OUT OF PRESIDENT'S HANDS New York Importers Want Tariff Appraisers Independent

NEW YORK. Jan. 27.-Assistant Secretary of the Treasury James P. Reynolds, visited the general appraisers' offices yesterday and had a long conference in regard to the affairs of the board. It is understood that his chief object was to secure data and opinions from the members regarding the proposed changes in the administration of the tariff laws.

The question of the independence of the general appraisers from government influence is a matter that has attracted marked attention in local importing circles of late, and it was said yesterday that New York importers would probably support any measure calculated to take the dismissal of the general appraisers out of the hands of the President except after specific charges have been preferred and a formal hearing granted. There are but three of the nine appraisers who constituted the board at its inception now left, and there is said to be a feeling growing in importing circles that the original purthe trial on the charge of hazing and pose of the board as designed by Colonel Tichenow, namely, that of being court, acting without bias between the importer and the government, is be-

TEXAS A GREAT STATE

Large Hotel Accommodates the Many Seekers of Physical Well-Being

SWEETWATER, Texas, Jan. 27 .-A common west Texas cow, history is vague whether she was brindle or plain roan, is credited with starting at this place a health resort which already represents an outlay of over $50,000, and promises to become one of the leading places of its character in not only west Texas, but the entire state Several years ago I. W. Daniel, a Sweetwater cattleman, dug a well in a valley a few hundred yards southwest of the Texas and Pacific depos here, to get a water supply for his cows. He found plenty of water at a depth of only twenty feet, and after congratulating himself at being so fore tunate, put a pump in the well and thought he had the stock water prob

He pumped some of the water into a tank and left it there for his thirsty cattle. A cow in search of a drink after a meal of dry mesquite grass was the first visitor to the tank. Daniel had not yet left the vicinity. The cow came up to the tank eagerly. sniffed the water and then sinking her muzzle beneath the surface quaffed deeply of the clear liquid.

A moment later she threw up her head, snorting in indignation. Then she turned and ran off as if she had been locoed. Daniel was puzzled. He had seen cows refuse "gyp" and brack. ish water often enough, but he had never seen one act the same way at did this one. In curiosity he drank some of the water himself. There was that of common Epsom salts, although it was far from being so disagreebale as the latter. But there was enough difference between the taste of the water and that of the common surface variety to excuse the cow for her conduct and Daniel decided that his well was a failure.

At home he told his wife of what had happened and she sympathized in his apparent failure. It chanced that Mrs. Daniel was in poor health at the time. Probably from mere curiosity as to the character of the peculiar water her husband had found in his well, she drank some of it. Next day she noticed that she felt better. She drank more of the water and a few weeks later found she had been completely

Daniel and his wife told of what the water had done and other citizens of Sweetwater began drinking it. They found it healthful and many found that for certain classes of diseases the water was an efficient cure. Trainmen passing through Sweetwater on the Texas and Pacific heard of the well and they also began drinking it. Soon the story of the well spread to other sections of the state and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel had a good trade in selling the water from the well to health seekers. The trade was small, however, and for nearly five years only a few knew of the well's curative properties. W. R. Grogan, an eastern Texas lumberman, heard of the Sweetwater well, and came to west Texas to investigate. Mr. Grogan was in poor nealth and he thought the water might benefit him. He stayed a few weeks and found himself cured. Having gotten back his health he was not content until he had gotten the well which gave it, so he purchased from Mr. Daniel the well and thirteen acres of ground surrounding it.

plans for making Sweetwater a health They sank four other wells, found the supply of water was apparently inexhaustible, and began building hotel. The hotel is now probably the most modern in west Texas. It is two stories high, has forty rooms, all "outside," well furnished, and was gotten ready for occupancy at a cost of more than $40,000. The hotel's service and dining room are now known all over west Texas, and it has already become a great favorite with traveling men as a place for spending Sunday. big trade in distributing it was established. A bath house was opened and was soon being patronized, not only by guests at the hotel, but by townspeople in large numbers. So popular have these mineral water baths become that the Grogan interests are now planning the erection of a $5,000 brick bath house and pavilion.

An analysis of the water in the wells shows that the principal mineral elements are sulphates of lime, magnesia and soda, chloride of sodium, carbonate of lime and phosphate of lime. The water has been found especially effective in the cure of stomach troubles and rheumatism, though many other diseases have yielded to its medicinal properties.

The attractions of mineral water and a modern hotel are not the only inducements offered to make Sweetwater a summer and winter resort. The town's lake, one mile from the business district, is full of gamey black bass and is a famous fishing place during the summer season. The town of Sweet. water has an altitude of more than 2,174 feet, the air is dry and healthful and the nights in summer cool. It is planned in addition to the hotel, to build a number of cottages in the vicinity of the wells. These cottages will be rented at various prices to suit the demands of all classes. A feature of the Sweetwater country not possessed by the majority of health resorts, is the opportunities for good hunting in the vicinity. The sports-man can find plenty to his taste. Just now good bags of quail are being secured dally and ducks are plentiful on the surface lakes and tanks. In the canyons a few miles south of towns catamounts are still found. A party of Orient engineers had a thrilling experience in a catamount lair last week, and one of the animals killed measured six feet from tip to tip.

Rheumatism, and all other blood diseases, eliminated. Mr. John Knowlton's experience, which he relates in a recent letter, is just the same as many others who have written in thankfulness for their cure. Mr. Knowlton says:

think I may safely say that I have tried almost a hundred remedies:

old women's recipes, physicians' prescriptions and patent medicines.

Many of them relieved me for a time, but the first slight cold brought back the Rheumatism. One day I picked up a circular of Irving's Buchu Wafers and started to read it. I was not much interested at first, but when I began to read how the kidneys were responsible for Rheumatism, I began to pay attention, and the common sense statements made such an impression that I immediately bought a box.

