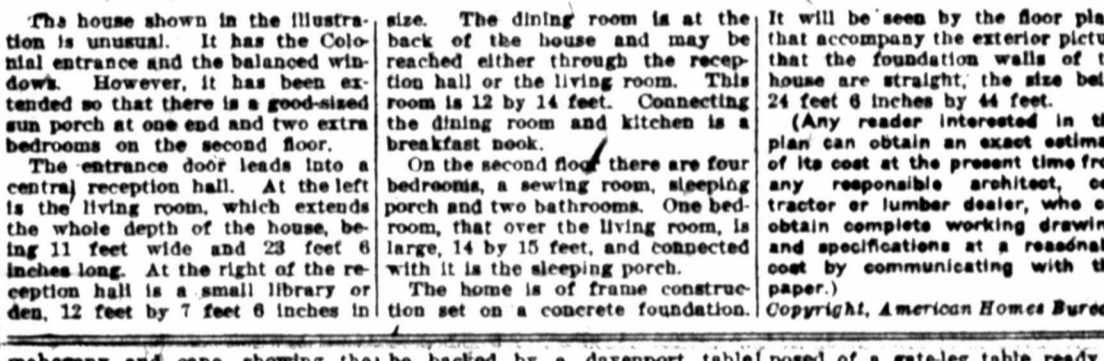

Colonial Style Modified

House and Its Furniture Reflect Spirit of the Country.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN

SECOND FLOOR PLAN

The house shown in the illustration is unusual. It has the Colonial entrance and the balanced window. However, it has been extended so that there is a good-sized sun porch at one end and two extra bedrooms on the second floor.

The dining room is at the back of the house and may be reached either through the reception hall or the living room. This room is 12 by 14 feet. Connecting the dining room and kitchen is a breakfast nook.

On the second floor there are four bedrooms, a sewing room, sleeping porch and two bathrooms. One bedroom, that over the living room, is large, 14 by 15 feet, and connected with it is the sleeping porch.

The house is of frame construction set on a concrete foundation. It will be seen by the floor plans that accompany the exterior picture that the foundation walls of the house are straight, the size being 24 feet 6 inches by 44 feet.

REAL PEACE HANGS ON RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA, LLOYD GEORGE DECLARES.

"It is time we made up our minds that the Soviets have come to stay, whether we like it or no, and that one or other of the formidable men who rule Russia are likely to rule it for some time to come."

"If you decline to treat with Russia as long as its present rulers remain in power, then you ought to place Turkey in the same category. The military junta that governed Turkey has been guilty not so much of Russian as of Bolshevik atrocities."

"We must make peace in the world, and you cannot do so if you put whole nations off your visiting list because of the misconduct of those who govern them. Once you begin you are not sure where it will end."

"A refusal to trade with Russia would not deprive the Soviet commissaries of a single necessity or comfort of life. But the peasants—who are not communists—would continue to suffer."

"In our attitude towards the Soviet government we must constantly bear in mind one consideration: What matters to us is not so much the Russian government as the people of Russia, and for the moment the Bolshevik administration constitutes the only medium for dealing with that mighty nation."

Those who denounce any dealings with the existing order seem to have persuaded themselves that pre-revolutionary Russia was governed by a gentle and beneficent despotism which conferred the blessings of tolerant and kindly fatherhood upon a well ruled household.

CRIGUI SENDS HOME KNOCKOUT IN SIXTH ROUND FOR TITLE

Frenchman With Saddened Eyes And Synthetic Jaw, Result of Bloody Verdun, Wins Crown From Kilbane

By DAMON RUNTON, Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

PALO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, June 2.—A slender little Frenchman with a twisted face, and with eyes forever saddened by suffering from the things that he has seen, is the new featherweight champion of the world.

Eugene Cricqui, soldier of France, once left for dead on the bloody field of Verdun, and now fighting his ring battles with a "synthetic jaw" made with the bone of one of his own ribs, brought down Johnny Kilbane, the "old fox of France," Saturday afternoon.

He brought him down in the sixth round of their fight at the Polo Grounds with a right hand shot that seemed to travel at least as fast as one of the shrapnel shells that whined over Cricqui's head in the dreary days when he was fighting for his beloved France.

Cricqui keeps marching on. The round was one minute and fifty seconds old.

There was Kilbane, the fox, up there in the ring, gray haired, questioning, indistinctly lit, champion of the world, in careful, well judged retreat, picking his steps by quick eyes like a general in complete command of himself and of the situation.

There was the little Frenchman with the twisted smile and the sad eyes, marching after the fox, his shoulders hunched awkwardly, his feet shuffling through the mud, but marching, marching on.

It seemed to be a hopeless pursuit, for the man who had been so badly as Kilbane, the fox, stepped carefully backward, fending off the oncoming Frenchman with his gloved hands, and grinning at the fight.

In Cricqui's sad eyes was an expression of some bewilderment as if he were wondering how he felt with this elusive man. But he kept marching, marching, marching—

There was no preliminary motion, no gradual battering down of the foe. Then—whip—a blow seemed to come from nowhere. It fairly whistled through the air.

Cricqui had suddenly peered in his march, had set his feet firmly on the padded floor, and let his gloved right hand, with all his might.

There was no preliminary motion, no gradual battering down of the foe. Then—whip—a blow seemed to come from nowhere. It fairly whistled through the air.

BRACE OF VETERAN BALL HAWKS, HEILMANN-WHEAT, TOP BIG LEAGUE HITTERS

CHICAGO, June 2.—Herold "Mid-day" Root, catcher for the Washington Senators, is challenging Harry Heilmann, of the Detroit Tigers, for batting honors of the American League. Root gained 44 points during the week and is runner-up to the Tiger slinger with an average of .407. Heilmann suffered a slight batting slump, but still tops the players who have participated in 25 or more games with a .387 average. Dick Diegel of the Red Sox is third with .352. The figures include games of last Wednesday.

Edna Collins of the White Sox continues to play brilliantly. From present figures it would appear that Collins is going to have one of his best years. He is leading all major league players in stolen bases with 12. He has only four less than he pilfered all last season.

Numerous fans and critics predict that Babe Ruth will lead the home run hitting before independence day. Williams has made the most of his opportunity, leading in total bases with 95. His bases besides the circuit drives include 10 doubles and four triples. Ruth also leads as a run getter with 27.

Other leading batters: Cobb, Detroit, .352; Miller, Philadelphia, .347; E. Collins, Chicago, .342; Ruth, Cleveland, .341; Rice, Washington, .337; Burns, Boston, .334; Welch, Philadelphia, .334; Ruth, New York, .333; Williams, St. Louis, .333.

Johnny Mookan of the Phillies and Clyde Hebbert of the Pirates are making rapid strides toward the top among the batters of the National League. Far down in the list is the week ago, they are amassing out-base his regularly. Mookan got 19 hits in his last 19 games, and Hebbert led in hits with 23, 27 and Barnhart's rose from 21 to 23.

Wheat, Dodger outfielder, increased his lead among the regulars from 47 to 47. He obtained 11 hits in the last 10 games. His best rival is Carley, Grinnell of the Pirates, who has 400.

Frankie Frisch of the Giants leads the regulars with 397. Sammy Bohne of Cincinnati is showing the way to the base stealers with 11.

Williams of the Phillies is in front among the major league home run hitters with 18. Williams, besides leading in four, Philadelphia has made nine doubles and three triples.

Other leading batters: Southworth, Boston, .317; Bottomley, St. Louis, .316; Philadelphia, .315; Hornsby, St. Louis, .315; Frisch, New York, .314; Young, New York, .313; Barnhart, Philadelphia, .311; Meis, Brooklyn, .310; Plack, St. Louis, .310; Bagwell, Boston, .310.

The Lookout

By AL PARKER

If somebody would only stop those Panthers! It's the same old story, "ready to pounce on the prey." The Texas League fans for the past three years.

The Spudders' little old feet of copping six out of the last seven decisions were "indisputable" when one taken a squint at the strategy books that the Cats have tramped over in the last twelve games. A dozen is a row for those "blowing" Cats! And still going. Now the Cats have the Gascons to put on the "cat" and selling where their straggle will end.

The oddity in the Cats' string is the fact that four pitchers have worked in their regular turn and nothing happened. The only change that has been made in the lineup came when Hoffman was taken out for three weeks with a "bad" cold. He had three full days of rest.

The "Big Four" are back in order through the Dallas straits. Maine will go Sunday, Wheeler Monday and Carlson Tuesday. Then if the home run swatters over the that the pitching couplets of the veteran hurlers are getting loosened up, Simmons and Riley have led the league for three weeks with an average of .333.

DeLoe of Omaha has the most runs—42, and Davis of Tulsa is leading the home run hitters with 12. DeLoe is showing the way with 14. DeLoe is showing the way with 14. DeLoe is showing the way with 14.

As with base stealing, the science of outfield throwing has been an ally and ally on the decline for the past few years. Seidman is a runner, but he is leading all major league players in stolen bases with 12. He has only four less than he pilfered all last season.

Short fences take away much of the science of outfielding. Many balls travel over the walls in nearly every park in the country with the exception of the plate now. In fact, seldom is there a close play at the plate on balls thrown from the outfield.

The way the game is played now the outfielders have back and let the ball play him. He doesn't charge in on the ball and shorten his stride. He waits until the ball is in his hands, and then he drops it.

Outfielding would call for far more skill in covering ground and in throwing. It is a pity that the 200 feet from the plate. An outfielder who could get the ball back to the infield would save many a base. But the same seem to cry in spectacular hitting more than they do in spectacular fielding, and they are the ones to be pleased.

Trolley wire breakers on Lamar Saturday evening.

The trolley wire of the Wichita Falls Traction Company broke Saturday night at the intersection of the street and one of the ends found a resting place on a street car. There was a display of fireworks and streaks of fire in every direction for awhile.

The motor man upon discovering that there would be no danger to passengers alighting asked all of them to step out. The break was repaired within 20 minutes and service restored.

WHEN BUILDING OR FURNISHING

Golden Rules That Lead to Satisfaction and Success.

TREATMENT OF EACH ROOM

General Scheme Outlined Showing What to Strive For and What to Avoid in the Home.

By HUNT COOK

A few general principles that should be kept in mind when preparing to make the new home or remake the old one may be briefly summarized thus:

Buy your lot of a reputable realtor; one who knows local conditions.

Build only from plans drawn by an architect; a home-made house is a greater mistake than a mammoth-made suit of clothes.

Permanent construction costs less in the long run; it means saving in upkeep, insurance, etc.

It is cheaper to build up than to build out.

Have plenty of windows, sunshine saves doctors' bills. Glass is cheaper than wood, brick or stone.

A room is a picture or a daisy. It must have a center of interest and be built up of a series of units.

Never lose sight of a room's functional fitness. It must serve the purpose for which it was intended.

Plain walls and plain or unobtrusive rugs make the best backgrounds. Let the highlights be in the pictures, furniture, flowers and sometimes the draperies.

Connecting rooms in the same tone or in similar tones create the effect of spaciousness. This is especially desirable in small houses.

Strive for variety in unity. Every room should have not less than three colors to avoid monotony; two dominant, one a more sub-dominant; but not too many colors.

Hang all large pictures and mirrors with two cords or wires tinted the color of the walls, vertical from sides of frames.

Hang all small pictures tripartite. Leave large wall spaces; these correspond to rests in music.

The principles underlying one art are the principles underlying all the arts.

All large pieces of furniture (grand piano and chaise longue excepted) should be parallel with or at right angles to walls. This arrangement accentuates structure slightly.

The living room and the library are usually one, except in the formal home. The old-fashioned parlor, thank heaven, has passed; the living room frequently serves the purpose of all of these. Its manifold uses mean manifold requirements.

Decorate the room as you wish to achieve artistically, but like all hard things to achieve it brings proportionate results. Use a plain rug, unless one is immediately ushered into the room, in which case footprints would not add a great deal and upholstery may be in the same tone, and draperies of bright chintz or cretonne over cream or ecoru net or marquisette. The chairs andavenport or settee must not only be artistic, they must also be comfortable. There should be bookcases, of course, built in or portable, a secretary or spinet or other form of desk, furnished; table or tables where required. The lighting should be by table lamps, wired (or burning alcohol or oil) and by drop lights for desk or writing tables, with a floor lamp if there is a piano. The center of interest of the living room should always be the fireplace in winter, a group of open windows in summer. The other units must relate to this one to make the picture, but not so intimately as to interfere with reasonable privacy at desk or piano or reading table.

