Balloting in Progress in Nearly All Counties of State Is Report; No Interference by the Governon

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 2.—Oklahoma's special state election, at which will be decided the question of whether the state legislature shall meet to consider impeachment charges against Governor J. C. Walton, swung into full movement early today with reports indicating that polls were open throughout the state with the exception of four full counties and a part of a fifth.

OKLAHOMA BULLETINS

Depot on Duty. BLACKWELL.—The polls in Blackwell and throughout Kay county opened at 8 a. m. and voting began in the depot stations at each polling place. Quiet prevailed.

Two Counties in Line. OKLAHOMA CITY.—The polls are open and ballots are being cast in the special election in two counties—Nowata and Murray—where it was believed no voters would be permitted today, according to telephone reports to the Oklahoma City Times. Reports late last night indicated that county officers would prevent the opening of the polls in those counties.

Some Headed Depot. MUSKOGEE, Okla.—The polls opened in Muskogee county with approximately 700 deputies on guard. The early balloting was brisk and without incident.

Voting in Same Old Way. OKMULGEE.—Citizens went to the polls in Okmulgee county as they have been doing for a quarter of a century. The entire 48 voting precincts in Okmulgee county were open at 8 o'clock.

Polls Open on Time. MCLESTER, Okla.—All polls in McAlester and Pittsburg county opened on time this morning and at many places persons were in line waiting for the officials to hand out ballots. Sheriff Walter Anderson, against whom restraining orders were issued Monday after he had closed the election board offices, this morning announced that the strict order will be maintained and no persons attempting to interfere with the election will be arrested.

Results at Coal Gate. MUSKOGEE, Okla., Oct. 2.—A special dispatch to the Muskogee Times from Coal Gate, Okla., gives the following unofficial count on the initiative proposal for convening the legislature up to 11 o'clock. Obtain Warrant at Grove. MUSKOGEE, Okla., Oct. 2.—County Attorney William Green and Sheriff Walter Anderson applied for a writ of mandamus to compel Arch Morris, secretary for the county, to forward to the district court a list of names of voters in the election and to certify the returns. This action was taken. It was explained that the action was taken to prevent balloting or certification of returns.

Aldrich Blake Returns. OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 2.—Aldrich Blake, executive counsel for the state, returned from Oklahoma since the inception of state wide martial law, returned today. He declined to reveal where he had been or to comment on the events that have transpired in the state since his departure. "All I have to say," he declared, "is that every where I have been I have seen nothing but commendation for the action of the government. My only regret is that I have missed a minute of this fight. I am voting squarely behind the government."

Voting in Bryan County. DURANT, Okla., Oct. 2.—Voting in Bryan county, held up when Sheriff John Conn seized all election boxes and ballots, was in brisk progress this afternoon. Federal Judge R. L. Williams, refused an opportunity to vote, organized an attempt to force the election machine throughout the county and citizens were soon casting ballots, many of which they wrote out themselves and deposited in the ballot box. Judge Williams, who is a former governor of the state, cast the first vote in the county. No effort is being made to stop the operation of the improvised election machinery.

Double – faced Red Seal Records

For those who appreciate the utility and economy of the double-faced record, the Victor Company now for the first time offers Red Seal Records in that form.

We have delayed this change because of the difficulty of making satisfactory combinations of selections and as it is clearly impossible to meet everyone's ideas in this respect, the list of single-sided Red Seal Records will be continued.

A separate Red Seal Catalog has been issued, containing new list prices for both Double and Single, a portrait of each artist, with a complete biographical sketch.

This new Red Seal Catalog is worth having. Please call on your dealer, or write to us and receive a copy. Also, hear new Victor Records on these new Victrola models. They are a marked advance in talking machine art.

