EXIDE BATTERY STATION MODERN AND CONVENIENT IN EVERY RESPECT

More people are taking vacations in automobiles this year than ever before and every sensible owner sees that his car is in the best condition possible before starting on a trip of any length.

The battery, if not in proper condition, can cause more real trouble and inconvenience than almost any other part of the car.

What can be more disgusting than to have to crank the car every time it stops or to have dim, poor lights when it is necessary or desirable to drive at night.

Wichita Falls motorists are in a position to start this summer's trip with certainty that no such trouble will be encountered, as first class battery stations are available.

TEXAS CHAMBER IS MAKING SURVEY TEXAS INDUSTRIES

Texas is rapidly becoming a manufacturing state in almost every industry, according to Bert C. Blanton, manager of the industrial department of the Texas Chamber of Commerce, who is making an industrial survey of the state.

"Five of the thirty-seven branches of industry in the state have been covered. These are cotton gins, cottonseed oil plants, cotton textile mills, ice and cold storage plants and power and light plants. These show an initial investment totaling $24,197,500.

There are 1,511 cotton gins in the state, representing an original investment of approximately $24,116,000, and 1,367 replacement gins, based on cotton gin capacity, would run to nearly $26,000,000.

"Texas has 141 cottonseed oil mills, with a total capacity of approximately 14,500 tons of cotton seed each twenty-four hours. An original investment of about $14,450,000 is represented, and replacement value would be nearly 100 per cent more.

"The state has to date slightly less than 2 per cent of the total number of cotton textile mills in the country, but a considerable amount of capital has been invested in cotton mills in the state. The average earnings on cotton textile mill properties in the state for the last five years run from 13 to 25 per cent. The value of stock in Texas cotton mills runs from $150 to $400 a share and there is none offered for sale. There are now in operation 177,938 spindles, 4,823 looms and 195 knitting machines, and total amount of capital invested is approximately $36,600,000.

"The ice and cold storage industry represents an investment value of about $30,000,000. The total daily ice production in the state of Texas amounts to about 15,365 tons, sufficient to furnish each individual in the state with six pounds of ice each day. Cold storage plants in Texas contain a total of approximately 14,500,000 cubic feet of storage space for perishable products. Total consumption of ice per year in the state is approximately 2,000,000,000 pounds.

"The investment in power and light plants, substations, transmission lines, etc., in the state amounts to a total of about $150,000,000. The 125 central generating stations have a rated output of about 49,500 kilowatts, or 578,250 horse power. Electrical energy is furnished to 625 cities and towns in the state.

NEW TRIAL FOR ROY TAYLOR DENIED SATURDAY

Judge H. E. Wilson, of the 50th district court, Saturday morning denied Roy Taylor, convicted Friday, a new trial in his case in which he is charged with possession of whiskey for the purpose of sale.

In the motion the defense set up that certain testimony relating to the finding of bottles and whiskey in various parts of the hotel should have been excluded because no connection was shown between them and the defendant.

Taylor was found guilty by a jury Friday afternoon and a sentence of two years in the penitentiary assessed.

After the motion was overruled, notice of appeal was given and the defendant and his bondsmen entered into a recognizance bond of $2,500.

One of the chief reasons for MILK being so valuable a food is that it is so readily utilized in the body. More than 97 per cent of milk protein is digested and absorbed by the body. JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

'UNDER THE SEA'

Story by Hal Cochran Drawings by Leo Wright

Right down near the bottom of the sea Jack's faithful pet dog had come upon a school of dog fish. They seemed glad to see Pitt and he seemed glad to see them, and Jack looked on with interest while Pitt ran around in circles playing with several of the queer little fish.

Soon the dog fish started to fly high into the water and Pitt was left alone. Then Jack again turned the sea horse and was on his way again. They had traveled by a short distance when the sea horse again right into a big net. It all happened so suddenly that Jack, too, was caught.