Nowhere does the Koran's line: "If I had two loaves of bread I'd sell one and buy hyacinths, for hyacinths feed the soul," apply with such force as to the living room. Always try to have flowers or a potted plant or both in this room.

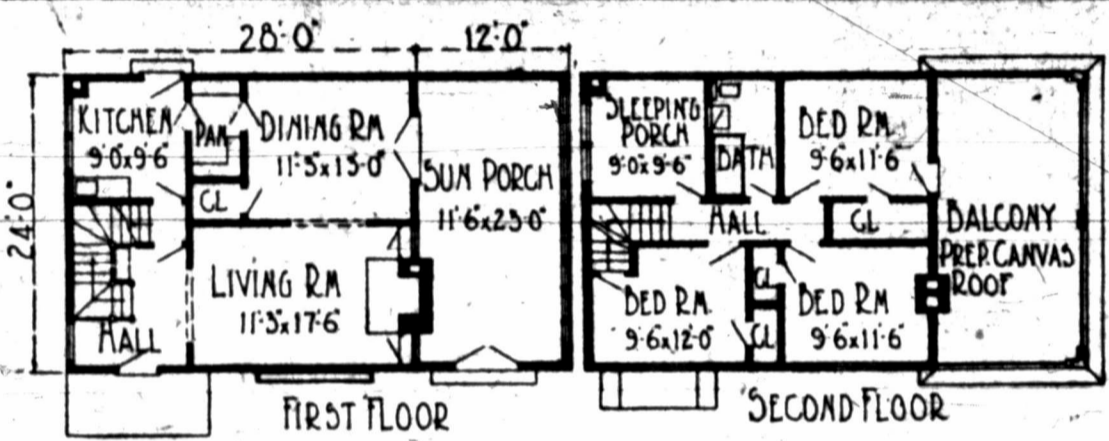

The Dining Room.

Lead his home at evening's close.

To sweet repeat and calm repose.

Gray may have had in mind a calm repose separate from that following the sweet repeat, but it is safe to say that unless it accompanies nothing can induce it to follow. Above all things, then, the dining room should be one in which to eat in peace and quiet, and as its functions are few and definite so should be its requirements be. Rug in subdued tones, figured, that the accent or later inevitable (or certainly probable) grease spots may not show; a table either oblong or round, according to the room's dimensions; the necessary chairs, but not too different from the other pieces of furniture; a buffet; serving table near the pantry or kitchen door; a screen at the door—nothing else is necessary. A cabinet if there is space for it and if one desires it, closed unless it is to hold a museum or cabinet pieces. It would be quite as good taste to display one's clothes in a glass cabinet in the bedroom as it is to display one's work-a-day spins and glass in the dining room. A tea cart,

Individuality in Shingled Home

Maximum satisfaction at a reasonable cost is what most prospective home builders are seeking when they are selecting the plans for the home they are to build. In considering the cost of a home it is well to remember the axiom of builders—"corners cost." The more straight the lines of the building, the smaller the cost of the foundation and the superstructure of the building. Thus a square or rectangular home is cheaper than one that has jogs and bay windows and irregular lines.

At first thought it would seem that a house built on these lines would, necessarily, be plain and unattractive. However, by the addition of artistic touches, such as are shown in the home illustrated above, this plainness is eliminated without much expense. The triple windows on the side, with the window box underneath, the Colonial roof over the entrance, the fan-shaped dormer in the roof and the sun parlor at the end transform what otherwise would be an unattractive house into a home of pleasing appearance. These features, coupled with the weather-boarding that cover the outside walls do not add a great deal to the cost of the house, but add much to its attractiveness.

Six standard rooms, three on each of the two floors, are shown in the floor plans that accompany the exterior view of the house. In addition to these rooms are the sun parlor which is the largest and what probably will be the most used portion of the house, and a sleeping porch on the second floor, placed at the far rear corner.

main stand, fern box—all these may be added but are not necessary. Needless to say, the table should be cleared between meals, with only a centerpiece or some flowers or fruit in the daytime and the extinguished candles in the evening. The walls should be paneled where possible, with a piece of tapestry, maybe, or a painting in the mantelpiece, or stater walls with plates or bar reliefs in a simpler room. Generally avoid pictures in the dining room and as the pestilence avoid a wall broken by plate rail and dropped ceiling molding. Draperies should be simple and subdued, easily washed and aired, lest they hold food odors. Use side lights with candles for the table.

The Bedroom.

Where possible every bedroom should have a private dressing room or bath, or both; thus perfect ventilation may be procured in all weather without the necessity of dressing in a cold room. If not possible, then there should be some quick way of heating in addition to the general heat. An open fireplace is an especial luxury—almost a necessity where there is illness. A comfortable bed, or twin beds—involving good springs, good mattresses, linen and covers that are of sufficient length, an extra coverlet for the feet. A bed table for (and with) water bottle and tumbler, shaded light, book or magazine, pad and pencil, perhaps a telephone. At least one comfortable upholstered chair, one or two straight chairs and if there is room for it a slipper rocker. Where possible a day-bed or chaise longue for the guests. In the guest bedroom a fully equipped desk, including a waste basket. Decorations should be to suit individual tastes—though the guestroom should be neutral, the springs and mattresses neither too hard nor too soft, since this room will be occupied by people of

PRESENT IS ALWAYS TIME TO BUY HOME

Many Advantages of Owning Home More Than Offset Possible Changes in Values.

There is only one time in every man's life when he should buy a home of his own, and that time is the very first time that he can gather together enough cash to finance a comfortable home appropriate to the needs of his family.

In other words, right now is always the right time to buy a home of your own. The saving in actual cash money to be had by applying towards the ownership of a home, the amount which would otherwise be frittered away in rent, will more than offset any change in conditions which might arise, not to mention the many other material advantages of being your own landlord.

The enormous shortage of houses which exists today in every part of the United States is well known, and to provide accommodation for the families, who at the present time are forced to double up or live under inconvenient and unsanitary conditions, will keep the building industry working at full capacity for several years to come. Meanwhile the population of cities is increasing by leaps and bounds and still further housing accommodations will have to be provided for the families represented in this increase.

It is generally agreed by those who have made a study of housing conditions, that from five to seven years must elapse before the building industry will be able to provide sufficient new homes to cover the existing shortage and to take care of the new families that will be added to city populations during this time.

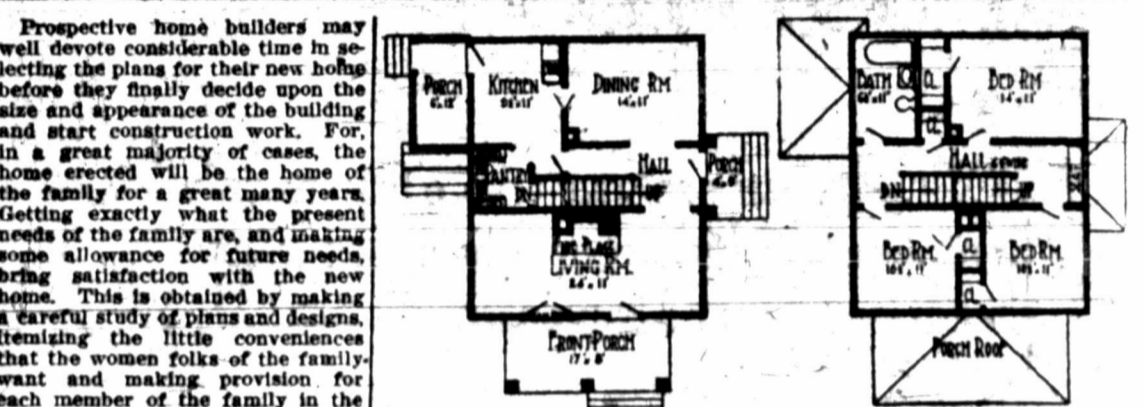

Now, it is easy to see what this means.

Before a new building can be erected a lot must be purchased. Vacant property is the one commodity that has not advanced proportionately since pre-war days—no one questions that—but prices are rising. The building boom which is already well under way is creating a demand for building sites in every district, which is gradually bringing prices up to where they belong, and will eventually provide a very handsome profit for those who buy now.

Building material and labor have shown a reduction in price during the last two years and undoubtedly will go lower, but no very great reduction can be expected for several years, as the law of supply and demand is inflexible and the demand for building material and labor during the next five to seven years, will be infinitely greater than ever before in the history of this country.

By buying now a substantial profit on the lot is assured. Copyright, American Homes Bureau.

Two-Story Square Colonial

Prospective home builders may well devote considerable time in selecting the plans for their new home before they finally decide upon the size and appearance of the building and start construction work. For, in a great majority of cases, the home erected will be the home of the family for a great many years. Getting exactly what the present needs of the family are, and making some allowance for future needs, bring satisfaction with the new home. This is obtained by making a careful study of plans and designs, reviewing the little conveniences that the women folks of the family want and making provision for each member of the family in the matter of room.

Of the less expensive types of homes none give greater satisfaction than the square, hi-roof house, a good example of which is shown in the accompanying illustration. Here is a six-room house that is not ornate, but attractive in exterior appearance, while the interior arrangement is such as to provide a comfortable home for a family of average size. It contains six rooms, three on the first floor and a like number on the second, as well as a bathroom.

The exterior appearance is made attractive by a rather large porch at the front, a porch at the side and one at the rear of the opposite side.

The hip of the roof breaks the straight line of the walls and has enough pitch so that there is an attic, which provides storage space and makes the home cooler in summer and warmer in winter.

As will be seen by the floor plans, the living room is large, 11 by 17 feet, and extends across the front of the building. In it, set in the inside wall, is a fireplace. The entrance from the side porch leads to a good-sized hall, from which each room on the first floor may be reached and out of which run the stairs to the second floor. At the rear corners are the dining room, 11 by 15 feet, and the kitchen, 11 by 9 feet, 6 inches, with a pantry adjoining it.

Three good bedrooms are located on the corners of the second floor, thus giving plenty of light and ventilation, while at the corner where the kitchen is the bathroom. All of these rooms open off a central hall.

The house is of frame construction, its dimensions over all excepting the porch being 25 by 30 feet, 6 inches. A basement extends under the whole of the house.

various tastes. A bedroom should be a room in which to sleep in peace and quiet, so for this room avoid anything that is garish or stuffy. Washable draperies are daintier and can be kept fresher than those of heavy fabrics or silk. Bed draperies are pretty, but they are unsanitary.

The Child's Room.

Science states that environment affects the child far more than its condition of birth. It follows then that the child's room is, or should be, the most important room in the house, just as the home is the most important factor of civilization. The young woman whose reluctant feet have crossed where brook and river meet may be depended on to see that her room reflects her feminine tastes, and the young man of similar age, that his reflects his virility. But the child in this formative period must be guided.

Since of such is the kingdom of heaven and order is heaven's first law, neatness should be instilled upon in the child's room, yet it should be so arranged that here the mother's "don'ts" will be reduced to a minimum. There should be a closet for toys when not in use and the child taught to respect it. Durability should be the keynote of the furnishings and draperies, with which can easily be combined the artistic. The furnishings should be as complete as those in the grown-up rooms, simply on a different scale. The child especially should have his own books and bookshelves or cases, his own desk, and in every way subtly be made to feel that it is an integral part of the home. The lesson of responsibility can nowhere else be taught so forcibly. To furnish the child's room with left-overs and cut-offs is unparadiseable. The idea is that the playroom feature is not to be sacrificed or even subordinated. The room is a failure unless it is a playroom first of all. Then it is indeed a child's room.

Smaller Rooms—Hall, Sunroom, Kitchen.

The hall in the average small house, unless it be a living-room hall, is merely an entry into the other rooms. It should be more formal than the rooms into which it opens. A figured rug is practical and can be artistic. A table with mirror above it, a smaller table for flowers, one or two straight chairs, these are enough. If possible have closets on both sides of entry door for wraps, coats, hats, umbrellas, etc.

The sunroom should be the high light in the complete picture which the home makes. A tiled floor with growing plants in tubs or in a tub is the best arrangement, although a wood floor or one of cement is not objectionable. In any case there should be a rug or several small ones. This or these may be neutral, though it is better to have it or them in dark, rich tones that harmonize with the general color scheme. Draperies should be sun-fast and may be plain or patterned. Furnishings should be of wicker or wood, upholstered in cottons or chintz. There should by all means be a day-bed or a luxurious chaise longue. The windows should open freely.

RESTFUL WALLPAPERS THAT MAKE CHARMING BEDROOMS

Immense Variety Enables Exact Achievement of Desired Effect.

They are simply irresistible—bedrooms.

They are the innermost sanctuary of the house.

They are the rooms for confidences.