Curing Human Ills With Rainbow Tints

Medical Properties of Colors

In the following table are shown the medicinal properties which it is asserted colors possess, and some of the maladies for which they are prescribed:

| Color | Symbol | Effect | Remedy for |
|-----------|--------------|------------|----------------|
| Red | Anger | Stimulant | Anemia |
| Orange | Jealousy | Stimulant | Low vitality |
| Yellow | Mentality | Nervine | Nerves |
| Lemon | Pride | Nutrient | Exhaustion |
| Green | Humility | Germicide | Poisons |
| Turquoise | Dignity | Germicide | Skin diseases |
| Blue | Intuition | Sedative | Burns |
| Indigo | Benevolence | Narcotic | Spasms |
| Violet | Spirituality | Depressant | Fevers |
| Purple | Veneration | Depressant | Blood pressure |
| Magenta | Love | Emotional | Heart |
| Scarlet | Lust | Emotional | Senility |

In determining what color shall be used the practitioner has recourse to a chart like the one shown above

How Medical Science Is Combating the Dread
Destroyer
Death With Colored
Light Rays

THE relation of light to health has engaged attention since long before the Biblical philosopher wrote: "Truly the light is sweet, and a pleasant thing it is for the eyes to behold the sun."

From the days when our first forefathers noted the difference in a plant set in shadow from the same plant set in sunshine, knowledge of the virtue of light has progressed, until now it is generally conceded by science that light is as important an element of life as food.

In medicine light has been used from earliest times; the therapeutic application of sunlight is a mode of treatment handed down through generations. Sunlight came into use as a general tonic, and as a special tonic to the skin, while as a disinfectant its powers are systematically applied.

And now comes Dr. Dinah P. Ghadiali, widely known scientist, and presents to the world the crowning achievement of his thirty years' research—spectro-chrome therapy, formerly called the attuned color wave therapy, a system of diagnosis and treatment of diseases and derangements brought to an almost unbelievable perfection.

In the course of experiment, Dr. Ghadiali evolved a theory that all drugs and chemicals act in the human system through disengagement of color waves; that every element known exhibits a preponderance of one or more of the colors of the spectrum, and that the potency of an element depends on the potency of its color waves.

As the sun, the source of all life and energy, imparts life to the world by waves of light (which light is white and is composed of seven colors—red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo and violet), it is plain, argues the doctor, that ultimately our bodies are also built of these elements—colors.

In health, the bodily elements (colors) are proportionately balanced. In illness, this balance is disturbed. Supplying the colors that are lacking, or reducing the supernormal ones, restores the perfect balance—or health. This is the rational system employed in spectro-chrome therapy.

One of its strongest advocates is Dr. Kate Baldwin, of Philadelphia, whose apparatus for treating disease with colored rays has attracted wide attention.

EXPLAINING how colors operate in restoring health, Dr. Baldwin took one of her recent cases, that of a child so severely burned in a bonfire that when she was laid on her hospital cot the attendants had to rest her on her face and one hip.

"Red," explained the doctor, "is fire color and contains a great proportion of

A ray of light of the proper color—that is, the shade prescribed for a particular malady—is directed on diseased part hydrogen. In order to counteract red, we apply blue, which has a large proportion of oxygen. By the use of spectro-chrome, this child was relieved of the frightful pain usually attending burn cases and has made remarkable progress."

Every drug or chemical, when analyzed, will tune up in its proper color in the spectro-chrome, say proponents of the school; there is never an instance where a color does not tune up always in the same place, so there is never any doubt as to what color should be applied to achieve the same (or better) result as would be attained if the patient were given the drug.

A man suffering from malarial fever might, for instance, take quinine. The blue wave, of which quinine is composed, would therefore be used by Dr. Baldwin in driving out the fever and curing the patient.

In Dr. Ghadiali's theory, red represents anger; yellow, mentality; green, humility; blue, intuition; violet, spirituality; magenta, love; lemon, pride; orange, jealousy; turquoise, dignity; indigo, benevolence; purple, veneration; scarlet, lust.

THE attuned color wave system presents all the seven colors of white light from the lowest, red, to the highest, violet, and also five other colors not contained in the solar spectrum—two upper colors (lemon and turquoise) and three lower colors (scarlet, purple and magenta)—completing the tuning of the system just like a musical instrument into seven major and five minor keys.