Well, I took the whole box and had no Rheumatism for a month, but a slight cold brought it back, but not so bad as previously. This encouraged me, and I bought six boxes. I took them all faithfully, and it is now nine months since I had a twinge of Rheumatics, so that I feel I am really cured. After the experience that I had had

> The people in this country have had creat difficulty in getting in coal supplies from the railroad and many are purning corn and Kaffir corn. Much of the time Canyon City coal yards were reported to have no coal in stock and the same condition was reported from other railroad towns. It has been charged that the trouble at Canyon City was due to the unfriendly relation between the Fort Worth and Denver Railway Company and the Pecos Valley Railroad Company. Whether this is true we have no way of knowing. It looks hard, however, to burn feed that cattle will sorely need before the growth of grass, but it has been and still is actually necessary.

COAT BUTTON BURGLARY CLUE

American Seed Company Store Entered

A coat button is the only clue held by the police to a daring entrance effected at Tenth and Houston streets Friday

A heavy plate glass door window was smashed to effect the entrance into the store of the American Seed company. Officers of the company report that nothing was taken and that the button, found on the floor alone shows that the broken glass was more than an accident. They declare there was no cash left in the store at night, expressing the belief that the burglars were disappointed in this.

The fact that other things were not disturbed is taken as an indication that the entry was effected by the same persons who recently secured entry to the Kress, Weaver and Fisher stores, money and a revolver alone being taken in those cases.

Stanley's Tools FOR WOODWORKERS

The best assortment at NASH HARDWARE CO. LITTLE CATTLE BEING FATTENED

High Price of Feed Given as Cause

Owing to a combination of causes the shipments of fat cattle from Texas to northern markets during the present season will, in the opinion of live stock agents here, be about one-third of those of the same period last year. The prime cause of the shrinkage in shipments is the scarcity and high price of feed, while there is an additional reason for the decrease in the number of cattle offered to the northern markets caused by the fact that the Fort Worth packeries are buying the greater portion of the fat cattle being offered.

Now is the time when the cattle fed at the oil mills in Texas should be moving to the northern markets, and they are being moved, but roads which formerly handled six trains loads per week are now having difficulty in getting one-third that number and the prospects for the remainder of the season are growing darker.

The prices of cotton seed meal and hulls have been advanced so high that the feeders are getting discouraged, notwithstanding the fact that the price of cattle has also been raised to some extent. Meal is now being quoted at $30 per ton and hulls are held at $6 per ton and upwards. Some of the feeders have given up feeding hulls and meal and have adopted other feed, wnile others have simply gone out of the feeding business until conlitions change. "The time is coming," stated one of the leading live stock agents here Saturday, "when Texas feeders must arrange to produce their own feed, so that advances in the price will not injure them. That is the way the Kansas feeders have been doing for a number of years, and this is the only safe way business can be carried on in the future. The Kansas people do not ship trainloads like they do in Texas, but if the conditions continue as they now are here it will not be long when train load shipments are a thing of the past in this state and the feeders here will have to adjust themselves to the new conditions.

"The majority of the northern shipments of fat cattle from Texas at this season are sent to the St. Louis market, and the shortage of cattle is being keenly felt in that market, causing prices to be advanced. The higher prices, however, have not been sufficient to meet the increased cost of feed here, and the feeders and the live stock agents of the railroads are both feeling discouraged over the situation.

New Schedule Fast.

The new Cotton Belt schedule for he fast mail from St. Louis, which will become effective next week, will be the fastest mail train time ever put on by a Mexican mail as much as twenty-four

Under the new schedule the Cotton Belt fast mail that is due to arrive in Fort Worth at 6:50 a. m. will make the run from Texarkana to Fort Worth in six hours, a distance of 240 miles or forty miles an hour. This run under the present schedule is made at the rate of thirty-two miles an hour schedule time, making the 240 miles in eight ours schedule time. This new schedule it is said is the esult of the Frisco fast mail out of St. Louis, which the Katy is figuring on picking up at Vinita, and bringing into Texas much quicker than the Cotton Belt has been bringing it in heretofore; and it is further claimed that the outcome of this fight for the fast mail business between the two interests will be that in the near future the Gould system will put on a fast mail train out of St. Louis over the Iron Mountain that will carry no passengers and will make no stops between St. Louis and Fort Worth except at division points.

Trains Detoured.

There was a freight wreck on the Fort Worth & Denver Friday night just south of Sunset that blocked the oad, compelling passenger trains to and from Fort Worth to be detoured to the Rock Island tracks. The train from Denver Saturday morning came in on the Rock Island track from Bowie and the northbound Fort Worth & Denver Saturday morning went out over the same track. No one was injured in the wreck as far as could be learned and the track will be clear this evening.

Convention Rates. After a session of three days in Chicago the transcontinental lines decided upon reduced rates to many important gatherings to be held during the summer. The coast lines, however, refused o grant equally low rates for convenlons in the middle west to those granted for the conventions in the far west. The conventions are to be placed in two groups, those on the coast to be granted a rate of $62.50 from the middle west and those to be held in the middle west and the south to be granted a rate of $72.50 from the coast. The only exception to this was made to the Grand Army reunion for which a rate of one cent per mile will be made, except within a radius of 150 miles of the coast cities, where the rate will be one fare for the round trip.

The conventions securing the lower rate are as follows: Mystic Shrine at Los Angeles, Cal., May 7-10; Baptist convention, September 12; Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, all of these being on the coast. Those taking the higher rates are: Federated Women's clubs, St. Paul, Minn., May 30; General Assembly of the Presbyterian church, Des Moines, May 16; Knights of Columbus, New Haven, June 1; American Medicine association, Boston, June 5; Grand Lodge Elks, Denver; Odd Fellows, Toronto, in October and Knights of Pythias, New Orleans in September.

