

Millions Are Made in Bermuda And New York in Liquor Traffic $157,204.80 Tax to the Bermudas

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Sept. 12. (AP)—Americans who buy liquor from bootleggers, contributed, indirectly, $157,204.80 to the government of Bermuda in the form of an export tax of $1.50 on each case shipped from this island between April 1932 and September 1, last.

During this period rum runners have taken out of Bermuda more than 40,000 cases of rum and 40 barrels of liquor, all of which has found a market in New York and vicinity.

There is a total of more than 10,000 bottles which at an average retail price of $1.50 a bottle would mean a return of $1,500,000 on exports that were brought here for about $1,000,000.

Most of this business has been carried on by a New York man who so far has been successful in landing all his shipments.

The purchase price of this man's cargoes amount to $142,516. The $157,204.80 cases of $21,943 bottles which if retailed at $9 each, brought him a return of $3,000,000. His schooner carries a crew of nine men and has made 11 trips.

In addition to this dealer, two others with headquarters in New York are in the Bermuda trade, one of whom has made four trips and the other three. Nine other vessels have left Bermuda in the United States. These have come to grief, falling into the hands of American revenue cutters; the other six have returned.

During the past few weeks fewer cargoes destined for the American market have left Hamilton. This, it is said, has been due to the fact that large steamers going direct from England and Scotland to New York are able to underbid those engaged in trading on a smaller scale out of Bermuda.

MILLIONAIRES ARE MADE ON ISLAND OF NASSAU

Universal Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, Sept. 12. (AP)—Bootlegging, smuggling alcoholic liquor into the United States, and supplying the smugglers with intoxicants from Europe in the mercenary, most risky, and most scandalous business in the world today.

This is the opening charge in a sensational expose written by E. Dewing Wiggley, special correspondent of the London Daily News, who has just returned from an investigation of rum smuggling into America from Nassau and other islands of the Bahamas to Miami, the Jersey coast and New York where "a powerful wealthy money-lender ring exists, making fortunes over night."

In his first installment today Wiggley tells of launching the first day at Nassau, on New Providence Island, with a man who had made a million in rum running and whose brother had been sent up for five years for bootlegging in the United States, but who was expected soon to be freed. He adds:

"Nassau is an island of millionaires who have rapidly made huge fortunes out of handling and smuggling liquor from some of the craziest saloons which line Bay street."

"Who is at the back of all this, was the question I asked, but each dealer and his business associates make a separate mystery, and it is deadly dangerous to probe other people's business on New Providence Island."

"One man told me that the big English distilleries have signed over here who are directing this lawless traffic."

"Gun Key, a small, forlorn rocky islet, even now is a place of great importance to bootleggers. From there they are continually running liquor to Florida—far stretching and ridiculously unguarded coast."

"As for Nassau itself it is estimated that more than $10,000,000 worth of whiskey is stored now in the city of old shacks along Bay street. The stuff pours in daily as fast as it pours out. The daily bank balances of smugglers grow and grow."

"The sea route from Nassau harbor to Atlantic highlands on the Jersey coast is known as the 'great whiskey way'. Up and down this ocean path of a thousand miles, small schooners ride deep with cargoes of British liquor. Everyone is rich in Nassau. No one values money."

Wiggley winds up his narrative by telling how rum running has made

EXPECT GREAT THINGS
in the NEW CADILLAC

Even the superb quality which you have long associated with the name Cadillac is no adequate measure of the merits of the New V-63.

The simple truth is that Cadillac has advanced its own standards and achieved, in this car, heights of quality which are strictly new.

Your attention is directed, particularly, to these three elements:—

The New Cadillac V-Type 90°, 8-cylinder engine—harmonized and balanced by entirely new principles of design to a degree of smoothness unapproached in automotive manufacture.

New Body Styles—destined by their graceful, symmetrical design, distinctive finish and exquisite appointments, to be the center of admiration in any company.

Cadillac 4 Wheel Brakes—a safety factor developed with the care and thoroughness characteristic of Cadillac engineering.

New delights await you also in enhanced dependability, ease of control, riding restfulness and, indeed, in every phase of car performance.

It is entirely logical that Cadillac, pioneer leader of eight-cylinder manufacture in America, should now raise multi-cylinder practice to an even higher pitch of excellence.

This is exactly what has happened in the New V-63, and Cadillac urges you to approach this fine car with great expectations.

MORE ABOUT SCHOOL PROBLEMS... Taking reports from a number of Texas cities...

Have we been putting enough money in the country school houses... city ward schools and high schools?