The therapeutic properties of the colors are given as follows: Red and orange are stimulants; yellow and lemon are nervines or nutrients; green and turquoise are the germicides; blue and indigo are sedatives and narcotics; violet and purple are depressants; and magenta and scarlet are the emotionals.

In treating a case, Dr. Baldwin made it clear that careful study of the patient and his malady shows to the experienced spectro-chrome operator just what color or colors are lacking or excessive, and relief is then applied.

The spectro-chrome is used to equalize circulation, to lower high blood pressure or to raise low blood pressure. Indigo may be used in place of morphine. Turquoise is a remarkable skin builder. Magenta, the color obtained by combining

Probably the sun was the first deity before whom mankind bowed—as the source of energy. Kinship between the sun and fire brought the latter into the category of heathen gods, and in some countries the worship of the sun and fire seems to have run parallel. In the worship of Baal, adoration for both sun and fire is to a degree united, resulting in the most licentious and magnificent of all pagan religions red and violet, the highest and lowest colors, is used for nervous people and for irritable hearts. Heart lesions have been cured by the use of this "emotional" color.

THE apparatus used, in small machines, has the appearance of a camera or an old-fashioned "magic lantern" in which five slides are inserted, combinations of which form the twelve necessary colors of the spectro-chrome. This small machine has a shutter which may be operated to increase or decrease the opening, and it may be used on ordinary house current. The larger, more complicated machine has a thousand-watt electric lamp and five or six lenses, one of which collects the rays so that they may be concentrated on the desired object. This machine can be manipulated up or down, turned easily, slanted in the direction desired, its light-opening widened or closed as the operator may wish either to flush the whole body with light or to concentrate on a felon on a patient's finger.

The lamps used in the machines throw a light as near white as it is possible to get in order that no yellow may tint the slides.

The concentrated rays of the large machines are used in the treatment of cancer. Smaller machines are frequently installed in the home of the patient being treated in order that daily applications of life-giving light of the required color may be made.

A basic theory of the new therapeutics is that the radio-emitting forces of the body, radiating as they do from a foot to eighteen inches, are the agents that pick up the colors as they are applied.

Dr. Baldwin mentioned the cure of a case of biceps which had lasted without intermission for ten days before the wife of the victim heard of the work performed by the spectro-chrome device and called in Dr. Baldwin.

Carbuncles large and small, says Dr. Baldwin, yield to the spectro-chrome without the need of incision, and the beauty of the new treatment is that it is entirely free from pain. Flooding the carbuncle with indigo averts the usual agony accompanying this growth.

Dr. Kate Baldwin is one of the advocates of the use of light rays for the cure of disease, and her apparatus for treating diseases with colored rays has attracted wide attention

Neuritis, that most painful of ailments, Dr. Baldwin asserts, succumbs readily to the beneficent blue rays; adhesions of the intestines are broken up when the wonder-working light appears; even smallpox, that dread scourge of the ages, could be cured in six or seven days if the patient were placed under green light all that time, Dr. Baldwin believes. And she adds that there would be no disfiguring scars.

THE most spectacular case that has ever come under the doctor's observation occurred not long ago, when a woman was brought into the Women's Hospital in such a condition that an immediate operation was necessary. The woman was prepared at once for the operating table, but through some misunderstanding there was a delay.