HUSBAND QUICK TO RESENT REMARK

Mistaken Identity Leads to Assault in Station

A case of mistaken identity is given as the cause of an exciting scene in the Texas and Pacific passenger station Friday night. A man who arrived on the Rock Island passenger train from Dallas at 7:40 o'clock Friday night was met at the Texas and Pacific passenger station by two men and given a severe beating before he could escape from them. He was struck over the head several times with six shooters or other hard instruments and only escaped probably dangerous injuries by precipitate flight through the railroad yards into the darkness, his assailants not following him. The cause of this assault, it is alleged, was a remark made to the wife of one of the men taking part in the attack. The woman was at the depot to meet friends expected on the Rock Island train from the north Friday morning and it was while she was standing near the train that the remark was made to her. As soon as she could reach her husband she reported the matter to him. The train by this time had gone to Dallas and the husband and his brother waited until evening for its return, when the assault was made.

The man's head was badly cut in several places but there was no fracture of the sky and no serious physical results are apprehended from the punishment he received. It is claimed by the friends of the injured man that the whole affair was the result of mistaken identity, he Rock Island railroad officers.

> The Frisco announced rates Satur-22-24. The rates are based upon the convention plan, and are the same as in effect last year, one fare plus 20 per cent. The tickets will be on sale March 21 and 22 and will be limited to return March 25. Other roads are expected to announce the same rate. The rate for the cattlemen's conven> tion at Dallas was also announced Saturday. This rate will also be on the convention plan, one fare plus 20 per cent. The tickets will be on sale March 17 and 18 and for trains arriving in Dallas on the morning of March 19. These tickets will also have a return limit March 25. By this arrangement stockmen can attend both meetings before returning to their homes if they so desire, and still get the advantage of the low rates.

> Homeseekers' rates were also announced by the Frisco Saturday. These rates are from northern points to Texas and will be in effect on Feb. 6 and 20 and on March 6 and 20. The rates will be 75 per cent of the oneway rate for the round trip. One-way colonist rates will also be in effect on the same dates, the colonist rates to be one-half of the way rate plus $2. The homeseekers tickets will be limited to return twenty-one days from the date of sale.

SIX CLUBS IN CITY LEAGUE

Telephone Company to Make Connection

Six clubs will be found in the City League for the season of 1906, according to the predicton of Capt. Lewis of the Denver team, champions of 1905. A team representing the Southwestern Telephone Company, it is declared, will be one of the additional ones, the other being as yet in doubt. It is probable, however, that another railroad team will be added. Rosen Heights, Armours and Kellers will be represented again, as well as the Denvers, who declare The Telegram pennant awarded them last year will not be given up to any team that does not play faster ball than was seen in the league last year. Many of the amateurs are already beginning preliminary practice, and a meeting will be called in a short time to perfect organization for the year. Several names have been suggested for the presidency, nothing definite however being arranged.

BANK CLEARINGS PASS MEMPHIS

Denver Also Below Figures of Fort Worth

Fort Worth ranks one higher in the list of cities with big bank clearings for the week ending Thursday than she has ever stood before. This city for the week ending Thursday was the thirteenth city in the country for total size of clearings. The best that has ever been done before was fourteenth, which occurred in November. Fort Worth also leads all the cities of the country in percentage of increase for the week over the corersponding week of 1905, with an increase of 64.3 per

Fort Worth this week ranks ahead of Denver and Memphis, two cities see has never passed before, besides Washington, Richmond, Savannah, Birmingham and others.

Bank clearings for Fort Worth for the week ending Saturday at noon were $6,065,597.14, against $4,476,813.16 for the corresponding week of 1905. This is an increase of $1,318,783.98, or 29.4 per cent. The total clearings so far this year are $25,088,697.90, which is an amount that is higher than the average clearings for a full month last year. With three more days of clearings, the record for the month already ranks as fifth in the list of high months for this city.

Painless, Natural Childbirth. Baby's coming into the world should be preceded by a certain preparation on the part of every woman who expects to become a mother. She owes it as a duty to her unborn babe, and to herself; her duty to her unborn babe is to use every means within her power to aid his entrance into the world. Baby cannot help himself in this ordeal, therefore mother must. He has a hard enough time after his arrival, so let us make his coming easy. His health in after life depends greatly upon the manner of his coming: would you have your child a cripple, or would you have him a tower of strength? Strong men are but grown-up children; a famous surgeon in Vienna is devoting his life-work to the cure of little helpless cripples, deformed by birth; do not allow your child to become a cripple.

Mother's Friend Is a finiment which will forestall any possibility of accident birth; that is, it relaxes all the abdominal muscles and tissues, and permits of an easy access to the child. It eases the mother's pain, and so assists nature that when baby comes he starts out in life with a constitution well able to fight life's battles, and to bloom into strong pure manhood that is the comfort and delight of every true mother's heart.

FIGHTING JOE WHEELER

Fighting Joe Wheeler, the gallant Southern soldier and statesman, is no more. General Wheeler was a most remarkable man, combining the qualities of the soldier and statesman in a wonderful manner. He was true to his people in every position in which his services were ever called into requisition, and no man from the South ever gained so great a hold on the affections of the people of the North and East.

He fought just as hard for the Stars and Stripes during the last years of his life as he did against them back in the days when brother was arrayed against brother, and his death is regretted by the people of the entire nation. Fighting Joe Wheeler was a man of small stature, but there can be no questioning the fact that every inch of him represented just that much true manhood. He was one of the greatest characters ever produced in the South.

The old veterans on both sides of the great struggle between the states are rapidly passing away. The passing years are exacting a heavy toll, and the time will soon be at hand when few of the participants in the scenes of those trying times will be left to tell the story of their achievements.