It is extremely unfortunate for the state as a whole that such a policy has become so firmly fixed that to break away from it seems an impossibility.

We can agree with the Herald that the state is establishing too many institutions of higher learning, diverting too much of the educational funds of the state for that purpose.

But after all, common school education is making great advances in Texas. As a whole, we've got better school buildings, better equipment, better teachers, longer terms and more children attending school than ever before.

It is the observation of this paper that the schools are better than ever before, that more children are attending school, that there is greater public interest in education and that advancement is being made.

SCHOOLS BEGIN REGULAR WORK HERE WEDNESDAY

School work was down to a business proposition in the city public schools Wednesday when the students in the twelve grades began serious work for the first time since the dismissal of the summer vacation in the spring. The organization process in the school over the past week of study and reciting lessons was more or less in progress.

In spite of the extremely crowded conditions at the high school, the organization of the school was carried out remarkably well. With some 500 high school students and fully 175 students in the Wichita Falls junior college, the regular school work week periods were carried out in full Wednesday, with not a hitch anywhere.

In the lower school pupils were held the full day Tuesday. However, in the high schools and in the junior college, the regular school work and the students were only required to report at the various buildings Tuesday long enough to receive their program for the week. At the junior college and high school morning sessions were held at the high school building, the school day will be composed of nine forty-five minute periods beginning at 8:45 o'clock in the morning and ending at the usual time at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

The schedule of the high school day here was composed of only eight periods. The change has been made to allow more students to study and recite classes during the day.

The detailed enrollment of the various schools in the city, with the exception of the high school and junior college, and George Washington (negro) school, and the Mexican school, for several weeks are as follows: Austin, 259; Fanning, 148; Barwise, 151; Sam Houston, 187; Travis, 155; Adams, 202; Carrigan, 245; Clark, 19; and junior high school, 286.

Two Men Claiming to Be From Wichita Falls Held By Police in Fort Worth For Safe Robbery At Corsicana

Two men who held they were from Wichita Falls Wednesday morning after officers had chased them by automobile from Corsicana, where it is said they robbed the safe of the Coca-Cola Bottling works. They are said to have had a portion of the loot taken from the safe in their possession at the time of their arrest. They were detained in the Fort Worth city jail and will be returned to Corsicana Wednesday afternoon. Local officers are of the opinion that there is possibly some connection between the two gangs that have been arrested. An effort will be made to link the arrests of the four men, and if possible to connect the Tulsa and Corsicana robberies with the recent safe robbery in this city.

A starting rabbit came out gritting his teeth and jumped on a police dog. The gnis opened their store rooms for the winter and fell to eating with what they had spent all summer in laying up. A rattler rattled out with a bored look right behind him who chased him off in the brush. But when an owl came strutting out of a rabbit burrow saying, "who, who, hic, who, who," the dry agents left.

U. S. Department of Agriculture Reviews Crop Conditions in South

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The weekly weather and crop review issued today by the department of agriculture reviewed crop conditions for the past week in the south as follows:

The temperatures for the week averaged near normal in the cotton belt, 55.9°; that in the eastern part of the belt, 57.3°; and in the more easterly portions, 55.7°. There were frequent showers in the south central and western parts of the belt, but there was much less rain in the southeast where it had been persistently wet. Sunshine was deficient from the lower Mississippi valley westward, but was generally adequate to the eastward.

Further rains occurred in Texas with deficient sunshine. Cotton made fair progress in the northern and western portions of the state, but deteriorated elsewhere, and frequent rains have lowered the grade in the south central and south portions with complaints of boll rotting. Most fair weather prevailed in Oklahoma, where cotton made fairly good advance with some top crop movement in most sections. The general condition of the crop continues rather poor. Too much rain-damaged cotton in eastern Arkansas, but light to moderate showers in other portions of the state were beneficial, though weevil and other pests were still damaging.

There was too much rain in Louisiana where cotton showed further deterioration with seeds sprouting and grade lowering. Deterioration was reported because of the spongy damage by weevil worms, rust and shuffling in. Much of the week was unfavorable in Tennessee and scattered showers occurred on most days of the week in Alabama where cotton made only poor progress.

The drier, sunnier weather was favorable in Georgia, but general deterioration was reported because of the spongy damage by weevil worms, rust and shuffling in. Much of the week was unfavorable in Tennessee and scattered showers occurred on most days of the week in Alabama where cotton made only poor progress.

The general condition of the crop varies greatly with weevil damage in the east and southeast.