They are the rooms for dreams.

They are, of all rooms, nearest the heart.

What woman does not thrill with joy when she has the chance to "do over" a bedroom—perhaps a drab, boring room with no meaning or life or personality.

There are literally hundreds of delightful wall papers for her to choose from—far designers have excelled themselves for bedrooms.

She can have exactly the kind of bedroom to suit her individuality—and a bedroom must suit, for late at night when one is tired, one does not wish to be jarred; and early in the morning, it is tragic to be irritated.

There are sunny yellows that the grayest morning in the world cannot discourage.

There are pastels where flowers bloom so sweetly that the blackest winter morning can't be cheerless.

There are such quaint old patterns straight from revolutionary walls that even if a trolley jangles by outside it seems unreal and far away. And if you are one of those people like the man who said he could hear "anybody but a person who smiles before he speaks"—there are quiet papers of dignified elegance that fit no matter what mood.

And what they all express is a deep peace that brings—innocent sleep, sleep that knits up the ravelled sleeve of care.

There was a time when people made bedroom papers with restless figures—birds that never alighted on flowers half an inch away from them—and other unsatisfying pictures that drove the one who had to lie in bed and watch them into a mild insanity. And then the day of geometric figures—that one counted and counted going in all directions while one gradually went mad.

But those times are past—and the newer papers for bedrooms are restful, peaceful, quiet—papers that never annoy as one sees them day after day.

For the children's bedroom and the nursery there are the most fascinating papers. There is an all-over pattern where the figures represent toys—wooden houses, wide-eyed dolls, prancing horses, toy soldiers—cunning figures to arouse the child's imagination and amuse him—lead him to "make up" stories about the figures. And there are no end of absolutely delightful friezes—each one a happy fairy story in itself. When these are placed about half way up the wall where the little child can easily reach them, the nursery can never again be a friendless room. Or if the figures of the frieze are large enough to be seen readily, place it under the ceiling, where the little one can watch them from his crib, and gently dream of them in those moments of sweet fancy between waking and sleeping.

FURNISHING THE WALL

Finding wall furniture is not difficult for the American mind runs in the same channel, and big furniture, such as davenport and long tables, are two of its favorites. Therefore one will find them in any way, or the less usual sofa, daybed, settee and settee.

When it comes to cabinet book cases, or a big variety in decorative cabinets, the choice is limited. Many homes have built-in book cases and the cabinet is an uncommon treatment, becoming more known now, however, because of its adaptation for the phonograph. Particularly would I advise on china, utility, mystery, charm, individuality, beauty they offer. They are Chinese, Japanese and period pieces. When of lacquer, brilliant red, or snappy black and gold, it usable at all in one's scheme, they fairly sing.

Equally as desirable are commodes, big console-like pieces, purely decorative and not to be confused with the purely utilitarian piece of the same name, now relegated to the limbo of things past in the march of progress and of plumbing. The commode of Heppelwhite, Adam or Sheraton design is a thing to make one almost willing to forego food. If one is an artist, for it is the essence of beauty in color, design and proportion! Like the flower, its reason for being is beauty, but like the perfume of flowers it, too, may serve madam's beauty. A mirror placed above it may be its excuse for being, if excuse one desires. As a place for crystal candlesticks, it may also serve, but one must beware of gilding the lily.

Similar to it in top surface of straight line at the back and curved front is the console. The latter, however, is table-like rather than solid. It, too, may have a mirror above it in the tiny hall, or hold vase, bowl or candlesticks. Its most unique use is in palms.

Of the rare variety of wall furniture is the high, flat-backed love seat, the double seat, that is, for lovers, but single for dowager-like ladies.

There are flat-backed chairs meant for against the wall or in line with it.

BERLIN STOCK EXCHANGE MAD GAMBLING HELL OF NATION

FRANK G. CARPENTER WITNESS TO WILD SCENES IN THE MARKET AND TALKS WITH THE MANAGER

The Reichsbank and its Enormous Output of Marks—What Twenty Trillions Means—A Printing Press That Nets Fortunes—All Germany Speculating—Franz Von Mendelssohn Discusses Stabilization and Bolshevism—How I Made 120,000 Marks—The Experience of a Typist.

(Copyright 1923, by Carpenter's World Travels)

BERLIN.—All Germany is crazy over the rise and fall of the mark and as I try to follow its multitudinous gyrations I feel crazy, too. I have spent this week in the stock exchange and among the big bankers in a hopeless endeavor to find just where the ebony angel in the wood-pile is hiding. I have given up in despair. This Teutonic madness is such that it is impossible for the outsider to comprehend it, and just who is making the profits I am unable to say.

In the first place, let me state just what the mark is. Before the war it was a silver coin of the value and size of a quarter. It took four marks to equal one dollar and there were 20 mark pieces worth as much as five dollars. As the war went on the silver coins turned to paper, and one mark note, about the size of a business visiting card, took their place.

There were five and ten mark notes which were a little larger, and we now have 10 thousand mark notes as big as a page of social note paper. The denominations are still increasing. At the first of this year they jumped from ten thousand to twenty thousand, and the country will soon be flooded with bills of fifty thousand and one hundred thousand marks each.

As it is now, the one mark and five mark notes are not worth the paper on which they are printed, but those of the high denominations are enormously valuable in comparison with their cost, and the government in this way is running a printing establishment pure and simple, where the power of the money is all profit.

The Reichsbank paid a dividend of 8-4 per cent in 1920. It paid 16 per cent in 1921, and it ought to pay many times that this year if it were any commission on the money it issues. During my stay here I have visited the institution and had a talk with some of the high officials. I have asked them to let me see the printing presses which are now turning out from fifty to seventy-five billion marks per day, but have been refused.

Thousands of billions of marks are being printed every day as he tries to comprehend the enormous number of marks in circulation, and the extent to which the Germans are going in debt, as estimated in these paper promises to pay. I have figured up the amount in round figures stating that the amount is now something like twenty trillion, or twenty thousand billion marks, and that the budget of the government last year showed a deficit of over seven thousand billion marks. I have tried to figure out what these sums might mean if one had to count them. Let us go back to the time of the Pyramids and put the Treasury experts of Tut-ankh-Amen at work. Let us suppose them like the Wandering Jew, endowed with perpetual life and forced to keep going. How long would it take to count the financial output of the Germans if the same were

In former letters I have shown how the fall of the mark has financially ruined the masses of Germany, but, the nation, in one way or another, has involved the whole world in the speculation and gotten some billions of dollars for nothing. How many of the billions still remain here, and how much of the sum is on deposit to the credit of the great German speculators in the banks of outside nations, I do not attempt to conjecture.

All Germany Speculating. But come with me to the Berlin stock exchange. It is the great gambling hall of the nation and we can see the financiers buying and selling. There are six thousand men entitled to enter, and they represent customers from all over the world. It is used to be that anyone might have access to the galleries but since a bomb was exploded in Wall Street, all entrances to the Berlin Bourse have been closely guarded and now no stranger is admitted unless by special invitation and card from one of the chief officials. I had a card from the president of the exchange and was able to have an interview with the director and manager during my stay.

In this talk I asked him who was doing the chief speculating. He replied: "I do not know anyone who is not. I am sure there is none in this building. Everyone from the president to the taxi-driver, and from the wife of the millionaire schieber to the washwoman, is betting on the rise and fall of the mark. Even the communists and socialists speculate, although every one of them threatens to blow the exchange and all of its members into the air."

"What do you think of the future of the mark?" "It has no future so long as the reparations are demanded. Germany is like a bankrupt who just enough blood to keep life in his body, and it is from that little that the nation is trying to squeeze the great sums demanded."

In the Berlin Stock Exchange. It was with the director that I went over the building. It is a huge stone structure on the bank of the Spree, and to it are being added additions which will cost four million dollars. The men were working on the new building as we passed through. They were plasterers, masons and cabinetmakers. I asked some of them as to their wages. The plasterers, who do as good work as those who get twenty dollars a day in Chicago, are laboring here at three cents an hour, and the other workmen receive just the same. The wages are paid down with the rise and fall of exchange.

Entering the galleries, I found the several men busy with a moving quilt of humanity. The quilt was composed of human heads, more than half of them bald, resting on short and often thick necks above black and gray business-clothes. Scattered over the floor were squares piled high with clerks and about them were scores of men, pushing their way, recording the orders and trying to sell them. There were crowds here and there, frantically waving their hands as in the exchange in New York and the brokers there were whirlpools in which they shoved and pushed in the mad chase of the mark. At times it made me think of a storm at sea, the winds of which were the inflationary currency, whose future gold value is about as much per cubic yard as the infinitesimal gold grains in the ocean. During my stay in the exchange I saw the rise and fall of the mark. This brings such of the business into a few minutes while the bell rings and millions change hands as the loss of time means the loss of a fortune. The hour for closing is announced by the great clock of the chamber. The ding-donging of their bells fills the room and this lasts for ten minutes. During one think of five not stop to watch the clocks. All strive to the utmost to get in their orders, making one think of five in a theater where the crowd has rushed to the doors.

The Rothschilds of Germany. I had a chat with Herr Franz von Mendelssohn, the president of the Berlin Chamber of Commerce, one of the most conservative of the great German bankers. The Mendelssohns have been noted as financiers for many generations. They rank with the Rothschilds and Morgans and have to do with placing large loans and transacting involving hundreds of millions of dollars. Their story is an interesting one. Moses von Mendelssohn, the founder of the family, arrived in Berlin in 1721, with a bundle on his back. He was a Jew, the son of a synagogue clerk in the little German town of Dessau, and it is said that he came into Berlin on foot. At that time Jews were not allowed to enter German cities except under certain conditions, and Moses had to buy himself to a silk cap for many generations. They owned the business, made money hand over fist, and died leaving a great fortune to his sons, Joseph and Abraham. They founded the banking house of Mendelssohn's about one hundred years ago, and the old building in which they started still stands next to their bank, having been kept there as a matter of sentiment.

The Mendelssohns have always had a large influence here, not only in money matters but in almost everything relating to the education, music and art. Moses was a friend of Lessing and Herder, noted as friends of Goethe. He wrote a book on "The Life After Death," Abraham and Joseph were closely associated with the brothers Humboldt, and Abraham's son was Felix Mendelssohn-Bartholdy, whose music played all over the world. Franz von Mendelssohn is also a musician and he gives many charity concerts at which he sometimes plays the piano.

A Talk with Franz von Mendelssohn. My interview with Herr von Mendelssohn was a rambling chat as to the Germany of today. I asked him the stabilization of the mark and he replied: "That is almost impossible until this reparations question is settled. If we could have a credit of a half billion gold marks from the outside, the Reichsbank might add as much more from its gold reserve and this would result in stabilization. The gold from the outside need not necessarily be a loan. It might be only a credit of a half billion dollars."

"How about the statements which are frequently made that the German capitalists of industry prefer a stock and the brokers there are cheaper production cost, enabling them to sell their goods in foreign markets lower than they can be produced in other countries?" "I think that is an error," replied Herr von Mendelssohn. "The German manufacturers prefer a high mark, and it is only by a stabilized mark that they can make contracts and do business."

"Is Germany in any danger of bolshevism?" "The country may not if we can improve our economic conditions, but if we do not have help from the outside I fear we shall soon be in the same situation as Austria, and if the situation grows worse there is the possible danger of bolshevism."

NEW TYPE OF PUMP IS EXHIBITED HERE WILL BE MARKETED

L. V. Johnson and C. H. White have on exhibition at the Peoples Ice plant, a ball and roller bearing rotary pump which they claim entirely eliminates friction and vibration and which experts who have witnessed the recent tests say is as near efficient as possible. The exhibitors say that the pump is exceeding the capacity of the best pumps on the market by over 50 per cent. The new pump is the result of many years labor by the inventors and driving oil through pipe lines.

Work has been continued on the pump for the past 15 years and only recently were all patents approved. The exhibitors are of the opinion that the invention represents pump perfection and will meet with a ready market. It is suitable for use as an ammonia pump in creameries, railway water systems, circulation pumps, boiler feed and slush pumps for well drilling, and for pumping to produce power and speed in rotation. Heretofore their attempts have always been handicapped by an excess of friction and vibration. In the new pump it is claimed that these two hindrances have been entirely overcome in the first pump of the use of a peculiar shaped cylinder. The pump is equipped with ball and rollers which almost entirely eliminates friction; vibration is eliminated by the shape of the cylinder. No valves are used which dose away with the valve friction, and causes the flow of water to remain the same from the source to its destination.