CONTENTIONS OF THE PACKERS

The great legal battle between the United States government on the one side and the big packers of the country on the others is now fairly under way in Chicago, where the preliminary bouts of the great engagement have already been fought. The government appears serene in its determination to convict these men on the indictments found as the result of the long and tedious investigation held last year, and the packers are stubbornly contesting every inch of the ground and putting up the best fight possible. So far, the fight has been made along the lines of the immunity from punishment alleged to have been furnished the packers in return for their testimony by Commissioner Garfield, and the further the situation is delved into the more it becomes apparent that Garfield has made a miserable botch of the whole investigating business. Notwithstanding the fact that his published report was a complete whitewash for the so-called beef trust, and excited derision from the people of the United States as a whole, the packers are hot on the trail of the gentleman, with the allegation that he secretly passed the private information gained from them under the promise of immunity from prosecution on to the department of justice, and that information was the basis of the indictments returned at Chicago. They are fighting Garfield very hard, and are holding him up in a light that is very unenviable. President Roosevelt's letter to Attorney General propounded to the packers concerning their private car lines are relied upon by counsel for the packers as the most important evidence in support of the charges made in the packers' special pleas to the effect that official pledges given them by Commissioner of Corporations Garfield and others were disregarded and broken to aid the department of justice in carrying on a criminal prosecution.

This announcement was made by Attorney William

J. Hynes, speaking for Swift & Co.'s interests. "There is little doubt in our minas that when Commissioner Garfield started out on his investigation he meant well and believed he could make the pledges and promises of keeping faith with the packers in con-Hynes in bringing up the climax of his entire statement. "He went on in that investigation for some time, perhaps meaning to keep sacred the promise that the information would not be furnished to any other department.

"Some time later on, I fear-and we all have a fear -that he was seduced from that position and that he became the agent and the servant of the department of justice. If it is not so I should like to know it now. We expect to be able to establish that fact in a manner which will eliminate all doubt.

"In this connection there are two propositions which we will urge and two things which I will mention now as substantially supporting our stand. We will prove that there were certain questions put to the packers in connection with the private car line business by Commissioner of Corporations Garfield; that some refused to answer these questions, while others did; that these questions we had contended related to common carriers, but some answered them.

"We will further prove that after Commissioner Garfield had asked those questions, which were asked in connection with his secret and confidential inquiry for his department, these same identical questions, in words, form and substance, were asked again, but this time by officers of the department of justice before the interstate commerce commission.

"At this second putting of these same, questions were present not only the packers but the district attorney for this city and Assistant Attorney General Oliver E. Pagin. I am not certain whether it was your predecessor and now Judge Bethea or yourself. Certainly this showed a co-operation between the department of justice and the department of commerce and "How did this happen? It certainly was not done for the protection or elevation of the honor and conscience of the department of justice. Neither was it done with any regard for the honor and conscience of Commissioner Garfield.

"But the questions being identical in the two instances is not all. We have for our charge the words F. A. Luther, 384 Main street; Dallas Book Store, 370 of President Roosevelt over his own signature, which Main street; Harvey Brothers, 334 Main street; Globe | can leave no doubt, and which I will read: 'Senate record, document 140, correspondence between President Roosevelt and Attorney General Moody in the so-called Santa Fe case.'

"Letter of President Roosevelt dated June 12 says as follows: 'With my approval the department of justice, with the assistance of the department of commerce and labor, has for some months been endeavoring to find out whether or not they can obtain legal evidence of such willful and deliberate violations of the injunction by an individual. If the grand jury now of the violation of the injunction has been laid before them.'

INTHECLOAKROOM

Special Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.-Some quite humorous stories are going around at the national capital. The day President Roosevelt's annual message, which, by the way, was one of the longest documents of its kind The man who wants work in Texas can usually be ever sent to the congress, was read in the senate many clerk and retired to the cloak rooms. Senator Morgan One of his colleagues facetiously inquired: "Well, senator, what do you think of that message?"

A southern congressman tells an amusing story of an old preacher who had been pastor for several years of a country church, and who gave up his pastorate in order to accept a position as chaplain in the penitentiary, where the yearly stipend was both more regular and remunerative. In his farewell sermon to his congregation the minister said: "Brethren and sisters, I believe God loves ye but little, for he has taken none love one another because I have never married one of ye, and I believe ye love me little for ye have given me putrid potatoes and apples for my salary, and as the Good Book says, 'by your fruits ye shall be known.' therefore, brethren, ye are rotten. But I am going to a better place; I am going to be chaplain of the penitentiary, and as the Good Book says, "I go before to prepare a place that ye may come." * * * *

It is said by one of the New York congressmen that Alton B. Parker never became political except on one occasion and that one occasion was the night of his defeat. Retiring to his private room, and in the presence of several of his friends he soliloquized as follows: "Only a pansy blossom, only a blade of grass, Once I was a daisy, but now I'm Balaam's ass."

One of the new members of the house conceived the idea two years ago this spring that he was of congressional callber and launched his congressional boom. A few days afterward he took a train and went over into an adjoining county. Alighting at the depot he started up the street and happened to meet one of the oldest and most respected citizens of the town. The congressional aspirant accosted the old gentleman and after introducing himself informed him that he was a candidate for congress.

divorced for some time to come, no matter how devoutly the insurance managers may wish otherwise. In their messages to the legislatures nearly all the governors have taken up this subject. Most important is the utterance of Governor Higgins, of New York: "Stricter supervision of life insurance companies, which shall put an end to the evils the Armstrong committee's investigation has shown to exist," was urged. Governor Higgins does not take to the idea of federal regulation in insurance, and declares that the state must courageously face its responsibility. He points out supervision, not regulation, has been the policy of the state hitherto, and concedes that the public demands something more for the future than a guarantee of solvency. He believes in a more thorough regulation by the department of insurance, more careful restriction of investments by companies, the loan of their money in larger amounts on real estate, standard policies, a uniform system of audit and accounts, restriction of deferred dividend policies, the equitable distribution of surplus and more effective