The harvest of rice was delayed by rain in Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana, with complaints of sprouting in shock in the last named state.

The Rev. Mr. Miller, who with 65 other missionaries is trying to stamp out polygamy among the natives, said he had learned that the chief, who is a venerable evangelist, had decided to keep 50 wives and to send his throne and the other 50 women of the harem to PORT SMITH, Ark., Sept. 12.—Roy Goode, sentenced to six months imprisonment in the Potosi, Okla., jail on a charge of wife abandonment, still was being held today, notwithstanding a pardon granted by Governor Walton Saturday and will be held for retrial next January unless he furnishes bail, according to advices received from Potosi today.

Release of Goode under the governor's pardon was prevented by notification by James A. Babcock, county attorney, that he would file new charge based on a recently enacted law making wife abandonment a felony. At the time Goode was tried and convicted the offense was classed a misdemeanor.

The Corn Crop.
There is a fair yield of corn in this section of the country this year, the best crops probably averaging about 40 bushels per acre. A few of the crops will fall far below this average. The variance in the yield is due in part to the fact that local showers brought more moisture to some sections. The price is $1.45 per bushel, but not much corn is being sold here now.

Demanded for Cotton Pickers.
Although there are now many cotton pickers in this part of the country there is still a demand for more, owing to the fact that cotton is opening rapidly. Some of the farmers are talking of offering a little higher price as an inducement to pickers, but as long as the weather remains nice cotton will not damage in the fields and the price paid for picking will probably not be raised much above $1.00 to $1.15 per hundred pounds.

Lead Insurance in Value.
Some of the farmers around Charlie have lately been offered $200 per acre for their improved farms within the past few years land here has increased in valuation from $100 to $100 per acre. Twenty years ago it could be bought for from 15 to 25 per acre.

Snow Flurry At Duluth, Earliest Fall Since 1871

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 12.—A brief snow flurry visited Duluth at 11:45 a. m. today. The temperature at the time, according to the local United States weather bureau station, was 45 degrees above zero. It was the earliest trace of snow recorded in Duluth in the history of the local weather bureau, which dates back to 1871.

Snow flurries today gave the Mesabi range, Minnesota, an early taste of winter when snow fell for more than an hour and the temperature dropped to the lowest point point for September in 75 years.

SCOUT COUNCIL DECIDES TO APPOINT EXECUTIVE AS SOON AS POSSIBLE

As soon as a suitable man can be secured, a section of the local Boy Scout work, it was decided at the first full meeting of the executive board Tuesday night. Standing resignation of Chester Powell early in the summer, the local organization of Boy Scouts of America had been without a permanent executive. Robrey Price, deputy regional executive of Texas with offices at Houston, spoke to the members of the board on the conditions of scouting in the city, stating that the local organization could easily support itself if other troops. Mr. Price also submitted a plan for a scout district, including several of the neighboring counties. This would necessitate two executives, one for the city, and one to travel around among the other scouting cities in the district.

H. H. Allred was elected as a member of the scout commissioners board.

Is "Jazz" Due to Unseen Electrical Forces?

Noted Scientist Thinks Increase in "Nerves" and Other Mental Ailments of City Folks May Be Due to Intense Electrification of Our Modern Life in Wire-Webbed Cities

A "dead" coil of wire—that is, one not charged with electricity—is placed near one carrying current and it begins at once to absorb "juice." Scientists now maintain that a human being standing near a dynamo or within a field of electrical activity is charged in the same way.

Pointing out that our city conduits are veritable copper mines with their many strands of cables carrying electric current, Dr. Charles Nordmann says we are constantly moving through fields of intense magnetic force. The human body is a fairly good conductor and when we move through a magnetic field electric currents sweep through our bodies—hence the "jazz" and nervous disorders

IT IS possible that the atmosphere in which modern mankind lives, works, loves and dies is so impregnated with electricity of artificial make that we are saturated with magnetism?

Not personal magnetism, as the character analyst styles it, but the magnetism that comes from living in close contact with automobiles, trolley cars, electric light and power wires—the web of wires that is spun over every large city.

Is jazz to be accounted for by the electric currents in the air? Are folks dying of heart disease because of the strain put upon that organ by the supercharged mechanical life of our gay white ways? Are city folks more prone to suffer attacks of nerves than their country cousins because of these conditions? Questions of this kind are put forward by science hard on the heels of a noted scientist's conclusions that people are breaking down in health and spirit because of unseen electric forces enveloping modern life.

It is pointed out by science that there are many deadly forces in this world that do not present themselves to our senses.