In the new pump it is claimed that these two hindrances have been entirely overcome in the first pump of the use of a peculiar shaped cylinder. The pump is equipped with ball and rollers which almost entirely eliminates friction; vibration is eliminated by the shape of the cylinder. No valves are used which dose away with the valve friction, and causes the flow of water to remain the same from the source to its destination.

Work has been continued on the pump for the past 15 years and only recently were all patents approved. The exhibitors are of the opinion that the invention represents pump perfection and will meet with a ready market. It is suitable for use as an ammonia pump in creameries, railway water systems, circulation pumps, boiler feed and slush pumps for well drilling, and for pumping

to produce power and speed in rotation. Heretofore their attempts have always been handicapped by an excess of friction and vibration. ## DAVENPORT BED FOR SMALL HOME

As Result of Growing Desire for Practical.

USEFUL BY DAY AND NIGHT

Housing Shortage and High Rents Among Contributing Factors in Rapid Development of Their Double Utility.

The people of the United States from one coast to the other, have been laboring for the last two or three years under shortage of houses that for a time was very critical. The situation has been met with characteristic vigor by a method of building activity probably unprecedented in history. The scope of the activity differs with conditions, yet in spite of it the housing shortage is not over and perhaps will not be over for some little time to come. Just what the contributing causes are need not be gone into here. The truth is, that the housing shortage is still with us.

With the conditions that brought on the shortage of houses there was developed a new frame of mind on the part of the average American. Perhaps high rents have had a part in leading the householder to a realization that the eight or ten room house of bygone days is not only a burden, but a needless one. Perhaps the development of the apartment house has helped many people to see extra rooms as needless expense. Whatever the reasons may be, the average American has become very noticeably the small house man. He is not so much interested in the size of his house, as in the quality of it. It is a disclosure of the trend of the American mind toward the practical. While it is not altogether promoted by the idea of thrift, it does express thrift, and that is the best of it. The American mind is practical. It does not waste money and people know it. The use of floor space, therefore, has become a matter of concern to a man in his home, as it has been for years in his business. This idea has been carried beyond the mere number or dimension of rooms. Tempered with taste, this thought goes even into the furnishing of the home. People want fine furniture, but not at any price. They are thinking of the luxury of a room in the home.

Useful Day and Night.

It is a combination of many excellent ideas that has brought the Davenport bed into wide popularity among all classes of people. Its place in the living room has been established by years of use. Its charming combination of beauty and utility has endeared it to millions in the esteem of millions of people. Considering for a moment the practical side of it, the Davenport bed utilizes floor space to better advantage than any piece of furniture in the home, and slightly because the Davenport bed serves by day and by night. Twenty-four hours use of the same floor space is indeed a record that can be approached by no other piece of furniture in the home. Harmony with the finest furnishings makes the Davenport bed a desirable piece by day, something to which the housewife points with pride. The beauty in the workmanship, the woodwork and in the luxuriousness of the upholstery, to say nothing of the elegance of the coverings in which it is to be had, gives the Davenport bed a place in the most tastefully appointed home. There is something of art in the accomplishment that makes it possible for such a fine piece of furniture to enclose and entirely conceal by day the full size comfortable bed that serves so well by night. The modern Davenport bed is indeed an excellent example of art, which science has added utility without the sacrifice of art. The recognition of this fact has become common-wide. The Davenport bungalow on the Pacific coast, in the cottage home throughout the great West, in the apartment house of the large city, in the country home that nestles in the hills or dots the shores of thousands of lakes and ponds, in the grand estates of those who have "arrived," the Davenport bed has a well deserved place.

Made in Many Styles.

Substantial, of ample proportions and molded to the minutest requirements of genuine comfort, the Davenport bed is unquestionably admired and accepted for the service it gives. Designed to please a thousand tastes, the Davenport bed harmonizes with every home. The modern styles in which it is made, known as Queen Anne, The Brothers, Renaissance, Early English, Louis XVI, Chippendale, William and Mary, Georgian, Heppelwhite, Sheraton, Colonial, Tudor, Pompeian—the whole gamut of periods suitable for the accomplishment of most artists, is put in the selection of Davenport beds.

Such fine handicraft as is suggested by the names just mentioned, is done full justice in the selection of the bed concealed within the remarkable piece of furniture.

The bed itself is everything that a bed requires—ample space, ample length, with a full mattress that assures rest. The bed is simple; that is, it is not cluttered with the usual bedstead. It is no complicated

Artistic Use of Brick and Stucco

10085 AB OPHS

An unusually pleasing effect by combining brick with stucco has been obtained by the architect who designed the story-and-a-half bungalow shown in the accompanying illustration. Here is a home that will appeal to everyone who contemplates building. The wide, deep porch, the straight sweep of roof, broken by a dormer window and the canopy over the entrance at the side all combine to give the exterior of this home an attractive appearance.

An unusual feature of this home is the location of the entrance door at the side. This permits the use of the whole front of the house for a living room, which is 24 feet 6 inches long, and 13 feet 6 inches wide. At one end, with bookcases on either side and small windows above the cases, the double windows at the other end of the room, and the series of windows and French doors at the front make this a light, cheerful room.

The entrance door leads into a hall, which connects with the living room by a double-cased opening. At the end of the hall is a den, or small sitting room, 8 feet 6 inches by 10 feet 6 inches. To the left as one enters is the dining room, also of good size, 12 by 12 feet. At the rear is the kitchen, while at the rear corner is a bedroom. The dormer, which breaks the roof line at the front, permits a good-sized bedroom, 13 feet 6 inches, by 25 feet 6 inches. The dormer makes an alcove that may be utilized as a sitting or sewing space. At either side of the hall upstairs is a bedroom, while in the rear of the floor is a bathroom much larger than is usually found in a home of this size.

we cannot afford everything we like and it is much better to get the nearest approach to our ideal that we can reasonably afford and get it now. Magazines and newspapers are filled with pictures of ideal homes planned on elaborate and expensive scales which can readily be afforded only by well-to-do people. Why not try to get a little house with a pleasing exterior and as much beauty and convenience inside as you can afford to own, then proceed to pay for it while you live in it and later, when you can afford greater luxury and convenience, many of these things that will contribute to your pleasure and comfort can be added.

We should not make the mistake of putting a nice little house on too small a lot because we cannot afford to have a net and sunshine and fresh air so valuable that nothing else can take their place. Some people are now getting such houses with finished rooms on the first floor and a large unfinished space above, which can be divided into rooms later. Clever advertisers have placed the advantages of hot water heating so forcefully before the public that a large percentage of the people now seem to think it necessary for their homes. It is desirable in many cases, but a good hot-air furnace will heat a small house just as well—it costs much less to install it and the wall space need not be used for radiators which never add anything to the appearance of a room.

These things are mentioned merely as a few ideas which should be taken into consideration. The selection of a home site should also be considered with some idea of economy. Frequently a good sized lot in a desirable built-up neighborhood close to good transportation is found to be quite expensive. Don't forget that your city is growing all the time and outlying districts which now seem to be a long way from the business district will in the near future become much more attractive and more readily accessible. In many such spots ground can be purchased at low prices.

If you continue to be a tenant you must pay rent as long as you live, but if you purchase or build a small home within your means the amount of your monthly rental will pay for it. Don't wait too long for the unattainable ideal. Get your home as soon as possible. Copyright, American Homes Bureau.

Don't Be Led Into Overbuying

Home and Its Furnishings Can Be Beautiful and Convenient Without Great Outlay.

Many people now living in apartments and complaining of high rents could well afford to buy small homes if they did not insist upon having all the luxuries which we like to include in our homes. It would seem apparent to every one that the comfort, convenience and security of a home of your own is surely worth more than all of the marble and elaborate decorations that can be secured in an apartment. Of course, we all like nice homes and we should have them if we can afford them, but many of us cannot afford everything we like and it is much better to get the nearest approach to our ideal that we can reasonably afford and get it now. ## HOW TO FINANCE YOUR NEW HOME

Business Concerns Now Encourage Home Ownership.

LOANS MADE TO BUYERS

Many Ways Are Open to Prospective Home Owner Who is Willing and Able to Do His Share.

There are no magic methods by which a home can be created out of nothing. A man decides that he needs a home, for instance, some two or three months after his wife has decided the same thing, he realizes that he must finance the job, usually to the extent of a payment down of 20 per cent of its cost or payment in full on the first of the month if he is using his credit.

Still, there are some people who seem to have the idea that there are ways of securing a home with no money at all. There are some people, even, who seem to think that a good job is all that is necessary and that no preliminary saving or accumulation of funds is essential on their part.

However, buying a home is just like buying anything else. Sooner or later it is to be paid for, and if a bank or firm is induced to pay for the house in place of the prospective owner, they must be paid for their services and for the use of their money. Thus there have grown up several different methods of aiding prospective home owners to finance their homes. The following are some outlines of a few of the methods which have proved to be most practicable and most helpful.

There is a widespread and keen desire on the part of practically every large bank, real estate organization and other institutions, to give every possible aid to the man or woman who wishes to secure his own home. It is a matter of common knowledge that home owners are, in general, the kind of people we like to have as neighbors, and the type of people who are Uncle Sam's best citizens.

Building and Loan Plan.

Building and loan associations have long been rendering splendid and increasing service to builders. Their plan is usually very fair and efficient, the amount of money which they have at their disposal depends, of course, on supply and demand. Their supply is, in the main, dependent on people who use the associations as savings banks. This money supply is and the prospective home owner must look further for available funds today.

Insurance Company Funds.

Home building throughout the country, has been greatly stimulated by the large fund which has been set aside by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company to relieve the shortage of homes caused by the war. They have set aside a fund of $75,000,000 to be put into modest homes and apartments throughout the country. More than 3,000 new homes have already been erected in this way. In the district surrounding Chicago more than $2,000,000 has been put into 500 new homes and apartments, and right now new housing construction is being financed in this territory at the rate of about 200 new homes per month. Anyone who wishes to build and whose security meets the requirements, can borrow money from this fund on the following plan:

1. LOAN—Up to one-half of combined value of land and net cost of building.
2. PAYMENTS—3 per cent of principal, plus interest, semi-annually.
3. INTEREST—4 1/2 per cent.
4. TERM OF LOAN—15 years. (May be prepaid after three years if borrower desires.)
5. SECURITY—First mortgage on the property.

EXAMPLE: Value of lot ..... $1,500.00
Cost of house ..... $3,500.00
Total ..... $5,000.00
Loan—(50% for 15 years) ..... $2,500.00

Unfortunately, these funds are, at the present time, very limited.

gates are obliged to take a back seat for the holders of the first mortgage. This means that the home builder is required to pay a higher interest rate on the second mortgage loan and a higher rate of commission. The average second mortgage interest rate at present is approximately 7 per cent.

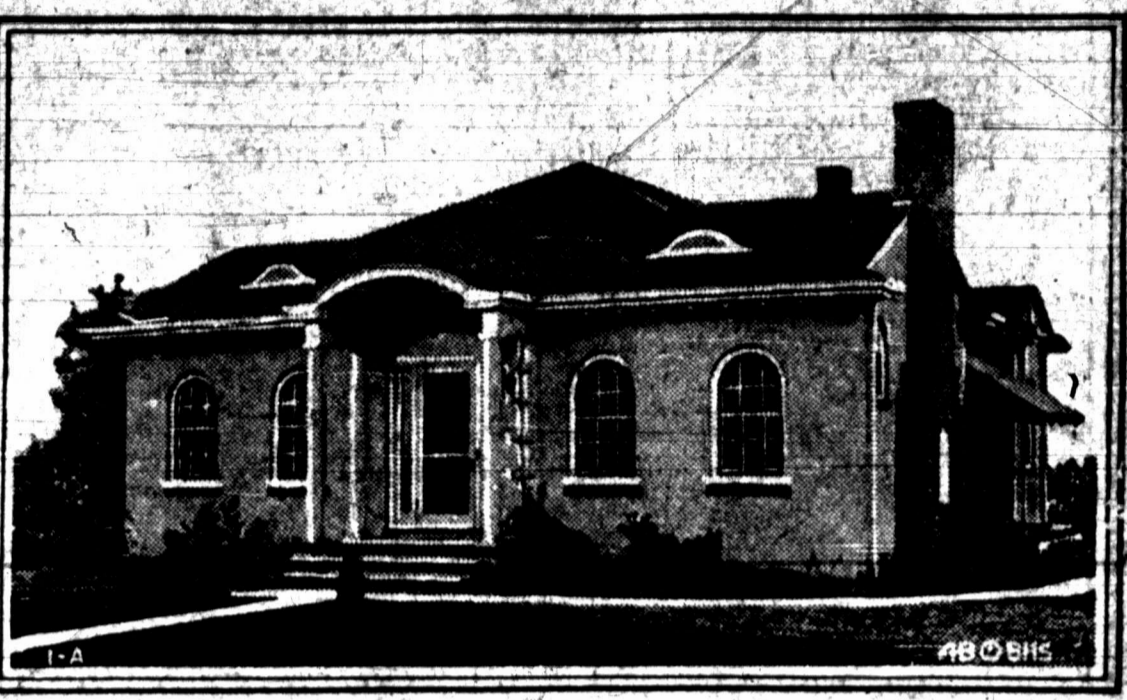

Practically every bank, realtor, and contractor or builder has its own method of financing homes. It is simply a question of the use of gray matter on the part of the prospective home owner, to investigate the field and choose the method best suited to his means. He should constantly bear in mind the fact that something cannot be created out of nothing.