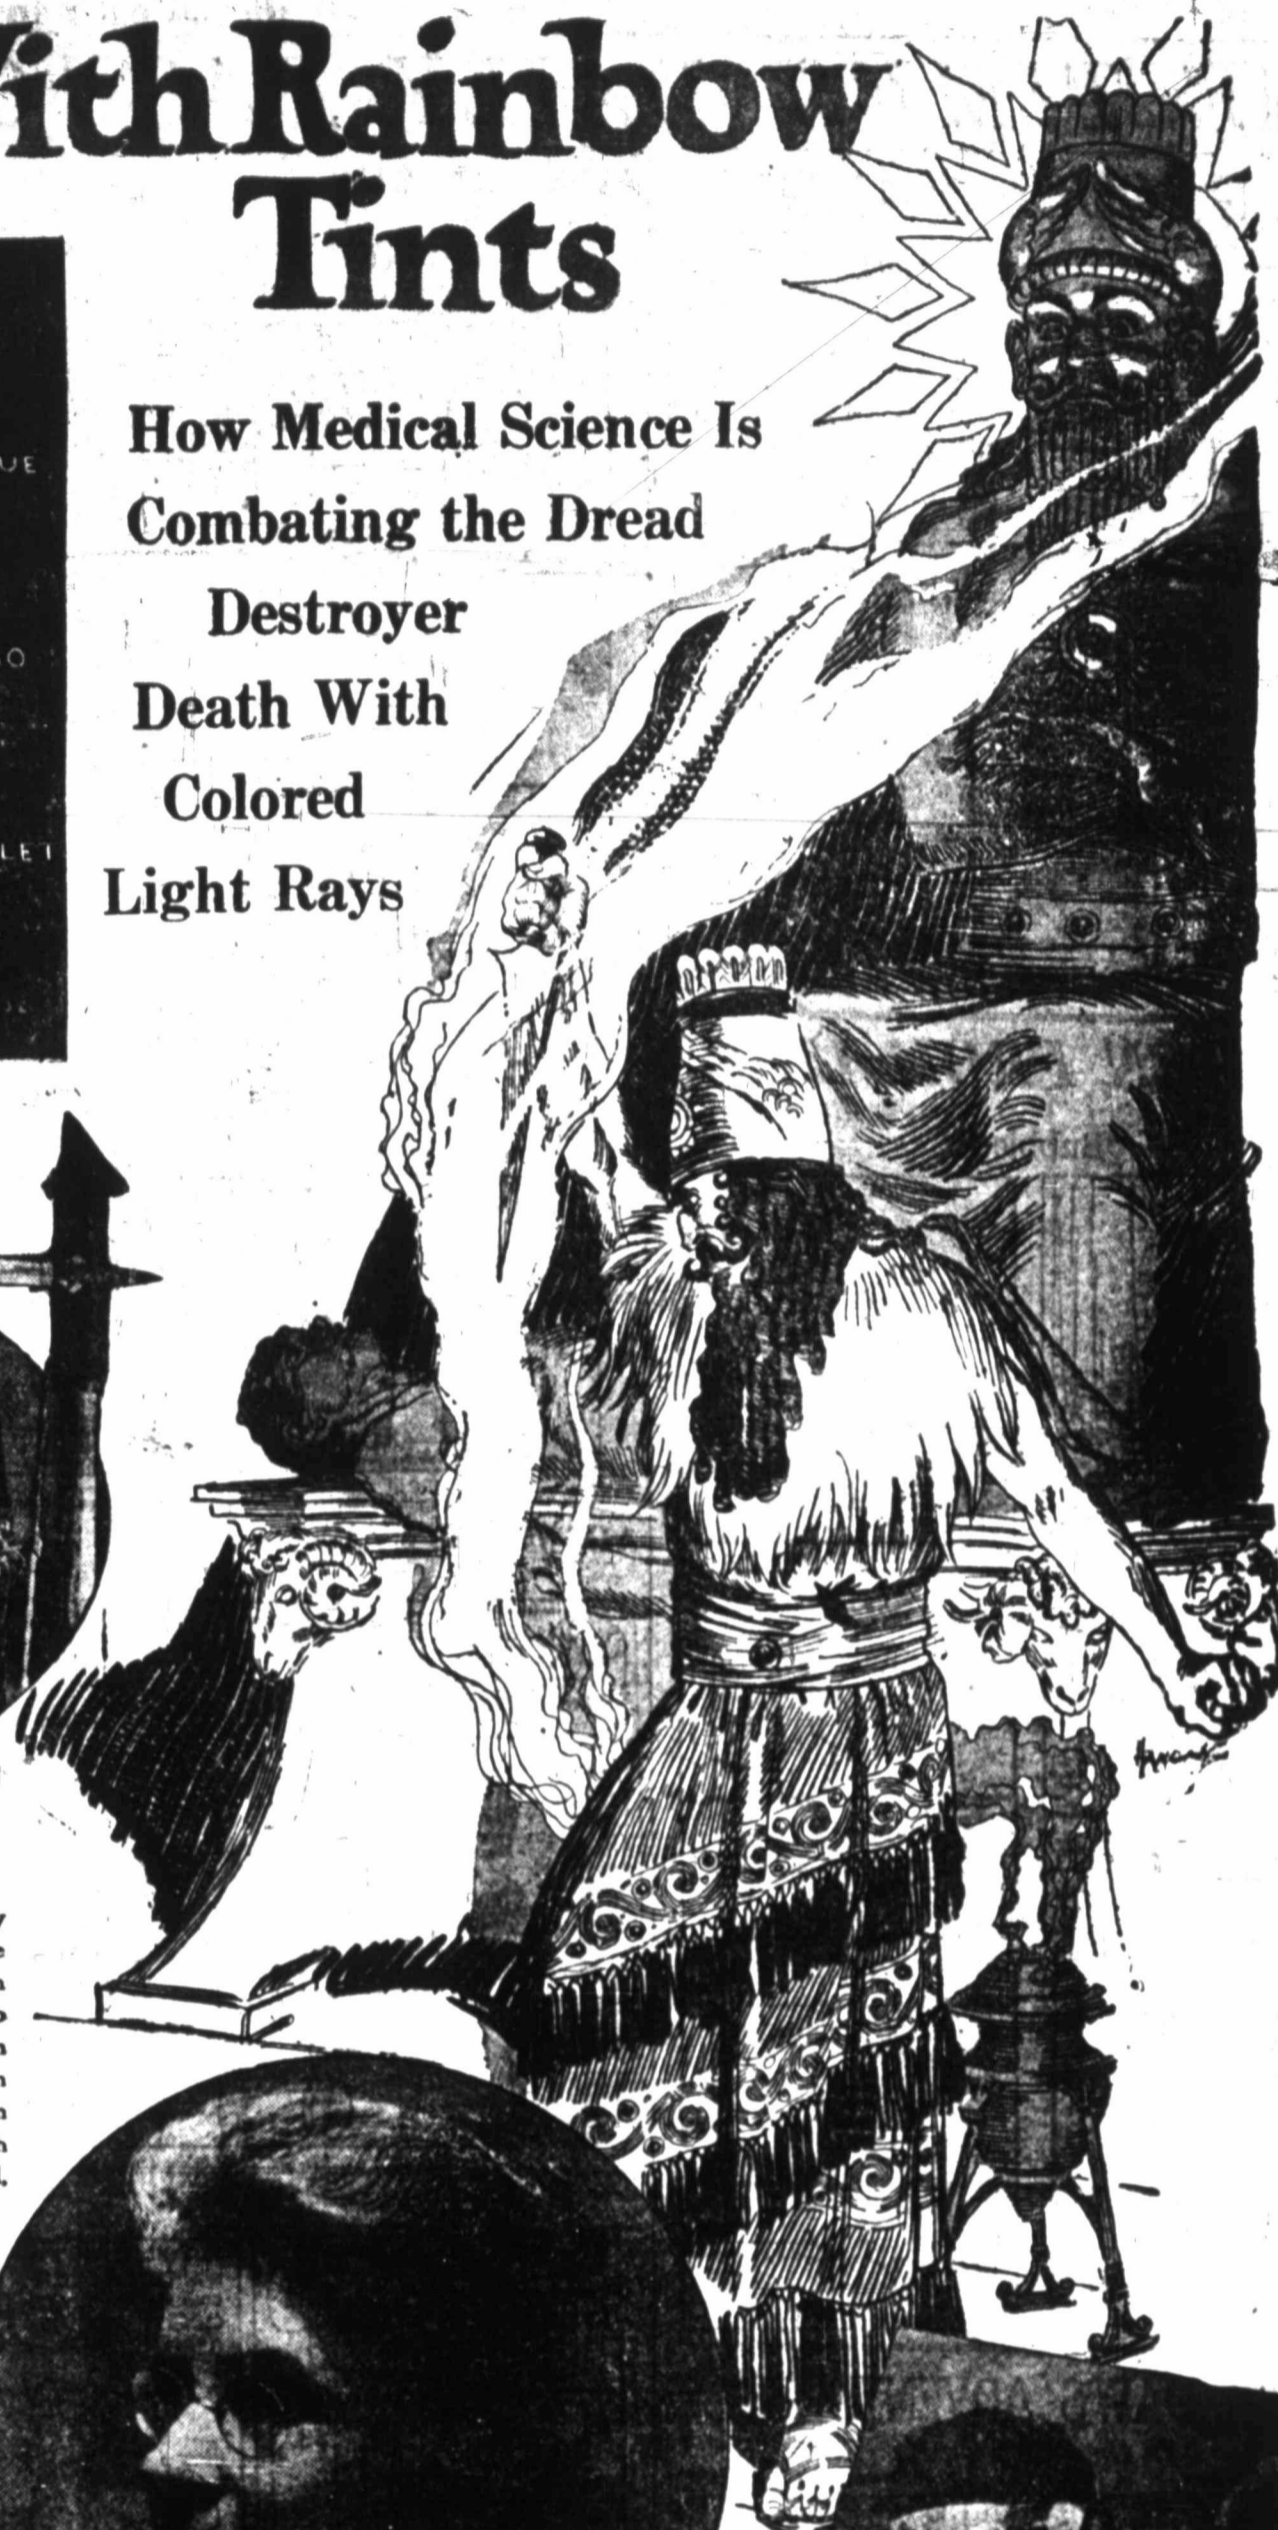

So customary is it to regard such a case as a surgical one that Dr.

Baldwin almost forgot the spectro-chrome until she saw the excruciating torture being undergone by the patient and the impossibility of administering immediate relief. Even then she thought only of numbing the pain until the operation might be performed.

She ordered the patient carried into the dark room, covered all but the affected spot and turned on the indigo light. In twenty minutes all pain left the sufferer and an operation was found to be unnecessary. In order to make sure that the cure was lasting, the patient was kept at the hospital for two days, during which time spectro-chrome was applied twice a day, and she was then permitted to return to her home.

Treatments are usually of about half an hour's duration, unless for some reason the prescribing physician increases the time to an hour.

Children gladly accept the new light treatment, for it is painless and has none of the terrifying characteristics that are sometimes present in other methods