Governor Pattison, of Ohio, who is president of the Central Union Life Insurance company, indorsed President Roosevelt's scheme for federal control of insurance companies in his message. Rosen Line to the South Side Meets Approval

The proposition to have the Rosen Heights street railway line extended to the South side is being generally discussed among South side residents and The Telegram learns that the movement is to take definite shape at once. Carl Schilder is taking a lively interest in the matter and says that the idea meets with almost unanimous approval among South side people. "I have canvassed the matter with people in my neighborhood," said he to a Telegram man, "and have found that there is a general desire to secure, if it can be done, an extension of the Rosen Heights line to the South side in order that an additional needed street car service may be had. "I propose to get up a petition to the Rosen Heights people and from the canvas I have made among people living on the South side, I am satisfied I can secure 1,000 names to it. "I do not know of a resident in my section of the city who is not in favor of this movement; and I am satisfied that should the extension be made it would be a paying investment for the Rosen Heights company."

proposition, Mr. Davidson stated that he probably would apply again with another franchise, but since that time nothing has been said on the matter. This morning, however, he said that he did not care to again make an application for a franchise.

The referendum election on the franchise was held in this city on Sept. 19, 1905, and resulted in a defeat for the franchise. Mr. Davidson, in his franchise, asked for permission for a light, power and steam heating plant for a period of twenty-five years. The franchise also contained a provision for a 2 per cent tax on the gross receipts for each year on the gas, electric light and steam heat supplied by the company.

A Story of an Exciting Dash for a Fortuneby an Actor-Adventurer

Copyright, 1905, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.

Agar Hume, a young, impoverished actor, takes employment as valet to Sir William Dagmar, who is member of a secret society of consumptives. Serving a banquet at one of the regular monthly meetings of the club, Brown, as Sir William has decided to call his valet, tells his master, in answer to a question, that he cannot understand French. The conversation being in French, Brown learns that the society sustains a hospital where, later, disguised as Sir William, he sees a wonderful surgical operated performed tuted for that of a man. The operation being the nineteenth and a failure.

present kills himself. Venner makes an unsuccessful attempt to trap Brown in blackmalling him by the threat to reveal the facts connected with the death of the last patient and, when Venner has paid him. Brown being disguised as an old German, changes his disguise, but is followed by a private detective as he leaves the hotel where he met Venner. Brown becomes infatuated with Marion Le Mar and, disguised as Sir William again, Brown borrows money and begins a campaign of blackmail. Suspected by Mademoiselle LeMar, she encourages his attentions and learns that he talks French. The two go on an excursion and Brown is struck from behind, bound and gagged.

I was seated upright in a high-backed chair, strapped securely in position. The negro surgeon, Jussleu, whom I had last seen at the Kingsmere hospital for consumptives, was standing to the right of Sir Charles, and three of us were grouped about the center of a small, uncarpeted, brick-floored room. The negro, Beudant, stood near the closed door. Of a sudden I remembered all. Marion had lured me to this river park and betrayed me with a Judas kiss into the hands of my enemies. Too late she had repented of her treachery and tried to save me. She had swooned: I had knelt beside her body, and someone had stunned me with a club. It was all very simple. I had been a contemptible fool, and now I must pay the price of my folly. What price would they exact? I wondered.

"Where am I?" I asked, looking at Sir Charles. "You are in the cellar of my private house at Staines," he answered civilly enough. "I may inform you that I keep no servants except these men you see, and the house is set in the middle of a small park some 150 yards distant from the river and at least a quarter of a mile from any other building. You may therefore spare yourself the useless trouble of shout-World. Through Japan and the Holy Ing for help, should you have been so

"Thank you!" said I. "Question me further if you wish, Mr. Hume.

Where is Marion Le Mar?" "She returned to London this morn-Taylor Street Cumberland Presbyterian ing. You have been four and twenty church Monday night at 8 o'clock. No hours insensible." "A clever woman, that," I muttered "Where are the jewels?" he presently demanded. "The jewels you purchased with the thousand pounds that you extorted from me?" "In a safe place," I replied. "But you must tell me where, Mr. Hume," he said in a pleasant but determined voice.

"Ah, but you must first tell me what you intend to do with me, Sir Charles." He shrugged his shoulders. "What can I do but kill you?" he replied. "I dare not let you go, and you are too infernally adroit to keep a prisoner! Come, Hume, I'll make a bargain with promise you your choice of deaths." "Give me a night to think it over,"

"Why delay? No. Hume, I cannot grant your wish in any case. I have to perform a difficult operation tomorrow and if my mind were occupied with doubts I might not do my patient justice. If I left you here alive I should be uneasy, my knife might slip-a thousand accidents might happen. Improbable as it seems, you might es-"You have determined then to mur-

"And if I refuse to speak tonight?" "You will sleep poorly, I'm afraid, my friend. But come, be reasonable. You pleaded for a night's reflection. I offer it to you.' "But with a sure prospect of torture on the morrow." "Unless you speak the truth tonight." "Then I shall!" I cried with a shud-

"The jewels are in Sir William Dagmar's house. You will---' "You lie," he interjected sharply. " drugged and searched you the night that you returned from robbing me." "Marion Le Mar has them, Sir Charles. I gave them to her when we left the house last morning." "What?" he shouted. "What?" "It is true," I answered glibly. " gave them to her wrapped up in a small sealed parcel, which I asked her to keep for me in her box until we had returned. It occurred to me that you or someone might take a notion to seach my room while I was away, bet I felt pretty sure you'd never dream of seaching Marion's box." It were as well for me perhaps to straight away explain the monstrous falsehood. His natural course would be to at once demand from Marion the packet which I declared that I had given her. As I had given her nothing, she would truthfully repudiate his claim. But Sir Charles Venner's want of respect for women would immediately induce him to doubt the honesty of Marion's denial. I hoped that at last, in order to satisfy himself whether Marion or I spoke true, he would confront me with the beautiful woman for love of whom I had to die. I felt that I would be content to perish, given in exchange one opportunity to hurl at her my hate. As deep and tender as had been my love, so bitter and so ardent was my hate! Sir Charles eyed me for a moment in thoughtful silence. Then very slowly he nodded his head, "Did you tell her what it was you gave her?" he demanded. Next moment the cellar was in darkness, and I heard the negroes stumble out and bolt the door behind

I'll not relate the anguish I endured that night, beyond to say it made an old man of me-in mind if not in body. I did not sleep. None came near me until the negro, Beudant, brought a candle with some "Will he really kill me, do you think?" I asked.