At first the young adventurer was situated low, all about him were swimming fish, but he got out of the net. Jack knew that fishermen were above and would catch him if he got up and kill all the fish. He had to find some way to save them, he thought. (Continued)

TOUGH BREAKS AND FAILURE TO HIT LOSE ANOTHER ONE

Two Bad Hops on Ordinary Singles Account for all Three Buff Runs And Spudders Are Again Losers

By AL PARKER HOUSTON, July 21.—The versatile Spudders have discovered still another way in which to patently lose a ball game. It was thought that when on contest was dropped by a batter who was being purposefully pitched to safety, and then another when the winning run assembled in front of the plate and was out, that all hitless methods of losing 'em were used up. But a new one was discovered in the final inning at Houston. Two bad hops on ordinary singles made the hits good for extra bases and scored all of the three runs off Ole Carlson.

Carlson pitched another grand slam, the first of the kind in the history of the game, when he hit the batter with a long run, but the bad hops spoiled his dream. Carlson is pitching greater than ever, and he is out, and whether or not Mike Sexton knows his onions, he is proving to be worth all that his much talked about reputation is worth.

Despite the fact that he is working almost every day in the outfield or in the infield, Carlson is still a hot hitter, and with a break his way Friday he would have had a win. In the fourth inning after Stansbury had doubled to center, Schmidt hit one to right field that caromed sharply to the right and bounded into the bleachers for a home run and accounted for two of the Buffs' three runs. In the seventh Vick got on, on Carlson's only pass, and scored when Bill hit to left that landed straight for Beschler bounced centrally to the left and rolled for two bases, scoring the runner.

Aside from these defensive breaks, there was more than one of the advantage variety on the offense. Twice the hopefulls had the bases loaded with one out and could not get a hit. The toughest break of all came in the eighth when Schmidt, Tanner and Grigsby and Knight's wild throw to second put runners on third and second with one out and Berger up. Josephus rapped a line drive just inside first that Schmidt pulled down in one hand by a great leaping catch. The ball was headed for two sacks and would have seen in the sixth run. Knight then stepped Weiss purposely, filling the bases. Beschler sent up a ball and Schmidt, who batted for Hollis, took three healthy cuts.

In the first round Beschler was on when Knight hit him. Combs hit one solidly toward third. Vick took the line in his gloved hand and doubled Beschler to left. The bases were loaded with one out on a pass, a single and a muffed fly, but Tanner and Grigsby both failed to deliver.

It was all the Spudders could do to suppress over a run in the sixth after runner was on first and second with one out. Grigsby went off, and Berger's single put him on third. There he was when Grigsby scored on a pass and hit all 10 runners were left on base.

The Spudders have dropped some tough ones since they departed from Athletic Park eight days ago. They have been together longer than the one that spilled Friday. There has been a considerable long string of losses, there has not been a ball game lost because of a lack of hitting. The hopefulls are not getting out of it at all, and they make one of them say they are out of it and every game except the one that was lost last Sunday. The team has been a hard battle. The team is on its toes and is fighting harder than at any time this season.

Shipper sailed to St. Louis for the optional purchase of First Base. Manager Loefer from Vernon of the Texas League. The manager is scheduled to visit the club at Wichita Falls Monday.

Sport Sub Sidelights

Friday's was one of those kind from which you emerge with your nerves on edge, your disposition on a par with a caged bob cat and wishing that you would have spent that fifty cents for a checker board.

Schmidt's home run wasn't dropped kicked nor was it thrown over the fence by fans who happened to be sitting near where the ball struck. Both of these are known to have happened. A very convenient nigger hand peeped out of the ground proved to be a good cushion and the apple deflected and bounced over into the bleachers.

That was one of the "ifs" that caused Carlson to lose a game that he should have won. Another "if" was the fact that with runners on the bases, the Spudders' batsmen were unable to deliver. It was either that or Jack Knight had lots of stuff.

Dallas Locker, the new infielder recently acquired from the Pacific Coast League, is due to report to the Spudders at home Monday. It was announced by Skipper Staim that the new player will be given an opportunity to show his wares at the initial sack while Carter is hooked up with an attack of malaria.