In general, one of the good sources of money is the borrower's local bank. If the bank is unable to take care of him, he should apply to some realtor, builder or contractor who operates in his neighborhood.

Typical Realtor's Financing Plan. The following is quoted from one realtor, and is typical of the financing plans which are being offered by others with slight variations:

"For a lot owner who has purchased his home-site from us, we will build a bungalow home upon payment of 20 per cent cash. We

A Dignified Bungalow

10085 AB OPHS

Here is a stucco bungalow of unusual charm. The walls are constructed of interlocking hollow tile, covered on the outside with buff-colored stucco. The roof is of red composition shingles, while all of the outside woodwork is painted white, making a pleasing contrast of color. The steps and floor leading to the front entrance are of brick, while the walks to and around the house are of cement.

The house contains a living room, dining room, kitchen, breakfast room, two bedrooms, bath and sleeping porch. How these rooms are arranged is shown on the floor plan. The living room is 14 by 21 feet, with a fireplace set at the end. Back of the living room is connected with it by a cased opening is the dining room, 15 by 13 feet. An unusual feature of this home is the terrace of the dining room. This is wide and deep and roofed over and is connected with the dining room by double, French doors, which makes it an ideal breakfast porch or a dining place during warm weather. Adjoining the dining room at the rear is a breakfast nook, and to the left is the kitchen.

On the other side of the house are two bedrooms, with the bathroom between. Both bedrooms are on the corner, and are of good size. The dimensions of the house are 23 by 40 feet.

Stucco lends itself to almost any surroundings it may be desirable in which to set the home. It may be tinted a number of shades; also the so-called "dash" may be used, by which particles of marble, granite and other stones of various colors and hues are thrown forcibly against the wet cement mixture and, as it hardens, become rigidly fixed in the walls. In this manner an exterior of unusual beauty may be obtained by the home builder.

In this manner the color scheme of the exterior of the home shown was secured. The tint was added to the stucco before it was applied, and, with the red roof, the brick floor of the porch and the outside chimney, a striking combination was secured.

thus very sensitive to general business conditions. Right now, owing to both a diminishing influx of money and excessive demands from builders, some building loan associations are temporarily unable to meet all their demands for building money. Many of them are placing their applications on a waiting list, which means more delay in getting the money.

What is a Building and Loan Association? It is a mutual, co-operative financial institution, chartered by the state and composed of persons who associate themselves together for their mutual financial advantage. The members save money together. They lend their money to each other. They divide their profits with each other. They work together to help each other acquire homes and to build up the community in which they live.

They provide for saving money usually squandered; an easy way to secure a home, funds for the children's education, capital to use in business, and a reserve fund for old age or adversity.

mechanism to get out of order, no protruding parts that spell danger. It has been thought out with great care and represents a scientific achievement as formidable as were the artistic achievements of the periods mentioned above. So simple indeed is the operation that brings the Davenport bed from day to night use that a child can manage it. Such simplicity is not a part of all convertible furniture, but the development of the Davenport bed is the result of years of experiment and research and progress. Indeed, the Davenport bed is unlike convertible furniture in this important respect.

By day the mattress and bedding are as completely concealed as the bed feature itself. There is no hint to the daytime caller of the double utility of the Davenport bed. There is no disclosure of the fact that the same floor space is serving the full twenty-four hours; but the fact that the Davenport bed does so, in spite of its complete concealment, is in reality a tribute to its masterful conception and, in fact, to the desirability of this fine piece of furniture in the American home.

Century to what one might expect of so efficient a contrivance, the Davenport bed is inexpensive. Its very simplicity has helped to make it so. The cost varies, of course, with the size and style selected.

Better Homes Week

ALL over the nation the week of June 4, to 9th has been set aside as Better Homes week. Since the Better Homes movement was inaugurated a few years ago there has been a tremendous change in people in their attitude toward the furnishings of their homes, while a few years ago changing fashions in dress occupied a major portion of the housewives attention so far as the styles were concerned, now it is considered as bad form to have a home furnished with out of date furniture as it is to be dressed in styles that are passe.

Times Ideal Home Beautiful to Be Ready for Opening at Start Of Better Homes in America Week

Week on the interior of the Times Ideal Home Beautiful has progressed to the extent that it will be necessary to keep the building locked from now on but it will be open to the public Sunday afternoon from 2 o'clock until 6 in the afternoon.

The woodwork is being done now and the tile placed in the bathroom; other interior work will be started the coming week and the exterior is practically completed.

It is very appropriate that the Home Beautiful should be opened to the public near the date of the Better Homes in America demonstration week June 4 to 10.

Secretary Hoover has completed for the department of commerce a monograph on "Financing a Home" which will be used throughout the country during this period.

"Since the campaign for better homes in America lays a stress on all aspects of home—physical, educational and spiritual—it cannot help being a strong stimulus to the desire on the part of many to own their own homes," Mr. Hoover declares.

"In purchasing a home a mistake may be unfortunate, so get the best value you can, and watch your step."

"First of all, what you buy is the site and the improvements on it. If a building and loan association, or bank, loans you money on the property, it has a direct financial interest in helping you guard your investment."

"If you make a purchase offer with a cash deposit, including down payment as to whether window shades, stoves and other movable property are included. Risk from loss of fire or elements should be assumed."

"You should have a fine place to call home if every man who makes his money in Wichita Falls as you do, bought everything he could out of town."

"Look at the taxes our merchants pay in our city to give us all the modern improvements we have, and then ask yourself what you are doing to help support the home you are buying."

"I couldn't hear what the other fellow answered," said "Bill," but I noticed the man's name was Kalamasoo Bill, who had just reached Wichita Falls as change from an order for supplies made by a Wichita Falls firm, and he replied "I will find that type of men in a great many cities and they don't contribute much good to the place they call home."

"Undoubtedly the one remark that carries the greatest amount of weight in all this interesting, is that the motley men are the worst offenders in buying away from Wichita Falls."

"The bulk of criticism falls on the men who have been blessed with more money than the average citizen. To what extent this criticism is justified they should remember that I can in Wichita Falls let them let his actions how sincere he is in his dealings with Wichita Falls merchants."

"If business men of Wichita Falls," continued Kalamasoo Bill, "are offending in this respect and justify the criticism that has been leveled at them they should remember that the man who is not a familiar face in the business places of this city is not a man who attracts many business friendships. He creates very little good will."

"People will buy of him if they have to, if he is the best bargain which simply cannot be resisted, but when things are about even, they never go out of their way to serve him. Such a man gets a reputation for cold isolation and if he 'white' traveling around in his man's pocket Saturday," said "Bill" Dollar, "I heard my own way to another man's. The man who would Wichita Falls for every man here were like you? Your overcoat is from New York and your hat is from St. Louis, and I'll bet every thing else you have on comes from out of town."

however, that the bird in the gilded cage, despite the fact that she sings so sweetly and beautifully, does not seem to satisfy as did the mocking bird that came twice daily to the little girl's bedroom window.

A lady who offered to send the little girl the prettiest bird that could be secured, stated that the incident reminded her of a song that her mother used to sing to her years ago in her childhood. She repeated it as follows:

"There came to my window one morning in spring
A sweet little birdie, she came there to sing.
The tune that she sang, it is prettier by far
Than ever I heard on a flute or guitar.
How happy, how happy the world seems to me!
Up, up boys and girls and be happy with me.
Just as she finished her beautiful song

A thoughtful young boy with a gun came along.
He killed and he carried my birds away.
She came never sing more at the dawn of the day."

"DIRTY RUG MARATHON" IS BEING STAGED HERE BY CLEANER DISTRIBUTOR

The Spitzman Electric Company of Chicago, who are locating a distributor in this city, began their preliminary campaign for health and sanitation with a "Dirty Rug Marathon" in the window of the W. S. McClurkan department store at the corner of Ninth and Scott Streets last morning.

The campaign is being carried in cooperation with the campaign for Better Homes, June 4 to 10, which is sponsored by the National Federation of Women's Clubs.

BOMBARTON HAS YUCH MAINFALLA FRIDAY NIGHT

This country received an inch of rain last night which appeared to be general. The cloud came from the west and reached from the south entirely around to the north. It was preceded by a very heavy wind that did much damage to the unharvested grain. A great deal of it is blown down so bad it can not be cut. But the main was of untold value to the feed and young cotton that had begun to seed rain.

Three Youngsters Make Pledge to Juvenile Officer Never to Kill Another Song Bird in Their Life

Early Saturday morning, three bright little fellows awaited Juvenile Officer Bentley when he entered his office. One of them acted as spokesman and related that they had read the article of the song bird that had been killed by a thoughtless boy.

"We came to tell you Mr. Bentley," the leader said, "that we have all been shooting birds. We don't know if we are or not, but we want to tell you that we won't ever shoot at a song bird again, and everything we see other boys doing it we'll try to stop it if we can."

Very few realize the usefulness of the song bird. A man who has made a study of birds and who brought the boy who shot one to a public school relates that every day of a song bird's life it destroys thousands of insects which are destructive to vegetation in general.

He said that every time a boy shot a song bird that thousands of destructive insects were left to play their deadly work.

"The killing of a song bird may leave behind an insect that will push its destructive sting into a little growing tree. The tree may offset this poison by building around it, but no matter how big the tree gets, there will always remain a trace of that insect bite in the form of a gnarled place which leaves a defect there for always."

"When a thoughtless boy kills a beautiful song bird placed here to beautify the world, the shameful act works as a sting in the soul of the boy and a matter how he grows up to be even though it cannot be seen, there is a dark, gnarled, defective spot on that boy's soul."

A large number of offers were received Saturday by the Times from sympathetic residents of the city to supply the boy with one in a gilded cage. The Times wishes to thank those who have offered to do this and wants to advise that the little girl has been well supplied. The very very sad thing about it is,

INDIAN HEIGHTS ADDITION

Indian Heights Addition is now open for sale and those who have selected lots will kindly arrange for contract of purchase. The terms of sale are onethird cash, balance in one, two and three years. We have been delayed in getting out of plat, but will be ready in a few days, giving the location, size and price of each particular lot.

In placing this addition on the market with only 46 lots, we are giving this city the only up-to-date addition in the city where prospective buyers may purchase a building site with restrictions at a moderate price, and with every prospect of enhancement in value. A lot 50x150 feet in any section of the city will cost from $1000 to $2500. The price of lots in Indian Heights will range from $450 to $650 per lot of 50x150 feet with the conveniences you get in other section of the city.

The fact that these lots are well elevated and unusually large, and few in number, will in our opinion create a demand and after these lots are sold no more lots can be secured in the city that will equal these lots in price and location. 100x150 feet on Grant or Buchanan street will cost you $6900 without restriction. 200x200 feet in Indian Heights will cost only $3250 with restrictions and protection.

Look around and see if you can find any other section where you would be in line with the development of the better section of the city. It's the only location left. The highest point; the coolest breeze, the best direction and the spot that will be in greatest demand and consequently will command the highest price.

This property is going to be sold, because it is the best stuff available and because the price is right, and if you do not want to pay a profit to someone else get in on the ground floor. You'll want to live in Indian Heights.

BETTER HOMES

June 4th WEEK to 10th

America is gradually becoming a nation of homes. Because of the success of the movement in which nearly 1,000 cities and towns participated in last fall, a second demonstration has been set aside for the week of June 4 to 10. The idea is the outgrowth of a suggestion made by President Harding in 1921. As a part of this campaign communities everywhere prepare model homes and apartments to demonstrate what can be accomplished within a given income.

Indorsing this campaign President Harding said: "I know of no matter so intimately concerned with the life of our people to which we can give greater devotion and service for fundamental improvement than the upbuilding not only of individual home ownership but the actual improvement of our homes." Every concern listed below is intensely interested in this campaign. All of them are ready to offer suggestions or ways and means by which to help make America a nation of better homes.