The negro pursed out his thick, black lips. "I feel sure of it," he muttered. "As soon as once the jewels that he seeks are in his hands, you'll

COD LIVER OIL.

It almost makes you sick to think of it, but it isn't nearly as bad as it used to Le. The improved method of refining it makes it much easier to take, and when made into Scott's Emulsion almost every one can take it. Most children like it and all children that are not robust are benefited by it. When the doctor says "Take cod liver oil," he generally means Scott's Emulsion; ask him if he doesn't. They know it is more easily digested and gleam of hope. "How then can you better than the plain oil.

BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED

A PACIFIC COAST NUMBER

The cover design, by J. N. Marchand, shows a miner panning gold. The frontispiece is a prospector following his packed burro down the mountain trail. There are also two of Fernand Lungren's best paintings of the mountains and deserts of the Great West. All are in color and beautifully printed. Most of the articles are brilliantly illustrated from photographs taken especially for this number.

SPECIAL ARTICLES

The articles especially devoted to the PACIFIC COAST in this exceptionally interesting number are the following: Into the Serene Valley (Yosemite) By Gouverneur Morris or two strange, ugly-looking implements. Bidding Beudant shut the door, he turned to me and said: "Hume, after all you lied to me!" "What!" I cried, as if dumbfounded. Then quickly recovering my countenance, I exclaimed: "Oh, yes, yes. You have discovered it. Yes, yes, I lied to you. The jewels are really hidden behind the second volume of Bruton's 'Anatomy of Melancholy' in the book-shelf on the eastern wall of Sir William Dagmar's library." Sir Charles favored me with a black frown. "You are such an accomplished liar!" he said, coldly, "that I can no longer rely upon your unsup-

Wheat Prices Very Weak-Sentiment Bearish-Corn in Good Demand. Oats Market.

CHICAGO, Jan. 27 .- Wheat: Wheat sold off on featureless cables, large receipts for this week, world shipments and the bearish sentiment. Trade was more general and not confined exclusively to the May option, but expanded throughout the list. H. V. Jones claims but 19 per cent of the spring wheat crop in farmers hands (above seeding requirements) in the three northwestern states. weather prevails through both belts today, and fair conditions indicated for Corn: The corn market was the only one showing any decree of resisting power. Trade at the start was light and there was very little pressure until the extreme weakness developed in wheat and oats. The demand for May at 44 cents seems limitless. Clearances were again enormous, being in excess of 1,500,000 bushels. Country movement light and demand good, but on the whole slow. It was a notable feature, however, of the trade today that eash houses were consistent buyers of the May. Oats: Long oats and heavy short selling made a fairly weak market, the price working down three quarters of a cent. Sentiment is so bearish that it is probable the selling will be considerably overdone, at any rate, the market is in a much healthier position for the present. Clearances were large, exceeding 600,000 bushels.

Provisions Provisions were firm. Some trading for long account further strengthened the market. The volume of trade was small for the greater part of the session, owing to small offerings. Packers and shippers were the principal buyers, influenced by a better shipping demand for both lard and meats. Liquidation the past week has reduced the outside long interest considerably, most of these offerings being absorbed by packers who were short. Estimated for Monday 54,000 and 225,000 for all

Prices Show Further Weakness-Liv erpool Firm But Has Only Temporary Effect-Close Steady

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Jan. 27.-Bullish sentiment was materially increased over night as a result of the very flattering week end statistics, the spinners' takings for the week being especially favorable. There was a renewal of confidence in the foreign market as evidenced by the fact that Liverpool prices were much better than expected. The local market reflected the foreign strength, opening prices being 6 to 9 points above vesterday's finals.

The advance brought out more long cotton and bears also took advantage of the higher prices to put out more short lines, while there was a total lack of buying power, as a result the early gain was soon wiped out, and the decline reached larger proportions, prices breaking in the first hour 13 to 16 points from the opening figures to a net loss of 7 points. At the low point there was some covering by shorts, which imparted a steady tone to the market. The balance of the session was featureless, the close being steady with prices at a net loss of 2 points. Spots were quiet and unchanged at 1.70c. Sales 70 bales. Futures ranged as follows: Open. High. Low. Close.

The price of hogs was somewhat boosted yesterday by the presence of an outside buyer who succeeded in getting six loads.

Among the shippers of cattle on yesterday's market were T. E. Battle of Riesil, with steers that sold at $3.65, $3.50 and $3.25; Coffin & Stone of Itasca, who sold 22 steers of 1,055 pounds average at $3.90; J. D. Duncan of Toyah, with 174-pound calves that brought $5.25, and More & Berry from Eucinal, with $30-pound cows that brought $2.85.

Jones & Richardson of Mountain View, O. T., had the top hogs of the early market. They sold 68 hogs of 275 pounds average at $5.60. They were an exceptionally fine load.

Steers were so scarce that a bunch of 51 was ordered in from a local feed lot. They were short fed and sold at $3.25 on a 958-pound average.