Spalla is expected to reach this country August 11 when he will be signed for the bout, according to his manager. Meanwhile Johnson is at Atlantic City, where he has established training quarters.

Runyon Says--

Leonard-Tender bout will be a great fight and may go the limit, Floie Leonard to win.

By DAMON HUNTON Universal Service Staff Correspondent Copyright, 1923. NEW YORK, July 21.—Benny Leonard, of New York, lightweight champion of the world, defends his title Monday night against Lew Tender, of Philadelphia.

The fight will draw a huge crowd to the Yankee Stadium. The receipts will be enormous, perhaps well over a half million dollars.

It should be a great fight. The men are the best in their division, no doubt of that. They met once before in a brief fight that left the question of superiority in doubt.

The affair Monday night is scheduled for 16 rounds to a decision. The men are so evenly matched the writer will not be greatly surprised to see it go the entire 16 rounds with Leonard getting the decision.

Disregarding the usual blah-blah from the camps of the fighters, the talk of their "improvement," their "confidence," etc., etc., it seems to the writer that the "form" gives Leonard the shade.

It has been said that Leonard is in the condition of his career. This, of course, is not true. Tender is a great body puncher.

Body punches are very wearing to a veteran like Leonard. Tender whips his left hand into an opponent's middle with terrific force, and is very durable. He "takes" a punch well. His courage has never been doubted. His brain is not as active as Leonard's, but he is calmer than the champion for that very reason.

You may discount much that has been said of Leonard's nimble thinking in the ring. He has been credited with "outsmarting" Tender in the first fight by talking to Lew in a moment of distress—distress for the champion.

The writer has always been of the opinion that Leonard really lost his head, was jabbering through sheer pique. He was walking around with his hands down, unguarded. From his corner his seconds were bawling "get your hands up!"

If Leonard was thinking at that moment, surely he would have had some thought of self protection.

Leonard, like Dempsey and all other champions of long standing, is, perhaps, credited with physical and mental prowess which he does not possess.

Whenever he fights and fails to stop an opponent it is said he "carried" the opponent; that he could have knocked out the man any time he desired.

He recently boxed a young man named Alex Hart in Philadelphia, failing to stop him in eight rounds, and the "carry" thought was immediately put forward. Tender failed to stop the same young man in eight rounds when Hart was a mere novice.

If this is a knockout, the writer thinks Tender is more apt to score it than Leonard.

Tender is a great body puncher.

BOB McDONALD AND JIM BARNES TIED FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

By Universal Service. CANON BROOK COUNTRY CLUB, Summit, N. J., July 20.—Eob McDonald, of Chicago, and Jim Barnes, of Pelham, N. Y., professional, came to a tie this afternoon for the Metropolitan open golf championship. Both players closed the tournament with a total score of 158.

The Chicago veteran after shooting three steady rounds, playing the second in 42, blew up on the final eighteen, taking a 78. Barnes proceeding steadily, shot 73 for the final eighteen.

JACK JOHNSON TO FIGHT AGAIN ON AUGUST 30. NEWARK, N. J., July 21.—Jack Johnson, former heavyweight champion, and Emralde Spalla, European heavyweight champion, who is on his way to the United States, have been tentatively matched for a bout at Dreamland Park here August 30, according to Nick Kline, Spalla's manager.

Spalla is expected to reach this country August 11 when he will be signed for the bout, according to his manager. Meanwhile Johnson is at Atlantic City, where he has established training quarters.

JAMES PADDON STILL CHAMPION SCULLER. SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA, July 21.—James Paddon, of Australia, retained his title of world's champion sculler by defeating D. C. Hadfield of New Zealand today in ten lengths. Hadfield holds the world's professional title.

Annual Banquet Three Survivors Of Quaint Club. STILLWATER, MINN., July 21. (P)—Thirty-four places arranged about a long table which were 14 chairs, which were draped with black and white, their backs turned in a display of silver, sparkling glassware and polished silver flanking a decorative centerpiece upon low cullendered dining room of the Old Farmer House here today, the most important of the annual banquet of the "last man's club."