Mrs. Rea Jackson Tells How Cuticura Healed Pimples

"I suffered with a rough, red skin and practically all parts of my body were affected. Later pimples began to break out, which caused severe itching and burning. The pimples were red and hard, and finally penetrated through the skin in a dry, festering condition. They were so aggravating I could not sleep for hours after retiring. When at last I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment, they gave instant relief and I used two boxes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment, when I was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Rea Jackson, Laurel Fork, Virginia.

Daily use of Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum usually prevents skin troubles.

New Rex Ingram Photoplay Carries Thrilling Tale of Romance of the South Seas With an Excellent Cast

Rex Ingram, master director, has completed another picture for Metro, "Where the Pavement Ends," which will be shown at the Olympic theatre on Monday for four days. The story is a new film produced by Mr. Ingram in an event welcomed by every movie-goer in the country. The story is a thrilling tale of romance in the South Seas.

Mr. Ingram prepared the film from a story in John Russell's book, "Where the Pavement Ends," which has proved enormously popular. Mr. Ingram's version is the best book of short tales by any author since Kipling's "Just So Stories."

Mr. Russell acted in an advisory capacity during the filming of the picture in Florida and expressed himself as more than satisfied with the atmospheric realism which Mr. Ingram transferred to the screen.

The atmosphere and reality of the story is greatly enhanced by the remarkable acting of Alice Terry and Ramon Novarro, who play the leading roles. Miss Terry adds fresh laurels to the high reputation she won by her brilliant acting in "The Four Horsemen" and "The Captivating Power." In "Where the Pavement Ends" she plays the part of the daughter of a missionary.

The brilliant, suspenseful days and the calm, moonlit nights of the tropics bring dreams of love and romance to the lonely soul. That dream is translated into living reality by her lover, the South Sea, but the path of love is not smooth. She knows that her clandestine relationship will not meet the approval of her father, for the man she loves is not of the ways of her people.

William H. Miller, keeper of a rum shop, and the richest man on the island, has sworn that he will have his daughter marry a man of his own race. He will not give up easily what he has sworn to.

The part of the man who symbolized love to Matilda is played by Ramon Novarro. Rex Ingram's new screen find, who won the plaudits of movie goers in "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "Trilling Women," Edward Connelly and Harry Moray also are members of the excellent cast.

The film was photographed by John F. Betts, whose name has become the mark of artistic cinema-making.

The issue of the Picture Play magazine printed the following in review of the picture: "I was attracted to this volume of short stories by its title, which to me is the most magical and enticing title that a fiction writer could invent. It is so good that I was afraid that it would be an anticlimax. But the thrill lasted throughout. Through vivid sketches which John Busby made of the land where the romance ends and romance begins, Rex Ingram has given us a new picture which has the real atmosphere of 'The Passion Vine'—the original title of the story."

Crowds Battle For Bogus Coins In New Picture

Hollywood was stirred for days following the taking of a big motion picture scene there recently, in which half the police force was called out to prevent a riot, and which caused several of the smaller store owners to close their doors for a day.

Word went around Hollywood that a big film unit from the Paramount West Coast studio was going to have an automobile run down a principal street, trailing silver dollars behind it. This was to have been a big feature scene in "Sixty Cents an Hour" in which Walter Hiers stars with Jacqueline Logan featured in his support, and which will be shown at the Empress theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

On the day it was to take place, several stores were closed. At least two more small boys played hooky from school on the same morning. In addition, nearly three hundred persons, all anxious to follow the "trail of silver dollars," stood about the corner where the automobile was removed to start.

At ten minutes after nine, according to estimates, five hundred persons were on the corner. At fifteen minutes after nine, two fights started and police reserves were called out. At twenty minutes after nine, a machine to be used had a hole in the rear and the director, Sam Corbett, carefully telling his aides where "the money was to be dropped," the crowd grew wildly excited.

Mr. Hiers and Miss Logan stepped into the machine, and director Joseph Hanabery started the scene. The first coin dropped through the hole in the car. With a mad rush, the crowd made a dive for it. Twenty-three policemen endeavored to protect the women. The motion picture company proceeded down the street, continuing the gleaming trail.

Suddenly one of the trailing officers glanced at the coin he had fought and been wounded for. Then he fainted.

It was an imitation dollar! So were all the others. In fact, the law prevents the use of real money in motion picture scenes.

For perhaps two weeks the story was hushed, but it finally leaked out. Too many persons who appreciate a good joke, even on themselves, know about it.

Today a score of personages living in Hollywood and surrounding communities are resuming natural appearance after wandering around for a long time in bandages and court plasters.

One hundred twenty-five thousand wounded ex-service men of France will get government jobs as a result of a bill just passed by the French senate reserving certain positions for war wounded.

Thrilling Scenes In Photoplay at Gem on Monday

A new version of one of the most thrilling sea stories of recent years, "The Grub Stake," based on a story of the same name by Ben Ames Williams, is in screen form at the Gem Monday.

Those who have read Mr. Williams' powerful whaling story can't resist it as unusually gripping and thrilling tale. It has all the elements which go to make a thoroughly entertaining picture, and with the careful production which Metro has given it, it should be one of the season's biggest pictures.

With V. Willst, noted director of the picture, has been in charge of producing this splendid story to

Author—Star of 'The Grub Stake' In Unique Place

Neil Shipman, who comes to the Empress theatre next Thursday, Friday and Saturday by her new picture, "The Grub Stake," occupies a unique position in the motion picture world. She is the only girl who writes her own stories, plays the leading role and co-directs them, and her latest picture clearly shows her proficiency in this unusual task.

Born of British parentage in Victoria, B. C., her father was a merchant in the fishing and mining industries of British Columbia and the Yukon territory. While still a little girl, Neil spent her winters as a native swim like a fish, ride like an Indian and handle the fierce Eskimo dogs, which were her domestic pets. The grown-up Neil of today gives credit to the Nell of yesterday for her knowledge of the wilderness and undying love for the wild places.

At the age of eight she acquired some fame as a musical prodigy but music alone did not satisfy her. She wanted to act and to write. By twelve she had written an unwilling consent from her parents and was embarked on her stage career. In a dance. From dancing she won her way to sobriety "old and had "road-showed" across the continent four times before she was fourteen.

At fifteen she passed easily for eighteen and obtained a stock engagement in Salt Lake City as a leading woman, essaying such roles as "Bapho" and "Camille."

At sixteen she headed her own company on a tour of Alaska where the bill ranked for "The Girl of the Golden West." To "Charlie's Aunt." In the course of time motion pictures attracted her and she won first prize in the first scenario contest ever held. While writing a series of stories for J. Warren Kerrigan, the opportunity came to direct an act. Then her first big opportunity came as the heroine of "The Grub Stake" and "The Woman" that forerunners of all snow pictures, alive to this day.

Followed a long list of successes as leading woman and later as star with Fox, Loeb, Vitaphone, with only occasional pauses for travel and writing. In 1919 Neil Shipman joined forces with James Oliver Curwood and wrote the continuing

CONSTANCE BINNEY IN 'A BILL OF DIVORCEMENT' AT STRAND

Powerful Stage Drama Even Greater Success on the Screen With Stars Featured in Splendid Production

STRAND FEATURE MONDAY

CONSTANCE BINNEY In "A Bill of Divorcement"

Successful as was Clarence Darrow's stage play, "A Bill of Divorcement," its photodramatization, to be shown at the Strand Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, should be even more successful, for it is far more powerful on the screen. It deals in a courageous manner with the question of divorce. The great point about the treatment of the subject here is the acute understanding with which it is handled.

When Margaret Fairfield discovers a taint of insanity in her husband, a taint that develops and necessitates his removal as an incurable to an asylum, her desire is to take advantage of the new law which permits divorce in the case of insanity that her mother had left off the memory of her husband's pitiful pleading that she will not let the law separate them.

It is left to Margaret's daughter, Sydney, to put the truth of matter with brutal frankness; in short, with modern candor, which amounts to saying that her mother has the right to secure her own happiness. It is a powerful situation then, when Sydney escapes, practically cured, and confronts Margaret, who is on the eve of her marriage to the man she loves more than she had ever loved her husband.

Margaret resists for a while his passionate pleadings, his pitiful "Behind the noise and the drama of the law, I want to know what you really think of me." But in her fight to do what is the right thing, rather than what her heart desires, she decides the weak man is not for her. Her mother has the right to do what is the right thing, rather than what her heart desires, she decides the weak man is not for her.

Constance Binney plays the part of Sydney most earnestly, sincerely and intelligently. She is regular and limply on a minute, and the next she is restraining emotions of mental torment. Her scenes with her father, and the one where she deliberately quarrels with her lover, are particularly affecting.

"Pay Attention" is magnificent as the wife and mother. Her beautiful face is a mirror that reflects every shade of her every thought. Malcolm Keen, who originated the role on the stage in London, plays the demented Hilary, and makes the role always a deeply sympathetic one. Other roles are splendidly enacted by Henry Vibrant, Henry Victor, Fawcett Llewellyn, Martin Walk and Douglas Gregory. The production of Dennis Cliff is flawless. Every scene is for a dramatic purpose, with the tenacity and potency thereof increasing to the climax. It is certainly the most powerful drama ever seen on the screen and not to be missed during its engagement at the Strand, where it remains until Thursday.

STRAND THURSDAY TO SATURDAY

Alfred Lunt and Edith Roberts in the Distinctive Picture "BACKBONE" Distributed by Goldwyn has been building up a retinue of admirers across the continent since she was 12 years old. The cast supporting these two stars is considered one of the most distinctive ever assembled for a single picture, and includes such well known actors and screen favorites as William B. Mac, Frank Evans, George MacQuarrie, Marion Abbott, James D. Doyle, Charles Fang, L. E. LaLoche, Hugh Huntley and J. W. Johnson.

The story deals with the fulfillment in the twentieth century of the love of two young people who lived generations ago in olden France. In proving that romance never dies, Clarence Budington Kelland, who wrote the romance originally for the Saturday Evening Post, has evolved an absorbing tale in which all the elements of mystery, criminal cunning and honest "backbone" come into conflict. Edward Sloman directed the taking of "Backbone," on which the Distinctive Corporation spared no expense. Special dancing masters were engaged to stage the ballroom scene in ancient France and costumes of the period were made from designs by Adrian, the 19 year old genius who has made a name for himself in the theatrical world.

LESS THAN ONE FOURTH OF TAX GOES DELINQUENT

Guy Haley, county tax collector, has completed his annual report which shows that less than one-fourth of the 1922 taxes appear on the delinquent roll which has also been completed and will be forwarded to Austin within the next few days.

The total collections for the 1922 tax roll amounted to $1,665,146.77. This includes only payments received up to March 1, 1922. Beyond that time collections have been fairly good which also reduces the amount of taxes which have actually gone delinquent.

The amount which appeared at that time as having gone delinquent was $246,916.64. This does not allow for errors which have been made and which creep into the rolls despite the care taken. The amount collected since March 1 and the errors in the rolls will bring the total down to approximately $225,000 it is believed.

Novarro Describes First Appearance Before the Public

Ramon Novarro, widely discussed new screen find of Rex Ingram, famous Metro director, riding now on the crest of a wave of nation-wide recognition and acclaim as one of the most brilliant film actors of today, recalls with delight his first public appearance.

"It was in Ocean Park in Los Angeles, Cal., a miniature Coney Island and seaside resort, at one of the motion picture theaters that held prize contests, the winner being judged by the amount of applause received. It had been my ambition, my dream for years, to go upon the stage or screen. This seemed my opportunity. I had been taking singing and piano lessons for several years and could perform well, fairly well.

"I have never had a more anxious moment than when we were lined up for the verdict of applause. I was in a peculiar position because where the others had done more popular things, jazz singing, etc., I didn't know any. I played a Mexican Rhapody by Lant on the piano and then sang some Spanish songs! And so I waited through seconds of awful suspense. I have never felt so proud and thrilled as when the clapping hands proclaimed me winner of the first prize."

Ramon Novarro, and Alice Terry, had important roles in the new Rex Ingram production for Metro, at the Olympic theater Monday for four days. It was adapted by Mr. Ingram from the story of John Russell, and photographed by John F. Betts.

'Backbone' Comes To Strand Theater Starting Thursday

Presentation of "Backbone," the Distinctive Pictures special feature which is announced for the Strand theater Thursday to Saturday, is an event of triple significance. It is the first of the 1922 program of 12 big pictures to be made by the Distinctive Corporation, now famous for the merit of its output; it marks the screen debut of Alfred Lunt, celebrated young actor of the legitimate stage; and it is the first of the Distinctive product to be distributed by the Goldwyn Corporation by the terms of a new agreement between these two dominant companies.