Trade Notes

The lamb that is well fed in the ewe is half fed for the market. A sure road to failure in the sheep business is to start with culls. Best posted men in the trade take a hopeful view of the future situation

The best buck is the cheapest, both in the beginning and the end. The seed of the American goat business is germinating very fast Plowing with oxen may yet be an outcome of the enormous development of the city demand for horses. Goats require shelter, but this does not mean close confinement in poorly ventilated barns.

Because you had a poor season last year, don't get discouraged. Things may be better this year.

"RATS! RATS!" CRIES COSHOCTON

Ohio Town Turns Out En Masse to Slay Rodents

COSHOCTON, Ohio, Jan. 27,-The spectacle of an entire town turning to fight rats will be witnessed here today. The association of Coshocton business men has been divided into two bands, the line of division being the main business street of the city, and for thirty days an old-fashfoned rat hunt will be held. In the last six months the city has become literally alive with through them, has amounted to thousands of dollars.

TO FIGHT CATTLE QUARANTINE LAW

Opinion of Judge Hussey Holds Law Is Unconstitutional

Special to The Telegram. LAWTON, Okla., Jan. 27.-The opinion of Judge W. H. Hussey of this city, which held that the Oklahoma cattle quarantine laws are in conflict with the Federal laws, has been referred to the attorney general for his opinion. Tom Morris, secretary of the Oklahoma live stock sanitary board. has instructed the sheriff to enforce the quarantine laws without respect to any man's opinion. The case will be appealed to the supreme court by County Attorney Cunningham, and Reed Ridley and W. H. May, the men charged with violating the Oklahoma quarantine law, will be held on bond pending the result of that appeal.

COLD DRIVEN FURTHER NORTH

Freezing Line at Present Runs Through Canada

The weather map of Saturday morning is what is termed as a "flat" map, nothing of unusual interest occurring or is there any change of any amount on the map from that of the previous

The weather throughout the entire country has moderated and the freezing line has been extended up into Canada. Almost all of the northeastern part of the country had reached temperatures recorded at 7 o'clock Saturday morning that were above Offical statement of the conditions as given on the map is: "The high and the low barometer areas are practically in the same positions they have been for the last three days, and conditions have changed but slightly. The low area of the southeast has moved a little to the north, but causes continued snow in Georgia, and rain in the Carolinas, also over the Virginia coast this morning.

"The country as a whole is clear, with the exception of the Allegheny regions and the middle Atlantic coast "Temperatures east of the Missis-sippi are generally a little above freezing, except in the upper Ohio." FORT WORTH MAN ALIVE Dead Body at Oklahoma City Remains Unidentified.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 27 .- The mystery over the finding of the body of a young man west of the city, who is believed to have been murdered, is growing deeper every day. A few days ago the man was identified as that of Luther Roberts, but Roberts was found at Fort Worth today by Chief of Police Hubatka of this city. Roberts was formerly a candymaker here.

CURED LUMBAGO.

A. B. Canman. Chicago, writes March 4, 1903: "Having been troubled with Lumbago at different times and tried one physician after another, then different ointments and liniments, gave it up altogether. So I tried once more, and got a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment, which gave me almost instant relief. I can cheerfully recommend it, and will add my name to your list of sufferers." LION LOOSE ON MAJESTIC STAGE

Big Animal Makes Escape Between Cages

Prompt work upon the part of stage hands at The Majestic Theater ended a moment of danger so quickly during the matinee performance Thursday that but few of those in the audience knew of the peril.

In the sensational lion and leopard act given by Martha Florrine, the big animals are placed in a cage constructed on the stage in full view of the audience. The animals are then brought out in smaller cages and permitted to enter the big cage one at a

In placing the small cage against the door of the exhibition cage small space was left in some way. A big lion saw his chance in an instant and darted through it and was at large on the stage. A signal was at once given and the heavy curtain dropped between the audience and the stage, making it impossible for the anima to go in this direction. The ca 's of assistants aiding in the act at once rushed to the stage, surrounding the animal and forcing him again into

Deferred Examinations for Promotion Cause Resignation

Herchel I. Stine, messenger at the weather bureau of this city, has fortake effect Feb. 1. He has been in the service for two years and was expecting to take the examination for promotion this spring but an announcement of a few days ago stated that the regular examination would be omitted this spring. The spring and fall examinations of 1905 were, also omitted, both of which he expected to take. He was ready for the fall examination of 1904 but his birthday fell two days too late for him to be of the proper age. Five months of the time that Stine has been in the weather bureau employ were spent in the station at Birmingham and the remainder here. It is the custom of the department to appoint a new messenger from the city where the previous one resigns, but Fort Worth will have to have a new one sent here as there has been no one here that has prepared himself and taken the necessary civil service examination.

TEXAS NATIONAL LIFE INSUR-ANCE COMPANY OF FT. WORTH. To the Public: About three months ago I was among you to promote the above company, and went so far as to have the plans up before the Beard of Trade of this city, and they gave both my plans and myself indorsement. There has been so much agitation of past several months relative to life insurance that I have thought it but prudent for me to try and be certain before I go further. With this point in view, I have consulted with several of our best business men, and some of the leading members of the state legislature, and have concluded FOR RENT-Furnished or unfurnishto wait for sixty or ninety days, and see what is going to be done in the special session, etc. I would have you remember that I have not given up FURNISHED ROOMS, by day, week or the organization-not by any means. month; transient trade solicited. REAL ESTATE BARGAINS

A LUCKY FIND It might seem strange, but it is a tot just the same, that Avery & Cambron of No. 200 1/2 Main street, corner First, will take a lease on any kind of city property, business houses or dwellings. Say, did you know they will lease your property for any time and will remit you on the first of every month, rain or shine, and no bother to collect from them? Won't that be nice? They can have my property. We also collect rents and look after your property. Do they sell real estate? Well, I should say so. Best salesmen you ever saw. Who did you say it was? CHILDREN ATTEND LIBRARY LECTURE

