TALK OF CONTEST FAILS TO DEVELOP SUPPORT.

Talk of a contest over the location of the Texas Sechnological College at Lubbook has failed to meet with the kind of a reception that would encourage any interests to attempt to push such a contest.

It is natural that many other communities should feel that a mistake was made by the locating board in its selection. Perhaps there were other cities that would have made a better location. Perhaps a mistake was made, but there can be no doubt but that the board exercised its best judgment and there is going to be no display of soreness in Lubbock's unsuccessful rivals. The unanimity with which the talk of a contest that originated somewhere, just where is not clear, has been deprecated shows this. And a further demonstration of the real spirit of West Texas is going to be shown at the celebration 13 50 that is soon to be held at Lubbook. In that celebration nearly every community in West Texas will be represented and all of West Texas will join in con-$3 % gratulating Lubbock on her success and in pledging support to the college that is to be founded there

TODAY'S TALK

THE PERFUME OF SERVICE

The flower is crushed. Its happy life among the birds, the babbling brooks, the swish of leaves, goesout from its natural home. But as the flower's essence is preserved and given back again to the air. It spreads an unending fragrance.

The summer sun is recalled. The smile of the bud hidden near to the ground is again quite evident. The flying hum of busy bees, and the watchful eye of some mother bird nestling over her young, are felt anew.

Scenes of contented sweetness blossom in the emory and beauty is all abound.

The perfume of service is like that. When you do for someone else, something infinitely finer re-

To cheer the heart of me. I know the men that I shall meet. I know the women, too, They're old but ever new;

Somewhere a new-born rose aglow

I've met them all upon the street, And it may be a child shall smile At me slong the way,

Or someone, e'er I've gone a mile. A cheerful word shall say,

Perhaps the sun shall light a tree With some new touch of flame-Although this path is old to me, It's never just the same; And I may meet a stranger there

Who'll ask the time of day, Or hear a band upon the air As zoldlers murch away. I know the buildings, one by one, The corners where they turn,

But always as I wander on There's something new to learn; And when I leave my door behind, Whate'er the day may be, There's always something new to find And something new to see. (Copyright 1928 by Edgar A (Suest)

RETROSPECT.

As I all before my sback, old and jaded, gray and bent, I am always looking back to the years unwisely spent; and I view my winding track, seeing things that I lament. Could I live my life again, all vain follies I'd eachew; and I would not swipe a hen or compound illicit brow; ah, the grief of ancient men when their sinful past they view! All the wrangles and the fights of my dark and stormy past, all the tricks on other wights, all the methods loose and fast, Here is a contrast of interests that pected as a biological matter. It strikingly emphasizes the wide gulf that separates the two sexes, as regards capacities for various kinds of enthusiasm. Of course, Broadway is not altogether typical of life is general. It is a center of diversion and the crowds found talking there at night are light-hearted and none too serious minded. Still, if a in our recree tional moments that our real selves—our suppressed desires—rise to the surface.

Nobody in our government seems to realize that war has moved up into the air, from the surface of earth and becan. France dictates to Europe and Europe sneers at England, not because she has 600 000 college under arons but has 600,000 soldiers under arms, but because she has the world's greatest fighting air fleet and could destroy within six hours of a declaration of war.

An army of a million would be worthless against ten thousand fly-ing mes with the right machines. Automobile makers ought also study the problem of cheap garage space in big cities. GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Table as the first time since has been in our favor. America is growing as a commercial nation. Our commerce with the world has grown in the last two years more than a billion dollars. While political complications abread have retarded world commerce, even in foreign countries business is batter than two years ago. To America this means a stronger backing for its foreign investments.

Stock market observers look for higher security values. Brokerage loans are at the lowest point in months. The belief prevails that good dividend paying stocks are at attractive levels. The support which has entered the market the last week denotes confidence on the part of those making security grices. It canceded that building costs are high and the foreign situation still muddled, but business in this country continues good. With prespects of a spuri in the fall, a recovery in commedity prices, record ralirend freight and wide margin of market and

It can't be done

M YSTERIOUSLY guided by the behavior of a willow wand, sometimes a "dowser"—the water wizard tells where to dig a well which really yields water. Then much ado is made over the feat. But who ever hears similar noise about the dry holes, dug when the dowser flivvered?

The Dowser Who Flivvered!

Now and then, possibly, it just happens that people buy wisely without heed to advertisements. But the chances are against any one having such luck!

It does not "just happen" that advertised values are invariably genuine buying opportunities. They must be, because they are openly offered to every one who reads about them.

Advertised value must be true value. Else it could not keep on being advertised to a public so keen and critical as this public of ours.

Your Own Business

Many people have an ambition to own a business of their own. There's a way to get in touch with business chances -to find out what businesses are for sale and what establishments are seeking persons who are prepared to take financial interest and to devote all or part of their time to a business undertaking. Consult the Times business opportunity ads to get in touch with business chances. Many business deals are consummated every day as a direct result of The Times classified ads. Many who have established businesses and who wish to increase their scope through the securing of added capital and many who wish to embark upon new business ventures find that the Times Business Opportunity ads produce the ideal means of securing business associates and investors.