Human flesh can be frightfully burned by X-rays, yet they are invisible. Gases are known that will strike a man dead without his olfactory organs giving him the least inkling of their presence.

We can also be closed up in a perfectly dark room and at the same time become "sunburned" to an uncomfortable and even dangerous degree. Indeed, it would seem that the most marvelous things of the universe are invisible.

Man goes as far as his senses will allow in detecting and measuring these invisible forces, and then he invents instruments that replace the senses in measuring with unerring accuracy the most insignificant causes and effects. The simple photographic plate, for instance, is a most effective way of registering the intensity of both X-rays and ultra-violet light. Radio waves would never be detected by anything in the human system, yet their effect is easily measured by the sensitive meters in the hands of the radio engineer.

Dr. Charles Nordmann, a well-known scientific writer of France, declares that one of his friends who had just returned to Paris from New York was broken in health and spirit, due to the constant exposure of his body to the unseen electrical forces that are ever present in this large city. Dr. Nordmann did not reveal the name of his collaborator, nor did he go so far as to say that all of the inhabitants of New York are ill or mentally unbalanced as a result of the partial electrocution to which they are forced to submit themselves every day.

It is Dr. Nordmann's contention, as well as that of his scientific friend, that the intense electrification of modern cities is without doubt affecting the nerves, well-being and mental faculties of city dwellers. He contends that even though there is no direct electrical contact between the people and the currents, there is a danger in the effect of induced forces in all neighboring objects.

This latter statement of Dr. Nordmann's is neither fanciful nor inaccurate, and it is not at all impossible that these "induced" electrical currents should affect physiological and mental disorders. Every amateur electrician can prove that Dr. Nordmann's statements are true and accurate by the most homely experiment—an experiment that Michael Faraday performed years ago, and incidentally one of the experiments that made him famous.

WE ARE still familiar with the effect produced by the toy horseshoe magnet. It is able to attract and pull to it small pieces of iron or steel; there is a mysterious invisible force which brings this about. This force has been called magnetism. It is invisible, but we can form a mental picture of it by assuming that it is present in the form of invisible lines spreading out from the ends of the poles of the magnet.

These invisible lines have been called magnetic lines of force. Faraday found that when he moved an electrical conductor, like a piece of copper or steel or iron, through these invisible lines of force, he was able to "induce" a current in the conductor. The discovery of this simple fact led to the development of all the great electrical generators that we have today. The rotating member, or armature, simply revolves in the magnetic field of a huge magnet.

The human body is a fairly good conductor of electricity, and when we move through a magnetic field there is not a reason in the world why electric currents should not be set up within our system. It is these electric currents that Dr. Nordmann claims are causing so much trouble.

There is another curious electrical phenomenon which would seem to further substantiate the contentions of Dr. Nordmann. As Faraday got farther into his work in the study of electrical phenomena, he found that any wire or conductor carrying an electric current set up a magnetic field about the wire, and that this magnetic field had the same properties as that exhibited by an ordinary horseshoe magnet.

Faraday also proved that the more powerful the current the greater the magnetic field, and further investigation showed that this field spread out from the electric wire in great concentric circles, the force diminishing as the distance from the wire was increased.

It has been said that New York City is the richest copper mine in the world. Hundreds of thousands of tons of copper wires of all sorts are buried beneath its pavements, and these wires carry several million horsepower of electrical currents to drive its subways, its elevated trains; to light its signs, buildings, etc. If we had eyes that could see these magnetic lines of force we would have spread before us a strange sight. Bursting up through the pavement at every point—because non-magnetic materials conduct waves perfectly—great streams of this vital force, magnetism, would be seen.

Moving through this invisible force we would see human beings, and if we could touch an ultra-sensitive current measuring device to their bodies we could determine the exact amount of the current being generated in the human system.

That every wire carrying electric current has a magnetic field about it can also be proved by a very simple experiment. It is only necessary to connect a battery to a coil of wire, so that the current from the battery will pass through the coil. To another coil, which is entirely separated from the first one, we attach a sensitive current measuring instrument. When the second coil is moved in the neighborhood of the first coil so that it will cut through the mysterious lines of force, a current will be generated in the second coil.

Thus it will be seen that this theory of Dr. Nordmann's is not in the least unreasonable, nor is it without scientific foundation of the most substantial nature. Magnetism is a real and omnipresent force, and the effect it produces is by no means a matter of speculation.