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

In the Olden Castle

Story by Hal Cockburn Drawings by Leo Wright

Have you ever gone hunting through the woods for hickory nuts? Well, that's what Jack Daw was doing when he discovered a great castle that he had never seen before. Jack had just about filled his sack with nuts when, just ahead of him, the beautiful castle appeared.

Go, thought the little adventurer, I certainly would like to see what the inside of that place looks like. And, at that moment, as he stood staring at the great stone building, a little balloon floated out of one of the windows. It seemed slowly toward Jack.

"Oh!" shouted the boy, "someone has lost this balloon." And when the little man had seen it float down, Jack grabbed hold of it. He then discovered that there was a stick on the balloon and, as he held this tightly, the balloon itself began to swell up. (Continued.)

Remember?

It isn't such a far stretch for memory to recall the day when you had to wait for a long, clear, cold spell of weather before you could have sausage.

Today? No wait for weather or seasons. Just telephone your meat dealer.

The delightful tang of Fall mornings is made more zestful by a breakfast of Brookfield sausage, made from the choicest morsels of carefully selected pork, blended with spices.

That is—but one of the services that Swift & Company renders—making available to you numerous products of the highest quality, when, where, and as you wish them.

This has been made possible by the development, during more than a half century of service, of 23 packing plants adjacent to the best producing centers, hundreds of branch distributing houses, one of them near you, and several thousand refrigerator cars which carry the meat to your dealer in the best condition.

Volume production enables Swift & Company to offer you this service at an average profit from all sources of only a fraction of a cent a pound.