Three surviving members of this quaint organization, which is the anniversary of the battle of Bull Run, July 21, sat at that table today. The fourth member, Emile Draff, of St. Cloud, Florida, was unable to attend, he wrote his companions, because he must spend the rest of his short span of years in a wheel chair.

The unopened bottle of wine, a gift to the club in 1862, which will be drunk by the last survivor in a toast to his departed comrades of Company E, First Minnesota Infantry, was brought from the safety deposit vault of a local bank shortly before the three survivors arrived and graced the center of the banquet where it has rested during each banquet for the last 57 years.

John S. and the Minnesota soldiers home; Peter Hall, of Atwater, Minn., and Charles Lockwood, of Chamberlain, S. D., attended the banquet today. Last year there were five.

AIR CASTLES

NEA Service. July, one of the two latest months of the year, is a great time for air castles. Artist Batteredfield, in the accompanying pen-pictures, shows you a familiar scene. A farm boy lounges in the shade, on his back, gazing into the fleecy clouds, and daydreams.

The whole fictional world of romance, adventure and wealth—seems to him to be under his mastery. Power and pleasure are up there in the clouds. Imaginary, of course, but very real to the boy.

Getting down to cold hard facts, the most important part of the day-dreaming situation is that while the farm lad explores his castles in the air, his immediate job is reading—wait.

In a sense, this is allegorical. It portrays something characteristic of all of us, something that haunts us through life and periodically semi-chloroforms us into stagnation.

The farm lad, day-dreaming, has himself hypnotized. So have the rest of us, most of the time we day-dream.

It is all quite fine, to vision glorious castles in the air. Such is a necessary part of ambition. And, no doubt, our air castles inspire us to redoubled effort when we come out of our trance.

But many of us waste so much time day-dreaming that we have little time left for actual accomplishment.

We can dream so much of a better job that we neglect the present or immediate job—and thereby do our progress to the better job. While watching and envying the man above us on the next rung of the success ladder, let us not forget the new owner on the rung below us who is after the job we hold so dearly.

This is a hard material world—severely jolting to the person who day-dreams to excess. There is such a thing as too much ambition—too many "air castles."

WHEN MOTHER LOVE IS BLIND. J. Williams.

SPORT SUB SIDELIGHTS

Friday's was one of those kind from which you emerge with your nerves on edge, your disposition on a par with a caged bob cat and wishing that you would have spent that fifty cents for a checker board.

Schmidt's home run wasn't dropped kicked nor was it thrown over the fence by fans who happened to be sitting near where the ball struck. Both of these are known to have happened. A very convenient nigger hand peeped out of the ground proved to be a good cushion and the apple deflected and bounced over into the bleachers.

That was one of the "ifs" that caused Carlson to lose a game that he should have won. Another "if" was the fact that with runners on the bases, the Spudders' batsmen were unable to deliver. It was either that or Jack Knight had lots of stuff.

Dallas Locker, the new infielder recently acquired from the Pacific Coast League, is due to report to the Spudders at home Monday. It was announced by Skipper Staim that the new player will be given an opportunity to show his wares at the initial sack while Carter is hooked up with an attack of malaria.

Spalla is expected to reach this country August 11 when he will be signed for the bout, according to his manager. Meanwhile Johnson is at Atlantic City, where he has established training quarters.

STEERS 5, CRABS 4

GALVESTON, July 21.—Although outlit, the Steers took the rubber game of the series off the hands of the Crabs, relieving Morris in the second inning, through snappy fielding plays and errorless support.

Carlson pitched another grand slam, the first of the kind in the history of the game, when he hit the batter with a long run, but the bad hops spoiled his dream. Carlson is pitching greater than ever, and he is out, and whether or not Mike Sexton knows his onions, he is proving to be worth all that his much talked about reputation is worth.