"Backbone" is the type of picture for which there is an ever-growing demand—straight from the shoulder, drama, unspiced by false touches, powerful in story, intelligently directed and entertaining throughout. It is a fine vehicle for the screen debut of Lunt, who made himself famous overnight for his part in the Booth Tarkington comedy, "Clarence," and who combines ability to act with a tremendous amount of good looks—the kind of good looks that'll make the women want to come back and see him again.

In addition to Lunt the picture had, as the feminine lead, the dainty and beautiful Edith Roberts, who

SULLIVAN ATTENDS AND DESCRIBES MEETING OF IRISH DAIL

EVIDENCE OF NATIVE ABILITY AND CAPACITY TO MEET CRISIS NOT WRITTEN ON COUNTENANCES

By MARK SULLIVAN
Political Correspondent of the New York Tribune and Wichita Daily Times
(Copyright, 1923, Tribune, Inc.)
LONDON, June 2.—Your correspondent the other day for an afternoon and evening sat through a session of the Irish Dail (pronounced like "dahl-ee," almost like Doyle). They seem to have adopted the manner of the English house of commons, meeting at 2:30 in the afternoon and sitting often until late in the night.

It was, I suppose, a characteristic session. The debates covered a bill for the conscription of motion picture films, a financial budget bill and one of Mr. de Valera's overtures toward peace.

The members of the cabinet sat on the front bench of the government side, as in practically all European legislatures, though not in our American congress. Instinctively one compared them with our own president. Naturally, the comparison was to the disadvantage of the free state. Among 4,000,000 people there are not to be found as many picked men of big caliber as among 100,000,000. Moreover, our present American cabinet happens to be probably the strongest—taking it as a whole—since President Hayes, in the '70s.

The dail cabinet is younger—I should imagine the average age is not much above 35. If they have native ability, they may overcome a crisis, if has yet to be written on their countenances. There was no one with a sum of experience comparing with that of Hughes, of Mellon, or Hoover, or Weeks.

One had momentary glimpses of a new nation comparing its cabinet of a new nation with the leaders who started our own America off after its secession from Great Britain. But one abandoned that comparison instantly, with a little pang of pity for Ireland. Tragedy of one sort or another had deprived the free state of three of the best of its pioneers. It is as if within a year after we won our independence George Washington had been murdered, Alexander Hamilton had died and Thomas Jefferson had gone off on an insurrection.

But while the dail cabinet is much younger and otherwise not to be compared with ours at home, the membership of the dail, as a whole, need not fear comparison with our lower house of congress, or even with our senate. In the debates there was human common sense and decidedly more signs of classic learning than in our congress. The dail includes a marked sprinkling of leaders and scholars from institutions of learning. One member of the dail is in features and manner a counterpart of the late Champ Clark.

There was 100 per cent absence of anything even faintly of the nature of either rant or cant. There wasn't a speech of the sort which in Washington we characterize as "made for home consumption." Even in those parts of the debates which covered De Valera's proposals for amnesty, there was no rant or cant to the heart of the existence of the dail, and even of the free state, there was good temper and reasonableness.

One of the most vivid impressions borne in upon the writer was the quality of the labor members of the dail. They had a directness of thought, a freedom from demagoguery, and, above all, a patience, a restraint of words and manner which was rather higher than the average in any legislative body of the present writer has ever seen in any capital. In the dail the labor party is the opposition party, but the leader was as far as possible from the customary habit of opposition leaders of seeking openings to embarrass the government.

In the dail the official language is Gaelic. But you may sit through a full day's session without hearing more than half a dozen words of that ancient tongue. A few of the formalities are in Gaelic. When the roll is called the names of the members reply they do so in the Gaelic words for "yes" and "no." But when a member makes a speech he speaks in English.

A good many members of the dail could make their speeches in Gaelic if they chose, but as to most of them it would be a serious handicap. Senator McGill McCormick making a speech in French, as he occasionally has done when distinguished Frenchmen have been on the floor of congress. With the great bulk of the Irish, Gaelic, so far as they know it at all, is an acquired tongue. It is taught in the schools, but the pupils for the most part, learn it as they might learn Latin.

In the west and south of Ireland there are several areas where Irish is, in the true sense, the language of common use. But while I have seen no estimate from any authoritative source, I should be inclined to believe the number of persons who use Gaelic naturally and habitually is more than 1 per cent of the population. There is a group of ardent national leaders who are passionately determined to revive the ancient tongue and make it universal, as the Bohemian patriots did, and the Greeks. It will take a long time and be an uphill job.

However extensively Gaelic may be revived, Ireland will always be more or less compelled to speak English, also. The closeness of its trade relations with England and America will make that necessary. But those Irish leaders who know that language is the soul of a nation are determined to bring Gaelic back, already in the thirty years since the Gaelic literary movement started they have rescued the ancient tongue from what then seemed certain extinction. It was the teaching of Gaelic that saved it, and the widely diffused pride and affection in the old culture which, more than any other one cause, made the recent fight against England more successful than any previous one.

In the dail debates, in the references to De Valera, there was one phrase so often repeated that one felt obliged to take account of it. The phrase was "peculiar mentality." It was uttered in perfect good temper by men who gave evidence of being fair, and even friendly, to the insurgent, personally. Other charges of "mentalities" were "metaphysical," "philosophical," "mathematical." One felt convinced that De Valera, by temperament and by the limitations of his experience, is a man who has dealt too much in the world of abstractions and too little with concrete actualities. He would have been a mighty figure among those old monks who used to debate about how many angels could stand on the southwest corner of the point of a pin. De Valera was the dialectician of the Irish revolution, as Thomas Jefferson was the dialectician of ours. But De Valera is a good deal, a very great deal, more distant than homecoming visits from Irish in America and people of Irish descent—that four become one of combativeness and violence. During that whole year less than a hundred first-class passengers landed at Queenstown from New York.

The Irish abroad, with their kin in foreign lands, are stirred to a new high. Probably it can be said that the view of Ireland there is not only sentiment in it, there is also solid business. Probably 100,000,000 to 150,000,000 a year is not too high an estimate of the amount that American tourists would spend in a specially stabilized Ireland. Ireland might, like Switzerland, make the welcome and care of visitors one of its top or three most productive industries. Further than that, there is hardly any limit to the amount of money that Americans of Irish descent might invest in Ireland.

The writer here records one of the most hopeful aspects of the new Irish nation. The fact that one of the most hopeful facts in the recent history of the world. There is no religious persecution nor any religious animosity in the Irish north was reassured by the complete absence of religious intolerance in the Catholic south.

In the whole of Ireland today there is less religious intolerance than in those parts of the United States where the Ku Klux Klan is strong. In Protestant Belfast the other day the government apologized for feeling compelled to withdraw state aid from 100 Catholic parochial schools, thus making it necessary for the Catholics to support their own schools from their own purses. There is a wide difference between that and the case in Oregon where legislation has been passed, which actually prevents Catholics from having schools of their own, under any circumstances. Associated with this freedom from religious bigotry is another phenomenon. Everywhere in Ireland you are told that all church have less authority over their members than was the case years ago. The decline of the authority of the churches is, however, world-wide.

The new free state government has stern freedom ahead of it. One of the most trying will be what to do with its army of 20,000 men. That is about half the size of our own American army. In proportion to population, if the United States had as large an army as Ireland we should have 1,000,000 men withdrawn from industry, and under arms. Ireland has one soldier to every eighty of its population. America has one to every thousand. In proportion to population, Ireland has the largest army in the world except that of France. Also, it is the best fed, best paid and best provided for army in the world, equipped with modern arms. What is to be done with the young men when they are turned out of their uniforms? This army is, to a large extent, a portion of a surplus population that has developed in Ireland since 1815. When the beginning of the war set up barriers to emigration 20,000 or 30,000 young men who used to emigrate were dammed back, and their presence in Ireland, without available jobs in existing industries, constitutes one of the new government's most formidable tasks.

These young men were youths of sixteen or eighteen when the war came. They had had no training for any industry. Now they are in their twenties, without knowing any occupation save arms and keyed up only to the exciting life of fighting

It is not only a question of finding jobs for them, but also a question whether they will take kindly to the ways of peace.

There are other problems ahead of the new commonwealth. But after you have surveyed them all you come to the end with confidence. With reasonable wisdom and common sense on the part of the new leaders, there is no reason why the Irish Free State should not become as secure, as prosperous and as permanent as Denmark, or Sweden, or Norway, or even Holland.

Cost of Safety Instruction In Handling Cars Never as Heavy As Cost of Doing Without It

Accidents have always happened from the beginning of time and the same are that accidents will continue to happen until the end of time, for some accidents can be prevented, but others cannot. On the other hand, however, many accidents, in fact the majority, can be prevented with the exercise of reasonable care, foresight, good judgment and common sense.

Statistics carefully gathered and compiled by the National Safety Council, from all parts of the United States, prove without question that 75 per cent of all accidents can be traced directly to carelessness in some form or on the part of some individual or group of individuals.

Figures, issued by the National Safety Council, tell a most interesting story. For example: Of the 4,000 American soldiers who were killed in battle or died as the result of wounds inflicted on the battle front during 19 months, and 200,000 were injured in battle. These figures are based upon the latest reports from Washington.

During the same period of 19 months, here in peaceful America, 15,000 miles away from the scene of the fighting, 125,000 men, women and children were killed by accidents in industries, on the streets and in homes. Also during this same period, here in America there were over 2,000,000 men, women and children who were so seriously injured by accidents that they lost four weeks of time or were permanently maimed or disabled.

Figures Are Facts.

Can there be any question in the mind of these appalling figures as to the absolute and crying necessity of an intensive program in the industry, in the home, on the street, in the public safety? In fact this lack of uniformity has reached alarming proportions and constitutes a problem which must be given serious consideration at the earliest possible moment. So far as the motorist can ascertain the only thing which these various sets of laws and ordinances now have in common is the title. Speed limits, hand signals, headlight requirements, traffic control signals and rules—almost everything controlling his actions on the highway—conflict everywhere.

The result is that the tourist is constantly in danger of injuring others and himself and of being arrested and hauled into court, because he mistakingly assumes he unwittingly violates a traffic ordinance. To stop at the outskirts of every municipality or on the border of every state to study a new set of traffic laws requires more time and library space than the usual tourist has to spare. Happily a few states and cities have recognized this condition and are now engaged in an effort to bring about a uniformity that will not be confusing and dangerous.

FORD DAY PARADE SET FOR SATURDAY, PRIZES ARE OFFERED

At last the Ford comes into its own! A real Ford Day! Next Saturday, June 9, at 3 o'clock will be staged one of the most interesting parades yet seen in Wichita Falls.

There is a chance for every Ford owner in Wichita county to enter and win one of the handsome prizes being offered on various grounds.

The parade will start at Langford's Motor Supply and crossing to Ohio will go up that street to Tenth, back down Indiana, across on Seventh to Scott and down that street.

Various business concerns are offering well worth while prizes and judging from those who have already expressed a desire to enter the parade there is going to be considerable rivalry and good strong competition.

The Faith Optical company is offering a pair of glasses for the Ford driven by the oldest person.

The driver of the most ramshackle looking Ford will receive a sun shade from the E. A. Warren Tire company.

Elford's Bootery offers the choice of a pair of shoes for the Ford carrying the prettiest girl.

The newly married couple who enter the parade will receive a Lin Valliere from Joe Art's Jewelry store.

The Nabe-Little Hardware company is offering a gallon thermos bottle for the most spruced-up Ford.

The Ford carrying the fattest woman will win an ivory comb and brush set from Richardson's Bargain Basement.

For the Ford with the greatest mileage the Cut Rate Tire company offers a tire, guaranteeing that it will last until the number of miles which won the prize has been doubled.

Appeals to Touring Autoists Not To 'Dirty Up' or Desecrate Nature's Beauties Which They Encounter

An active campaign has been started by the Motorists' League for Countryside Preservation to urge upon all motorist parties the necessity of "cleaning up" before leaving their luncheon recreation spot beneath shady trees or on the bank of a picturesque rural stream. President Harding recently consented to serve on the National Committee. In his letter of acceptance he said:

"I have received the invitation to serve on the National Committee of the Motorists' League for Countryside Preservation, and have noted what you say concerning its purpose. I have to confess myself in the fullest accord with your aims and hopes, and I will be glad to have my name used, if it is possible, as a member of the Executive Committee.