Story of King Arthur Told by Miss Portman

Miss Catherine Portman of the Kindergarten College entertained an audience of children at Carnegie Hall Friday afternoon by telling the story of Merlin. This is the first of a series of entertaining stories which Miss Portman has agreed to tell for the children and the full room and the close attention given the speaker, together with the ingenious yet simple arrangement of the story, indicate that the children will appreciate the treat which has been arranged for their

"The Story of Merlin" was arranged by Miss Portman, the story being taken from a number of different books pertaining to the history of King Arthur. Merlin is a wonderful wise man, who advises King Arthur and assists him through various vicissitudes incident upon holding a kingdom at the time of his reign. Merlin has the gift of prophecy and supernatural power, and as long as he was with King Arthur no harm could befall him. Battles over enemies were won and King Arthur's domain increased.

Finally Queen Morgana, a sister of King Arthur, became offended at him for failure to select her son as a knight of the round table. Queen Morgana left his kingdom and plotted against him. Knowing that no harm could befall him until Merlin was disposed of, Queen Morgana procured the services of Vivian, a beautiful girl, through whom the death of Merlin was brought about. Further conspiracy caused King Arthur to become entrapped in a dungeon and made it necessary for him to fight a duel with a knight, armed with the king's own sword, in order to obtain his freedom. King Arthur was about to be slain in this duel when Vivian appeared upon the scene and fulfilled the last promise to Merlin to protect the king and saved King Ar-

40,000 ACRES IN THIS BIG DEAL

Tom Waggoner Colony Is Sold to Houston Parties

A big real estate deal was closed at the Worth hotel Friday afternoon, by which 40,000 acres in Wichita and Wilbarger counties were sold by Tom Waggoner to R. S. Allen and associates of Houston. The price paid for the land was $600,000, of which $200,000 was in cash and the balance in stxty

The land that was sold is known as the Tom Waggoner colony, having been cut up into small tracts and thrown open to actual settlers at a small price. A large general store was also established at Electra. There have already been sold 6,000 acres of this land. In making the sale Mr. Allen and his associates agreed to carry out all the contracts for such lands made by Mr. Waggoner.

The buyers of the land will begin the work of colonization immediately as they already have sixty Russian families who will take up their residence there immediately. The land will be sold to other settlers as fast

Mr. Allen is not satisfied with the size of the property and is negotiating with S. B. Burnett for 30,000 acres adjoining the new property. Captain Burnett will not sell unless the entire

AMUSEMENTS

Paul Gilmore in "Captain Debon-naire" again occupied the stage at Greenwall's Opera House Friday, playing to a good house at the matinee, but to a much smaller one in the evening. Both houses were enthusiastic over the show, however, being largely made up of women, to whom dashing play of the order of "Captain Debonnaire" particularly appealed. Gilmore was called upon at both performances for a speech and for repeated en-

A Detective in the Audience

To those at the Garrick Theater in engagement there in "Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman," the play in which he is to be seen at Greenwall's Opera House tonight at 8:15 o'clock, there was as much interest in watching one of the men in the audience as there was in the play upon the the particular special was leuths on this side of the Atlantic. It vas very evident that as an individual English detective transferred bodily from "Jim, the Penman," and played by E. M. Holland. The Philadelphia detective did not look a bit like the sleuth upon the stage, height, complexion, figure and all were different. but it was noticeable that each had the same quick, alert glance that not gesture and not a syllable escaped the American detective, and as the play was over and he went out from the theater he was overheard to say that it was one of the best studies of his line of work that he had ever seen.

"The Fortune Teller"

After the deluge of alleged musical comedies with which the stage is overdone at the present time, like a breath of good fresh air or an oasls in the nnouncement that, in the very near future, there will be given a production here of a real, genuine, dyed-in-thewool comic opera, for Milton and Sargent Aborn are to bring the beautiful play, "The Fortune Teller." with the complete gorgeous production of picturesque costumes and colorful scenery used by Alice Neilsen, to Greenwall's Opera House Tuesday matinee and night, Jan. 80. There has probably never been given to an offering of this kind such elaborate stage settings and gorgeous raiment as were provided for this popular comic opera. The Fortune Teller" company numbers sixty people, including Grace Orr

Wills' Musical Comedy Company The Wills Musical Comedy Company mes to Grenewall's Opera House for three matinees and three nights, commencing Wednesday matinee, Jan. 31. Musical comedies at people's popular prices are what are promised—mat-inees, adults 25, choiren 15; nights, 15c, 25c, 35c and 50c. Change of opera each day. Opening musical comedy Wednesday matinee, Jan. 31, "in At-lantic City."

TO CHANGE OFFICE

Immigration Inspector To Arrange For

T. F. Schmucher, inspector in charge of the district of Texas with headquarters in El Paso, will be in Fort Worth tonight for the double purpose of making his regular inspecton of the Chinese residents of the city and also for the purpose of taking up the matter of the change of the office of W. H. Robb, immigration inspector here from the federal building to the Texas and Pacific depot. At present most of Inspector Robb's time is spent at the depot and his office is too far away from there for convenience so a rec dation has been made that the office be changed to the depot. Inspector Schmucher will probably go through the Fort Worth China town tonight so as to look over the matter

That is what Schlitz beer means to you.

Healthfulness means purity—freedom from germs. It means a clean beer-filtered and sterilized. It means an aged beer-aged until it cannot cause biliousness.

. What you pay for common beer—usually will buy Schlitz. The purity costs you nothing, yet it is half the cost of our brewing.

Ask for the Brewery Bottling. Common beer is sometimes substituted for Schlitz To avoid being imposed upon, see that the cork or crown is branded