Despite the fact that he is working almost every day in the outfield or in the infield, Carlson is still a hot hitter, and with a break his way Friday he would have had a win. In the fourth inning after Stansbury had doubled to center, Schmidt hit one to right field that caromed sharply to the right and bounded into the bleachers for a home run and accounted for two of the Buffs' three runs.

Aside from these defensive breaks, there was more than one of the advantage variety on the offense. Twice the hopefulls had the bases loaded with one out and could not get a hit. The toughest break of all came in the eighth when Schmidt, Tanner and Grigsby and Knight's wild throw to second put runners on third and second with one out and Berger up. Josephus rapped a line drive just inside first that Schmidt pulled down in one hand by a great leaping catch. The ball was headed for two sacks and would have seen in the sixth run. Knight then stepped Weiss purposely, filling the bases. Beschler sent up a ball and Schmidt, who batted for Hollis, took three healthy cuts.

In the first round Beschler was on when Knight hit him. Combs hit one solidly toward third. Vick took the line in his gloved hand and doubled Beschler to left. The bases were loaded with one out on a pass, a single and a muffed fly, but Tanner and Grigsby both failed to deliver.

It was all the Spudders could do to suppress over a run in the sixth after runner was on first and second with one out. Grigsby went off, and Berger's single put him on third. There he was when Grigsby scored on a pass and hit all 10 runners were left on base.

The Spudders have dropped some tough ones since they departed from Athletic Park eight days ago. They have been together longer than the one that spilled Friday. There has been a considerable long string of losses, there has not been a ball game lost because of a lack of hitting. The hopefulls are not getting out of it at all, and they make one of them say they are out of it and every game except the one that was lost last Sunday. The team has been a hard battle. The team is on its toes and is fighting harder than at any time this season.

Shipper sailed to St. Louis for the optional purchase of First Base. Manager Loefer from Vernon of the Texas League. The manager is scheduled to visit the club at Wichita Falls Monday.

EXPORTERS 6, CATS 5

BEAUMONT, July 21.—Beaumont took the odd game of the series from Fort Worth 6 to 5, after each team had gained a lead on two different occasions. Kraft's error followed by Kirkham's triple to left in the eighth settled the winning run.

Carlson pitched another grand slam, the first of the kind in the history of the game, when he hit the batter with a long run, but the bad hops spoiled his dream. Carlson is pitching greater than ever, and he is out, and whether or not Mike Sexton knows his onions, he is proving to be worth all that his much talked about reputation is worth.

PERSISTENT RUMOR SIR JAMES CRAIG PLANS TO RESIGN

BELFAST, July 19.—It is persistently rumored that Sir James Craig will resign as premier of Ulster, according to the Irish News, a nationalist newspaper.

The reports are based apparently on the absence of the premier from Belfast last week for the Orange demonstrations.

The Belfast News says that his name has been associated with the coming appointment to a colonial governorship. It is stated authoritatively that he was offered a colonial post in 1931 but refused because it accentuated his withdrawal from Irish politics during that critical period.

He ordered slings.

The deep-throated notes of the vessel's siren reverberated suddenly and at that moment, Chai-Hung emerged from the cabin, surveying the dead-end of the cigar he had laid aside. Both men rose, but the benign smile with which the oriental greeted them drove the intended apology from Pennington's lips.

"It's something to have worked up to your neck in," declared his sister, joining them.

She saved her hand to them until they were out of sight, but only a momentary response.

Within twenty yards of the gangway they overtook Chai-Hung.

"Go down with Mr. Pennington. You can't afford to stand on ceremony."

"I'm up to my neck in work," growled Hewitt protestingly.

"It's something to have worked up to your neck in," declared his sister, joining them.

"Do I understand Captain Hewitt, that you propose searching me?"

"I'm afraid so."

Chai-Hung's lips parted, but his broad features betrayed not the least sign of emotion. For a second his gaze traveled to Pennington, who stood with equal equanimity.

"I'm afraid you will both be disappointed."