Membership in the league carries with it no dues or obligations other than to accept personal responsibility to 'clean up' as you go. Thousands of motorists have endorsed the plans, and local chapters are being formed in many parts of the country. Before the touring season is in full away motorists in every locality will be urged to help preserve the natural beauties of the highways.

Every motorist is asked to sign the pledge of the league, which is: 'I, as a member of the Motorists' League for Countryside Preservation, pledge myself to do what I can to preserve the countryside as it all may share in the enjoyment of it. To this end I will leave a resting place for 'camp site clean' free from papers or litter of any sort. I will be careful of trees and shrubbery, of brooks and streams. I will be careful in the making of camps and fires. I will make every effort to leave the roadside in such condition that the pleasure to be derived from it by others is not lessened through any careless act of mine."

Despotism of Nursery.

LONDON.—Commenting on the election of the house of commons of Mrs. Hilton Phillipson, who was formerly Miss Mabel Russell, a musical comedy actress the Daily Mail today expresses the hope that "Gulika Lady Astor and Mrs. Margaret Wintringham, Mrs. Phillipson, will not be too much inclined to introduce the despotism of the nursery into our affairs."

MOTOR DUST

Of Personal Interest to the Motorist

Frank Keim, local Studebaker dealer, was in Dallas last week after some cars to help take care of the demand which the company has been unable to meet. May was by far the largest month this company has had yet, it is stated, and prospects remain good.

D. L. Fritts was in Vernon on business last week.

Arthur Huff went to Dallas last week and brought back a five-passenger Oakland coupe for delivery to Mr. McDonald.

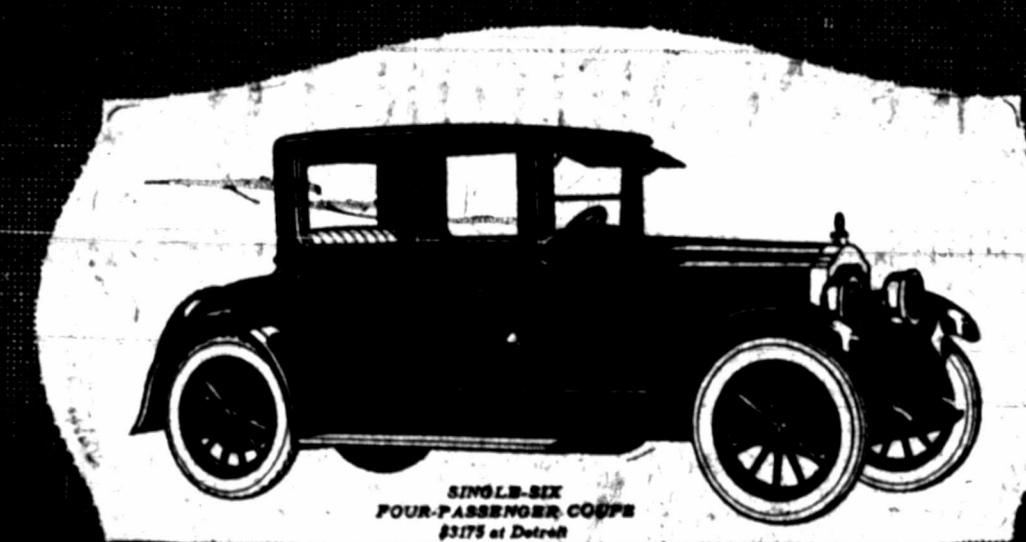

Herbert Kerr, of the Lloyd Weaver Automobile Company, was in Dallas last week, bringing back a Packard.

Mr. Clifton, of the Kim Motor Company, made a trip to Dallas last week on business for the firm.

The Dixie Tire Company reports May the biggest month yet. R. O. Shupe was in Seymour on a business trip for a few days during the week. He states that he expects W. C. Robertson factory representative from Akron, Ohio, to spend the coming week with the local branch.

The Victory Motor Company have been going through the painful process of moving the past week and expect to be all settled in their new location on Indiana avenue in a few days.

L. O. Brown, of the Victory Motor Company, was in Dallas last week and drove back a new Oldsmobile.

The first consideration in designing the Single-Six was to make it worthy of the Packard name in every respect. A Packard must be, and always will be, a Packard.

It is gratifying to observe how, in the great majority of cases, this fact is taken for granted. It is pertinent to add that the very moderate operating cost that Single-Six owners report may be counted on, whether the model be open or enclosed.

Inventions That Promise to Mean Much to Autoists

Automotive engineers and inventors are planning to make things easier for the auto driver.

The combined efforts of late have brought results as to take the life out of the name "pleasure car" for any automobile. Only a few years ago the driver used to curse the man who picked that name, while he tried to replace a punctured tire or climb a hill without developing a knock.

Now engineers have gone so far ahead in perfection of the automobile that there is much more to be done here—that they are directing their inventive faculties toward improving details.

More Easy With Levers.

For instance, one auto manufacturer has decided to do away with levers on his car. Instead the automatic shift is installed, gives the emergency brake lever is abolished and in its place is a brake that operates from the dash. The controls for gear shifting are on the wheel below the spark and gas levers.

The dash instruments are being improved, simplified and collected into one group. In one case, all instruments are put over the center of the steering wheel so that the driver will watch them more closely.

A Western inventor has designed an apparatus by which a tire may be removed or attached by the mere turning of a single lug. That, if it proves efficient, ought to take the last worry off the mind of the driver as regards tires. For the tire makers have improved that part to such a degree that there is little more trouble with it.

Lubrication Simple Matter.

Lubrication of the chassis is simple. On some cars all the driver has to do is to push a hand pump on the dash and the junctions of moving parts on the car are oiled. The pressure system of oiling has superseded the old hand method.

Everything now is a step toward simplicity—and ease for the driver. Practically all parts have been made easily accessible. Squawks are being taken out of the bodies. The electric ignition system on most cars is more easily understood by the lay driver.

Accessories are being made to add to the comfort of the rider and ease in driving. Headlights are being designed which will take the glare out of the eyes of oncoming auto drivers and at the same time illuminate the road more fully than heretofore.

Though one horsepower is supposed to represent the power of an average horse, it is an overestimate. A 15 h. p. engine really representing the equivalent strength of only 7-8 average horses.

Natural gas wells vary in depth from 1,000 to more than 4,000 feet. United States has 148 national forests, embracing 161,739 acres.

VERTICAL EXHAUSTS

Yale Professors Suggest Them to Avoid Gas Fumes

New carbon monoxide fumes from horizontal exhaust affect the driver behind and how the vertical exhaust avoids this; above at a standstill, below in motion.

By NEA Service.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., June 2.—Taste of the carbon monoxide fumes coming from the automobile engine have brought two Yale professors to the conclusion that the exhaust should be extended to the top of every car, at the rear.

Thus, they say, will the danger of carbon-monoxide poisoning be greatly abated and the nerves of city dwellers considerably relieved. The experimenters are Prof. Yandell Henderson, professor in physics, and Dr. Howard Maggard, of the department of applied physiology at Yale. Both have studied gas poisoning for years. It was through them that the army gas mask was perfected and that an improvement on the pulmotor had been effected. In their study of the effect produced by automobile exhaust gas.

upper limit of a well-sounded health standard.

A passenger auto in motion, the investigators found, contains the air for 30 feet behind with from one to two parts carbon-monoxide gas to 10,000 of air. A car moving its fumes 100 to 200 feet behind to a concentration of three to four parts of the gas to 10,000 of air.

The result, they say, is that the driver and passengers, causing many undesirable accidents.

As a solution, the experimenters suggest the extension of the exhaust pipe to the top of the auto. According to engineers, this form of exhaust will cause little if any appreciable loss of power, and the expense for the adjustment would be small.

The vertical exhaust is already in use on some bakery trucks in New Haven. It keeps the odor of the gasoline vapor from the bread, plus and takes in the wagons. At the same time the gases go up and over the heads of drivers behind and thus relieve them of breathing in poisonous air.

In private garages, a ventilator would be required in the roof, if vertical exhausts are adopted. A ventilating system in public garages would make this problem easy. The gas would rise to the ceiling and be drawn off before it had a chance to contaminate the air below.

Oakland Bodies To Be Constructed In Big New Plant

Studied Traffic.

Recently, they completed investigations of automobile traffic in New York, for the Public Health committee of the New York Academy of Medicine. In his report, Henderson states:

"The contamination of the air in the more congested streets of New York City for periods of several hours, reaches the upper limit, and for short periods ever exceeds the limit. local Oakland dealer, last week.

This is the conservative minimum, written distance guaranteed—15,000 miles—that is given by the Oakland Motor Car Company on every car sold today. So far this guarantee has cost the Oakland Company less than one per cent per car to make good."

In discussing advice from the factory Mr. Ward stated that all bodies for the Oakland Motor Car Company, Pontiac, Michigan, will be built in the huge $2,000,000 Fisher Body corporation factory which is being built within three-quarters of a mile from the Oakland plants in Pontiac.

The foundation and walls are nearly completed and it is planned to start turning out the Oakland bodies in this factory early in August. It is stated that this new industry in Pontiac will give employment to approximately 2,500 men.

The location for the new factory is on a 26-acre site and will, the and girders have already been placed on the ground to build the 600-foot spur track of the Grand Trunk railroad.

The factory will be partly one and partly two-story construction, of saw-tooth design and built of brick with metal fireproof roof. The contract calls for the completion of the factory building within sixty days.

The building of Oakland bodies in Pontiac eliminates the haul from the factories of the Fisher Body corporation in Detroit. All Oakland open as well as closed bodies will be built in this new plant.

"Notless" street cars, equipped with better bearings, are soon to appear in St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Famous bells of Notre Dame in Paris will soon be tolled by electricity.

Lumber mills of Washington and Oregon are $,000,000,000 board feet of lumber annually.

The Nash Six Touring Here's Real Proof That It Excels!

Here's undeniable evidence that you get far more for your money in the Nash Six Touring than in any other car of similar price.

First, you get longer wheel base. The Nash Six has from 2 to 9 inches more than others of like cost. The tires are bigger on the Nash Six. So the traveling is easier, and the tires wear longer. It's another point where you get more for your money.

Next, you get more car—more actual material—and it's the choicest steel, and wood, and fabric available.

And you get more and finer workmanship. There is actually more labor put into the building of the car.

You get more smoothness, more power, and smoother and more rapid acceleration.

In fact, you get plus value and plus performance in every feature of the car and every phase of its operation.

Come in and see our special week's exhibition of the Nash Six Touring with its many improvements and refinements.

William Jennings Bryan's Weekly Bible Talk Nehemiah, the Bold Builder

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN

In the Old Testament character of Nehemiah we have a great layman who, called to an important task, shows us what one can do when he is entrusted with a work of moment.

NEHEMIAH, THE BOLD BUILDER—TEXT OF TODAY'S BIBLE TALK BY MR. BRYAN (Neh. 4:1-18)

So we built the wall; and all the wall was joined together unto the half thereof; for the people had a mind to work. But it came to pass, that when Sanballat, and Tobiah, and the Arabians, and the Ammonites, and the Ashdodites, heard that the walls of Jerusalem were made up, and that the breaches began to be stopped, then they were very wroth.

He was not a noted scholar, neither did he occupy an exalted position. He was a cupbearer to the king. Such a position, while honorable, was neither important nor influential. It brought him into intimate acquaintance with the ruler and gave an opportunity for the cultivation of confidence, but a cupbearer does not hold the rank of an advisor and in this case the servant was separated from his master by a race barrier that precluded to a minimum the influence that he could exert.

Because of his handicaps Nehemiah's achievements were the more remarkable. The securing of the opportunity to do came before the doing. His brother, Hanani, had visited Jerusalem and had given a sad account of conditions there.

And it came to pass, that when the Jews which dwelt by them came, these said unto him: Come from all places whences ye shall return unto us; for we will be upon you. Therefore set I in the lower places behind the wall, and ye shall return to the wall, every one at his work.

And I looked, and rose up, and said unto the nobles, and to the rulers, and to the rest of the people: He is not to be afraid of them; remember the Lord, which is great and terrible, and fight for your brethren, your sons, and your daughters, your wives, and your houses. And it came to pass, when our enemies heard that it was known unto us, and that we had taken counsel to fight, that we returned as we were to the wall, every one at his work.

This bank heartily approves the sentiment now being cultivated that Wichita Falls people should give home institutions first consideration in placing their business. If a merchant or a professional man can give the same quality, the same service and at the same price as are to be found in another city, certainly every argument of town-pride and selfish interest should cause us to keep our dollars at home where they will help to build the city in which we make our living.