IS IT possible that these ever-present currents that must be generated in the bodies of active citizens are responsible for the nervous conditions suffered by many city dwellers? According to Dr. Nordmann, this is indeed possible. He asserts that it is the variation of the intensity of such induced current that brings about the ill effects.

Those who come in daily contact with these magnetic currents are apt to suffer arterial tension, an ailment common to nervous inclined individuals.

According to Dr. Nordmann, our city streets are filled with a great and dangerous force through which we must walk from day to day, unconscious of its presence and unaware of the nerve-racking currents that tingle through our tissues. Every physician will admit that the city dweller is a much more nervous individual than the country dweller, and he will also admit that nervous disorders among city dwellers are multiplying rapidly. In fact, it would seem that many human ills are traceable to nervousness.

No More Hard Work by 2023!

DR. CHARLES P. STEINMETZ, the electrical expert, believes that the time is coming when there will be no long drudgery and that people will toil not more than four hours a day, owing to the work of electricity.

He anticipates an amazing transformation in life in 2023. Every city will be a "spotless town." That is to be the work of electricity, also. Mr. Steinmetz says:

"If the United States went into the project of linking up a means of communication with Mars with the same intensity and thoroughness with which we entered and prosecuted the war, it is not at all impossible that the plan would succeed. It would be a long process, no doubt, of counting, measuring and carefully recording the messages we received, concluding possibly in the discovery one day of a key with which to decipher such manifestations as Senator Marconi has recorded and which, as has been suggested, might conceivably be indications of intelligence on Mars seeking communication with the intelligence of this planet.

"Co-operative human effort will be the solution of most of the difficulties besetting mankind. Wars will continue until we have learned their lesson in its final aspect."

The city dweller almost, if not quite, every hour of the day and night is within the field of electrical activity, and it is believed that the "nerves" from which some of us suffer are directly due to these unseen currents of power that flow all about us

Lewis Metal Works Employ Men of Experience; Modern Machinery Handle Junior College Contract

Work on the new Junior High school is going along at a rapid pace. Though the job, set for the building was not to be completed until a number of local firms are doing sub-contract work. The sheet metal work on end in the building is being handled by Lewis Metal Works, Inc. It is amazing to know that there have already been 40,000 pounds of pure iron, copper and lead used in this kind of work in the building. The Lewis Sheet Metal Works, located at 209 Indiana avenue, under the management of J. M. Lewis, has this contract. It is not noted that a bid of a firm as young as the Lewis Sheet Metal Works has been accepted, but it seems that Mr. Lewis' recommendation was sufficient to satisfy the building contractor and assure them of a sturdy work.

Mr. Lewis has had 17 years of experience in sheet metal work, being for a number of years employed as foreman by the firm of Henry C. Smith & Company, of Minneapolis, Minn., during which time he also travelled as an estimator. He has held responsible positions with the government in this capacity. The class of work this firm does requires skilled workmen. M. S. Ellis, foreman, has had 20 years of experience in this line and other men employed have service records of good repute. Three full sets of machinery to handle work within a radius of 100 miles to 200 miles in Wichita. One of these individual shops is located at the Junior High school. The company has just completed work on several other city's West residences, as well as a handsome home in Iowa Park.

MOTHERS--

Here is a lesson you should take to heart. If your children don't like to DRINK milk make them EAT milk, by supplying it through the different cooked dishes. Surely you want YOUR children to grow up sturdy and healthy. Give them the vitamins that they must have. They are entitled to a heritage of health and rugged childhood.

BEST GRAVEL ROADS, ALL TEAM WORK BY J. B. WARREN

Are you building a residence, a place of business or just doing repair work or making improvements on what you already have? No matter what the job may be, the most important consideration is a workman to be chosen who is reliable and who has a reputation of such character that you know the work will be done carefully and properly. Such a man is J. B. Warren, who for nine years has done all kinds of work in the city, including, basement digging and building of gravel roads, drives and walks. Mr. Warren is located at 191 North Burnett street and is well known to local contractors, as well as many residents for whom he has done work on yards and homes. Mr. Warren has to his credit the gravel roads running throughout the grounds of the Northwest Texas Institute, which were built with the famous St. Joe, Texas, gravel. He has also just completed drives for Harry Weeks and Charles J. Francis in Morningstar Park, as well as a number of smaller contracts. Other yard work such as terracing and grading is also done by Mr. Warren. He has done most of basement digging for business buildings in this city, with the exception of the two or three larger ones which have been handled with machinery. Among the local building contractors for whom Mr. Warren always does work is Taylor Brothers, one of the best known building companies in the city, whose work he has handled for eight years.