"On the contrary," returned Pennington with studied politeness. "I feel sure that both the commissioner and myself would be infinitely gratified should it transpire that Lady Stornaway's diamonds have come into your possession."

Chai-Hung drew in a deep breath, folded in his umbrella, and handed it to a waiting coolie.

Hewitt moved impatiently.

"Bright as well as this unpleasant duty over," he suggested. "A cabin would be the handiest place, don't you think, Pennington?"

They crossed the gangway and passed into the first state-room that chanced to be unoccupied. Pennington closed the door.

"Can I offer you a drink, Mr. Chai-Hung?" asked the commissioner.

The oriental shook his head and, producing a cigar-case, quietly embroidered with a silver dragon, glanced inquiringly at Pennington.

"I have your permission to smoke," he said.

"Certainly," Hewitt hastened to assure him. "No, thanks. Not for me. If you don't mind, I'll have a cigar."

Pennington, seated on the edge of the berth, his hands tucked deep in his pockets, declined also. Chai-Hung lit up carefully, and passed the matches on to the commissioner.

Ten minutes later, both Englishmen emerged.

Hewitt dropped into a chair and, tilting back his sun-helmet, mopped a moist brow.

"How are you satisfied?" he demanded.

"Perfectly," declared Pennington enigmatically. "What if you say to me, 'How are you satisfied?'"

"If it weren't so confoundingly hot," said the commissioner, "I'd order a double brandy! As far as I can see, you've made a pretty mess out of the whole affair. I'd have put my shirt on Chai-Hung—and I was right. I can tell you—if you don't already know it—that our mutual acquaintance is mortally offended with the way you went over him."

"The Hut in the Clearing" the next episode of this gripping series, will start in Monday's issue.

Mrs. Robinson Tells How She Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Amarillo, Tex.—"My back was my greatest trouble. It would ache that it would almost kill me and I would have to crawl in the way about three years ago. I was then a lady friend of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's. I had had better health since, keep house and am able to do my work. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends as it has certainly given me great relief."—Mrs. C. B. Robinson, 608 N. Lincoln St., Amarillo, Texas.

The Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for women. It relieves the troubles which cause such symptoms as backache, painful menstruation, irregularity, tired and worn-out feelings and nervousness. This is shown again and again by such letters as Mrs. Robinson writes as well as one woman telling another. These women know what it did for them. It is surely worth your trial.

Housewives make a great mistake in allowing themselves to become ill that it is well-nigh impossible for them to attend to their necessary household duties.

How to Make a Trouble Lamp and Tin Can Scoops

What do you do with your tin cans? Did you ever stop to think that if you learned to use the soldering copper, or iron as it is usually called, you could make hundreds of toys and other useful articles?

The copper can be heated in any stove or on the gas range. A charcoal furnace can be made from a large sited tin can. Soldering pens or any other good flux, to be used in the place where you wish the solder to stick, is necessary. A can opener, a pair of tin snips, and a sharp knife (made by driving a long thin stick) are the important tools.

To solder properly, first file the point until it is bright. Then heat very hot and rub on a piece of sal ammoniac; at the same time applying the bar of solder to the point. Be sure to heat the parts to be soldered to the melting point of the solder by holding the copper on it before moving the copper on along the joint. When tinned correctly, the point of the copper is like a bright saw blade.

The scoops shown are made from brass and round tin cans. First scratch a pattern for the scoop on the can and then cut to line with the tin snips. The handles are made of wood, whittled in shape.

The trouble lamp is useful in any place lighted by electricity, as it can be easily focused wherever desired. For the handle bore a 1/4" hole for the pipe in a square piece of soft wood and then carve to shape. Drive the pipe into the handle. Fit a piece of lamp cord through the pipe and with it to a socket screwed to the end of the pipe, connecting a plug at the other end of the wire. Make a funnel of tin or buy a cheap one, hammering out the nose until it fits the socket, and solder in place.

This lamp may be used as a spotlight and for shadow pictures, if the inside of the funnel is painted with aluminum paint and a 100-watt lamp is used.
